Sea Scouts' Cruise To Start Wednesday

About 70 Sea Scouts from Ypsilanti and Chelsea will embark on the Naval training ship Truant for the voyage which will mark the first Sea Scout cruise on the Great Lakes. The young men have been at work since July 5 getting the ship in readiness for the cruise. It has been completely painted and Mate Albert Cooper of Chelsea has supervised the work on the engine and boilers. The sailing date is set for Wednesday morning, July 25, and members of the crew advised to be on board the day before. The ship will go without stop from Detroit to Chicago, where the Scouts will be guests of a Century of Progress. They have been informed that preparation has been made to give them a royal reception on their arrival in Chicago. They will be met by a band and officials of the Century of Progress. The parade will take place from the ship down through the Avenue of Flags. The Sea Scouts also have been requested to give a demonstration parade in the stadium. Leaving Chicago, the ship will stop at west coast of Michigan cities for brief visits. The itinerary will include Manitou Island, Mackinaw Island, Sault Ste. Marie and Isle Royale. The duration of the cruise will be 14 days and at least 15 Sea Scouts from Chelsea will make the trip. Commander Schrader of Ypsilanti, of the U. S. Naval Reserve, will be in charge of the cruise and W. E. Riemenschneider, skipper of the Chelsea Sea Scouts, Albert Cooper, first mate, and E. W. Eaton, second mate, will be among the officers on board. The State Commander of Michigan Sea Scouts will accompany them as far as Port Huron. The Sea Scout reception at a Century of Progress will be broadcast from Chicago.

State Crop Report Has Bright Spots

No famine is in sight in Michigan figures of crop prospects for 1934 released by Verne H. Church, state agricultural statistician. The most important crop shortages for this State are in feed crops for livestock, hay and fodder crops being much below normal. The only chance to remedy this shortage now is to plant rye for pasture, as suggested by Michigan State College farm crops department. Michigan potatoes are expected to produce more bushels than in 1933 if weather conditions from now until harvest are about normal. A crop of 22,950,000 bushels is indicated by present conditions. Last year's crop was 20,670,000. Bean conditions are considerably worse than last year as a crop of only 3,055,000 bags is in sight and the production in 1933 was 3,519,000 bags. This decrease in probable production has occurred in spite of a planting 5 per cent greater than last season. Corn is expected to yield 40,268,000 bushels in Michigan as compared with last year's yield of 42,315,000 bushels. This crop has withstood the drought well and grows rapidly in the unusually hot weather prevailing. Increased plantings of fodder corn have been made to replace hay shortages. Another optimistic angle of the crop report is the probability of a better harvest of peaches, pears, and plums than last year. The peach crop, however, is still much below the average production for the State. The apple crop will be 3,600,000 bushels less than last year's production of 3,651,000. Grapes and cherries are not as good as last year.

Governor Wins In Fight To Dismantle Local Cement Plant

As the result of the insistance of Governor William A. Comstock, Chelsea and surrounding territory received a "slap in the face" on Monday when the finance committee of the state administrative board conceded to the demands of the governor that the state-owned cement plant at Four Mile Lake be dismantled and junked. To those who give the matter serious thought it is inconceivable that Governor Comstock would wish to junk the plant which would have been sold to companies which would have provided more or less steady employment from 50 to 125 men in the manufacture of fertilizer and cement. It was learned by local delegations who visited Lansing during the past few weeks that the finance committee favored sale of the plant to the bidder who would provide the most employment. This committee consists of Auditor General John K. Stack, Secretary of State Frank B. Fitzgerald and State Treasurer Theo. I. Fry. Then why did the governor insist on putting the plant out of commission entirely? Surely it was not the mere fact that he believes the state can realize a few more thousand dollars in the deal through junking the plant. The bid of the company which no doubt would have provided the most employment was $40,000.00. The governor estimates his method of disposing of the plant will net about $60,000.00. Millions of dollars are being spent by the state for welfare relief. With the cement plant in operation the relief coming to this community through employment of scores of men would more than offset loss of a mere $20,000.00 to the state in the sale of the plant. Another advantage in junking the plant, according to the administration at Lansing, is the fact that the state will still have the lake and tract of land. Unless the state plans to start a muskrat farm it is difficult to conceive what use can be made of this barren tract of land and a lake which has only a map and muck shoreline. CHELSEA REPRESENTS THIS MOVE BY THE GOVERNOR, AND RIGHTFULLY SO!

Chelsea Milling Co. Filling Storage Bins

The Chelsea Milling Company is an unusually busy place nowadays. The new storage bins, which were completed the first of June are being filled, and with the old and new bins 175,000 bushels of wheat can be stored.

On Monday of last week wheat in carload lots began to arrive at the mill. In nine days 54 carloads were received. The lowest number of cars received in a day was four and the largest number of cars to arrive was 19. Each car holds 1500 bushels of wheat.

The wheat is shipped in from northern Indiana, Ohio, southern Michigan and some is grown in the territory surrounding Chelsea.

Mr. Holmes stated on Tuesday that the wheat is of good quality and above the average and that by the end of this week he would have 100,000 bushels stored.

The influx of wheat keeps the men employed at the mill working at top speed to unload the many cars which arrive daily.

Last week the threshing outfits which work in the territory surrounding Chelsea started their annual work. The men running these threshers report that they were surprised at the outcome of the wheat yield. Owing to the extremely dry weather it was supposed that the yield would be light.

On L. P. Vogel's farm the wheat averaged 30 bushels to the acre. On Monday 992 bushels were threshed at the Grossman and Killam farms from 46 acres. The average run of wheat this year is from 18 to 25 bushels per acre.

Speakers Selected for Farmers Day

Present-day problems are the key notes for the speakers who will talk to their Farmers Day audience at Michigan State College, Friday, July 27.

