Michigan Banking Holiday is No Cause for Alarm

(An Editorial)

With an unexpected crisis descending upon the people of Michigan on Tuesday of this week, serious thought is necessary on the part of every individual if we are to successfully combat the problems that are yet ahead of us in the next few days.

Everyone is familiar with the situation that called for an emergency proclamation from the Governor of our State early Tuesday and the facts of the case must be clearly placed before the public in order that general support will be given to any proposals which are offered for a solution to the crisis now existing.

The ultimate result of the proclamation calling for the eight-day closing of every bank in the State will be some sound solution to the problem.

It should be clearly understood by all the citizens of our community that the two Chelsea banks are not affected in the least by the crisis which faced the large Detroit banking institution, which would have been forced to close its doors Tuesday morning, which condition called for the moratorium in Michigan banking business for eight days.

The local banking situation has been on a sound basis throughout the period of general business depression. This statement is based on facts and we refer to the financial statements of the institutions which were published in this paper during the month of January.

Again we say that the people of our community must face the facts as they now exist. Our banks are on a sound basis. They will open their doors to take care of the needs of our community as soon as the closing order has been lifted by the Governor. Their structure has not been impaired in the least by the crisis which has affected Detroit banking institutions. Any fear which has been caused in the minds of local bank patrons by the emergency measure of Tuesday should give way to the assurance that our banks will open and operate on the same sound basis as heretofore.

However, any banking institution, no matter how sound the structure, depends for successful operation upon the confidence of the public. The seriousness of existence without banking facilities has been felt by everyone during the few days the banks have been closed. Therefore, we feel that it is unnecessary to urge every individual to maintain their confidence in our banks and bankers when we again have the advantage of enjoying the facilities which they offer.

Cement Plant Inquiry Proposed At Lansing

According to a dispatch from Lansing appearing in the Jackson Citizen-Patriot under date of Feb. 14, the issue of the Chelsea cement plant has been revived in the legislature, and a proposal for an investigation has been offered.

The article follows:
Lansing, Feb. 14.—Cement prices to the state have increased 35 cents a barrel, Rep. Carl Delano of Kalamazoo, said today in support of his resolution introduced in the house of representatives Monday night for an investigation of the state-owned plant at Chelsea.

Rep. Delano believes there is more to learn about that branch of the prison industries than the legislature ever has known although the subject has been discussed many times since the Republican primary of 1926.

Recent cement proposals received by Burnett J. Abbott, secretary of the administrative board, have indicated, according to the official, that the bids were not based on transportation charges. He has refused to recommend acceptance of more than eight proposals for furnishing 23,500 barrels of cement for two highway construction jobs, because all were alike.

Toured Plant.
"I made a tour of the state-owned plant yesterday, and am not convinced that we should abandon the industry at this time," Rep. Delano said.

"There is considerable material on hand. The inventory lists several thousand barrels of clinker, which really is part of the manufactured product. Then there is 5,000 tons of rock on hand for which the state has paid and another 10,000 to 12,000 tons stored for use."

"Under the law passed by the 1931 legislature the state is supposed to abandon the plant by July 1, 1934, and I don't know whether that should be done or not. An investigation, costing the state nothing I believe will work to the advantage of the legislature."

Delano's resolution was referred to the committee on rules and resolutions. It provides the appointment of a committee of five, three to be named by the speaker and two by the president of the senate.

To Our Customers and Friends

The situation in the banking affairs of the State at large are, if measured by the record of our two local banks, in a healthy condition. By referring to their past record in taking care of all legitimate needs of the community we have only to look forward to the resumption of regular activities when the Governor of the State of Michigan brings to an end the Bank Holiday.

The Governor's proclamation was as much of a surprise to us as it was to the general public. We are ready now, as in the past, to take care of the legitimate needs of our customers. As soon as the State officials have arranged matters to their satisfaction we look forward to a continuance of loyalty on the part of this community.

HOW THE STATE GETS YOUR CASH

Taxes, Fees, Licenses Tell Story Of The Empty Pocketbook.

By Elton R. Eaton
Lansing, Mich., Feb. 15.—Now that the officials of Michigan are talking about collecting a $95,000,000 sales tax from the residents of the state, just how much money does the state collect from the people of Michigan?

There are many who believe that the real estate tax, the gas tax and the automobile weight tax constitutes about all the income of the state.

True these make up a good percent of the income, but what makes the total of $124,724,083.30 that was collected for the last fiscal year ending July 1, 1937?

Yes, those figures are correct, one hundred twenty-four million, seven hundred twenty-four thousand and eighty-three dollars plus some additional cents.

All of this money came from the people of Michigan in fees, licenses, taxes, penalties, etc.

The $24,526,049.76 that came during the last fiscal year from the general property tax sinks into a pretty small figure when compared with the near one hundred and a quarter million dollar total that the state did collect.

To the farmer of Gladwin county, Cass county or any other county you might name facing the loss of his life's earnings through inability to meet the tax demands of the state, these figures tell the story of his plight.

The state collected on real estate during its last fiscal year a tax of $18,504,285.28. Add to this amount another $6,021,704.48 that was paid on delinquent real estate tax and you have the total of $24,526,049.76 that was paid into the state treasury during the fiscal year of 1931-32 on real estate. This is the tax that Governor Comstock proposes to abolish. In its place he plans a general sales tax that is estimated to raise $95,000,000.

Nine or ten years ago the state enacted a corporation tax law. This was a special act designed to raise sufficient funds to take care of additional buildings needed at various institutions at that time. It was the original object to abolish this tax when the building program had been completed, but like all other tax laws, once when they get on the books they stay there, although the buildings were long ago completed.

