Scout Council Plans Leadership Course

It is apparent from the returns to the inquiries of the camping committee, recently sent to all Scout troops in Washtenaw and Livingston counties, that the great majority of troops in both Washtenaw and Livingston are planning to conduct Troop Camps this summer instead of sending scouts to the council camp at Newkirk.

This is undoubtedly a step in the direction of meeting the money problem in camping, and in addition, offers much greater opportunity for teaching real camping under primitive conditions. However, the problems of running troop camps will be for the most part the same as for running the council camp, and the worries will be scattered instead of concentrated on the one spot. The answer to this problem is trained leadership.

To meet the demand for trained leadership, our council will offer a training course in troop camping, in charge of graduates of the Region VII training courses in troop camping, for 1932 and 1933. This course will be presented simultaneously at Howell Lake and a camp site near Ypsilanti, on the week-ends of May 14 and 20-21. The cost will be extremely small, since, as in the troop camps, most of the food will be brought from home.

No troop will be granted permission to conduct any camp on trip outside of these two counties this summer unless its leaders have either demonstrated their ability to conduct satisfactory troop camping in the past, or take this training now offered, for which national certificates will be issued.

The course will open at 1 o'clock Saturday, May 13, with the first session closing at 3 o'clock Sunday, May 14, and the second session opening at 1 o'clock Saturday, May 20, and closing at 3 o'clock Sunday, May 21, being held both week-ends at Howell Lake and a camp site near Ypsilanti. Topics which will be considered during this course will include the following: "The Game of Camping" showing camping as a game, and how it should be played; "Aims, Objectives and Minimum Standards for Troop Camping"; "Campfires and How to Run Them"; "Safety Demonstration Outline"; "The Value of the Patrol System", showing the use of the patrol leader and assistant patrol leader; "Camp Sanitation" and "Character Building". Other topics which may be considered will be "Year Round Program"; "Boy Development"; "Troop Camping Daily Program"; "Demonstration of Indoor and Outdoor Camps and Games".

The course will be open especially for scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters, but members of troop committees and fathers of boys are urged to attend if possible. Parents will be assured that the troop camp will be well conducted both as to safety and program.

Liquor Commission Refuses Beer License To 2 Local Concerns

Contrary to recommendations of the Chelsea village council in action taken at a special meeting Tuesday evening, the State Liquor Control Commission on Wednesday refused to grant licenses to two Chelsea business places from which applications had been received asking for license to sell beer.

Three applications were on file with the village clerk, and the Tuesday evening meeting was called so that action could be taken in time for the applicants to make an effort to secure their licenses to operate when sale of beer in the state becomes legal, which will be tonight (Thursday) at 6:00 o'clock.

Inasmuch as many points in the law as enacted by the state legislature were not absolutely clear to members of the council, it was voted to recommend granting of the licenses and to leave the responsibility of such action up to the State Commission, where the law could be properly interpreted.

Applications received were from Kolb's Restaurant, Geo. Seitz and Harold Gueatall, proprietor of the Recreation parlor. Mr. Kolb and Mr. Gueatall were in Lansing Wednesday morning with the three applications, where they were informed that the Seitz and Gueatall applications must be rejected inasmuch as their places of business were not included in the list of dispensaries named in the beer bill. Mr. Kolb was granted a license and will offer beer for sale when the clock strikes six this evening.

The Sylvan township board held a special meeting Wednesday afternoon and acted favorably on an application from the Wolverine Restaurant, corner of South Main street and U.S.-12, which is located outside the village limits. Proprietors of the Wolverine will make an effort to secure a license to sell the beverage tonight.

Local Youths to Join Conservation Army

Seven applications have been received by Theo. Bahnmiller, Sylvan township supervisor, from young men in the township who desire to enlist in the Emergency Conservation Work Army which is being recruited throughout the United States. Sylvan's quota in the present allotment has been set at six men. Another call is expected to be issued within the next three or four weeks.

