Twilight Ball Season Will Open On Monday

Plans have been completed for the opening of the Chelsea Twilight Ball League season on Monday, April 30. An organization meeting was held at Kolb's hall last Thursday evening, when Dr. L. J. Paul was re-elected president of the league, and P. F. Niehaus was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Committees were appointed and an adjourned meeting was held Tuesday evening to complete details for the season's schedule.

Six teams have entered the league, as follows: St. Paul's, Trojans, American Legion, Methodists, Congregationalists and Sea Scouts. St. Paul's and Trojans will open the season at Holmes field on Monday; Legion vs. Congregationalists on Tuesday, and Sea Scouts vs. Methodists on Thursday evening.

It is expected that Village President J. E. McKune will throw the first ball of the opening game for a perfect strike, and Dr. Paul will be at the receiving end.

Rules and regulations governing the league are as follows:
Every team may have 15 players, or more.

There will be no mixing or trading of players among the teams.

If a player signs as a member of a team he is forbidden to play on another team in the league.

Each team must supply their own equipment.

Seven innings shall constitute a game. If a game is called on account of rain or darkness 5 innings shall constitute a game.

All metal spikes on shoes are forbidden.

Games will be played on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings for 15 weeks, making a total of 45 games. Postponed games will be played on (Continued on Last Page)

Qualified Electors Will Decide Fate of Bond Issue Monday

On next Monday, April 30, voters of Michigan will decide the fate of the state bonding proposition which if passed will mean the expenditure of $37,800,000 for public buildings and highway construction during the next year. It is estimated that employment would be provided for 30,000 to 40,000 men for one year if the issue is passed.

State administration leaders are busy this week stamping the state in an effort to persuade qualified voters that the issue should be carried. A set of rules defining qualified voters has been issued by the committee directing the campaign, which are as follows:

Persons owning real estate assessed for taxes anywhere in Michigan (they may vote in their place of residence even if the property is in another part of the state) or their husbands or wives.

Persons owning personal property anywhere in Michigan which is assessed for taxes.

All partners in ownership of real property assessed for taxes.

The classification covering ownership of real property includes those purchasing property on contract. If the property is on the tax rolls, but the tax is delinquent or not paid, the owner nevertheless is eligible to vote. Personal property owners eligible to vote include those who pay, or are assessed for taxes, on farm equipment, household goods, bank stock and so on. Farmers, however, are cautioned that if they seek to qualify as personal property taxpayers they should remember there now is an exemption of $1,000 on farm personal property. Thus they might have been on the personal tax rolls last year, but not this year.

Rumors have been circulated recently that owners of automobiles might qualify because they paid a license fee. The attorney general said payment of this fee does not entitle owners to vote as it is privilege fee and not a tax. The only stockholders of corporations or companies who can qualify as taxpayers because of their stock holdings are those in railroad, insurance and telegraph companies and banks.

The practice throughout the state by election officials probably will be to permit all those who sign a certificate stating they are real or personal taxpayers to vote. This is in compliance with a ruling by the attorney general. Ray M. Foley, member of the campaign committee, said "we expect some persons not eligible will vote, but they are subject to challenge. On the other hand there probably will be many who might not vote because they fear they are not eligible. They should seek advice."

The campaign is based largely on administration contentions that more than the amount of the contemplated bond issue will have to be spent for welfare if it is not adopted, that there will be no added burden to the taxpayers because as soon as a deficit in the state general fund is retired there will be ample money to cover the bonds, that the federal government may advance 90 per cent of the issue and that the benefits will be directly felt in every county.

Gas Co. Explains Awarding of Range

To the people of Chelsea:

In the drawing of the gas range awarded at the Washenaw Gas Co. Cooking School last Thursday, the award originally went to Miss Madeleine Hollar, who it was found was a resident of Chelsea but not a consumer of gas in Chelsea, and the award was intended to go to a gas consumer.