So Michigan manufacturers last year in addition to their real estate tax paid into the state treasury $6,909,441.12. This money came from what is known as the corporation tax law.

Two years ago the state legislature enacted the malt tax law, the funds to be used for the support of tuberculosis hospitals. The malt tax brought into the state $1,060,004.32.

Special taxes, such as the mortgage tax law, brought the state treasury $504,553.97.

The trout fishermen, the hunter and the automobile driver paid Michigan $1,508,700.82 for various licenses that the state issues.

Under the heading of "fees" the state collected $800,000.23. For rentals and leases of buildings and property the state owns but lease out to individuals, it collected $30,507.47. It sold confiscated property, such as guns and automobiles taken from game law violators, that brought in $7,611.78.

Under the heading of "contribution and aid" the state treasury received from the federal government for health aid and other similar purposes a total of $289,500.26.

Michigan people paid into the state treasury $1,924,232.74 for the support of some members of their families in state hospitals. There is a law on the statute books which requires a family financially able to do so, to support the afflicted that the state provides hospital facilities for.

Michigan during this same fiscal year sold real estate and personal property that brought in $13,980.31. Products sold from the various farms owned by state institutions added $2,814.51 to the grand total. Sale of supplies amounted to $2,238.23. Interest earned on state deposits amounted to $291,688.94. There were miscellaneous revenues amounting to $72,132.16.

Michigan collects millions in special taxes in addition to all of the above revenues.

For the last fiscal year it turned into the state treasury $5,580,055.37 collected under the inheritance tax law. It took $7,848,290.03 from the railroads in taxes. The telephone companies paid $3,606,014.99. A premium tax of $3,592,849.68 was collected.

Automobile drivers paid a gasoline tax that netted the state $21,572,229.79. The total gas tax collected amounted to $23,315,300.63, but some of this had to be refunded and the collection cost is taken out of the gross total.

In addition to this tremendous amount paid by automobile owners, they turned over to the state treasury another $18,792,129.76 for a right to drive their car. This amount came from the weight tax.

The gas tax was lumped from one to two cents, then to three cents and the heavy weight tax was placed on cars for the purpose of hard surfacing within a few years the main trunk line roads of the state.

The roads have been completed but still the millions pour into the state treasury from the pockets of the automobile owners of Michigan.

New automobile buyers during the last fiscal year paid the state $441,873.00 for certificates of titles. People who lost their automobile plates paid $32,798 for new ones. Automobile owners who had their titles transferred paid $189,641.

So the story goes on to the grand total of $124,724,083.30. The 4,842,325 men, women and children of Michigan paid it. No matter if some of it came from the corporation tax or the telephone tax, every tax is passed on to the individual.

That same individual is now looking to Lansing for a relief from this tremendous tax total. He does not want a new tax and he cannot figure out why the state keeps up a weight tax that officials said six or seven years ago should be out in two, why a three cent gas tax is maintained, why a corporation tax is passed on to the individual, in view of the fact that all the buildings have been built that were needed and highways completed. This is the reflection of public opinion coming to Lansing verbal and by letter.

Governor Comstock and members of the legislature are fully aware of the public demand. To their credit it can be said they are giving most attentive consideration and out of it may come not only the entire elimination of a real estate tax, but a reduction of both the weight and gas tax.

Already the demand for a cut in the gas tax is being reflected in thousands of little metal plates attached to automobile license plates with the printed words "Reduce the Gas Tax." The number of these plates on automobiles is increasing daily and before the present session of the legislature is over, they are pretty sure to be serious consideration of a cut in the gas tax as well as the weight tax.

It will be noted from the above figures that Michigan farmers, workmen and other automobile owners paid into the state treasury a total of over $42,781,702 during the state's last fiscal year, almost twice as much as was collected from the general property tax. This money came collectively from the gas tax, weight tax, certificates of titles, etc. It is pointed out that if these taxes are not reduced and if a sales tax should be imposed, it would add many more millions of taxes to the burden now being carried by the automobile owner.

Automobile dealers, grocers, druggists, and all other retailers under the administration bill now before the legislature, are supposed to pay a three per cent tax on all sales they make. If you buy an automobile costing say $600 you now pay into Uncle Sam's pockets a sales tax of $18. Under the sales tax bill before the Michigan state legislature in addition to the $18 on a $600 car you pay Uncle Sam, you will pay another $18 into the state treasury, providing of course the bill becomes a law. On the groceries you buy, the consumer under the proposal would pay a three per cent tax. Public utilities and amusement places would be required to pay a similar tax.

Michigan taxpayers should not get the impression that because the legislature is not turning out new laws daily, that it is not doing anything. Never before did a group of lawmakers have such vital questions to consider. Each day and night committees of the senate and house are at work delving into the details of proposed new legislation that will bring tax relief.

One legislative group is insisting that the economy program be worked out before there is talk of new taxation. The Hartman-Brown economy recommendations so far remain the only ones before the legislature.

Governor Comstock has let it be known that he favors the recommendation of Representatives Hartman and Brown relative to no state aid for farms during 1938. In fact the program may go so far as to eliminate the state fair for the present year.

There is some talk around legislative halls of a bill being passed to require lumber companies that cut timber this year on land where no taxes have been paid to turn over to the state some sort of security on the lumber taken from the delinquent tax lands. While it is not known that the Stack Lumber company of which the auditor general is one of the chief owners, plans to cut lumber on its thousands of acres of delinquent tax lands in the Upper Peninsula, if it did so, the state would under the proposed legislation have some sort of protection. In past years it has been the practice of some lumber companies to skin the timber lands and then turn back to the state the delinquent timber land. The Stack Lumber company owes in Schoolcraft county alone over $10,000 of delinquent taxes on timber lands.

