Lansing, Mich.—Three constitutional amendments, at least, will be submitted to Michigan voters at the general election, November 6. A total of 161,627 signatures are needed to qualify for a place on the ballot containing the proposed amendments. The final date for filing is July 6.

First on the ballot will be the proposal to elect all Michigan judges on separate non-partisan ballots. If the amendment is approved by the voters all judicial elections ranging from the Supreme Court to municipal courts, will be removed from partisan elections.

The second proposal, if approved, would make it impossible for any future legislature to increase automobile weight taxes above 35 cents per hundredweight. This is the amount now collected by the state under the law passed by the last special session of the legislature.

The third proposal on the ballot, if approved, would reduce the gasoline tax from 3 to 2 cents a gallon, and would prevent any future legislature from increasing the tax.

For every vote cast in the primary and general elections of 1932, the taxpayers of Michigan paid 41.5 cents.

The total cost of the two elections, according to a survey just completed by the Department of State, was $1,107,485. As there were 1,987,582 registered voters in the state, the cost of electing Michigan's state and county officials was 55.7 cents per voter.

Rental of polling places and salaries of election board officials amounted to $598,340. This constituted the biggest item in election costs. Cost of registered voters amounted to $302,790 while the 83 counties spent $235,849 on ballots, supplies and recounts. The Department of State spent $500 in supplying the counties with official notices of the elections and official ballot forms.

FORD CUTS PRICES

Detroit, Mich.—Reductions of $10 to $15 in list prices of 1934 Ford V-8 passenger cars and $10 to $20 in list prices of Ford V-8 commercial cars and trucks were announced last week by the Ford Motor Company effective Friday, June 15.

Ford prices had remained unchanged since the introduction of the 1934 Ford V-8 last December, the Ford Motor Company not having participated in the recent general automotive price increase. The reductions announced are, therefore, a decrease in the original prices.

The price reduction on the standard and de-luxe Tudor Sedans, most popular individual models in point of sales, is $15. Prices of other standard and de-luxe body types were reduced $10, except prices of the Roadster, Phaeton and Cabriolet, de-luxe types, which remain unchanged. Both standard and de-luxe passenger cars have the same V-8 engine and 112-inch wheelbase chassis. Body types for both are identical except for the de-luxe equipment.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Who was Hiawatha? And what did he do to become so popular? When and where was he born, and when did he die?

Ans.—Hiawatha was not a real person. He was a mythical personage mentioned in the legends of the North American Indians and regarded by them as the protector of their hunting grounds. Longfellow made Hiawatha famous by his celebrated poem by that title.

Ques.—I would like to ask you what kind of substance is lava. Also why are cold chunks of lava found to be honeycombed?

Ans.—"Lava" is a term generally applied to all molten matter flowing from volcanoes—whether thrown as a stream or being deposited after the movement has ceased. When moving in a molten state within the volcanic channel, it is properly called "trap." When cooling, it forms four different substances, dependent upon the rapidity of the cooling process. The lava cools more rapidly on the outside surface, which causes it to become honeycombed as a result of escaping gases from the interior.

Ques.—Who was Kosciuszko in the Revolutionary war? Was he an American, and was he killed?

Ans.—Thaddeus Kosciuszko was a Polish general born in the western part of Russia Feb. 12, 1746. He was a sympathizer with the American colonists in the Revolutionary war, and came to America in 1776 and offered his services. He proved to be so valuable that he rose to the rank of brigadier-general. In 1786 he returned to Europe, and in 1794 he was appointed general of the insurgent army of Poland against Russia. He died in Switzerland on Oct. 15, 1817, as the result of an accident while riding a horse.

Ques.—Do humming birds make honey like the bees do in making their visits to the flowers and blossoms?

Ans.—No. The chief food of the humming bird is the nectar of flowers and blossoms, which they gather while supporting themselves in mid-air by vibratory movement of the wings. While bees gather the nectar to make honey, the humming bird gathers it to eat at once. As a feed, the bird also catches insects.

Ques.—Can you tell me why some soaps float, while others do not?

Ans.—This is because the ones which float have had a very fine froth of air beaten into them just as you beat air into cream to make whipped cream. The soaps that float really contain a lot of small air bubbles—far too small of course to be visible individually.

Ques.—I want to ask through your question column where is Mammoth Cave? How large is it? And is there blind fish in a stream that runs through it?

Ans.—Mammoth Cave is located in Kentucky, 82 miles southwest of Louisville. It is not known just how large the cave is, as the end has never been reached. However, exploring parties have penetrated fifteen miles into its interior. The cave has lakes and several rivers. The fish of these waters are blind. The place also harbors grasshoppers, wingless beetles and rats—all of which are blind.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer in your good paper if Vatican City is a part of Rome?

Ans.—No. Vatican City is a suburb about three miles southeast of Rome.

Ques.—I would like to ask you if monkeys will ever be educated to the point that they will become men?

Ans.—Scientists do not think so. The monkey and the man had a common ancestor, but that is all. Man has not developed out of the monkey, nor is it probable that future evolution will ever bring about anything of that sort.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please state which were the first ten states that voted the repeal of the old eighteenth amendment?

Ans.—The first ten states that voted affirmatively on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment were as follows in the order named: Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Wyoming, New Jersey, New York, Delaware, Nevada, Illinois and Indiana.

Ques.—Will you please tell me what was the date of the week that Abraham Lincoln died?

Ans.—Abraham Lincoln, who was shot in a theatre in Washington, D. C., by John Wilkes Booth on Friday, April 14, 1865, died on Saturday, April 15, 1865, from the effects of the gunshot wound.

Most Archaic Community

Corvo, the most remote of the Azores, has a single village of 600 persons forming what is perhaps the most archaic community in the western world, for the village knows no contagion, crime, poverty or vice, and there are no locks on the doors.

Gold Found in Meteorite

Although meteorites often contain base metals and occasionally black diamonds, gold was never found in them until one recently analyzed in Colorado showed traces assaying about $12 a ton.

SLATS' DIARY

Friday.—They was a new man went to work today down at the newspaper shop with pa works at and he fast cum from Arrowzonia and he sed down in the town wear he cum from the people are so fair that when a man gets shot the paper says he died a natural death.

Saturday.—Ant Emmy was considerable worried about the Moths getting in her closet so bad even when she had grate big immense Moth Balls in every thing to. And when she started to clean up the closet she had used a lot of golf balls witch pa has ben hunting all spring.

Sunday.—Ant Emmy was advising Charabel Hoops not to fall to much in love with Ory Ummer becu he had herd it sed he was a very fast yung man and Charabel replied and sed he may be very fast but I bet he dussent get a way from me.

Monday.—A lot of the senior class is very mad at the preacher at are church becu he sed in his serman yesterday that he diddnt think the yunger generation of today was as bad as the older generation was.

Thursday.—Sally Blane says she dussent have much use for these fetlas who drive and kiss a girl at the same time becu she says if a fella can drive wile he is kissing her she feels like she has ben a Failure.