The afternoon program will be in charge of Dean E. L. Anthony, who will talk briefly before introducing Dr. George S. Wahrwein, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Wahrwein's subject is, "What shall we do with our surplus land?" The speaker, after years of service in Texas, Washington, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, is qualified to discuss this question from an intimate knowledge of conditions in all parts of the country.

The difficulties confronting Michigan livestock men have caused a special program to be arranged for them at 10:45 a. m. Prof. G. A. Brown and Elmer Beamer, Blissfield, will have charge of the livestock discussion. Mr. Beamer is now making a survey of conditions in the middle west. As president of the Michigan Livestock Exchange and of the Buffalo Producers Commission Exchange, Mr. Beamer is in daily contact with the livestock industry.

Members of the dairy and the crops department at the College will talk at the livestock men's meeting. All ways of alleviating the shortage of forage crops will be discussed. Federal aids which may be available will have a place on the program.

The afternoon meeting starts at 1:00 o'clock with a concert by the Lumberjack Orchestra. This group of players has no duplicate but the players do not depend upon this for their reputation. The orchestra won first place for rendering folk songs at a national contest in St. Louis, Mo. where the competition ranged from hill billy bands to sailor crews from Snug Harbor.

Massed choirs from the 12 entered in the country church-choir singing contest will give one or more selections during the afternoon. This large entry list of choirs insures a spirited contest and a pleasing number for the audience.

If the weather continues as at present, the log sawing contest at 3:00 o'clock will be a hot number. Entries for this contest should register at the forestry building before 1:00 o'clock. Timber and implements will be furnished or contestants can bring along any pet saws that run better than college trained tools.

The morning, except for the livestock program, will be devoted to an inspection of the crops-plots and the College livestock and the exhibit by the world's champion log roller who displays his skill at 10:00 o'clock on the Red Cedar River. This show will include fancy birling and a log rolling bout between the champion, William F. Girard, Gladstone, and his son.

The Lumberjack Orchestra will furnish a musical setting for the log rolling and a canoe tilting contest will conclude the forenoon sports features.

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

All candidates must file nominating petitions by July 24 if they wish to have their names on the primary ballots. All candidates for offices which represent more than one county file with the Secretary of State. Candidates for offices representing only one county or portion of a county file with the county clerk.

Petitions for one candidate for United States senator and one candidate for governor already have been filed with the Secretary of State as well as 13 candidates for Congress, seven for state senator and nine for state representative.

Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald, as a member of the State Board of Tax Administration, filed a separate answer in Ingham Circuit Court in the suit to secure sales tax exemptions for farm purchases which are used in the production of saleable farm products.

The majority of the State Board of Tax Administration has held that the exemptions could not be granted in full. The Secretary of State, however, took the position that commodities purchased by farmers for use in raising taxable products should be exempt entirely from the three per cent sales tax law.

At least 1,000 Michigan motorists have not received their weight tax refund warrants because they moved without leaving a proper forwarding address.

This number of warrants was returned to the Department of State and are being held in a special file until motorists write to the department and give the proper address. Inquiries are being received at the rate of 25 a day.

Mother and Her Clubs

My mother's at the club today!

I don't know just which one:

But, anyhow, she's gone away

To have a lot of fun!

She's got a dozen clubs, I guess,

An' every day or so

She's lookin' up some new address

Where she's supposed to go!

When she's at home, she's busy, too—

She's always at the 'phone

Advisin' someone what to do;

An' when she's left alone

She's writin' what the speaker said;

Or checkin' her accounts

T' find out why they're "in the red

In such absurd amounts."

Las' year my mother said that she

Was through for good an' all—

She simply wasn't goin' to be

In any clubs that fall!

But when she told 'em she was done,

An' all her friends got sore,

She kept her place in every one—

An' joined a couple more!

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer what was the middle name of Robert M. LaFollette, the man who ran for President on the Progressive ticket in 1924? Also how is his last name pronounced?

Ans.—The full name of the man you ask about is Robert Marion LaFollette. The correct way to pronounce his surname is La ("a" as in "was") Fol-let (accent on the last syllable). However, it is commonly pronounced "LaFol-let" with accent on the second syllable "Fol".

Ques.—I wish to ask you what celluloid is made of and who invented it?

Ans.—The exact process for the most successful manufacture of celluloid is still a trade secret. However, the main substances are gum camphor and gun cotton. Coloring matter and some minor ingredients are used. These are all given the proper mixture and preparation, after which the mass is subjected to great hydraulic pressure. While a kind of celluloid was made in England about seventy-five years ago, John W. Hyatt, of New York, N. Y., is credited as the inventor of the real celluloid.

Ques.—Does the President of the United States act entirely upon his own initiative, or is he obliged to accept the advice of the members of the Cabinet? How did the Cabinet originate?

Ans.—It is not compulsory for a President to accept the advice or recommendations of his Cabinet members, but he invariably gives much consideration to their advice. The United States Constitution says (Article II, Section 2): "The President may require the opinion in writing of the principal officers in each of the executive departments upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices." Washington did not ask for written opinions, but instead, held secret meetings which were called Cabinet meetings. The meetings are informal and no records made of them, as the President is entirely responsible for the executive part of the government.

Ques.—Will you please answer in your good paper what makes a cat purr?

Ans.—A cat will usually purr when it is in a perfect state of comfort, contentment, and an outward sign of true friendship. The cat will cease to purr when it becomes sick, frightened or otherwise made uncomfortable. In the cat there are two kinds of vocal cords—true and false. The "meow" is the true cord and the purr is the false cord. The latter is produced in the larynx when they are considerably relaxed.

Ques.—I am writing to ask you if corn is a native of America or Asia or Europe?

Ans.—It is not known for sure, but it is generally believed that corn is a native of America. Much evidence points to the theory that corn was cultivated by the Indians long before Columbus discovered this continent. He took back corn from this hemisphere and introduced it into Spain. For hundreds of years small grain in Europe, such as wheat, oats and barley, is known as "corn," and they call our corn "Indian corn" or "maize."