Michigan Department of State
WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN
Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 15.—The number of private detective agencies in Michigan has decreased over 30 per cent in the past three years, records of the Department of State show. At the present time there are 28 licensed private detective agencies in Michigan.

The department is allowed to issue licenses only after the stringent regulations of the law have been complied with. In the case of individuals, applications for a private detective license must be approved by the county prosecutor and sheriff or chief of police and by "five reputable citizens" who must certify that they have known the applicant for five years. In addition to the individual license fee of $50 the applicant must furnish a bond for $5,000.

The law requires that the president, secretary and treasurer of corporations desiring licenses, each obtain the favorable endorsement of "five reputable citizens." For corporations the license fee is $200 and the bond is required in the amount of $10,000.

Many of the private detective agencies licensed in former years have notified the department that they are unable to obtain proper bonds and have not sought to renew their licenses.

Act 283 of the Public Acts of 1927 gives the Department of State the power to grant any lodge, order, society or fraternal society the exclusive use of a badge or insignia of the organization, upon receipt of a proper application and a $5 fee, but six Michigan organizations have taken advantage of this statute, at the rate of one application per year.

The first organization to obtain exclusive use of its badge was the Modern Woodmen of America in September, 1927. The other organizations are the Church of St. John, Associated Master Barbers, Scottish Rite, Dearborn Merchants' Association and the last was the Rudenier Aid Society which was granted exclusive use of its insignia on January 16, 1933.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 15.—Many requests have been received by the Department of State for an explanation of the "15-mill tax limitation" amendment adopted by the people last November.

The amendment provides that all property taxes, except money needed for interest and payments on outstanding public debts, be limited to one and one-half per cent of the assessed valuation or $15 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. There is another section of the amendment that allows cities with appropriate charter provisions to increase the limitation to 20 mills. By a vote of two-thirds of all the voters any assessing district may make this increase, but this proviso can be virtually disregarded as records show that it is seldom that two-thirds of all registered voters visit the polls at any one election. The amendment is clear in that it requires two-thirds of all voters, not two-thirds of the votes cast, in order for assessing districts to increase the limitation to 20 mills.

The amendment will have a different effect upon every community in the state as the percentage of indebtedness in comparison to operating costs varies. For the fiscal year 1931, the total property tax levy in Michigan was $254,000,000 but for 1933 under the amendment, this must be reduced to approximately $156,000,000. Of this, about $102,000,000 can be used for operating expenses. A part of this reduction is due to a decrease in the total assessed valuation from $7,853,000,000 to $6,810,000,000, but many tax experts expect to see the assessed valuation rise next year. 1932 tax figures are not compiled but the 1933 levy is expected to be $70,000,000 lower than 1932.

The total public debt in Michigan amounts to $850,049,000. Of this amount $380,700,000 is being retired from income other than the tax on real estate. The balance of the indebtedness must be retired from taxes levied in addition to the 15-mill allowance. This amounts to about $8 per $1,000 of assessed valuation so that the average tax rate will drop from $32.38 in 1931 to about $23 this year. While the average drop in taxes will be 25 per cent, this percentage will vary considerably in the various counties and different townships, villages and cities of each county.

Different interpretations of the effect of the amendment on the primary school fund, set the reduction in the amount this fund will receive at from $4,100,000 to $7,800,000 and it is likely that court action will be necessary to decide the question. The apportionment of tax money raised under the amendment to various governmental units is now one of the questions before the legislature.

The Supt.'s Column

In the Parents' Magazine for January, 1938, there is an article entitled "The Ideal of Education." This article states beautifully the doctrine that I have preached—and practiced—in Chelsea. A few honest, well-meaning, but misguided parents and students have given me the merry ha-ha or the well-known raspberry for holding to this ideal of education, and so it is pleasing to find my doctrine expressed in a magazine published exclusively for parents.

Here is the article:

THE IDEAL OF EDUCATION

Once it was the rule to fit the child to the school. The curriculum, the place of organization, even the teaching force itself, took very little account of the child as an individual. At home he might indulge in a personality of his own, but once he entered school he became merely a member of a group.

But all this has changed. We have learned that children are as different in mental abilities as they are in physical appearance, and we no longer expect the same educational progress from all of them. For some time we have had schools and classes for those who have a marked intellectual handicap, and more recently we have begun to institute modifications of curriculum which permit the gifted, average and dull types to progress each at his own rate. This is a decided forward step in education, and one which parents should recognize. Too often, through false pride, parents are unwilling to accept any deviation from the average for their children, and the schools are handicapped in their attempts to provide what is best for the pupils through the unwise protests of their parents. Educators have long since ceased to condemn the pupil who for one reason or another cannot make his way according to the standards of the average, but too many parents still blame the child who is unable to come up to their expectations for his scholastic achievement.

Since we cannot choose, even though we might wish it, the particular strengths and weaknesses of our children, we should resign ourselves to this fact and bend our energies to providing for them every opportunity to develop the abilities which nature has seen fit to bestow.

THE IDEAL OF EDUCATION IS NOT SO MUCH THE MERELY ACQUISITION OF BOOK LEARNING AS IT IS THE TRAINING OF PERSONALITY AND CHARACTER FOR WORTHY CITIZENSHIP AND PERSONAL WELL-BEING. This is an aim in which the home and the school can wholeheartedly join hands for its achievement depends upon their close co-operation. The qualities which enable the individual to live in harmony with himself and with others are molded by both parents and teachers. Both are earnest and sincere in their desire to train the child for the responsibilities which he must be able to assume easily in order to be happy as an individual or as a member of the group. Perhaps what niche holds of less importance than how successfully he fills it, and this will depend on how well home and school fulfill their functions. If, in this century of the child, we can place both institutions primarily at his service instead of running them according to artificial standards created in ignorance of the fundamental characteristics of childhood, our contribution to social evolution will be significant. Phyllis Blanchard, Ph.D., Philadelphia Child Guidance Clinic.