The young men who have applied and who are subject to call for examination and approval at any time are Harvey West, Wilson West, Harold Welch, Stewart Myers, Martin Slane, Leo Maloney and Wm. Tompkins. Those who are accepted will leave immediately for the training camp designated by the examining officers in Ann Arbor.

Work in this conservation army is being given primarily to young men between the ages of 18 and 25, who are citizens of the United States, unmarried and unemployed, who wish to volunteer for this work, and who wish to allot a substantial portion of their $30 monthly cash allowance to their dependents. In addition, there will be selected a certain number of older men, married or unmarried, who live near the national parks or forests, who are unemployed, and who have had actual experience in work in the forests. Two hundred and fifty thousand men are being recruited, who will have the opportunity of working for a six months' period.

Relief Funds Secured for Sylvan Township

Through the efforts of Sylvan township supervisor, Theo. Bahnmiller, relief funds from the R. F. C. are being secured through the State Highway Department for employment of men on US-12 in this township.

The amount of money secured from this source during the months of March and April totaled $810.00. Funds available for May total $790.00, and the same amount has been applied for by Mr. Bahnmiller for June. This amount provides 320 days work for May and the same amount for June if the application is approved.

According to Mr. Bahnmiller, the work is being as evenly distributed as possible in an effort to relieve the unemployment situation in the township to a great extent. The men are doing improvement work on the shoulders of the US-12 pavement.

The "gadget" is a little machine that shows the difference between ordinary cord, used in other tires, and Super Swift cord, used in Goodyears... That difference is in the stretch and come-back—you can see how Superswift cord stretches and comes back, how the cord in other tires loses its life and elasticity... It takes about 3 minutes to tell the story—but as this customer said—"If every car owner could see that demonstration, there wouldn't be anything used but Goodyear Tires."

USE PRISONS TO AID FARMERS?

Legislature May Break Farm Tool
Prices By Making Tools

By Elton R. Eaton

Lansing, Mich. — When Governor Fred Warner put the binder twine plant in Jackson prison and began supplying the farmers of Michigan with a badly needed article that they had been paying exorbitant prices for, he started a prison industry that lasted for a quarter of a century. He broke up the alleged binder twine trust and he claimed that he took from the neck of the farmers a twine that was being used to strangle them.

It is an interesting and strange coincidence that just at the time the binder twine plant is being dismantled at Jackson prison because of congressional legislation that will not permit prison made products to be shipped outside the state, that Michigan should be considering the question of manufacturing farm implements for use by Michigan farmers.

The very same reason that caused Governor Fred M. Warner to start up a binder twine plant in Jackson is now being given by Don Sias of Midland for the making of farm implements by the state.

Representative Sias, father of a legislative resolution that provides for a sweeping investigation into the high prices of farm machinery, and who is chairman of the investigation committee, is just now securing data from Minnesota where he has discovered that in the prison at Stillwell, Minnesota, there is a plant used entirely for the building of farm machinery.

He has not yet been advised as to the extensiveness of the Stillwell plant or just how many kinds of farm implements are made there, but he hopes to have his information within a few days.

He will in the next few days have before his committee many implement dealers in Michigan who are expected to testify as to the prices of farm machinery and find out if he can why it is that farm machinery has not come down in price as has everything else. Farmers are now getting considerably less than one half the prices for their products that they were paid a few years back, but they are forced to pay just as much as ever for the tools they have to buy for their business. He does not charge that there is a price fixing organization maintained by makers of farm machinery, but he does want to know why the prices have not dropped and why they remain uniform year after year and year after year, no matter what economic conditions may be. That he proposes to find out and remedy if possible.

If Representative Sias can force a reduction of prices on farm implements, and he declares he is going to bring the prices down or attempt to get the state to manufacture farm tools, he will be doing more for the farmers of Michigan than has been done in many years.

