Here Is Your Chance To Win Cash Prize

The Standard is pleased to announce to our subscribers a contest that has for the successful contestants two cash prizes. All you have to do is to write an editorial for this paper. The editorial must have not less than 500 words and not more than 1000 words. It must be written on the following subject:

"Why A Community Newspaper." The donor of these cash prizes for readers of The Standard is Adrian Van Koevring, editor and publisher of The Zeeland Record. Mr. Van Koevring is a former president of the Michigan Press Association. He is the publisher of one of the best weekly newspapers in the state and he is intensely loyal to the community where he has spent his entire life in newspaper work.

He is offering this prize to people of Michigan in order to create a bit more of interest in the future of the community newspaper. It is realized by everyone that the very life of a community is in its newspaper, that when its newspaper dies, the town spirit dies and then your community is on the way out. This is but history.

The future of the small town is now at the crossroads. It must be saved. Mr. Van Koevring knows that the community newspapers of the nation can play an important part in this great job of the future.

He is offering as a first prize $25.00 in cash. The second prize is $10.

Will you write the editorial today or tomorrow, submit it to the editor of The Standard and it will be submitted to the contest committee at the time of the annual convention of the Michigan Press Association to be held in Lansing, January 25, 26 and 27. The announcement of the winners will be made at that time.

In writing your editorial, write it on one side of the paper only. Write clearly. Place your name, your address and the name of the town in which you live at the top of the first page. And write your editorial today on the subject "Why A Community Newspaper," and submit it within the next few days to the editor of The Standard who will see to it that they all reach the contest committee at the time of the annual convention of the MPA. No editorials will be accepted after January 15, so write yours today!

Deposits Insured In Both Chelsea Banks

Both Chelsea banks have paid premiums on their deposits to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and have received their certificates of membership in the corporation, which insures their deposits according to the provisions of the Federal insurance plan which became effective on January 2, 1934.

It is gratifying to the people of this community to know that the continued high standing of these two local institutions permitted them to become affiliated with this plan which adds further to the confidence of their patrons.

The local banks have maintained a strong position during the economic stress of the past few years and following the national banking holiday last March were among the first to be granted licenses by the Federal Government.

CWA Repair Work Delays Opening of Schools Until 15th

Because of the extensive repair work which is under way at the Chelsea public school buildings as a part of the federal CWA project, the Board of Education announces that it is necessary to postpone the opening of school sessions until Monday, January 15th, instead of next Monday as originally planned.

Kindergarten will be excused until work in the old building is finished. When school opens on the 15th, the first and second grades will be held in the auditorium; third grade will assemble in room 21 in the northeast corner of the high school building; fourth grade will assemble in the northwest corner of the high school building; the fifth grade will use Miss Barrus' recitation room and her classes will be held in other rooms in the building.

In the high school side, new steps will replace entirely the stairs that were very noisy. All of the basement rooms will be painted—floors, ceilings and side walls.

Some painting has already been done on the high school side and all of the rooms will be brightened by new paint where necessary.

The old building will be completely rehabilitated. The fourth and fifth grades will be enlarged by taking out the partitions on the south and will both be good sized grade rooms, as large as the present first and second grade rooms.

The old building will be re-plastered, the old floors will be taken up and new floors put down, all of the waiste-coating will be scraped and varnished. Some of the basement rooms will be finished so they can be used for extra-curricular activities.

A maximum of 25 men will be employed on the project. The cost of the repairs and refinishing will be about $7,500, to be financed under the CWA program.

Lansing, Mich.—Through reduction of personnel and adjustment of salaries, the Department of State payrolls were reduced January 1 at the rate of $50,640 a year.

The salary adjustment was not a "blanket cut" but consisted of reductions in the salaries of division heads and the higher-paid employees, while no changes were made in the salaries of those in the lower wage brackets. Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald voluntarily reduced his own salary in conformity with the payroll adjustments.

Crime is decreasing in Michigan, according to compilation by the Department of State of the annual sheriff's reports for the year ending June 30, 1933.

