gave relief legislation has taken much of the time of the legislature. So complicated and so interwoven in the financial affairs of the state are the mortgages that the legislature has approached the subject with the greatest of hesitation. Meanwhile, the story of suffering and losses goes on, the strong battling out their problems, others giving up in despair. Possibly the death of no other man has created so much talk around Lansing as the suicide of former Senator Norman B. Horton of Lenawee county two weeks ago. The story of his death is written on mortgage papers to the funeral home—Lansing learned that the night before his passing he had been served with a foreclosure notice on his beautiful farm.

Michigan is going to have no difficulty in finding homes for the 270 children now housed in the State Public School at Coldwater that is soon to be closed. Over 700 applications for adoption of the children are on file with the welfare department. The state acting upon the recommendation of the board of control of this institution believes that the children can receive as good care and at less cost to the state by putting them in private homes than by trying to maintain a big institution.

Action of the senate in increasing a number of appropriation bills that they had cut, Representative Vernon J. Brown and a few other members of the house have made it pretty clear that they do not like the action that has been taken by the upper branch of the state legislature. Mr. Brown as well as Representative Hartman spent weeks and weeks in studying the present-day needs of the various institutions and departments. They cut the costs of these institutions to a point where they thought they could operate efficiently. When these appropriation bills got into the senate, department and institution heads got busy and influenced some members of the senate to add many thousands of dollars to the various appropriation acts. Something like $250,000 has been added by the senate. Mr. Brown figures that it is a quarter of a million dollars that could easily have been saved for the taxpayers and that no good will come out of the appropriation except to those that will get the money.

There will be something like 450 or 500 bills that will be in committee when the session comes to an end. Even though a very large per cent of the legislature is composed of new members they have learned how to have bills prepared and introduced. Many of them are silly and disgusting. Many have been introduced to satisfy some little group of constituents or some one "leading" politician of the home town district. Michigan can be thankful that many of these bills never get beyond committees.

Many Will Tour To Century of Progress

Washtenaw county folks are now sending in their reservations for the Century of Progress tour to Chicago June 20, 21 and 22, announces H. S. Osler, county agricultural agent, who is in charge of local arrangements. The train carrying the party will leave Detroit at 7:30 a. m., Eastern Standard time, and arrive at Chicago at 2:00 p. m. The party will be personally escorted while in Chicago except during the time on the fair grounds. A sight-seeing trip of Chicago will be included in the tour as well as a visit to one of the large packing plants.

Reservations will be made for overnight lodging in one of the large Chicago hotels—adjacent to the fair grounds and loop district. The Century of Progress will be the real objective of the tour. Members of the party will be allowed to visit the features in which they are most interested.

Railroad fare, bus transportation and hotel accommodations are included in the expense of the tour. This three-day trip, exclusive of meals in Chicago, will cost $10.50. Meals in Chicago should not cost over $3.00, making the total of $13.50 for the entire trip.

Macomb, Oakland and Wayne county extension offices are cooperating with the Washtenaw extension office in promoting this tour.

Mr. Osler requests that those planning to make this trip should get in touch with him immediately in order to be assured of accommodations in Chicago. All those getting in their reservations by June 5 will be definitely taken care of. A deposit of $2.00 should accompany the reservation, and the balance paid by June 15. Tickets will be redeemed if sickness, or other good cause prevents any one from going.

Further information may be obtained through the agricultural extension office, basement of court house, Ann Arbor. Telephone number is 21312.

HOWELL—Some time ago Hugh Finley, administrator of the estate of Henry D. Finley, recent sheriff of Livingston county, brought suit against Walter Wendt in a Detroit circuit court for $50,000.00 damages in connection with the automobile accident that resulted in the death of Mr. Finley. On Monday, just before the hearing of the attorneys in the case an agreement was reached out of court for $5,000.00 in favor of Hugh Finley.

Every Fisherman Must Get General Rod License

Lansing—The Michigan State Legislature has given immediate effect to the General Rod License law. This action, coming after the signing of the law by the governor, was based upon the opinion of the attorney general.