When Representative Vernon J. Brown gave out to the newspapers last fall a brief review of the numerous economies he would recommend to the forthcoming legislature with Representative Gus Hartman, he estimated that the enactment of bills he would present to the legislature would save the taxpayers of Michigan something like $10,000,000. Slowly but surely the legislature has been grinding out these economy measures and last week a total of something like $9,500,000 had been slashed from the expenses of the state by the enactment of the Brown-Hartman bills.

Representative Brown is sitting up nights trying to figure out where there is another half million dollars that can be chopped off in order to bring his estimate just to the figure he said it would be last fall. Readers should keep the fact in mind that the only economy bills presented to the legislature are those that Mr. Brown and Mr. Hartman introduced.

Something was said in one of these legislative letters a week or so ago about the possibility of the legislature adjourning the last of May. There isn't a possibility of the law-makers quitting and going home this month. So far there has been no revenue raising measures considered outside committee. The sales tax bill when it comes up for consideration in the house will be an entirely different one than the one sent to the committee. It is said practically every paragraph of the bill has been or is being written by the committee, so no one will have any idea of what it will be like when the house gets through changing the amendments that the committee is now making. The state is without funds. Payrolls are being met in part by money diverted from the sources for which they are supposed to be spent. Unless immediate and drastic action of some kind is taken, say legislative observers, the state will be faced with the same problem that confronts Detroit and there will be a complete collapse of state functions. This is no idle prediction.

It has become quite evident during the past few days that one of the reasons for differences existing between the executive and legislative branches of the state government is due entirely to the question of patronage. Democratic members of both the house and senate feel that the governor could appoint many more Democrats than he has and on top of this feeling they do not like a lot of Democrats he has appointed. There was bitter opposition on the part of some Democrats to some of the governor's labor commission appointments. One withdrew his name after it had been presented to the senate. Claude Carney of Kalamazoo was confirmed by the senate with just one vote to spare. Then came a tie-up on some of the liquor commission appointments, but finally this opposition was withdrawn. It has all reacted to the detriment of the state as members of the house and senate feel in some cases that they have a just right to express their feelings against some of the wishes of the executive office.

The Michigan legislature has again gone on record as being opposed to satisfaction of a federal constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor. Passed by ten other states, the resolution when it came up in the house the other day was bitterly assailed by both Democrats and Republicans.

The annual reunion of the Riemenschneider school district will be held at the schoolhouse on Sunday, May 21. All former teachers, pupils and patrons of the school are invited to attend.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich. — A bill containing the recommendations of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald that automobile weight tax fees be reduced to three, six and nine dollars, is being drawn up for presentation to the legislature in the near future.

Since the recommendation was made public 10 days ago, state-wide approval of the idea has been shown by the large volume of letters reaching the Department of State, expressing the writers' endorsements of the plan. That there already exists in the legislature a strong sentiment for reduction of weight tax fees is known as several other measures calling for reductions in license fees have been introduced.

The bill now being prepared sets the tax for light automobiles at $3; for medium-weight cars at $6; and for heavy cars at $9. It is estimated that the reduction in weight tax fees would lower weight tax revenues about 60 per cent under present levels, but no accurate estimate is possible. By lowering the fees, a large number of automobiles, now not being used, would be returned to the roads.

At the time of making the recommendations, Mr. Fitzgerald was just as emphatic in announcing his disapproval of any increase in the gasoline tax. Real tax reduction does not mean the shifting of the burden from the right to the left hand, he said.

Lansing, Mich. — Practically every automobile stolen in Michigan in recent years, has been recovered. In 1930 and 1931 more automobiles were recovered each year than were stolen. In 1932 a total of 2,193 cars were stolen while 2,084 were recovered. Michigan ranks second among the 48 states in the recovery of stolen cars.

The Auto Theft Recovery Division of the Department of State is the center of this activity in the state. As soon as a car is reported stolen, the department sends a complete description to all law enforcement officers in the state and through the use of "flasher files" new licensees cannot be obtained for the car until the department is notified officially that the car has been returned to its rightful owner. The number of cars stolen annually in Michigan is decreasing steadily. In 1928, a total of 5,887 were stolen while last year but 2,193 were stolen.