During the 12 months ending on that date, 45,561 persons were arrested and confined in jails, according to the compilation, while during the year ending June 30, 1932, a total of 52,157 persons were arrested.

The summary also shows that the cost of maintaining Michigan's 83 sheriff's departments was $1,502,043, or $360,005 less than for the previous year. A reduction also was made in costs of keeping the prisoners. It cost $16.18 to keep each prisoner a week in 1932 while the cost for the 12 months ending June 30, 1933 was $13.59.

During the year 1,697 were sentenced to state prisons, 788 to the Michigan Reformatory, 2,088 to the Detroit House of Correction, 19 to the Boys' Vocational School and 9 to the Girls' Training School.

Scenes May Change
But Show Goes On

East Lansing.—There may be some new scenery for this year's Farmers' Week, January 20 to Feb. 2, there will be some new faces on the stage, but the play will be about the same as has delighted thousands of Michigan farmers every year for nearly two decades.

State associations concerned with farm business or farm life will hold annual meetings throughout the week. Thirty of these groups combine business with pleasure and can transact the necessary work for their groups and be on the ground to enjoy entertainment and educational features.

Most of the groups have meetings during the mornings at which their particular phase of farm life is discussed. These meetings are open to anyone but primarily interest those engaged in that particular line of work.

General programs at which speakers of special interest appear are held in the afternoon. Usually, one speaker and some musical selections complete the day's general program.

Livestock and crops shows are always popular and attract crowds. Entertainment features will be provided on two nights during the week.

The inner man will be well cared for by banquets and luncheons scheduled by the various groups. Speaking programs are given at some of these meetings.

Homemakers have a special program which is arranged to permit women to enjoy all general meetings and also the entertainment features.

Ans.—Alcohol paralyzes the muscles that move the eyeballs, so that the two eyes no longer point in exactly the same direction. The "queer" looking eyes are also controlled by the paralyzed condition.

Minnesota extends farther north than any other state because a portion of Lake of the Woods county lies north of the forty-ninth parallel (which marks the northern boundary of Washington, Idaho, Montana and North Dakota) along the west shore of Lake of the Woods. ## Salt Once Used by Many

as Medium of Exchange

Salt as a standard in the history of commerce antedates the gold standard. As a medium of exchange salt was widely used in many ancient countries. The Mogul conquerors of India made decrees thousands of years ago regulating the standard of salt that was used for money. Up until comparatively recent times salt was used as a medium of exchange in the Shan markets in Indo-China.

Besides being used as money, salt in days gone by was a powerful developer of commerce. Being essential to life and unavailable to tribes remote from the sea from which the substance was obtained by evaporation, trade routes were early developed to provide the transportation of salt.

For hundreds of years a caravan route was maintained between Palmyra and Syrian ports. Even today much of the caravan traffic in Sahara is largely in this precious commodity. The oldest road in Italy is not the Appian way, but the "Via Salaria." The salt road along which salt was anciently carried from the evaporated pits at Ostia to the Sabine territory.

Indeed, according to historians, the world's second largest city, London, was first founded because of the salt trade. During the earliest days of European history salt was sent from England to the continent. Cheshire and Worcestershire provided salt for Britain and Gaul, and the route for its transportation crossed the country in a southeasterly direction, crossing the Thames, then very shallow, at a ford where Westminster now stands. An inn was built to accommodate salt haulers when the river was too swollen to ford. From this humble beginning as a resting place for salt traders the great city of London resulted.

OUR NEIGHBORS

MILAN—Like a belated Christmas gift to the community, came the news Wednesday that the plan for reorganization and reopening of the Peoples State Bank of Milan had been accepted by the Federal Government.—Leader.