Student Election Results

Most of you have heard of the election going on at the Chelsea Public School, as to whom is to be the second semester Student President. Here is the good news! Katherine Staffan wins by 47 votes! The total votes for Katherine was 100 and for Andros Gulde, Jr., 53. Gulde was the second highest so this makes him vice-president.

The Junior class decided they would make a real election out of the thing, so Andros Gulde, Jr. was their candidate. This election reminds us of the National election. There were two parties and a chairman for each party.

Monday afternoon a general assembly was called and the votes were cast. Each class was lined up and everyone was checked as they voted. There wasn't any chance of stuffing the ballot box, because the box was watched closely. Then the faculty were appointed to count the votes and in this way no one was favored. This was the fairest way that could be used to vote.

The others that were nominated were Eldine Hawley, Junior Seitz, Johanna Bruckner, Duane Winans, Robert Atchouse, and Walter Gage. The runner-up votes were fairly distributed and 210 votes were cast in all.

Editorial

Here is an editorial that we clipped from another newspaper. We believe it is so timely that we should reprint it.

THE SCHOOLS AND THE AVERAGE CITIZEN

"A phenomenon of the depression, not to be lightly considered, is the rallying of Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen in their millions to the support of education. Apparently the movement is nation-wide. It has been caused by the closing of schools, the shortening of the school year, the dismissal of teachers, and the general curtailment of the educational program, due to the inability of authorities to find money to support the schools on the usual standards."

"The reaction of what appears to be the great majority of citizens is that education is one thing in which the country cannot afford to scrimp. Even those who are protesting most loudly against burdensome taxes are demanding that enough money be raised to support the schools. Strange as it may seem, the movement does not come primarily from educational authorities, eager to save their jobs and their income. It comes chiefly from parents with children in the schools, who are demanding the same advantages for their children had in happier days, when money was plentiful and educational budgets expanded with the country's prosperity."

"It is even more remarkable that the demand for no lowering of educational standards and facilities comes at a time when the schools are under attack for funds and facilities and for the maintenance of fundamental standards. But the main body remains unconvinced; it declines to support the assaults of the critics. It has an idea that there is something more to education than the three R's, and that the students are entitled to everything that trained educators believe is good for them. This is especially true in places where the taxpayers have spent lavishly in just years for equipment that the new education demands. They are opposed to scrapping it, and since it exists they believe it should be used."

"Nor are they unconscious of the fact that the great burden of economic in the schools has been shouldered by the teachers, through salary cuts, payless weeks, shortening of the school season, and dismissal. The teaching body has co-operated splendidly with the hard-pressed taxpayer. There has been no notable loss of morale."

"We do not say that further economies in education are not possible; doubtless they are. But the movement to cut the American educational program to the point of injury is being met by a hearty demand that it funds formerly available are found insufficient to maintain standards, money be found elsewhere. Inequalities in the wealth of school districts are being emphasized, and it is suggested that the state as a whole, rather than particular communities, find the major support for the schools. It is heartening to find that the great majority of the people believe almost any sacrifice worth while if only the schools are spared, and that they are so determined that the children get the best sort of preparation to tackle the problems which have proved so baffling to their elders."

Lincoln's Aspiration

A. Geddes.
 "A house divided against itself cannot stand; the Union must be preserved."—A. Lincoln.

There has been much debating between the South and North. And now from nearly every state the troops are pouring forth.

Through the stormy loud clamor a shadow oft appears. The great links of the Union grow tighter as it nears.

Let there be no dissension; The Nation unified, Under God will flourish. Despite the stormy tide.

May unborn generations Hear the clarion cry—"The Union! the Union! The Union must not die!"

Teacher - Student Slips

Paul (In Am. Lit. Class): "What kind of language do the Eskimos speak?"

Edward (Brightly): "Eskimo!"

Mr. Moore: "Why, if you would come to my house as my guest for a week—"

Anna (Sotto Voice): "Let's go."

Mr. Cross (After taking roll): "All those who are here are present."

Miss Heward: Who won the support of the election of 1892?

A Senior—Lincoln.

Elementary News

Kindergarten—
 One of our little friends, Marion Dietrich, had an accident, and his head was cut badly; three stitches were taken by the doctor.

Our main object this week was to make valentines for our mothers. We had a lovely valentine party Tuesday afternoon and each one received many pretty valentines.

First Grade—
 All of us little folks are interested in valentines. We have a large valentine box, filled with pretty valentines for our classmates. We had a valentine party and everyone had a grand time.

Second Grade—
 We also are interested in valentines, for we had a valentine party, and everyone received many valentines. We made a log cabin in our sand table, and had fun doing it, too.

Third Grade—
 Just having a valentine party and having fun making them for our mothers. We heard the banks were closed, too.

Fourth Grade—
 Our new boys name is Robert Roy Savage from near Grand Rapids. On Monday we dramatized the two stories of "Hercules and the Two Bulls" and "Lincoln and the Old Wood Chopper" in which our new boy played the part of Lincoln very nicely.

Last Thursday we asked Mrs. Seakins and girls into our room because of the cold. They danced for us the Minuet from "Don Juan," which they gave last year on Washington's birthday, and not one forgot their part.

