Legion Band To Give Concert Next Week

Due to the generosity of Chelsea business men, people of this vicinity will have the opportunity of enjoying a series of band concerts to be given by the American Legion Junior Band, formerly the Chelsea High School Band.

Under the direction of Wesley Smith, the first concert will be presented next Wednesday evening, July 26, starting promptly at 8 o'clock. Present plans call for a series of five concerts, to be played every two weeks.

The program for next Wednesday will be as follows:

- Golden Days March—Wells.
In-Line-of-March—Wells.
Mignanna Overture—Baumann.
Scoutmaster March—Jewell.
Mister Joe, two-step—Bennett.
Chama-Waitz—Bennett.
Stop, Fox Trot Novelty—Bennett.
Lead On March—Wells.
Winning Colors—Wells.
Star Spangled Banner—Keyes.

A large crowd attended the first band concert of the season last Wednesday evening when the Waterloo Band, under the direction of E. J. Notten presented a varied musical program in Chelsea.

Art Collins Injured While On Duty at M.C.

A. K. Collins, third truck operator at the local office of the Western Union, is confined to his home on West Middle St. with injuries received while on duty last Friday morning.

Collins had gone out about 2:30 to deliver a message to the conductor on the way car of a west bound freight traveling about 50 miles per hour.

While standing between the tracks waiting for the train to pass, he was struck by two 18 foot galvanized pipes, projecting from a freight car, and thrown about 15 ft. to the east bound track, striking on his head. (Art says if it had not been of good basswood, it would surely have been split).

His right hip was badly bruised, two bones in his right hand were broken and he received a cut in the back of his head.

Fortunately, Mr. Collins was able to get away from the track, as an east bound train arrived in less than five minutes. He managed to deliver the messages to both trains and to call W. C. Smith before walking to the doctor's office.

ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Cradle Roll and Beginners classes of St. Paul's Sunday school will be held Tuesday afternoon, July 25, from 2:30 to 4:30 at the school house in the rear of the church. Bring as many pennies as you are years old for the fish pond and other attractions. Following are the committees in charge:

Menu—Mrs. A. Schairer, Mrs. William Beach, Jr., Mrs. Julius Kisele.
Entertainment—Miss Lillie Wackenhut, Mrs. J. N. Stricker.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mrs. Edward Gentner entertained at dinner on Sunday in honor of the birthdays of her grandsons, James Gaken and Roland Gentner. Two birthday cakes, prettily decorated in pink and white, formed the table decorations. The guests were Mrs. Louise Young, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gentner and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ruku and son and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gentner.

CHILD FALLS FROM CAR

Shirley Anne O'Hara, two and a half years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Hara, had the misfortune to fall from the automobile when the door came open, while the family was driving on Jackson Ave. in Ann Arbor on Tuesday evening. The little girl fell on her face and was badly bruised but no bones were broken.

Council to Dispose of Street Projects at Monday Meeting

As the result of several weeks' consideration in the matter of hard surfacing a number of Chelsea streets, members of the common council believe that some definite action will be taken at an adjourned meeting which is set for next Monday evening.

Due to the absence of Village President J. E. McKune at the regular meeting Monday evening, due to his continued illness, it was voted to adjourn the meeting until next Monday when it is expected Mr. McKune will be able to attend and take part in the discussion and decision which is expected to come from that session.

While it is planned to surface only the streets which are curbed, several petitions for curbing have been presented the council and it is planned to curb some of the principal streets in order to conform with the requirements relative to hard surfacing. Additional petitions asking for the black top surfacing have also been presented the council during the past few weeks.

According to present plans the council plans to spend between $4,000 and $5,000 on this project, which, at the rate which has been quoted in bids already received will hard surface considerably more than a mile of streets. Under the provisions of the federal public works program, it is expected that 80 per cent of the money spent by the village will be paid by the government when the work is completed.

Chelsea is also slated for a $30,000 sewage disposal plant under the public works program, being listed as one of the towns in Michigan operating contrary to state requirements for sewage disposal. Decision in this matter will come at a later date. 30 per cent of this amount would also be paid by the federal government.

Wm. G. Kolb Elected Legion Commander

Herbert J. McKune, No. 31, American Legion, held their annual meeting last Thursday evening, when officers were elected as follows:

Commander—William G. Kolb.
Vice Commander—Clarence O. Rahnmler.

Adjutant—Floyd Rowe.

Finance Officer—Ransom Arne-son.

Historian—Edward Miller.

Chaplain—Chester Miller.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Elmer Schiller.

W. G. Kolb was chosen as delegate to the state convention at Grand Rapids, with Floyd Rowe as alternate.

CARLSON-BUEHLER WEDDING

Marriage vows were spoken by Miss Ethel Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carlson of International Falls, Minn., and Lero Buehler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Buehler of Lyndon, at a ceremony performed at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, July 12, at the parsonage of the Mission church, International Falls, with Rev. H. Gravem officiating.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crossdale, the latter a sister of the bride. The bride was attired in a gown of French blue chiffon with a diagonal satin stripe and carried a bouquet of blue delphiniums and baby breath. Following the wedding a dinner was given at the Carlson home, with covers laid for 12 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Buehler will visit in International Falls until August 1, when they will return to Chelsea to make their home.

The bride was honor guest at a shower given Tuesday evening at the Carlson residence. The home was beautifully decorated in a pink and white color scheme, with flowers of matching tints. Four tables of bridge were in play, with score honors going to Miss Esther McIntyre, Mrs. C. Pederson and Mrs. Marie Carlson.

FRED WOLFF

Fred Wolff, life-long resident of this vicinity, died Tuesday evening, July 18, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Archie Coe in Grass Lake. He was born August 23, 1858 in Sylvan township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Wolff, and was married November 18, 1880 to Miss Bertha Schneckenberg, who died in September, 1918. For several years they resided in Chelsea.

Mr. Wolff is survived by two sons, Theodore of Ann Arbor and Irvin of Battle Creek; three daughters, Mrs. John Steinbach of Lima township, Mrs. A. Coe of Grass Lake and Mrs. William Criger of Pontiac; a sister, Mrs. Carrie Paul of Battle Creek; a brother, William Wolff of Chelsea; 16 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Coe, Grass Lake. Rev. Fred Matthews will officiate and burial will be in Salom cemetery, North Francisco.

Many Reunions Held During Past Week

The Koengeter families gathered Sunday at Pleasant Lake for their annual reunion, with 50 members attending, from Lansing, Ann Arbor, Chelsea and vicinity.

A pot luck dinner at one o'clock was followed by election of officers. Edwin Koengeter was chosen president; Norman Buss, vice president; Waldemore Buss, secretary, and Leuben Lesser, treasurer.

Mrs. Reuben Lesser, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Koengeter and Mrs. Ida Schoettle, will constitute the refreshment committee, while Mrs. Norman Buss is chairman of the entertainment committee.

A program of sports was then enjoyed, with the following as winners: Bean Bag contests—Dorine Haab and Virginia Lesser.

Button contest—Arlene Koengeter.

Spaghett eating contest—Dale Wacker.

Shoe tying contest—Dale Wacker.

Match box contest, won by the women.

Dish pan contest—Mrs. Walter Wacker.

Advertisement contest—Mrs. Edwin Haab.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Schwartz in Leoni township was the scene of the annual Seitz reunion, held Sunday with about 100 in attendance.

A basket dinner was served, followed by games and sports for everybody. A fishing pond was a special attraction. The oldest member present was Mrs. Charles Hertler and the youngest, Victor Guenther, both of Saline.

Officers were elected as follows:

President—Herman Guenther, Saline.

Secretary—Mrs. Martin Seltz, Ann Arbor.

Treasurer—Emanuel Seltz, Ann Arbor.