JACKSON—One of the biggest of flees in Jackson is that in the Consumer Power company building occupied by the Home Owners Loan Corporation. Last week, for instance, that office relinquished $50,000 worth of home mortgages and paid out some $5,500 in back taxes on the properties affected. To date, about 1,200 Jackson county home buyers have applied to the loan office here for mortgage relief, and about a third of these have been approved. The H. O. L. C. will play an important part in liquidating the mortgage assets of the defunct Union &amp; Peoples bank, arrangements already being nearly complete to exchange bonds for 100 mortgages held by that institution. The personnel of the office in Jackson has shown increasing efficiency with the passing of the weeks and is now able to provide the relief contemplated when the federal agency was established with the least possible delay.—Evening Star.

HOWELL—Left entirely to their own resources and protected from hunters, two buck and three doe deer increased in seven years to a herd of 102. The deer herd is located on the George Preserve south and west of Phicney which is operated by the University of Michigan. The Preserve contains an area of approximately 1,280 acres and is completely enclosed by a deer proof fence. Early in December a drive to determine the number of deer now living on the preserve was organized. The drive was so arranged as to thoroughly cover the area and so that deer would not be counted more than once. The drive resulted in the counting of a total of 162 deer. Of these, 89 were does, 46 were bucks and 27 were fawns. But few fatalities have occurred among the deer. Only two were found dead this year.—Republican Press.

MANCHESTER—Wednesday, Dec. 27 proved to be a "red letter" day for Manchester when workmen, despite the cold weather, started operations on the school CWA project. Foundations for the addition are now in process of construction, a quota of fifty men having been assigned to the work.—Enterprise.

MASON.—A Mason taxpayer called the guard Saturday afternoon. A woman was about to pay her taxes to Mrs. Pearl Hardenburg, city treasurer, who was collecting taxes in the directors' room of the Dart National bank. The taxpayer needed a little more light to find the promised savings on the tax receipt so reached over and pushed what she thought was a light button. What she pushed was the burglar alarm and a minute later a force of officers under Deputy Nathan S. Davis swarmed into the bank with loaded shot guns.—County News.

WAYNE.—The new Wayne State Bank will open on Tuesday, January 2. For more than two years Wayne has been without banking facilities.—County Review.

Make Car Less Inflammable
Substances have been found which added to hydrogen gas make it 80 per cent less inflammable, a discovery which may be of utmost importance to dirigibles in countries that do not have helium gas.Farmers Can Obtain
Short Term Credits

East Lansing.—Federal funds available for loans to farmers for the growing of crops or the production of livestock complete the chain of loan facilities made available to Michigan farmers in an attempt to counteract unusual financial conditions, according to William I. Myers, governor of the farm credit administration.

This is a new form of agricultural credit and is intended to become a permanent part of the financial facilities available to Michigan farmers. The money is loaned through local associations of borrowers, much similar to the associations formed to secure loans on mortgages. This new credit is for short term loans in communities not having sufficient local banking facilities.

Local associations have already been formed in the lower peninsula of Michigan and will be ready for business within a short time. The upper peninsula will be similarly organized within a short time.

A Michigan man, Fred D. Elliott, is treasurer of the Production Credit Association for the four states forming the group in which Michigan is included.

Any farmer is eligible to receive a crop production loan. No loans less than $50 are made. The money is loaned for a period of one year or less. Notes and liens on crops or personal property are the securities asked for the loans. Interest rates will be 6 or 8 1/2 per cent at present and are determined by the discount rates of the Intermediate Credit Bank. Applications for loans should be made to the local association.

County agricultural agents have printed information concerning this new type of credit and should be able to tell farmers of their county where the nearest local association is located. At present, there is one association for several counties but additional ones will be formed if the need arises.

The home office of the Production Credit Corporation for this State is in St. Paul.

Cats and Dogs

A cat has thirty teeth; a dog forty two. The cat is immune to snake bites; the dog not. The dog seeks shelter at his master's hand when ill; the cat seeks to crawl away and hide herself. Authentic records show the oldest cat lived thirty years; their average life being ten years; the dogs corresponding averages are somewhat different, oldest being twenty-three years, averaging twelve to fourteen, with the exception of the bulldog, whose average is eight to ten years.