Therefore another drawing was made in the presence of the women who had not left the auditorium and the next ticket drawn was that belonging to Mrs. Hilda McClure, and since Mrs. McClure was a consumer of gas in Chelsea the stove was awarded to her.

This explanation is made in behalf of those ladies attending the school who had left the auditorium before the final award was made. I am exceedingly sorry of the slight technicality which arose in the drawing, but I believe the final decision was more satisfactory to all those present, since the winner was an actual consumer.

Yours truly,
WASHENAW GAS CO.,
By Chas. R. Henderson,
Vice Pres. and Gen. Mgr.

Jacob Andres To Seek Third Term As Sheriff

Jacob L. Andres, who has served as sheriff of Washenaw county for four years, announced on Wednesday that he would be a candidate for re-election this fall.

Mr. Andres has served well as sheriff during his administration. Sixteen murders, all that have been committed in this county during his two terms, have been solved, and the guilty parties convicted. At the present time there is no major crime which remains unsolved.

Prior to his election as sheriff Mr. Andres served four years as undersheriff during the terms of Ernest M. Wurster and was chief deputy under Sheriff Robinson. Before that time he served on the Ann Arbor police department as patrolman and sergeant. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Michigan State Sheriff's Association.

Friends of Mr. Andres will be asked to sign his nominating petitions in the near future.

Large Crowd Attends District Rally Here

About 250 Evangelical teachers and League members from Ann Arbor, Dexter, Francisco, Freedom, Lansing, Manchester, Rogers Corners and Saline, comprising the largest delegation ever in attendance, were present at the Ann Arbor District Rally banquet which was held Monday evening in the public school gymnasium. Supper was served at seven o'clock by the Ladies' Aid Society and the Women's Union of St. Paul's church, the tables being attractively decorated in green and white, and lighted with green tapers.

During the banquet, yells and songs added to the merriment, with the group singing led by Paul F. Niehaus, the Hawaiian Trio also rendering several selections.

William Peters of Ann Arbor presided as toastmaster on this occasion, and the address of welcome was given by William Hammitt, Jr., of the Chelsea League, to which Eugene Schuman of Ann Arbor responded. A vocal duet, "All the Way With Jesus," was rendered by Mrs. J. N. Strieter and Mrs. W. H. Kusterer.

The address of the evening was given by John Allison of Ann Arbor. He spoke regarding the Young People's movement, urging them to push forward as ideal Christians, as the young people of today will rule and regulate forthcoming generations.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Niehaus favored with a vocal duet, "The Lord is My Light," by Allison. The next number on the program was "Radio Skits," when each delegation contributed toward the entertainment, as follows:

Ann Arbor—Xylophone solo.

Chelsea—Playlet, "A Sure Cure for Falsehoods."

Dexter—Piano duet and cornet trios.

Lansing—Readings.

Manchester—Solos by Jean Farley, 6 years old.

Rogers Corners—Violin solo and readings.

Saline—Vocal solo, saw solo, and reading.

The trophy was passed from Dexter to Chelsea, which had the largest percentage of members in attendance.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—I would like to ask you if I can make boiling water any hotter by turning on more heat?

Ans.—No. Boiling water has a temperature of 212 degrees—and no more at any stage. If you give it more heat, you simply make it boil faster and will not get hotter.

Ques.—Will you please answer in your good paper who was the first king of England? In what time did he reign?

Ans.—Alfred the Great was the first king of England. His reign was from 871 to 900 A. D. He was proclaimed king immediately after England became a free and independent nation.

Ques.—What day of the week was I born on? The date was May 1, 1887.

Ans.—May 1, 1887, was on Sunday. This was the day of course, on which you were born.

Ques.—Can you give me a brief outline of William Tell and the apple shooting? Is the story true?