Entertainment Com.—Mrs. Norman Guenther, Saline; Mrs. Carl Sweet, Ann Arbor; Mrs. Adolph Seltz, Lima.

The place for the next meeting will be decided by the officers.

Members of School District No. 7, Sylvan, held their annual picnic on Sunday at Seltz's grove, Pleasant Lake, Freedom. About 65 partook of the pot luck dinner at 12:30, after which the following were winners in the games and contests:

Marble tossing contest—Earl Grieb, Marshalltown—John William Steele.

Top Bottle race—Wm. G. Pritchard.

Can Cover race—Stuart Dingle.

Women's Match Box race—Mrs. Damon's side.

Men's Match Box race—Bert Gray.

Shoe Kicking contest—Clady Harrison.

Plate race—Mrs. Geo. Atkinson.

Mrs. Herman Wellhoff.

Shoe Tying contest—Mrs. Joseph Merkel.

Egg race—Joseph Merkel.

A "BIGGER FISH" STORY

Rev. Geo. C. Nothdurft, of Colesburg, Iowa, a former pastor of Salem M. E. church, read the fish story in the Standard last week which told of J. V. Burg's good luck and (just like a preacher) he insists on telling a "bigger" story. Rev. Nothdurft is an ardent fisherman and like all anglers he enjoys catching the big ones and telling about it. His message to the Standard follows:

"The Standard arrived this morning and I read your 'big fish' story on first page, which causes me to write you a 'bigger fish' story. A neighbor and I went fishing in the Mississippi day before yesterday (on Thursday, July 13) and caught six catfish totaling 63 lbs., the biggest one being 38 inches long and weighing just exactly that many (38) lbs. Of course, I don't want you to think that this happens every day—just once in a life time perhaps. I don't want you to even think that we catch them like that every time we go, for it happens quite frequently that we go and catch very little, if any. Because of that, this is the 'big one' that didn't happen to get away. If you don't believe my story I can send you a snapshot of it."

Knowing that you are an honest and truthful gentleman, Reverend, we will take your word for it.

Now let's hear a bigger one!

GILBERT H. GAY

Word was received here on Monday morning, July 17, 1933 of the death of Gilbert H. Gay of Alexandria, Va.

Mr. Gay was a former Chelsea resident and was a clerk in the local postoffice. He was a brother-in-law of Miss Jessie Everett. Funeral services were held at his home on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

FORMER RESIDENT HONORED

Carlton H. Runelman of Lowell was elected president of the National Bean Growers' Council at their meeting in Denver, Colo., on Monday. Mr. Runelman is a former Chelsea resident and is the son of Mrs. James Runelman of this place.

Taxpayers Exploited By Many Lobbyists

PUBLIC PAYS THE BILL FOR ACTIVITIES OF REPRESENTATIVES OF SPECIAL INTERESTS

Railroads, Gamblers, Truck Transport Lines, Small Loan Firms, Brewers and Teachers Have Powerful Lobbies at State Capitol

By V. J. Brown

A great deal has been written and said concerning the activities of lobbyists at Lansing and at all the other state capitals of the good old U. S. A. as well as at the national capital. Most of what has been published has been either grossly exaggerated or highly colored to suit the writer. In this chapter a discussion of what the lobby really consists, what its purposes are and how it works will be attempted. Incidentally this writer will attempt to give his own views concerning the evils of the lobby, its good points if any, and how the taxpayer is milked for the benefit of certain classes and cliques. Also it is extremely interesting to note how each of the scores of lobby interests play into the hands of others and how the taxpayer always pays the shot.

Lobbies may be divided into three distinct classes. First, those maintained by large corporate interests mainly as observers to detect and head off, if possible, and contemplated legislation not in their interests. Second and the class the public hears most about, that group which seeks special privileges for its clients. Brewers on hand to write the beer bill; small loan companies on hand to prevent the repeal of the 42-per-cent interest rate law; gambling interests on hand to gain legal rights to race tracks; betting with dog and horse devotees at odds—these and others of similar character are typical of this number two. Class three is represented by lobbies of eminent respectability like the educational group, the medical group, the social service group, the real estate dealers, property owners associations, and similar agencies which literally swarm about the capitol during legislative sessions.

Railroads Come Back

The railroad interests, for a long time in semi-retirement from the field of active lobbying, came very close to the point of jumping out of class number one over into the second class during the past session. Vested capital in railroad securities was ably aided by the members of the various railroad brotherhoods in a futile attempt to legislate the freight haulers and passenger bureaus off the highways. The activities of the railroad and truck lobbies became notorious before the session was a month old. The small loan lobby has already been aired and not much need be said in addition while the notorious lobbying in connection with dog racing bills is a stench to the nostrils of an honest citizenry.

There are many and devious ways of lobbying. There is the lobbyist, long experienced in legislative affairs, who is perhaps better posted on state affairs than any official in Lansing and who has at his command a staff of experts along many lines by whose efforts reliable information on any subject may be had quickly. These lobbyists would be extremely helpful if their interests were not so extremely selfish. It is by quiet helpfulness to the individual member in aiding him obtain desired information, to secure the passage of some pet measure, or in stopping the progress of some measure contrary to the best interests of the people of that member's district, that the astute lobbyist gets in his best work. Quite as effective but not nearly as respectable is the practice of the clever lobbyist in helping the member to "get his" in return for which a number of such members who have been helped, in kind help the interests to get theirs.

Each state has a lobbyist supreme around whom all the lesser lights play and to whom all go with any information valuable to all. In California this lobbyist supreme is William F. Hoarin, chief attorney for the Southern Pacific railway system. Mr. Hoarin told the whole story in a single sentence when he said recently, "All the interests associated with us are not rich enough to pay all that political cost. It is necessary for us to let the little skates get theirs in order that we may be protected against them and in order that we may get what we want." Cheap grafters, petty office-seekers, the lure of high salaries for nominal tasks, the demand of members for added political patronage, lowbrow attempts to play to minority block back home, the lust for the newspaper spotlight, pet measures introduced by members for local consumption—these and many and varied others make up the list of what is meant by helping the "little skates to get theirs."

Numerous Methods

There are as many ways of lobbying as there are interests lobbying and members to be lobbied. There is the respectable dinner at a fashionable hotel; there is the hotel room where a few cocktails may be sipped in decency; there is the beer party at night and a jolly social evening; there is the ribald liquor debauch which winds up with nude women and head-aches in the morning; there are excursions to Chicago and Detroit over the week end for the edification of the Hon. Henry from the Polk district. There are all kinds and manners of ways in which to intrigue and entice the unwary into support of measures desired and into "nay" votes against what might be desirable for the people but not so good for the interests.

What has been described in the foregoing paragraph is what politics cost the interests in money and in entertainment but what really costs the taxpayers their hard earned dollars is that other angle of this thing called lobbying, which is paid for in terms of rich contract awards, appointment of relatives or political supporters to sinecure jobs, free entertainment at state institutions, and favors to members not obtainable by the average citizen. Scores of useless jobs are thus created, needless expense is involved in necessary functions, contracts are awarded above the figures of the honest bidder, state funds are nipped for private gain—it is an endless process, and a mighty expensive one for the people who pay the bills.

The Lobby "Probe"

Smarting under the stigma placed against the legislature when Johnnie Smith, former mayor of Detroit, termed the 5th assembly a "cash and carry" legislature, Rep. Harold Bellows, Bay county, a first term, proposed a house investigation into charges of lobbying. Ignored entirely when the investigating committee was appointed, Mr. Bellows saw three first-term democrats named to sit with two veteran republicans in an effort to smoke out the truth—or lay a smoke screen over the facts as one may see fit to assume. Lawrence O'Neill, affable Paris farm machinery salesman, was made chairman. Edward Harper, Edmore shipper of butter, eggs, poultry and farm produce; and Charles F. Parker, former Barry county sheriff were the other two democrats named. Ad Dykstra, political editor of a Grand Rapids newspaper and a veteran legislator, with Earl L. Burhans, Paw Paw lawyer, were the minority party representatives on the special investigating committee.