BY TELEPHONE

"When we can reach them," says an official of Graham-Paige Motors Corporation, "we call our people back to work by telephone. When they have no telephones, we must fall back on post cards. The telephone gets immediate action; the post cards mean a delay of at least a day."

Other things being equal, applicants or former employees within easy reach by telephone usually are called first when workers are needed.

Grade Building News

Kindergarten
The Kindergarten tells your correspondent that they are very proud to be allowed to lead the grade-building parade. They are studying in their bird booklets. There has been a great many absent of late.

First Grade
The first grade is making some very beautiful May baskets. I wish that you could see them. Richard Bahmiller took some snails to school and showed them to the first graders. The first graders have gathered some flowers to show us that spring is really here and not around the corner. There is a new student in the first grade. Her name is Frances Hinkle and she hails from Chesterfield, Ohio.

Second Grade
The second grade are studying about tropical fish. They have some loach eggs and a small live loach. They also have some crawfish and silk worms.

Fourth Grade
The third and fourth grades had a contest in Arithmetic and both teams tied. For the next two weeks the regular program will not be followed. The time will be used in remedial work.

The Maypole frolic is to be given in the kindergarten on Friday.

A Hang-over from the Freshmen Issue

Someone once said "No country is complete unless there are at least five persons who think they are second Napoleons." But just look what our country would have if our Freshmen ambitions were ever realized. We would have in:

Donald Wallace—Another Sherlock Holmes, just as good as the original.

Florence Helm—A budding Michael Angelo.

Vincent Ives—A forest ranger of great renown.

Helen Helm—A person who would be greatly improved in talking in banking terms to a would-be bank president (???)

Dudley Foster—An authority on matters of archaeology.

Alton Koenigster—A scientific agriculturalist whom we hope by that time would have discovered a way to increase his own size along with seedless watermelons, etc.

Della Eichelbach—Just another nightingale but this time Florence.

Margaret Williams—A person trying to prove to others that Math is not as hard as it looks (we hope she begins among her own kind, namely other Freshmen).

Jean Dancer—A wonderful cook to take the place of Jessie Marie De Bath in giving lessons at the Masonic temple in Detroit. We've heard that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach." Here's your chance, boys.

Floyd Welch—A person whose ambition is like most children—a smart policeman.

Anna Freysinger—A female Admiral Perry (Oh, these women!).

Dorothy Beach—An instructor of Social Studies in a large high school.

Olen Hart—A second Ben Bernie, Cab Calloway or any other good orchestra leader.

—Emily Jane Belsler.

—Jean Dancer.

Hurrah! Another Junior-Senior Reception

It is coming! The greatest event of the school year, next to the Senior Carnival.

The Juniors are giving a reception in honor of the Seniors, June 2, 1933. Your correspondent hears that they have a good orchestra all lined up. In fact, I hear that it is the "Stevens", one of the most popular orchestras in Ann Arbor. They are a red-hot colored band.

The dance starts at nine o'clock. How many tickets for you? Alumni and guests are invited to the dance.

An Evening With Emily Dickinson

Today many pensive readers find joy in the poems of Miss Dickinson, yet during her lifetime, spent in a New England village, only one of her poems was published. Like many another, she passed away before her genius was discovered. Living almost a hermits life, with few intimate friends, she still continued to see earth's beauty through rose-tinted glasses. Moreover, to her was given as to few, the gift of pungent expression. And so I spent a pleasant evening with the verses of Emily Dickinson.

The steadfastness of a rare friendship that is all too rarely seen—here is the way Miss Dickinson expresses

"After? When the hills do falter? When the sun Question if his glory Be the perfect one."

"Surfeit? When the daffodil Doth of the dew; Even as herself, O Friend! I will of you!"