Ans.—The story of William Tell is fiction and was dramatized by Schiller. William Tell refused to salute the Austrian emperor and was sentenced to shoot an apple from the head of his own son. He succeeded in this perilous task, but he let fall a second arrow. Gessler, the tyrant, asked him why he had shot the arrow. "To kill you, tyrant," Tell replied. "In case I had failed to shoot the apple," he said, "I would have taken aboard ship across Lake Lucerne to be devoured alive by reptiles. A violent storm arose, and Tell was unshackled to take the helm. Gessler was on board, and when the vessel neared the castle, Tell leaped ashore, gave the boat a push into the lake and then shot the tyrant. After this he liberated his country from the Austrian yoke."

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please answer which is the larger of the two places—Marysville, Ill., or Marysville, Pa.?

Ans.—The Pennsylvania town is the larger, with a population of 1,922; the Illinois village has a population of 602. (While there is no "Marysville" in Illinois, we are assuming that you mean "Marysville.")

Ques.—I am curious to know where the Virgin Islands are located. Will you answer as you can?

Ans.—The Virgin Islands (three) are located due east of Porto Rico.

Ques.—How did William Cody get to be known as "Buffalo Bill"? When did he die? Can you sketch his life?

Ans.—William F. Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill," was a leading American frontiersman. He was born in Scott county, Iowa, Feb. 26, 1845, and died Jan. 10, 1917. He spent the early years of his life among the Indians. When the Civil War broke out he rendered valuable service as a Union Scout. When the Union Pacific Railway was in a state of construction he closed a contract with Goddard Bros. to furnish fresh buffalo meat for a certain period. Under this contract he delivered 4,280 buffaloes. On account of this, he was nicknamed "Buffalo Bill." Later he became engaged in several raids against the Indians, and settled at North Platte, Neb., where he established a large cattle ranch and engaged in the raising of buffaloes. Later he collected a band of wild Indians, roughriders, cowboys, unbroken bronchos and a large herd of buffaloes. He toured the principal cities of the world, and returned to the World's Columbian Exposition in 1893, where he made a wonderful success with his "Wild West" show.

Ques.—May I ask in your Question Column if Presidents of the United States and other United States officials are exempt from paying income tax?

Ans.—The President of the United States is exempt from paying income tax on his salary as President, but he must pay income tax from other sources of revenue and personal property. Other government officials must pay income tax on their salary.

Few Mexican Hairless Cats

The Mexican hairless cat is a very night extinct. It is thought to have been domesticated by the Indians of South and Central America before Columbus reached America. As recently as 1900, according to a writer in the Cleveland Press, a pair was discovered in a public house in New Mexico. Old Jesuit fathers assured the finder that they were the last of the old Aztec breed. They were brother and sister and the Chicago Cat society valued them at $1,000 each. The male weighed 10 pounds, the female 8 and their description was given as "mouse colored, with neck, stomach and legs a delicate flesh tint." These cats were as affectionate and intelligent as a cat could be desired. Mexican hairless cats, although furless in summer, developed in winter a slight growth of hair on the back and ridge of the tail. Perhaps their peculiar expression, big ears and thin little tail was against this breed in its bid for existence.

Telephone Co. Objects To Useless Expense

Lansing, Mich.—Objecting to further expenditure of huge sums for useless inventories and appraisals of telephone properties, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company late Thursday filed a petition with the Public Utilities Commission for a hearing as to the necessity for further audit of its books and properties. The Commission has asked the Company for $5,000 toward the expense of bringing the audit and appraisal of the telephone properties up to date in connection with the new rate action, hearings in which were adjourned on Thursday until April 27. The petition shows that since 1920 the Company has expended, at the instance of the Commission, approximately $2,000,000 for three appraisals. The final appraisal, made in 1931, 1932 and 1933, cost $1,754,000, and it is contended, has not even been made a matter of record or otherwise made available. "With all this expense, and interference with the normal functioning of the telephone service organization," the petition says, "no substantial practical use has been made by the Commission of anything so developed."