Previously, the Department of Conservation had been instructed to apply the new license fee of fifty cents only to trout fishermen during the 1933 season. However, under the present ruling every resident of the state over 18 years of age must possess a license to fish for any species in the inland waters.

However, according to Director George R. Hogarth, it will take several days to get the license forms in the hands of the Department's 1,800 dealers and it will be some time before the new requirements will become generally known.

The opening of the general fishing season June 25th has been set as the tentative date when strict enforcement of the general rod license provisions will go into effect.

"The Department intends to be as considerate as possible," Director Hogarth said today, "but we expect that everyone will have purchased his or her license before the fishing season opens in earnest June 25th. We consider this policy only fair since in spite of much publicity it will take several weeks to have the new provisions of this law generally familiar to the hundreds of thousands of fishermen in this state."

Under the general rod license law now in effect all residents of the state over 18 years of age are required to buy a license costing 50c and good for the calendar year, to fish in the inland waters for any species in the manner and seasons provided by law. However, the wife of a resident licensee will be issued a permit entitling her to fish without additional charge.

All trout licenses purchased this year may also be used as a general fishing license, and holders of these licenses do not need to obtain any additional permit to fish for any species during the year 1933.

The owners, lessees or occupants of any enclosed land or any member of their family actually living there may fish without a license from waters wholly within the limits of the land at any time during the open seasons.

All non-residents are now being charged the new rate for fishing in Michigan's inland waters. No license is necessary for either residents or non-residents for fishing in Great Lakes waters adjoining this state.

A non-resident is classed as anyone who has not resided in the state for six consecutive months immediately preceding his application for a fishing license.

The fee for a non-resident annual fishing license is $2 but the wife of such a license holder may obtain a similar license for 50c by exhibiting her husband's unexpired license. Non-residents under the new law may obtain a temporary fishing license good for ten days from date of issue for $1 and wives of such licensees may obtain a similar license for 50c. Non-resident licensees will be permitted to take or ship out of the state one day's legal catch of fish.

Charles Stewart of Clinton called on his aunt, Mrs. Ellora Koebe. He was accompanied by Miss Helen McChure of the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gill and Donald Gill of Detroit visited with friends in the home.

Mrs. William J. Clarke and Emory Chapin of Detroit were callers Tuesday.

"OUR JIM"

(A World War Reminiscence)

Say Ma, do you remember the date of that last letter from Jim? It seems to me that it's almost time we got another from him.

I just came home from the station. Where the news on the wire went through. And the agent gave me a peculiar glance.

That kind of made me feel blue.

O yes, Jim said, I remember. Not to think of him dead in advance.

But the next time we heard, most likely 't would be mailed from "somewhere in France."

We found it hard to give up on a boy. But harder still to say "No." So when the day came to enlist the men, we concluded to let him go.

"Twas easy to pay for Liberty bonds, Red Cross, and Y. M. C. A. But when it came to giving our boy, 'Twas another thing to say.

It's alright to live on potatoes, brown bread and sugarless tea. But when we shook hands and bade Jim good-bye, it pretty nigh killed me and me.

O, I'm not afraid that he'll falter, Nor fall in the place he's put in. And when the time comes to be tested They'll find they can bank on our Jim.

We know he'll make good in the trenches, Or behind a fast-firing gun; Tho' perhaps they may make him a prisoner, They never will make him run.

Ma an' I, every night get the Bible, The old family Bible as dear; There a record was made of a baby's birth, That we've kept for many a year.

Tho' he never was raised for a soldier, Tho' lowly and humble his birth; He was taught the Angel's message Of "Peace and Good Will" on the earth.

'Twas for this he entered the service. For this we'll contend 'til we win. May the God of Justice and Mercy, 'Look down, bless our boys, and 'Our Jim.

—Arthur Carlton, M. E. Home.

Photographer Answers

TO THE EDITOR AND CITIZENS OF CHELSEA:

I desire that the people of Chelsea and vicinity should know that I appreciate the loyal patronage given me over a period of years, and ask them to consider the contents of this article which I have prepared for their consideration.

