Kiwanis Club Hears Prominent Speaker

Lucius Wilson of Pinckney, noted author and lecturer on governmental affairs, addressed the local Kiwanis club and a number of guests at their regular meeting Monday evening.

Mr. Wilson's talk dealt with problems of the present economic crisis; its cause, magnitude and possible cures. Although he agrees that the program of the present administration in their PWA, AAA, CWA and other "initiated" work is bringing about a temporary increase in business he likens the move to priming a pump. He says the well is dry and that the priming will bring forth only a temporary spurt in business unless a program which is fundamentally sound is adopted—and he contends the intelligence of the American people will tell them that many of the policies under the present system are not sound in theory or in practice.

The speaker took issue with the money barons who are crying for a return by the United States to the so-called gold standard, which he said in reality never existed. He attacked them for their reference to any other monetary exchange as "holoney dollars."

Mr. Wilson's theory for a really workable currency is the adoption of a managed currency or commodity dollar with this supply of currency being controlled in a proper manner which would be equalized according to the amount of goods produced.

This, he claims, would eliminate wild speculation with subsequent economic crashes and would bring about a lasting prosperity which would not be broken by the distress that has been experienced during the past four years.

Mr. Wilson, whose boyhood home was in Pinckney, resided for many years in Chicago, where he was president of the General Organization Co. With his family he traveled extensively and has gained a wealth of knowledge on affairs which are of national concern. He has published many books dealing with various subjects of common interest.

The Wilson family returned to Pinckney only a few years ago. Mr. Wilson is the father of Miss Dorothy Wilson, teacher of music and art in the Chelsea public schools.

Plans Completed For District Convention Of American Legion

Details for the Second Congressional District meeting of The American Legion and Auxiliary, to be held in Chelsea on Sunday, January 14, were completed by the local Legionnaires at their regular monthly meeting last Thursday evening.

Business meetings of both organizations are to be held in the afternoon at St. Mary's Memorial Hall. It is expected that these meetings will be the largest of their kind ever assembled locally.

The program as arranged for the evening's entertainment at the public school auditorium is to include an address by former Governor Wilbur M. Brucker; former State Commander of the Legion, Leslie Kefgen, who now holds the position of State Chairman of Child Welfare; Don Beardslee, State Commander; Fred Battelle, Commander of the Second District; and Lawrence C. Leever, County Commander and State Chairman of The National Defense Committee. H. J. Brucker, superintendent of schools, will preside as toastmaster for the evening.

In addition to the above, it was anticipated that Raymond J. Kelly, Corporation Counsel for the city of Detroit and National Chairman of the Legislative Committee, would be present. However, word was received that Comrade Kelly has been called to Washington on business and it is only probable now that he will be on hand.

Ford's Dixie Eight, which is sponsored by The Ford Motor Company of Dearborn, through the courtesy of the local Ford dealer, L. G. Palmer, will render numerous selections to the gathering.

Barbour's String Trio and the Harmonizing Four are to provide a part of the music. To this, a Minuet from the public grade school will add to the enjoyment of all.

A fine banquet is to be prepared under the capable direction of Wm. G. Kolb, the local Post Commander. Members of the Chelsea unit of the Auxiliary are to do the serving.

Plans as now laid are to include table coverings for approximately four hundred guests. The time of the banquet is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. and it is hoped that any person or persons in this community who are desirous of seeing the Legionnaires in action will contact Carl J. Mayer at the Kempt Commercial & Savings Bank, who is in charge of ticket sales. Reservations should be made not later than the closing hour of the bank on Saturday afternoon.

The public is urged and cordially invited to attend this great meeting of former ex-service men, from which some idea may be gathered as to the constructive work The American Legion is in.

Chelsea High and St. Mary's Battle Again

Chelsea High basketball team met St. Mary's last Friday night with a keen spirit of competition prevailing. Although a new battle was being fought, the old fighting spirit was still there. This time Chelsea netmen again came out on top. It was a very fast game and it appeared as though the teams were very evenly matched.

St. Mary's men scored the first three points of the game, but Chelsea High soon snapped out of it and began to roll up the numbers on the score board and when the first half was over the score was 15 to 4 in favor of the Chelsea High boys.

There was a very enthusiastic crowd present and this tended to pep up the whole atmosphere. In the second half of the game both teams rallied but Chelsea still retained her lead and she one the game with a final score of 27 to 15. There were a great number of fouls in this game but justice was done to both teams by the referee.

Self Help

In the news columns of this newspaper will be found a story concerning a recently launched farm movement to assist in reducing the surplus of butter in the hope that better prices for the farmer-dairyman may result. The movement is nation-wide and Michigan is just getting started upon it. It is fostered by about all the important dairy and farm organizations of the state and is backed by some of its best known citizens.

This newspaper has opened its columns in support of the self-help plan proposed and hopes that its readers will respond so far as possible.

The plan is a simple one and not at all new. In fact, the Michigan beef sugar producers are using the plan with success. The issue raised by the dairyman is just as clear and just as logical as that of the beef sugar producers. In fact, there is one factor in the dairy campaign which cannot be found in that of the sugar producers. Milk is the best and cheapest food product on the market today. Beef sugar producers have been forced to teach the consumers that their sugar is just as good as the cane sugar produced by coolie labor under foreign flags. Everyone knows that pure milk and milk products are far superior to any substitutes manufactured from coconut oils from the south seas or made from cheap animal fats. To increase the use of milk and butter is to provide the family with far more palatable food, which is much more nutritious and health giving.

To eat up the butter surplus will result in destroying the greatest enemy of the mid-west farmer and at the same time will give the consumer the most for his money. It is a "help yourself to help your neighbor" plan. It involves no bond issues or combination of alphabetical characters to produce immediate results. Every farmer who produces milk, whether made into butter or not, is a victim of this wicked butter surplus for the market price of every pound of surplus milk is set by the price of butter and that is set by the amount of surplus on hand. With an existing surplus exceeding one hundred million pounds and that total mounting daily, there is no hope for better dairying conditions unless we all help.