Ques.—How does James Couzens, the United States Senator from Michigan, pronounce his last name?

Ans.—The Senator pronounces his name as though it was spelled "Cuz-zens." The first syllable is accented.

Many people erroneously pronounce it "Coo-zens."

Ques.—An American and his family went to Germany, where they remained a year. During their stay there, a child was born. Now is that child a native of America or a native of Germany?

Ans.—While the child is a native of Germany, it is an American-born citizen—just as though it was born in the United States.

Ques.—I am told that Benedict Arnold, the traitor in the Revolutionary War, was a Mason. Is that true?

Ans.—Benedict Arnold was a Mason. During his early life he was a member of Hiram Lodge No. 1, of New Haven, Conn. The records of this lodge show that after he committed treason and was proclaimed a traitor to his country, his name was erased from the membership roll and he was abandoned as a Mason.

Ques.—Where can I get information about the protection and preservation of bird life?

Ans.—Write to the secretary of the National Audubon Society, 1974 Broadway, New York City.

Ques.—What is the meaning of "Baraca" and "Philathea" as applied to our Sunday schools?

Ans.—"Baraca" is the name of a world-wide organization of young men's Bible classes. "Philathea" is the name of a similar organization of young women.

FOR THE LITTLE FOLK

I was just thinking all about The wonders that we see, At Belle Isle, Bob-Lo, and the zoo, That live on land and sea.

The Lion, Tiger, and the Bear, The great big Eagle wild, A tiny little Humming Bird, So swift to fly and hide.

The great big Elephant so kind, O, my! but he was big! That little spotted thing They call—they call a guinea pig.

I wonder how God made us all, Does he love little boys? My! Sure he does, he loves them all With all their thundering noise.

He made your grandma-pa an' ma, O yes, and you an' me, And all the flowers, and all the woods, And everything, you see.

'Twould make him glad if every night You'd kneel at mother's knee, And say this darling little prayer, That starts "Now I Lay Me"

"Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray thee Lord, my soul to keep; If I should die before I wake, I pray thee Lord my soul to take."

—Arthur Carlton.

SOUTH LYON—The city fire department quickly responded to an alarm of fire in the Pere Marquette railroad yards near the section house at about 11 o'clock Tuesday night. A freight train had pulled into the yards shortly before and had brought a supply car of gasoline. The tanks near the section house were being filled from the supply car, for use of the section crew, when the gas suddenly caught fire, creating a blaze of considerable size. Just how it started has not been ascertained. The fire department, which reached the scene by driving up the railroad track, quickly extinguished the fire, by use of chemicals, and saved the section house which would have been burning had the blaze lasted a little while longer.—Herald.

Beagle Perfect Little

Model of the Foxhound

"He sticks to it like a beagle," aptly paraphrases determination. This characteristic marks the work of these popular "saw-tooth" editions of the hound family. Once on the line of a lively hare, they stick to it, rarely leaving it until a kill is made.

To the finest detail, writes an authority in the Los Angeles Times, the beagle represents in comeliness a perfect little model of the foxhound, from which he is believed to have descended. In a like manner, his work is also carried on in packs, but in the pursuit of quarry befitting his size—the hare and rabbit. Caution, but not to the point of hesitancy investigation that attends the hunt of the shorter-legged basset hound, he nevertheless possesses none of the impetuosity of the large foxhound. His training, which comes largely in the form of self-instruction, must be of the highest. He is not to be hurried. To be taken into a field where a chance rabbit may flash into view, is usually sufficient to make a pack of these beautiful little hounds very busy.

Few dogs surpass him in beauty of conformation or in his thorough workmanship. Nothing escapes his broad, black sensitive nose with its well expanded nostrils, nor his brown or hazel eyes. His moderately long, pendulous ears hanging in loose folds close to the cheek are typical hound, but unlike the extremely long ears of the basset hound or bloodhound, they reach only to the tip of his nose.

Stranded Whales Start

of the Great Industry

Whaling is an ancient form of hunting. It probably began with capture of whales stranded on beaches by storms. This was followed by small boats putting out when a lookout warned of the approach of a whale near the shore. Such a system, asserts Pathfinder Magazine, was followed by the Basques from the Tenth to Thirteenth centuries, and as far back as the first Norse record, dated 830 A. D.

When the first settlers came to this country they found Indians successfully pursuing whales. Then ships were put out when the animals ceased to come near the shore, and they were in Newfoundland waters before the end of the fourteenth century. Then they pushed to Greenland and Spitzbergen, finding new lands as they went. For 100 years following 1557 the English and Dutch contested whaling grounds around Spitzbergen.

The golden age of whaling for America's New England was from 1803 to 1860, when at one time the fleet numbered 680 sail. The first Antarctic whaling was done by Norwegians in 1804. Since then Norway, England, and Argentina have operated in southern waters.

Sponges That Walk

Sponges that can walk about in search of food, instead of being forever anchored to one place mysteriously appeared in tanks of sea water in the London aquarium. A sponge expert of the British museum was unable to find any sponge of this kind among those previously captured by scientists. The habit of the sponge animals is to fasten themselves permanently to some spot on the ocean bottom, and never to leave it until they die, food being obtained by a continual current of seawater in and out of tube-like passages which penetrate the sponge's body. Living specimens of the walking sponges, however, were collected and submitted to an authority, who verified the reports of the museum keepers that the sponges do creep slowly from a foodless spot to one where the supplies of provender are greater.

Introducing Coal

Coal was first dug in the British Isles on the south shore of the Firth of Forth. For centuries there were no means of draining coal pits, and early coal was obtained in hilly districts. In some places shallow "bell pits" were dug. In 1710 the deepest coal mine in the country was only 300 feet deep. Gunpowder was first used to blast coal in that year. In pits where fire-damp accumulated, it was exploded each morning by "a resolute man of purpose," who went down clothed in rags saturated with water and provided with a long pole at the end of which was a lighted candle. There was no form of safety lamp until the year 1815.—Montreal Herald.

