Lima Youth Killed When Struck By Auto

Carl Trinkle, 7 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Trinkle of Lima township was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon on West Huron St., Ann Arbor, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Fred W. Ragnall of Detroit.

The accident occurred about 9 o'clock near the home of Arthur W. Crippen. The boy had delivered some butter for his parents and was running toward his mother, who was standing on the north side of the street. When the child darted across the street into the path of the Ragnall machine, the driver swerved his car to one side to avoid striking him, but he was hit by the left front fender and knocked to the pavement sustaining a broken neck, a broken leg and other injuries. He was pronounced dead when taken to St. Joseph's Mercy hospital.

Carl was the son of Wilbert and Hilma Bauer-Trinkle and was born September 21, 1926 in Lima township. He is survived by his parents and a brother, Harold, at home.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 at St. John's church, Rogers Corners, Rev. W. G. Mauch officiating. Interment will be in St. John's cemetery.

Improvements Voted At Council Meeting

At the Monday evening council meeting action was taken to authorize the hard surfacing of East Summit street from South Main to East street. This work will be done by W. T. Rye, contractor who is surfacing several other streets here.

It was also voted to widen the south approach to the Michigan Central crossing at the M. E. Home. The county will widen the approach on the north side of the tracks. Through the efforts of M. J. Dunkel, who has urged this improvement because of the hazardous crossing, the Michigan Central is expected to widen the crossing on their right-of-way.

An extension of 30 days was granted by the council for the payment of village taxes.

Born in Hillsdale county, Rev. Wolf graduated from high school at Piquette, Ohio. He took college work at

REV. CHAS. F. WOLF

Ypsilanti, Hillsdale and the Chicago University, taking literary and Bible courses. He taught district school for two years and was connected with the high school faculty at Lake Odessa for five years, teaching science and mathematics, and serving as coach.

Rev. and Mrs. Wolf have two children, Mary LaRue, 15 years of age, and Marvin B., 8 years of age. Rev. Wolf is especially interested in young people's work and athletics and it is expected his pastorate will be one of successful attainments for the local church.

Michigan Bell Issues New Police Directory

Continuing its cooperation with law enforcement agencies, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company has just issued the third annual Police Telephone Directory, containing the residence and office telephone numbers of law enforcement officials throughout the state. The directory is designed primarily as a telephone reference list for use of the authorities in getting into touch with each other quickly at any hour of the day or night, either at nearby or distant points. It is being distributed free through the local offices of the company, to state county and municipal police organizations.

The first section of the directory lists the location, commander in charge and telephone number of all state police detachments. The second contains an alphabetical list of Michigan's 83 counties, the names of the sheriffs, and their home and office telephone numbers. The third section lists cities and villages, alphabetically, giving the names of the police chiefs and their residence and office telephone numbers. By telephone it is possible to reach any police official listed in the directory within a few moments.

There also are pages of long distance telephone rates between 36 representative Michigan points, references to police use of the teletype writer and the long distance telephone conference plan, and sheets for listing frequently used telephone numbers.

Rapid telephone communication is one of the greatest factors in the apprehension of criminal suspects.

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich. — The automobile business in Michigan showed a 62 percent increase for the last two weeks of August over the corresponding period in 1932.

For the two-week period ending August 26, 1933, a total of 23,588 automobiles were sold, according to Department of State records. Of this number, 4,486 were new cars. For the same period in 1932, 14,542 car sales were reported of which 2,509 were new automobiles.

Local acts passed by the 1933 legislature will not be printed separately but will be included in the Public Acts of 1933. In previous years the acts adopted by the legislature have been published in two volumes. The Department of State will save approximately $3,000 in binding and distribution costs because of the consolidation. The Public Acts of 1933 will be ready for distribution about October 1. Only six local acts were adopted this year.

More than 300,000 Michigan motorists have been enabled to use their automobiles the entire year of 1933 by the law which permitted the use of 1932 plates until August 1 when accompanied by a windshield half-price permit. This law was adopted by the 1933 legislature upon recommendation of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald.

Slightly more than 415,000 windshield permits were issued and department records to date show that over 300,000 motorists who used the stickers have now purchased 1933 license plates.

Written leases are to be demanded by the Department of State in all cases where "governmental" license plates are issued for privately-owned automobiles. These plates are issued upon application of county, township and municipal authorities but investigation in Detroit recently showed that between 90 and 100 privately-owned automobiles were using "governmental" plates without proper authority. The owners are being required to purchase 1933 plates.

Parma Will Observe Centennial Sept. 23

Parma, Sept. 6.—With a program varied enough to appeal to both young and old and consisting of band concerts, a baseball game, boxing, an address by a former governor, vaudeville acts and dancing, Parma will observe its first centennial Saturday, September 23.

Replacing the usual homecoming program which has been held each summer for the past several years, the centennial celebration is expected to attract both former residents and citizens of neighboring communities to what is planned for the biggest gala event ever staged in Parma.

The one-day program will get underway in the morning with coronation ceremonies when the centennial court is inaugurated with a queen and maids of honor. Shortly before noon will occur a boxing tournament and the noon hour will be devoted to school and family reunions and picnics.