M. S. C. Announces Radio Programs

East Lansing—Michigan State College is "on the air" with a new series of radio programs which are being broadcast through the College station, WKAR.

Special programs for the farmer and the housewife and general information for those interested—in the arts and science are being broadcast this year, following the general plan which has been found successful during the past several years.

The Farm Service Program, broadcast daily, except Sunday, at noon is designed to provide information adapted to the needs of Michigan farmers. It includes the weather forecast, livestock and grain market reports and discussions on important agricultural problems.

The Homemakers' Program, planned and presented by the home economics department at the College will completely cover the field of problems which tax the ingenuity of the homemaker. Discussions of problems in family life, of foods, clothing, home management, home decoration, child care, and buying will be included in this series which is broadcast daily, except Saturday and Sunday, at 2:05 p. m.

In the College of the Air program which follows the Homemakers' program, members of the faculty in the arts and science divisions of the College present information which is of general interest. Along with this series, the College has arranged with the Michigan State Medical Society for a series of health talks and with the State Department of Public Instruction for a series of discussions on education problems.

The College station broadcasts on a wave length of 1640 kilocycles, or 288 meters. Schedules of all programs to be broadcast to May 25 will be sent upon request.

Need Busy Stomachs and Empty Storages

East Lansing—Overstuffed elevators, warehouses, and cold storage plants and lack of stuffing in human stomachs are blamed by the extension service of Michigan State College for food surpluses which must be moved into channels of consumption before many lines of agricultural industry can proceed successfully.

An anticipated increase in domestic demands for foods is one encouraging factor in the situation. Increased payrolls and additional workers in the cities are expected to improve the demands at the corner grocery stores and to cause a more rapid movement of farm products. Foreign markets are not expected to be of material assistance in reducing surplus stocks.

Most foreign nations have erected trade barriers by imposing tariffs or quotas which close those markets to American farmers. This nationalistic policy is expected to continue for some time and it is doubtful if enough food products will be exported to furnish much aid in the present problem.

Better prices for farm stuffs are anticipated but a portion of this will be wiped out by increased costs for the materials the farmer must buy. Average farm prices in November were 45 per cent better than those in January, 1933. Commodities that farmers buy had increased only 17 per cent in the same period.

Farm credit facilities will be better this year. The local bank situation has improved. The Federal Land Bank has increased its mortgage loans tremendously, and the new Production Credit Associations will be making short-term loans before planting season.

About the only farm crops which have no huge carryover to depress their price are legume seeds and potatoes. Both these crops start with only normal supplies for seedling. Both are normal cash crops in Michigan but any marked increase in production may lower next fall's prices below the plane of profit.

Barley, for special purposes may prove a good crop. Spartan barley, a favorite in this State, has been bringing more than the regular market price when sold to companies making pearling barley to be used in soups. Some growers say that Spartan barley is satisfactory for brewing but others prefer six-rowed varieties.

Dairymen face an extension of the period of low prices. Huge stocks of surplus butter, plus down any tendency of rising prices. Increased numbers of cows being milked promise no decline in future supplies. The College dairy department has advocated close culling of the dairy herd for the past few years, and now it seems that culling is the only way that dairymen can continue in the business.

Poultry numbers have remained nearly the same, with a possible reduction in the number of laying hens. Storage holdings of eggs showed no profits this year and the demand for this class of eggs is expected to be lower this year. Storage stocks of dressed poultry are slightly above the average. Increased costs of feeds will make the problem of making the flock pay its way harder than before.

Michigan is still importing horses to replace animals too old to work. Young stock is bringing prices that are profitable to those farmers who have accepted the advice of the animal husbandry department and have raised good colts. The greatest demand is for handy weight horses, from 1400 to 1600 pounds in weight. Mareos are bringing about $25 more than geldings.

Beef cattle have increased in numbers while the demand for dressed beef has declined. No marked increase in price can be expected as long as other meats can be bought at low prices. Greater numbers of men at work may help the demand for beef. Farmers with cheap roughage may be able to market this type of food profitably through good cattle. Poor type cattle are apt to be expensive for the grower.

The federal program for reducing the number of hogs produced in this country should indicate the proper steps for farmers interested in this class of livestock. Removal of good foreign outlets for United States hogs has put the hog business in a bad position. Benefit payments to those farmers who contract to reduce the number of hogs produced on their farms will aid those who cooperate with the government.

Sheep raisers appear to be in a more favorable position than any other livestock men. Utilization of pasture and roughage has enabled nutrition producers to come out on the right side of the ledger. Demand for wool and prices for wool are expected to be better in 1934. The 1933 wool crop was somewhat smaller than in 1932 and there will be practically no carryover of the 1933 clip.

Sugar beets appear to be another bright spot in the farm picture. Fifteen out of 16 Michigan mills operated in 1933, compared to 11 in 1932 and 8 in 1931. It is possible that all mills will operate in 1934. Beets grown under the present contracts are a good cash crop for State farmers.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Can you tell me if Germany is still bound by the Versailles treaty since France defaulted on her war debt to the United States?

Ans.—There is no connection between the treaty and the debts. Germany signed the Versailles treaty under compulsion, while France contracted her indebtedness by her own free will, so Germany could more ethically break the treaty than France could default on her note. The two, however, are entirely separate transactions, and the keeping of one does not hinge on the fulfillment of the other.

Ques.—Will you please answer how many States have abolished capital punishment? Also what form of capital punishment is used by the other States?