A great deal of time was consumed in listening to evidence submitted by witnesses summoned before the committee. A great deal of newspaper space was devoted to the testimony presented, much of which was pure hearsay and of little value except to build up in the public mind a generally prevalent opinion that something is wrong at Lansing.

Naturally any legislative body made up of a majority of members with no previous legislative experience is more susceptible to outside influences than one otherwise constituted. Certain types of lobby entertaining appeared more popular during the past winter than during any recent session of the Michigan legislature. A larger number of so-called "shake-down" bills were introduced during the past session than during any recent session of the Michigan legislature. Drinking bouts were more frequent than previous sessions have disclosed. The very character of the bills under consideration were of a type differing considerably from bills considered during previous sessions.

There may have been some actual cash which changed hands as the distinguished Detroit statesman hinted. Without doubt there was a considerable amount of legislative "horse trading" indulged in out of which the "little skate got his" while the public paid the costs of politics.

Early in this article reference was made to "lobbies of eminent respectability." This reference should be explained. More than the usual number of medical bills were in the hopper during the past session. The medical, the dentist, the osteopaths, the chiropractors, and a number of kindred boards all took occasion to ask for drastic changes in their respective board acts. Each had a representative almost constantly on the job to promote, to urge, and to cajole in the interests of their claims. These measures have no ulterior motive but the public always pays in the end.

The Educational Lobby

No chapter on lobbying would be complete until the educational lobby is discussed. This lobby is one of the most powerful and far reaching of any at the state capitol. There is a well maintained liaison constantly in operation between the various camps of the teaching profession whenever legislation and appropriations are under consideration. The reason for this is simple. The university and the colleges are constantly seeking to enlarge their curricula and to obtain an outlet for their graduates. It is only by this means that institutions of higher learning expand. The bigger the college or the university the larger the salaries paid the faculty heads. This group is interested in higher standards in all the professions but the best outlet they have for their product is the public school. They more elaborate the public school the greater the outlet for specialized teacher training. The more special courses offered in the public school, the greater demand for teachers. The greater the demand for teachers the more certain it is that college and university classes grow. The more students, the greater the college, and the larger the figures on the paychecks. The taxpayer is caught in this whirlwind of demand and counter-demand until the "house that Jack built" comes to mean no fairy tale.

It is in this amazing maze of "you help me and I'll help you" crass that the Michigan Education association stands out like a sore thumb. On many school house doors will be found a placard indicating that the faculty of that school is 100 per cent professional. Interpreted it simply means that each teacher in that school has paid tribute to an organization of arch-manipulators of public money to promote the interests of the teaching profession. Theoretically this organization stands for the educational welfare of the children. In fact it exists to exist the last possible dollar from the pockets of the taxpayer. If the placard read, "This school is 100 per cent unionized," then the truth would be told.

Nor does this condition exist in Michigan alone. It is found in every state in the union and is held together by what is known as the National Educational association to the annual conventions of which the taxpayer frequently is found paying the expense of superintendent delegates.

Within the past year a survey of public expense items in the Province of British Columbia, Canada, was made by a lay commission composed of delegates representing 22 of the chief and leading civic, business and financial bodies of that province. That the activities of organized professional teaching groups have not been confined to Michigan nor to the United States nor even to this continent is evident from their findings. In their report recently published they in turn quote from the May committee appointed to investigate the costs of education in England, the May committee reporting, "Educational progress has been a popular plank in election platforms since the war and we fear that a tendency has developed to regard expenditure on education as good in itself without much consideration of the results that are obtained." From the British Columbia report itself we find reference to the Teachers Federation which organization is charged with having worked successfully throughout Parent-Teachers associations for the purpose of building up an elaborate and excessively expensive school system.

"The teachers themselves," the report charges, "while they naturally and properly have had in mind the many benefits to be derived from the best that modern education can give, have not been altogether oblivious of the addition to their own prestige and remuneration." The report further along quotes from the journal of the Teachers Federation of British Columbia as follows: "Several attempts have been made to reduce salaries but the teachers have been able to withstand such attempts owing to the activities of the provincial and local organizations." Commenting on the foregoing statement by the organization, the Canadian commission states, "Of the truth of the foregoing there can be no question. We regret that the same consideration of their own interests has not been displayed by that unorganized and inarticulate body of sufferers known as taxpayers, in which case their punishment would not be as severe as it is today."

Strong in Michigan

What is true of British Columbia is quite as true of Michigan. There is no more effective or active lobby at work at the state capitol than that maintained by the organized teachers of Michigan. Its able secretary, E. T. Cameron, is constantly on the job. Members of the legislature are entertained at banquets. They are cajoled and flattered, they are besieged by teachers and school patrons back home if they show any signs of independence of thought. The bugaboo of education at all costs is brought into play and actual threats of political oblivion for any who dare say nay to the demands of the "brain trust" are not infrequent. During the past session this lobby fought against every effort to reduce educational costs. This school teacher lobby is ably supported by the faculty at all state normal colleges. Their teamwork is a masterpiece. During the 1931 session the M. E. A. led by Mr. Cameron and a bunch of imported high-pressure salesmen from other states attempted to foist upon Michigan a teacher's pension system which would have exacted millions from the pockets of Michigan taxpayers. During the 1929 session and in previous years the organization was found constantly using every available influence to boost the cost of education, both in the public school and in the college and university field.

It would not be surprising if in the future the boasted placard heretofore kept valiantly displayed in public school offices may be relegated to the attic lest some irate taxpayer vent his wrath upon the local teachers. The standard of ethics maintained by this highly organized group is best revealed in a letter which Mr. Cameron sent to all teachers of Michigan under date of March 30, 1931, following which a veritable deluge of appeals came from every part of the state beseeching members to vote for the McEachern teachers retirement bill then under consideration. Mr. Cameron stated in that appeal for teacher aid in driving this bill through the house, "While the bill requires the teacher to pay 5 per cent of her salary into the fund, it also requires the state to deposit a similar amount to the credit of each teacher. It is therefore very much better than any annuity you could buy through any insurance company." Had this bill passed it would have added $9,000,000 a year to the burden of the taxpayers of Michigan.

Corporations pay their own lobby bills. The cost of the Cameron lobby is paid by the school teachers of Michigan. The cost of what the Cameron lobby accomplishes is paid by the distressed taxpayers of the state. Li-quer parties are odious to any decent minded citizen but their actual cost to the public is infinitesimally small compared to the cost which these "eminently respectable" lobbies impose upon the public, of which group the educational or M. E. A. lobby stands at the very head in power and in cost.

FRANCISCO

Clifford Bohne suffered a painful injury last week when his finger caught in the hay loader and tore it open. He was unable to work for a few days.

The Y. W. M. S. of Salem held an enjoyable picnic Thursday at Smith's landing, Clear Lake. About 45 were present.

Several from here attended the circus in Jackson, Friday.

TELL THEM OF MICHIGAN'S 5000 LAKES

URGE relatives and friends in other states to vacation in Michigan . . . to enjoy its thousands of unexcelled lakes, streams and beaches; its splendid system of highways; its hotels, resorts and other recreational facilities.

Thousands of visitors spend a great deal of money in our state each summer, creating employment for many people and adding to the prosperity of Michigan. We can increase that business greatly if each of us will urge others to visit Michigan. We can contribute even further by spending our own vacations here.

And wherever you go, dispel worry by telephoning home and office frequently. Call friends to tell them when you will arrive. Telephone ahead for hotel reservations. Long Distance rates are low.

made economical and easy!