We also had several gymnastic exercises, but even then we could not keep warm. Who could with the thermometer registering 20 below zero outside? Mr. Moore came in and gave us permission to go home.

Chelsea Loses 25-22

Chelsea High lost its third league contest Friday evening to Dundee, 25-22. The Chelsea Reserves triumphed 15-6.

The reserve team outplayed the Dundee team for most of the game. The Chelsea squad missed many shots, which accounted for the low score. The best players for Chelsea were Harris and Howe. Harris was high point man with six points.

The Chelsea first team inability to make foul shots and lack of snappy pass work were the main reasons for their defeat. Dundee played a superior brand of ball all during the first half and as later events proved the lead enabled them to win.

During the second half Chelsea steadily pulled up on the Dundee team, but were unable to overcome Dundee's early lead. Chelsea made only six out of 15 foul shots, while Dundee scored nine out of 13. The best players for Chelsea were N. Panatier and Hawley. Both of these boys scored five points and played good defensive games.

Following is a box score of the basketball games played by Pinckney and Chelsea, at Chelsea, Feb. 7.

Which

Steps up, up, up to that which many of the preceding generation have attained—success.

Steps down, down, down to that which many of that same generation have fallen—failure.

Which shall we strive to attain, success or failure? But no energy is required to fall to the bottomless abyss of the latter. What is left?

Success is by no means acquired through idleness.

In preparing to conquer these obstacles of the upward path, we must first consider our fitness for this perilous journey. An individual unfamiliar with the "three R's" cannot even think of attempting this conquest. Do we consider our education as something to be cherished or as a forced daily routine? Heaven forbid the latter!

Consider our social position. Are we shunned by society or does this human mass desire our company? We alone can choose our level in the world—social or economical.

Ye Ol' Snooper's Scoop

The students of the High School debated Lincoln's birthday by making Mr. Moore read "The Perfect Pith."

Miss Katherine Staffan is once more our Student President. Andros Gulde was a close second and is our new Vice-President.

Feb. 17—Our girls play Manchester there and the boys play Lincoln here. Let's all go to at least one of the games.

And—don't forget the Faculty play: "What Happened to Jones?" Here's one time when we can laugh at the teachers. Feb. 23 and 24.

Do we like the cold weather? You should ask us. Because of the sub-zero weather Thursday and Friday there was no school. There also was no school Wednesday due to the fact that the faculty attended a convention at Lansing.

An unwarranted and highly misleading article appeared in "The Saturday Evening Post" recently under the title of "Tax Blindness." The writer is a regular reader of the "Saturday Evening Post" and considers it a very worthy periodical. We have read with much interest and great profit a considerable number of articles on financial matters written by the man who wrote "Tax Blindness," and published likewise in the "Post."

However, when this gentleman selected a teacher as typical of our profession and used her in the construction of his article, he made a choice that in no way typifies the teaching profession of America. This writer desires to present five brief statements that will serve to refute the statements which were made in the article in question.

1. In a time when all expenses, both public and private, are being reviewed with the purpose of retrenchment, what conclusion may we reach in answer to the question: Are the schools over-manned? Have public school faculties been built up in numbers unnecessarily during our prosperous years?

2. Is the teacher of today accomplishing as much as did the teacher of several years ago? Leaving aside the matter of a more varied course of study and of a consequence the greater collegiate preparation required, teachers are today instructing more pupils than they did ten years ago.

The year 1923 showed a total school census of 1,020,000 with 72,000 teachers. The year 1931 showed a school census of 1,373,000 with 94,000 teachers—a gain of almost two pupils per teacher. The enrollment figures follow a similar proportion; the ratio of 28.6 pupils per teacher of the school year 1919-20 increasing to 29.2 pupils per teacher in 1929-30. More recent reports show a generally increasing number of pupils per class, the elimination of small classes, and the contraction of faculty personnel to a skeletonized basis.

3. The relation of the total salaries paid Michigan public school teachers to the total operating expense of the schools shows an even more marked reduction in the cost per unit of teaching service. In 1923 teachers salaries constituted 64.21 per cent of the operating costs and in 1931 this had declined to 59.75 per cent, showing conclusively that teachers salaries did not increase as rapidly as did other expenditures.

4. The cold figures of public school cost in Michigan indicate that teachers salaries, while increased somewhat during the prosperous era, barely balanced the decreased purchasing power of the dollar. In the period from 1920 to 1929 with most commodity prices soaring, the teachers salary increased approximately 18 per cent. Since then the tendency has been downward and a recent survey shows the old level to have been reached at the beginning of the present school year. The teacher, one of the last to profit through the medium of rising commodity prices, was in the front ranks of those affected by the economic decline.

5. Deducting 18 per cent from the average salaries of 1929-30 would show counties with over 50,000 population were now paying $1,000; counties from 20,000 to 50,000 population were paying $1,000; and the counties with less than 20,000 population were paying $902. These figures include all the teachers in the counties. Most teachers in Michigan would put a trip to Bermuda in the same category as a trip to the moon!

MILAN—Miller's Drug Store was informed the first of the week that the woman who had passed a fraudulent post office money order in the store had been caught and awaiting trial, but the Millers failed to get back their twenty-five dollars. Several days ago, a woman who claimed to be Mrs. Norma Benson made some purchases in the store and asked that the clerk accept a money order in payment; the clerk graciously giving her the change. The order had been stolen from a small office in Illinois and several money orders were passed in the vicinity of Milan. The woman was arrested and is awaiting trial in Illinois. Leader.