The Company contends that now the Commission has a new group of engineers which does not approve the appraisal recently completed by an other group of Commission engineers at a cost of more than a million dollars, and the Commission proposes to spend more money to check and bring the appraisal up to date. The Company is objecting because it has been its experience over a period of 14 years that this is merely a continuing program with a never-ending and useless expenditure of money, and that nothing in the record indicates that any use has been made of these three appraisals already made, at a cost of $2,000,000. The Company contends, therefore, that the Commission now should show any necessity for further appraisals and expenditures before ordering a new group of engineers to undertake the work. It is claimed that such continuing demands upon the Company for meeting the expense of such investigations is, in fact, a method of depriving the Company of its property—in other words, confiscation.

"MALINDA TUCKER"

(This poem was published in the War Cry, "Malinda Tucker", copied in "Heart and Life", Chicago. Tune, "Let the lower lights be burning")

"And there was a rainbow round about the throne", (Revelation 4:3.)

Rainbow of God's Presence

When life's clouds are dark and low—
"ring
In a sky no longer blue,
Keep believing in the darkness—
There's a rainbow shining through.

CHORUS

Oh, my soul, keep up thy singing,
Though the sun be hid from view;
Bells of hope keep on a-ringing,
There's a rainbow shining through.
When the eyes are dimmed with sorrow,
Bravely borne through lonely years,
Let the sunshine of God's presence
Throw a rainbow on your tears.

Banner of Divine compassion,
Token of a promise true;
Harbinger of storms subsiding,
Is the rainbow shining through.

In the shadow of the valley,
Through which I must pass alone,
God will keep His precious promise,
There's a rainbow round the Throne.

—Arthur Carlton.

Starr Commonwealth Tag Day Saturday

On Saturday, April 28, the citizens of Chelsea will again have the privilege of making their yearly contribution to character building, when the Starr Commonwealth for Boys, located at Albion, conducts their annual Tag Day and drive for funds, permission for the drive having been granted by Pres. J. E. McKune.

The Starr Commonwealth is a school and home for the underprivileged boys of the State of Michigan. It has been frequently called a "character building factory," for it has as its aim the rebuilding and the reshaping of the lives of boys, enabling them to get started in life with the right viewpoint.

Situated on the shores of a little lake three miles west of Albion, the Starr Commonwealth has been doing a flourishing business in character reclamation for more than two decades.

It does not operate with a single set of rules. There are as many different regulations as there are boys in the home. Boys are not sent there as a punishment but rather to be given the opportunity to be good that has been denied them in their own communities. There are no walls, bolts, guards, or uniforms.

According to Floyd Starr, the founder and present head of the institution, there are no "bad boys."

Starting on the assumption that every normal boy will make good if given the opportunity in an environment of love and activity, Mr. Starr has proven by years of work and hundreds of boys there are no bad boys in any sense of the word.

It is earnestly hoped by those in charge of the school that all will contribute generously to make the Tag Day this year a huge success.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB MEETING

Members of the Fellowship club and their ladies and invited guests met in the dining room of the Methodist church on Tuesday evening.

Dinner was served at 7:00 o'clock, about 135 being present to enjoy the fellowship of this, the closing meeting of the present season.

Fred Benz of Ann Arbor, the speaker of the evening, was introduced by the pastor, and furnished the delightful sensation of a personally conducted tour through the Orient, illustrated with about three thousand feet of marvellously fine and thoroughly descriptive motion picture film. Starting at Naples, the audience was enabled to visit Vesuvius, Pompeii and other points of interest in Italy and then proceeded by way of Egypt and Arabia, visiting the Nile valley and the Pyramids and Cairo en route, to India.

Mr. Benz has made three visits to the Far East and has made a study of the life and habits of the people as well as interesting views of their cities, temples, industries and customs.

After a brief intermission China was visited. This included the Great Wall, Peking, Temple of Heaven, ancient palaces, and crowded cities. Instead of the usual printed captions, Mr. Benz gave brief descriptions of all the interesting scenes portrayed and all 400 soon the program ended and the interested audience was back in Chelsea, thanking the speaker for his kindness.

The annual meeting of the Fellowship club will be held in the Fall, at which time officers will be elected and program arranged for next season.

VOGEL FEATURED IN ARTICLE

An article "Making Of Man River Behave", in the Liberty Magazine of April 28th is of especial interest to Chelsea people, as it tells of the work of a former well known Chelsea boy, Lt. Herbert Vogel, son of L. P. Vogel.

An excerpt from the article says: "At Vicksburg, Mississippi, Uncle Sam owns a little plot of 140 acres holding a 40 acre artificial lake. It is the United States Waterways Experiment Station. The director is a brilliant young engineer, First Lieutenant Herbert Vogel, a highly educated specialist in hydraulics. He and his station are under General Pershing's command. There they work daily miracles. A picture of Lt. Vogel and also one of his projects accompany the article.

Evelyn Bohnet Weds New York Man Here

At a pretty wedding solemnized Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents on Orchard street, Miss Evelyn Marie Bohnet, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bohnet of Chelsea, and Alfred William Lipphart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pasture Lipphart of Utica, N. Y., were united in marriage by Rev. P. H. Grabowski.

The ring ceremony was performed at six o'clock before a background of ferns flanked on either side by candle-labra bearing lighted tapers.

As the bridal party entered the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Oleta Seitz. Attending the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hooper of Ann Arbor. The bride was attired in poudre blue crepe and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses, Chinese iris and blue forget-me-nots. Mrs. Hooper wore a gown of blue crepe and her bouquet was composed of tallisman roses, Chinese iris and lavender-sweet peas.

Immediately after the ceremony, a wedding dinner, with covers for twenty, was served by Ruth Faust and Mary Jane Riker. A color motif of pink and white was carried out with bowls of pink and white snapdragons, white pink and white nut baskets marked the places for the guests. Tiny pink roses decorated the three-tiered wedding cake which centered the bride's table.

Mrs. Lipphart, a graduate of Chelsea high school, class of 1928, also is a graduate nurse, finishing her training at the U. of M. hospital in the class of 1931. Mr. Lipphart was graduated in the class of 1933 of the University school of engineering and is a member of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Lipphart will occupy apartments at the corner of Division and Jefferson Sts., Ann Arbor.

Out of town guests at the wedding included the groom's mother, Mrs. A. P. Lipphart of Utica, N. Y., his sister, Mrs. Earl Walrath of Alexandria Bay, N. Y., also Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hooper, Miss Margaret Cameron, William Moffat, Philip Datzel and Albin Telford of Ann Arbor.

Several pre-nuptial parties were given by Ann Arbor friends, including a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Albert Hooper and a linen shower given by Mrs. Robert Calver, Jr. on Wednesday evening.

HAVE OLD HANDBILL

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Richards are in possession of a handbill which was printed in 1854, advertising a big balloon ascension in Adrian. The bill was found in the belongings of Mrs. Richards' mother, Mrs. Lasira Cuer, of Onsted, who died recently. The bill is exceedingly well preserved, every word of printing being plain. It states that the "Air Ship Mercury" will ascend at 3 1/2 o'clock on June 15th, with Professor Wise as the pilot. Six thousand persons were expected at the event, to see the "splendid sight of a voyage through the heavens." The bill was printed by the Steam Press of Jermain & Bro., Adrian.

A Junior Speaks About Chemistry

"What does chemistry mean to me?" said Jazzy Junior as he looked at this page, printed with ink made by a chemical process, on paper made by a chemical process.

As he pushed back his cuff, bleached by a chemical process, and laced his shoes, tanned by a chemical process, he glanced through a pane of glass, made by a chemical process, and saw a baker's cart full of bread, leavened by a chemical process, and a draper's wagon delivering a parcel of silk, made by a chemical process.

He pulled out his pencil, made by a chemical process, and wrote a reminder in his notebook, bound by imitation morocco, made by a chemical process.

Then he put on his hat, dyed by a chemical process, and stepped out upon the pavement of asphalt, compounded by a chemical process, and proceeded to the office where he dealt in a certain chemical process called coal.

"No," he added, "of course not; chemistry has nothing to do with me."

Know Chelsea

If you should walk into any tenth grade English class, you would be surprised to hear them discussing screws. Last Wednesday and Thursday the 10th grade English classes had the privilege of going through the screw plant and learning how screws are made. The process was very interesting indeed. In spite of the deafening noise we learned a good deal.

We wish to thank Mr. Dunkel, who made it possible for us to go through the plant. We also wish to thank the men who showed us around.

The purpose of this trip was to help us to understand thoroughly the use of exposition which we are now studying. We intend to make a scrap book containing pictures of the plant and all the information we acquired.

Our next tour will take us through the Howell Mill Co., the Milling Co., and the creamery. Various types of expository themes will be written on observations made, and instruction received at these concerns also, and will be included in the scrap book. Upon completion, the scrap book will be placed in the school library.

Miss Barrus (in Speech class) to David Butcher: Give me a sentence with the word "avaunt" in it.

David B. (very promptly): Avaunt what avaunt when avaunt it.

Hubert Ives (in typing class): At last I have hit on an invention that will make my fortune.

Pearl Hadey: Well, what is it this time?

Hubert Ives: It's an extra key on a typewriter. You see, when you don't know how to spell a word you hit that key, and it makes a blur that might be an "e" or an "a" or almost anything else.

Pearl H.: Oh! I see.

Elementary News

The seventh graders waxed poetic last week while they were studying ballads of adventure. Following are two of the best attempts to imitate the typical ballad of long ago:

The Titanic
In the spring of nineteen twelve,
A ship sailed 'cross the ocean;
It bumped into an iceberg,
Which tipped it while in motion.

The people went in life boats,
To try and save their lives;
They were picked up by the Carpathia
And the rest did not survive.

With one thousand and a half,
That's all the ones went down,
It caused the fishes from all the seas
To come a sailing around.

This was the wreck of the good ship
Titanic,
Whose saved lives were few;
Within two hours she was on the bottom,
Down where the sea weeds grow.

Little Red Riding Hood
A little girl dressed in red
Heard her mother say,
"Come little Red Riding Hood,
Be on your way."

Right in her little path
A big wolf stood;
He said in a cunning voice,
"Dear, I like your hood."

Of course she was so very flattered
That she raced with him,
Until quite out of breath
She stumbled over a limb.

When she jumped up, the
Wolf was out of sight;
She hurried on her way,
In a dreadful fright.

Then she reached the house
And rapped on the door;
"Come in," said the cunning voice,
"Like one she'd heard before."

She had entered in the house
Where she heard a growl;
The wolf jumped right upon her
With a fierce howl.

A hunter shot the horrid wolf
Square in the head;
Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah,
The Big Bad Wolf is dead.

Fourth Grade
One hundred eighty-four parents and friends visited the room on open house night.

We are still keeping track of Admiral Byrd's expedition in the Antarctic.

William Sheehan is still absent on account of the serious illness of his grandfather.

In geography we are studying Hall and the Polder Lands. If you do not know what polder lands are, ask any fourth grader.

Miss Haas, County School Superintendent called on us Friday last week. Come again, Miss Haas.

In English we are learning "The May Queen," by Tennyson.

First Grade
Eva Geddes and Eldore Carlson have both developed whooping cough. Too bad.

Kathleen Fisher, Helen Loeffler and Dolores McBride are back with us. How glad we are to see them.

Philip Homphins brought a wreath house to school.

Kindergarten
Miss Sheehan is with the kindergarten pupils again. We are glad to see you with us again. The kindergarten pupils are studying a Dutch project.

Harry Blecker (at dinner): "Papa, are caterpillars good to eat?"

Papa Blecker: "Son, haven't I taught you better than to mention such things at the table?"

Mother Blecker (after a pause): "Why, Harry, why did you ask that question?"

Harry B. (rather sadly): "Why, mother, I just saw one on papa's salad, but it's gone now."

The City of Happiness is in the State of Mind.

We should think best, expect the best, do our best, and trust God for the rest.

THE STUDENT FRATERNITY MURDER

by Milton Propper

Copyright, 1934, by Milton Propper
WNU Service

"Who composed the party that drove Stuart out of the city?" Rankin inquired.

Wallace Lloyd spoke up again. "I did for one. We went in George Patterson's car—he, George Drummond and myself. The other pledges beside Stuart were Roy Martin and Alex Pike—both freshmen in the business school."

"Then you should be able to locate the exact spot where you finally deserted him. How far out was it and by what route did you reach it?"

As Lloyd described the complicated course followed three nights before, Rankin jotted it down in his notebook. At the same time, he asked questions that would more definitely fix the lonely site of Jordan's desertion. Not until he fully understood the student's explanation did he ask:

"How late was it when you reached this place, Mr. Lloyd, and left Stuart to shift for himself?"

"Nearly eleven-thirty, sir," the recorder replied.

"And how long did it take him to get back to the fraternity? Have you any idea of what time of the night he turned up here for his clothes?"

But of this, Lloyd was ignorant; he had retired immediately upon returning to the house. Nor could any other brothers enlighten Rankin on this point. Jordan had told no one how he had fared the night before.

At length, convinced that he had learned all he could about the Patterson incident, Rankin shifted to his second mission at the fraternity. That was to gain private access to Ned Patterson's bedroom. Accordingly, as a subterfuge, he requested to speak again to Larry Palmer, whose chamber adjoined the sponsor's. Palmer, after being questioned among others, had gone upstairs to it. As for Patterson himself, he had been absent all afternoon, so that the detective knew he could safely make the attempt.

"I'll call Larry down for you, Mr. Rankin," Stanton volunteered. "I suppose he is still up stairs; he said he had some studying to do before supper."

Rankin was equally quick to refuse the offer. "Sucker, mind bothering him," he muttered. "I'll just run up for a few minutes." He waved Lloyd and the president aside as they started to accompany him. "No," he declared. "I want to speak to Mr. Palmer alone. I know which room he occupies."

Before they could follow, he had tumbled from the chamber and ascended the stairs to the third floor. But in the long rear hallway, instead of entering Palmer's door, he paused outside the closed one adjoining the third from the right. He turned Patterson's door-knob soundlessly, slipped into the room unobserved and closed the door as silently behind him.

"The most promising place of concealment for the poison stolen from the chemistry laboratory was the desk. Rankin tackled this first. But a careful but hurried scrutiny of many objects, books and the welter of themes, pictures and miscellaneous trims that filled the drawers and pigeonholes proved unproductive. Nor at first glance did his exploration of the bureau seem to justify his thorough search. In a corner of the bottom container, beneath a soiled smoking jacket, he uncovered an oldish tobacco pouch. He inspected this with the rest; on the verge of repining it as being barren, his sensitive fingers felt the hard smooth surface of some round thin articles in its folds. Eagerly he dug once more into the streets of tobacco.

Two tiny, ten-cent, both tightly corked, had been concealed in the pouch. One held an almost infinitesimal quantity of a yellow fluid and the other a minute amount of some grain-like substance. Unworked, the fluid gave forth a repulsive musky odor. Without any analysis, Rankin had not the slightest doubt that here was a portion of the missing conine and atropine. And it was equally certain that Patterson was responsible for their theft. Continuing his canvass with the closet and trunk, the detective failed to find anything like a hypodermic needle, with which the student might have injected the conine into Jordan's wrist.

There remained only to procure a sample of his finger prints to compare with those the finger print expert might locate in the laboratory. Rankin turned to Patterson's shaving kit for clear records. The surface of a razor blade, held between thumb and forefinger, retained impressions admirably; from Patterson's inflated, gold-plated box, he abstracted three with distinct marks, that in use and two others. These he placed in an envelope and pocketed. Then returning the kit to its drawer, so as to leave nothing disturbed, he opened the door and slipped out of the chamber as stealthily as he had entered.