Have you been looking for ways to economize on food costs? Then buy fruits and vegetables in season and can them in your own kitchen! You can buy in large quantities at a huge saving, and store away shelf after shelf of home flavored preserves for fall and winter.

But you can't afford to wait until next winter to discover whether you've done the job right. So install a Modern Gas Range NOW with an Oven Control Dial to insure perfect results. With a canning chart to help you determine time and temperatures, you can put away jar after jar of tasty preserves—even if you've never canned before. And you can work in a COOL kitchen—Modern Ranges are insulated to hold heat. Come in! Don't delay another day!

Interment at New Haven beside the remains of her husband.

OUR NEIGHBORS

CHARLOTTE—Two New York office representatives of the Borden Milk Company were in town Thursday afternoon conferring with officers of the Community Association. The Borden Co., present owners of the Dry-Milk plant here, is looking for a buyer. The entire country is to be circularized by the Community Association in the campaign for a purchaser. It is likely that the plant will be used eventually as a brewery. The Borden officers say it will never again be utilized as a condenser or producer of milk products. —Republican-Tribune.

PINCKNEY—Two disastrous fires occurred here the past week. A building nearly 300 feet long on the Pinckney Duck farm burned to the ground on Friday. 6000 ducklings were burned. At four o'clock Sunday morning the building on Main street known as the old printing office and occupied by a pool room, burned to the ground. —Dispatch.

HOWELL—This week the news dispatches have carried many items regarding the beginning of work on the new San Francisco bridge which will cost 75 million dollars and be the world's largest bridge. It is interesting to note that all the electric motors used in the construction and operation of this bridge will be "Howell Electric Red Band Motors." —Republican-Press.

TECUMSEH—The Cyclone Fence Company's plant here, a subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corporation, was reopened this week and last evening E. J. Nelson, superintendent, reported that 20 men had been called to the payroll. Mr. Nelson said that by Saturday the number of employees would be increased to 40 with practical assurance of steady work throughout the fall and winter. The local plant manufactures wire screen cloth and the superintendent declared that the supply of stock in the warehouse here is very low. Reports from the company's headquarters, he said, indicate a decided upturn in business with future prospects bright. —Herald.

DUNDEE—Construction will commence shortly on a mixed feed mill for the Ralston Purina Company on land adjoining the premises of the Denver Alfalfa Milling and Products Company. The building as planned, will be 56 by 80 feet. The buildings of the Alfalfa Mill are rapidly approaching completion and active work in purchasing hay will start shortly. —Reporter.

GRASS LAKE—When Nathan Pierce, residing east of Grass Lake, heard the squawking of his chickens early Saturday morning, he arose from bed, seized a shotgun and started to investigate. At the side of the road in front of his property he found four sacks, which had been taken from his granary, and filled with chickens. Seizing himself in some nearby bushes by the road he waited for about half an hour at which time a car drove up and a man got out. He was about to load the sacks into the car when Mr. Pierce commanded him to stop and ordered him not to step into the car. Frightened, the thief disobeyed the command and entered the car. So close was Mr. Pierce upon the man that he hesitated to shoot as at that proximity he would probably have killed him. However he fired at the back of the car as it drove away, the rear end being plentifully punctured by shot. The thief is described as a tall, slim young man. A chicken dinner awaits the person who discovers the guilty person, says Mr. Pierce. —News. Mr. Pierce was a former Lima resident.

You can SEE it's the Style Leader!

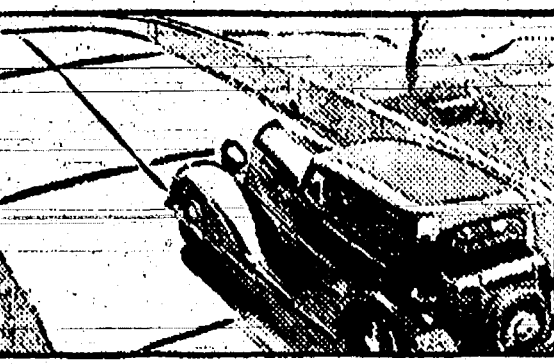

We can PROVE it's the Performance Leader!

You can see that Oldsmobile is the smartest car on the highway—that its style is a full year ahead of current design. But there is another great value factor about Oldsmobile which you can't see so readily. It's Oldsmobile performance! Many people say that Oldsmobile is the finest performing car they ever drove, regardless of cost. Certainly, in its field, there is nothing to compare.

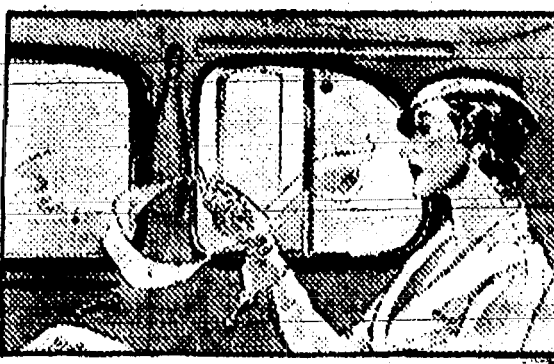

Illustrated and explained below are some of the outstanding phases of Oldsmobile performance. Study these pictures and read their captions. Then, come in and let us prove that Oldsmobile is also the Performance Leader! Incidentally, a demonstration will help explain why Oldsmobile built and shipped more cars in the first five months of 1933 than during all of 1932!

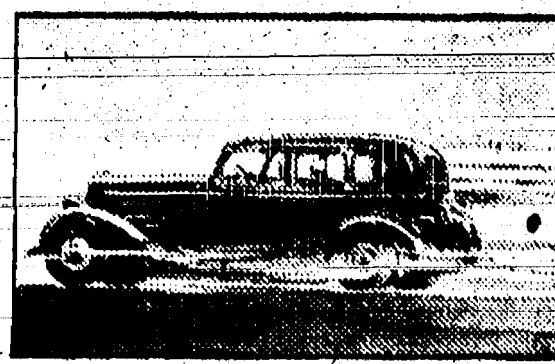

● It adds to the zest of driving when you know that your car has swift acceleration. In an Oldsmobile, you can accelerate at practically any speed you desire. You can be first at the signal, light almost any time you say so—and you can take advantage of every opening in the traffic.

● You won't need your second gear on even a man-size hill. Owners who have driven thousands of miles, in either the six or straight eight, say they have never once been compelled to resort to the use of second gear—except when starting. There is power to spare in an Oldsmobile.

● One of the most important things about a motor car is its ventilation system. Oldsmobile has Fisher ventilation—the finest in the world. In the winter, plenty of fresh air without draft! In the summer, great quantities of cool, invigorating air! Just on Fisher Ventilation!

● Do you like to ride fast? If so, try an Oldsmobile! The eight-cylinder Oldsmobile will do 80-85 miles an hour—actual stop-watch speed. The Six will do 75-80! And the engines are so smooth and quiet that only the speedometer will tell you how fast you're going at 85!

How DO you judge a car's Performance?

On every hand, you hear claims and counter-claims about performance. How do you sift these claims? How do you find out, for yourself, what car best suits your own driving preferences? With the help of the engineers at the General Motors Proving Ground, Oldsmobile has prepared a new and very helpful booklet—"How to Test the Performance of a Motor Car." This booklet does not advertise Oldsmobile. It is simply a plain exposition of what to look for when you take a demonstration. The things you are told to look for in this book are the things engineers look for when they test a car at the General Motors Proving Ground. Never before has anything like this been published. This booklet is free! Come in and get your copy today—at our showroom.

Next Sunday, July 23, the Strong Howell Independents will play the Sod Busters at the Beeman field. This should be a good game as the Sod Busters have lost only one game this season.

PLYMOUTH—Business was better in Plymouth during April, May and June of this year than it was during 1932. The one sure barometer that is regarded as the best business index in existence—postal receipts—provides this information. Postmaster Bert Giles yesterday in checking over his reports noted the exceptional increase for these three months over the totals of a year ago. During April, May and June of 1932 the receipts at the postoffice were $5077.80. This year for the same three months the total jumped to $5544.25, an increase of $466.45.—Mail.