In the May 18th edition of The Chelsea Standard, the superintendent of the Chelsea school used considerable space in an attempt to explain the innocence of the superintendent, the senior sponsor, and the school board for their failure to protect the business of the local photographer against outside competition.

I consider this article plainly inconsistent, in that it claimed in part that the board had protected local business, and then proceeded with a series of excuses to try and explain why it could not protect the local photographer.

All the explaining and offering of excuses does not alter the facts that the board, the superintendent, Mr. Poore, and the class sponsor, all had full knowledge that: 1st—the local photographer is a tax payer in this community, and contributes to the support of the school; 2nd—that the local photographer's work has been very satisfactory, and that he has for years taken the Seniors' photographs, and the faculty and the school work.

And that if they protect other local business in town against outside competition, and then proceed to offer excuses, disclaiming this power, all at once, to protect a certain business, they are admitting pure discrimination in their policy; 4th—that the board and Mr. Poore are surely aware that they are at least responsible for having the group photos taken out of town. The blame for that surely cannot be placed upon the Seniors, by group photos; I mean the pictures of plays, athletics, clubs and grade groups.

The local photographer is fully aware that the individual Seniors have a perfect right to go where they please for their individual photos as claimed by Mr. Poore. Is it not also true that Mr. Poore as superintendent, and the Senior Class sponsor, are supposed to advise the Seniors where they should have their pictures taken for the annual, as well as other matters that are called into requisition concerning graduation?

If this advice had been properly given under proper circumstances, is it not reasonable to believe that the Seniors would have, with few exceptions, responded to their guidance, as has been the case in previous years? Had I not been thoroughly competent to handle this work, well, that would be a cut of another color.

Mr. Poore in his attempted explanation places the blame upon the Seniors, and upon some private correspondence I had with Mr. Camp of Ypsilanti which fell into the hands of the Seniors, as he puts it. Accidents will happen, but I believe either Mr. Camp gave the correspondence to the Seniors to influence them, which was the height of unethical conduct, and sufficient grounds to dismiss him, but on the contrary, Mr. Poore admits that the correspondence was allowed to be taken before the class, which of course could be intended for no other purpose than to exercise adverse influence.

Mr. Poore further states that he took this correspondence I had with Mr. Camp before the board, and a majority of said board claimed inability to protect home business which they boasted of at an earlier date, even to the extent of forbidding bake sales, as Mr. Poore states in his article.

I ask if a majority of the board and the superintendent had power to prohibit bake sales which any thinking citizen knows is entirely outside their power, since they could be staged outside the time, control and jurisdiction of the school. Why do they lose their power upon it, is a question of protecting the local business of photography which has constantly served the school and loyally supported its activities?

It is true I wrote Mr. Camp a strong letter (in an attempt to protect my own business) when I learned, after consulting board members, that a pure case of discrimination was being staged against my business. This correspondence between Mr. Camp and myself was strictly a private affair and should not have been brought into the controversy. On the contrary it was used as a smoke screen, as I see it, or something to hide behind.

Mr. Poore, I believe, has previously stated there is a code of ethics among teachers. I should like to inform him that there is supposed to be a code of ethics among photographers—that one photographer trespassing on another's territory, is considered very unethical.

I am fearful that this correspondence did not fall into the hands of the Seniors quite so accidently as Mr. Poore contends.

My guess is that Mr. Camp's unethical conduct prompted him to turn the letter over to Mr. Poore who passed it on, or perhaps a suggestion from Mr. Poore to Mr. Camp may have caused it to fall accidentally into the hands of some Seniors. At least human beings passed the letter around, and I judge from Mr. Poore's statements that his accidental theory pretty much falls through.

I understand Mr. Poore claims to have the school teach citizenship. If the handling of this affair by the school authorities is a sample of a lesson in citizenship, to teach community co-operation, fair treatment, and right ethical conduct, young America has not been subjected to a very elevating example. May I suggest as a mere layman, using ordinary common sense, that the best citizenship is taught by setting right examples by adults.