A concert by the 30-piece Michigan State Prison band will open the afternoon program and at 2 o'clock the principal address of the day will be given by ex-Governor Fred W. Green of Ionia. Attorney John W. Miner of Jackson, prominent Democrat and former chairman of the prison commission, will preside at the afternoon program, which will include musical selections by the prison quartet and dance numbers by the Four Brown Buddies, colored dancing team.

The latter part of the afternoon will be devoted to a baseball game, while the evening program will include a band concert, a vaudeville show and a dance in the Masonic temple.

Although John Ketchum took up land in Parma township in 1831, the first permanent settler was Elihu M. Gould, who came here in the fall of 1832 and brought his family here June 19, 1838.

Come Seven! Come Seven! Crap shooters believe that dropping one out of a pair of dice is the same as throwing away money. Once the dice hit the ground, that's all, seven, is sure to turn up.

"Thunder of Waters"

The "Thunder of Waters" was the old Indian name for Niagara falls; the superstitious natives of the United States and Canada believed that the Great Spirit lived within its bounds. Guides at the falls relate that each year the Indians made a sacrifice to the spirit of the spectacle by sending the fairest maiden of the tribe over the falls in a canoe laden with fruit and apolis of the chase. They believed by so doing they could appease the wrath of the "Thunderer of the Waters."

DESCRIBES FARM ADJUSTMENT PLAN

Agricultural College President Says Federal Program Seeks to Coordinate Production with Reduced Exports

The Federal farm adjustment program is partly guided by the belief that export of agricultural commodities will not soon recover its volume of five or ten years ago, in the opinion of F. D. Farrell, President Kansas Agricultural College, writing in the August issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Nobody knows whether the farm adjustment program will succeed," writes Mr. Farrell. "Its sponsors describe it frankly as an experiment. It seeks to socialize agriculture at least to the extent that farmers, in what is believed to be the public interest, will restrain their production activities and that processors, distributors and consumers will contribute something toward paying farmers for exercising this restraint. The adjustment programs definitely are based on the fact that prices are determined primarily by supply and demand. They also are based on the assumption that the export business in agricultural commodities will not soon return to its volume of five or ten years ago.

Dependence on Public Support

"The plan offers wheat price insurance for 1933, 1934 and 1935, for the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop. The insured price is to be sufficiently high to give the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop pre-war purchasing power. If the plan is as effective as its sponsors hope it will be, the reduction in supply may influence wheat prices so that the entire wheat crop will have pre-war purchasing power.

"If the adjustment program succeeds, its launching probably will mark the end of an era of extreme individualism in agriculture in the United States," says Mr. Farrell.

"Recent fundamental changes led Secretary Wallace to say, 'What we really have to do is to change the whole psychology of the people of the United States. This is a large order. It involves the whole program of farm adjustment as well as the larger national economic program, of which farm adjustment is a part. If the people decline to participate in the program to the extent necessary to give the experiment a fair trial, we shall never know whether farm adjustment as now proposed would have succeeded or not if it had been given a fair trial."

BANKERS PREPARE FARM FINANCE BOOK

Tells Bankers and Farmers What to Consider in Making Sound Loans

A book on "Making Farm Investments Safe" has been prepared by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, summarizing material published by it during the past ten years. It presents a compendium of scientific facts, practice and experience in farming, with timely and helpful suggestions to serve as a reference and guide in the daily routine of banking and farming. From it practical workers in these fields can obtain an idea as to what extent and in what manner farm loans should be limited by soil erosion, weeds, plant diseases, rodents and fire hazards, etc.

The book also indicates how much is added to the security of a farm loan by the farmer who keeps accounts and practices good business methods, as well as the extent to which loans are safeguarded by crop rotation, production of legumes, judicious use of commercial fertilizers, the use of quality seed and the providing of home grown feeds.

Another section sets forth the precautions that should be exercised by both the banker and farmer when negotiating loans to increase or improve dairy production, or beef, sheep, swine or poultry production, as well as what factors should be considered in the economic marketing of products, and the way efficiency in production affects efficiency in marketing. Many other everyday details of farm life that have a practical financial significance are treated in the book. A particularly important section deals with experience with farm loans and other with directed farm credit.

Banks Make Best Record in R. F. C. Loans Repayments.

Among the loans of $2,819,000,000 made by the Federal Government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the highest percentage of repayments, official reports show, has been made by the banks, indicating the return of stability as the chief unsettling element of public fear has been lifted from them.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has authorized cash advances, fully secured by sound collateral, to 6,278 banks since it began operations in February, 1932, and made actual disbursements to them in the amount of $1,221,878,000. Of this amount, however, $456,078,000, or over 44 per cent, has been repaid by the banks. All other classes of borrowers combined have repaid about 16 per cent of their loans.

MY AUTUMN FLOWER

O. Marigold—my Autumn Flower,
That typifies my life so true;
I too can see life's autumn hour,
I too the autumn sunset view.