The Martello Tower

The name Martello is supposed to be derived from that of a fort on Cape Martello, Corica, which was captured in 1794 by a British naval force after having put up a very gallant fight against a combined sea and land attack. This incident led to a firm belief in the strength of such towers, and resulted in their erection along the shores of England, especially in the South and East, says the Montreal Herald. Each one consists of a small circular tower of solid masonry, two stories high and containing vaulted rooms. In the lower part stores were kept; the upper portion was intended for troops, and the whole building was used as a means of defense. It was often surrounded by a ditch, and the only way of access was by a ladder which connected with a door about 20 feet above the ground. There was usually a small platform at the top with sufficient room for two or three guns to fire over the surrounding parapet. The chief defect the towers had was against vortient fire, so quite obviously they would be of little use today against aircraft.

"Obliging" is his given name, he always answers HERE!

At Christmas, New Year, anywhere, or day, he brings good cheer; He lives at Eschol Arbor (Num. 13-23) where grapes grow large and sweet. You'll need no introduction, you'll know him when you meet.

Queen Bee Loses Husband

Very Soon After Wedding
A queen bee, according to an authority in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, sometimes lays as many as 3,000 eggs a day and in her lifetime, becomes mother of 1,000,000 bees. A single mating suffices for the queen bee's lifetime, and she can go on laying fertile eggs for as long as four years—though beekeepers change queen bees at least biennially. A queen bee returns from her wedding journey a widow, and her final fate is to be slain by one of her own queen-bee daughters.

Only one in 5,000 drones ever becomes a husband—but he pays with his life for that privilege. A drone cannot feed himself, and it requires the labor of five or six honey-gathering bees to provide him with food.

The worker bee does not venture out from the hive until about seven or eight days old. Meanwhile it aids 40,000 of its sisters in housekeeping tasks within the hive. It takes 80,000 trips to bring in one pound of honey—the work of the whole honey-gathering lives of 600 bees. At times when nectar is most abundant 30 days will exhaust the life-energy of a worker bee. It is the bees which have done little or no honey-collecting, which carry the labors of winter time, care of the hive—including providing it with adequate heat by exercising within the hive.

Leeks for Asthma

Herbalists use the leek in compounding their remedies, for this vegetable is credited with healing powers and is valuable as a tonic. It contains an oil which, mixed with vinegar, has been successfully used as a remedy for asthma. Three centuries ago there was a cure for consumption in which leeks figured prominently, and leek soup was in the diet of any patient recovering from a wasting disease. The Welsh took the leek as their national emblem in 544 when, under King Cadwallader, they fought a great battle against the Saxons. Their patron saint, St. David, persuaded them to wear leeks in their caps that each man might quickly see in the fray if the next man to him were friend or foe. The Welsh won their battle, and since then the leek has been their national emblem, and they always wear it on St. David's day.

Continental Currency of 1775-1779 Is of No Value

Continental currency is the term applied to the 40 issues of bills of credit or paper money put out by authority of the continental congress from June 22, 1775, to November 29, 1779. In all, this currency amounted to a face value of $250,000,000.

The bills were promises to pay, based upon the pledge of congress to redeem them in "Spanish milled dollars, or the value thereof in gold or silver." No date for redemption was given.

The reason for their issuance was that the congress had no fiscal powers, and no authority to levy taxes. There was, moreover, not enough faith in the prospects of the revolution being successful for the congress to be able to borrow much money. The notes, being unsecured by any real value, quickly depreciated, and at the beginning of 1779 they were able to pass for only one-eighth of their face. At the end of the year their ratio to specie was 38 to 1. In 1780 the congress itself recognized its inability to maintain their value, and provided for their acceptance in place of silver at a ratio of 40 to 1. In 1791 the ratio fell to 100 to 1, and in 1790, by the terms of a funding act of that year, provision was made for redeeming them, up to a certain date, at that ratio.

