Kiwanis Minstrel To Be Presented Here

People of this community are looking forward with happy anticipation to presentation of the "Happy Hollow Minstrels", which will be staged at the public school auditorium on Thursday and Friday evenings, November 16 and 17.

Although the minstrel show is being sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis club, the larger part of the cast has been selected from talented men about the community who are especially adapted to the parts to which they have been assigned.

In order to make the show a real community event, proceeds will be divided equally with Senior class of Chelsea high school to aid them in making their Washington trip next spring. The Seniors will have charge of ticket sales, which will start next week.

The group of thirty-five "colored boys" under the direction of Paul F. Niehaus, and Mrs. Niehaus will preside at the piano. Rehearsals are being held in the Kiwanis rooms three nights a week.

Tickets will be sold at popular prices and it is hoped the auditorium will be filled to capacity for the two performances.

Prof. Menefee Speaks On Waterway Project

How the completion of the St. Lawrence waterway according to plans agreed on by this country and Canada would contribute vitally to the development of a great wealthy, inland empire of which Michigan would be one of the principal states was described by Prof. P. N. Menefee of the University of Michigan engineering college when he spoke before the local Kiwanis club at their Monday evening meeting.

Prof. Menefee presented data to show the parallel correlation between estimated wealth of and corporation tax from centers served adequately by water transportation, and declared that the Great Lakes states would show enormous expansions in those departments if the canal were to be completed.

In summarizing his address, Prof. Menefee asserted: "The St. Lawrence seaway is being used now. Boats come from northern Europe and dock at Great Lakes harbors—they are small, operating on a small scale, and carrying small loads of goods. The St. Lawrence seaway will provide new and valuable outlets for eastern capital.

"When they come, they will dock at the wharves of 10 large cities in Canada and United States and serve a territory nowhere to be equalled, a territory nowhere to be equalled, with a population of 40,000,000. Water transportation for the iron, coal and copper of Minnesota and Michigan and the coasts of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Kentucky built up this inland empire, and the final step of making ocean ports of our Great Lakes cities, directly connecting this inland empire with other world ports, will revitalize industry and enhance all values therein.

"Enhanced values and prosperity in the Great Lakes basin will provide new and valuable outlets for eastern capital.

"The money saved in transportation costs, if only $3.00 per ton, would, if collected in tolls, amortize the construction costs in a few years.

"It will provide labor at the sites of the dams, power houses and locks in rock quarries, cement mills, electrical equipment and hydraulic machinery plants."

Jas. Killam Injured When Cars Collide

James Killam, 86 years of age, was severely injured Saturday afternoon while driving to Chelsea from his home in Lima township. As he attempted to make a left-hand turn from U.S. 12 to the Chelsea road, his automobile collided with a west bound car driven by Alvin W. Novak of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Killam sustained three fractured ribs, a lacerated forehead and other injuries. He was taken to Chelsea Private Hospital where his condition is reported as favorable. Onetta Rash and Marilyn Gauss of Ann Arbor, who were passengers in the Novak car, were treated for cuts and bruises at the office of a local physician.

NRA Exemptions of Farmers and Stores in All Rural Towns

Washington—In addition to exempting from the operation of the master retail code, and also from the President's Reemployment Agreement all stores not having more than five employees in towns of less than 2,500 population, the President issued an additional Executive order which exempts farmers' cooperative organizations whose members receive "patronage dividends" from the sections covering fair practice sections of all codes. Such sections either limit or prohibit rebates or allowances of any kind to favored purchasers whether in the form of money, goods, or services, or otherwise.

Exemption of small merchants in towns of less than 2,500 population was made weeks ago for creation of consumers' councils to hear complaints of unwarranted price increases in behalf of the Consumers' Advisory Board of NRA, with the sole exception of chain stores and branches of service organizations. Two weeks before the President's exemption order was issued it had been determined as a policy of the Recovery Administration because of hardships imposed in rural communities.

In explaining the exemption of small merchants in small towns, National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said in part:

"The recovery program came at a time when low prices were crushing agriculture, when in cities and towns there was the greatest unemployment we have ever known, when debt and closed banks were slowing activity in cities and on farms, and destructive business practices, due to depression, threatened many industries. The recovery program was designed to go to the heart of each trouble. To farmers it gave the adjustment and farm loan acts. To the unemployed it gave the recovery act, which permitted the wiping out of unfair trade practices. The banking and financial legislation attacked the problem of debt and frozen deposits for both farm and city. Of course, more wages mean increased costs and higher prices. We must remember that when we started many prices were at panic low levels which neither industry nor labor could live. Of this broad program NRA has but a part. It has nothing to do with farm prices or public works, oil administration, or the home and farm loan acts, etc. It is solely connected with industrial organization for economic planning and control with reemployment.

