Automobile Thief Is Captured In Chelsea

Morris Brockmiller, 23, of Trenton, Mich., was arrested in Chelsea Wednesday forenoon by Deputy Wm. Atkinson and taken to the county jail in Ann Arbor, where he was lodged on a charge of stealing an automobile.

Brockmiller stopped at the gas station of Geo. Gamber and Son in Sylvan Center about 9:40 and ordered five gallons of gasoline. He made a quick getaway without paying for the gas and, after calling the sheriff's department Mr. Gamber and his son gave chase. They stopped at the Chelsea intersection and while talking to a gas station attendant there, Brockmiller, who had driven past the corner, came from the east, turning on the road to Chelsea.

The chase was then renewed. Brockmiller turned at Orchard street, to East street, where his car went over the curb. He got out of the car and started to run, with the Gammers following closely with their car. He was finally stopped near the Kauch gas station and was subdued by the older Gamber who wielded a large club threateningly over the guilty man.

Brockmiller was marched back to the spot where his car was parked and while being closely guarded, Deputy Atkinson was called. At the sheriff's office in Ann Arbor Brockmiller stated that he had served terms in Iowa and Jackson prison, having been convicted both times on charges of stealing automobiles. He was paroled from Jackson prison in March, this year.

Checking the license number of the car, Sheriff Andrea called the Jackson police department, from which city the car was stolen Wednesday morning. When the man in that city to whom the license was issued was called he had not yet discovered that his car had been stolen.

Prosecutor Rapp Talks At Kiwanis Meeting

Prosecutor Albert J. Rapp of Ann Arbor addressed the local Kiwanis club Monday evening, discussing the duties and functions of the prosecuting attorney. Mr. Rapp told in an interesting way the procedure in cases of felony and misdemeanor and the method in which convictions or acquittals are obtained.

The speaker stated that during the first three years he held the office of prosecutor he heard 3571 cases in the justice and circuit courts and that convictions were obtained in all but 62 cases. Seven were acquitted in circuit court, the 55 acquittals being of a minor nature in justice court.

While the number of cases tried during 1931, 1932 and 1933 is a staggering figure, Mr. Rapp stated that crime is increasing rapidly and that many more cases were tried during the first few months of this year than in any like period previously.

He stressed the point that every citizen should be interested in law enforcement and the conviction of those guilty of crime. The cost to every citizen in the United States for each arrest is $3.80, according to statistical figures which have been compiled. In Washtenaw county the cost for trial and conviction ranges from $300 to $700 in each individual case.

Another point which was brought out by Mr. Rapp is the fact that almost $4,000,000,000.00 has been obtained in the United States through fraudulent stock and bond deals. He warned holders of stocks and bonds to be on their guard, and stated that $16,000.00 in bonds have been obtained by fraudulent methods from the vicinity of Chelsea during the past two weeks. A warrant has been issued for the man who obtained the bonds and his arrest is expected in the near future.

Observe Visitation Day at M. E. Home

Today is the annual Visitation Day for friends of the Methodist Home. Through the Michigan Christian Advocate a general announcement and invitation has been sent out throughout the state, and judging from the attendance in former years, it is expected that about one hundred fifty will be present.

Following the dinner, a program of inspiration and fellowship will be conducted.

J. E. McKune, president of the village, has kindly consented to see that all visitors are directed to the home, avoiding West Middle St. in its present torn up condition.

Born in Chelsea on July 3, 1907, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kolb, Reverend Kolb acquired his early education at St. Mary's Parochial school, from which he graduated in 1923. The following September he entered Sacred Heart Seminary, Detroit, completing the literary and theological courses at this school in 1929.

The past four years were spent at Mount Saint Mary Academy, Norwood, Ohio, where he received his orders as Sub-Deacon in December, 1932, and was made Deacon in December, 1933.

School Band to Play at Twilight Game

Chelsea baseball fans will have the opportunity of listening to the popular Chelsea High School Band at the ball game which is scheduled for next Tuesday evening between the two leading teams of the league—St. Paul's and Congregational. Arrangements have been made with Wealey Smith, director of the band, to present a concert at the field before the game starts and numbers will also be rendered between innings.

A special feature of Tuesday evening's "entertainment" will be a performance by the village president and the president of the league, J. E. McKune will lead the first ball of the game, a fast spit ball, and Dr. L. J. Paul, with the aid of the newly erected backstop, will receive the little round "pill". The game will start promptly at 8:00.

At this game a free will offering will be taken to assist the league in meeting some of their miscellaneous expenses. It is not compulsory that those in attendance contribute to this collection but it is hoped a sufficient amount will be received to meet the expenses.

The league schedule for the next few weeks has been altered somewhat because of the fact that the Sea Scouts hold their meeting in Ypsilanti on Tuesday nights instead of Thursday as heretofore.

Standings of teams in the league are as follows:

Teams	W	L	Pct.
St. Paul	3	0	1000
Congregational	2	0	1000
Methodist	2	1	667
Legion	1	2	333
Sea Scouts	0	2	000
Trojans	0	3	000

Results of games played during the past week:

Thursday—Congregational 9, Methodist 2.

Friday—Methodist 7, Sea Scouts 6.

Monday—St. Paul 6, Legion 5.

Tuesday—Methodist 3, Trojans 1.

Schedule for the next week:

Thursday, May 17—Congregational vs. Sea Scouts.

Monday, May 21—Trojans vs. Sea Scouts.

Tuesday, May 22—St. Paul vs. Congregational.

Thursday, May 24—Legion vs. Methodist.

West Middle St. To Be Graded By ERA

The improving of West Middle street has been changed from the CWA project to the ERA (Emergency Relief Association) and work of grading was started Monday morning. Labor costs will be paid by governmental agencies, and local men are being employed.

According to village authorities it has not been definitely decided what the ultimate improvement of the street will be, but it will be graded and graveled and there is the possibility that eventually it will be surfaced with blacktop. Petitions have been presented for curbing and some of this work may be done this year.

Steps are being taken to remedy the dusty condition of village streets which were not surfaced with blacktop last year. Prices are being secured from the County Road Commission for filling the streets. If the authorities cannot receive satisfactory prices for filling it is expected that calcium chloride will be applied to the streets in the near future.

Easy To Control
Sheep Parasites

Internal parasites of sheep which reduce the vitality of the animal and, in some cases, cause death can be safely and cheaply controlled by drenching, according to the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

Lambs one month old can be given this treatment. Parasites can be controlled best if the flock is drenched before being turned on pasture and additional treatments given at proper intervals. Michigan shepherds recommend treating the flock at least three times during the pasture season. Some flocks are drenched every month.

Emphasis is placed on treatments while the sheep are on pasture because infected sheep contaminate the ground, and the parasites pass one cycle of their life in the soil. Sheep which follow the infected flock on the contaminated ground pick up the parasites.

The treatment recommended by the College department is a solution of copper sulphate and nicotine sulphate. It is prepared by dissolving one ounce of copper sulphate in three quarts of warm, soft water. The copper sulphate dissolves most rapidly if the chemical is placed in a cloth and is suspended just under the surface of the water. One liquid ounce of nicotine sulphate is added to the mixture after the copper sulphate has dissolved. The solution should be stirred before it is used.

The solution should be prepared just before it is to be used and any that is left over should be destroyed. Sheep on dry feed should not be fed for from 12 to 18 hours before the drenching. It is desirable but not necessary to keep sheep which are on pasture off feed before treating.

The doses recommended are: four ounces for sheep weighing 100 pounds, three ounces for 75 pound sheep, two ounces for a 50 pound lamb, and one ounce for a 25 pound lamb. Weak, thin lambs should be given smaller doses than the one recommended for their weight.

Sheep should be standing while being drenched with the head slightly elevated but the nostrils should not be above the level of the eyes. The prescriber should be administered slowly from a small necked bottle or a syringe. The sheep should have access to water before and after the treatment.

Sheep owners who have not drenched animals can get exact directions for the treatment from county agricultural agents who also will arrange a meeting and show how the treatment should be given if several flock owners are interested.

Michigan
Department of State*WEEKLY NEWS BULLETINFrank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich.—Many interesting facts are disclosed by a survey of motor vehicle registration statistics on April 30, 1934 as compared with April 30, 1933.

The analysis shows that this year 561,933 motorists had purchased full-year plates or $1,000 more than in 1933 while the sale of windshield stickers permits decreased from 280,987 in 1933 to 205,905 in 1934. The increase in the number of 1934 plates issued, according to indications, is due to the reduction in weight tax rates. Michigan's business is again licensing its heavier trucks and trailers that have not been in operation for one or more years. This is shown by the fact that while 3,571 fewer trucks are registered, fees from this source have increased $30,187. With 2,028 fewer trailers than in 1933, the fees this year are increased $43,765.

The final date for filing petitions for places on the primary ballots for U. S. senator, congressman, state legislature, governor, lieutenant governor and county offices is July 24, according to notice being sent out by the Department of State to local election officials.

To secure a place on the Democratic primary ballot for U. S. senator or the two state offices, a total of 7,596 signatures is required. Places on the Republican ballot require 7,623 signatures. This figure is arrived at on the basis of the party vote cast for Secretary of State at the last general election.

Never before in the history of the Department of State has the demand for automobile certificates of title been as great as in the past few weeks.

During April, a total of 444,000 titles, license plate and permit applications were audited by the Department. This is at the rate of more than 4,000 titles each working day. During the first two weeks of May, the demand is even heavier and department officials are planning to add a night shift in the title division. For several weeks the accounting division has been operating two shifts.

PINCKNEY—Supervisor Hoisel informs us that it is not likely that all of the Pinckney-Howell road will be resurfaced with blacktop as sufficient funds are not available. However, two more miles of the Howell end will be treated which will bring the blacktop road within a half mile of Chubb's Corner.—Dispatch.

How more Live Power is made available and usable in Standard Red Crown Superfuel is a more involved story. It is accomplished in the refining. And the result, as evidenced in your car, will be better performance—markedly better.

IF FLOWERS OF EARTH

If flowers of earth so beautifully green fields and meadows fair, Transfigure photograph through dew And springtime balmy air. What must ethereal meadows In gorgeous beauty be Where sweet aromas ever flow In purest harmony.

The beauty of our fairest flowers Are only for a day, A sting, a chilly blast, a frost, And beauty fades away. O, may we prize the perfume sweet Of Sharron's choicest flower And ever here by faith inhale From heaven's more perfumed bowers.

MANCHESTER—Among the ancient timepieces around town is an Ithaca calendar clock which hangs in the front office of the Enterprise. It must have been considered an exceptionally correct timepiece because railroad men have frequently been known to set their watches by it. It has been silent for some time because a worn part caused it to vary a trifle and we didn't want to deceive anyone. Albert Gumpfer has looked after it for many years, but the clock company disbanded after the new fangled electric clocks came into fashion and it took time to get repairs but succeeded at last and we hope its reputation will be maintained.—Enterprise.

NORTHVILLE—The Record has a letter from Mrs. Sally V. Jacobson, wife of Arvid V. Jacobson, former Northville teacher, stating that her husband has not acquired Finnish citizenship as was implied in recent articles in the Detroit newspapers, the University of Michigan Daily and this newspaper. Mr. Jacobson was recently sentenced by the Finnish government to serve five years in prison for espionage. Mrs. Jacobson adds that her husband never intended becoming a citizen of Finland. She is at South Range in the upper peninsula, at the home of her parents.—Record.

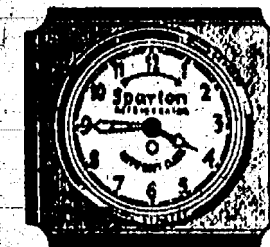

DEXTER—Rev. A. A. Schoen and family attended the graduating exercises of their daughter, Hedwig, at Detroit, Wednesday night. She is one of the 27 graduates of the 1934 class of the Deaconess Hospital. The services were held at Bethany church. Ex-governor Wilbur Brucker gave the address.—Leader.

TECUMSEH—The purchase of two car loads of oil, necessary to carry out a complete street oiling program in Tecumseh, was approved by the council when that body convened in regular session Monday evening.—Herald.

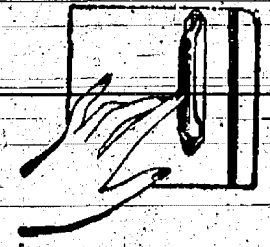

STOCKBRIDGE—Fire of a very mysterious origin completely demolished Joe Olk's Elevator late Tuesday night. According to those who first saw the fire, it seemed to have started near the front office on the south end of the building. The village seemed to be covered with a blanket of smoke before the flames actually broke into view, and the fire had gotten an uncontrollable start before the alarm was sounded. Loss is estimated to exceed $25,000, which was (with the exception of the building, which was partially covered) covered by insurance. Mr. Olk has had the elevator for the past four years. He also stated that there was at least two carloads of beans, two of wheat, a quantity of seeds, buckwheat and cloverseed in the building at the time of the fire.—Brief-Sun.

Drive it only 5 miles and you'll never be satisfied with any other low-priced car

Why do you suppose Chevrolet keeps repeating in all of its advertising, "Drive it only 5 miles"? Because Chevrolet engineers have tried out all the various makes of low-priced cars. They have compared performance—on rough roads, in traffic, over hills, through sand and mud and water. And they know what thousands of Chevrolet owners have proved in their daily driving: The Chevrolet ride simply can't be matched by any other in the low-price field. It can't be matched—because no other low-priced car matches any of these five leading features.

SEA SCOUT NEWS

Much activity prevails among the members of the Chelsea Sea Scouts these days. Many jobs have come in to be done by these boys, many piles of ashes have been hauled away, gardens spaded, windows washed, and numerous other jobs have been done, and the boys want to thank the people of Chelsea for their cooperation in this respect, and to assure you that this money which the boys earn will be spent to the best advantage to further their cause, and please don't forget to let us know about it if you have any work you wish done.

A letter or log has been received by the local ship, from Commander Schrader, giving an outline of this cruise in July, which is herewith printed so that you may know just what these jobs you are giving the Sea Scouts is going to do.

Dear Parents:

Plans for the summer cruise July 28 to August 9 are rapidly taking shape, and your son being a member of the ship, I thought it best to give you an idea of the cruise, cost, etc. so that you could give me your cooperation and assistance.

The cruise will be made aboard the USS Truant which has been set aside for our use July 28 to Aug. 9, by the Navy Dept., Washington.

The itinerary of the cruise is as follows:

Embark at Detroit July 28. Sail directly to Chicago where we will be guests of The Century of Progress on Saturday and Sunday. Leaving Chicago Monday we will sail north to Manitow Islands, stopping at Benton Harbor, Muskegon, South Haven and Ludington at which places we will be guests of these cities and entertained by them.

At Manitow Islands boat drills will be held and liberty given the crew to visit the islands which are very wild and interesting. From Manitow we will proceed to Mackinac Island where we will spend Sunday attending church and visiting historic old forts, etc.

Leaving Mackinac Island we proceed to the "Snows" for a day's fishing and a trip up the St. Mary's river to the locks. Then turn about, arriving back at Detroit Thursday of the second week. Should time permit us we may go through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie and take in Isle Royale in Lake Superior.

I will be in command of the ship and strict Naval discipline will be carried out. Each lad assigned a specific duty and expected to perform that duty. No civilian clothes will be allowed aboard and I would suggest that you outfit your son in blues before that date.

Every safety for his comfort, such as medical attention, etc. has been provided for.

The cost for the two weeks will be twelve dollars, which amount must be deposited with Mrs. Schrader, who is acting as our treasurer, not later than July 1st.

This amount will give the lad some spending money ashore as I have made arrangements for coal and provisions at wholesale which will reduce the cost somewhat, below the twelve dollars. A great many of the lads are depositing small amounts whenever they can and in a few cases the entire twelve dollars has already been accumulated and placed, to their credit.

I am doing everything I can to make this a memorable occasion in your son's life and we are doubly indebted to the Navy department for making it possible.

A. W. SCHRADER, Lt. Comm. USNR, Vice Commodore, Mich. Sea Scouts.

THE HI-LIGHT

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE CHELSEA PUBLIC SCHOOL

EDITED BY THE SOPHOMORES

Keeping Up With The News

Senior Skip Day! May 14th was the so-called Senior Skip Day. This unusual day originated last year at about this same time. The seniors of the class of 1932 and 1933 decided to skip school on one nice spring day. Of course it couldn't be helped. (Spring fever, you know.) Hence, it was decided that at this time every year there would be a day set aside in which all seniors could skip.

The Journalism club picnic was again postponed on account of bad weather. Certainly "Old Man Weather" is playing tricks on them. We ought to remind them that April Fool's Day is more than a month old now.

The biology students of Chelsea high school took a tour through Chelsea last week to see how many trees could name. That's a tip! If anyone wants any information concerning trees, they know who to go to for reference. They are also invited to visit the bird sanctuary in Battle Creek, Mich. They may also visit the Kellogg Company while there. Sounds interesting doesn't it?

Last week the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades classified for next year. That is, they classified for the studies they hoped to take next year. Well, here's hoping their hopes are successful.

Oh! These Sophomores

This article appears in our paper as a public explanation to the people who had the nerve to ask "what good the sophomores were if they can't feature people with such nerve?" As a reply to those people we would like to ask what would happen if—

There wasn't Tom, Kinney, and his hair that girls rave so much about?

Dudley Foster wasn't around to get up at 6 a. m. to play tennis?

Ozzie Hart would dismiss his orchestra so we couldn't have any parties?

Gerald Metzger would learn how many degrees in 90 degrees and the rest of the school couldn't laugh?

Alton Koenigter wasn't here with his Garbo eyelashes?

There wasn't a prodigy like Fredrick Strieter to help with geometry class?

There wasn't any little bad Wolf (Hart) for the boys to be little Red Riding Hood to?

There wasn't Jean Blecker to monopolize a Senior?

There wasn't Jane Heller to write for the Hi-Light?

Lorraine Esse wasn't here to keep the juniors hopping?

Dorothy Beach wasn't here to keep us practical?

Harold Crane wasn't here to take care of financial matters?

Helen Helm, Jean Lapp, Florence Heim and Ruth Henschelwerdt weren't here to furnish interest to the many members of Junior class?

There wasn't Jean Dancer to furnish necessary information about certain members of Junior class?

There wasn't Margaret Williams to get all the A's in geometry?

There wasn't Della Eschbach to help first year Latin students?

Leontine Maltus wasn't here to help in the study of Latin?

Isle of Dreams

Palm trees waving their branches
In the breeze on the Isle of Dreams
Cast long dark shadows on the landscape
Made by the moon's golden beams

Stars sparkling in the heavens
Seemed to dance to and fro
Casting a mystery about them
Of something they don't wish me to know

As this all appears on the Isle
Of Dreams under the moon and stars
I hear sweet, soft, low music
Played on the steel guitars

I can see dark, lithe figures
Flitting here and there
With their large, dark eyes and beautiful smiles
And the roses in their hair

But this all passes from me
As I waken from slumbers deep
I have been to the beautiful "Isle of Dreams"
On the hillside where I fell asleep

Elementary News

Kindergarten

Miss Wilson is taking charge of our class in the absence of Mrs. Sheehan. We have drawn freeland pictures of tulips this week.

There are still several members of our class absent because of whooping cough. We waited to do the Maypole dance Friday morning after we were shown how by the fourth graders.

First Grade
Frank Aldrich is back with us after a six weeks' absence.

Second Grade
We hope that Philip Vogel is enjoying his trip to Mississippi with his parents and sister.

We also hope that Dickie Beal, Esther Rimenshneider and Ronald Genter are soon cured of the whooping cough and will be able to join us in school again.

Fourth Grade
William Sheehan has gone to Kalamazoo to see his grandfather, who is still seriously ill.

We are now up to the standard in all subjects, thanks to the hearty cooperation of the parents of those who were ill for so long a time. Mrs. Steiner wishes to thank these parents for their help and the deep interest they have shown.

Only two pupils, Marion Eisele and Marvin Wolf, were here every day during the scarlet fever and whooping cough epidemic; others were absent for a period of from five to fifteen days.

Everyone is back now except Donald Knoll and he is improving rapidly.

Fifth Grade
The high grade pupils have been studying about flies and here is one of their stories:

My Life As a Fly
Oh! Where am I? This must be a world, I guess. I'll look around.

Oh! There is a place to find somebody to disturb. There is a place. I'll run that pie and the people won't know it. Now, since I've done that, I'll go in. Why? There are some more flies just like me. What a filthy place for people. I like it. I'll sit right on his nose. Ha! Ha! Look at him! He looks so funny. I'll go out doors now. There is a place to play my eggs. I'll lay them right now. There! That's done for now. I guess I'll go across the road.

This place is clean. Not a place to lay my eggs. I don't like this. Anyway, I'll see if I can get in. Not a place. There are screens everywhere. There's a child going in. Here I go. There is one of those fly swatters. Swat! I'm a goner!

Sixth Grade
We are still adding material to our book. They have been so interested that most of us are making flower books.

Many Spring flowers have been brought in, among them violets, fawn lilies, spring beauty and anemones.

A study of the dandelion's blossom shows us that there was much about that common but lovely flower we did not know.

We have read Longfellow's "Birds of Killingworth" and expect to dramatize this poem.

Senior-Skip Day

And where were all of our beloved seniors last Wednesday? Ah yes, they were home. Another year has rolled around and the seniors have once again celebrated that famous day of Senior-Skip Day. But where, and what did those respected upperclassmen go and do?

I heard that a carload ran over to the school to make a call at the home of our former teacher, Mr. Vanier.

After this little visit, a couple of shoes were taken in and then they returned home. Another carload landed strangely enough—in the nouthouse at Kalamazoo, traveled on to Benton Harbor (having only three flat tires on the way there) and then decided to return home. What we wonder is—how did the four girls ever get out after they once entered the institution? Another carload went to Detroit, saw a few good shows and spent the remaining time at good old Belle Isle. We all hope that Bud and Jim got their fill of hamburgers. The other car that went to Detroit also, spent their time between visiting Belle Isle, eating, and attending shows. However, they all returned after having spent a happy day—anywhere from ten until two.

Jean Dancer—Do you want to know something?

Maritz Brueckner—Sure.

Jean—Well, maybe someday you will.

Give a bathing beauty enough rope and she may go in bathing.

Jean Blecker—What's the Board of Education?

Papa Blecker—Well, in my day it was a shingle.

Fritz Strieter—Gee, my head hurts.

Dud Foster—What happened? Did a thought strike you?

It was Socrates who said "Know thyself", but it wasn't Socrates who said "Know about your home city."

No, it wasn't Socrates and maybe no one knows who said that. Maybe it wasn't even said, but nevertheless it's a good idea. For when you stop to think about it, there are very many people who know all there is to know of their home cities? There aren't. Perhaps it's because they aren't interested; perhaps they need opportunity, but what ever it may be they don't know.

You've often heard it said "See America First." We enlarge upon that and say "See Michigan first." We can go still farther and say "See Chelsea first." That name "Chelsea" goes out of town written on flour bags by the hundreds. Speaking of flour, how many people could explain to anyone (with the exception of the workers) about our milling company? How many people could explain the process? How many know how flour is made? Do many know with what care it is prepared, and who could tell you what purposes different machines serve?

We don't need to get into a discussion of the technical terms to stump anyone. No, indeed, far from that. Most of them would be blank concerning the very simplest questions.

So with good reason, I believe I can say "Know Chelsea—know your home town," and know it is something still to be accomplished by many. Am I not right?

The Future In 'Rime'

Listen, my comrades, and you will hear.

Not of the ride of Paul Revere, but of the future and Soph's career. In Olen Hart we do behold the knights of music now and old.

And in Jean Dancer, a blithe young maiden, we find a career with treasures laden. Or take Fritz Strieter, a sophomore too;

We see a trip over the ocean blue. Now to the country our thoughts do reach.

To the every day tasks of Dorothy Beach. In Alton Koenigter we foresee a world wide known detective to be. However, in Virginia Cooper we possess.

A reader of books and authoress. Like father, like son, a plumber it is. Dudley Foster chooses this profession for his.

Lorraine Esse loves the piano to play. Whom we shall hear in a future day. Nevertheless, one who shall never be beat.

We have in Moritz Brueckner, a promising athlete. Now for Ruth Henschelwerdt, a tiny little lassie.

Who gives signs of being quite classic. Next for Tom Kinsey, who began as shoe shiner.

But someday may prove to be a head liner. To ease for the sick is a very old mission.

Della Eschbach we have to fulfill this position. In Harold Grove we shall have a play boy.

Who will take certain things as a great joy. Last but not least we have a running sport.

Who shows such merit. At last our rimes have given way; Well, gladly greet you on a future day.

covered two alien prints close to where Patterson stood when the graduate student unexpectedly caught him at his workbench. One, smudged, but of some value, was on the bottle containing Heyward's supply of atropine; the other, more distinct, came from the shelf itself. Compared with the imprints on the razor blade and the two vials Rankin had removed from the sponsor's bedroom, they proved identical, line for line and whorl for whorl.

As to the contents of the vials, it required very little analysis to ascertain their nature. Both Mr. Sykes, the chemist, and Heyward, when asked for an opinion earlier that morning, identified the powder in the missing atropine and the liquid as conium, and the first tests confirmed their diagnosis. Thus, Patterson's guilt as the pilferer whose theft must have been in connection with the murder, was doubly established. And even more suspicious, the two grains of atropine taken from the laboratory were still intact, but of the six abraded drops of the liquid, barely a trace remained in the vial.

There was still a third report due the detective that morning, which he heard after studying these statements, it came from Tom Rankin who had been deputed to shadow Patterson. At three-thirty, the preceding afternoon, he stationed himself on Locust street, where he could observe his comings and goings without attracting attention.

But his vigil was profitless, until Patterson walked out of the fraternity at eight o'clock that evening.

"You followed him, of course," Jenks well, where did he lead you?"

"Down-town by trolley to a pawnshop on Trent street, near River street."

"Financed him, did you?" Jenks replied. "You probably know it, Tommy; it's run by a Greek, Peter Savoulas, whom we suspect is a fence for less valuable stolen goods. At least, he isn't particular about the property he lends money on. Missing stuff has been found in his shop several times; only it has been difficult to prove he hadn't received it innocently."

"Yes, I remember him. What did Patterson do?"

"Purchased some article, though I couldn't tell what it was from across the street. I didn't want to attract attention by standing near the door or show window. They argued some time before Savoulas agreed to a price and paid him. It seemed peculiar Patterson dealt with a chap like Savoulas, when there are places much nearer the campus. That decided me to question the Greek at once. I had to threaten him with a run-in at headquarters before he agreed to show me what Patterson left with him."

"Here it is, Tommy," he said. "Apparently, he placed on Thomas' desk a plain but expensive watch. Eyed quite in workmanship, it was of white gold, four or five carats fine and contained twenty-two jewels. It had a silver dial with raised gold figures. Turning it over, Rankin saw the initials 'R. C.' chased on the back."

Obviously, they were not the sponsor's, any more than the watch itself; and, quickly, he reviewed the names of all the fraternity brothers for one they might fit. There was only Ben Crawford, whose absence from the initiation to keep a date at which his female companion failed to appear, still troubled him. His affluence and sporty taste both suggested he was the watch's proud possessor; but Rankin considered it unlikely that he would have parted with it voluntarily.

Jenks was saying, "Savoulas advanced Patterson sixty on it and he has three months to reclaim it. He pledged it as Ned Parsons'."

"I believe, Jenks, though I'm not sure, that I can identify the owner; obviously, he isn't Patterson. And I've also a pretty shrewd notion of what he intends to do with the money. But the really important problem is whether he had any right to dispose of it."

For ten minutes after Jenks was done and had left the office, Rankin silently fingered the timepiece, deep in reflection. Then, reaching a decision, he put through two phone calls in succession to the Mu Beta Sigma house. The first was to Stanton; fortunately finding the president in him to visit headquarters at once and bring Ben Crawford along. Ten minutes later, he got Ned Patterson on also at city hall. But immediately after hanging up, he summoned Officer Simpson, whom he instructed to keep the sponsor waiting outside the office on his arrival, until he sent for him.

Thinking Rightly About Business

MUCH thought is given to the question of business. For most people, supply seems to be dependent upon the state of business. If it is good, supply appears to be adequate; and this condition is thought to be an influence in helping the individual to live happily and to have good health. Seeing, then, that the state of one's business is believed to greatly contribute to one's sense of harmony, we should see the necessity of looking at this question from the right standpoint.

Some individuals look at this subject more hopefully than do some others. Many people are beginning to see that to take the stand that business is bad, and that it is going to get worse, is certainly the wrong way to think about it. Many have stopped using the word "depression," feeling that the continual use of it has a bad effect upon the general outlook.

— Business is primarily mental. In fact, all human experience is the outward expression of a state of consciousness. Creation begins with the infinite creative power of only Mind. If the individual accepts this fact, he can learn how to reject all wrong thoughts. The acceptance of God, infinite good, as the only Mind opens his thought to receive the good and perfect ideas which come from God, divine Mind.

The only real business is the activity which comes from God.—The one infinite, spiritual creation is always expressing the perfect activity which comes from the creator. Wonderfully efficient is the realization of the truth set forth in this statement by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the source of all movement and there is no inertia to retard or check its perpetual and harmonious action" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 243). For several years the world has been accepting the genfered belief that something has interfered with harmonious activity; and both time and effort have been expended in trying to ascertain what is the trouble. One who accepts the fact that omnipotent Mind "is the source of all movement" can never believe in depression or a real "loss of mind." The idea of activity, one can refuse to accept the belief that any mortal supposition has interfered, or ever can interfere, with harmonious activity.

A business man might be told by several of his salesmen that they found sales very poor, and he might learn that someone in a similar line of business had failed. He might let anxiety and fear enter his thought.

That, of course, would not be sufficient. The man must be able to accept wrong thoughts about business and hold to the fact that real activity comes from divine Mind, and is always perfect; his affairs would improve; and to this extent he would help to improve conditions in general.

Since harmonious activity comes from God, divine Mind, and the real man, the true selfhood of all, is the truth and likeness of divine Mind, then the man who is in touch with God, and a spiritual man is ever rejoicing in harmonious activity. The great Way-shower, Christ Jesus, recognised that spiritual man ever reflects God, for he said, "The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things savor her death, these also doeth the Son likewise. One who accepts the truth of the life of activity and of love above the beliefs of fatigue, monotony, and worry; for the realization of the fact that man reflects divine Mind gives joyous strength, freedom, and expectancy of good.

In reality the activity which comes from God, divine Principle, fear, dishonesty, greed, selfishness, and lack of ability are no part of real business. This knowledge enables one to refuse to accept these faults as having power to injure in business, and to be sure instead honesty, efficiency, freedom, love, and joy. The realization of the truth brings one's human business into harmony with God's law, and destroys whatever is unlife-giving good.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Price Changes Give Farmers Some Help

Farmers have an advantage in the rising prices within the past year, as farm prices have increased 50 per cent while things farmers buy cost only 20 per cent more than they did at that time, according to the economics department at Michigan State College.

The greatest price improvements have been for grains, wool, and potatoes. Prices for hams are better but other livestock prices are about the same. Dairy and poultry products prices are a little better.

A considerable aid to the farmer may come from the improved industrial conditions with the consequent larger number of pay checks and ability to buy food products. February payrolls, this year, were 60 per cent better than in March, 1933.

The price of butter on March 15, 1934, 24 cents per pound, is only two cents less than the pre-war average price, but the increase in dairy costs makes a 31 cent price for butter necessary to equal the pre-war level. Lowering of production per cow and the disappearance of storage stocks are encouraging factors in the dairy field. This information and other material valuable to those interested in agriculture will be prepared quarterly by the economics and farm management departments at the College and will be sent to anyone who requests it from the economics department.

Price trends, crop conditions and outlook, and business conditions will be reported. The material will be available in April, July, October, and January.

TABER WINS TOURNAMENT
The first ping-pong tournament to be held in Chelsea proved a great success. Although the entries were few, a fast field was produced. The event was held in the Trojan hall Saturday evening.

Drawings, held in the presence of all entries, were as follows: The first set, Duane Winans vs. Harvey Lixey; Harvey Lixey winning the first game of the set. Then Duane Winans took the next three games in succession, this winning the set. The second set, Robert Dvorak vs. Vincent Swickard; Robert Dvorak taking three games in succession and winning the second set. In the third set, Clarence McBride won by a forfeit. In the fourth set, Milo Taber vs. Dudley Foster; Taber also taking three games in succession. This ended the first set of the tournament.

In the semi-finals, Duane Winans won three games in a row from Robert Dvorak. In the second set of the semi-finals Milo Taber won three games in a row from Mr. McBride. This brought Duane Winans and Milo Taber into the finals for the championship of Chelsea.

The sets for the championship proved the most thrilling games of the tournament. In the first game of the finals Duane Winans won by a score of 21-17. Then Milo Taber took the next two games by 21-14 and 21-16. Then Winans came back to win the fourth game of the set by a 21-19 score. Thus each contestant won two of the four games played. Then the fifth and deciding game of the tournament was played, this being won by Milo Taber, 21-14, winning the championship of Chelsea, Duane Winans being the runner-up.

Chinese Climbing Perch
Travel but Don't Climb
The Chinese climbing perch is so called because many years ago a student of fishes found one of them in a small tree. Since that time extensive research and experiments have been carried on in an effort to get them to climb trees or limbs in captivity without success.

Although the experiments indicate that the fish will not climb, he makes good progress over flat or slightly inclined ground. In their native habitat, southernmost Asia, ranging as far north as southern China, the climbing perch travel overland between pools and ditches.

In making these overland excursions the fish extends its gill covers at right angles to its body. These gill covers are equipped with spines which aid in locomotion. When on the go the fish wiggles its tail and rolls from side to side as it uses the spines for leverage. The result is a wiggling-gait that doesn't result in any speed to speak of, but is sufficient to get the fish where he wants to go.

They are related to the Siamese fighting fish. In addition to their gills they have an air chamber in the head over each gill. These chambers serve as storage tanks for air when the fish leaves the water. When in the water they occasionally rise to the surface to take a breath of air and it has been reported that it is possible to drown them by denying them access to the surface. They reach a length of ten inches. They are a golden olive color, darker on top and lighter below, and usually have dark spot at the base of the tail. There are no external differences between the sexes.
