St. Mary's To Graduate Class of Four, May 17

St. Mary's parochial school will graduate a class of four at the Commencement exercises to be held in June. Members of the class are: Veronica Culhane, John Dvorak, Louis Otto and Bernice Tuttle, of which Veronica Culhane is president and John Dvorak, vice president. "Excelsior" is the class motto, the class colors are blue and white, and the Forget-Me-Not is the class flower.

On Thursday, May 17, the seniors will participate with other Dominican high schools in a luncheon and entertainment at St. Joseph's Academy, Adrian, as guests of the Sisters and the Senior class of the Academy.

E. E. Gallup Speaks At Kiwanis Meeting

E. E. Gallup, of Lansing, a former superintendent of the Chelsea public schools, addressed the local Kiwanis club Monday evening, discussing the relationship of the urban and rural areas. Mr. Gallup is supervisor of the Vocational Agricultural Department under the Smith-Hughes law, and his experience in this capacity qualifies him as an authority on the subject.

The speaker stressed the importance of capable county agents and their work with the youth of the rural areas, as well as an agricultural course in high schools. He said that a large percentage of rural boys who join livestock and other clubs while in grade school, and who have the advantage of an agricultural course as a part of their high school education, will remain on the farm. As a result of this training they are better prepared to carry on their agricultural pursuits, according to the speaker.

Mr. Gallup stated that, due to the fact that most people in the rural areas enjoy all the conveniences that their city neighbors have, there is not the division line in communities that formerly existed. He stated that farming is no longer just a mode of living but that it is a business, in most cases carried on in the same systematic manner that characterizes retail merchandising.

In concluding his discussion Mr. Gallup predicted consolidation of school districts and other units of government as a result of the neighborliness and mutual problems now existing, which he stated would be a real benefit to all concerned.

Boxing Show at Local Gym Closed Season

The final boxing show of the season was held at the Chelsea high school gym Tuesday night. About 350 fans turned out to witness the show and many of them were disappointed by the failure of Dewees to be present. At a late date Moiry Hoffman received word that his presence here could be assured but he refused to notify differently, which subjects him to disqualification from the American Amateur Union.

Despite this disappointment the show was an interesting one from the standpoint of action.

Several local boys participated Tuesday night, including Proctor Bros., Johnny Keith, Eddie Daniels and Ralph Holbrook. All the boys showed signs of great improvement and Chelsea fans will admit that another year of experience will place the boys in a position to meet most any of the amateurs in this district.

Results of the fights are as follows:
Les Proctor, Chelsea, Clyde Moore, Ann Arbor, decision for latter.
Bobby Sorvis, Michigan Center, and Paul Bradbury, Dexter, decision.
Eddie Daniels, Chelsea, Bill Fisher, Napoleon, decision (unpopular).
Ted Cooper, Albion, Bucky Harris, Norvell, decision.
Red Secord, Jackson, Archie Moore, Ann Arbor, won on technical knockout.

Bill Snow, Parma, John Henry Keith, Chelsea, decision.
Ralph Holbrook, Chelsea, substitute for Terry, Ann Arbor, Locks, Springfield, decision.
Dick Fox, Jackson, Russ Proctor, Chelsea, decision.
Chuck Verberg, Ann Arbor, U. of M., won by default from Eddie Dewees.

Dick Hagadon, Jackson, won on default from Machinski, Ypsilanti.

Following are the members of the class of '34: Gladys Abdon, Mildred Beeman, Barbara Blecker, Johanna Brueckner, Ruth Faust, Walter Gage, Andros Gulde, Jr., Pearl Hailey, Roger Hinderer, Walter Hinderer, Helen Hofferik, Jean Irwin, Matthew McGaffigan, Margaret Merkel, Paul Nicot, Glenwood Noves, Donald Oesterle, Diomedes Panarites, Donald Rank, Manning Richards, Paul Rogers, Arlene Satterthwaite, Dorothy Schenk, Carl Swickerath, Dora Scripser, Eleanor Swanson, Milo Taber, Annabelle Vicary, Thomas Walworth, Leona Weinberg, Harold West, Duane Winans, Wallace Wood.

Mother and Daughter Banquet On Friday

Mothers and daughters of the Congregational church will join for a banquet Friday evening, sponsored by the Sunday school, to be held at 6:30 in the church dining room. All members and friends are invited.

The invocation by Mrs. Frederick B. Mumby will open the program, after which Mrs. Chas. F. Wolf, chairman of the entertainment committee, will introduce Mrs. J. Nelson Dancer as toastmistress of the evening. Miss Edna Freeman will respond to the "Toast to Mothers", and this will be followed by a recitation by Barbara Eaton.

Mrs. H. W. Schmidt will give a "Toast to the Daughters" and Margaret Heselschwerdt will favor with a reading. The address of the evening will be given by Mrs. Clarence J. Chandler of Detroit.

The program will be interspersed with music.

O. E. S. Association To Meet In Chelsea

The semi-annual meeting of the Washtenaw County O. E. S. Association will convene in the Chelsea public school auditorium on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, May 16. The afternoon meeting will begin at two o'clock. The local officers who will assist in the meetings are: Worthy Matron, Evelyn Smith; Adah, Bernice Boyd; and Sentinel, Grace Shell. Several grand officers will be present. The supper will be served by the Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church.