PINCKNEY—Clarence Cornwell, 19, died at the McPherson hospital in Howell Sunday as the result of gunshot wounds in his side. Friday his brother, Francis, 9, got hold of a loaded single barrel shot gun which was in the bedroom of the Cornwell farm house just off the Pinckney-Howell road, about three miles this side of Howell. The gun was discharged and the shots hit one brother, Donald, 8, in the hand and entered the side of his brother, Clarence. Both wounded boys were taken to the McPherson hospital but the case of Clarence was considered hopeless from the start. The boys are the sons of Francis Cornwell, Sr.—Dispatch.

PLYMOUTH—Look out! If you speed in Plymouth or break some other traffic regulation and if you have n't got the cash to pay the fine it makes no difference. You are going to pay anyway. Judge Ford Brooks made this quite evident the other day when a farmer residing in this locality came to town and stopped on the gas harder than the police thought he should. After he had pleaded guilty to the charge, he told the judge he didn't have any money. "Well, just bring down five bushels of potatoes to the welfare department and that will square things," said the judge. The next day the welfare department had five as nice bushels of potatoes as are grown in Michigan.—Mail.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—I have been married only a short time, but my husband doesn't care for liver. Can you suggest some way I can prepare it so that he may like it?

Ans.—Try this: Fry some bacon and place it in an open oven to keep warm. Flour slices of liver, add salt and pepper and gently fry them in the bacon fat. When done, remove to the bacon platter to keep hot, and then fry slices of bread to a golden shade in the greasy and fat. Lay liver on this and surround with the crisp bacon and serve hot. If your husband doesn't like this, then we give up.

Ques.—I would like to know why the rabbit is associated with Easter? Can you tell me?

Ans.—The custom of having the rabbit at Easter has been handed down from the ancient Egyptians. Among these people the rabbit was the symbol of Springtime or "new birth." The early Christians copied the custom and made it a part of their Easter.

Ques.—What causes a person to be left-handed, while most people are right-handed?

Ans.—There is a wide difference of opinion on this subject, most of which favors "heredity." An infant for the first two or three months shows no preference for either hand. But when four or five months old the child begins to show a preference. In some cases a preference is developed by the mother nursing the child on her right arm, thus allowing the child's right hand to be free for action and vice versa. Most left-handed mothers nurse their young on the left arm, and thus through the ages it is hereditary the child is usually left-handed.

Ques.—Why is a certain kind of a hat called a "derby"?

Ans.—No authority, so far as we can find, has ever been able to trace the origin of the name "derby" as applied to a hat. It is recorded that hats of this type were popular among the ancient Greeks. But in modern times the first one that was seen was in England at a race track where the famous English Derby was being run. It created so much attention that it was afterward referred to as the "derby hat." Then a famous hatter of England, named Bowler, began making them, and were called "Bowler's," which name they are still known by in that country. In America they have invariably called it by the original name of "derby."

Ques.—Why do we say "dear" as "Dear Sir" when writing to a person who is a stranger?

Ans.—The use of "Dear" in letter salutations is based upon a long established custom and dates back to days when people were much more formal and effusive in the manifestations of their feelings. In this sense "Dear" originally meant highly respected or esteemed.

Ques.—If a person deserts in the army or navy, does he lose his citizenship?

Ans.—A person who deserts in time of war loses his citizenship. The penalty does not attach to peace-time desertions.

Ques.—Will you please answer in your question column if the metal used in ship construction is aluminum? If not, what kind of metal is it?

Ans.—The metal used in ship construction is known as "duralumin." It is an alloy of aluminum, and is about equal in strength and hardness to ordinary steel. Aluminum alone would be too soft for that use.

Ques.—Why is a certain unit of American money called a "dollar"?

Ans.—The name "dollar" originally came from "thaler," a coin which originated in Bohemia in 1619 and was widely used in Europe for many years afterward. In 1792 the Coinage Act gave legal recognition to what was already an established institution.

Ques.—I would like to ask you how the word "corps," meaning a body of soldiers, is pronounced? Also what is the plural and how is it pronounced?

Ans.—"Corps," meaning a body of soldiers, is pronounced as though it was spelled "kor." The plural form is spelled the same as the singular, but it is pronounced "kore."

SURPRISE PARTY

A very enjoyable evening was spent when Mr. and Mrs. Julius F. Schmid were pleasantly surprised at their home in Lima township on Wednesday evening, Feb. 8, when the members of the "Jolly Stitches" clothing club and their families of Freedom township arrived with well-filled baskets and a host of good wishes for the newlyweds. There being about 50 guests in number a social hour was spent followed by the game of "Hearts" which furnished the diversion for the evening. Prizes were won by Erwin and Alton Hieber.

A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening, after which the guests departed for their various homes, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Schmid much joy and happiness during their married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmid again wish to thank the members of the club for the beautiful gift presented to them.

Clark Restaurant To Open In New Location

Announcement is made in the advertising columns of this issue of the opening, on Sunday, Feb. 19, of Clark's Restaurant in their new location, Park street. A chicken dinner is the attraction for the opening day, and special orchestra music will be provided by the management for the pleasure of their patrons.

The restaurant will be located in the new brick structure just completed which replaces the Clark warehouse destroyed by fire a few months ago. The new building is ideal for use as a restaurant, and is of modern construction in every respect. The beauty of the interior appointments will be greatly enhanced by sash curtains and drapes at the large front windows.

A portion of the 80x30 ft. room is being enclosed by a lattice partition and will contain four tables, and may be used for private parties. A total of nine tables will be installed in the place in addition to the dining counter. New kitchen equipment has been installed, as well as a six-compartment ice cream container.

The restaurant has been located in the Penn building on Main street.