Confucianism

It is incorrect to refer to the teachings of the great Chinese philosopher as a religion, asserts G. R. Turner in Kansas City Times. Confucius never assigned to himself the role of a religious leader. In fact, as regards religion, to his followers he gave this advice: "Respect the gods, but have as little as possible to do with them." His was a system of philosophy and conduct, and his interest was in practical morality. The five virtues that he extolled were kindness, integrity, politeness, truthfulness, and sagacity.

Insects Help Make Shellac

"Lac," a transparent, glass-like substance used in the making of shellac, is "manufactured" by small insects which swarm over certain trees in the tropics. The glandular excretion of the insects deposited on the twigs is one of the ingredients of shellac, and is also used in the manufacturing of billiard balls, poker chips and phonograph records.

Germany's Economic Crisis Now Worries the Nazi Government—NRA Seems Due for Modification—Plot to Kill Caffery Foiled.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© by Western Newspaper Union

RECOVERING from the terror and dismay caused by Hitler's "purgings" of the Nazi party at a cost of some fifty lives, the people of Germany now realize that a serious economic crisis for their country is at hand. The essence of the Nazi new deal is that to make money is no credit to the individual, but that to work is a great honor. Incentive in the form of profit is vanishing. Jobs, many of them created, have been spread out thinly; employers are forced to run their plants at their own expense, to take on more men and to increase wages under the theory that it is a privilege thus to serve the state. Observers believe the Nazi government is now trying to retreat from virtual Communism, which its leaders profess to hate, toward relative economic liberalism. The appointment of Dr. Kurt Schmitt, minister of economics, to the position of economic dictator is taken as evidence of this trend. Schmitt has been given blank powers that will extend to October 1, and in that time he has the authority to promulgate any reasonable laws that he thinks will help trade and commerce. He also has the right to impose fines on those who do not obey his dictates.

Chancellor Hitler, sought to restore quiet in the Reich by ordering a political truce and a call for peace, and he then left Berlin for a vacation in the Bavarian Alps. There is current among friends of the slain Nazi "traitors" an explanation to the effect that those men were truly the supporters of Hitler and were only preparing and arming selected troops to back him up in an attack on the reactionaries. The sponsors for this account blame General Goering for misleading Hitler and engineering the executions.

One of the chancellor's closest friends, Rudolf Hess, minister without portfolio, broke out with a speech in which he appealed to France to help Germany avert another war, addressing himself to the veterans. Then he delivered a stern warning to France—and the world—not to try to invade the Reich. "Just you dare to attack us! Just you dare to march into Germany!"

European diplomats were considerably disturbed by Hess' utterances looking on them as the strongest provocation hurled at France in years. The Nazi charge that the executed Storm Troop leaders had been conspiring with France already had made the French angry, and Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Berlin, protested vigorously against it.

His position greatly strengthened by events in Germany, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria reorganized his cabinet and declared a state of war on the Nazis in his country. He got rid of three ministers who were not working well with him and himself took the portfolios of public safety, defense, foreign affairs and agriculture.

Mr. Paul Foy was appointed as vice chancellor by Prince von Starheimberg and was given the job of repressing all anti-government political activities. Probably to register his disapproval of Hitler's methods, especially as they affect Catholics, Dollfuss recalled Stephen Tauschitz, minister to Germany, and made him undersecretary of foreign affairs.

The opponents of Dollfuss have been resorting freely to the throwing of bombs, especially in Vienna, and the chancellor in his official communique said his patience was ended and that all political opposition to him must cease. The immediate reply to this was the throwing of a lot more bombs.

LOUIS BARTHOLOMEU, French foreign minister, went over to London to ask a lot of things of the British government, but wise observers did not believe he would get much satisfaction. The chief thing he wanted was assurance that Great Britain line up with France again in case of a war with Germany. Reports that Bartholomeu would propose such an alliance reached London ahead of the minister and aroused loud opposition in parliament and the press. There were indications that the cabinet was very cool toward the suggestion.

DR. SVEN HEDIN, famous Swedish explorer, has been captured for the second time by Gen. Ma Chung and his "army" of bandits in eastern Szechwan. Taken with Hedin were a dozen or so of his companions. The captives were reported to have been imprisoned in an inaccessible cleft in the neighborhood of Aksu, and officials of the Chinese government said that their rescue would be exceedingly difficult. Hedin was engaged in laying out a new trade route across China, following the ancient silk caravan route. Last March General Ma captured him and held him for three weeks.

ASSISTANT PRESIDENT Hoover is what they now call Donald Richberg, because he is at the head of a kind of super-cabinet which holds power during the absence of President Roosevelt. The counsel for the NRA was his work cut out for him, and has gone at it with a will. The chief part of his task is acting as director of an industrial emergency committee which has been given sweeping supervisory and coordinating powers over the major agencies of the New Deal.

What is going to happen to the NRA is an absorbing question to many of our best minds. General Johnson has recommended the creation of an entirely new body to take its place and to perform the functions of the federal trade commission in preventing monopoly. In this he recognizes as just some of the complaints uttered by Senator Borah. The plan was submitted to Mr. Roosevelt before he went to sea, and is being studied by Richberg and others.

The administrator, meanwhile, is undertaking to complete the reorganization of industry. He issued an order directing all industries still uncodified either to sign specific codes or to submit to a new "basic code" governing wages and hours. A time limit of 30 days was set, and three of the general's aides were named to supervise this operation.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, in his capacity of chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, replied to the charge that the New Deal fosters monopoly by asserting that the administration intends to prosecute the monopolists. "At the demand of large business, stimulated by the national chamber of commerce," said Senator Lewis, "congress by the votes of both parties suspended the trust act to allow all business to economize by consolidation to save expense and provide larger development." Result: Instead of keeping faith with the government, certain manufacturing and financial establishments, conscious that the trust law was suspended, promptly violated the codes of the NRA by joining with each other to fix the price of everything—even as against the government itself.