Aid To Veterans Is Service of Red Cross

Among the many other services which the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross performs, its service to the war veteran is one of the most important. This field of activity is one of the major parts of the Red Cross program and the office is equipped to perform every required service to the veteran, according to Mrs. Nellie E. Ball, executive secretary.

The Red Cross helps veterans to get adjusted service certificates, duplicate discharge papers, notarizes official statements and documents. The Chapter aids in appealing claims for pensions, helps to procure loans, arranges hospitalization for those who are eligible, will make investigations, prepare reports and social and employment histories. In fact the Chapter is prepared to perform any service for the veteran which it may be called upon to do.

Copies of all veterans' legislation is received at the Red Cross headquarters along with interpretation of the laws, so the secretary is fully informed on the scope and meaning of veterans' laws. Complete information is available on pensions and benefits and on all other matters dealing with veterans.

Office hours of the Red Cross are from 9 to 11:30 o'clock and 2 to 4 o'clock Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week. Veterans living in Washtenaw county needing any service whatsoever are urged to communicate with the Red Cross office, which is located on the second floor of the Chamber of Commerce building in Ann Arbor.

Twilight Ball Season Enters Second Week

Chelsea's Twilight Ball season entered its second week with the same interest from fans that was evidenced at the two opening games last week. Large crowds were in attendance at the games on Monday and Tuesday, on Monday to see the Legion defeat the Trojans, 10 to 1, and on Tuesday to see the strong St. Pauls team take the Sea Scouts, 10 to 4.

According to Dr. L. J. Paul, president of the league, he plans to invite the Chelsea High School Band to present a concert at the baseball field in the near future. This event will come on an evening when two of the best teams are scheduled to play.

The village council appropriated $20.00 toward the rent of the baseball field at their regular meeting Monday evening. This will not cover the total rental and, while it has been announced that admission to all games would be free, the management will no doubt be forced to ask for a freewill offering from the fans some evening in the near future so the rental and some other miscellaneous expenses can be met. Each team is furnishing their own playing equipment and it is believed that those who enjoy the games will be willing to help in defraying some of the other expenses.

Standings of the teams are as follows:
Teams W L Pct.
St. Paul 2 0 1000
Congregational 1 0 1000
Legion 1 1 500
Sea Scouts 0 1 000
Trojans 0 2 000
Methodist 0 0 000
The schedule for the remainder of this week and next week is as follows:
Thursday, May 10—Congregational vs. Methodist.
Friday, May 11 (postponed game).
Methodists vs. Sea Scouts.
Monday, May 14—Trojans vs. Methodists.
Tuesday, May 15—Congregational vs. Sea Scouts.
Thursday, May 17—St. Paul's vs. American Legion.

ENTERTAIN U. K. CLUB

Mrs. Elmer Weinberg and Mrs. J. P. Cook entertained the U. K. club at the former's home on US-12 on Wednesday evening. Two tables of euchre were in play and honors were awarded to Mrs. John Oesterle and Mrs. Charles Mohrlock. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Will you be kind enough to tell me just when the Julian period of time began? Also the Jewish period of time?

Ans.—The Julian era of time began 6,641 years ago, using our present calendar as a base in computing this. Using the same base, the Jewish period of time began 5,694 years ago.

Ques.—Please may I ask what the college colors are for Yale, Harvard, Ohio State, Notre Dame, University of Illinois and the University of Pennsylvania?

Ans.—The colors for these colleges are as follows: Yale, Blue; Harvard, Crimson; Ohio, Scarlet and Gray; Notre Dame, Gold and Blue; Illinois, Orange and Navy Blue; Pennsylvania, Red and Blue.

Ques.—Which is the deepest ocean on earth—the Atlantic or the Pacific? Is there any body of water any deeper than either of these two oceans?

Ans.—The Pacific ocean is the deepest body of water on earth. Its average depth is close to two and one-half miles—or, to be exact, the average depth of the Pacific is 12,960 feet. The Atlantic ocean depth is 12,200 feet.

Ques.—I wish to ask you where is the Eiffel tower located. How high is it, and is it the tallest structure in the world?

Ans.—The Eiffel tower is located in Paris, France. This tower is 984 feet high, and is the tallest structure in the world.

Ques.—I am curious to know what "S. J." means, which appears sometimes after the name of a Catholic priest?

Ans.—"S. J." means "Society of Jesus," the order to which they belong.

Ques.—Should the pulse of a newborn baby beat faster than that of an ordinary person?

Ans.—The pulse of a newborn baby should beat between 130 and 140 times a minute. If it beats more or less than this, the baby is ailing. The average for an adult in good health is between 80 and 90 per minute.

Ques.—Will you please tell me in your good paper what the fifteenth wedding anniversary is? Thank you.

Ans.—The fifteenth wedding anniversary is "Crystal."

Ques.—How many languages are spoken throughout the world? Which language leads?

Ans.—There are about 5,000 different languages spoken in the world. Chinese leads with 500,000,000. English is second with 170,000,000, and German is third with 120,000,000.

Ques.—I may be dumb, but I want to ask you what a volt is? Also, what is a watt.

Ans.—A volt is a unit of electromotive force; one volt equals one ampere of current passing through a substance having one ohm of resistance. A watt is a unit of power; equivalent to work done at the rate of one joule per second.

Ques.—What is the first amendment to the United States constitution, and when was it passed?

Ans.—The first amendment to the United States constitution was passed by Congress December 15, 1791, and it reads as follows: "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Ques.—Will you kindly answer who James J. Jeffries whipped when he won the world's heavyweight championship prize fight? Also where it took place and the number of rounds?

Ans.—James J. Jeffries won the world's heavyweight championship from Bob Fitzsimmons June 9, 1899, in 11 rounds at Coney Island, N. Y.

Ques.—Did President Roosevelt reduce his own salary as President of the United States? How is he paid?

Ans.—Yes. He voluntarily reduced his own salary 15 per cent. As the United States government cannot make the "cut" during the President's term of office the government pays him in two checks monthly—one large and one small. The small check represents the 15 per cent reduction, which he gives back to the Treasury.

Michigan Department of State WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich.—As nearly as is possible to ascertain, there are 1,437,952 automobile drivers licensed in Michigan.

The present motor vehicle operators' license law became effective May 1, 1931 requiring drivers to obtain new licenses every three years. For the three year period ending May 1, 1934 a total of 1,437,952 licenses were issued. This does not include duplicate licenses but actually the number of drivers is slightly below that figure as some drivers, after losing a license would apply for a new one instead of obtaining a duplicate.

Before Jan. 1, 1935 a total of 765,098 Michigan drivers must secure new licenses.

The special bond issue election on April 30 cost approximately 89 cents per vote, according to estimates by the Department of State.

The total cost of the election is estimated at $250,000 while about 289,000 votes were cast. In the cities the cost varied from $2 per vote in Detroit to $1.04 per vote in Lansing. In the villages and rural districts the cost ran below this figure.

All automobile weight tax refund warrants will have been mailed out by the Department of State by June 7th.

The warrants are being issued at a rate in excess of 5,000 per day and 140,000 of the 257,000 total had been mailed from the main office of the department on May 4. At the same time 672 warrants had been returned because the automobile owners had moved without leaving a forwarding address.

One warrant was mailed to Shanghai, China, and another to Abyssinia. In both instances the owner had purchased the vehicle in Michigan and driven the vehicle to the West Coast where it was placed on a vessel for shipment to its destination.

YOUR BIBLE

You may bring to your office and lay on your desk.

As costly as ever was made;

If you haven't integrity down in your chest,

The Devil will bond you his slave.

You may carry your Bible under your arm,

If it's not in the heart it won't count;

But if it is there, you'll live on the square,

And measure pounds out, to the ounce!

The Bible sends "Greetings" tho' you carry frowns,

Do it now, tho' you tarry and wait.

The Bible says "help" tho' you trample men down;

The Bible says "Love" and you hate,

You can't get away with the Bible that way.

For truth will come forth with a bounce,

It is not the Bible that lies on the desk,

But the one in your heart that counts.

—Arthur Carlton.

MRS. CATHERINE HAFLEY

Mrs. Catherine Hafley, 68, died Sunday afternoon in Sylvan township. Formerly Catherine Shillinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shillinger, she was born January 24, 1846 in Freedom township, where she was married December 11, 1879 to Harry Hafley, who died in 1910. The first year of their wedded life was spent in Sharon and in 1881 they moved to Sylvan, which has since been her home.

Surviving are four sons, Andrew, of Manchester, Fred and George of Sylvan, and William of Jackson, and 15 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the residence, Rev. A. A. Schoen of Dexter, officiating, and interment was in Maple Grove cemetery, Sylvan Center.

GRASS LAKE—But little interest was manifest in this township in the state bonding election Monday. A total of 185 voters went to the polls; 23 voting for the issue and 161 against.—News.

REMEDY REMOVES CAUSE OF STOMACH GAS

Most stomach GAS is due to bowel poisons. For quick relief use Adlerika. One dose cleans out body wastes, tones up your system, brings sound sleep. Henry H. Fenn, Druggist, Adv.

OH! THE FLOWERS

That I Love the Best!

That's what Mother will say when she receives your gift of fragrant blossoms from our conservatory, Mother's Day.

Remember her with the sweetest remembrance ever created—with flowers grown perfect and scented by Nature. We are glad to show you some of our especially designed baskets of cut flowers, appropriately seasonable. Or perhaps Mother would prefer to have growing plants, or bulbs.

*Far ahead
OF LAST YEAR'S
—and here's what's doing it—

It was a great record of leadership that Chevrolet made in 1933. . . . And this year, it's even greater. Sales are already thousands of cars ahead of last year. Production is the largest in the industry. And every day, from state after state, comes the same report on registrations: Chevrolet is leading all others! What's the reason for this success? The pictures tell the story. Chevrolet is the only low-priced car with this winning combination of five features. Chevrolet is the only manufacturer who can say:

*Drive it
and you'll never be satisfied with any other low-priced car.

GENERALS

"The Blowout-Proof Streamlined Tire for EVERY CAR"

The Only True Low Air Pressure
Tire with Patented Tapered Construction.

THE MOTORING SEASON IS HERE! Give your car some of the advantages of the new streamlined models—safety and beauty. Only the new GENERALS give you both.

No matter what car you drive, large or small, you will find the safest and most economical tire here in our complete new stock of General tires. Come in and look over this great tire—learn why we can say it is "Blow-Out" proof and the ONLY blowout proof tire built. You'll be surprised how economical they are!

The Way to Avoid Blowouts is to Buy The Blowout-Proof Tire

Tire blowouts cause thousands of fatal accidents yearly. For your protection you should know that there is only one BLOWOUT-PROOF tire. It is patented and made exclusively by General. No other manufacturer has been licensed to build it.

General's patented Blowout-Proof construction eliminates dangerous heat from every ply—and permits the use of 30% to 40% less air pressure than other tires require.

Ordinary tires require as much as 45 pounds of air to give satisfactory mileage. This terrific pressure is ready to burst through the carcass walls with explosive force when the tire is punctured or struck a sharp blow. But you can't have an explosion from low pressure. That's why only a low-pressure tire—only a GENERAL—can be blow-out-proof.

Let us explain our special change-over plan. You'll be surprised how easy it is to have the genuine Blowout-Proof Tire.

The final meeting of the club for the season will be on Tuesday evening, May 22 at the home of Mrs. M. H. McGaffigan.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Conrad Schanz entertained at a birthday party at her home Sunday for the pleasure of her eight grandchildren, the honor guests being Robert and Donald Schanz of Detroit, Carmer, Charles and Kenneth Slocum of Cavanaugh Lake, Donald Schanz of Chelsea and Nellie Marie Atkinson of Lima.

A three course dinner was served at 12 o'clock. The birthday cake forming the centerpiece was centered with a large green candle from which streamers of pink and white led to little cakes with the names in pink and white, marking the places for the guests.

LIBRARY NEWS

The new books recently added by the Chelsea Public Library are very much in demand. We have an excellent lot of new state books and the following is a partial list of the books purchased by us:

For the pay shelf—Come Out of the Pantry, by Muller; and Fireweed, by Walker. The latter is a story of Northern Michigan in a lumbering town—vivid in its descriptions—vital in its theme and extremely real in its development. This book was awarded the Avery Hopwood prize at University of Michigan to the best student author.

For the free shelves, we have five new Curwood books, including The Grizzly King, which older boys and girls will like.

The Gold Shoe and The Chance of a Lifetime by Grace Livingston Hill; Marriage by Capture, by Arthur Stringer; David Harum, by Wescott; Tomahawk Rights, by Everts, and The Dumbbell of Brookfield, by John Taintor Foote.

The two last named are for boys and girls of the teen age as well as for adults. The Dumbbell of Brookfield is one of the finest dog stories ever written.

CRAMER-MOECKEL WEDDING
The marriage of Miss Margaret Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Cramer of Clayton, and Roland Moeckel, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Moeckel of Waterloo took place in the parsonage of the Loomis Park Baptist church of Jackson at 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, May 1. Rev. J. J. Pease performed the ceremony. Miss Colia Elliott acted as bridesmaid and Gerald Cramer, brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man.

The bride was attired in Alice blue crepe de chine and the bridesmaid in peach crepe de chine.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple were served dinner at the home of the groom's parents, later all motoring to Clayton where a 6 o'clock dinner was served to the immediate families. They will be at home to their friends at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Moeckel.

On Friday evening, May 4, twenty-six relatives and friends gathered at the Moeckel home and gave the newly weds a complete surprise. The evening was spent in visiting and singing. Pot luck lunch was served at a late hour, guests returning to their several homes wishing the bride and groom a long and happy life. Mr. and Mrs. Moeckel received many beautiful gifts.

Ping-Pong Tournament

The ping-pong tournament which is being jointly sponsored by the Chelsea Standard and the Trojan A. C. is getting well under way. The games will be played on May 12 and 13, beginning at 7:00 o'clock sharp.

Anyone wishing to enter this novel contest may fill in the entry blank printed below, and accompanied by the fee of 15c, submit it at the Standard office or give it to Milo Taber or Dick Lyons, who will see that the contestant is qualified. Friday is the deadline for all entries.

The equipment will be furnished by the Trojan club where the games will be played, and an impartial referee will be appointed by the committee. A set will consist of three games. The player winning two of these three games takes the set and his opponent is automatically eliminated from the tournament. The winning contestant then plays the winner of another set, and so on, until only two players remain.

The final winner will be awarded a handsome, silver plated figure, nine inches high, depicting a ping-pong player in action. The victor's name will be engraved on the base of the trophy. This trophy will be on display in the show window of one of the local stores, together with the pairings as soon as they can be drawn.

The Trojan club rooms and ping-pong equipment will be available to entrants who wish to practice before the tournament.

Spectators who would like to see the "ping-pongers" in action will be admitted for the nominal charge of five cents which will help to defray the expenses of the event.

Anyone wishing further details concerning the contest may ask either of the above named Trojan members who will gladly give any information they can.

Editorial

Few people of Chelsea realize what valuable factories their town possesses. It is only by visiting these places and being instructed as to how they operate, that anyone can really know what a benefit they are.

Among our outstanding factories are the Federal Screw Works plant, the Hoover Steel, Ball Company and the Chelsea Milling Co. From these places screws of various sizes and shapes, steel balls, and flour products extend the name of Chelsea over a wide area and also attract people here.

They serve as the backbone, so to speak, of our community, for it is not the families whose men and boys are employed in our factories that make up the town? Who would come to Chelsea to live if there were no factories in which to work?

It is very important, therefore, that we, the residents of Chelsea, fully understand and appreciate the work that is being carried on in our local factories and thus are qualified to cooperate with their owners in spreading their reputations about.

Kindergarten

There are several of our classmates absent from school now because of the whooping cough. We have been making Dutch baskets which are very interesting and pretty. Miss Wilson has been teaching us some new spring songs.

First Grade

We are glad to have Jimmy Gaken with us again.

Birds' nests and wild flowers have been brought in by many of us.

Second Grade

The following articles of nature have been collected: A snake, tomato worm, four robins' nests, toad, ants, painted turtle and a snapping turtle; also various kinds of wild flowers.

Dorothy Donika had the pleasure of taking an airplane ride Saturday. She said that she enjoyed it very much.

Third Grade

We are very glad to have Raymond Radcliffe back with us as he has been absent for a long time.

The Sunshine Lady visited us and told us stories, gave us each a roll and sent us pens. Now we all belong to the Cremo club.

We have started reading History Stories for the first time and we also have some new readers.

Fourth Grade

Edwin Gault has returned to school and Donald Robert Knell is much better. We have finished our study of Holland, Netherlands and several of our boys and girls are planning on visiting Holland, Mich. during Festival week, May 12 to 20, where there will be flower shows and exhibits, parades in costumes, Dutch folk dances, bands, orchestras and choruses, given by musical organizations from schools. We will expect a fine report from those who go for the rest of us who are unable to go.

Fifth Grade

We have started studying wild flowers and have found that they are a very interesting subject to discuss.

S. Cake Announcing

Hello everybody! Now wait, don't get excited. Honestly you look as if you were ready to eat me. I get the fitters every time I see you open your mouth. I may be only a piece of a handsome cake but can't you even wait till I tell my story. You see, I want to prolong my short lived life. I, the delicious piece of sponge cake, represent the industries of Chelsea. First, I am made of wheat grown near the vicinity of Chelsea, and then ground to flour in the Chelsea Flour Mills, in machines having ball bearings made in the Chelsea Ball Plant and screws made in the Chelsea Screw Company. Yes, I made employment for nearly twenty-five men. I was put into bags and the man who tended the bags put me on a truck, another man wheeled me to a real truck where the man who drove placed me in the box. The parts of the trucks were made of ball bearings and screws made in the Chelsea factories. I was taken to a store. There men were employed to sell me. I was sold to the wife of one of the workmen, who paid for me with the money earned by her husband in making screws for the truck that transported me to the store. She took me home. Now I am a handsome piece of cake. Yes sir! I surely am an asset to Chelsea.

Five minutes later the boy who grossly devoured me, thoughtlessly exclaimed, "Gee ma, that cake was good." Such ignorance! He didn't even appreciate the things I did to help Chelsea.

A Trip Through Hoover Steel Ball Co. Plant

After we entered the entrance of the Steel Ball factory, we found ourselves in a large, long room wherein the combination of men, machinery and noise makes a deep impression on our minds. There are machines on either side of the walls, while in the middle of the room are piled heaps of raw material, long, round strips of steel.

First we inspect the machines which line the left wall. These machines, which are called "headers", are electrically run and they all do the same work. Automatically, strips of steel, that vary in size, are drawn into the machines which cut these strips and roughly shape the pieces into balls. Some of the balls are very, very small; others are fairly large, and then there are all sizes between these two. After they have been "drawn out", roughly speaking, they are taken to the much larger machines which line half of the right wall.

The different machines in this group take care of the different balls according to their size, and it is in these machines that the balls are ground—that is to say—they are filed off evenly and made the perfect size. In these same machines they are washed by running kerosene. When the balls have gone through this, they are loaded up and taken to a branch of the firm in Ann Arbor.

Here layers of them are packed in large ovens with carbon between the layers. For more than fifty hours they are baked over a tremendously hot fire. After they have gone through this process, which is known as "carbonizing", they are shipped back to the Chelsea factory again.

First they are put into the machine from which they formerly emerged, and are ground and filed again. Next they are put in large, round, slowly revolving screens which are heated by a furnace. From here they are dumped into another screen bucket, and by means of a pulley, they are lowered down into a small, square well which is located directly behind the furnaces. These pits are filled with cold water which cools and hardens the balls and they are about twenty feet deep.

Now the balls are ready for the lime process. They are put into a large wooden tub which holds a solution containing lime, where they are kept for twelve hours.

Next, the balls are put in a washer where the lime is thoroughly washed off. In this same machine, which is a large, complicated concern, that accomplishes a great deal, they are dried with sawdust after they are washed.

The balls are then put into round screened cylinders. Small strips and pieces of smooth sheepskin (nothing can be used except sheepskin), are put in with the balls. The machines are put into action—that is, the cylinders start to revolve, rather swiftly, and it is this continual rolling of the balls and leather that gives the balls a beautiful shiny surface.

After they have gone through this last process, they are taken way up to the front of the building into a little room. They are put in a "gager", a contraption which separates the balls according to their size, into one of six different pockets.

Then they are taken into another little room directly across from the room they have just left, where they are inspected by girls. The girls sit at a high work table over which large powerful electric lights are located behind. Particularly curved white screens. As the girls roll the balls over their little wooden trays with a small card, they pick out the defective ones by means of a little steel pencil whose point is magnetized.

Next they are taken back into the other little room and are counted. They are counted by putting enough of the balls into a certain unit on a steel trough. Finally, the last step is taken, that of packing them into cardboard boxes to be shipped away.

Win One - Lose One

The Chelsea boys lost a hard fought contest with Milan last Tuesday, May 1. Chelsea started out at fast pace, getting three runs in the first inning. They held this lead until the sixth inning when a six run rally by Milan decided the game.

Rank and Novess did the hurling for Chelsea, while Ehrenberg did all the hurling for Milan. The final score was 9-4 in favor of Milan.

Last Friday Chelsea journeyed to Lincoln to play baseball. The game there was a hitting duel between the two teams. Chelsea began by getting eight runs in the first two innings.

In the second inning Lincoln managed to get one run. The fifth inning was a turning point for they started hitting. They brought in 6 runs in that inning. The Chelsea boys came to bat ready to go as a result of that inning. With this spirit they managed to get 3 runs over the plate. Lincoln then made two more runs in their half of the sixth. Chelsea failed to score in the seventh, as did Lincoln. Final score: Chelsea 11, Lincoln 10.

"Adam and Eva"

Once again the Juniors are resting after presenting their annual play. As usual it was thoroughly successful. The class slipped up on the other classes by presenting the proverbial "Adam and Eva" in such a unique way. The play was under the very able direction of Miss Barrus, and many congratulations go out to the members of the cast who portrayed their respective roles so well.

Compliments came in until they threatened to totally swamp Nick Panarites for his portrayal of Uncle Horace; for Dick Sowers as Adam, and Leona Moeckel as Eva. They came also for Leo Althouse as Lord Andrew; for Lynn Dancer as Clinton De Witt and Shirley Carpenter as his wife; for Marie Haselschwerdt as Corintha; Max Young as Dr. Dalmater—and surprise! last but far from the least, Junior Seitz as Mr. King.

The musical interludes were furnished by an orchestra of high school students including Olen Hart, Roger Hinderer, Harley Prudden, Lawrence Tisch, Foster Beissel and Lorraine Esse.

THE STUDENT FRATERNITY MURDER

By Milton Propper

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Stricken during initiation into the Mu Beta Sigma fraternity, Stuart Jordan, university student, died almost immediately. A Philadelphia detective, taking charge of the investigation.

CHAPTER II.—An injection of cocaine is shown to have been the cause of the student's death. All the student's shoes are marked with thumbtacks. His only known relative is a banker, also his guardian, and his heir.

CHAPTER III.—Two students from the vicinity of Vandalla, Ill., Jordan's home town, claim to have seen Stuart Jordan in the city of Philadelphia. A prominent lawyer, Edward Fletcher, present at the initiation, also engages Rankin's attention.

CHAPTER IV.—A significant fact discovered is that a student, Larry Palmer, had been seen in the vicinity of the initiation, and his keys, including a set of the fraternity house, stolen from him.

CHAPTER V.—Jordan has been paying for check and a note to his unknown person, but the canceled checks are not among his effects. How the student had been seen in the city of Philadelphia, including cocaine, is stolen from the university laboratory. A student, Ed Patterson, is suspected of purchasing a set of the fraternity house, stolen from him.

CHAPTER VI.—The letter is from Edward Fletcher, young wife, who had been seen in the city of Philadelphia, including cocaine, is stolen from the university laboratory. A student, Ed Patterson, is suspected of purchasing a set of the fraternity house, stolen from him.

The lawyer's wife placed into her narrative. "Unfortunately, I had parked the roadster at the turn in our drive while we were inside," she related. "It would have been foolish to garage it, since we intended to use it again. And Edward must have noticed the lamp, lighted in my room, when he drove in from the highway into the limousine. That and the parked car made him stop his own machine below the turn, out of sight, and enter the house quietly, so as not to attract our attention.

"We didn't realize he was anywhere about, until he opened the door in his room and knocked thunderously on the connecting one between our chambers. He had heard Stuart speaking from the hall, and demanded to be let in at once. For a moment, we were paralyzed with astonishment; if the door hadn't been locked, I could never have got Stuart away in time. I instructed him quickly to go through my bathroom and down the servants' stairs to the rear entrance; then he was to take the roadster, before Mr. Fletcher could interfere and drive himself back to town. Otherwise, he would have been rash enough to prefer facing my husband. The racket Edward caused, rattling the door-knob and wanting to know who was with me, covered his escape.

"Still, Mr. Fletcher did know," Rankin pointed out smoothly, "that a man was locked in your bedroom with you at two o'clock in the morning. He could scarcely avoid interpreting the fact in the worst light."

The woman agreed reluctantly. "Yes, I suppose not; especially since Stuart forgot his key in his hurry and left it in my room. It was an old cap, though, and didn't belong to him; there was nothing to identify him as the owner."

"But your husband must have recognized the boy's voice," Rankin returned. "And earlier Monday evening, he saw the pledges at the fraternity dressed in rough second-hand clothes."

"But Your Husband Must Have Recognized the Boy's Voice."

The cap suggested to him part of such an outfit. He shook his head. "No, Mrs. Fletcher, regardless of what you believe, it's pretty certain he had shrewd idea whom you were shielding."

At this pronouncement, Mrs. Fletcher was silent. And he wisely refrained from asking more about the scene that must have followed Jordan's departure. Having obtained the details relating to the crime, the subsequent quarrel between the lawyer and his wife was immaterial; Rankin did not care to arouse her antagonism again. Instead, he said:

"I appreciate what you've told me, Mrs. Fletcher. Now I should like permission to look at the roadster. I suppose it is in the garage."

Without demur, Mrs. Fletcher led him from the footwalk to the drive on the left, following it to the garage behind the house. She switched on a light and the detective saw both cars inside, the limousine parked beside the roadster in which he was interested.

Rankin climbed into the roadster and lifted the right pocket flap. He ran his fingers deftly through the contents of the pocket, and then that in the left door, bringing to light a box of bulbs, a license, assorted road maps and a searchlight. After that, he hunted through the tiny pouch below the dashboard.

While thus occupied, he questioned Mrs. Fletcher about the roadster's return.

"What did Jordan do with the car after taking it to town?" he asked. "Do you know where he kept it, until morning?"

"In the Shawnee garage, where he had his own machine," the lawyer's wife replied. "It's on Thirty-seventh street, in West Philadelphia. He phoned me to tell me where it was; he said he'd either bring it back after hours, or if I preferred, my chauffeur could call for it."

"And who did go for it?" Mr. Fletcher went to the fraternity in it, the same evening."

"Oh, he got it himself," Mrs. Fletcher said. "Right after Stuart's call—the same morning, in fact. You see," she explained, "his taking the car like that, well, I was upset, seeking a word, 'well, I was upset, seeking almost as much as his jealousy. If it wasn't for the scandal, he would have had it traced and Stuart arrested. To prevent that, I promised to get in touch with him as soon as I heard where it was. Before eleven I phoned him at his office, where the chauffeur had driven him in the limousine. And nothing would suit him except calling for it himself."

"Obviously, to settle the last question as to Jordan's identity," Rankin commented. "The garage employees were acquainted with him and knew he had brought in this car."

At this damning proof of his contention, the woman's eyes reflected a fresh dread.

"That's right," she stammered. "I never thought of that. If he interviewed them, he'd have positive proof that it was Stuart he caught."

Rankin nodded briskly. "Exactly, Mrs. Fletcher. And once that last doubt by which you might have been afflicted disappeared, he would be convinced of your faithfulness. It is futile not to face the facts; you must confess it cannot escape the conclusion that—"

In the midst of his statement, he broke off suddenly; imperceptibly his body stiffened. For at that instant, digging into the bottom of the dashboard pouch, his hand encountered a thin, long, roundish object of glassy smoothness that tapered to a fine point. He withdrew it in the cup of his hand to hide the discovery from Mrs. Fletcher; but even before he looked at it cautiously, he had recognized its importance. It was a hypodermic needle, deliberately stowed away in a compartment of the lawyer's car, where prying eyes would be unlikely to find it.

Bending over to screen the act, he carefully dropped the tube into an inner pocket; his voice did not betray him as he continued:

"The conclusion that your husband is implicated in Stuart Jordan's murder," Tommy Rankin finished in an even tone, as if nothing had happened.

It was Rankin's discovery of the needle in Mr. Fletcher's car that crystallized his belief that the lawyer was the criminal he sought. As he pointed out to Mrs. Fletcher, he had ample opportunity to commit the crime; and Monday night's developments, supplementing those of Saturday, supplied an effectively plausible motive. Nevertheless, doubts of his guilt assailed Rankin.

But there was no denying the significance of the hypodermic needle. In contrast to purely circumstantial evidence, it inescapably implicated Mr. Fletcher with the murder. For the detective did not wait long to establish the fact that it was the weapon with which Stuart Jordan had been poisoned.

That same evening, he returned with it to headquarters and demanded of Mr. Sykes, the city chemist, a prompt, microscopic examination in the laboratory. Mr. Sykes announced that the syringe had last held a solution of cocaine. The chemist's experiments removed Rankin's last misgiving about suspecting Mr. Fletcher.

At the same time, he gave Mr. Sykes to analyze and measure the two vials Ned Patterson had concealed in the tobacco pouch in his bedroom. And then, after leaving the chemist, he received another report which implicated the lawyer still more deeply in Jordan's death.

This was the product of Detective Gordon's visit to the dormitories to interview the charwoman and the student occupants in Croft hall. With the students at the dormitory, he had been unsuccessful; they knew no intimate details concerning Jordan's past. But the questions he was instructed to ask the cleaning woman, a Mrs. Molly Hogan, had resulted in startling information.

"You mean, Lester, with regard to someone getting at the boy's shoes to put in those thumbtacks?" Rankin inquired eagerly. At this statement, "Did she ever notice any person around his rooms she thought suspicious?"

"Yes, she did, Tommy," his colleague replied. "Personally, I can't decide how important it is; I don't know enough about the case to judge. Still, it was mighty curious."

Gordon produced a note-book and began his recital in a routine, mechanical manner.

"It seems," he narrated, "that on Tuesday morning at eleven-fifteen, soon after Jordan quit his room to go to class, a well-dressed, middle-aged gentleman appeared in the hall and knocked on his door. Hearing him, Mrs. Hogan, who was straightening the next room, hurried out to tell him the boy had left. At that, the visitor identified himself as Jordan's uncle and claimed he was to have met him there at eleven. But if he came late, he was to get the charwoman to open the door for him and wait for the boy in his rooms. Accordingly, she unlocked the door."

Rankin heard with growing astonishment this unexpected intimation that Howard Merrick was in Philadelphia the day of his nephew's death. "And he declared he was Jordan's uncle?" he asked, wonderingly. "What was he like? Of course, you obtained a full description from Mrs. Hogan."

"She placed his age at fifty; he had a thin furrowed face, a bony nose and piercing eyes. Though of medium height, he seemed rather short. What impressed her the most was his severe, almost morose look that made her hesitate to displease him. His hair was gray and straggling, tending to baldness."

The detective's frown of perplexity deepened. "Gray hair and not tall? That doesn't sound like Mr. Merrick. Are you positive his hair wasn't white?"

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 28th day of November, A. D. 1927, executed by Wilbert A. Helmerding and Gertrude Helmerding, husband and wife, of the city of Ann Arbor, Michigan, to Martin J. Cavanaugh of Ann Arbor, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw County, Michigan, in Liber 182 of Mortgages on page 215 at 2:50 o'clock P. M. on November 28th, 1927.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned in accordance with the last will and Testament of Martin J. Cavanaugh, deceased, to Mary C. Cavanaugh by order of the Probate Court of Washtenaw County, dated Jan. 20th, 1931 and recorded in Liber 207 of deeds, on page 533, Register of Deeds office, Washtenaw County, Michigan, on November 3rd, 1932.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage is the sum of $6,000.00 principal, and interest in the sum of $860.00, and the further sum of $35.00 as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $6,660.00, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction to the highest bidder at the south front door of the Courthouse in the city of Ann Arbor in the County of Washtenaw, on the 29th day of June, A. Buried Forest Unearthed

While digging a sewer in New Plymouth, N. Z., recently, a mechanical digger uncovered portions of a forest which is believed to have been buried ages ago. At the bottom of the trench was found a piece of totara, a very durable timber, the bark of which was so well preserved that it looked as though it had been stripped from a growing tree.

Roman Amphitheater Traced

Traces of the Roman amphitheater in which it is supposed Christians were put to death in the persecution of Marcus Aurelius, 177 A. D., were found on the Fourviere hill. The theater had a capacity of 20,000.

Settling Disputes

IT IS a strange thing that men often resort to strife first and reason afterwards in their efforts to settle disputes. Misunderstandings, jealousy, envy, self-justification, and the like are corrected not through strife, but through reason and amicable agreement. Wars are not a means of securing such an agreement; but after the use of bayonet and gun has ceased, and reason begins to bring about peaceful relations, then disputes are settled.

The ages have furnished historical data which prove that material ambitions and possessions afford no sound basis for peace, in either national or personal relations. Matter, being limited in its nature, expresses the beller of limitation in its every manifestation. Instead of making one great, trust in matter weakens one who relies upon it; and what this reliance does to individuals it does to nations. One right thinking individual is more valuable to world peace than millions of wrong thinkers. Regarding this individual importance, Mary Baker Eddy has written in "Pulpit and Press" (p. 4): "You have simply to preserve a scientific, positive sense of unity with your divine source, and you will demonstrate this. Then you will find that it is as important a factor as duodecimals in being and doing right, and thus demonstrating divine Principle." A little farther on she quotes, "One on God's side is a majority."

As the spokes of a wagon wheel get nearer the hub, they get nearer to each other; as is it with men; as they get closer to God in thought, they get closer to one another. The divine plan is impartial and blesses all alike who obey its laws of action. Love does not grant special favors, nor restrict legitimate progress; neither does it provide for such regulations through the material agencies as commonly known as implements of warfare. The words of my Father, who came to fulfill the law, not to destroy, are as significant today as when they were spoken to Peter after he had drawn his sword and cut off the ear of the servant of the high priest: "Put up again thy sword into its place; for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Then, as if in holy benediction, he turned Peter's thought from matter to the infinite source of all good by asking, "Thinkst thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than twelve legions of angels?"

During the last quarter of a century was witnessed the most vicious and widespread combat ever fought, and today there is a crying need for assurances of peace, and a universally acceptable basis for the settlement of disputes. Spurred on by what it calls national defense policies, the human race has become engaged in the provision of drastic material methods of self-preservation.

But that which counteracts "all evil" comes from the divine Mind, not from the cannon's mouth. When animality gives way to brotherly love, and trustworthiness takes the place of dependence upon brute strength, the desire to rule one's neighbor through force or cunning will cease. It is the nature of God's law to elevate, not suppress, the human race; to give life, and not to take it. His law holds universal jurisdiction over all points of equity, and His angels bestow all blessings on those who obey His law. As one becomes better acquainted with the "ways of divine Mind, one begins to settle personal disputes by correcting one's own thought. Acting with God, the source of intelligence and good, one may establish friendly relations with others, for there is but one common origin and basis of all harmonious action.

Intelligence has already established an impartial and wholly practical answer to all questions; and when the entire human family submits to God's government, there will be no cause for distrust, fear, or strife, and there will be no unsettled disputes among men. Then will the prophecy of Isaiah be fulfilled, namely: "The mountains of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. . . . And they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."—The Christian Science Monitor.