John G. Archenbroom, one of the first settlers of Waterloo township, died at his home on Thursday, July 19, 1899. He was 85 years old.
The Welch Coal Co. has purchased the Taylor elevator.
The lumberherry crop has been a large one in this vicinity and the season is holding on well. About 100 bushels are being shipped from here daily.
On Monday, July 19, in the forenoon, Lewis H. Hindehane drew into his barn the last load of marsh hay that he had cut and took the team of the wagon and commenced his wheat harvest and on Saturday forenoon when he unloaded the hay he found a rattlesnake with seven rattles that had been there all that time.
The workmen of Mr. Norton, contractor at the M. E. church, have been busy this week breaking a large stone on the farm of Thomas Beers. The stone, which was a monster, will measure nearly thirty perch. They have also secured another from the farm of Mrs. B. Wheeler which contained twenty-five perch.
About 10 o'clock last Thursday night one of the landmarks of Chelsea was burned to the ground. It was the old building which was owned by Noyes & Staffan and D. B. Taylor, situated between the Chelsea House and the railroad tracks. It was the last of the old wooden buildings in the business section.

Michigan Department of State WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank H. Fitzgerald Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., July 19.—Michigan's dogs no longer need cringe at sight of a sheriff. The dog law adopted in 1919 said "The sheriff shall also kill, upon complaint of the prosecuting attorney, any dog that is in the habit of running at large unaccompanied by owner or his agent." This provision was repealed by the 1933 legislature. Other changes in the dog law are: The age limit for registering dogs is increased from four to six months; license fees are reduced from two and four dollars to one and two dollars if secured before June 1. County boards of supervisors are empowered to reduce these fees in certain circumstances; fees of township supervisors are reduced from 15 to 10 cents per dog while those of township supervisors or dog wardens are reduced from 20 to 10 cents per dog. Boards of supervisors are also given power to appoint county dog wardens, if desired.

A perceptible increase in the consumption of gasoline in Michigan is shown by gasoline tax collections of the Department of State. Reports of the May gasoline sale show a tax increase of $92,000 over May of the year previous. This represents approximately 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline. May is the first month of 1938 to show an increase in gasoline usage over the corresponding month in 1937.

Pamphlets containing 120 of the most important "immediate effect" laws of the 1933 legislature will be issued by the Department of State August 1. The pamphlets will have paper covers and will be distributed free of charge. The booklet will not contain all of the 1933 laws given "immediate effect" but those which are believed to be of the greatest importance.

The first organization meeting of the newly created Michigan Legislative Council was held Monday, July 17 directly after the final session of the 1933 legislature. The council made plans to study changing state conditions and prepare necessary bills for introduction at the next session of the legislature.

A total of 269 new laws were added to Michigan's statute books as the result of the deliberations of the 1933 legislature. In 1931, the legislature enacted 300 laws and previous legislatures usually enacted between 225 and 400 laws every two years.

Sleep Greatest Need

"Never While Awake." Nothing in the world is important enough compared with sleep. A physician expert in psychology at Wisconsin university thus advised a recent audience. "Admits who turn night into day might learn from the baby who sleeps 20 hours out of 24. That is a child's perspective of sleep and he seems to realize its importance more than we do," he said.

Butterfly Dogs Popular in Seventeenth Century
Papillons or the butterfly dogs are ever intriguing and have many friends in the dog world.
These dogs may be soon depicted as necessary decorations in the portraits of kings and courtiers of the seventeenth century. Rubens, Van Dyke and other famous painters were fond of introducing these pretty lapdogs in their paintings of the court beauties of their period.
More than 400 years ago this breed was first discovered in Spain, and only a few years later it appeared in southern China. It is thought a migration band of Spaniards had taken these dogs to China, then returned to Spain leaving the dogs there.
This breed was quite fashionable in France during the earlier half of the eighteenth century. It can be identified in some of the decorative carvings of Watteau, Fragonard and Boucher in which it is seen at play and the sex crowds masquerading as shepherd and shepherdesses in the gardens of Versailles. Madame Pompadour possessed a breed named Lutz and Mimi, and Marie Antoinette was especially devoted to her Papillon.

Our Idea... of the Proper Business of a Bank
Our idea of the proper business of a bank is to keep money safe and to keep it circulating.
Therefore, when we lend money we lend it for short periods and only on safe, legitimate transactions which are of a self-liquidating character. It is not the proper business of this bank to furnish permanent capital for any enterprise.
It is because we have strictly adhered to this principle in the past, that we have been able to keep this bank in a strong position with ready assets to meet every obligation and every requirement of our depositors.

FORLORN ISLAND

Edison Marshall
W. N. U. SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—With his yacht, the Intrepid, practically abandoned by crew, Felix Horton, millionaire, sailing with his mother, his daughter Nan, and Roy Stuart, puts into Squaw Harbor, Alaska, to recruit. He unsuccessfully tries to engage Eric Chequaco, holding many prizes but at the time unemployed. Failing to secure sailors, Horton engages a bunch of desperadoes stranded there. A glaucous, pale, called Sandamar, don't but not dumb, is their leader. At the request of Captain Wayne, the Intrepid's skipper, and old friend, Eric engages to sail as chief officer.

CHAPTER II.—Horton is seeking uncharted islands of which he has heard. Wayne and Eric look on the voyage as a waste of money. Attracted by Eric's quiet strength, indulges in a moonlight flirtation, which brings them both to the threshold of interest in each other. If not of love.

CHAPTER III.—The Intrepid is deliberately wrecked by one of Sandamar's crew. Eric takes command of a small boat in which are Horton, his mother and daughter. Nan's maid, Marie, and Roy Stuart, and the necessary crew. Unable to help, they watch Sandamar will Captain Wayne and leave the ship with his crew. Wayne has thrown Eric a revolver.

"She what you call priest, woman priest. Long time ago before old men's fathers ever born, when big whale he little fish, holy man come here from setting sun. He pointed toward Siberia. He say no worship devil, worship God, build church, like on ignak island. He no can go, like me, so he marry Aleut woman, Eric's heart, she said, so she holy, too. She know secrets, make medicine. Little drop white blood in her eye, so she think, like wonder about white man's country. She like talk white man's talk, make her feel proud."

Horton, dully staring, passed his hand dazedly over his eyes, shivered, and stepped forward. "It's just a matter of inducing some of the natives here to go through our strait and bring help, isn't it?" he asked, with a distant echo of his old manner.

"Possibly, if they could go direct from deep-water into the strait, and not have to hunt through the reefs and shoals. But if they don't know where it is, how can we tell them? Do you remember those compass bearings, lost with the log?"

"I don't, of course, but they could find it somehow. I can get 'em to go. I'll pay 'em anything they want."

"Of course. All they ask."

"They no want money. People here not know what money means. I tell 'em, they just laugh. You no fight tattoo with money. It no good here. Yes, for the first time in Horton's life, the little leather-backed dog in his pocket was impatient. Suddenly he looked gray and old. He could not be counted on greatly, in the stern trials to come."

By now Sandamar's gang had landed two hundred yards down the beach, but remained suitably apart. They had mutilated and shed blood on the high seas—forever they were beyond the pale—and even on this lost isle, the shame could not be forgotten. Already Eric believed that the die was cast for war. With eyes drawn and grim he watched Petroff, the little Russian, edge away and saunter down the beach to join his fellows.

But Eric found a cheerful word for the bewildered millionaire beside him. "We'll get out of here somehow, Horton. Now let's go to the fire, and say nothing to the others until we can get all the facts."