"This administration has just been able to discover the responsible parties to this conspiracy. It has not had time to take steps to punish it. It will proceed at once both to punish and obstruct further injustice."

In another statement Senator Lewis indicated the President is willing to modify the NRA and perhaps some other New Deal policies.

"What the President wishes, in addition to the reorganization entrusted to Mr. Richberg and his associates, is that there shall be gathered from the public wherever possible, whatever objections exist as to legislative intent, and these will be taken into account."

Senator Lewis declared, "We desire particularly to know where business feels that the legislation is inappropriate to its welfare or where some change in the legislation would best serve the general uses of legitimate business in the promotion of general prosperity in all branches of commerce and industry."

BEING ambassador to Cuba is no snipe. The authorities of the island republic have just uncovered an extensive plot to assassinate Ambassadors Jefferson Caffery and Jefferson Caffery.

Many of which were found. Something like seventy-five former army officers were arrested and it was a full documentary proof of the plot was asked. The officials also found large stores of guns and munitions in warehouses.

Jose Pedraza, chief of the Havana police, said the former officers were aided by one faction of the ABC political society, which recently withdrew its support from the Machado government, and planned a revolt in Havana, striking at police stations and army barracks simultaneously in a night attack after cutting electric lights off over the city.

There were persistent reports in Havana that President Mendota would resign in favor of Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the army.

THROUGH four counties of southern Illinois a tornado swept, and Jacksonville was especially hard hit. Scores of persons were injured and the property damage was estimated at a million dollars. Hundreds of the big old oaks, elms and cottonwoods that have been the glory of the city for many years, were destroyed.

WHEAT production in the United States this year will be the lowest since 1890, according to the government report. For the second year since 1890 the yield will fall below domestic consumption.

The government's figures, which completely upset calculations of the grain trade, indicated the aggregate of the country's five leading grain crops will fall 450,000,000 bushels short of last year's production and 1,538,000,000 bushels below the yearly average for the period from 1927-31. The government estimated the total wheat crop at 484,000,000 bushels, which is 10,000,000 bushels below the forecast it made a month ago.

Even more sensational than the report on wheat was the government prediction of a corn crop of 2,113,000,000 bushels. Private authorities had predicted a crop of 2,331,000,000 bushels, and it was believed that the government's figure would show little change. The corn crop has been counted on to make up the known deficiencies in other feed crops. Last year the corn crop totaled 2,330,000,000 bushels and in the five years from 1927 to 1931 the country produced an average of 2,516,000,000 bushels a year.

THE world civil service commission of the Methodist Episcopal church, in session at Evanston, Ill., voted to participate in the campaign against dirty moving pictures that originated largely in the Legion of Decency or organized within the Catholic church. This campaign is having its effect on the movie industry and the makers of dirty pictures have been deeply disturbed. Joseph I. Breen of Will Hays' office has been made virtual dictator of pictures in so far as their decency is concerned. Ten of the largest concerns making movies have agreed to grant to exhibitors the right to omit the exhibition of any motion picture released prior to July 16, 1934, against which there is a genuine protest on moral grounds. This is a big modification of the "black book" system that has prevailed, and at Hays' office in Hollywood it was said that it will cost the producers around ten millions of dollars.

IT MAY be that William P. McCracken, Jr., will not have to serve the ten days in jail to which the senate sentenced him. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals, by a 3 to 2 vote, decided the senate had not the jurisdiction to inflict such punishment. The case will be carried up to the Supreme Court.

McCracken was tried by the senate for contempt because he refused to give the anti-trust committee copies of correspondence with his clients. He claimed that as a lawyer he could not produce the documents without permission from his clients.

THOUSANDS of applicants for PWA funds are sure to be disappointed, according to Secretary Ickes, who says nearly all that administration's money has been allocated or earmarked. President Roosevelt recently turned over to PWA about $400,000,000 of the maximum of $500,000,000 which congress authorized him to allocate for public works.

Ickes said the other $100,000,000 might be handed over to the PWA later, but that "we are proceeding on the theory that we will have $400,000,000 to spend" in addition to the original $3,300,000,000 appropriation disposed of long ago.

For the first time in history a newspaper office has been picketed by editorial workers. This was done by leaders of the American and New York newspaper guilds to the Long Island Press, published in Jamaica, L. I. The Press says it "operates all its mechanical departments on a union basis and exceeds the requirements of the NRA in every department." But Heywood Brown and his colleagues over it opposes the organization of editorial workers and has violated the collective bargaining provision of the NRA. Therefore they are asking that the government prosecute the Press.

COMMUNIST agitators who fostered a farm strike in New Jersey didn't get far. The government conciliator stepped in and, finding most of the trouble was due to the efforts of the men, soon made arrangements for the men to go back to work on terms that did not differ from those formerly prevailing. The Communists are playing a big part in at least ten of the major strikes now in effect.

WITH his eyes on the coming congressional campaign, the G. O. P. elephant is sitting up and taking notice. In other words, the Republican party is showing signs of a distant reinvigoration. Its national leaders are busy these days. The party's eightieth birthday was celebrated at Jackson, Mich., with many speeches and assurances of future victories, National Chairman Fletcher being in the van of the assurances. Mr. Fletcher then went to Chicago, where many of the most important men in the party met with him in closed conference.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT made brief but pleasant visits to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, inspecting government projects and talking reassuringly to the inhabitants. Then the cruiser Houston headed for Cartagena, Colombia, for a short stop before going to the Canal Zone.

At Colon practically the entire population was out to see Mr. Roosevelt, and he was cheered all the way through the canal to Balboa. There he landed and motored to Panama City where he was the guest of President Arias at dinner and delivered an address. Returning to the Houston, the President began the 12-day journey across the Pacific to Honolulu.