Calligraphy

Calligraphy is one of the most ancient and honorable of crafts. Penmen of old made tracery designs long before the invention of engraving and printing. But engraving and printing have changed little enough since 1500. The counterfeiter of today is the black sheep of a line of noble craftsmen and Jim the Penman is a throw back to the father of them all.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 17th day of October, A. D. 1923, executed by William H. Murray and Julia J. Murray, his wife, to Clara M. Hawley, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the County of Washtenaw in Liber 160 of Mortgages on Page 251 on the 18th day of October, A. D. 1923, at 2:20 o'clock P. M., and,

WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of Two Thousand Dollars ($2000.00) for principal, the sum of Three Hundred Ninety and 42-100 Dollars ($390.42) for interest, the sum of Four Hundred Thirty One and 22-100 Dollars ($431.22) for taxes, and the further sum of Thirty Five Dollars ($35.00) as an attorney fee as provided by statute, and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage being the sum of Two Thousand Eight Hundred Fifty Six and 64-100 Dollars ($2856.64), and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative,

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the southerly or Huron Street entrance to the court house in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, on Saturday, the 15th day of September, A. D. 1934, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as all those certain pieces or parcels of land situate and being in the City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, to-wit:

Commencing at a point on the northwesterly line of Broadway fourteen and three tenths (14.3) feet northeasterly from its intersection with the north and south quarter line of Section twenty one (21), Town two (2) south, Range six (6) east; thence northwesterly parallel with the northeast line of lot twenty six (26) of Traver's Addition to the City of Ann Arbor, Michigan, two hundred sixteen and four tenths (216.4) feet to an iron pipe in the southeasterly line of Mill Street; thence deflecting seventy eight (78) degrees forty two (42) minutes to the right one hundred fifty nine and sixty five hundredths (159.65) feet to an iron pipe in the north and south quarter line of said section; thence deflecting forty four (44) degrees and four (4) minutes to the left fifty two (52) feet along said quarter line to an iron pipe monument at the center of section twenty one (21); thence East along the east and west quarter line twenty one and twelve hundredths (21.12) feet; thence deflecting fifty one (51) degrees ten (10) minutes thirty (30) seconds to the right two hundred eighty four and seven tenths (284.7) feet to an iron pipe in the northwesterly line of Broadway; thence southwesterly along the northwesterly line of Broadway two hundred thirty six, and five tenths (236.5) feet to the place of beginning. Also, all of the land lying between the above described land and the northeasterly line of Mill Street in the City of Ann Arbor, Michigan, said northeasterly line of Mill Street being the northwesterly line of the land hereby conveyed.

THERE ARE PLENTY OF "BIG ONES" IN MICHIGAN WATERS

But fishing is only one of the varied attractions Michigan offers vacationists. The Great Lakes themselves, and 5000 inland lakes and streams, present opportunity for almost every known water sport. And for those whose chief interest is golf, tennis, riding or other land sports, Michigan is an unexcelled playground.

Michigan's tourist and resort business brings large sums of money to the state each year. It provides employment for thousands, and greater prosperity for all of us. We can increase that business further by telling out-of-state friends about Michigan's vacation advantages and by spending our own vacations here.

And, no matter which part of Michigan you visit this summer, banish worry by telephoning home and office frequently. Call ahead for reservations, or to tell friends you are coming. Long Distance calls will add but little to the cost and much to the enjoyment of your vacation.

A GRAND OLD MAN

Contributed to the Detroit Free Press several years ago by Mrs. Jenny Spencer. Resurrected by Arthur Carlton, with comments, for our home paper, The Standard.

Riding on Grand River in a street car one fine day, Chanced to see a traveler, old and bent and gray;

His clothes were old and rusty, His face was wrinkled and tan; But his splendid manners and kindly face

Respoke the gentleman. He sure was a benediction to all on the car that day. Each in passing threw him a smile; And he carried them all away. He was used to carrying smiles. They filled the windows of his soul. I'm sure in heaven he'll find a place While the years of eternity roll.

The way he said "I thank you" as the conductor pointed the way, The way he looked at his flowers Of his scent and purple bouquette. He had gathered by the roadside, For his sweetheart at home I ween, No doubt shall think it the fairest That ever her eyes hath seen.

Comment by Arthur Carlton There are those who have eyes, yet they see not. Having ears, yet they cannot hear. How blest is the spiritual vision To those who have spiritual ear.

The old man who carried the sunshine And the heart of a diamond glow, Was just the reflection of Jesus And was not carried for show.

GRASS LAKE—The new Lakeside Co-operative Creamery began operations in the old plant of the Lakeside Milk Butter Company this week and was conducted earlier in the week.

The plant was ready for operation to capacity Friday of this week. The new company is said to be the first and only strictly co-operative organized creamery in the state.

A. H. Esser, a creamery man of wide experience, is manager. News.

BROOKLYN—Harold Soderman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Soderman, who live on the Pickett's View shore of Clarks Lake, drove his car into a freight train at the crossing just west of the lake Sunday night and lives to tell of the narrow escape.

He was returning home from the west about 2 o'clock and did not notice the freight train occupied the right of way. The car, a Plymouth coupe, was badly smashed, but the young man escaped with only a few bruises.

When he returned after daylight to look at the wreck he found that someone had stolen two tires from the car. —Exponent.

TECUMSEH—Ollink of the streets in Tecumseh will get under way sometime today, village officials said. It is believed that it will take the balance of the week to lay the first car load of all. A second car load will be spread on the streets here, probably next week, or the week following. —Herald.

SALINE—Professor T. M. Clay of Vassar, who has been engaged as superintendent of our school, was in town Friday and Saturday. He will move here about the middle of August. —Observer.

WAYNE—A Wayne husband, whose wife is vacationing in the country, had rather a harried experience the other morning. Retiring at night he locked the bedroom door behind him and next morning found it impossible to turn the key in the lock. The window, because of a 20 foot drop, also failed to provide an exit. Imprisoned for nearly an hour he finally attracted the attention of a neighbor who rescued him with a ladder. There was no explanation for the reason for locking the door behind him. —County Review.

In the Stratosphere The earth's atmosphere is divided into two distinct layers—the lower one, the troposphere, extends from sea level up to a height of perhaps six or seven miles above which lies the stratosphere, extending to an unknown height. These two layers of atmosphere differ from each other in several respects, notably temperature.

The stratosphere has a comparatively uniform temperature. Its lower portion is supposed to have a system of winds unlike that prevailing in the troposphere. Higher up there is probably little or no wind and under such conditions the gases of the atmosphere would tend to arrange themselves according to their relative weights, the lighter above and the heavier below. Thus, the composition of the higher atmosphere is believed to vary with altitude.

MORTGAGE SALE

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of money secured by a mortgage dated the 15th day of June, A. D. 1925, executed by Barret Dalitz and Anna Dalitz, husband and wife, of the city of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, to The Farmers and Mechanics Bank, a Corporation, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of deeds of Washtenaw County, Michigan, in Liber 143 of mortgages, on page 127, at two o'clock P. M., on June 16th, 1925.

AND WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage is the sum of $8000.00 principal, and interest of $640.00, and the further sum of $35.00 as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage, and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $8640.00, and no proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

NOW THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the south front door of the courthouse, in the city of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, Michigan, on the 21st day of September, A. D. 1934, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day; which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situate and being in the city of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, to-wit:

Lot one hundred four of Grange and Rixby's Addition to the city of Ann Arbor, according to the recorded plat thereof.