"I've got enough of 'em already," Roy said coolly. "Why not face them? We're marooned here for months, years, possibly all our lives. The coast guard will look for us, but they'll never penetrate this shoal; the Intrepid is just another ship lost with all hands."

"But didn't you leave word where you were heading?"

"It was a great secret!" Roy smiled. "How I guarded that precious diary! But as you say, we won't break it to the others until we have to."

They found Wilcox, Mother Horton, and the two girls crouching before the stone hearth in the half-lighted turf house. The fire was of driftwood, hissing and smoking. The only furnishings in the hut were fur sleeping robes, a few wooden dishes, pokes of oil and supplies, and primitive weapons and tools to wrest a living from the bleak tundra and desolate sea. But the squaws were smiling, gesturing, and extending every hospitality they knew.

From the low bluff on which the hut stood, Eric could survey the entire island, a dreary vista. It was little more than a lonely mountain top in a lost sea.

"What's the name of this island?" Eric asked Chequaco.

"Name she Aleut word means Place Where Everything Gone-Away," Chequaco no say."

"Forlorn island," Eric spoke quietly,

"It's pretty well, I should say," Roy said. "Chequaco, how do nearly sixty people manage to live here?"

"We catch salmon, sea-lion sometimes, roots, berries, birds. In sea we catch to make it go."

"Then you no see Fireheart in dream, like I see you? But you see her now, maybe you catch love soon. Her arms, they strong—they hold you tight. She young, and she white girl, like you. And she no say this to any man before."

When Eric and Roy were out of hearing, each got the first real glimpse of the other's soul. They respected each other deeply, they could work together toward certain ends, yet they were as remote as pine and palm. Eric had inherited the idealism of the North. The basis of his strength was character. But Roy's guiding light was logic. He was ruled and guided by his brain, never his heart. His superior intellect ran cold as an electric dynamo. He could be kindly, brave where bravery was something more than a tradition, but he took life as he found it, made the best of it, and never gazed beyond.

Which of these two types have contributed most to civilization—the intellectual or the emotional, the realist or the dreamer? Which is most important in the ultimate destiny of mankind? Which would triumph in this island adventure—a re-enactment, on a small scale, of man's long war with savagery and the raw powers of nature? Only time could tell.

"Ericsson, this girl is our one hope," Roy said. "If you'll play your part, we can be free in two months. She's fallen in love with you at first sight—whatever that means—and as priestess, she controls the island. If the young men of the tribe would go with us, we could reach civilization. You know that, as well as I. They could feel their way in a dozen covered kayaks."

"A good many would be lost, but some would be sure to find the strait."

"Throw their lives away to save our own skins? That's what it amounts to."

"What of it? An indred, hopeless handful of savages. Eric, we must look after ourselves first—and our women—that's the first law of life."

"But I'd have to play square with Fireheart. She's no common squaw—to these people she's a semi-sacred being, whose virginity is closely guarded—and the only way I could induce her to raise the taboo would be to marry her in her own church—and take her with me to the outside world."

"Oh, you'd have to pretend it was the real thing. But for you the ceremony would be an empty form; when we reached the first settled island, we could buy her a lot of new dresses, a photograph if she wanted it, and leave her happy."

"And really, she's not a bad looking girl. She'd make your stay here very pleasant."

"Eric's blue eyes had a cold shine. 'You can drop that, Stuart. I wouldn't break trust with Fireheart even if we don't leave here for the rest of our natural lives. If I married her here in her church, I'd stand by it, but I'm not going to cross my blood with Aleuts to save you or anyone else.'

"A cynical gleam came into Roy's cold eyes. 'It's plain that Horton and I will have to take matters into our own hands. We can't rely on you; you're too d-d-gallant. And I want you that our methods may be a lot tougher on your Aleut friends than a little romance with a squaw.'

They returned to the barabara to find their comrades rolled in blankets, asleep. Sandamar's gang were rambling about the island, fraternizing with the natives, saving their strength for trials certain to come. Eric and Roy flung themselves down on the fur robes and rested, too.

It was mid-afternoon before they had all wakened, rubbed their eyes, and definitely crossed the border between life-like dreams and fantastic reality. Nan now demanded that she know the worst. "I'm grown up, and able to stand it. Are we going to spend a week at this charming winter resort?"

people—and we have baby with skin like snow, too."

Fireheart's black eyes were brim- ming, and Eric must answer them straight. "A white man does not marry until he is in love," he told her kindly. "Love comes to him when it comes; he has no power to seize it, or to make it go."

"Then you no see Fireheart in dream, like I see you? But you see her now, maybe you catch love soon. Her arms, they strong—they hold you tight. She young, and she white girl, like you. And she no say this to any man before."

When Eric and Roy were out of hearing, each got the first real glimpse of the other's soul. They respected each other deeply, they could work together toward certain ends, yet they were as remote as pine and palm. Eric had inherited the idealism of the North. The basis of his strength was character. But Roy's guiding light was logic. He was ruled and guided by his brain, never his heart. His superior intellect ran cold as an electric dynamo. He could be kindly, brave where bravery was something more than a tradition, but he took life as he found it, made the best of it, and never gazed beyond.

Which of these two types have contributed most to civilization—the intellectual or the emotional, the realist or the dreamer? Which is most important in the ultimate destiny of mankind? Which would triumph in this island adventure—a re-enactment, on a small scale, of man's long war with savagery and the raw powers of nature? Only time could tell.

"Ericsson, this girl is our one hope," Roy said. "If you'll play your part, we can be free in two months. She's fallen in love with you at first sight—whatever that means—and as priestess, she controls the island. If the young men of the tribe would go with us, we could reach civilization. You know that, as well as I. They could feel their way in a dozen covered kayaks."

"A good many would be lost, but some would be sure to find the strait."

"Throw their lives away to save our own skins? That's what it amounts to."

"What of it? An indred, hopeless handful of savages. Eric, we must look after ourselves first—and our women—that's the first law of life."

"But I'd have to play square with Fireheart. She's no common squaw—to these people she's a semi-sacred being, whose virginity is closely guarded—and the only way I could induce her to raise the taboo would be to marry her in her own church—and take her with me to the outside world."

"Oh, you'd have to pretend it was the real thing. But for you the ceremony would be an empty form; when we reached the first settled island, we could buy her a lot of new dresses, a photograph if she wanted it, and leave her happy."

"And really, she's not a bad looking girl. She'd make your stay here very pleasant."

"Eric's blue eyes had a cold shine. 'You can drop that, Stuart. I wouldn't break trust with Fireheart even if we don't leave here for the rest of our natural lives. If I married her here in her church, I'd stand by it, but I'm not going to cross my blood with Aleuts to save you or anyone else.'

"A cynical gleam came into Roy's cold eyes. 'It's plain that Horton and I will have to take matters into our own hands. We can't rely on you; you're too d-d-gallant. And I want you that our methods may be a lot tougher on your Aleut friends than a little romance with a squaw.'

They returned to the barabara to find their comrades rolled in blankets, asleep. Sandamar's gang were rambling about the island, fraternizing with the natives, saving their strength for trials certain to come. Eric and Roy flung themselves down on the fur robes and rested, too.

It was mid-afternoon before they had all wakened, rubbed their eyes, and definitely crossed the border between life-like dreams and fantastic reality. Nan now demanded that she know the worst. "I'm grown up, and able to stand it. Are we going to spend a week at this charming winter resort?"

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION
At a session of said court, held at the Court House, in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, on the 17th day of July, A. D. 1933.