My reason for answering this article of Mr. Poore's, which I consider a sham explanation, is that I am thoroughly convinced that a clear case of discrimination has been set against me by a majority of the board and the superintendent.

This was done in face of the facts that I have rendered efficient service to the school and community. It sure was not quality or price that was taken into consideration, as I offered to compete with any price submitted, and did offer a lower price than my competitor. In short I consider this the rawest deal I have ever experienced in my 30 years as a professional photographer.

I desire only fair treatment, and feel I am entitled to the patronage of the school that I pay taxes to help to support.

I have no ill feeling for the Seniors and thank those who stood loyally by me. I also thank the Catholic Seniors and faculty, who supported me one hundred per cent.

Kindly bear with me in any mistakes made in spelling or punctuation, as I do not pretend to be a teacher, or lawyer, only the local photographer.

Very truly,
J. D. McMANUS.

Make It a Habit To Meet Your Business Friends Here

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 22, 1933

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not now; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users.

We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer—it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Will you please be kind enough to answer in your question column if Abraham Lincoln was older than Robert E. Lee, the commander of the Southern Confederate Army?

Ans.—No. Abraham Lincoln was two years younger than Robert E. Lee. To be exact, Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809, while Lee was born Jan. 19, 1807.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please answer when and where the first telegraph line was put into operation in the United States?

Ans.—The first telegraph line in the United States was opened between New York and Philadelphia on Jan. 20, 1846.

Ques.—Can you tell me the easiest way to get rid of a young man I have been going with for some time?

Ans.—Well, you might try marrying him. That works—sometimes.

Ques.—I would like to know why "Canary" birds are so named. Can you tell me?

Ans.—Canary birds were so named because they were first found on the Canary Islands.

Ques.—Can you tell me in your question column if there is any instance in which the term "ain't" is properly used? This is to settle a dispute.

Ans.—This is a colloquialism, born in an atmosphere of ignorance, and it is never proper to say or write "ain't."

Ques.—I am writing to ask you, what is "humidity"?

Ans.—Humidity is simply moisture or water vapor in the air.

Ques.—You say you will try to answer all questions, so I would like to ask you to tell me on what day of the week I was born? The date was June 3, 1877.

Ans.—You were born on Sunday—that being the day of the week on which June 3, 1877, fell.

Ques.—Are all the wonderful things said about people in some obituaries true or are they hypocritical?

Ans.—We hope they are true. Otherwise, the poor deceased might have a hard job living up to his obituary after he enters the Golden Gates.

Ques.—What is a foreigner and what is nationality? Do they mean the same?

Ans.—It is obvious they do not mean the same. An American citizen is not a foreigner, and yet he has nationality—American. Technically he may be a full-blooded German.

Ques.—I wish to ask in your question and answers what matches are made of?

Ans.—Matches are made of sulphur, phosphorus, paper and wood.

Facial Deformities

The binding of girls feet by the Chinese and the fastening of a board against the infant's head to flatten the back of the skull by the Phtineans are good examples of what can be done by external pressure on developing bodies. Dr. L. B. Hiley described in Hygeia Magazine how facial deformities and irregularities of the teeth result from constant repetition of a bad practice.

Three years later he went overseas with the United States Signal Corps. He returned to telephone work in Boston, in 1919, and transferred in October of that year to the Michigan Bell Company, of which he is the general traffic engineer.

Colonel Stannard is active in the affairs of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other patriotic work. He was a committee chairman during the 1931 national Legion Convention in Detroit, and during 1932 was state chairman of the Legion's unemployment committee. He also was chairman of the Michigan committee for the state-wide observance of Army Day this year. He is a member of the Council of National Defense of the Detroit Board of Commerce.

MASON—Services were held at the Jewett-Vogt funeral home Monday afternoon for Miss Winnie Titus, 65, who died last Friday morning after an illness of several weeks. Classes at the school were dismissed to the teachers and pupils could pay respect to the memory of the teacher who had been connected with the Mason school longer than any other person. For 36 years Miss Titus had taught classes here. She taught nine years before coming to Mason. County News.