Sometimes, some of us wonder if pomp and ceremony and ritual in religion are quite as genuine as nature's endless song of life. Ponder on these lines:

"Some keep the Sabbath going to church; I keep it staying at home, With a Bobolink for a chorister, And an orchard for a dome."

"Some keep the Sabbath in surprise; I just wear my wings, And instead of tolling the bell for church, Our little sexton sings."

"God preaches, a noted clergyman, And the sermon is never long; So instead of going to heaven at last, I'm going all along."

Those of us who prepare must stand in the never dying spotlight of public office are won't wish that we might occasionally say with Miss Dickinson:

"I'm nobody! Who are you? As you nobody too?"

Then there's a pair of us, don't fault! They'd banish us, you know."

"How dreary to be somebody! How public, like a frog To tell your name the livelong day To an admiring bog!"

When you are one of a crowd, how often have you thought these next lines and how seldom have you admitted it, even to yourself?

"The show is not the show, But they that go, Menagerie to me My neighbor be. Fair play to see."

If ever, as a child, you've made your way unseen into a closely guarded watermelon patch, you'll appreciate this little four-line stanza:

"Forbidden fruit a flavor has— The lawful orchard mocks; How luscious lies the pea within The pod that duty locks."

—Pye.

Senior Carnival!

The Senior Carnival is coming May 12. From what we hear the "Carnival" is going to be bigger and better than ever. Since there was no carnival last year, we hope you have been saving your pennies for this one. The money from the carnival goes to the Senior Trip club.

If you want to see the Seniors go to Chicago, come and give them a few cents worth of push.

We hear that there is to be a big parade and that the kindergarten band is going to lead the grade building parade in their new band suits.

It has also been noised about that three famous and notorious gentlemen, Hepus, Pocus and Jocus, are going to furnish us with some free ceter.

TECUMSEH—A beautiful but unusual ticket, observed by residents within several miles of Macon, Sunday evening, proved to be caused by the burning out of fuses in the Edison Company's electrical sub-station in Macon, which had been struck by a bolt of lightning during the electrical storm. Several individual transformers were put out of commission.

SOUTH LYON—Thieves entered the office building of the Michigan Seamless Tube Company here Monday night, stealing about eight hundred dollars worth of office equipment. Among the articles taken were a motor car calculator, Burroughs adding machine, set of drawing tools, two electric clocks and a set of book ends.

Officials of the state department are receiving daily denials from Japanese officials that they are invading Manchuria. They would look convincing except for the postmark.

Praise those farsighted American statesmen who refuse to construct mere fortresses in the face of recent development of that deadly weapon, the saxophone.

On our recent fishing trip, we were pleased to note that our Legislature was busily engaged in deciding the respective parties' places on the ballot. Such important legislation should certainly be passed whether banking legislation is or not.

A noted psychologist recently stated that women actually do talk more than men. Maybe that is why the men are so brilliant.

We wonder if it was an oversight on the part of our statesmen that governmental costs are not mentioned as being inflated?

The Junior Trip To Lansing

It was suggested to the Junior class that they too, spend a day in Lansing, as the Seniors did, the preceding week. The suggestion was accepted and arrangements were made for the transportation.

On Thursday morning, all were seen with their bib and tucker, ready to go. At eight-thirty o'clock in the morning, the class set out on their journey. When they reached Lansing, all assembled in the entrance of the capitol building, and from there, the custodian, Mr. Lyons, led the way.

First, the class was taken to the dome of the building. There, they were able to see to the first floor. Outside the dome, they were able to see the greater part of the city. From here, Mr. Lyons led the way to the executive office and through the private office of the Governor. Unfortunately, the Governor was not in, so his private secretary had to serve his welcome for him. They also saw the Law Library, which was said to be the most complete of its kind. The custodian then showed the class the chambers of the Senate and House of Representatives. Also, he told interesting points about the rooms themselves, or about the pictures in the rooms, or men, who had taken part in some action that had been done there. From here, the group went to the basement of the capitol, where there was an exhibition of relics. Among these was a drum representing Chelsea.