Edward G. Robinson In "Silver Dollar"

Hollywood traditions were thrown out of the studio when they started this one. They set out to transpire a colorful character of early Nevada history to the screen, and they caught him to the life. A very human personality, with plenty of faults and shortcomings and they didn't romanticize him one little bit. By dumb luck and his showman's personality he hits the heights of political preference, and as suddenly sinks back into obscurity. He divorces his faithful wife who saw him through the days of struggle. The reaction this act will have on audiences is problematical. But whatever sympathy he loses when he takes on another wife is offset in the final scenes when his dreams and power crash. A broken, bewildered, helpless human, there is tremendous drama and pathos, as well as irony, in these sequences. Robinson gives a masterly characterization. At the Princess Theatre, Sunday, Feb. 19.

Can Improve Quality of Soil With Manure

East Lansing, Feb. 15.—The fertility of Michigan soils can be improved at slight cost if proper care is taken of the manure produced on the average farm according to the soils department at Michigan State College, which states that the plant food in this amount of manure would cost $205 if bought in commercial fertilizers.

A ton of manure which is properly protected from leaching and heating is equal in value to 100 pounds of fertilizer, according to the college department. This value cannot be obtained, however, if the fertility elements are allowed to leach away during the winter and spring.

Pits which protect the manure from the weather or hauling to the field often enough to avoid losses are the two best methods of obtaining the full measure of fertilizing elements. The use of superphosphate as a preservative is also advocated by the soils specialists.

Liberal use of bedding is another practice advocated by the soils men. The addition of organic matter to the soil is one of the best methods of improving its crop producing power. In addition to the plant food added, the organic matter supplies food for necessary soil bacteria and increases the water holding capacity of the soil.

The college department advocates the use of commercial fertilizers in all cases where they can be afforded, but the elements of plant food in the manure should not be allowed to go to waste.

MANY VIEW NEW FORD

A steady stream of visitors viewed the new Ford V-8 cylinder 112-inch wheelbase motor cars when they were put on display Saturday at the showrooms of Palmer Motor Sales, Ford dealers.

Throughout the day the crowds about the cars showed unusual interest in the new bodies and their appointments. The new Fords are the most powerful ever built. Fourteen body types are available, including both standard and Deluxe types of the Roadster, Phaeton, Coupe, Tudor and Fordor Sedans. The Cabriolet and Victoria are exclusive Deluxe types.

The new Ford bodies are characterized by a new and distinctively modern note, with flowing streamlines. The front and ensemble of sloping Vee radiator grille, new skirted fenders, newly designed lamps, horn and bumpers, is most attractive. The wind shield has a 20-degree slope. A wide choice of body colors is available. Colored wheels are optional on the Deluxe types.

Bodies are of all-steel construction and therefore sturdy, strong and safe. Many sections are joined by electric welding. Body interiors are exceptionally roomy, the bodies being materially wider and almost a foot longer than formerly. Seats are wide and deeply-cushioned. Front seats in the closed cars are adjustable. A choice of broadcloth or mohair upholstery is used in the standard body types; broadcloth, mohair and Bedford cord in the Deluxe models.

Safety glass is used in the windshields of all body types and in the rear windows of cars with rumble seats. Deluxe body types are fitted with safety glass throughout, while standard body types may be similarly equipped upon special order.

All closed cars are fitted with dome lights while the Deluxe body types have cowl lights and rear compartment arm rests. The Tudor and Fordor sedans and Victoria have a convenient radio aerial. All Deluxe cars are equipped with twin matched horns and two tail lights.

English, local fruit grower, states that upon investigation at his Hardscrabble Fruit Farm, northwest of town, he finds that many of the peach buds have been killed by extreme cold weather of this winter. According to his observations about 50 per cent of the buds on his Greensboro and Early Michigan peaches have been killed, 75 per cent are killed on the Frolinger trees and 90 per cent of the South Haven buds have perished as a result of the wintry blasts. Mr. English believes the damage was caused by the extreme cold weather early in December.

Egg Show To Be Held At Klager Opening

The poultry industry in the vicinity of Chelsea has taken on a renewed interest, and as a result arrangements have been made for a special exhibit, egg show, and educational meeting in connection with the Klager Hatchery opening on Feb. 25, announces H. S. Osler, county agricultural agent.

Last fall a co-operative arrangement was made between the Klager Hatchery, poultry department, Michigan State college, Michigan State Department of Agriculture, United States Department of Agriculture, and the County Agricultural Extension office for the purpose of establishing a better relationship between the flock owners providing the hatchery with eggs, and the hatchery owners. The purpose in mind was to make it possible to improve the quality of chicks sold by the hatchery, says Mr. Osler.

Several important meetings in flock owners have already been held at which time important problems relating to poultry management and its effect upon quality chicks were discussed. Healthy flocks, properly housed and fed, were the first problems to be considered. As a result, hatchery owners have already tested all the birds in each hatchery flock for bacillary white diarrhea and avian tuberculosis, in order to insure their patrons healthy chicks. Veterinarians conducting this testing work report a considerable reduction in the amount of bacillary white diarrhea compared to tests made in previous years. The test for tuberculosis has emphasized the need of organized effort in eliminating this disease from poultry flocks.

This test was carried on in co-operation with the state and federal department of agriculture, and the Klager Hatchery is the first hatchery in Michigan to T. B. test all birds of flock owners furnishing eggs to the hatchery, says Mr. Osler. Reports show this disease to be wide-spread, and of the 60 flocks tested only five were completely free of the disease. It was found in both flocks of pullets and hens, and infection varied from five to 80 per cent. After testing, all reactors were removed and slaughtered under the supervision of Dr. Beck of the state and federal office.