Ans.—Nine States have abolished capital punishment. They are Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Rhode Island, Wisconsin. The States that hang are California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, Oregon, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming, District of Columbia; total, 16. Utah hangs or shoots by prisoner's choice. Nevada uses lethal gas. All other States use the electric chair.

Ques.—I want to ask you what is rayon and how is it made?

Ans.—Rayon is artificial silk, and is made of cellulose, in imitation of the way the silkworm makes real silk from the cellulose of the mulberry tree. Only two raw materials are being successfully used in making rayon—cotton linters and high-purity wood pulp. In manufacture the short cotton staples not suitable for spinning, or spruce, are treated chemically to get rid of everything except the pure cellulose pulp. The pulp is made into a solution thin enough to pass through a very fine orifice and form artificial fibers, which are immediately hardened in a liquid bath.

Ques.—Has the United States Supreme Court got the power to step in and kill any law made by the United States Congress?

Ans.—The Supreme Court has the power to pass upon the constitutionality of any law with a federal application. The Court, however, does not initiate such action. Some person or entity to a law will, in fact, sometimes purposely as a test case. The case will then be tried by the proper court, and if not satisfied with the decision of the lower court the case may be appealed to the Supreme Court for an irrevocable decision. Other cases, those involving the Constitution may be appealed to the Supreme Court, but such cases must involve a federal question.

Ques.—Is there any time when it is compulsory to raise the American flag at half-mast? And what is the proper way to raise it?

Ans.—It is not compulsory, but generally adhered to throughout the United States to raise the flag at half-mast on Memorial Day from sunrise until noon, and then full mast from noon until sunset. The proper way to hoist a flag at half-mast is to raise it to full mast for a few moments and then lower it to the half-mast position. Then before taking it down for the day it should be raised to full mast for a few moments before being lowered completely.

Ques.—Can you answer in your good paper what the farm population of the United States is?

Ans.—According to the 1930 census taken the early part of that year the farm population was 90,157,000. During the years 1930-31-32 there was a general movement from the city to the farm and as a result there is a greater number of people on farms than ever before in history. Official estimates of the Department of Agriculture place the number of people on farms as of Jan. 1, 1933, at 32,242,000. The previous high was in 1910 when the census gave it as 32,076,000. These figures are for the continental United States only.

MICKIE SAYS—

"THEY TWO RAISED UP BUSINESS MEN—THEY THAT ARE BRINGIN' GOOD TIMES BACK BY BEING ADVERTISING—AND THEY THAT BET BACK AN' LET 'EM DO IT!"

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald

Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 11.—More than 1,500 Michigan corporations whose charters have been lost in recent years through inability to pay the state corporation franchise fees, will again be given the opportunity to engage in business because of legislation enacted at the last special session of the legislature.

The law was sponsored by the Department of State. It provides that any corporation whose charter became void through non-payment of corporation fees, may, by payment of not less than one-quarter of the total delinquent fees prior to August 31, 1934 become reinstated, and its corporate powers restored.

The measure, which became effective Dec. 20, 1933, is in line with measures adopted earlier in the year in providing for the installment payment of delinquent property taxes. Notices to more than 1,500 companies affected, have been sent out by the Department of State.

Every automobile factory in Michigan is favorably affected by the recent ruling of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles of Ohio.

Several months ago, Ohio ruled that starting in 1934 it would not permit licensees to pass through the state unless such vehicle bore plates issued to a bona fide Ohio dealer. This would have prevented Michigan's principal product to have been transported through that state.

But as a result of a reciprocity agreement worked out between the two states, Michigan will recognize Ohio drivers and that state will allow Michigan cars to be driven through Ohio when equipped with two plates. In the past it has been the usage to use but one plate on a car being driven from factory to dealer, but Ohio now announces that each vehicle must be equipped with two plates.

WILLIAMSTON.—No information has yet been found as to the identity of the person who broke one of the large plate glass windows in the west front of Chelsea and Biograph garage sometime Sunday night, in a supposed attempt to enter the place. A large police dog kept in the garage is thought to have frightened the perpetrator away after the glass was broken, as nothing was missing. The glass was replaced Tuesday. Editor's note.

CHASS LAKE.—Plans are under way for the revival of a community or boosters' club for this community and it is probable that the first meeting will be held some evening next week, possibly Friday evening, at which time officers will be elected and other details of the organization perfected. News.

Nation-Wide Dairy
Move Hits Surplus

A new venture in practical farm relief is about to be attempted in Michigan. A state-wide organization is now being perfected and made a part of a national organization in which are now organized the allied dairy interests of more than 30 states of the union. The objective of this organization is to increase the use of butter and other dairy products and thus reduce the tremendous surplus of butter now on the market and aid in increasing milk and dairy prices all along the line.

In this nation-wide organization are found representatives of every business engaged in the production, distribution and sale of fluid milk and every business engaged in the manufacture, distribution and sale of dairy products, including butter, cheese, ice cream, infant foods and condensed, powdered and evaporated milks. All along the line in this formidable array of dairy soldiery, the battle cry is "out up the surplus."

According to government authorities at Washington the surplus of butter in the United States now stands at approximately 100,000,000 pounds. This is quite a sizable churning but unless something is done quickly to reduce the growing surplus, the total will continue to increase.

Dairy Production Increased
"What is the matter with the dairy market?" farmers are inquiring. What is written here is not the product of some brain trust but the result of inquiries among those who are in a position to know. During recent years, dairying has been promoted throughout the United States. Boarder cows have gone to the butcher shop and those left behind for the milking line, by selective breeding and more intelligent feeding, have greatly increased production per animal. Then along came the slump in beef and other meats together with even a greater slump in the price of grains and feeds. The result is that a great deal of farm feed, heretofore marketed at the elevator or turned into beef, pork and mutton, has been turned into the dairy herd as the best available means of marketing. As it adds to the plight of the dairyman, the consumption of the town dweller has fallen off materially for the very good reason there was no pay check in the family from which to buy milk, butter, cheese and ice cream.