Leaving the capitol, the class went to the Administration building. Here, they saw the State Library and Museum. By this time, it had reached the noon hour. Therefore all adjourned.

All returned to the front of the capitol at one o'clock, and had pictures taken of the group, on the capitol steps.

At two o'clock the class went to the Senate chamber, to see the Senate in session. Senator Moore, of Oakland and Washtenaw counties, introduced them as a group, to the Senate. After seeing the Senate and the House of Representatives in session, the class adjourned. Every Junior thought the day well spent.

self that she must get hold of her emotions and be guided by reason. Out here, twenty miles from the nearest habitation, there could be no cause for this feeling of apprehension which was rising.

But even as she argued so, tears welled into her eyes as she fought against the weight which tugged at her heart.

Sleepless nights were in her immediate past; harried days had taken their toll. This afternoon she had walked a dozen miles through soft going and her body was weary.

She dropped her chess to the blankets for just a moment; if Wolf did not come soon she would undress, bolt the door, sit the stove with wood, and prepare to spend the night alone.

And sleep came as Gorbel, two hours away from that lonely cabin, cursed at the thinning of the snow, at the faintly blurred stars which began to appear in what had been a void above him.

Ellen woke with a start. The room was cold; her body stiff, but it was not the chill nor the aching of her muscles which startled her from deep sleep.

Not there. . . . Rather the careful slow creaking of a door hinge.

Wolf returning? That was the first possibility which presented itself to her clearing consciousness, but immediately she reasoned that a man does not enter his own home with stealth and caution.

A man was there, outside. She could see his fingers clamping the door's edge, could make out a segment of his face, probably watching her.

"Who is it?" she cried sharply, sitting up and swinging her feet to the floor. "What do you want?"

"The door moved and Paul Gorbel half reeled into the room.

"It's I, Ellen. And what do I want?—with something of a sneer, something of bravado. . . . "What do I want?"—weakling quickly, oddly.

"I came for you . . . for you! That's what!"

Over an hour ago he had come to a halt at the crest of the burned ridge which swept downward to the swamp where Wolf had built his cabin, the first objective in his flight. He had stopped with a gasp. Two rectangles of light showed down there, windows in a building, a structure which he had counted on being unoccupied.

He was without food, without more than a pocket-knife as a device for procuring food and warmth, because he had dropped his pistol back there in the office after his finger had pulled the trigger and drove him away from men and food and shelter.

A man cannot endure the wilderness in winter without food or the means of procuring food. He must have an ax and blankets; he should have utensils to make the food he could take palatable.

His knees shook and his breath came and went in light moans. Wolf Richards there . . . back home . . . a man who was impossible of approach, even had a traveler been free to approach any human being!

MOTHER'S DAY PROGRAM AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

A special Mother's Day program will be presented at the Methodist church, Sunday evening, commencing at 7:30. The program will be of a very interesting nature and built around the memories of childhood, home and mother. There will also be tributes to mothers on earth and to mothers in heaven. The old hymns that mother loved so well will be sung. The organ will play those old time melodies, stringed instruments will entertain you; solos, poems, readings expressing the sentiment of Mother's Day will be heard.

This will be a worthwhile service, one long to be remembered—do not miss it. Honor mother by your presence.

Mother's Day Special Program:
Whether your mother is still with you or has gone to her eternal rest, you owe her a debt of gratitude that you can never finish paying.

Mother's Day is set aside as the one day of the year when all right-thinking men and women let their thoughts dwell upon the undying devotion their mothers gave and the innumerable sacrifices they made for them.

They thank God, everyone of them, that He gave them a good mother and they find that the best place to show their appreciation is at church—where she would want them to be on this Sunday.

Remember your mother, especially if you can, wear a carnation for her—and attend the church of your choice and thank God for the noble woman He gave to be your mother.

We shall have special services appropriate for Mother's Day, morning and evening, at the Methodist church. Won't you come for her sake?