Housing Considered.
Proper housing laying flocks has been emphasized in previous meetings. A program of remodeling has already been launched in the Klager Hatchery area. Several flock owners have already remodeled their houses by the construction of dropping boards, roosts and the addition of straw lofts, water stands and properly constructed feed hoppers and nests. This work will continue during the spring.

In the meetings to follow there will be a discussion on the production of eggs for hatching, and raising quality chicks, brooding, sanitation, feeding and other management problems.

The meeting Saturday evening will be held in Sylvan Town Hall. At this meeting J. M. Moore and E. E. Hancock, in charge of research and experimental work, Michigan State college, will discuss the research problems now being considered. Especial emphasis will be given to the result of experimental work on feeds and feeding. Mr. Moore was the originator of the Spartan Starter feed formula for baby chicks which has given such universal satisfaction throughout the state since its introduction more than a year ago.

Special Exhibit.
Arrangements have been made to obtain the special poultry exhibit which was on display at Michigan State college during Farmers Week, and observed by the thousands of visitors attending this program. This exhibit will be set up in the rooms of the Klager Hatchery, and will be an added point of interest during the events of Saturday's program.

Special Egg Show.
In order to emphasize the importance of the quality of chicks, and call attention to the factors that are to be considered in producing quality eggs, a special egg show has been arranged for on Saturday, Feb. 25. This will also be held in the hatchery rooms. It will include classes of brown eggs and white eggs for three different groups—the hatchery flock owners, the general public and 4-H club members. Suitable prizes will be awarded the winners in each class.

Mr. Moore and Mr. Hancock will judge the egg exhibits, and will also devote part of the discussion period to a consideration of factors in the production of quality eggs both for marketing and for hatching.

Eggs will be judged by the following score card: Weight, size, uniformity of size, color, uniformity of color, shell texture and condition of shell.

A chicken catching contest should prove to be one of the interesting features of the Saturday evening program. An opportunity will be given the fleet-footed to snare the fleeing fowl. If weather conditions permit and arrangements can be made, this event will be held in some section of the public streets. This will be announced at the Saturday evening meeting.

ENTERS SKATING CONTEST
Local friends of Albert Steinbach of Detroit will be interested in knowing that he will be a participant in the Michigan figure skating championship contest which will be held at the Olympia on Sunday, Feb. 19, 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. Mr. Steinbach will participate in the event as a member of the Olympia Figure Skating club.

"I had always looked forward to the time when we could have what I considered the 'luxury' of electric cooking—its convenience, and cleanliness, and healthfulness. But I had supposed it to be far in the future—until I saw the Waldorf Electrochef!"

"It seemed that the Waldorf was just everything I had pictured 'my' range to be. I fell in love with its trim, simple design and its cool, sparkling finish. The 'table-top' design appealed to me, too—and the handy cupboard space for cooking utensils. It had everything we had seen in other ranges—and even some extras! Don't tell me of blue Mondays. Nor days your out of luck. Nor if disheartened spirit says You don't amount to much.

A great big heart experience. Has witnessed this to me. My alphabet is known to God. Clear through from A to Z.

A knowledge of the sciences. Are hard to understand. But somehow there's a mighty power That grips and holds my hand.

There comes a whisper o'er and o'er That keeps my heart aglow. And as I read St. John, Seventeen, I find it reads just so.

Never have blue Mondays now. And luck—there's no such thing; Since I am guarded day by day. Beneath an Angel's wing.

A great big heart experience. Has witnessed this to me. My alphabet is known to God. Clear through from A to Z.

COMMUNICATION I do not believe that during periods of distress, those we are now passing through, that married women should be allowed to hold jobs which could be given needy persons. A person that hires them must be insane. A married woman's place is in her home. A reader where The Standard is always welcome.

Egypt's Game Hunters From the early days, Egyptians had both geese and ducks in their farm yards, but they depended very much on wild ducks as well. The one good highway of travel through the desert between the breeding lands of northern Europe and the lakes of central Africa, the Nile, has always swarmed with migrating water fowl—hunting men with a kind of boomerang and relieved the hunt of royalty. For capturing larger numbers of ducks, however, the pharaoh's subjects most often resorted to netting.

Measuring Heat Although in the summer time, people are always anxious to know the temperature in the sunshine, the meteorologist always takes his temperature in the shade of a wooden screen or a ventilated box. The explanation is simple. The standard thermometer gives the temperature of the air, which is substantially the same in sun and shade. A thermometer exposed to the sunshine shows nothing but the temperature of the instrument itself, which gets much hotter under the sun's rays than the air does.

Tom Moore and His Mother. Died—On Wednesday morning, last, at her residence in Abbey street, Dublin, Mrs. Moore, mother of the illustrious poet. Her maternal care was indeed amply repaid by the affection of her children. To the day of her dissolution it was a fixed rule with Mr. Moore, no matter how circumstanced or engaged, to write twice a week to his mother, communicating every incident in which he thought she would be likely to feel an interest. From the London Times, May 16, 1932.

China Home While there are many good species in Central and South America, Asia, especially China, is the real home of the bamboo. It is a native and as the people of that land and culture, beautiful in its growth. No man can live without a bamboo tree in the immediate vicinity of his house, but he can live without meat, according to a favorite Chinese saying. Records made on bamboo targets in China more than 2,000 years ago are still legible.

Hymns The songs of the church are certainly as inspiring as any national anthems.—William Leon Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown stepped onto the elevator in the basement to ride to the second floor. The regular operator was absent, his place being taken by a watchman, who admitted that he was inexperienced. The operator pulled the wrong lever and on the first upward leap the elevator shot to the third floor. Then the operator hurriedly reversed his direction and the elevator was dropped down about a foot above the second floor.