"The nature of the farm problem, with its annual crops, makes its solution slower. But after four months we find there are some things NRA can do in aid of the farmer and the rural merchant. Our experience shows that the amount of reemployment and wage increases in establishments employing not more than 2,500 persons in towns of less than 2,500 population is not enough to offset the hardship entailed. The President is asking those who can do so to contribute under the former rule. By all means the Blue Eagle with the exemption chevron may be displayed. This should relieve the farmer of retail mark-ups due to increased expense. Our experience also shows wide misinformation about the extent of wholesale and retail price increases. Now that most of the great codes are in, it will be much easier than ever before not only to investigate but actually to prevent undue wholesale price increases. The President has directed that this be done at once.

"But most of the complaints received now are of retail profiteering. A complete plan has been worked out for fair hearings by complaint boards. By these means we believe we can protect the public, including the farmer, against price increases which do not come as a direct result of the cost of reemployment."

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 31.—Exchange of information designed to reduce gasoline tax evasions, was agreed upon last week by seven Central States whose representatives met in Chicago. These states include Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Under plans made at the Chicago meeting, the gasoline tax divisions of the seven states will make monthly reports to each other, regarding the amounts and destinations of all gasoline exports.

Radical changes in Michigan election laws, making it much harder for prospective candidates to secure places on the primary ballots of the various parties, were approved by the election sub-committee of the Legislative Council at a meeting here last week. The sub-committee is composed of officials of both Republican and Democratic parties.

One of the proposed changes to be submitted to the legislature, would require municipal and township clerks to check all signatures on nominating petitions with lists of registered voters in the various cities, villages and townships. After this check had been made with the elimination of all signatures that did not agree with the poll lists, the nominating petitions would be forwarded to the proper state, county or municipal officer for filing.

Another suggested change, approved by the sub-committee, would increase twelve-fold the minimum number of signatures necessary to secure a place on a party primary ballot. Approval also was given to a third proposed amendment which would make party pre-primary conventions mandatory.

The Public Acts of 1933 will be available for distribution about November 10. The delay was due to the fact that the State Administrative Board withheld approval of the Department of State's requisition for three months. The department's order was sent to the board February 23 but was not approved until May 11. The price of the 1933 Public Acts will be $1.50 when purchased direct from the Department of State.

HOWELL.—A basement, built on the C. A. Spess farm in Unadilla township was destroyed by fire in the electric storm Saturday. The barn was insured in the Livingston Mutual for $1,200.00. The tenant, Arthur Hanchett, carried $1,000 insurance on the contents of the barn. The barn is said to have contained a quantity of hay, farm tools, etc. One calf was killed in the basement of the barn. Republican-Press.

State Owns Part of County
The state of Michigan owns 168,101 acres in Chippewa county, or more than one sixth of the entire county.

Efficient Government
Is Objective of Editors

Republican editors from all sections of Michigan gathered in the Association of Commerce building in Grand Rapids last Friday to organize their forces for the campaign of 1934. The newspaper men showed a keen interest in state and national affairs and declare themselves in favor of a free press, free speech, lower taxes, and honest and capable public officials.

Don VanderWerp, state representative from the Newaygo-Oceana district and editor of the Fremont Times-Indicator, was chosen president of the newly formed organization which will be known as the Republican Newspaper League of Michigan.

The other officers are: first vice president, George R. Averill of the Birmingham Eclectic; second vice president, Thos. Conlin, Crystal Falls Diamond Drill; third vice president, Wm. H. Berkey, Cassopolis Vigilant; secretary, Jas. B. Haskins, Howard City Record; treasurer, M. W. McCURE, Chelsea Standard.