Present, Hon. George W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing by a Bill of Complaint duly verified, presented and filed and to the satisfaction of the Court, that the above named defendants and their unknown successors, heirs, devisees, legatees, and assigns, are necessary and proper parties to the above entitled cause, and are interested in the subject matter thereof, and whose names appear in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw, as having, at some time, claimed a right, title, interest or estate in the subject matter of said cause or some portion of it, or as having a lien or charge thereon without having conveyed or released the same, and who might at any time under the provisions or legal effect of certain instruments of record claim or attempt to claim, or be entitled to claim benefits thereunder; and it further appearing to the satisfaction of the court the above named parties are dead or their whereabouts unknown to the said Plaintiff, and that after diligent search and inquiry, he has been unable to ascertain the same, or where any of them or any of the successors, heirs, devisees, legatees, or assigns, reside, or whether any interest as they may or might have therein has been disposed of by Will or otherwise, and that such defendants cannot be personally served with process, therefore on Motion of John B. Mellett, one of the Attorneys for the Plaintiff, it is Ordered that the appearance of the said defendants and each and all of them be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order; that in case of their appearance that they cause their answer to the Bill of Complaint to be filed and a copy thereof served upon the Attorneys for Plaintiff within fifteen days after service upon them, or their Attorney, of a copy of said Bill, and that in default thereof, said bill be taken as confessed by each of said defendants, and it is further Ordered that the said Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be published in The Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed, published, and circulated in said County of Washtenaw, and that such publication be continued therein once in each week for six consecutive weeks, or that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be personally served upon the said defendants, and upon each of them at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance or that the Plaintiff cause this order to be otherwise served as provided by law, authorizing the service of orders by Registered Mail.

George W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,
In the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, In Chancery.
Dorothy Lloyd, Plaintiff, vs.
Carl Lloyd, Defendant.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for Washtenaw County, in Chancery, on the 31st day of May, 1933, at Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw.

It satisfactorily appearing to the court by affidavit on file that a chancery summons has been duly issued out of and under the seal of said court, for the appearance of said defendant therein, and that the same could not be served on said defendant because that after diligent search and inquiry it could not be ascertained in what state or country the said defendant resides, or the whereabouts of said defendant learned, and that said chancery summons has been returned by the sheriff of said county with his certificate thereon indorsed that after diligent search and inquiry he was unable to find the said defendant within the State of Michigan, on or before the return day of said summons, on motion of Burke & Burke, attorneys for said plaintiff, it is ORDERED that the said defendant, Carl Lloyd, cause his appearance to be entered in this cause within three months after the date of this order, and in case of his appearance that he cause his answer to the plaintiff's bill of complaint to be filed, and a copy thereof served upon the plaintiff's attorney, within twenty days after service on him of a copy of said bill and notice of this order, and that in default thereof, said bill be taken as confessed by said defendant.

And on like motion, it is further ORDERED that within twenty days after the date hereof, the plaintiff cause a notice of this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said county of Washtenaw, and that such publication be continued at least once in each week, for six weeks in succession, or that she cause a copy of this order to be personally served upon said defendant, at least twenty days before the time prescribed for his appearance.

And on like motion, it is further ORDERED that the said plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be mailed to said defendant at his last known postoffice address by registered mail, and a return receipt demanded, at least twenty days before the date herein prescribed for his appearance.

First Typewriter WasInvented by a Printer

Many years ago a clever printer from Milwaukee, with a taste for invention, was about to emancipate American womanhood. He didn't know it, but he thought he was simply producing a typewriter, or as he called it, "a writing machine." His name was Christopher Latham Sholes. In March, 1873, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, he and his partner, James Densmore, were in Illion, N. Y., where the Remington Arms company was building the first typewriter in its gunshop.

Feminists may find something symbolic in the fact that the typewriter was born at Illion, not 100 miles from Seneca Falls, where in 1848 Loretta Mott and Elizabeth Stanton had started the American suffrage movement.

The typewriter and the telephone both made their first real bid for public recognition at the Philadelphia Centennial exposition. Both found the public rather languid. But it was not many years before the office girl and the hotel girl were marching along en masse to take their place in the commercial life of the nation.

The superior dexterity of women gave them an early chance at the typewriter. Office men with Dandridge whiskers and fancy waistcoats growled at the feminine invasion. But the girls did better work on the new contraption.

Type of Alder TowersEighty Feet in Height

The alder, commonly thought of as a small tree, almost shrublike in its appearance, belongs to a family which finds among its members one giant species which towers 80 feet in the air. The tall tree is the Oregon or red alder, which is found along the Pacific coast.

Its usual habitat is along the banks of streams, on the sides of canyons and far up the mountains beyond even the spruces. The reddish brown wood of the species is often used in the manufacture of furniture.

The alder which grows along the banks of rivers and brooks is valuable in keeping the banks from crumbling through the wash of rain and the constant sweep of water at the trunks.

There is no outstanding commercial use of the alder, although it does make its way into realms of usefulness. Branches of the tree make the finest charcoal for manufacture of gunpowder while its bark yields a valuable dye. The wood itself is used in manufacturing watering troughs, pumps, piles and other wooden articles which are subjected to constant exposure to water. —Boston Herald.

Cats Are Independent

"The cat is a much deeper animal than many people realize. They may not seem as intelligent to the lay observer as the dog, but if you had studied thousands of them closely, as I have," says an authority in the Boston Herald, "you would reach the conclusion not only that they are smart but that they are so smart that they are way ahead of you most of the time. Personally they fascinate me. The cat, you know, is one of the most stubborn animals living, and extremely independent. They will starve before they will change their habits. This is particularly true of pet cats. They will eat only certain things and many times they insist on having their food out of the same dish."

Wrote "Home, Sweet Home"

Is it not odd that a man who never had a home and died in a foreign land should have written the well-beloved lines of "Home, Sweet Home"? Or was it a natural expression of an innate longing for something he never knew by experience? John Howard Payne was born in New York in 1792, and was the author of several plays, among them "Britus," "Charles IV" and "The Maid of Milan." First sung at the Covent Garden theater, London, in 1823. In the last named play occurred the famous song. He was sent to Tunis as American consul in 1811, and died there in 1852. The song was adapted to a Sicilian tune written by Sir Henry Bishop, composer of many operas. Indianapolis News.

Dog Next to Man

"The intelligence of the dog," says Albert Payson Terhune, authority on dogs, "is so uncanny at certain times that it takes precedence over anything possessed by man. Dogs feel states of mind, attitudes, emotions which must be exhibited in clumsy words to men. Long ago, long ago, their first ancestors made their compact of friendship and affection with men. That friendship has grown into an intelligent bond as well as an emotional one. And the brains of the dogs have commingled with the brains of man. In many instances, the dog's brain have not been inferior."

Indians Entitled to Vote

Since 1924, when the Indian Civilization Act was passed by congress, all native-born Indians of this country have been United States citizens and as such entitled to vote after complying with the voting laws of their states. Before that time, those Indians living in tribal relations on the various reservations, were not citizens. They have just the same privileges with regard to the franchise as white and negro citizens, though, of course, the Indians on the reservations are under restriction with regard to moving off the boundaries of the reservations.

Butterflies and MothsFly Across North Sea

Most people interested in nature have wondered at the migratory flights of birds and marveled that such tiny creatures as "guttered-winged" wrens should be able to traverse the North sea. But how many realize that butterflies and moths also fly into the British Isles, not only from Europe, but even from North Africa and Asia Minor?

Painted Lady butterflies, hatched from chrysalises in Africa or Asia, flutter across the Mediterranean, across France and into England and Scotland. Probably some of these travelers fly right on to Iceland. Thus the full journey of these fragile insects may be extended to nearly 4,000 miles.

Cabbage White butterflies also migrate in great swarms, and Clouded Yellows, which come across the channel from the northern coast of France, may often be seen fluttering down on English land in Kent and Sussex.

It may be noted that clouds of butterflies are observed at sea by sailors quite often, though inland large swarms are comparatively seldom seen—probably because the flights break up on reaching land. —Montreal Herald.