Where Emperors Are Crowned
Until 1893 Kyoto was the capital of Japan for more than a thousand years. The city and vicinity are rich in historic associations with the ancient life of the empire, and hundreds of old temples still remain. To Japan it is the center of the fine art industries. Kyoto still retains its ancient prestige for the new emperors of the nation always are crowned there.

How Vines Grow
According to the Department of Agriculture location in reference to the equator does not affect the direction in which vines grow, although there is a widespread notion that this is so. Some species have a natural tendency to twist clockwise about the support, others in a counter-clockwise manner. Natural conditions decide the direction in some instances, but a few even reverse the original direction for little or no reason.

Puzzle of Sleep Still Unsolved by Scientists

Although almost a third of a person's life is spent in sleep, the problem of how sleep comes about is still a mystery, observes a writer in the Montreal Herald. It had been supposed that during activity, fatigue substances accumulated in the blood and exerted a narcotic action on the brain, periodically inducing "sleep" during which they were excreted. Investigation shows that an afternoon nap may come when there is little fatigue, that extreme nervous fatigue often leads to sleeplessness, and that normal sleep, unlike either narcosis, is easily interrupted by noise or other disturbances. Another theory has been that during sleep the conduction pathways in the nervous system are broken by the retraction of small contact points between the neurones, which are the conducting units composing the nervous system. If this actually occurred, it would stop all nervous activity just as effectively as pulling the plugs from a switchboard would stop telephone communication; but there is no evidence to support the theory. Sleeping sickness has been found to be accompanied by damage to a point in the midbrain near its junction with the forebrain, and this region has been found to have an important relation to the alternation of sleep and wakefulness.

Big Game Hunters Debate Which Beast Most Deadly

The lion, the tiger, the leopard, the buffalo, the elephant—all these and many others have claimed their victims, though which of them is deadliest is a matter that is hotly debated by big game hunters, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Some would award this sinister distinction to the water buffalo, for the water buffalo is not only brave, but cunning. Unlike practically all the other creatures of the wild, this wicked animal will turn and hunt the hunter, sneaking back and hiding in the reeds beside the trail. The leopard is also justly feared.

At least one authority, for 30 years an ivory trader and game warden in Kenya, is of opinion that the rhinoceros is the most formidable of beasts. So blind that it goes largely by scent, and so courageous that it will charge anything whose scent becomes suspicious, the rhinoceros has been known to gullup up wind into men, fires, tents and even trains—a jungle juggernaut blind to everything except the impulse to destroy the unknown.

Opinions of the great cats differ. By nature even the lion is shy of man to the point of timidity. But another authority, whose judgment carries weight, considered the lion the most dangerous animal in Africa.

Postmaster Issued Stamps

Following a reduction of postal rates in 1934, the postmaster of New York with the consent of the postmaster general, introduced stamps of his own in an effort to convince congress that they would be a convenience in the handling of the mail. His experiment was of his own volition and at his own expense, but it demonstrated the value of the use of stamps. Soon other postmasters followed the lead of New York, and one by one, Baltimore, St. Louis, Providence and others of the larger cities were issuing their own stamps. These in turn were followed by a number of the smaller towns such as Brattleboro, Vt.; Millbury, Mass., and Boscacon. Of these the most complete record is that of Brattleboro, where the postmaster avowedly issued stamps in hope of increasing his receipts and by selling his stamps for cash, cutting down the accounts of his patrons. He was rather disappointed when he found the public asked to have the stamps charged the same as they had been in the habit of doing with their letters.

Neatsfoot Oil

Neatsfoot oil is made by splitting the feet of cattle and boiling them over an open fire, or commercially, in cylinders by superheated steam; then, removing the oil from the mixture while still hot. The oil is allowed to stand for some days when part of it solidifies into a heavy grease. The lighter oil is then separated from this, by filtering; this is known as "neatsfoot oil."

Degrees of Mollusca. Manslaughter, though unlawful killing, in the eyes of the law differs from murder, says Literary Digest. It may be voluntary, as the result of a sudden passion, or involuntary, as the result of criminal carelessness, or as an incident in the commission of some wrongful act. It is divided into three degrees: first degree, where there was an intent to take life and the killing would be murder except for extenuating circumstances; second degree, where death results from unintentionally doing an unlawful act; third degree, where death results from a negligence that, though not unlawful, was attended by circumstances that endangered life.

Vegetation Called Adenoids

In the mucous membrane of the pharynx are little follicles which may, by some cause or other, become enlarged, and then they become a species of vegetation which may obstruct the nasal passages, observes a writer in Pathfinder Magazine. Symptoms of the growth may take the form of a peculiar expression which has been called "adenoid face." When adenoids are far advanced the results are serious. The nostrils are dilated, the mouth is kept open, the head may become deformed and even the mental capacity may be affected.

Manifold Ways in Which the Banks Are Serving the Nation

Handling Millions of Transactions Daily for Individuals, Corporations and State and National Governments—The Structure Strengthened and Deserving of Public Faith

By FRANCIS MARION LAW,
President American Bankers Association

F. M. LAW

The banks of the nation provide the machinery through which the daily millions of checks and drafts, aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars, are handled. The banks are largely financing the Federal Government in its Recovery Program. Involving the greatest peace-time expenditures ever known. Likewise the banks are largely financing the current needs of states, counties, cities, public schools and other political subdivisions, all of which have immediately to do with the daily affairs of the people.

Each day banks throughout the country are making hundreds of thousands of new loans and they are renewing and extending a vast number of borrowings for individuals, corporations and partnerships, and their loans being made to agriculture, industry and trade in every community in the land.

The banks, through their trust departments, are continuing the work which they have faithfully carried on throughout the depression and are protecting trust funds placed in their care against the worst shrinkage or values ever known. Included in this activity is the service the banks are performing in connection with administering the affairs of widows and orphans.

The banks, through the medium of their savings and thrift deposit departments, are furnishing safety for the accumulations of many millions of people and on this class of deposits a woman's interest is paid.