Spends Winters on Open Sea
The Kittiwake, a beautiful white and blue bird, is the only bird that spends its winters on the open sea. It is found in the North Atlantic, although one of the most gentle and fragile of creatures, spends its winters on the open sea, buffeted by the roughest gales and exposed to the full force of the savage Atlantic weather.

Her Vigil by A. J. Dunlop

The March sun had tried all in vain
To pierce the spring clouds dull and grey
And snowflakes half melted had fallen
With half-frozen raindrops all day.
The grape of the cobwebs festooned
The dust-covered lintel and pane,
While up in the gables the wind
Was sobbing a springtime refrain.

She sat all alone with the cobwebs
Alone in the dreary old pile,
With no one to cheer her at all
With kind word or warm friendly smile.
Deserted by those she had mothered,
She sat as the cold winds swept by
And brooded alone in her sorrow
Nor uttered a sob nor a sigh.

Just well that she sat in the gloaming
In March as the cold winds swept by;
Just well that she patiently brooded
And paused not to sob nor to sigh.
For if she had left her brooding
What would we have done in July,
When summer arrived and we wanted
An April-hatched chicken to fry?

With Pork Added
More beans are being included each year in the national American diet.

Not for Him
A man who runs a game of chance doesn't mean that it shall be.

Duty of Teachers
Teachers should teach their students above all, how to open the windows of their minds, so that when they leave school or college they are ready to learn from life.

Epworth League
The Epworth League is held to be the world's largest denominational young people's society. Its name is taken from the Lincolnshire birthplace of John Wesley.

Michigan Department of State WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich.—A compilation, just completed by the Department of State, shows that 850,546 persons voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment at the April election while but 287,931 voted against repeal.

As the election was by representative districts, the vote was not canvassed officially by the state but the tabulation was made upon information received from the various county clerks.

But one county out of 88 showed a majority in favor of retention of the Eighteenth Amendment. This was Barry county where 3,649 voted against repeal while 3,414 voted in favor of repeal. In nearly all of the remaining counties, the vote was three or four to one in favor of repeal.

The state-wide result in April shows a larger proportion favoring repeal of the national prohibition amendment than did the November vote when 1,022,508 voted for repeal of the state constitutional prohibition amendment while 475,285 voted against state repeal.

There will be no changes made in the malt tax law during the present session of the legislature.

The state constitution prevents the legislature from passing more than one measure on any subject during any one session and the governor recently vetoed a bill making several changes in the present law. One of the reasons for the governor's veto was the fact that the bill as presented to him, would have reduced the tax and thus encouraged the illegal use of malt products.

The Corporation Division of the Department of State recently had the "busiest" day in its history. During the day articles of incorporation were approved for 22 profit corporations and six non-profit corporations.

Treatment of Acne

Policeman Plays Parson

When the vicar of Edgware, England, fell a victim of the flu and was unable to conduct services in his church, a police sergeant volunteered to act for him. Not only did he conduct the services as if he were thoroughly accustomed to the task, says the Montreal Star, but he gave an eloquent sermon. Many of the congregation thought he was a visiting parson.

Acne is an infection of the skin, usually affecting the face and back. It is often due to infection with the germs known as "staphylococcus" and "streptococcus." Infected tonsils may be a contributing cause for the condition. The treatment for acne should be carried out under the direction of the physician. It includes the use of antiseptic solutions or salves, regulation of the diet, and sometimes X-ray and ultra-violet ray treatments.

"Good Paint Costs Nothing"

because it saves more than it costs

THAT'S what the thrifty Dutch discovered about paint a long time ago. A few dollars invested in good paint will earn hundreds for you by saving costly repairs, replacements and rapid depreciation. Notice that the Dutch say "Good Paint." There's no economy in cheap paint used on any surface.

PAINTS

are good paints. For over 60 years they have been proving that fact to thousands of users. Pure linseed oil, made only from Northwestern flax, is used exclusively in the manufacture of Minnesota Paints. Linseed oil has been the standard by which paint is judged since the 12th century. A substitute for it has never been found. Northwest flax makes the finest grade of linseed oil obtainable for making paint or varnish.