The National Dairy Council already formed proposes to do something about the emergency. Voluntarily its members have imposed a processing tax upon their own businesses. From the funds thus obtained they have gone out into the several milk producing states and formed organizations of distributors and producers as well as manufacturers. Their sole objective is to enlist the interest of the farmers themselves and the residents of the dairy states in a movement to increase the daily per capita consumption of milk and milk products. For the purpose of visualizing the movement they have chosen to speak in terms of pounds of butterfat.

Committee Organized
In Michigan the organization is known as the Michigan Butter Committee. The state organization is made up of affiliated groups representing all phases of the dairy industry—producers, distributors, creamery operators, condensaries, cheese factories, farm organizations of all kinds including the extension service of Michigan State college.

According to reliable figures there are 170,000 farm families in Michigan. If one-half this number can be induced to increase their consumption of milk and butter, cheese and kindred products to an equivalent of one pound per family per week that increase alone will reduce Michigan's share of the 100,000,000-pound national surplus to the tune of 340,000 pounds each month.

What is happening all over America is indicated in the recent action of authorities in the territory supplying New York and Brooklyn. There an embargo has been placed upon milk from other states and there a similar embargo is said to be under consideration against the importation of dairy cattle. This merely backs up the flow of milk and floods the mid-west field, throwing just that much more milk into butter and cheese production thus again piling up more surplus.

Seek Consumption Increase
The Michigan organization is just getting under way. One of its first efforts will be directed to securing pledges from Michigan families to use dairy products, especially butter, more liberally on the family table. The goal is to increase the consumption of butter by one pound per family per week or by using more milk equal to a pound of butter. This means that each family will consume an added pound of butter each week or will consume from 10 to 12 quarts of fluid milk either in cooking or on the table as a drink.

themselves to an extra piece of butter or use an extra amount of cream or butter they also help the farmer to a better price for his best product.

To Feature Quality
Better butter and better cheese will also be featured in the campaign. Good quality dairy products are spread thick. Unsavory butter is spread thin and unpalatable cheese is eaten gingerly. The gospel of good products of the dairy and their proper use will be dinned into the ears of the consumers of Michigan along with dependable information on the economy of health-giving milk products as against substitutes lacking their nutritive qualities.

It is significant that notwithstanding the fact that all dairymen supplying fluid milk to the Detroit market actually contribute from each milk check to boost the sale of their products to city dwellers it is now found necessary for another organization to spend money and effort to come back and teach the farmer to use his own. But this campaign goes farther than just that. It is aimed not only to induce the farmer to eat his own product, it is aimed also at inducing the people of the smaller cities to help their neighbor farmers by eating healthful, home-produced dairy products of the farm in preference to substitutes of foreign manufacture.

List Four Editors
for Farmers Week

East Lansing—Men who have spent life times in watching farm life and interesting it in some of the larger agricultural journals in the United States will be featured on the afternoon and evening programs at Farmers Week, along with noted men interested in other phases of agriculture.

Members of the editorial staffs of the Country Gentleman, the Pennsylvania Farmer, Hoards' Dairyman, and the Prairie Farmer will be at Michigan State College during the week, Jan. 28 to Feb. 2. These men must be accurate in forecasting trends in agriculture or their journals decline in prestige and in profits.

A. J. Glover, editor Hoards' Dairyman, will talk to Michigan dairymen on Monday. Mr. Glover is an old friend and has appeared several times before on College programs. His repeated appearances are sufficient warrant that his talk, "The Future of Purchased Cattle," contains valuable information for dairymen.

Dean W. C. Coffey, University of Minnesota, will talk Tuesday afternoon on "Adjusting Livestock Production to Changing Conditions."

Dean Coffey comes from a state where conditions are quite similar to those in Michigan and he is a forceful speaker.

Speakers for Wednesday are E. V. Wilcox, editorial staff of the Country Gentleman, and Dr. Paul Voelker, superintendent of public instruction. Mr. Wilcox has spent years in foreign countries studying their rural people and his talk will be "Must We Do Without Foreign Trade?" Dr. Voelker will have a message about the present situation of Michigan schools.

Two editors are on the Thursday programs. Clifford V. Gregory, editor, the Prairie Farmer, and Edward Bayard, editor, the Pennsylvania Farmer, are both nationally known speakers with a great deal of experience in following the changing trends in agriculture. Mr. Gregory speaks in the afternoon and Mr. Bayard at night.

Birth of "Oh, Promise Me"
A prima donna temperament is said to have been chiefly responsible for the wide popularity of "Oh, Promise Me," says the Washington Post. "Robin Hood," the opera, with music by Reginald de Koven and libretto by Harry H. Smith, had its world premiere in Chicago in 1900. After the premiere, Jessie Bartlett Davis, who played the role of Anna-Doris, absolutely declined to appear in the second performance because she said part of the musical score was unsuitable.

She could not be induced under any circumstances to sing her role, and De Koven and Smith were at their wits' end to find something that would appease her. Suddenly De Koven remembered a tune that he had written some years earlier, and which had never been sung publicly. It was "Oh, Promise Me," with words by Clement Scott. The Koven played the melody on the piano for Miss Davis. She was delighted and promised to resume her role if she were allowed to sing the new song. De Koven still saw visions of utter failure, but when he listened to the rendition of "Oh, Promise Me," and heard the tremendous applause that followed, he realized that the ballet had settled the fate of "Robin Hood" and that a world-famous song had been born.