Those which were unredeemed were thereafter without value, and no longer circulated. Large numbers of them are still preserved, but as they have no currency value there is only a collectors' interest in them.

The Pony Express

The pony express was started in 1860, when an impending crisis made the rapid communication of news between the older states and far-distant California a national necessity. The animals used were, of course, not ponies but fleet American horses.

Use for Dogwood Timber

Dogwood timber is used for shuttles wherever cotton, wool or silk is manufactured, and is also used in making spools, brush backs and wood pulleys.

Many Use Dollar Sign

There used to be a time when all of us were quite familiar with the dollar sign "$". Strangely enough, this conventional symbol associated with American currency is used to denote local currency in some 20 foreign countries. According to a compilation published in a supplement to the Commerce department's Foreign Financial News countries employing the dollar sign in designating their currencies are: Argentina, British Guiana, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Ethiopia, Hongkong, Macao, Mexico, Newfoundland, Paraguay, Portugal, Straits Settlement and Uruguay.

Life of Toads

Dead Sea Receding

Geologists are of the opinion that the Dead sea, one of the most busy and sheets of water in the world, was once 1,200 feet higher, says the Denver Post. This inland lake is embedded between lofty cliffs of baked limestone and presents a scene of utter desolation, as no plant, fish or animal life can exist in the region.

Inventory

AT THE end of each fiscal year a merchant or business man usually makes a list of his stock of merchandise in order to obtain accurate information as to the actual worth of his business. The process is called an inventory of merchandise. The thoughtful merchant does not attempt to deceive himself into believing that all the merchandise on his shelves is worth what he paid for it, and so he culls out the worthless stock, marks down whatever is shoddy, and adjusts his gains and losses accordingly. Thus he commences the new year with a balance sheet of correct values.

This question of correct values sooner or later confronts all mankind; and, like the business man, every individual who is eager to advance in the right direction will take account of his personal stock by making a careful analysis of his spiritual, mental, and moral condition. He will devote himself resolutely to the task of eliminating from his storehouse of thinking whatever is undesirable or destructive to health, holiness, and success, and seek to replace it with that which will bring peace and happiness not only to himself, but to all upon whom his thoughts may rest.

While a business man may take stock only once or twice during the year, in the textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, we read (p. 233): "Every day makes its demands upon us for high or profligate rather than professions of Christian power. These professions consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness, and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them. This is an element of progress, and progress is the law of God, whose law demands of us only what we can certainly fulfill."

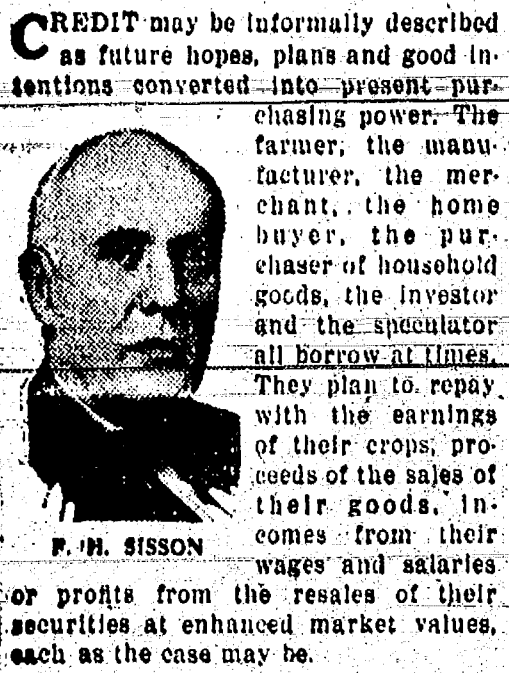

Necessarily we must progress, since that is God's law. Then, if that law, the law of divine Love, demands of us what we can fulfill, we need not hesitate, or even be in doubt, for no problem is too difficult for a true understanding of Mind to solve, and no error too subtle for Truth to uncover. It is our part simply to be obedient to God's behest, and to relinquish all thoughts, great as practical, aught that is untrue, selfish,