Vice-presidents for each congressional district will be appointed and it is expected that the League will have a key representative in each county. The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, in these troublous times there appears a great need for strengthening the policies of government, and the bringing together in a stronger bond of understanding and co-operation the public officials and the general public who support the government through taxation, and

Whereas, the burden of government is becoming unbearable, threatening the very foundations of a free government; and

Whereas, the members of the Fourth Estate, whose traditions for the presentation of free press and free speech are embedded in the first amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Republican newspapers of Michigan organize under the name of Republican Newspaper League of Michigan for the following purposes:

1.—For carrying on a vigorous crusade to preserve the spirit and purpose of the First Amendment of the U. S. Constitution, which guarantees to all the right of free speech, free press and religious freedom.

2.—To do all in our power to maintain an effective check upon government in its various units, to the end that the tax payers may have full and complete knowledge of the expenditures of these units at all times.

3.—That so far as possible we demand that our party nominate for public office men who are both capable and honest, because, while we are Republican partisans, we shall ever hold that our party deserves to win only if it presents candidates whose characters are above reproach, whose purposes in seeking public place are for more economical and efficient government; men who consider the people's interest their supreme aim in the conduct of the offices they seek.

To attain these objectives we pledge unstinted and vigorous endeavors to see that all future activities of the Republican party are conducted along lines that will ever bear in mind the solemn obligation of Government which is to advance and preserve the welfare of the whole people all the time.

NORTHVILLE.—The boulevard highway from the Seven Mile road to Northville on the Northville-Plymouth road is officially open for traffic today, according to road officials, although much will yet be done in the way of grading lawns on either side of the boulevard. Two 40-foot stretches of pavement allow north and south bound traffic to each have a lane. Formerly, one 40-foot stretch of pavement took care of both directions.—Record.

Questions and Answers

Ques.—I have just read a book that claims that man's ancestors of primitive times had tails. Is that true or is the writer of that book trying to be sensational?

Ans.—According to scientists it is true. At the lower end of the human backbone there are six extra bones or vertebrae which are separate in babies but fuse together in later life into two solid bones. They are useless to us and are buried in the flesh of the back so that they cannot be seen except in a skeleton or X-rays. They are vestiges of the tail bone we once possessed.

Ques.—Why is it that one sees the flash of a distant gun before the report is heard?

Ans.—Because sound travels about a million times slower than light. Light is practically instantaneous. Sound takes about two seconds for every mile of distance. You could use this fact to tell how far off lighting is. For every two seconds between the flash and thunder, you are about a mile away.

Ques.—Since the Socialists are opposed to the Capitalistic system of government, why does the United States allow the Communist ticket to be printed on the ballot?

Ans.—Any American citizen or group of citizens has the right to peaceably and legally advocate his political beliefs, and to attempt to have them legally enacted into laws. The Communist party had met with all legal requirements in states where its ticket appeared on the ballot. This applies to the Socialist party or any other party also. Many people think that Socialism and Communism are the same party. This is not so. While the Democrats and Republicans belong to the Capitalistic form of government, they differ from each other in their platform of government. The Socialists and Communists believe in the Socialistic form of government, but they differ from each other in their platform for carrying out their plan.

Ques.—Are there any states where women are exempt from paying taxes?

Ans.—No. Except for poll tax, no individual (man or woman) is taxed in any state in the Union. Only property, incomes, and other forms of wealth are taxed, and the fact that such wealth is possessed by a woman does not prevent it from being subject to taxation. Since the 19th Amendment has been in effect, women possess equal citizenship rights with men, and now have no cause for just complaint because they are compelled to pay the same taxes as men. Equal rights imply equal responsibilities.

Ques.—I wish to ask what portion of our municipal, county and state taxes go to the Federal government?

Ans.—None. The federal government derives no income from real estate or personal property taxes, except the estate tax payable upon settlement of the estate of deceased persons. The federal government derives its income from import duties, income and estate taxes, manufacture excise tax, stamp taxes, postal revenues, theatre, telegraph, and other "nuisance" taxes, interest on foreign debts, Panama Canal tolls, and a few miscellaneous items.

Ques.—Will you please answer in your question department if either black or green tea is colored? Also which is the best?

Ans.—Neither black nor green tea contains artificial coloring matter. In the manufacture of black tea, fermentation is encouraged up to a certain point to oxidize some of the tannin. During this process certain chemical changes take place which darken the leaf. In green tea the leaf is subjected to heat as soon as possible after being picked to destroy the enzyme which causes fermentation. Green tea has a higher tannin content, due to natural chemical changes. The desirability of one kind of tea over the other is merely a matter of taste.

Ques.—I wish to ask when did Jerusalem surrender to the Allies? Also was it to the French or British?

Ans.—It was taken by the British. Jerusalem fell to General Allenby on Dec. 9, 1917, causing the Turks to surrender. Allenby made his entry into the city two days later. The last fighting between the Turks and British armies took place on Oct. 28, 1918, north of Aleppo. The armistice was signed on Oct. 31.

Ques.—Can you give me the names of the members of the United States Supreme Court?

Ans.—The Justices of the United States Supreme Court are as follows: Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice; Willis Van Devanter, James Clark McReynolds, Louis D. Brandeis, Geo. Sutherland, Pierce Butler, Harlan Stone, Owen J. Roberts, Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, Associates.

BROOKLYN.—Harry Kerr of Wolf Lake Park, who has developed a great business in bitter sweet put-up in attractive cellophane covers for Chicago stores is turning his attention to a new enterprise to please fishermen. It is a "stubb pole" for ice fishermen who can set up to five lines. Selling at a low price, he has given the pole the good name, "Perch Picker," and it looks as though rapid sales would be developed.—Exponent.

Dissolving Indebtedness

THE subject of debt looms large on the mental horizon of today. Quite apart from the manifold questions bound up with the consideration of war debts, those sad legacies of strife which so greatly concern the nations at this time, there remains the fact that many individuals are facing a situation in which their assets seem inadequate to meet the liabilities they have incurred. Often, as a result of depreciated currency, they see the value of their possessions continually diminishing, and begin to question the stability they once accepted as a fixed standard.

It is helpful to examine Jesus' utterances on debt in the light which Christian Science throws upon them. The first mention occurs in the prayer which he gave to his disciples in response to their request that he should teach them to pray. The Master's words, "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors," are wonderfully illuminated by the spiritual interpretation which Mary Baker Eddy has given them in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 17): "And love is release in love."

Love, then, is the primary solution of this question of debt—the love of God for His children reflected by them to one another. Jesus evidently saw the need of amplifying this subject in a way that would be easily understood by his hearers, for he later expounded it by means of a parable. He told them of a servant who owed a vast sum which he was apparently unable to pay. At his earnest request, however, his lord forgave him this debt. We read that this servant then went out, and finding a fellow servant who owed him a comparatively small amount "took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest." And disregarding the debtor's plea of inability, he cast him into prison. Their lord, however, became cognizant of the situation and withdrew his pardon, requiring the creditor to pay his own debt.

It is interesting to notice that neither of these debtors protested his inability to pay or asked for the amount to be reduced. They both prayed the creditor for patience, promising to pay the full amount owing. In the first case it is recorded that his lord had compassion on the servant and forgave him his debt; while in the second the creditor took his fellow servant by the throat, or, metaphorically speaking, established such "a strangle hold" upon him as to render it impossible for him to free himself. It is clear that the mental qualities of patience and compassion extended to one who is in difficulties reassure and help him to win his freedom, while a cruel and unmerciful attitude of thought only tightens his bonds.

When we realize that all the love and devotion of which we are capable we owe to God, who is Love and the very source of all being, the meaning of the parable becomes apparent. Our obligations to God can be fulfilled only in the measure of our love and compassion for our fellow men. The mental "strangle hold" of hatred, misunderstanding, envy, or pride expressed in our thought of our brother will hinder him from giving us the appreciation which we believe to be due from him, and from restoring that which he owes. If we fail to reflect the love of God to all about us, the channels of our own capacity to give will become blocked with selfishness and self-seeking. Paul writes, "Owe no man any thing, but to love one another," and Christian Science teaches its students that this debt of love must be paid by each and all who would find the unobscured stream of spiritual supply.

Primarily, then, what is needed both by nations and by individuals today is the compassionate understanding which refuses to accept an erroneous viewpoint of either a debtor or a creditor. We are all debtors to God. And as we begin to lay down our sense of personal possession, the tight grip which fetters our love and material possessions will become less stringent; and in the proportion that we entertain divine ideas the proper means of liquidating our material obligations will become apparent.

There is great need of clarifying our thinking, and refusing to accept a materialistic suggestion of annoyance or loss which would distort our viewpoint of one another. Thought must be lifted to perceive the infinitude of spiritual ideas, which are always at hand to supply the human requirement. To Jesus the demand of the tax collector or the need of the multitude presented no difficulty, because he knew so well the all-embracing nature of his Father's love. He obtained what was necessary, so conscious was he of what Mrs. Eddy has called "the divine law that supply invariably meets demand" (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 45). But would this have been the case had he allowed his thought to become clouded with resentment toward any of those with whom he was associated?

The patience and compassion so continually manifested by Christ Jesus are needed today in full measure; and in addition to these the quality of steadfast trust and assurance that our Father will open to us the way to meet our human obligations. Mrs. Eddy has made the inspired statement that "the right way wins the right of way, even the way of truth and Love whereby all our debts are paid, mankind blessed, and God glorified" ("The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellaneous, p. 222").—The Christian Science Monitor.

THE GARLANDS OF AUTUMN

As I walked in my garden this morning I was charmed by an October Sun, Trying hard to glimmer its brightness, Thru fog and thru mists which had come.

The days all so mild and so golden, With harvests abundant in store, And now with the joy of thanksgiving The Giver of blessings adore.

Thou leaves and petals of Autumn, Have rusted to yellow and brown, The rose and hyacinth faded, And lily stalk bent to the ground. A sense of sadness and sorrow, At times, may be wafted on air, But look! there's harvest and fruitage, Abundant for all—everywhere.

The flowers and fragrance of Spring-time, With foliage and beauty so rare, The summer, its birds and perfumes We've seen and inhaled everywhere. The season's perfection and beauty, Rejoicing our hearts as we sing, But the climax of all is accomplished, With the Garlands that God's Autumn brings.

—Arthur Carlotti, M. E. Home.

Colonial Shipbuilding
Dates Back to Year 1607

Shipbuilding in the Colonies began in 1607, with the construction of the 30-ton pinnace named Virginia, built by the Popham colony, which settled on the coast of Maine 12 years before the Mayflower started for American shores; followed by the Onrust, the first vessel built by the Dutch on the Hudson in 1614.

Jamestown had small crafts in 1632, and the year 1635 saw six ships built by the Pilgrims for coastal trade with the Indians, with the Triant launched in Boston in 1641. Ten years after the Restoration Act of 1651 every American port from Portland to Charleston was a swarming avenue of masted ships, and when Charles I was defeated by Cromwell, Massachusetts had four shipyards.

In 1668 the flourishing world commerce of the Colonies began, and with the dawn of the eighteenth century the fastest and most beautiful ships driven by wind were engaged in commerce beyond the Cape of Good Hope through labyrinthine of East India Archipelago, bound for the "China trade." In one year Newburyport saw 41 ships and 50 schooners sail for the Orient, and Massachusetts in 1770 had one sea-going vessel of colossal importance that helped lay the cornerstone of the American nation.

PLYMOUTH.—Denton people have called at the postoffice for mail for the last time. Not again will they say, "Any mail?" before asking the price of potatoes and sugar in the grocery store which shelters the postoffice. Aid To Vets - Schools Demanded By Legion

Outlining a four-point program for the American Legion in the State of Michigan for the coming year, the newly elected State Commander, Don Heardslee, of Greenville, presided at a district meeting at Charles McKenney Hall in Ypsilanti, Sunday, October 29, at which present speakers of the evening, following the business meeting in the afternoon, were Governor Comstock, Congressman John C. Lehr, Clark Smith, American Legion Committee Chairman of the State of Michigan, Ray Kelly, and John P. Kirk, who acted as toastmaster.

Demanded for relief for disabled veterans, provision for caring for dependents of veterans, Americanism and Membership are to be the aim of the Legion in this State for the coming year, 250 Legionnaires and Auxiliary members were present.

Severe criticism of the national government's neglect to provide for relief for disabled ex-service men, their widows and orphans and the anticipated closing of many schools throughout the State, due to the State's failure to provide funds, were the chief topics of the evening.

Emphasis was taken by the speaker represented at the District Convention as was also by the District Auxiliary, to support a resolution to be presented to the Governor pertaining to funds for the operation of schools.

Quoting Clark Smith, "The school annuities in Michigan are in a truly terrible shape. In some places the year's program is threatened with as high as a 70 percent reduction. And in the face of the fact that some state funds are known to be present, time to be running over—granting, of course, that others are drained out. The Legion is merely falling in line with a needed movement which has been started by a statewide group of loyal school supporters to make a determined request of the legislature for relief from some state funds, using the state's new sales tax as a source. What we want is schools, for the sake of our children and ourselves and of our future society and civilization."

Governor Comstock, in his address before the Legionnaires and the Auxiliary at the banquet pledged himself to relief for the school situation. However, no time was stated, nor was the method. He discussed to considerable length his new sales tax and mentioned that it might be necessary to raise funds for education within the state by some other means if the revenue from the sales tax fell short of the amount anticipated to be collected. His idea is that considerable additional revenue will be brought into the state treasury with the repeal of the 18th Amendment and the coming of fees from the "liquor traffic."

Hon. John C. Lehr, in his address to the gathering, highly commended the efforts of President Roosevelt in trying to bring the American people out of the present economic situation. He cited the relief measures taken by the President in his placing boys at work in the Civilian Conservation Corps, his reopening the closed banks immediately upon his taking office, and the Emergency Act, which he admitted "is an experiment that can be altered if necessary." "It is true," Lehr stated, "that in some cases it has hurt, but it has benefited others and in the end you will find there has been no injustice done. There is one man in Washington who will not stand for such injustice. He is our great President, Franklin Roosevelt."

In response to the talk by Congressman Lehr, Ray Kelly, a former State Commander of The American Legion, and at one time a member of the National Executive Committee, at present Detroit commander, counsel, stated that the government was "unfair, unjust and un-American in its application of the recently effected Economy Act." With a fear and great sentiment he shouted: "Yes, there is lots of injustice, but there is nowhere near as much toward the government as towards the veteran."

He cited the promises made to the boys who marched away in 1917 and when they returned victorious heroes in 1919. He then mentioned that only last week over the radio they had been termed "chiselers" and had been called "strawberry loafers." He asked "Who wanted the War?" "We didn't start the war across the pond, Congress did. We stopped it and for that reason the care and support of our buddies who came back either totally disabled or nearly so should have been provided for, definitely. Now the support that has been given them has been withdrawn. It is absolutely unfair. It is throwing away the very honor of our country which was ours to uphold." Kelly pointed out that the money paid to the veterans for relief doesn't come from a property tax, it comes from the income tax chiefly, and the income tax is paid by those who can afford to pay it. "They are the millionaires, and figures show that for every three men killed in the World War, one American millionaire was made. Let me tell you something—if we make these war-made millionaires pay and keep them paying on these just war debts of the war, we will not only see a return of real prosperity, but we will see the establishment of one of the greatest instruments in the prevention of war in the future. We can never bring back prosperity by taking away the millions due our veterans and at the same time sending these C. C. armies out in the wilds to plant trees. They call that bal-

TROJANS GIVE REAL PARTY

Probably one of the prettiest dances that Chelsea has witnessed, was given last Monday night in the public school gymnasium by the Trojans. Those that failed to attend missed a rare treat.

The decorations were delightful. The stage in the gym was made to resemble a regular corn field with the exception that many brilliant pumpkins winked out over the darkened floor. The whole balcony was also decorated with corn and pumpkins.

We do not know exactly how many pumpkins there were altogether but there were enough so that it was possible to turn out all the gymnasium lights and still be able to see quite clearly.

The orchestra platform was the most unique that we have ever seen. The musicians were surrounded with a tall fence that was taken from a nearby farm. Michigan holly, corn and pumpkins made the fence a lovely picture. The orchestra itself made a fine impression on everyone.

Cher and doughnuts were served without stint. There was more than enough for everyone. Confetti and serpentine added to the gaiety, judging from the screaming and laughter.

Everyone enjoyed themselves immensely and we see no reason why the next Trojan dance should not bring every dancer in the township. Again we say, that those who did not attend missed a rare treat.

—Trojan Seribe.

Mrs. Green, of near Dexter, invited the class and their families to her home for the Christmas party, which will be held the first part of December. At the morning session, the leaders stressed the importance of every one being on time, so the meeting may start promptly at 10 a. m. After a sumptuous dinner, the leaders gave illustrations for enlarging and taking in patterns, to fit the figure. The class measured for their own individual patterns, and will have them at the next meeting. Everyone enjoyed the lesson and a vote of thanks was extended to the new leaders for their splendid work.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, Norman Trinkle, who passed away eight years ago October 20:

In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same;
We often sit and think of you,
And wish you were here again.

We think of you in silence,
No eyes can see us weep;
But many a silent tear we shed,
When others are fast asleep.

Father, Mother and Children.