Our New Serial
The Student Fraternity Murder

A long bare room with beamed ceiling and paneled walls; behind a candle-lighted altar a towering figure in black robe and hood; below, on the step of the dais, two blue-gowned attendants; before the altar, ten inmates in pure white, blindfolded and with hands bound; behind them ten yellow-robed sponsors; farther back, an outer ring of watchers; and by the dim doorway, solitary guard in gray. Silence and flickering shadows. Impressive as was the tableau of initiation at Mu Beta Sigma it was nevertheless normal and prearranged. Then suddenly another Actor took part; an actor invisible and deadly, who instantly made child's play of the solemn ceremony and left horror in its place.

How did the intruder enter? Or was he there all the time, beneath a brother's hood? And why did he strike?

These are the questions that challenged Detective Tommy Rankin, the same determined Tommy who thought he had hard nuts to crack in The Strange Disappearance of Mary Young and The Boudoir Murder. Here's a tougher one yet!

Watch for the opening chapter for you will be intensely interested in following the mysterious, baffling action.

D. H. I. A. Will Hold Annual Meeting Here

Members of the Tri-County D. H. I. A. will hold their annual meeting Friday afternoon, January 12 at 2 o'clock at Chelsea public school auditorium. In addition to hearing the annual report of the tester, Jack Wittman, and transacting the necessary association business, Prof. A. C. Baltzer of the Michigan State College extension dairy staff will be the speaker. Every dairyman is invited.

Dairymen agree that great progress in efficient dairying has been made through improved feeding methods. Further progress in this field it is believed will occur through more careful selection of cows and breeding stock.

Not so many years ago, forward looking dairymen bought purebred sires to head their herds. They now realize that the mere fact that the sire is purebred and registered is no guarantee that he will beget daughters of greater producing ability than their dams. They know that their sires must carry the factors for more efficient milk and butterfat production. They also know that keeping of production records and the proving of sires is the only way that this can be determined. All of these matters will be discussed by Mr. Baltzer at the meeting.

Sharks' Teeth and Nose Prove Valuable to Them

Sharks never lack for razor-sharp teeth. Functional teeth stand erect on the edge of the jaws in a single row. As these teeth become worn and lost, says a writer in the New York Times, the membrane from the inner surface moves over the edge of the jaw, carrying with it fully developed teeth of a new secondary row. At any given time there are behind the functional teeth a series of reserve rows from five to seven in number, lying recumbent one below the other on the inner surface of the jaw, all in reserve, being covered by a broad band of membrane that extends up over them from the bases of the jaws.

These are the terrible weapons which have ability to slice into the shagreen-protected hides of other sharks, when they bite out hunks just as you would bite a piece out of an apple.

But more important to the shark than even this is his ability to smell. Two prominent nostrils in the anterior extremity of the head and covered with skin flaps permit him to scent his food in an uncanny fashion from unbelievable distances.

Eskimos know that when seal blood is allowed to come from a chill bladder placed in an ice hole the sharks, no matter how distant, will scent it on the sea currents and come hurrying in a horrible rush. Woe to the juicy sea animal that cannot escape or hide from the shark once it is scented, for the shark tracks down its prey like a buzzard, and with more decisive results.

Apple Trees From France
First Planted in Canada

Sieur De Monts cleared land at Port Royal in 1605 and in 1603 Pierre Martin brought young apple trees from France and planted them at Belle Isle, near Port Royal, says the Montreal Herald.

They grew and other Acadian farmers became interested and propagated apples. Having come from the wine-producing part of France, Pierre Martin and his neighbors, no doubt, made choice cider from their apples.

The winter evenings would be made cheery by a drink that would sparkle like the champagnes of Normandy.

Scarcely sixty years after Martin had planted his first orchard there were 1,500 apple trees in the vicinity of Port Royal. Beausseant had 40 acres of land planted to orchards and all thriving well. When the New England colonists entered the country in 1700, they were amazed to find many small orchards, hearing well. They realized that this would be an asset to their farms and before long many of them had established orchards.

"The first apples to be grown in North America were the Grazevins, the finest apple of Normandy, prized for its juiciness and flavor."

"The first apple trees in Quebec were planted in 1605, thirty years after those in Port Royal. The Fameuse was the variety and is still popular."

Postage Stamp Plates
Stamp collectors consider the word typography as a general term embracing all printing done from type and designs in relief without regard to the method used in duplicating the stamp subjects which make up the printing plate, says the Chicago Tribune. The individual designs may be type-set, stereotyped, electrolytically or even stamped out in a coining press and are usually adhered to each other or to a mounting block in order that none of the parts may loosen in the printing. Typography is cheap when compared to intaglio engraving, and is used by many countries for stamp printing, counterfeiting being minimized by the use of special papers and inks. Carelessness in assembling plates has produced some of the greatest errors in stamps either by allowing one stamp subject, or "cliche" as they are called, to be inverted, or by inserting a cliche of another value in a plate.

Land for the White House
The principal owners of the land on which the city of Washington is built were Daniel Carroll, Samuel Davidson, Notley Young and David Burnes. The land on which the White House stands belonged to David Burnes, an aged Scotchman, who very reluctantly gave up his 400 acres for the federal city when negotiations were in progress for buying up land for the National Capital. Daniel Carroll owned a large tract of land along the eastern branch of the Potomac river, which includes the site of the Capitol.

The Black Watch
The origin of the Black Watch dates from 1720. They wore the dress of their country, a turtan of dark color, which gained for them the Gaelic appellation of Freiclan Du, which translated is Black Watch, in contradistinction to the regular troops, who wore scarlet coats and were called Red soldiers. They engaged mostly in police work until 1740, when they were regularly organized into the Forty-second Regiment of the Line. Their war history began at the Battle of Fontenoy.