How All the People Played a Part In Building Nation's Credit Structure

Banker Describes the Way Loans and Securities of Banks
Are Based on the Hopes and Plans of All
Classes—Values Dependent on Public's
Ability to Meet Obligations

By FRANCIS H. SISSON,
President American Bankers Association in The Forum

F. H. SISSON

CREDIT may be informally described as future hopes, plans and good intentions converted into present purchasing power. The farmer, the manufacturer, the merchant, the home buyer, the purchaser of household goods, the investor and the speculator all borrow at times. They pay to repay with the earnings of their crops, proceeds of the sales of their goods, incomes from their wages and salaries or profits from the resale of their securities at enhanced market values, each as the case may be.

The greater part of these various forms of credit is obtained by the borrower directly or indirectly through the expansion of the loans and investments of the banks. It is this which creates the notes, securities and mortgages in the portfolios of the banks. The banks are able to extend these loans because a great many people deposit money with them.

Even under the best conditions the plans of a small percentage of borrowers go wrong through mistakes, hard luck or dishonesty, and the judgment of the banker in such cases is proved by the after event to have been at fault. The losses caused under such conditions are ordinarily fully met by funds set aside out of the earnings of the banks for just this purpose and do not affect the money of the depositors, who seldom hear anything about such losses.

In the vast majority of cases and in the overwhelming volume of business involved the confidence of the bankers in their customers and the confidence of the customers in their own ability to carry out their plans and obligations to successful conclusions are wholly justified. This is the normal economic situation and it constitutes the conditions under which the use of credit adds to public welfare and progress.

The Faith of the Banks
Such was the structure of hopes, good intentions and common confidence in one another that existed among all classes of the nation's community life when the series of economic shocks began to shake the nation's social fabric in 1929. The people had deposited billions of dollars with the banks because they had confidence in them. The banks had loaned large volumes of these deposits on farm and home mortgages and on notes of manufacturers, business men and finance concerns, and had invested in the standard securities of the nation's corporations, state and local government units and the national government itself, because they had confidence in the citizenship and business condition of the nation.

Their mortgage and other loans to owners of farms aggregated $6,500,000,000. Loans on urban real estate were $4,000,000,000. Loans to individuals secured by U. S. Government, municipal and corporate securities totaled $11,000,000,000. Loans to industrial and commercial enterprises in connection with the production and distribution of the nation's infinite variety of goods amounted to almost $19,500,000,000. Investments in Federal, State and municipal bonds were almost $30,000,000,000, and in various kinds of railroad and corporate securities $11,000,000,000. These made total loans and investments of $58,000,000,000.

This great credit structure was built while the country was at peace, while the farms and factories were productive, while the nation and the world provided great active markets for their outputs, while the earnings of all kinds of enterprise were large, while the working people of the nation were fully employed, while wages and salaries were steady and generous, while prices of commodities were strong and while the minds of the people were dominated by faith in the future and confidence in one another.

Great Changes Came to the Nation. Then suddenly, almost as if the sun itself had lost part of its vitality, everything changed. Foreign markets failed and disappeared. Industry slackened. A rapid drop in all kinds of commodity values set in. The earnings of business fell. Unemployment developed. Wages and salaries went down. Domestic markets shrank. Fear became general. The securities markets became panic-stricken as the prices of stocks and bonds withered to fractions of their former values. It was the greatest disintegration of human plans, economic conditions and worldly values that history had ever witnessed.

These destructive changes cut right through the qualities and values of the loans and investments, the notes and securities in the banks. Business men and manufacturers could not repay their notes to the banks as due. Many governmental units and corporations defaulted the payments on their bonds. Property underlying real estate mortgages became worth less than the face of the mortgages. The market values of standard securities became less than the banks had paid for them as investments or accepted them as collateral for customers' loans.

This meant in time, that the ability of borrowers to carry out the future hopes, plans and good intentions that they had defined above as the basis of credit, had become impaired to a far greater extent than had ever before occurred in the nation's history. The resulting losses could not be absorbed by the banks alone out of the normally ample funds that had been set aside against the expectancy of a certain equitable percentage of human plans gone wrong.

Banks Showed All Reasonable Care
It was in loans and investments, whose values thus became so unforeseeably impaired, that the banks, in all confidence, in all good faith, in all humanly reasonable care and good judgment had entrusted the billions of dollars of deposits which their customers had entrusted to them.

Those loans and investments were, under all normal conditions, as good as gold itself. Indeed, if the banks instead had filled their vaults with gold bars, and then some unknown cosmic ray had transmitted them into lead, the results would have been scarcely more startling than the depreciation that was caused in the assets of the banks by the unforeseeable economic forces which permeated and debased them.

The inevitable result was that, when the banks urgently needed the money they had entrusted to those assets, so that they could meet the unreasoning demands of their depositors, they could not get it back.

It was not that our banking system and methods were of themselves weak or reprehensible, apart from the fact of the life of the nation, as has so much been made to appear.

It was not that our banks were permeated with incompetency or dishonesty or with lower standards of business ethics than were the other forms of human activity with which their own fate and activities were inextricably interwoven, as it almost seemed at times, there was a concerted national conspiracy to lead our people to believe.

The great fact of American banking is that it shared fully in the plans and hopes and hazards of the American people—and when those plans went wrong, the banks carried their share of the burden and suffered their share of the misfortune.

Wood Products Important
Wood products are important even to a generation that lives in dwellings not made of boards and does its day's work in buildings of concrete and steel. If there were no raw material for pulp mills the inhabitants would be obliged to manufacture without books, newspapers, wrapping paper and the huge, cups, napkins, all of paper, and dozens of other forest products that serve in the daily round. The average family requires upward of a ton of paper annually and its use in this direction constantly increases. In addition, there is used an enormous amount of sawmill products for each person in the land. There are boards and posts and timber aggregating as much as 250 cubic feet per capita.

Education in Wisconsin
This University of Wisconsin does not only have the distinction of being the oldest among all of the state's institutions, it appears that the state's major educational institution is even older than the state itself, since the birth goes back a whole decade before Wisconsin reached statehood.

Water Valued Above Oil
Water brings in more money than oil in some of the Permian basin fields in Texas.

Scene from the Ford Motor Company's new picture, "These Thirty Years."

"These Thirty Years," a new talking picture produced by the Ford Motor Company, is to be shown at the Princess Theatre on Tuesday, January 9, at 4 p. m., 7 p. m., and 9 p. m. Complimentary tickets are being distributed by Palmer Motor Sales, under whose auspices the local showings are being held.

The story of "These Thirty Years" begins 30 years ago in the town of Brookfield. Dave Haines and his aged mother see their farm and everything they own put on the auction block to satisfy a greedy mortgage holder. During the auction, however, Dave becomes inspired by a "horseless carriage" seen tearing down a rutted country road at the neck-breaking speed of 20 miles per hour. He sees a great future in automobiles and wants Jed Travers, local livery stable owner, to go into business with him.

Jed withholds his decision until Dave proves what his "carriage" can do in a cross-country race with a horse.

Success favors Dave. He wins the race—also the hand of May Larcombe. They have a son, Bob, who becomes a problem in later life for he favors playing to working, and spends his "daddy's" money gambling on the stock market. The "crash" of 1929 catches Bob. He loses everything—including his girl, Ann Bailey, who has been disgusted with him for some time. Jed, the partner of Dave, sticks by Bob, saves his life on one occasion, and finally inspires him to become the man his dad, and Ann, would like him to be.

The players featured in the picture include a popular cast from many of the leading talents.

Wild-Sweet Grass

Typhoid Bacteria Very Small
The bacteria that cause typhoid fever are representative of those that are rodlike in form. They are so small that 12,000 of them laid end to end would form a line only an inch long. It would take 1,000,000,000,000 of them to occupy a cubic inch. Still these are by no means the smallest bacteria.