Through many a drought and searching sun
We've sorrowed—sometimes to despair,
For fear that winter's chill and dirth
Would find us without leaf or flower.

But Angel eyes were watching well
Each petal as it slowly grew;
White Angel hands and Angel hearts
Watered each night with heavenly dew.

We sorrowed many times that soil
Were not a richer mellow loam;
But somehow, though we may not know,
We find our petals all in bloom.

Though on no arbor trolleys fine
Has been your lot to live and grow;
Beside the path where children play,
And lowly people come and go—
You've done your bit to cheer the heart,
Of weary, toiling passer-by;
I prize you little golden flower,
Just now a love tear dims my eye.

And when I reach that heavenly land,
Where flowers grow both rich and rare,
I'll look for you in golden bloom—
My Marigold, my Autumn Flower.

HOWELL—Howell is to have an airport. Wednesday night the city council approved the leases and the necessary agreements with the director of the state board of aeronautics; Major Evans: The field will be located just north of Howell on the site of the old airport which was abandoned about two years ago. Plans call for construction of two intersecting runways 250 feet wide and 1,800 feet long. The work of developing the field will be done by the state air board under its program of establishing intermediate landing fields along highways. At present there is a lack of suitable emergency fields between Lansing and Detroit. Major Evans said. —Republican Press.

BROOKLYN—Leland Andrews, former Napoleon boy, now pilot on the American Airway Co. lines, between Los Angeles and El Paso, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Andrews at Napoleon and other relatives and friends in this locality. Mr. Andrews says that the air lines are constantly making improvements in speed and service. Faster passenger planes have top speeds near 250 miles per hour with regular cruising speed of 190 miles. Mr. Andrews has been flying since the war when he took up aviation and became an instructor in the air service. He now lives in Los Angeles and has a regular flight between the two cities above named. —Exponent.

CHARLOTTE—Albert Andrews was in town Friday morning displaying a twenty-three and one-half pound badger that he caught in a trap on his place some time Thursday night. The animal had been working in the vicinity of Mr. Andrews' home and in a gravel pit close by and doing considerable damage. Mr. Andrews set the trap and succeeded in bagging the badger Thursday night. —Republican Tribune.

PARMA—Plans are rapidly nearing completion for the observance of Parma's centennial at a big celebration to occur in the village Saturday, September 23. —News.

WAYNE—One of the shottest wills on record was filed Monday in the Wayne County Probate Court. It was the will of Mrs. Mary J. Lowney of Livonia township who died August 15. It read: "To Edward P. Lowney I give all I possess." The heir is a nephew. —County Review.

Lobsters Do Not Travel

Among the creatures that have been studied with a view to discovering the extent of their migratory tendencies are lobsters, which it has been found rarely wander far from their home areas. While making a study of the lobster fisheries in the North sea for the Danish government a number of young lobsters were live-trapped and then returned to the sea after their shells had been notched in a manner to make them recognizable again. Nearby neighborhoods were then watched for the reappearance of the marked lobsters. None were recovered at a distance of more than 15 miles from their point of release, only a few traveled as far as five miles from home and the majority stayed within a mile or two of their native habitat.

Bandicoot, Largest Rat

The bandicoot, rat, a native of India and Ceylon, is the largest known species of rat. Its body, black above and gray beneath, is frequently more than a foot in length and its tail, which is very thick at the base, is equally long. This rodent finds both favor and disfavor among the natives. It feeds chiefly on grain and roots and is very destructive to gardens and poultry, burrowing under walls to reach what it wants. On the other hand its flesh is a favorite article of food with the coolies in arid, hilly districts. Its flavor is said to resemble that of young pork.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Can you tell me in your valuable paper where the Aleutian Islands are located? I cannot locate them on the map of the world.

Ans.—The Aleutian Islands are a crescent-shaped group of small, uninhabited islands extending about a thousand miles west of Alaska into the Pacific ocean.

Ques.—I would like to ask you how many national forests there are that belong to the United States.

Ans.—There are 148 national forests under the control of the United States.

Ques.—Will you please answer in your question column what causes earthquakes?

Ans.—The exact cause of earthquakes is not agreed upon by all scientists. Explosions following volcanic eruptions, avalanches or landslides, falling of subterranean caverns, etc., have their following, but the most generally accepted theory is the slipping of a great body of rock under the earth's surface. The point at which this slipping occurs is usually from 10 to 20 miles below the surface of the earth.

Ques.—Where can I obtain commemorative coins and stamps of the Century of Progress Fair in Chicago?

Ans.—No coins have been minted or issued in commemoration of the Century of Progress Fair at Chicago. One cent and three-cent stamps may be obtained at almost all postoffices, but if they have none on hand, they may be obtained from the Philatelic Room, Washington, D. C., postoffice.

Ques.—Why do ants live in colonies?

Ans.—Presumably they have developed this habit for the sake of defense and being sure of food supply. In the ant colonies there are several kinds of individuals, each of which has a special duty for which they are peculiarly fitted by their body-shape and character. One kind is better at getting food; another kind is better at fighting. So the fighters protect the workers and the families of young, and the worker feeds the fighters and the young.

Ques.—Is there such a thing as a sea serpent? I heard a sailor say he saw one that looked to be 50 feet long.

Ans.—No. No animal, fish or reptile corresponding to the so-called "sea serpent" is known. The many reports of sea serpents may be due to people seeing several water animals together in a string. Frequently sea porpoises will follow each other closely in single file, and when they are seen thus at a distance, it will give the appearance of a huge serpent weaving through the water.

Ques.—Didn't you make a mistake when you said recently that pearls are merely crystallized minerals?

Ans.—You probably have misunderstood. We did not make such an answer. We said that PRECIOUS STONES were merely crystallized minerals. Pearls are not "precious stones." They have an entirely different origin from pearls. Pearls are formed inside a kind of oyster shell while the oyster is still alive. They are composed of carbonate of lime, the same materials out of which the oyster makes his shell.

Ques.—Why does a person's face become white when they become frightened?

Ans.—This is an effect of the chemical discharged by one's adrenal glands. This chemical makes all the tiny blood vessels of the skin and in the surface layers of the body contract so that most of the blood is squeezed out of them. Naturally, when the blood leaves, the skin gets pale. This experience is felt and seen in the face because it is so near the brain that has been disturbed.

Ques.—What can I do to stop my chimney from smoking?

Ans.—Don't know. Try giving it one of your Christmas cigars, if you have any.

Blindness to Taste and Smell Common Affliction

While "science" knows something about taste and smell, it has been able to make little progress in improving or adding those organs. In fact, science is about in the same state that it was in the Middle Ages as far as this field is concerned. Telescopes allow one to see stars invisible to the unaided eye; scales weigh masses too large to lift or too minute to feel; microscopes bring into range the world of creatures too small to be seen; amplifiers magnify sounds inaudible to human ears, and ammeters measure electric currents too feeble to shake the most sensitive. But tongues and noses must struggle along without mechanical assistance. "Blindness" to taste or smell is relatively common. There are chemical compounds that some people declare to be disagreeably bitter and others cannot taste at all. Similarly, the lemon-verbena smells to some and not to others. So science is still seeking ways to aid tongue and nose. Perhaps "microscopes" and odor amplifiers may be developed; and here is an opportunity for inventors.

Ingenious Revolving Urn
Was World's First "Movie"

The Emperor Chien Lung of China had his virtues and he had his faults, but he was never dull. He came to the throne of the celestial empire in 1735 and kept things moving until 1795, writes Spencer Kington in Asia.

Chien Lung, always restless, always on the move, strove for motion even in such things as porcelain. In the course of his reign were produced two extraordinary pieces, which evidently made a pair. Similar pieces may have been manufactured in the period, but, if they have survived, their whereabouts are not known.

The masterpieces were revolving vases and they not only are beautiful and ingenious to the highest degree, but exhibit a skill in manufacture and an accuracy of working parts which would delight an engineer.

The revolving vases of Chien Lung were so made that when the cover was twisted, a cylindrical inner vase would twirl easily and a beholder, peering through one of the four openings which occur on the sides of the outer vase, could observe the scene on the vase turning inside.

Chien Lung was every inch an emperor and a scholar. One of the reasons he holds a particular interest for us of the twentieth century is that his revolving vases were probably the first attempt to produce a moving picture.

Bull Fight Divided Into Three Acts Like a Play

A bull fight can be said to be a play, divided into three acts. Piquancy is added to the dramatic spectacle by a parade of all the characters before the play begins. The first act is the one which generally disturbs the foreign tourist. This is the act of the picadors mounted on their miserable-looking horses, armed with a long lance.

The second act is when the banderilleros appear on the scene. By this time the dead or crippled horses have been removed from the arena, and very often the tourist is making for the exit, ashamed of having entered the bull ring at all. If he stays on he has decided that it is the most brutal and disgusting affair and a disgrace to civilization; and refuses to recognize the art and technique which exists in the second and third acts.

The matador appears for the third act. He is the principal character in the dramatic spectacle. With a muleta, a sort of red cape, he executes a series of "passes" which all have their special names to the crowd.

The slightest slip, and the matador is flung in the air on the long horns, as if he were a toy. It all happens quickly. There is no referee's whistle to control the game, the bull continues to gore the matador until others of his team rush with brightly colored capes to attract the bull from its victim.

Dalmatians Have Served
Under Variety of Flags

The Dalmatians, now partly Yugoslavian and partly Italian in their national allegiance, have had a varied career in history, first passing under the flag of one nation, then another.

At the time of the outbreak of the World war, the Dalmatians were part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, their coast along the Mediterranean being of vital importance to the Austrians. The area of the province is not very large, but by its picturesque with many mountains, rivers and small lakes has always had a romantic appeal to travelers.

The population, partly Italian, partly Albanian, partly Jewish and partly German, has been noted for the fine physique of the men. The chief occupations of the people have been for centuries cattle raising, beekeeping and fishing.

At one time Dalmatia was quite a sizeable kingdom, but after it finally fell before the assault of the armies of Augustus, it had a varied career. After the fall of Rome, Dalmatia passed into the hands of the Goths, Slavonians, Venetians, French and Italians, finally winding up as a part of Austria up until the World war.

Chien Lung was every inch an emperor and a scholar. One of the reasons he holds a particular interest for us of the twentieth century is that his revolving vases were probably the first attempt to produce a moving picture.

Recovery Program Is Affecting Everyone

Washington — The recovery program radiates into every home and store, factory and mine, and forest, and literally into every field where for the next two years production was planned. This week it reached out to cover every ship that flies the Stars and Stripes with the submission of a code by the American Steamship Lines.

As the President told his neighbors at his New York farm, "Recovery cannot be applied to one industry or one section. The National Government must think and act in national terms."

Delays in starting work immediately on numerous local public works projects throughout the country have been due to failure of regional governments to comply promptly with the provisions of the Federal law, for which many sessions of State legislatures were called. Projects for the Federal Government alone are going forward very rapidly, resulting in tens of thousands being put to work daily, and scores of approved regional jobs, for which there is available instantly the Federal Government's advance of 90 percent to cover cost of materials, are being started as local action is taken. Allotments of funds to speed up the movement and create jobs are being made at the rate of more than $50,000,000 per day.

The objective of the 1,600,000 volunteer workers now busy throughout the United States is to secure the signatures of 20,000,000 consumers' cooperative pledges the first week and reports to NRA headquarters indicate that the campaign will be highly successful. Many large towns and hundreds of villages in all parts of the country signed up 100 percent during the first three days. In sections of New York, New England, Iowa, Texas, Oregon, Michigan, Colorado, Missouri, and Georgia, every family in entire city blocks signed. In 80 small towns the people went to central points and qualified for the Blue Eagle without waiting for the canvassers to visit them.

Returning by plane from a call by the President at Hyde Park, Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, began conferences immediately to set up a medium for granting prompt temporary credit for deserving firms which have committed themselves to the reemployment program. The purpose is to tide them over until their sales prices can take care of increased expense.

Following the success of the initial cotton reduction campaign, plans are being rushed to reduce the existing oversupply of that and other crops to obtain a proper balance between production and consumption and restore prices to a fair exchange value. Hearings on the milk marketing agreements are being held in a dozen States. A national policy to supervise the government of the dairy industry by itself under a national code of fair competition is being studied, with the code submitted by the fluid milk industry as a basis.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

MRS. FRANCES THACHER
Mrs. Frances Elisk Thacher, for many years a resident of Chelsea, died Tuesday afternoon, September 5, at the home of her son, Orrin, in Brooklyn. She had been ill about three weeks.

Mrs. Thacher was born August 13, 1842 in Cuyahoga Falls, Summit county, Ohio, the daughter of Alfred and Sarah Fisk, and was married to W. L. Thacher April 13, 1861, in Amsterdam, Iowa. Mr. Thacher died August 1, 1881, in Chelsea.

Surviving are two sons, Ralph, at home and Orrin of Brooklyn, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Staffan funeral home.

Interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

The Game "Bridge"
The first mention of the game "bridge" in English appeared in a little volume entitled "British or Russian Whist" published in London in 1880. This has led many to suppose the game is of Russian origin, but there is no authority for such a belief. The name was soon corrupted into "bridge."

WHAT BANKING WENT THROUGH

By JOHN H. PUELICHER

American Bankers Association

BANKING in its long career has been compelled to withstand many serious shocks, but it ran into the most perplexing entanglement of its whole history since the general breakdown of values in 1929. The commercial structure of the entire world seemed to have been shaken from its foundations and the marvel is that the banker, with everything breaking down all around him, was able to come through as he has.

General business failures, agricultural stagnation, income losses, capital losses, inability to meet debts and therefore inability of bankers to pay back depositors when loans were not paid, were the reasons, in most instances, for the bank failures.

No profession, no department of life is without its weaker elements, but had proper consideration been given to the relatively few instances in banking, had exaggerated and startling headlines been kept in true proportion, had banking not been used as a target for political self-seeking and with vote-seeking motives, had unfounded rumors not been spread the people's confidence might have been retained and far less serious would have been their financial losses, for many bank failures were caused that need not have happened.

There were factors in our banking experience which every earnest banker deplores—factors which many had worked years to eliminate, which it was fearfully recognized would aggravate any difficult days which might arise. One of the worst of these was due to political regulation which characterized many banks that should never have been chartered.

That there have been incompetence and dishonesty in banking is admitted. That the instances that did occur were used grossly to increase fear in the public mind, we affirm. We shall continue to strive for higher attainments in our profession and strive for laws that require competence and ability in management. That we cannot legislate honesty and unselfishness into either a banker or a borrower must be conceded, but dishonesty, wherever found, should be punished. It is as true in banking as elsewhere that no matter how good the law, dishonest and incompetent men can make it ineffective. Good laws are essential. We must strive for ever better ones, but their enforcement will come only as the public recognizes that it is a matter not of laws or codes alone but of the men who administer them.

The Public's Part
Our people must be brought to realize that the welfare of our country depends upon its banking system, that the strength of the banking system depends upon the public's faith and understanding and the vast majority of banks, because of faithful service rendered, even through the whole of this general breakdown, had the right to expect the trust and confidence of the people.

In every great catastrophe, no matter what its nature, no matter what its cause, someone must be crucified. The banker was this time selected. In the late 90's, political agitation started a tirade against the railroads. Some railroads may have done reprehensible things, but the agitation became so general and so violent as almost to destroy one of the fundamental factors in the progress of a country. Today the same thing has been done to the banker. In spite of all that has happened, the fact remains that even most of the banks which failed are paying out infinitely better than are investments in almost anything else.

Bankers Aiding Agriculture
State associations of bankers in many agricultural states are giving time and financial support to encourage practices among their farmers that will bring about better farm results.

The major activities reported from one state to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association which is nationally active in promoting this line of cooperation are as follows:

1. Drought relief work: Local banks have played a vital part in this work, being represented on the county committees for passing on all seed loans. These committees met practically every day during the spring to pass on the loans in order to get as quick action as possible. A total of 914 applications were received and handled by one committee, $33 being granted.

2. Four-H Club work: Bankers helped stimulate 4-H Club work, financing many members who otherwise could not have enrolled. They also helped finance fifteen 4-H Club delegates to the state club convention.

3. Livestock feedings: The banks cooperated with the Extension Service in the state and the railroads in increasing the amount of livestock feeding. Assistance was given the feeders in securing finances for their feeding operations.

4. Crop improvement: The bankers took part in the crop standardization program of the Extension Service and encouraged the farmers to use pure seed; and in many cases made loans for this purpose.

FAMILY GATHERING

On Monday, September 4 a family gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Rothman, it being 40 years since their parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rothman moved on the farm two miles west of Waterloo. A fine dinner was enjoyed by all.

The afternoon was spent with music, singing, songs and several recitations were given by Katherine and Jennie Rothman and Mrs. G. J. Rothman. A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rothman, G. J. Rothman, gave a talk on early history of Waterloo. An enjoyable time was had by all.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rothman, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rothman, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Harr and Fred Rothman, told of happenings of childhood days. An enjoyable time was had by all.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rothman, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rothman, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Harr and family, all of Waterloo, Mrs. Pauline Wals, Fred Waldelich of Jackson, and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph G. Aue of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Negroes at West Point
Three negroes have graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point. The first was Henry O. Flipper, in 1877. He served for a time in the regular army, but because of some difficulties was discharged. The second graduate was John H. Alexander, in 1887. Alexander died March 20, 1901, while serving as military instructor at Wilberforce university. Charles Young was the third negro to graduate from West Point. He served 23 years in the army and held the rank of colonel when he retired in 1917. Nine other negroes have attended West Point, but did not graduate.

Syndesmus Cooki—A Beast
It is "something like an antelope and something like a camel." This is the way in which a New York Times correspondent has described a rare specimen of prehistoric animal which has been prepared for exhibition at the Morrill Museum at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln. No Syndesmus cooki is the scientific name for this strange creature which is said to have lived some time in the last pre-glacial period. It has a double set of horns and a skeleton resembling that of a miniature camel.

Miracle and Mystery Plays
Theater, in his "English Literature," says that "a miracle play is the dramatic representation of the life of a saint and of the miracles connected with him." A mystery play deals with gospel events which are concerned with any phase of the life of Christ, or with any biblical event that remotes to the shadows of Christ or indicates the necessity of a Redeemer.

Dead Leaves Have Mission
That dead leaves have a very definite place in nature's scheme has been determined by the Department of Agriculture. By taking a covering over the soil they absorb and filter the water percolating to sink into the many pores in the ground. When the leaves are raked up or burned still fills those pores, causing the water to run off and cause erosion.

Andrew Johnson's Rise From Extreme Poverty

Andrew Johnson was the son of a poor section. He was born December 20, 1808, at Raleigh, N. C. Fatherless at three; never attended school a day in his life. At ten was bound out to a tailor to help support his mother.

At eighteen he was established in his own tailor shop at Greenville, Tenn. As he worked, his wife read to him and at the end of the day taught him to read and write. Most apt in oratory, his favorite hobby was debating on the political issues of the day, and before long his ability was recognized. At twenty he was elected city alderman and two years later mayor. At twenty-five, was a member of Tennessee legislature and at thirty-three, a state senator—served four years—elected to congress—served ten years. Governor of Tennessee, 1837-47, and United States senator the four years following. Was appointed military governor of Tennessee in 1862 by President Lincoln and on the ticket with him—1863—elected Vice President.

When Silver First Came Into Monetary Limelight

Free coinage of silver means that the currency system of the nation permitting the free coinage of silver accepts silver bullion for coinage into standard silver monetary units in unlimited quantities in some prescribed ratio to gold. When the American currency system was established it provided for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 15 to 1—15 ounces of silver being presumed to have the same value as one ounce of gold. In 1834 the ratio of silver to gold was pushed up to 10 to 1, when it remained until silver was demonetized in the United States in 1874. This is the ratio William Jennings Bryan set forth in his platform when he ran for President on the Democratic ticket in 1896. The free coinage of silver was authorized early in this nation's history because of the scarcity in precious metals and the need of employing gold and silver as a basis for the monetary system. Silver was dropped from the American monetary system and from the monetary systems of the leading European nations because of the wide fluctuation in its value and the impossibility accordingly of maintaining an equivalent value between silver and gold.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin"

The story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was begun by Harriet Beecher Stowe in 1850, ten years before the outbreak of the Civil war, and the first chapters were written at her home in Bruns- wick, Maine, under many domestic afflictions. Money was scarce and Mrs. Stowe's time was divided between the care of an infant child and her literary labors. "There is a tradition that the work was begun on scraps of brown wrapping paper. It was first printed in a serial in the National Era Magazine, Washington, D. C., and in 1852 it appeared in book form and in the same year it was dramatized and staged on its world-wondering pilgrimage of propaganda.

Where Farm Plants Came From
Viewing the Russian geneticist found that there were five world centers from which our principal agricultural plants came. Afghanistan gave us bread wheat, beans, lentils, garrets and pomegranates. From southeast Asia came naked oats, naked barley, millet, soybeans, fruit trees and probably rice. The Mediterranean and Abyssinian regions produced the ancestors of our oats, peas, large-seeded flax, many vegetables, durum wheat and hulled barley. The fifth center is the New world with Mexico, Peru, Chile as the original homes of potatoes, Jerusalem artichokes, maize (what we call corn), tobacco and the occidental cottons.

Cactus Juice
In harvesting the roots are the most valuable part of the cactus plant. These are dried in the desert, then packed and shipped to the factory where they are boiled under "vacuum" pressure at a temperature from 212 to 215 degrees Fahrenheit. This process extracts the active principle of the plant. It is a pale yellowish liquid which foams when shaken. It contains a weak organic acid, but the acidity index is so low that it is non-irritative in contact with mucous membranes. In common use, the lime and magnesium salts of water neutralize the acid of the juice.

Sleep With Eyes Open
You can't catch a fish with its eyes shut, but you can catch it asleep. Is the claim of a Fisheries Institute official. Ordinary fish have no eyelids but they do sleep, he says. The ordinary fresh-water fish sleeps in a brown study, its eyes wide open, but not seeing. Such species as the sunfish, bass and perch sleep resting on the bottom of the lake or stream, while others lie on the weeds and water vegetation. The little silver-sides and the gray sleep up against the water surface.

What Say You?
The remark "Cheer up, the worst is yet to come," quoted by various sages, is not entirely a cynicism, as applied to public experience. It might appropriately be used by a doctor who is about to bring eventual relief by lancinating a boil.—Washington Star.

Readings of the Weather
Twice a day throughout this country, observers are taking readings of the weather at the same moment, regardless of what the clock says the time is. Not only do they look at the sky and classify the clouds, but they read all the instruments that have been invented as a help in telling what the weather is.

Porto Rico's School Buildings

The school buildings of Porto Rico are a prominent feature of the landscape, white, trimmed with green to match the luxuriant foliage of the fields and hillside.

Holidays

The only holidays observed nationally are New Year's day, Washington's birthday, Independence day, Labor day, Thanksgiving and Christmas. There are no national legal holidays, all holidays being given a legal status by states. If at all. There are numerous legal or public holidays observed locally in various parts of the United States.

No Insurance on Capitol

All government-owned buildings, including the United States Capitol and post offices throughout the country are under the jurisdiction of the Treasury department. This department does not place policies of insurance on the Capitol or any other federal building for the reason that congress does not appropriate any money to pay for insurance. Many of these buildings are fireproof, or nearly so, and generally an open space of perhaps 40 feet wide is maintained around each building for protection from fires which might occur in adjoining structures.

Birds Choose Habitat

All birds have their own selected territories with well-defined boundaries, and unless pressed they do not wander outside. This applies chiefly to the breeding season, for in winter many leave their territories and fly to man for assistance.

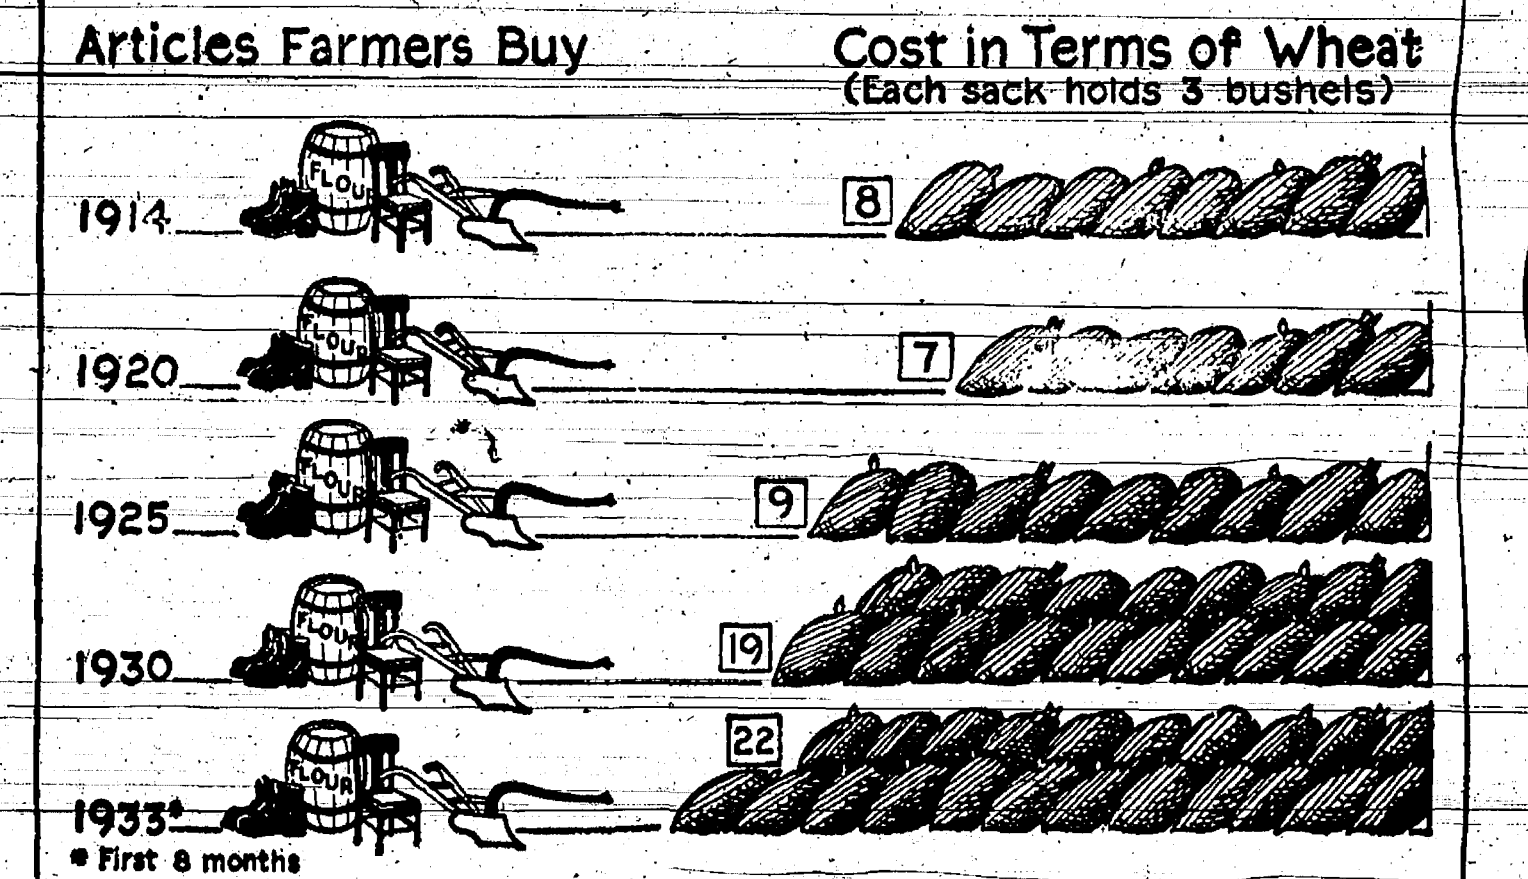

Bridges in Early Days

The settlers of the New World found need of bridges where there were no convenient fords. The Indian was still in the age of the log-sam bridge, and only occasionally used even that means. When he came to water he plunged in, pushing his bow and arrows on a log before him.

THIS representation of what the world will offer the wheat farmer for his wheat shows clearly the relationship between supply and price. Since 1928, when the world supplies of wheat first became burdensome the price has been low for the most part. The pictures at the top of the chart show that when the supply is low, the world will pay a good price for wheat, but when supplies are too big, the world won't pay as much. As the supplies (shown by the black bars) have climbed, the price (represented by the shaded parts) has sunk lower. The wheat administration seeks to bring the wheat supply of the United States into line with demand by reducing acreage, and thus to make the price nearer parity, that is, the point at which the return from a bushel of wheat will buy as much as it did in the pre-war period, 1909-1914. The 1933 crop year is not far enough advanced to show definitely what prices will be.

Buying Power of Wheat

GIVING wheat the same buying power that it had in the period before the World War is the goal of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. This chart shows how big the problem is. In 1914 8 sacks of wheat would buy a pair of shoes, a barrel of flour, a chair, and a plow. In 1925 it took 9 sacks of wheat to buy the same set of articles. In 1930 it took 19 sacks of wheat and early in 1933 it took 22 sacks of wheat. The cause of the low buying power is too great a supply. To remedy the situation, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has begun a campaign asking farmers to reduce their acreage for the 1934 and 1935 crops so that the return from a bushel of wheat will be once more what it was in the pre-war period, in its power to buy the goods farmers need. The goal of the wheat administration is the 1914 basis, on which 8 sacks of wheat would buy the bill of goods pictured here.