Temple of Heaven
Many of the famous shrines of old China are located within the "Forbidden City," which lies within the Tatar portion of Peking (Peking), but there is one in the Chinese part of the city which is as noteworthy as any in that land of illustrious craftsmen. This is the Temple of Heaven where the Chinese emperors came at daybreak on December 21 to offer sacrifices to Shang-ti, the supreme deity.

Rural Free Delivery
Rural free delivery was first suggested by Postmaster General Wannamaker in 1891, but it was two years before the consent of congress was obtained for three experimental routes which were placed in operation in 1893 in West Virginia. Nine months later there were 82 routes in operation in 33 states.

Pomona Grange Meets With Pittsfield Union

Members of Wushtenaw Pomona Grange were guests of Pittsfield Union Grange at a joint meeting held Tuesday, January 9.

The morning session was devoted to reading of reports and other business, after which a dinner furnished by the Wushtenaw Pomona was served by Pittsfield Grange.

Presentation of the gavel to Lafayette Grange by the Ann Arbor Grange opened the afternoon session, and this was followed by a piano solo, "Flower Song," by Mrs. George Sperry. A mystery play was given by Mr. Chalmers of Ann Arbor.

Lafayette Grange then presented the gavel to Pomona Grange, after which Mrs. L. S. Grossman and Mrs. P. M. Broesamle rendered a piano duet, a French Air, written by Louis XIII.

A reading, "Better Than Gold" was given by Mrs. G. T. English.

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. English, who recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary, Wayne Wiseman rendered a saxophone solo, "By the Old Mill Stream," accompanied by Mrs. Mina Wiseman, and a vocal solo, "Love's Old Sweet Song," was given by A. B. Skinner.

A reading, "Wait," by Mrs. Herman Mohrlock, and a violin solo, "Land of Hope and Glory," by Mrs. P. M. Broesamle, completed the program.

Largest Dome on Top of West Baden (Ind.) Hotel

The dome of the original central building of the National Capital was constructed of wood, covered with copper, observes the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This was replaced by the present structure of cast iron, which was completed in 1855.

But how many Americans are aware that the largest dome in the world is in a small town in the Middle West? This town is not a seat of government. It has a population of only about 2,000.

It has no large cathedral comparable to those in the great cities of the United States and Europe. "It is a safe guess," says the Manchester Guardian, "that few know where the largest dome on earth is now to be found. It is on top of a huge hotel in a small town in the Middle West of America—West Baden, Ind." Indeed, few Americans know this.

The span of the dome at West Baden "is twelve feet broader than the dome of St. Peter's. The builders' problem was not the making of a big dome, but the contrivance of adequately strong supports to hold one. It rests on sixteen solid brick piers, inclosed in a thick skin of mortar. The time binds the masonry into an almost impish alloy mass through its ability to absorb carbon dioxide from the air to unite with the sand and bricks."

Investigation discloses there is a hotel in West Baden Spring, Ind., having a dome of steel and over 15,000 square feet of glass skylight, covering 40,000 square feet of floor space, the largest single room in the world.

Flat Money
During the Civil war the country was unable to find gold or silver to support needed currency issues, or to borrow to defray the expense of war. Secretary of the Treasury Chase suggested an issue of money supported by nothing but the government's promise to pay. "This is known as flat money. Demand notes were issued, and called greenbacks because the back was printed in green ink. The people declined to receive them at full value. They stood at 97 cents in January, 1862, but in 1864, when General Early reached a point within eight miles of Washington, and many despair of Northern victory, their value declined to 35 cents on the dollar. By 1875 their value in the market estimation rose to 87.2. Payment of them in specie was authorized at that time. The government then put $150,000,000 in gold aside for their support and provided later for an additional gold reserve. This brought them to par, and they have since been accepted without question.

The Wedding Ring
When a man puts a ring on his bride's finger at the altar he is doing precisely what his long-dead predecessor did in Anglo-Saxon days. When Anglo-Saxon lovers were betrothed the bridegroom gave a "pledge" which took the form of a ring. This was placed on the maiden's right hand, and was religiously kept there until it was transferred to the other hand at the marriage ceremony. It is interesting to note that this pledge was called a "wed," from which we derive our word "wedding."

Sun Gives More Heat to Venus Than to the Earth

Venus is only 67,000,000 miles away from the sun, as compared to the 93,000,000 miles from the earth to the sun. This means, says an authority in the Chicago American, that Venus receives about three-fourths again as much heat from the sun as the earth. Thus the side turned continually towards the sun, and receiving a tremendous amount of heat normally, would be subjected to a steady barrage of the sun's rays. It would be intensely hot. The dark side would, in all probability, be intensely cold. It would mean, likely, that despite the planet's nearness to the sun, the dark side would be frozen over.

The heavy veil of clouds belting the planet seems, however, to preclude such a condition.

On the other hand, if the planet does rotate on its axis as it swings through space around the sun, conditions would depend upon the length of the days and nights. If the days were long, the nights would be correspondingly long. The days would then be exceedingly hot and night, if lengthy, exceedingly cold.

It is true also that Venus' cloud-laden atmosphere, which would deflect a considerable part of the extra heat it receives from the sun, might temper its warmth. This cloud belt is exceptionally heavy. It may likely make conditions on Venus extraordinarily similar to those on earth despite the extra solar radiation it receives.

No accurate measurement of the temperature on Venus has been possible, he said, but scientists generally agree on the estimate of between 115 and 125 degrees Fahrenheit. He compared conditions on Venus with those we believe exist on Mars which, therefore, has been held to be the one planet of the remaining seven where life is possible.

Great St. Bernards Are Animal Heroes of Alps

The ultimate in persistence is epitomized in the St. Bernard and its age we can simply say "Alps" Vow," notes a correspondent in the Philadelphia Public Ledger. It is with a quiet, majestic silence and a great depth of expression and character that this breed moves about in dogdom, admired by thousands of fanciers. Nobility, wisdom and a peculiarly strong personality are shown in a marked degree.

In a monastery or hospice at the crest of a 63-mile-long pass over the main chain of the Alps, founded by Saint Bernard de Menthon in the year 902, these dogs originated. This pass connects Austria, in Piedmont, Italy, with Switzerland, in the Rhine valley, and the monks and those who have traveled this narrow path up the steep mountain side know just how carefully each step must be made.

As travelers and pilgrims leave the station in the valley to ascend, word of their coming is telephoned ahead, and in the event of their not arriving at the hospice at the proper time the dogs are sent down the pass to guide them to safety. Alpine history tells with heroic deeds of these dogs and the Augustinian monks who are in charge of them. Countless lives are saved annually by prompt ministrations of mercy in which the dogs, with their keenest of scenting abilities, play a prominent part.

Hebrew Language

Hebrew, like Latin and classic Greek, is a literary, and not a colloquial language. The exact time when Hebrew ceased to be the living, vernacular language of the Jews is not known. Some Hebraists maintain that they lost the living use of the Hebrew during the Babylonian captivity, but the better of many is that they retained the partial use of it for some time after their return to Palestine, and lost it by degrees. There is no convincing evidence, however, to show exactly when it became a virtually dead language, although there are satisfactory reasons for declaring that it gave place to a corrupted form of the Aramaic language, a mixture of Syrian and Chaldean or Babylonian speech called the Syro-Chaldean dialect, several hundred years before the Christian era, and that more than a century before this era it ceased to be used even as a written language and was thereafter studied only as the language of the sacred books, by the learned.

Use for Blackstrap Molasses

Over 90 per cent of alcohol in the United States manufactured is made from blackstrap molasses, chooses the Montreal Herald. This molasses is not suitable for ordinary table use, but is invaluable for many commercial purposes, the making of commercial alcohol, anti-freeze and many other manufactured articles, and as a stock food. Indeed many laboratory experts claim that pure cane molasses can be fed to all classes of live stock. They have this claim on the idea that molasses is not only a food in itself, but that it also is very useful to make coarse feed palatable, and also, due to its mineral content is of considerable value to promote growth and prevent anemia.

Sassafras Bark Tea

Commercial sassafras is the bark of the sassafras root and is variously used. The use that occurs first to old timers is for the making of sassafras tea. Many a man of years will recall having been sent by his mother into the woods in springtime to dig sassafras roots to make tea, supposed to purify the blood after the sluggishness attributed to winter fare and habits.

A Profitable Investment

EVENTS of the last few years have caused many people to ponder the insecurity and uncertainty of the average types of financial investments. This may lead to a more spiritual concept of substance, because a careful consideration discloses the fact that materiality in any form is unsubstantial, insecure, and uncertain; whereas the things of God are substantial, secure, and permanent. While legitimate investments, helpful to humanity, are quite proper when correctly and wisely made, nevertheless financial interests should at all times be secondary in consideration, and spiritual understanding of "the deep things of God," primary.

To invest means, among other things, to confer, to endow, to vest in. One of the definitions of "vest" is, "To put in possession so as to give an immediate fixed right of present or future enjoyment." How descriptive is this definition of the result which one obtains who turns to God, Spirit, for guidance, protection, supply, and peace! Reliance upon God bears immediate fruitage, for it indeed vests the reliant one with "an immediate fixed right" to enjoy the blessings from God's power. This reliance is not too transcendental in its adaptation or realization at this present and in all time, for it is the Christ Jesus, who is a parable to illustrate the value of the kingdom of heaven. He told of a man who found a "pearl of great price." Note, that while it was a pearl of great value, a "great price" was required to purchase it. So highly did the man value this pearl, and so much did he desire to possess it, that he "sold all that he had, and bought it." At another time Jesus said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Surely there could be no more profitable investment than the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and no greater profit could be obtained from any investment, for the promise is that not part of, but "all these things shall be added unto you."

By his words and works Christ Jesus, the Way-shower for mankind, revealed that it is always practical to seek first and always to do the will of the Father. His life demonstrated that such simple trust in God is the only really profitable investment and is entirely practical in human experience. No one, before or after Jesus' time, has ever shown forth, as did he, the wealth and profit which such an investment produces. His spirituality derived from God, Spirit, was sufficient to meet all human needs, even to raising the dead, stilling the tempest, walking on the water, and, we may conclude, that his own human need was provided for as well, without lack or limitation. His was the seamless garment of high price in those days. He had sufficient money to meet the material needs, such as paying taxes and contributing to the poor; and he was not at a loss to know what to do with the multitudes in the desert places. So practical was his faith and trust in God that he was able to feed all and leave a surplus.

Nor was the proof of God's ample reward confined to Christ Jesus or his time. Notable among those whose faith and trust in God was abundantly rewarded is Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science. Like the great Master, she not only was endowed with pure spiritual understanding, but was able to demonstrate in practical manner that her faith in God was well rewarded in freedom from lack and limitation. She proved that pure spirituality cannot be lost or covered in Christian Science. Mrs. Eddy has given the rules which enable others to invest their all with God and receive surely and abundantly the good which He has prepared for all His children.

As the understanding of God, good, unfolds in human consciousness through the study of Christian Science, the student finds that this correct knowledge of God brings healing from disease, deliverance from sorrow and fear; it comforts the sorrowing, binds up the broken-hearted, and encourages the weary ones. Like the man who found the "pearl of great price" and sold all that he had in order to obtain it, the student of Christian Science finds it advisable and necessary to dispose of false material possessions as soon as possible, and strive to gain the pearl of spirituality, the consciousness of God's presence, power, and Silence. "Seeking is not sufficient whereby to arrive at the results of Science; you must strive, and the glory of the strife comes of honesty and humility," writes Mrs. Eddy (Miscellaneous Writings, after the biblicalational note of consciousness these words of the same page are encouraging: "Do human hopes deceive? Is joy a trembler? Then, weary pilgrim, unloose the latches of thy sandals; for the place wherein thou standest is sacred. By that, you may know you are parting with a material sense of life and happiness to win the spiritual sense of good. O learn to lose with God! and you and Life eternal: you gain all."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Harpers Ferry

Harpers Ferry is famous for its natural beauty and for its importance in historical events. Here three states meet and the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers join. John Brown's raid on the United States Arsenal in 1859 was in this town and it was a state of almost constant siege during the Civil war.