Banks are providing a service for the safe deposit and safe-keeping of the possessions, papers and securities of a very large number of people.

The officers of banks are unselfishly giving advice and counsel to the people of their communities, thereby to a considerable extent guiding their daily financial and fiscal affairs during this most difficult period of disturbance.

The Banking Structure Strengthened

The banking structure as it is today has been greatly strengthened and the process of strengthening still goes on. Banking is not a closed science. The banking system which we have had was not good enough, and I earnestly believe that an able and non-partisan commission should be set up to make a study of our numerous banking laws to the end that a properly correlated banking system might be worked out and submitted for consideration to the next Congress.

A good system would include rigid requirements as to management, intelligent and impartial supervision and, in due time, unification of supervision. Such a system, composed of banks adequately capitalized, capably managed and conscientiously supervised would eliminate any possibility of a recurrence of what has happened in the past four years.

The temporary Federal deposit insurance plan under which deposits in banks up to $2,500 for each account are insured has been in effect for six months and has proven a potent factor in restoring confidence. Only two small banks out of over fourteen thousand holding membership in the fund have failed during this six months' period. The temporary plan has been extended for a year, and the amount of the insured deposit has been increased to $5,000, thus insuring to full 99% in number of the depositors in the country's banks.

Hoarded money is returning to the banks and deposits are showing a vast increase. Banks everywhere are super-lucent, meaning that they have an unusually heavy proportion of their deposits in cash. There are two kinds of unemployment in this country—unemployment of men and unemployment of dollars. These men and these dollars must be put to work. Banks in strong and highly liquid condition are prepared and determined to do their proper part in putting money to work.

Requirements for Grants of Bank Credit

That brings me to the all important question of the granting of credit by banks. Two things are necessary to increase bank credit:

1. The banks must be liquid and confident in their own strength.

2. Business men must further lay their cards and regain confidence to the point where they will dare to think and plan ahead.

The first requisite is accomplished. The second is in process. Bank credits will increase and money will go to work as soon as business men get over their disinclination to borrow and this will be when they begin to see profits within their reach.

In past depressions the real movement of the expansion in bank credit has always come after general business recovery got under way and not before. The number of good credit risks is increasing daily. Not in my time have good borrowers been so warmly welcomed at banks as they are today. Never before has there been such competition for good loans, nor has the in-

The annual show and convention of the Michigan Gladioli Society will be held in the Hotel Statler, Detroit, August 17-18.

The State Society will be assisted by the Southeastern Michigan Gladioli Society, a very lively group of "Glad Fans", and by all indications this will be the finest display of Gladioli that Detroit or any other city in Michigan has ever seen.
Any growers throughout the State who wish to enter their blooms, will please write to Prof. Paul R. Krone, the State Secretary, East Lansing, or to J. J. Zimmerman, 7218 Tuxedo Ave., Detroit, for information and prize schedule.
Entries are free to members of the State Society and affiliated societies.

Whited S. o. l. n. e. s.
Whited S. o. l. n. e. s. means a hypocrite, something or somebody who is not what it or he appears. The phrase occurs in the Bible in Matthew 23:27: "Whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones."

The Rhododendron
The rhododendron grows profusely in the United States in the Blue Ridge range and other southern mountains. In western North Carolina the mountain sides are literally covered with the plants.

Ran Charge Accounts on Incoming, Outgoing Mail

One of the most mysterious of all stamps was that issued by Worcester Webster, postmaster of the little town of Boscawen in Merrimack county, N. H., some time in 1840, says the New York Herald Tribune. At the time, although postage stamps had been in successful use in England since 1840 and by private companies here beginning in 1842, congress had been unable to see the great advantage of this method of preparing letters and all efforts of the postmasters to obtain a general issue of stamps for the convenience of the public had been lost in futile debate.

The action of many of the postmasters in seeking stamps was not entirely disinterested, for they saw in them a means of increasing their revenues and their pay, since the pay of many offices was dependent on receipts; and anything which would increase the latter would be welcomed. In the absence of stamps or any similar device for prepayment, all letters posted out of office hours had to go collect, except in a few cases where well known people ordered their outgoing letters charged to their account.

And strange as it may seem postmasters then allowed patrons to run charge accounts for postage on both incoming and outgoing mail and from some of the long bills and duns which have been found in old correspondence, some of the patrons were none too quick in their settlements. The sending of unpaid letters, although a custom known from the earliest days of the post was often not only a source of loss to the postmaster in the town of origin but to the one on the receiving end and the government as well for should the addressee refuse the letter or not be found, everybody's trouble went for naught.

Kitty Was in Disrepute Away Back in Old Times

It can be said that during the Middle Ages the cat fell into complete disrepute, according to a correspondent in the Philadelphia Inquirer. Cats were seen to dance in sacrilegious circles around wayside crucifixes. Satan himself would occasionally assume the shape of a black cat to confound pious Christians. Lilith, the serpent woman who tempted Adam, was pictured in the sixteenth century with the body of a cat. The three howling of the "brilliant cat" summoned the weird woman in "Macbeth".
The cat naturally came to be regarded with superstitious awe. Blood drawn from a cat during favorable phases of the moon was said to bring spells of bewitchment. Hair from the tail of a cat cured a sty if applied on the first night of a new moon. Blood from a black cat was considered a cure for ringworm.

Many superstitious beliefs associated with cats are current today, some of them being modifications of those held during the blighted days of sorcery and witchcraft.

Fire People Mismamed

Early missionaries and traders among the Huron Indians heard stories of the Mascoutens, or "fire people," living to the westward. When ethnologists searched for them in later years, however, they found that the tribe had disappeared, leaving no records. Starting from a chance clue found in the Journal of a Frenchman, a Smithsonian ethnologist solved the mystery of the lost "fire" nation which existed in lower Michigan and Illinois until about 1800. The Hurons were talking about the "gallie people," their words for fire and prairie being very similar. Further research established the fact that the Mascoutens had been practically wiped out by enraged Illinois tribes to avenge the murder of the chief of the confederacy by a Kaskaskia Indian of the confederacy to which the "fire" tribe belonged. Remnants of the tribe were gradually absorbed into other tribes.