It is expressly agreed as a part of the consideration for this conveyance that said second party agrees that he nor his administrators, executors, heirs or assigns shall construct on the lot aforesaid not more than one dwelling house which shall cost not less than $4,000, and no building shall be built or placed upon aforesaid lot until the dwelling house is under course of construction. It is further agreed that no lumber, stone, or building material of any description or junk of any kind will be deposited upon the aforesaid lot for a longer period than is necessary for the construction of the dwelling house. It is further agreed that this lot cannot be conveyed, leased, occupied or assigned to person or persons of African descent, this lot is contracted for residential purposes only, and to that end these restrictions shall run with the title to the aforesaid lot, and are binding upon the party of the second part, his administrators, executors, heirs or assigns. The Farmers and Mechanics Bank, a Corporation, Mortgagee.

The production of briar root for smoking pipes dates back to 1800, when a French firm found it to be of excellent quality for that purpose.

Semitic Alphabet Mother of All Which Came Later

There was a definite third position symbol in all of the ancient alphabets. The Sinal script, of which a contention has been made that it was the first of all alphabets, had a symbol somewhat resembling a crown scepter. The Egyptian hieroglyph represented a throne. The Roman C, first of the forms for this symbol as it has come down to us, bears less resemblance to the Greek and Phoenician symbols than is usual.

In music the letter O always has had third position in the scale, and it is generally considered as a fundamental note. In music, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, as in alphabetical writing, the symbols representing sounds rest on ancient tradition. This tradition credited Phoenicians with having invented letters, but it also recognizes that the Egyptians had a great deal to do with the invention of the art of writing. It is generally agreed, however, that the Semitic alphabet was the great mother alphabet of all which followed.

Alphabetical writing in a restricted sense. Ancient Egyptian writing in stone contains only a limited number of alphabetic characters, used in conjunction with a large number of ideographic and syllabic signs. Some authorities have maintained that the Egyptian alphabetic symbols have no relationship whatever to the characters of the Semitic and Greek alphabets. On the other hand, they assert, there is very definite relationship between the Semitic and Greek alphabet and the later alphabets influenced by them. This contention has been opposed by other authorities.

Rats Originated in Asia

Were Not Known in Europe

Rats originated in Asia, and their conquest of the remainder of the world is a thing of comparatively modern times. The animal was unknown in ancient Europe.

There is no blue rat, declares a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. It is the black rat, which first came to Europe from central Asia, early in the sixteenth century. In the latter part of the century it reached America. This was the common house rat until the brown or gray rat came.

The latter is larger than the black rat, and more combative. It is said to have come from India and Persia, through Russia, and was first seen at Astrakhan at the beginning of the eighteenth century. It made its appearance in Europe in the middle of the century and in America about 1775.

In the years since it has quite driven the black rat from houses, and though the latter still lingers about wharves and granaries, and along river banks, it may be said to exist even in these places only on the sufferance of its stronger cousin.

The house rat is often called the Norway rat, from a mistaken tradition that it first came to Great Britain from Norway.

Wintergreen Plant a Vine

The wintergreen plant is really a vine, the stem creeping usually a little way below the ground. From this spring the small erect branches, three to five inches high. The stems are tough and brownish, with the leaves in clusters of twos and threes at the top. They are reddish-brown when young, and then are most tender to eat, becoming thick and dark green. The berries are a clear, bright red, generally growing singly or in pairs. The flowers are usually solitary, growing from the axil of a leaf cluster. They are waxy-white and nodding. They have a very long blossoming season—from July to September. In the Middle West wintergreen is called box-berry or tea-berry, the latter because the leaves and berries are sometimes used to flavor tea, or as a substitute for tea. Oil of wintergreen, which is used as a flavoring extract for making perfume, is obtained from the wintergreen plant. The same oil, oddly enough, is distilled from the bark of the black birch tree.

STRONGER BUSINESS AND STRONGER BANKS

By F. M. LAW
President American Bankers Association

DURING the crisis when confidence was shattered, bankers were properly concerned in liquidity. Their main thought was to prepare to meet any demand for withdrawal of funds. They were more interested therefore in collecting loans than in making them. For this they cannot be justly blamed. It was a proper procedure.

Now that confidence has been so largely restored, bankers will naturally resume a more normal lending policy. This does not mean they will or should extend loans or unsound credit, but that in the utmost good faith bankers will perform their proper part in recovery by a sympathetic and constructive attitude in the making of sound loans. Nor should commercial banks make capital or long time loans for the reason that their loans are made from funds derived from deposits payable for the most part on demand.

When the return of confidence is further on its way, business men will find need for credit in making their plans. Then good borrowers, who for the most part have been so conspicuously absent from the market, will return. They will be warmly welcomed by the banks.

Business Men's Fears

Business men have not yet laid all their fears. They worry about what Congress may or may not do. They concern themselves about a trend toward control of business by government. They fear taxes beyond their power to pay. These are real sources of worry and when they are reassured along these lines they will be more inclined to take a fresh look at the future and to make plans to go forward.

As a matter of fact there are tangible evidences of recovery. The Federal Reserve Board officially has stated that prices, wages, business activity and production were back to the highest peak since early in 1931. Commercial failures in the United States are being cut almost in half as compared with the same period last year. It has been reported that the decline in export and import trade was definitely checked in the middle of 1933 and replaced during the last half of the year by a substantial recovery movement.

Among favorable factors is the improved condition of the banks. It is doubtless true that the banking structure of the country has never been in a sounder, stronger and more liquid condition than it is today. My authority for that statement is the Comptroller of the Currency. No longer is there any fear or thought of bank runs. Depositors once more know that their money is safe and the banker, thrice armed in the knowledge of his own strength, is looking forward.

Training for Bankers

The American Bankers Association has been active for many years training young men and women in order that they may be duly qualified for the business of banking. Standard courses are furnished with able and experienced teachers. This work is done under the direction of the American Institute of Banking Section of the association. Over two hundred chapters, or local banking schools, are in active operation throughout the country and thousands of the younger generation of bankers are being graduated each year. These students are taught not only banking practices and policies, but they are also well grounded in the highest ideals and standards of business ethics. A proposal is now under consideration to establish a central school, which will offer advanced or graduate work to a selective list taken from those who have completed the standard courses.—F. M. LAW, President American Bankers Association.

Mrs. Christian F. Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Schneider.

CUT WATER RATES

The following resolution was adopted at the meeting of the Village Council on June 18, 1934: "That Village allow 33 1-3 percent discount on water bills for users of water on all dirt streets, except North Main St., to those consumers whose water for the purpose of sprinkling streets, for dust laying, for the period of three months, commencing with July 1, 1934."

IN LOVING MEMORY

of our darling daughter, Betty Umstead, who passed away one year ago, June 24, 1933.

What would we give her hand to clasped,
Her smiling face to see;
To hear her voice once more on earth,
How happy we would be.

We often think of days gone by
When we were all together;
She lives with us in memory still
Our beloved one gone forever.

Sadly missed by her heart-broken parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Umstead, and sisters and brothers.

MRS. CHARLES HYZER

Mrs. Charles Hyzer, a resident of this vicinity for about 35 years, died Tuesday evening, June 19, at her home on McKinley St., after several months' illness.

Formerly Ella Smith, she was born in St. Clair, June 2, 1863; the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith. Following her marriage to Mr. Hyzer they resided in St. Clair for two years before coming to Chelsea. She is survived by the husband and a brother, James Smith of Detroit.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at one o'clock at the residence. Rev. F. D. Mumby will officiate and burial will be in Hillsdale cemetery, St. Clair.

WILL PLAY DOUBLE-HEADER

The Waterloo Stars will play a double-header at Waterloo on Sunday, June 24. The first game will be with the re-vamped Pleasant Lake Nine managed by Oscar Ulrich. The second game will be the second meeting between the Stars and the Lima Wild Cats. The first time these two teams met the game was an eleven inning affair which the Stars won by one run. The Wild Cats will attempt to avenge this defeat and a good game is expected. Fowler or Harvey will probably pitch for Waterloo, with Barch on the mound for Lima. First game at 1:30. Last Sunday the Stars took a one-sided game from Unadilla by a score of 28 to 9.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Weber announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Marie Cavanaugh, to Adolph Wesley Larson of San Pedro, California, at a party given at their home Thursday evening, June 14. Six tables of bridge were in play, high honors going to Miss Dorothy Haselswerdt and J. Howard Boyd, consolation to Mrs. James Munro and Arthur Smith.

Midnight supper was served buffet style. Table decorations were yellow and white with a centerpiece of rose, bronze and yellow snapdragons.

The guest of honor was Mr. Larson's mother, Mrs. P. A. Larson of San Pedro, Cal., who, with her niece, Winifred Roberts, motored from California to attend Mr. Larson's graduation from the University of Michigan.

Sweet Pea From Sicily
The sweet pea is a native of the island of Sicily and was first mentioned in 1605 by an Italian monk, who sent seeds to England and Holland. The seeds of sweet peas became an article of commerce as early as 1724. Sweet peas have been grown for over a century in America and all of the varieties known in Europe were grown here. There was a wave of popularity for the sweet pea in America between 1885 and 1900, while America between 1885 and 1900, while the tide, which received its great impetus through the introduction of the waved or Spencer type, was just beginning to rise at the sweet pea celebration in London in 1900.

Huckleberry Has Many Names
The huckleberry, of which forty varieties are known in the United States, goes also by many names which include tangleberry, whortleberry, blueberry, deerberry, farkleberry and others. Usually it is found in an acid soil, in fact, treatment with acid results in a crop of berries often approaching the cherry in size. Because of their tendency to soften under weight and warm temperatures, the huckleberry does not find its way to market as readily as other types.

FRANCISCO

The marriage of Arthur Frey, son of Mrs. Roy Wyckoff of Jackson, and Miss Irene Steffe of Northfield took place Saturday at the parsonage of the Northfield township Lutheran church.

Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Durant of Detroit, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. Following the marriage service a bountiful wedding dinner was served by the bride's mother, Mrs. C. E. Steffe, at the family home. Ten were seated at the table.

Following the dinner the young couple left for Detroit to visit relatives. On their return they will begin housekeeping in Ann Arbor, where the groom is employed.

Mr. Frey has resided here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Halle, since early childhood, and still spends much of his vacation time with them. His friends wish for him a smooth journey in his matrimonial voyage.

Mrs. John Hamp entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Lorraine Wale, bride-elect of Harley Loveland of North Francisco. A delightful afternoon was spent, and some lovely gifts were presented to Miss Wale.

Junior Lambert was home from James Richards' over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Esch of Sharon spent Sunday with Mrs. Carrie Benter. Harry Benter, who is spending the summer with them, and George Benter, who has been visiting them a few days, accompanied them.

Nadene Lehman has begun music lessons, with Mrs. Geo. Platt, instructor.

Mrs. Sarah Benter, who has been ill, is much better.

Calvin Clark is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Julia Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Marantette of Detroit spent Saturday at the Benter family home.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Lehman and children and Walter Bohne and family attended the Lehman reunion at Gleaner hall in Waterloo, Sunday.

Black Frosts

"Black frost" is a term originally used in reference to a frost or killing freeze at a temperature above the dew point and not accompanied by white hoar frost deposits. Such frosts usually turn the exposed vegetation black, but this is not supposed to have given it its name. This term is ignored by the weather bureau which designates such frosts as light, heavy or killing.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Stricken during initiation into the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity, Stuart Jordan, a student at the University of Michigan, died. A physician declared he was poisoned. Captain Chambers, detective, takes charge of the investigation.

CHAPTER II.—An injection of cocaine is shown to have been the cause of Jordan's death. Rankin finds all the student's shoes are marked with thumbtacks. He then knows Rankin is his uncle, Howard Morrick, St. Louis banker, also his guardian, and his heir.

CHAPTER III.—Two students from the University of Michigan, Stuart Jordan and Walter Randall, came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town.

CHAPTER IV.—A significant fact discovered is that a student, Larry Palmer, Phi Beta Sigma member, was charged by Ralph Buckley, a student, with the initiation and his keys, including a key of the fraternity house, stolen from him.

CHAPTER V.—Jordan has been paying by check, $100 a month to some unknown party. The checks are not among his effects. Howard Morrick, as Jordan's guardian, has supervision of his conduct. The boy was twenty-two years old when the boy's father, becoming his guardian, took him to the University of Michigan. A student, Ned Patterson, is suspected of being the person who took the keys from the laboratory to Jordan, but Rankin secures it.

CHAPTER VI.—The letter is from Edward Fletcher, a young writer, and reveals that Jordan has been studying at the University of Michigan. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town.

CHAPTER VII.—Tracing Jordan's movements the night before his death, Rankin finds that on his abandonment, he telephoned from a farmhouse to Mrs. Fletcher, who came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town.

CHAPTER VIII.—Rankin learns of a series of thefts in the fraternity house. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town. Rankin, a detective, also came to town.

police had inquired about her movements the day before.

"There is some information we want from you, Miss Prentiss," he began sternly. "Mr. Rankin has come from the Philadelphia detective bureau expressly to obtain it. And we expect you to tell the truth," he added warningly.

"The truth? About what?" The girl spoke apprehensively. "I don't understand why you suppose I have anything to tell you."

"You returned only this morning from New York, isn't that so?" Rankin queried deliberately. "You went by boat from St. Louis last Sunday, and yesterday started back here by train. You impersonated someone else on the voyage. You booked your passage on the boat as Laura DuMont."

"Well, what of that?" the show-girl retorted spitefully. "There is no harm in that, as long as she doesn't object." But she caught her breath in dismay at the extent of his information.

Rankin shot his next question at her abruptly. "Then you admit disguising yourself to resemble Miss DuMont? How much did she pay you to make the trip?"

"You have no right to ask me that," she didn't pay me anything."

In the fact of this obvious lie, the detective attacked with increased vigor.

"Then what did you expect to gain by the deception?" he demanded incredulously. "That is what I am after—your purpose and hers, in arranging that little trickery. Let's have it!"

"That I can't tell you that," Myra Prentiss cried desperately. "It is private and has nothing to do with you; I promised Laura to keep it secret."

"For your own sake, Miss Prentiss, you had better talk. We are quite prepared to place you under arrest, but first we wished to give you a chance to clear yourself."

At the direct threat, fear returned to the show-girl's eyes and a harassed expression replaced her bravado.

"Clear myself of what? I haven't done anything wrong. I swear I only intended to help Laura out of a tight place."

Rankin's manner became suddenly grim. "Yes, by concealing a murder and protecting the criminal with an alibi. That is always private. In helping Laura, you've made yourself accessory before the fact of murder!"

Strangely Miss Prentiss' features held more horror than dread, the blood drained from them, leaving them a ghastly hue beneath the rouge.

"Murder? Surely it wasn't that!" she cried, with a note of surprise.

"Laura couldn't be mixed up in anything so terrible."

"But she is, just the same. For the past week, you kept to your cabin aboard the boat, didn't you?"

"I didn't leave the boat, but I saw the passengers who might penetrate your disguise. And all the time you pretended to be her on the ship, she was committing a dread crime. You must have realized what she was doing."

"Oh, My God! I didn't, Mr. Rankin!" the girl insisted. "Please, believe I acted innocently. I thought she was just deceiving her lover into supposing she remained in St. Louis while he was out of town for a month."

"Was that her story to get you to agree to her scheme?" the detective asked.

A realization of her serious position compelled the girl to answer frankly.

"Yes, she said she was two-timing him. He had gone east and meanwhile, she also left St. Louis with some other chap she loved, unknown to the first lover, she was having a secret affair with the other. But later, when he sent for her from Philadelphia, she had arranged to join him there."

Rankin spoke less severely. "Give me her exact explanation," he requested. "You were to make that trip, while she actually traveled east from wherever she was staying with her clandestine sweetheart?"

"That's right," Myra Prentiss responded. "I had to create the impression, by coming from St. Louis, that she had been there and faithful all the while. He was extremely jealous and suspected her; he would probably check up on her, perhaps even hiring detectives to do it. That was why I was unwilling to give you any information when you first arrived."

"Well, I advise you now to describe the whole arrangement from beginning to end. Obviously, Miss DuMont made up that story just to satisfy you; it wasn't to join any lover that she left St. Louis, Miss Prentiss."

"Oh, but it was," the girl said hastily. "At least, she gave me his address, through which I could reach her; where she spent this last month with him. She had to furnish me some way to get in touch with her in case anything unforeseen upset the deception."

"Have you got that address—and the man's name?" The detective could not conceal his eagerness and gratification. "That's splendid! What are they?"

"He is a physician, Mr. Rankin, by the name of Prince. Dr. Arnold Prince was what she told me. They were staying together, she said, at a Wisconsin resort—the Halfway house on Lake Geneva—I could write her there."

CHAPTER XII

The Fraternity Alumnus

No result of an investigation at St. Louis because of an attachment she formed there of her own, during her stay. Ordinarily, she might have remained in New York and sought another engagement; but this new friend had clearly indicated his devotion and interest in her. Except inasmuch as it had lightened his problem of tracing her, Rankin did not now concern himself with this purely personal matter.

But his interest in Doctor Prince was intense. Thus far, all he knew of him was that, as a student at Hawthorne university in Port Wayne he belonged to the Omicron chapter of Phi Beta Sigma. And, as a loyal alumnus, he notified the Philadelphia chapter of Jordan's matriculation, recommending him. Mr. Morrick, in his single-business-meeting with the physician, had divulged Stuart's presence at the eastern university, when they discussed schools during their conversation. Apparently, Arnold Prince had had no other connection with the boy. Now, however, it was obvious that he must have known all about him before that through the actress. His practice and residence, the detective recalled, were in St. Louis.

"Now about Doctor Prince, Miss Prentiss," he said, when the girl finished her narrative. "What also did Laura DuMont tell you? Where does he live, for instance?"

"I suppose right here in St. Louis," Myra replied, "because she spoke of leaving with him from here. But I don't know the address. She was very cautious about letting fall anything more than I needed in case I had to get in touch with her quickly."

"Then you never met the doctor or tried to learn what sort of chap he was?"

"The girl looked her surprise. "No, I didn't, Mr. Rankin. Why should I be curious when I believed Laura's story that he was out of town with her?"

"It shouldn't be difficult to locate him, at any rate," Rankin confided to Captain Chambers; then to the girl. "Have you any idea how long they've been acquainted?"

"Well, only incidentally. I figure their affair must be going on over a year—at least, since last January. At first, I was afraid to agree to the proposition; and to reassure me, Laura said she had been cheating her first lover with him even last winter and he was none the wiser."

"And who is he? Can you tell me that or where he might be found?" Rankin queried.

But as he expected, Myra Prentiss was ignorant of any facts concerning the man she supposedly helped to entice. Not once did the actress reveal his name or discuss her establishment with him. As with most of her explanations, Rankin was convinced his very existence was fictitious—part of her attempt to cloak her nefarious journey to Philadelphia. She had not dared supply the show-girl with her correct address in the East; hence the Lake Geneva address, probably an accommodation, from which Myra's letters in the unlikely event there were any, would be forwarded back to Doctor Prince in St. Louis and thence on to her. Or perhaps the physician actually stayed at the Halfway house while she went east, to lend verisimilitude to their fake rendezvous. Which ever the case, inquiry at the lake would settle it; but of one point, the detective was practically certain. By now, Doctor Prince had surely returned to St. Louis—and somehow, he must apprehend him.

For unlike the mythical dipped lover, the physician was a very real individual. And that portion of Mrs. Jordan's fiction dealing with him came perilously close to the true situation last May, when Stuart had been his wife's duped and that of her paramour. After their marriage in February a year ago, she had continued her secret relations with her lover, begun before she met the boy. But her letters had never named him; now, suddenly, the show-girl had identified him with the confederate who helped her create her alibi. Certainly, Rankin calculated, the evidence logically indicated they were the same. By her own admission, the actress was intimate with Arnold Prince before her first contact with Jordan. And it seemed impossible that there was still another man for whom she double-crossed both her husband and her sweetheart.

If the physician were actually the lover over whom Laura Jordan quarreled and separated from Stuart, then he was manifestly as interested as she in preventing the boy from depriving her of the Jordan estate.

Rankin was amazed, once he concluded that they plotted the murder together, how the complete details of the crime fell into proper place. Step by step, he could trace every development—Doctor Prince with the knowledge, as a member of the fraternity, necessary to accomplish the deed, and the actress' actual commission of it. Since the central body of Phi Beta Sigma established the same secret code and ritual for every chapter, the physician could have informed Laura Jordan how to enter the sacred knocks and passwords of recognition to get by the sergeant at arms; related how the pledges and brothers were arranged throughout the ritual; knew when the opportunity to reach Stuart would arise. And he could also describe the robes—perhaps supply her with his own costume, used years before. Under his voluminous folds, a woman was as effectively concealed as a man. The actress then needed only a key to the fraternity house and must ascertain the date and hour of the initiation.

The detective's sudden inspiration at that instant sent his cogitations racing forward excitedly. Of course—the blond girl Benjamin Crawford—accidentally met, who failed to keep the blind rendezvous with him the Tuesday night of the initiation! When the student described that encounter, Rankin had considered it merely an amusing and typically collegiate flirtation. But now he perceived its true significance. The woman must have been Laura Jordan; and far from being a pick-up, she deliberately engineered the meeting for a twofold purpose. Thus, she guaranteed Crawford's absence from the ceremony and could take his place without the addition of an unaccounted member. And in fixing her date, she subtly turned from him at what hour and day the initiation would be held. Early in the case, this incident had suggested that a woman was involved, but he lacked the perspicacity to recognize the fact.

The first essential, Rankin clearly discerned, to the success of the murder plot was that the fraternity accept Stuart Jordan. Hence, Doctor Prince recommended him as worthy membership material—a young man of his caliber, position and wealth would almost certainly win the Philadelphia chapter's approval. Of course, if he was not pledged or refused his bid, the criminals would have been forced to discard this particular scheme and formulate some new one. Meanwhile, Doctor Prince foresaw that his interest in the student might be subject to investigation; and took the precaution of first visiting Mr. Morrick, before writing the chapter in October. Ostensibly to obtain a loan, his call was in reality a shrewd subterfuge to discuss Jordan and thus establish his acquaintance with facts about him which he had already learned through Mrs. Jordan.

By the time Rankin finished questioning the show-girl, he had reached a decision. He was convinced of her integrity; and she could tell him no more about either Doctor Prince or the actress. Nevertheless, he resolved to hold her temporarily in custody as a material witness. He was taking no chances that she might attempt to communicate with either conspirator; at all costs, they must not be warned of his progress on their trail, lest they escape.

When he announced his intention to the girl, she looked dismayed and alarmed.

"It will only be for a few days, Miss Prentiss," he reassured her quickly. "Captain Chambers will see that you are comfortable and suffer no inconvenience. And you will be released within two days on your promise to remain in St. Louis until your testimony is needed in court."

He had obtained the alumnus' address on Tuesday night from the fraternity's national roster. Now that his next step was obvious, he was anxious to confront Doctor Prince and sound him out on what he ascertained and the physician's attitude. But not to pretend at first, that his visit was merely routine. The police captain's presence would be disturbing, and despite the late hour he preferred to call alone. Accordingly, he left Chambers to return to headquarters with the girl while he, promptly on leaving the Holcomb apartments, sought the physician's address.

To satisfy the captain, however, he acceded to his proposal to post two plain-clothes men outside. Although the detective felt quite capable of managing Doctor Prince himself and even arresting him, they were ready to intervene in case trouble developed.

It was verging on ten-thirty, when Rankin stood before Arnold Prince's residence, a gray stone house at 1430 Barker street. Doctor Prince himself answered his ring, confirming his expectation of finding his quarry in St. Louis. He promptly recognized the qualities that would fascinate a woman like Laura Jordan. About thirty-two years old, tall and slender, he was handsome and handsome, in fact, for his dark burning eyes and unnatural white teeth; his dark crisp hair was brushed smoothly over his forehead. He sported a fine toothbrush moustache under a sensitive nose, expensive jewelry and an unnecessary amount of perfume on his protruding kerchief. He wore meticulously fashioned clothes of the latest cut. If his lips were too thin, hinting at unscrupulousness, and his air too suave, it increased rather than lessened his attractiveness.

The detective realized that he would be no insignificant opponent.

"Doctor Prince," he inquired and produced an official card. "As you see, I am a police officer. I suppose you could allow me a few minutes of your time."

Even in the darkness, the doctor's start was visible, but he answered in a self-possessed manner.

"Of course, Mr. . . . or . . .," he scanned the card closely. "Rankin. Please come in."

He led Rankin through a darkened hallway into his office. Typical of most physicians' quarters, a flat-topped desk filled the left corner of the room; he took the swivel chair behind it and motioned Rankin into that for patients. One wall was covered by shelves of books, mostly huge medical tomes. Glass cases of instruments, chemicals and drugs reminded the detective how easily Doctor Prince could have procured the cone for Laura Jordan, which killed her husband. A non-professional might have had difficulty. A fertilizer and several lamps completed the equipment. With the usual paraphernalia on the desk, Rankin casually observed the physician's appointment pad with several notations and filled prescriptions.

"I want to ask you a few questions about Stuart Jordan," he explained glibly as Doctor Prince waited. "He attended the University of Philadelphia, you know. You might have heard he died suddenly under suspicious circumstances. Naturally, I want all the information about him I can gather, and I am visiting every one who had any contact with him for it."

The doctor did not make the mistake of displaying too much familiarity with the facts.

"Yes, I read about it in the papers," he returned warily. "It is quite a shocking business. Precisely what happened?"

"He was poisoned while being initiated into the Philadelphia chapter of your fraternity. My attention was directed to you when I discovered you were partly responsible for his being pledged. You suggested him as a prospect."

Doctor Prince relaxed noticeably. "Oh, so that's why you came to see me," he smiled with relief. "Yes, I felt it a duty to advise the boys there to rush him. But I never actually met Jordan and can tell you nothing about him."

"Murder? Surely it wasn't that!" She cried, with a note of surprise.

"We inquired at the Holcomb apartments yesterday afternoon. You see, she doesn't live alone; she merely lets two rooms in apartment 13 from the rear of the famous Holcomb house."

Before she left last Sunday she answered Mrs. Dobson's question whether she would return either the 13th or 14th day to prevent her quarters from being rented out while she was gone. The captain paused. "Familiarly why are you after her, Rankin?"

"It is in connection with a murder. The facts are rather complicated, but I'll summarize them for you on our way to see the girl. Now that I'm here, I'm anxious to question her and get her evidence as soon as possible."

As the detective rose, Chambers pursed his lips in a low whistle.

"That sounds rather serious," he said, also rising. "We had better start out immediately."

By the time the two officers drew up in a police car before the Holcomb apartments, Rankin had finished his account of the crime and his most recent discoveries. At the door of 193 the Captain knocked, and when it was opened by Mrs. Dobson, a tired frowning-looking woman, inquired for Miss Myra Prentiss.

A moment later, the chorus girl appeared in the doorway in negligee. Rankin, comparing her with the woman she had impersonated, was at once struck by the resemblance. Like Laura Jordan, she was statuesque, her beauty professional; she possessed the same seductive physical allure, enhanced by her questing dark eyes and bow lips.

She could not conceal her fright, as her visitors presented their credentials; her face paled and her slender hands fluttered nervously. Therefore, she ushered them through the long hallway within, into a makeshift living room at one end. Still, Rankin detected, her fear might be due to knowing from Mrs. Dobson that the

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 28th day of November, A. D. 1927, executed by Wilbert A. Heimerdinger and Gertrude Heimerdinger, husband and wife, of the city of Ann Arbor, Michigan, to Martin J. Cavanaugh of Ann Arbor, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw County, Michigan, in Liber 182 of Mortgages on page 215 at 2:50 o'clock P. M. on November 28th, 1927.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned in accordance with the last will and Testament of Martin J. Cavanaugh, deceased, to Mary C. Cavanaugh by order of the Probate Court of Washtenaw County, dated Jan. 20th, 1931 and recorded in Liber 207 of deeds, on page 633, Register of Deeds office, Washtenaw County, Michigan, on November 3rd, 1932.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage is the sum of $6,000.00 principal, and interest in the sum of $660.00, and the further sum of $35.00 as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $6,660.00, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the south front door of the Courthouse in the city of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, on the 29th day of June, A. D. 1934, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situate and being in the City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, to-wit:

Lot forty nine (49), Granger and Bixby's Addition to the city of Ann Arbor, according to the recorded plat thereof, the said lot lying on the north side of Brooklyn Avenue.

It is expressly agreed as a part of the consideration for this deed that the said second party agrees that he nor his administrators, heirs, or assigns shall not construct on lot aforesaid not more than one dwelling house of which shall cost not less than $3500.00 and that no building shall be built or placed less than thirty five feet from the property line of Brooklyn Avenue. And it is further agreed that no building or poultry park will be built or placed upon said lot until dwelling house is completed. It is the desire of parties of the first part that this plat will be one of the most desirable residential sections of Ann Arbor and it is hereby agreed by both parties to this deed that no lumber, stone, or building material of any description or junk of any kind will be deposited upon aforesaid lot for a longer period than is necessary for the erection of the dwelling house. This lot is deeded for residential purposes only, and these restrictions will run with the title for the aforesaid lot.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of money secured by a mortgage dated the 29th day of November, A. D. 1930, executed by Andrew J. Sawyer and Marie M. Sawyer, husband and wife, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, to The Farmers and Mechanics Bank, a Michigan Banking Corporation, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw County, Michigan, in Liber 168 of Mortgages on page 497, at 11:30 o'clock A. M., on December 1st, 1930.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned by The Farmers and Mechanics Bank, a Michigan Banking Corporation, to The Regents of the University of Michigan, by assignment of mortgage dated January 17, 1931 and recorded in Liber 20 of assignments on page 261, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw County, Michigan at 11:10 o'clock A. M. on January 17th, 1931.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage is the sum of $1,700.00 principal, interest in the amount of $1,126.64, insurance in the amount of $8.45, Taxes in the amount of $275.25, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $3,130.34, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the south front door of the courthouse in the city of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, on the 30th day of July, A. D. 1934, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day; which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situate and being in the City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, to-wit:

Waterspouts on Inland

Lakes, Same as on Ocean

One of the rare thrills of ocean traveling, and one still rarer in temperate than in tropical waters, is the sight of a waterspout, when earth and sky seem to meet each other in a mighty swirling funnel, advising a correspondent in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Waterspouts occur not only on the ocean but also on inland lakes, whenever winds of very different temperatures meet high up in the air and form a local tornado or whirlwind.

As always, when warm moisture-laden air is suddenly cooled, a great deal of moisture is condensed into vapor and, in the center of the swirling winds, into rain.

The waterspout appears at first as a funnel-shaped black cloud hanging from the cloud above. In the center or core of the whirl there is a partial vacuum, and as the funnel hangs lower over the sea, this vacuum sucks up some of the agitated water under it.

Some few sailors have not only seen waterspouts but have been in them. These men have reported that the water of the spout is fresh, not salt water, which seemed to them to make the waterspouts even more mysterious than they otherwise looked. But the explanation probably is that the greater part of the water in the spout, and particularly in the center, is rain condensed from the moisture in the air, dropping in the core where there is little or no disturbance, rather than water drawn up from the sea.

Fish That Fiddle Among

Musical Freaks of Ocean

The common horse mackerel, sun fish, John Dory, and little bullhead of the fish mustangs inhabiting British waters, all have a reputation as violinists, according to Tit-Bits Magazine. The "notes" are produced by friction of the fins and gill cases. Some foreign fish practice a more intricate technique. The Indian cut fish, for example, combines fiddling with gymnastics, cleverly twisting his body so that the first bone of his dorsal fin makes contact with the spines of the fourth and fifth vertebrae, resulting in a plausible imitation of the violinist's strings and bow.

One wonders why no enterprising showman has ever paraded a singing fish troupe, for there are many creditable performers.

Mexican natives often spend hours reclining in their little boats listening to the massed singing of their canary fish. These strange choristers travel to and fro, emitting a ghostly refrain, which, it is said, assumes a softer melody if delivered several fathoms below the surface. Less musical, perhaps, but not less entertaining, are the vocal efforts of the drumfish, found off the coast of Florida. One observer has compared them with the orchestral roll of kettledrums.

Dryness of Lamp Bulbs

An electric incandescent lamp is no better than its vacuum. And its vacuum is almost incredibly good. Thanks to the work that Doctor Langmuir did two decades and more ago the disastrous chemical effect of the merest trace of water on a filament is understood. But what is a mere trace? Consider these figures. As little water as there is in a drop of dew on a blade of grass is enough to ruin 68,000 lamps. The vapor from a single teaspoonful of water can spoil more than 5,000,000. So the vacuum pumps in a factory are its most important machines. Thanks to them there is a dryness within the glass bulb of a lamp that makes Sahara seem drip, plug wet in comparison.

The Society Islands

The Society Islands are a group of high volcanic islands in the second of the eastern Polynesian chains in the South Pacific. They are located between 10 degrees and 15 degrees south latitude and 145 degrees and 155 degrees west longitude, with a total area of 637 square miles, and belong to France. The archipelago is a double group, separated by a clear channel of 90 miles in breadth, the northwest or leeward group including the island of Fatu-Hiva and the southeast or windward group centered about the famous island of Tahiti. 600 square miles, on which is Papeete, population 5,000, the capital of French Oceania.

New York Buildings

The Empire State building is 1,251 feet high; building began in February 1930, and it was opened on May 1, 1931. Elevators run to the observatory on the eighty-sixth floor; from there two elevators run to a special gallery, 1,210 feet above the street level, and there is a 12-foot stairway above this to another observation platform. Radio City covers three large city blocks, between Fifth and Sixth avenues and Forty-eighth to Fifty-first streets; the surface area is 501,973 square feet, or almost 12 acres. There are 12 building units, ranging from six to 70 stories in height in the entire project.

Ill-Taste, Ill-Tasting

These terms date from 1050, at which time they were used for bad or unpleasant taste. "An ill-tasting mild tincture" (such as castor-oil) is a phrase in frequent use. Of manners and dress we sometimes say that they are ill-bad taste or in poor taste; but we have ill-mannered, ill-bred, and there is nothing to prevent one from using the word ill with taste if one wishes to do so.—Literary Digest.

Lithography Figures in

Supply of P. O. Stamps

Lithography, the third division of the printing industry, furnishes a large share of all stamps printed. To some people this kind of printing brings to mind only the cheapest kind of work, declares a writer in the Chicago Tribune, but this is not the fault of lithography, but is due rather to the fact that it is used under conditions where all forms of printing would be equally poor. Very often a country will employ an engraving house to design its stamps and print the finished stamps, and when these are exhausted turn over samples to a local shop to duplicate.

The whole process of lithography is based on the fact that oil and water do not mix, and—uses for printing plates certain kinds of stone or metal, which retain both the ink and the water during the printing. Transfer designs are printed from the die in special ink and laid down on a lithographic stone or metal plate. This special ink has an affinity for greasy ink and is repellant to water. If the stone is now moistened and an ink roller passed over the surface, the ink will adhere to the transferred design, and a print may be taken just as if the design projected as in typography.

The poor lithography found in some stamps is due to carelessness in making transfers and to worn-out plates. When properly done it would puzzle an expert to decide whether a certain stamp is lithographed or typographed. If he is furnished with a single copy.

Chimpanzee's Vision Is

as Keen as That of Man

By means of a new method of testing animal vision, chimpanzees have been found to possess about the same keenness of eyesight as man. The method of testing the vision of the apes, a professor of Yale university explained to members of the American Psychological association, was to place food in a box having a circle with black and white stripes on it and none in a similar box having a plain clear circle. The width of the stripes was then varied by the examiner very gradually until they were so narrow as to be invisible to the eyes of the subject. The keener the eyes, the narrower the stripes could be made before the subject would be confused and be unable to choose the right box. Human beings tested with the same boxes were allowed to say which had the stripes.

One of the chimpanzees tested in the course of these experiments was found to have eyesight about the same as that of human adults tested, and definitely better than that of a five-year-old child. The vision of another chimpanzee tested did not appear quite as good as that of the first one, but this was thought to be due to the animal's physiological condition at the time.

Largest Spum Whales

The largest spum whales in the world are caught off the British Columbia coast, and from 50 to 60 per cent of the commercial oil in the world comes from the stations located on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Clipper Ship Days

Bermuda, being set far out in the sea, bred many fine seamen and able shipbuilders. Before the coming of steam Bermudian ships traversed the seven seas. At one time during the famous clipper ship period, Bermuda built many of the finest and fastest ocean-going craft. The barque Sir George F. Seymour, launched at Shelly bay, Bermuda, in 1853, made a record run to Cork Ireland in 13 days.

The constellation of Orion, in addition to containing the finest gaseous nebula, two of the most remarkable stars, and a host of interesting double, triple and multiple stars, furnishes us with a most convenient measure for estimating angular distances in the heavens in the form of its strikingly beautiful and conspicuous belt which is very close to three degrees in extent.

The Roman Empire

At the time of its greatest expansion the Roman empire was estimated to have included approximately 1,544,000 square miles, and the present countries of Italy, Great Britain, France, Spain, Austria, Hungary, the Balkan peninsula, Asia Minor, Palestine and northern Africa.

RED SCHOOL CELEBRATION

were the last expenditures on the school building.

A song, "A Little Red School" was rendered by the male quartet, after which Rev. Henry W. Lenz, in a very gracious manner, introduced Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, one-time mayor of Ann Arbor, and a teacher in the Red School 49 years ago. Senator Copeland began by calling the roll of his former pupils, to which the following responded:

George Bohnet and Polly Bohnet, Lansing.

Carrie Bollinger Courtright, Jackson.

Maude Wortley Steinbach, Flint.

Bertha Congdon West, Webberville.

Bessie Faulkner Morris, Ypsilanti.

Jennie Faulkner Webb, North Lake.

Lizzie Osterle, Chelsea.

Allen Rockwell, Grand Rapids.

Carrie Rockwell Maloney, Detroit.

Millie Rockwell, Detroit.

Kate Updike Soper, Pinckney.

Thomas Vail, J. Edward Weber, George Hinderer, Chelsea.

Senator Copeland said in part:

"This is a day of great significance, this 100th anniversary of the little Red School. I gladly came to become reminiscent with you who these many years since were my pupils.

"This celebration comes our way but once. It will necessarily be left to others to arrange for the next 100th anniversary. What has not been wrought in these 100 years! A hundred years ago the population of our country was 10 millions. When I began teaching school 49 years ago, our population numbered 50 million, and today 130 million people live within the territory of our great republic. But these are not the only changes, nor the most important; pronounced changes have come in the economic, industrial and social order of human society.

"When a youth of seventeen I was employed in my uncle, Harmon S. Holmes' store; he had the ambition to make a merchant of me. However, I detested the idea. I just could not make myself like the mercantile business. So I sought a way of escape, and one day drove out to interview R. P. Chase, one of the school directors, on the proposition of becoming the teacher of District No. 7. Before I left his home, I had signed a contract which assured me the position, my first one as a country school teacher. This was in 1885. Looking back, I can say today that I was glad for the opportunity, for I did my very best to make good at my first attempt at teaching. Forty years of my life were spent in Michigan, where I received my early training. I love my Michigan.

"The educational advantages of today are more numerous than ever, but we must ever be vigilant, lest the essential in education shall be neglected. We do not today emphasize so much the character building as in the old days; book contact has largely displaced the ideal of sterling character. Knowledge is a splendid thing but a good character is more to be desired. Knowledge must not be sought after merely for obtaining material gains, but rather as a means to build and develop character.

"Home, School and Church are the responsible institutions in which influences must be welded for healthy bodies, clean minds and pure lives. We must save the youth of today, if our great nation is to continue to lead the procession of the world's nations in the fight for righteous living.

"As chairman of the Commission on Crime in the United States, I asserted in the investigation that the average age of the criminals in our states is 23, that the largest class of criminals is made up of young people of 19 and the next largest class of 18 years of age. What a deplorable state of affairs! We must return to the passion for untainted, lofty character, the only sure foundation for the nation's life and progress."

A tribute to Senator Copeland was given by his former pupil, Allen Rockwell, who also presented him, as a souvenir from the school, with his original contract with District No. 7, dated October 1, 1885.

Music by the Hawaiian orchestra was followed by talks by Rev. O. Laubenguy and Mrs. Lucy Ivory, a former teacher.

Other selections were rendered by the quartet, and George Atkinson favored with two solos, "The Ragged Vagabond" and "Come Sing to Me." The latter was accompanied by Claude Isham. Reminiscences of past school days were given by former pupils and greetings were read from Mrs. Irene Everett Fenner, Santa Barbara, Cal. and Mrs. Josephine Foster Reader of Crary, N. D.

The program was concluded with the singing of "America" by the assembly, a selection by the high school band and prayer by Rev. Charles F. Wolf.

Following the program, a group picture was taken of Senator Copeland and his Class of '85.

Gales Back in the Ages

What are those red chips and lumps scattered among coarse, white sand in Glacier National park? Those chips were partly hardened mud, torn up and dropped again by waves; but the red lumps seem to have been rolled over and over like snowballs, says Nature Magazine. When storms reach sandy coasts today, they bring up balls of mud like these and drop them on sandy flats near shore. These early "storm rollers" are records of gales that swept the Proterozoic sea.

The Red School

"Twas back in Eighteen Thirty-four— a hundred years ago, When savage beasts, and savage men, wandered to and fro— They built, in summer sun and winter's snow— The Old Red School.

Brave men then lived—and women too, Their lives were hard, but hearts were true, And all set out—one thing to do, To build the Old Red School.

Logs were cut and hauled in place; Each one tried to set the pace; Their work was hard, but 'twas a race When they built the Old Red School.

When it was done, then school began; Great forests stretched on every hand, But scholars came—then quite a band, To the Old Red School.

And since that time—a century long— It has sheltered a mighty throng Of boys and girls, whose smiles and song Cheered the Old Red School.

When the roll was called, some answered here, Of others—only memories dear Were left to those who gathered near At the Old Red School.

Old Number Seven—you can swell with pride! For the boys and girls who left your side Are loved and honored, far and wide, For they came from the Old Red School.

No "pride of ancestry" can you claim, "A country school," but just the same, Your record's free from wrong or blame, All honor, to the Old Red School!

H. W. Newkirk, Ann Arbor.