Bird Sanctuaries in Italy

Special bird sanctuaries are established in all parts of Italy. Bird lovers induced the government to place these havens where most needed. Some are very attractive, with buildings in the Italian style. The birds have been saved by the movement, it is estimated.

Handling of Radium Is Done by Nimble Fingers

Though accounts often appear of heroic doctors and investigators who lose limb, and even life itself, in their experiments with the radium used for the cure of such diseases as cancer and other malignant growths, few people know how the danger arises, says The Health Magazine.

Three different rays are given off by the element. By far the most powerful are the gamma rays, which can penetrate through a inches of flesh and bone, as well as through as much as 5 1/2 inches of lead. Continued exposure to the swirling power of these rays results in death unless protective measures are taken. The skin becomes burned, and acute blood poisoning is set up.

But none can perform the highly-skilled task of filling minute platinum or gold needles, tubes, or stainless steel plaques with small quantities of precious radium salt for use in hospitals and clinics. This is mainly done by girls, many of whom are recruited from match factories on account of the deftness of their fingers. Their work is highly because they are engaged on the understanding that their employment will be for six months only.

Their task needs a delicate touch, yet they wear heavy gloves and a large apron from throat to well below the knees, both gloves and aprons being impregnated with particles of lead, which cut off a high percentage of the gamma rays.

Bamboo of Great Value in Its Native Country

In China one may eat bamboo with bamboo chopsticks sitting in a bamboo chair before a bamboo table in a bamboo house, writes a correspondent in Nature Magazine. One may travel in comfort lying on a bamboo mat under a woven screen of bamboo while a bamboo pushes his craft along with the aid of a bamboo pole, shouting or whistling now and then for a wind to come and fill the great bamboo sail. In the streets coolies stride by with bamboo carrying poles supporting bamboo pans filled with water, swerving to avoid the bamboo sedan chairs in which the wealthy citizens ride.

And this is not all. In addition to the objects mentioned and innumerable others that are made from it, we are told that bamboo is greatly admired for its beauty and frequently planted for ornamental purposes. There are about 200 species of bamboo, which is classed with the grasses despite its tree-like size. Most of them are considered tropical plants because they thrive best in warm countries, but there are varieties that may be grown successfully in districts where zero temperatures are experienced in the winter time. And bamboo has one advantage at least over most other plants and trees used for decorative purposes, in that it does not shed its leaves when cold weather comes.

First Gold Coins

"Ancient" tradition, Nephephanes in the sixth century B. C. and Herodotus in the fifth century B. C., ascribes the invention of coinage to the Lydians; the latter says they were the first to strike coins of gold and silver. The period usually given for this invention is the 26th century B. C., and the name of the ruler given credit for it is Phrygian king of Argos. The earliest discovered coins of Lydia and Ionia appear to have been made of electrum, a natural mixture of gold and silver. These belong to the eighth century B. C. and are little globules with a variety of stamps, suggesting that they are private issues and not of a state authority. This early coinage is irregular in weight and quality and unsystematic in character, and it is not till the issues of King Croesus that we have in Asia Minor an undoubted coinage by a state authority. While this refers to gold and silver coins, it does not mean that gold and silver were not used for money long before this, in the form of weighed bars, bricks, plates, etc. These may be traced back as far as the tenth century B. C.

Progress of the Razor

Razors have been in use since ancient times and are depicted in wall paintings on Egyptian tombs. In those times they were probably made of sharpened flint or bronze. It is believed that the oldest razor extant was recently discovered by a French archeologist, in a sand quarry at Montreuil-Bellay, France. It has a handle and blade similar to the modern razor, and was found with other tools which have been traced back to about 8,000 B. C. The earliest safety razor is said to have been made by Michael Hunter, of Sheffield, England, about 1875, and was an ordinary razor with a guard. It was not until the introduction of the box type of razor at the beginning of this century that a satisfactory safety razor was made.

Negro Tobacco Pickers

Traveling through the tobacco districts of the South one sees many old log cabins, through the corner of which runs a fine constructed of rocks, mud, cement or any other handy material, in front, opening to the outside, as a fireplace or stove of this same material, says a bulletin of the American Gas Association. When the tobacco leaves are cut, the negroes hang them in these cabins and fires are maintained day and night until the tobacco is dry. These cabins are still used and the night fires with the negroes singing and dancing about are most picturesque.

Insect That Feels Trees

In the forests of Brazil, South America, there are beetles which bring great trees to the ground. The hard little creatures dig a sort of trench round the trunk, making it deeper and deeper, and at last the giant tree comes crashing down. A great deal of valuable timber is spoiled in this way every year.

Pennsylvania Game State

Pennsylvania is the outstanding game state of the nation. It has a kill of from 20,000 to 25,000 buck deer, from 250 to 400 bears, about 4,000,000 rabbits and hundreds of thousands of ring-necked pheasants, quail and grouse. About 4,000 wild turkeys are shot each year.

Exciting the Heart

That clutch-at-the-heart feeling at an unexpected pistol shot is worst when the bang sounds just as the heart starts to contract. At other periods in its beat the heart is braver, because it can better withstand the "startle" sensation which the brain telegraphs throughout the body.