Early Glass Windows

Glass windows were not universal in the Seventeenth century, either in the American colonies or in England. The "current shutting draw windows" of Symonds' house in 1639 were probably sliding panels of board. In "Leah and Rachel" (1630), Virginia buildings are spoken of as having "if not glazed windows, shutters." Edward Winslow writing from Plymouth in 1621 says: "Hiring paper and linseed oil for your windows." Landed punes existed in many of the better houses after 1650.

The Magic Carpet

The "Magic Carpet" is one of the stock properties of eastern tales. In Arabian Nights it is Prince Housain's carpet. But the chief magic carpet was that of King Solomon, which, according to Mohammedan legend, was made of green silk. King Solomon, his throne and courtiers were transported upon it to any place the king chose to go. To screen the party from the sun, the birds formed a canopy over it as it flew through the air.

Ethiopia, Home of Coffee

Ethiopia (Abyssinia) is the original home of coffee. The tree was first found there by Arab travelers in the province of Kafa, from which the beverage takes its name. Seed was taken from Kafa to the Mocha district in Arabia. In Kafa and adjoining parts of southwestern Ethiopia may be seen vast and virgin forests of coffee. The tree grows without care. Thousands of tons of berries fall to the ground in waste every year.

Trace Word "Sparrow" to Low-German Immigrants

The word "sparrow" was brought into England, in nearly its present form from the early Low-German immigrants, and came from a root "spar" that contains the idea of fluttering activity so characteristic of the sparrow, which are a tribe of hoppers and very restless, says a Montreal Herald. Among the North American species of this cone-beaked family few require much explanation of their visit to the bird. The Savannah sparrow was so called by Wilson from its frequenting, as he says, "the low countries on the Atlantic coast from Savannah where I first discovered it." The Georgian river and city were bordered by extensive level meadows, which the Spanish explorers styled "savannas"; in the same way we get "prairie" from the French. The yellow-winged sparrow gets its nickname "grasshopper" from its bounding little song.
Our word "chippy" in a mispronunciation of chirper. The fox sparrow is, chestnut, not foxy red; and the whitethroat is more noted for its voice than its color. The last-named bird was "lightingale" of the early settlers in Quebec; and in Nova Scotia it has become the "Poor-Kentucky bird," recalling a legend of a certain Kennedy who was lost in the forest and imagined the bird as condoling with him. In New England everybody knows it as "Penbody bird."

Rhino Horns as Medicine

Slam is a land of startling contrasts. In its cities it is not unusual to see policemen halting motor and street car traffic to make way for some kadoscopic medieval pageant. With modern hospitals and dispensaries available many people prefer medicinal concoctions made from rhinoceros horns, snake galls and strange herbs.

Show-moving experts and shuffling elephants vie with motor cars for the right of way on many country roads. Siamese Rebecas infamously fill their jars (or oil tins) with water at sanitary street hydrants. In some parts of north Siam tiger whiskers are considered much more effective in punishing an enemy than is a police court, according to the National Geographic society.

America has touched Siam in many ways. Through American missionaries modern medicine was first practiced and progressive schools developed in the country. Americans introduced the first printing press and also adapted the 44 consonants and 20 vowels and tonal marks of the Siamese written language to the keyboard of a typewriter.
Aided by American advisers of foreign affairs, Siam in 1923 obtained the abrogation of outgrown extraterritorial treaties and won her complete sovereignty.

The Trombone

The trombone is a musical wind instrument, the most important of the trumpet family. It is constructed of sections of brass tube so connected that they form two long loops, the tubes of which lie parallel to one another. With the exception of its curve, the loop from a little below the mouthpiece is constructed of double cylindrical tubes, the outer sliding upon the inner. The lower ends of the outer tubes terminate in the curved section forming the bottom of the loop, and their upper ends are connected by a transverse bar, to which, in the bass trombone, a jointed handle is attached. By means of the bar, the player, while holding the mouthpiece against his lips with one hand, can at will increase the normal length of the column of air to nearly double the length of the original loop. With this instrument a chromatic compass of about two and a half octaves may be obtained. A system of valve mechanism instead of the slide is sometimes used, but though easier to play, the tone of the instrument is not as rich.

That Gluttonous Cod

According to the bureau of fisheries, not even a fish expert has any idea what to expect when the stomach of a big codfish is opened. "Not only is the celebrated cod a cannibal but is a glutton that gobbles just about everything in sight besides the everyday diet of smaller fish, crabs and lobsters. They are not averse to swallowing a bird such as a duck if the opportunity presents itself and the cod is large enough. Besides edible objects, such things as clam shells, pieces of rope, chunks of wood, stones and even old shoes have been found in their stomachs."

Language of the Fan

The fan supposedly originated with the palm leaf which was used for shading the air. War fans, ceremonial fans, practical fans and, of course, fans for coquetry, all developed in no time. The legend recalls that Cupid made the first fan from the feathers of his wings. In Spain, by the eighteenth century, there was a complete fan language spoken with the beguiling gestures of the fan wielder.

Ferrel's Law

William Ferrel was an American meteorologist. The law for which he is best known is: "If a body moves in any direction on the earth's surface, there is a deflecting force arising from the earth's rotation which tends to deflect it to the right in the Northern hemisphere, and to the left in the Southern hemisphere." This explains the deflection of winds.

Reunions

Lansing, Ann Arbor, Chelsea and vicinity were represented at the annual Koenigster reunion, which was held Sunday at Island Park, Ann Arbor, with 75 members present. Dinner was served at 1:30, after which Edwin Koenigster called the meeting to order and officers were elected as follows:
