Many Problems Before County Supervisors

The annual report of the Washtenaw County Fair Society was presented to the board of supervisors in session at the County building on Thursday and a request for an appropriation of $5,000 was denied.

The supervisors spent some time in discussing the task of enumerating the persons in the county over 21 who will pay a head tax of $2.00 under the state law for the old age pension. No action was taken. Fred C. Haist was re-elected superintendent of the poor and Mrs. Agnes Merkel was elected school examiner, both by unanimous ballots.

Thursday afternoon the board visited the county infirmary for the annual inspection of the building and grounds. On Friday, the members of the board took their annual tour of Washtenaw county highways under the guidance of the road commission and its engineer-manager, L. D. Townsend. Arriving in Chelsea about the noon hour, they were accompanied by several local business men to dinner, which was served at the Congregational church.

The supervisors disagreed on the amount of money Washtenaw county must raise for welfare, and no action was taken. George Smith, sealer of weights and measures, was re-elected by a vote of 25 to 6, defeating Holmes Manchester of Ypsilanti.

L. O. Cushing and Elmer Brown were re-elected to positions on the county board of auditors, of which Mr. Cushing will be chairman.

It was decided to allow taxpayers to use bonds and coupons in payment of taxes on drains now involved in litigation.

Surveys Furnish Proof That "Now Is the Time To Buy"

Washington—Reports submitted by numerous widely scattered newspapers, and all of the national advertising agencies, abundantly confirm data accumulated by State and local advisory boards of NRA as to the potentialities of the "Now is the time to buy" campaign now in progress. This view is reflected to an astonishing degree by a flood of letters and telegrams from merchants and manufacturers to NRA headquarters.

Thousands of local and national advertisers in all staple lines are assuring National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson of their determination to cooperate by offering the people "good goods, fairly priced," in response to his suggestion.

These communications reveal new and improved products to be offered to the public, and all pledge the maintenance of fair prices. The president of a great retail drug organization wrote: "We are carrying out at once your suggestion to submit up-to-date, reasonably priced merchandise and have increased our advertising expenditure over anything we have spent in three years."

The treasurer of one of the largest textile concerns said: "In September we increased production 25 percent and pay rolls 84 percent. For the past 2 months production increase with us was 54 1/2 percent and pay rolls 112 percent. We are assuredly on the upturn, and with fair treatment the people will buy."

In a detailed report one of the largest cigar manufacturers announced that from August 1 to October 1 their employees increased 81 percent, pay rolls increased 53 percent, and average weekly sales of our most actively pushed brands of cigars increased 61 percent.

"The housewives of the country are the purchasing agents who spent 85 percent of the family income," said General Johnson in a public statement. "They realize that 'Now is the time to buy,' not only to save money, which is vitally important, but also they have decided that every dollar spent now is helping to keep the wage worker in her family on a pay roll. This sentiment has been reported from women in all walks of life, through the far-flung women's organization of NRA; and indicates that, as never before, women are giving deep thought to the psychology of buying home supplies before retail prices get back to normal."

"Hundreds of thousands, even millions, long idle, are back at work," continued the statement of General Johnson. "Many millions of dollars have been added to pay rolls. These pay rolls cannot be maintained and new jobs for millions more cannot be made unless every consumer does his or her best now. Industry is bringing into the market improved, practical products held back for these better times. Prices are going up, they must and will, and buying now is an investment, the safest investment it is possible for any one to find."

Public Library Will Open In New Quarters

A large number of new books will be ready for circulation next Wednesday. Below is a partial list: Allen—Anthony Adverse. Aldrich—Miss Bishop. Bailey—Enchanted Ground. Bentley—Carr. Bromfield—The Farm. Beth—No Second Spring. De La Roche—The Master of Jalsa. Deeping—Two Black Sheep. Douglas—The Magnificent Obsession. Dorsey—Why We Behave Like Human Beings. Fallada—Little Man, What Now? Earnol—The Way Beyond. Earnol—The Broad Highway. Gibbs—The Way of Escape. Hueston—Blithe Baldwin. James—The Raven. de Kruif—Microbe Hunters. Priestley—Wonder Hero. Rice—Mr. Pete and Co. Stuart—Try the Sky. Wahn—The House of Exile. Waller—The Windmill on the Dune. Van Dine—The World's Great Detective Stories.

Beginning next week we will publish a short review of one of our most popular books.

Annual Red Cross Roll Call Next Month

Next month, the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross will ask the citizens of the county to enlist in their roll call. As in the days of the war, when thousands of Red Cross workers extended their sympathy to the stricken, you will see the lady of mercy on posters in windows, showing who has given, that a great work might continue.

Now, in another great national emergency, the strong shoulder of the Red Cross is put to the wheel of human suffering. In Washtenaw county alone, over nine earloads of Red Cross flour and cracked wheat have been distributed to more than 2300 needy families. Every community in the county has had its share.

This story of Red Cross flour is an epic of mercy. In the United States, 85,000,000 bushels of wheat that the Farm Board took over from desperate farmers has been milled and distributed to the unemployed and needy everywhere. And the cost has been kept down to only one half cent a bushel for processing and handling.

This phase of Red Cross alone is worthy of support. Add to it the fact that the Red Cross is ever vigilant and ready at a moment's notice to come in case of calamity, and you realize the tremendous force for good, actual and potential, that this organization represents in the community.

CONCERNING AUTO CODE

With the signing by President Roosevelt of the automobile retailing code last Tuesday, the motoring public is more or less at a loss to know just how the car owner and car buyer will be affected by the fair trade provisions dealing with the used car situation. In order that any confusion in the public mind might be straightened out, officials of the Michigan Automotive Trade Association, representing the car dealers of the State, have obtained a statement from Aaron DeRoy of Detroit, who is the Michigan representative on the National Emergency Committee which drafted the code. Mr. DeRoy's statement follows:

"In preparing the fair practice provisions of the code which is to govern automobile retailers, those who served on the National Committee deliberated for several weeks in order to arrive at conclusions which would provide the greatest protection for the car buying public. Every suggestion of 'price fixing' which contained the slightest semblance of selfishness from the dealers' standpoint, was eliminated and as the code now stands we, who have spent our lives in this business, feel that it is entirely equitable from every standpoint and at the same time will curtail the pernicious practice of allowing much more for used cars in trade on new ones than they would possibly bring at resale. It would be impossible to estimate the millions of dollars which have been dissipated by this industry in this vicious practice which, in the final analysis, benefits no one.

"It would be well to remember that no automobile dealer or group of dealers is attempting to arbitrarily set up a scale of prices which they will allow for used cars. The method by which prices will be established is very similar to that which prevails on the stock exchange. In other words, the value of a car will be determined by the price for which it can be sold. The actual figures at which all cars of a certain make and model are being sold in a given area will be reported to a central bureau, which in turn will arrive at an average and this average price is the maximum that a dealer may allow in trade. In order that the public may have a slight advantage, twenty per cent of these sales which are made at the lowest prices, will be disregarded in arriving at the average price for that particular car. To make certain that true values may be obtained, revisions to this guide will be made every sixty days and it is mandatory under the code that every dealer make a report on every car that he sells so that the prices, which are finally arrived at, will be truly representative. From these resale prices, the dealer in making an allowance is required to make a slight deduction from the average price to in part compensate him for the cost of putting the car in salable condition and the expense involved in selling it. These deductions range from five to fifteen percent, depending on the age and model of the car.

"It must be remembered that these fair trade practice provisions were not written into the code without due consideration by the consumers' board of the NRA at Washington. They agreed that the used car provisions were more than fair and were absolutely necessary to rehabilitate the industry and make it possible to increase employment and raise wages.

"Another provision which is incorporated in the code for the protection of automobile buyers, provides that speedometers must be attached from the time the dealer or distributor takes delivery of the car from the factory so that the purchaser will know exactly the number of miles the car has been driven before it comes into his hands.

"All through the code, we endeavored to safeguard the interests of the buyer and by so doing safeguard our own interests, for in the final analysis, fair practice is the only means by which a business can survive, and we believe that when the fair trade practices of the code become operative on November second, the public will have been truly appraised of its provisions and will feel that the buying of an automobile is no longer a matter of horse trading with the best trader holding a decided advantage.

"Another point to be considered is that depreciation will undoubtedly be slower than it has been in the past on standard makes of automobiles and the owner will be able to ascertain at any time the true value of his car with the guesswork eliminated.

"There is nothing in the code which establishes a monopoly as the car owner at any time may sell his automobile to a consumer or to a used car dealer for the very highest cash price it is possible for him to obtain. The buyer may also put his mind at rest on the question of special discounts or gifts of accessories and tires from the dealer as the code is specific in the clauses which provide that retail prices must be maintained.

"We in the industry who have labored for months in the preparation of the code and followed it through its many stages, are gratified with its approval by the NRA and President Roosevelt and we are confident that once it is in operation, the public in general will look upon the buying of a new car in a much different light and with a greater feeling of security, than in the past."

LOVE LETTERS

Kind thoughts will be written
To those whom we love,
Expressing the interest
We feel, though removed.
Memories cherished of friends
Of the long, long ago,
Refreshing the heart
With language aglow.

We start with the sentence
Beginning, "My Dear"—
Correspondence, tho' lengthy,
Fill heart with good cheer.
Lines grow into pages
Like heaven's own dew,
Refreshing the spirit,
Reviving anew.

Earth ties become strengthened,
Though living apart,
Divine inspiration
Aglow in each heart.
Fruit of love will
It's fruitage reveal,
When ink-lines have faded
And forever sealed.

OUR NEIGHBORS

MASON—Pat Kirby, 65, of Hartford City, Indiana, was at first thought to be an absconding banker when Deputy Nathan S. Davis pulled him out of a hay mow at the farm of Guy McMillan on US-127 Monday morning. The man, bewhiskered and attired in ragged clothes, was found to have $50.86 on his person. Three old-time pre-depression $10 bills were wrapped and re-wrapped in tobacco sacks. They had been so long hidden from the light that the bills were mouldy. Kirby was first seen trundling a push cart along the highway Sunday afternoon. Besides the cash, the Hoosier wanderer had a cart full of rubbish, extra clothing, and all kinds of trinkets, scraps of cloth and sweepings of odds and ends. In one pocket was a tax receipt showing him to be the owner of property in Indiana.—County News.

Brooks who in a statement to the Exponent Tuesday morning said that oil colors were showing in the Dundee formation now being entered: "The Dundee is apparently thicker here than farther north in the Mt. 7 Good Reasons why
OLDSMOBILE is 100% ahead
in sales in its price range

More than one out of every four buyers in the Oldsmobile price range of eleven cars choose Oldsmobile. For Oldsmobile, so far this year, has sold 27.3% of all cars in its field—which is 100% greater than Oldsmobile's share of sales in its field in 1932. There are seven good reasons for this great Oldsmobile preference:

Style Leadership
Distinctive modern style has won for Oldsmobile the reputation of being America's smartest car. Today its popularity is increasing faster than ever.

Performance Leadership
Remarkable flexibility, acceleration, quietness and smoothness. 90 h.p., 80 to 85 miles an hour in the Eight; 80 h.p., 75 to 80 miles an hour in the Six.

Fisher Ventilation System
Everyone in the car gets fresh air without dangerous, unhealthy drafts. Windshield and windows cannot fog.

Outstanding Dependability
In engine, chassis and body, Oldsmobile's exceptional dependability makes it a most economical car.

Value
This year's sales point to Oldsmobile as the real value in its field.

Also, there is the fundamental economy of durability and of modern style.

Owner Satisfaction
Oldsmobile owners are enthusiastic. They recommend Oldsmobile to their closest friends.

Price
Oldsmobile looks, performs, and lasts far beyond price indication. The Six—$745 and up. The Eight—$845 and up, f. o. b. Lansing.

Choose Oldsmobile—the Style Leader. Drive the Six or the Eight today—and you will marvel that such a car is priced so low. G.M.A.C. terms, convenient and easy.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE • THE SIX $745 and up—THE EIGHT $845 and up, f. o. b. LANSING

Home Loan Act Relief Available In A. A.

Monroe, Mich., Oct. 18.—Congressman J. C. Lehr announces that Mrs. Helen C. Lehr, a representative of the Battle Creek office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, will be at the Chamber of Commerce office in Ann Arbor for the week beginning October 23, 1933, for the purpose of interviewing all who are interested in obtaining relief under the provisions of the Home Loan Act.

Mr. Lehr stresses the point that this law was passed by the Congress for the purpose of affording relief to persons who without its assistance are in serious danger of losing their homes, or who have already lost their homes through foreclosure, but who are still in a position to negotiate with the mortgagee for the redemption of their equity, and urges that all persons who come within this class call on Mrs. Lehr during her stay in Ann Arbor and go over their situation with her.

The Congressman advises that the work of the corporation in the Second Congressional District is functioning splendidly at the present time and that more than 100 loans have been closed up to October 14.

A GOOD SUGGESTION FOR DAIRYMEN

By Jack Wittman

With the advent of November comes chill nights and considerable bad weather. It's time the milking herd was housed and put on winter feed. Don't forget that it takes heat and energy to keep the cow's body warm. It takes more in cold, bad weather than in mild weather. The food the cow eats provides this heat and energy. If the cow has to use excessive amounts to warm her body, it is diverted from the production of milk. It requires heat and energy to produce milk. It is more profitable to see that the herd is comfortably housed during cold bad weather than to leave them in the pasture field to garner the small amount of late grown grass that is left.

Indian Shawls

Indian shawls are of two classes—those embroidered and those woven. The needlework in the embroidered ones is of the finest and there are often countless little animals and human figures, each on a separate piece of material, the pieces joined carefully to fit as far as possible. So fine is the needlework that it is difficult to distinguish it from weaving.