When Two Irish KingsAgreed on Peace Terms

Malachi and Brian Boru were two great kings of Ireland. They quarreled and fought for a while with each other to settle the question of pre-eminence, and finally entered into an agreement that became famous in Irish history. They agreed to divide Ireland between them—Malachi to rule the north, Brian the south—that was in the year 1005, and there is still a north and south of Ireland. Brian Boru was not of a temperamental to be satisfied with a divided kingdom. He pleaded for the unification of the island and, failing in this, he invaded Malachi's realm and brought Malachi into his camp to swear allegiance to his sovereignty. He made Malachi a viceroy of the north and from that time on Brian ruled undisputed in Ireland. Then a miraculous thing happened—for Ireland. After forty years of warfare, the dove of peace descended upon the Green Isle, and from conqueror Brian became an Augustus and brought about Ireland's "golden age." —Kansas City Star.

The Monroe Doctrine

Among later events in which the Monroe Doctrine proved an important factor was its acknowledgment in the League of Nations covenant in 1919, which stated that the covenant does not affect the validity of international engagements, such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe Doctrine for securing the maintenance of peace. The state department in 1920 published a historical review of the doctrine, and it was also invoked by some authorities in connection with the recent United States expedition in Nicaragua. Between 1820 and 1848 American statesmen gave notice that this country would not permit the transfer of Cuba to any other European power. In 1895 Seward gave formal notice that the French must leave Mexico. In 1895, in relation to the boundary dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain, the doctrine was invoked to compel arbitration. Other occasions have led to further enunciations and interpretations of the doctrine, which has become a permanent American policy.

The Bayonet

The bayonet, that cruel appendage to firearms, is said to have derived its name from the town of Bayonne in France where it was first manufactured. A Basque regiment which was engaged in fighting in the Pyrenees near Bayonne, became hard pressed. The supply of ammunition was exhausted and defeat seemed certain. Then the soldiers were directed to fasten their long knives into the barrels of their muskets and to advance upon the enemy. This they did, and the first bayonet charge was made, bringing victory to the Basques. This victory, due to the discovery of a new weapon, led to the manufacture of bayonets at Bayonne and their adoption by the armies of Europe. In England, use of the bayonet soon superseded that of the pike in battle. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Bahama Islands

There are 700 islands in the Bahama group and nearly three times as many rocks which extend above high water. The islands, only twenty of which are inhabited, comprise a chain beginning with Grand Bahama and the Bahamas and extending over 700 miles in a southeasterly direction to Inagua, from where on a clear day the mountains at the eastern end of Cuba may be seen. One of their chief claims to fame is the fact that they were discovered by Columbus, San Salvador or Watlings Island having been his first landfall on October 12, 1492.

Criminals in Bird World

"We have criminals in our world. So have birds," notes an authority in the Detroit News. "There are some cruel, murderous types, hawks, for example. Some writers describe the falcon's onslaught by saying that it takes the body of its victim with its claws. In every instance which I have observed, and I've observed many of these crimes when a duck hawk strikes, its claws are driven in and remain there. Usually victim and aggressor come to earth together."

Maple Syrup and SugarU. S. and Canada Yield

Maple sugar and maple syrup are produced only in the United States and Canada. Not only is it purely an American industry, but a very old one, and one that we took over from the aboriginal inhabitants.

The earliest explorers found the Indians making sugar from the sap of maple trees in the St. Lawrence valley and elsewhere in the north-east, and when the Indians found that the white newcomers liked the maple products, they were the first to produce them in quantities for trade.

For many years among the early settlers of the northern part of the United States, maple sugar was the only sugar used. The imported cane sugar being beyond their means. It was these settlers who improved upon the Indians' method of tapping and boiling.

Syrup and sugar are produced chiefly from the sugar maple and the black maple. These trees are found throughout the eastern United States and Canada, and as far south and west as Georgia and eastern Kansas. It is only in the northern United States and the adjacent parts of Canada, however, that production is important, the gradual spring of the north, being necessary for a profitable flow.

According to requirements of the pure food and drug act, the sap must be reduced so that the syrup contains not less than 65 per cent total solids, and weighs not less than 11 pounds to the gallon.

U. S. Grant Product ofMethodist Environment

Ulysses S. Grant was a product of a Methodist environment. His father was of Puritan descent, a book lover and a skilled debater; it was said of him that he carried the Bible in his heart. His mother also was a keen student of the Scriptures, a woman of sincere piety and of saintly temperament. Both parents were active in the church. The teaching of the boy's home became the practice of his life. Men who were with him at West Point later testified to the purity of his speech and the rectitude of his conduct. In the army "he gave every encouragement and facility for securing a prompt and uniform observance of religious services, and was generally found in the audience listening to the preaching." He had the chaplains say grace at meals.

As President, Grant and his family attended the old Foundry Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. J. P. Neuman was their pastor. He subsequently became a bishop and Grant served as a trustee of his church, the Metropolitan temple, New York.

Original "Uncle Tom"

It is commonly believed that the prototype of Uncle Tom, in Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was Rev. Josiah Henson, who is buried near Dresden, Ont. According to the inscription on the tombstone, Henson was born on July 15, 1780, and died on May 8, 1838, at the age of fifty-three. His birthplace was Port Tobacco, Md., and he escaped from slavery in 1828, reaching Canada and becoming a Methodist minister and one of the leaders in the "underground railroad" for fugitive slaves. According to the generally accepted account, Mrs. Stowe met Henson in Boston in 1850 and made use of his own story to write her famous novel. The assertion of western Ontario residents that Henson was the hero of this book was recently confirmed by the novelist's grandson, Lyman Beecher Stowe, in a speech at Montreal. Mr. Henson visited England several times and was entertained by Queen Victoria.

Orchardist Turns Clerk

The practice of keeping individual records of production, long common among successful stock raisers, has spread now to the orchardist and the individual trees in fruit orchards are being checked for their productivity. By this means the orchardist is able to determine which trees are yielding a paying crop each year, which ones are not making a profit and which should be eliminated to make room for new trees of better varieties. Some orchardists even go to the extreme of keeping tabs on individual branches of the trees which seem to yield better than others and these branches are used as a source for grafting in the production of new stock. —Washington Star.

Geological Periods

Geological periods cannot be reckoned by years with any approach to certainty. Even the dates of geological events in the "Recent," or "Human Period," immediately following the last period, cannot be accurately computed. The order of their success is about all that can be established with reasonable certainty. In the evidences of glacial action extend as far south as least, as Washington and the Ohio river; in Europe to 50 degrees north latitude, and in some places down to 45 degrees.

Ancient Republics

Probably the earliest republican governments were the Jewish commonwealth or republic under Moses and Joshua and their successors, and the various republics of Carthage and the Greek states. The dates of them are approximately: 1491 to 1048 B. C. for the Jewish commonwealth; 700 to 146 B. C. for the Greek republic; 850 to 146 B. C. for Carthage.

Clarence Weiss Gets Federal Appointment

Clarence H. Weiss, of Detroit, son of Mrs. Ed. Weiss of Lima township, was appointed this week by Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor in the Roosevelt cabinet, to serve as Michigan director of re-employment in connection with the federal public works program.

Mr. Weiss, who is visiting at the home of his mother, will leave Friday night for Washington to confer with Miss Perkins relative to his duties. He is now director of employment at the Packard Motor Car Co. and will not sever his connection with the company.

Not the Nearest Star

Sixty-one Cygni is a star in the constellation of the Swan. It is notable as the star of which the distance from the earth was first measured (in 1895) by parallax. It was long believed to be the nearest star, but now others are known to be nearer.

"Outlaw Language"

Slang is popular, but unauthorized language, usually inelegant. Slang has been defined cleverly as vigorous outlaw language.

How Birds Differ

The temperature of birds is higher than that of any other animal. It is from 100 to 112 degrees. Naturally, the circulation is more rapid.
