Local Mass Meeting Called To Discuss Means of Preventing Dismantling of Cement Plant

Detroit Chapter D. A. R. Dedicates Marker Here

Several members of the Louisa St. Clair Chapter of the D. A. R. of Detroit held a service at the Lima Center cemetery on Wednesday morning, when they dedicated a marker placed at the grave of Mrs. Sophia Cushman Boyd given by Mrs. J. J. Lamb. The service opened with a prayer by Mrs. C. J. Chandler, Mrs. J. E. Weber of Chelsea gave a history of Mrs. Boyd's life. The dedicatory speech and unveiling of the marker was given by John Lamb and Mrs. J. J. Lamb gave the closing prayer. The inscription on the marker which is placed in front of the headstone is as follows: "Daughter of a Revolutionary Soldier. Placed by the Louisa St. Clair Chapter."

Mrs. Boyd was the daughter of Capt. Consider Cushman, who served in the Revolutionary Forces from Albany. She was born on October 6, 1786 at Kent, New York, was married to Lewis Boyd in 1807 and died on July 2, 1855. She was a great great granddaughter of John Alden and great great granddaughter of Elder Cushman, both of whom came over on the Mayflower and Elder Cushman was the first to give a sermon in this country which was sent back to England and printed.

After their marriage they lived in Butterworths Corners where they resided through the war of 1812 to 1814. In the fall of 1814 they moved to western New York and in 1835 came to Michigan and settled in Lima Center. Enroute west it took them one hour over one week to travel from Buffalo to Detroit on the steamer, William Mercy. Thanks to the rough weather on Lake Erie the steamer had to put into shore while the crew cut more wood for the engine. The drive from Detroit to Lima Center took nine days over the old territorial road, now US-12 and 112.

Immediately on arriving at Lima Center they purchased land from the government at $3.50 an acre and the next morning hunted deer before daylight.

Mrs. Boyd was the mother of 11 children. She was outstanding in her religious life and loyalty to her country, being a daughter of a soldier, wife of a soldier and had four soldier brothers and four soldier sons. Her love for her family kept them united as one and her boys never missed going to see her each Sunday no matter what happened as it was her courage and assistance they all asked for.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, with Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Freer, great grand parents of Mrs. C. J. Chandler of Grosse Pointe Park, formerly of Chelsea, helped to plan the church at Lima Center.

The direct descendants who were present at the services on Wednesday were Albert Litchfield of Dexter, a grandson, Mrs. J. J. Lamb of Detroit, Mrs. J. E. Weber and Howard Boyd of Chelsea, great grandchildren, John Lamb, Beverly Boyd of Detroit and Miss Dorothy Cavanaugh of Chelsea, great, great grandchildren.

Following the services the party motored to the Dexter-Huron Park in Scio, where a picnic luncheon was served.

GIRL SCOUTS CAMPING

Under the leadership of the Misses Gertrude Hindelang, Luella Huston and Anna Grau the Girl Scouts are spending a week in camp at Silver Lake. The two younger patrols left for camp Wednesday to remain until Sunday and the two older patrols will spend the last three days there. Money to defray expenses has been earned by the girls during the past year.

The camp will be conducted as near as possible like an official Girl Scout camp and will be run according to schedule. Time will be taken up with swimming, hiking, nature study and reviewing of Girl Scout tests.

Two mothers will be in camp at all times.

CHARLES W. KLAMSER
C. W. Klamser, 70, publisher of the Chelsea Tribune previous to its consolidation with The Standard more than ten years ago, died Tuesday evening at his home in Dearborn after several months' illness. Mr. Klamser and his son, H. W. Klamser, have published the Dearborn Press for the past several years.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Howe-Peterson funeral home in Dearborn. Burial will be in Northview cemetery.

Surviving are the widow, son, three sisters and one brother.

Farewell Reception Given For Balmers

On Monday evening the members and friends of the Methodist Episcopal church tendered a farewell reception to Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Balmer on the occasion of their retirement from the management of the Methodist Home which they have served so acceptably for the last seven years.

About one hundred friends, at the suggestion of the pastor, who acted in the capacity of toastmaster, opened the meeting by singing heartily "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." Rev. Norton N. Clark, a member of the Home family, led in prayer, and after a word of greeting the pastor called on John Kilmer, of the Fellowship club, Theo. Bahmiller, Sunday school superintendent, P. M. Broesamle on behalf of the official board, N. W. Laird, representing the congregation, Mrs. John Fletcher, of the Home board, and Mrs. Edwin Kochbe, of the women's organizations, who each responded with kindly words of regret at the thought of losing from their midst such loyal friends and devoted Christian workers as Dr. and Mrs. Balmer, mingled with felicitations and good wishes for their future happiness and prosperity.

A short musical program arranged by Mrs. P. M. Broesamle was interspersed and added much interest to the program. Solos, "The Holy City," Roy Ives; violin solo, "The Wayside Chapel," Adolph Duerr; solo, "Good-Bye, Sweet Day," by Mrs. Wesley Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Balmer responded feelingly at the end of the program.

Ice cream and cake was served at the close by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society under the direction of Mrs. Herman Dancer.

Dr. and Mrs. Balmer have endeared themselves not only to the church, but to the whole community and the prayers and good wishes of a host of friends will follow them as they leave for their new home in Port Huron.

Scouts Experience Difficulty On Trip

The following communication was received on Wednesday from Mate E. W. Eaton who is accompanying local Sea Scouts on their cruise of the Great Lakes. Written on Monday, the message is as follows: "The Sea Scout cruise was delayed starting from Detroit by mechanical repairs that developed the last minute. The ship got under way at 2:30 Thursday afternoon."

Progress of the ship has been delayed by mechanical mishaps since leaving Detroit. Stops have been made at Tashmo Park in the St. Clair River, Port Huron, Harbor Beach on Lake Huron, and the ship arrived in Cheboygan to tie up for new engine parts Sunday afternoon.

The boys have had plenty of adventure and hard work getting the ship through some rolling weather. At no time has there been any danger for the ship is perfectly seaworthy and Commander Schrader is a very skillful and able captain.

It is expected that the stop at Cheboygan will not be for more than one day. The boys have greatly enjoyed their first shore leave since starting and are in excellent spirits and health. Just what schedule of ports the ship makes next week depends on further developments.

HOSTESS TO S. A. CLUB

Miss Ruth Russell was hostess to the members of the S. A. club on Monday evening, at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. J. Munro, on Chandler St. With two tables in play, high honors were won by Miss Dorothy Haselswerdt, and second by Mrs. Paul Eisele. Lunch was served at the close of the game.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

John Kelly was guest of honor at a birthday dinner given Sunday at his home on West Middle St., celebrating his 76th anniversary. Seated at the table, which was centered with a lovely birthday cake illuminated with 76 candles, were Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin and children, Mr. and Mrs. Max Kelly and sons, David and Walter, and Mrs. Mary Lusty, all of Detroit.

ANN ARBOR ATTORNEY WILL BE PRESENT AT FRIDAY MEETING TO ADVISE COURSE OF ACTION HERE.

Although the matter of disposal of the state-owned cement plant at Four Mile Lake has been definitely settled by the state administration, local residents who are interested in the future of the village are making arrangements to stage a fight to the finish in an effort to stop the state in their wrecking of the plant.

It was decided by the administrative board two weeks ago that the plant would be wrecked rather than sell it to a private enterprise which would operate the plant in the manufacture of cement and fertilizer. Previous to that time the governor had favored wrecking of the plant but had turned the matter of disposal over to the finance committee of the administrative board, this committee advising the public and local delegations that they would sell the plant to the bidder who would provide the most employment.

Believing this to be a fact local people interested in the matter devoted their efforts in trying to influence sale to Joseph Zilk of Ann Arbor, whose bid appeared to be the best in the matter of employment. After the promise of the finance committee to sell the plant news suddenly came forth on July 17 that they had agreed to the wishes of Governor Comstock and would proceed with dismantling and junking of the plant rather than make the sale.

While local sentiment in the matter has been bitter toward the governor, more and more disapproval of the act of the finance committee of the administrative board is now being heard, inasmuch as the matter was placed in their hands for final action. This board consists of Frank D. Fitzgerald, Secretary of State, John K. Stack, Auditor-General, and Theo. I. Fry, State Treasurer.

If procedure which is anticipated locally can be executed the administration will have the opportunity to explain why they want the plant wrecked rather than sell it to a concern which would furnish employment.

The prison commission has been designated as the dismantling agency and several convicts have been transported to the plant daily this week, where they are preparing the barracks for occupancy by convicts who will be kept at the plant for the wrecking operations. It will be some time, however, before the main plant will be razed, which will allow time for definite action in favor of either the state or Chelsea.

A public mass meeting will be held in Chelsea Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the public school auditorium, when the matter of obtaining an injunction to prevent procedure with wrecking operations will be discussed. A prominent Ann Arbor attorney will be present at the meeting and advance information is that Chelsea need not despair yet in the matter of seeing the old cement plant again in operation.

This matter means much to Chelsea—to every business man and to every property owner in this vicinity, for increased local employment means better business and enhanced property values. Everyone interested in the matter is urged to attend this mass meeting and it is hoped the auditorium will be filled to capacity on Friday evening.

DON'T MISS THIS MEETING!

KANSAS' GREAT DROUTH OF 1860 CALLED FORTH PRAYER FOR RAIN

(From the Topeka (Kan.) Capital Back in 1860 there was drouth, too. There is nothing in Kansas' present situation that was not then as bad, if not a little bit worse than it is today.—So pitiable was the Kansas scene that friends on the outside took noble measures to bring relief to the stricken area and its people. Outstanding among these friends of Kansas was Thaddeus Hyatt.

Hyatt was an easterner who had first interested himself in Kansas during the troubled territorial period. He was an intimate friend of Sumner, Horace Greeley and other men prominent in national affairs, a staunch anti-slavery man, and supporter of John Brown. After the execution of Brown, Hyatt was summoned to appear before the United States senate committee to give testimony regarding the movements leading up to the Harper's Ferry trouble. He refused to accede to the demands of the committee and was subsequently imprisoned for several weeks.

When Kansas was stricken with famine after the election of Abraham Lincoln, Thaddeus Hyatt organized the Kansas relief committee and came personally to the state to see that gifts were properly distributed. His interest in the state continued throughout his life and upon his death, at his own request, a valuable collection of his papers was placed in the Kansas State Historical society. In 1930 his son, I. Hallet Hyatt, visited Topeka to study these manuscript records of his father's interest and activity in behalf of Kansas.

The elder Hyatt was something of a poet. So moved was he by the plight of Kansas in 1860 that he wrote the Prayer for Rain which follows:

Cover thy Sun, O God!
Oh! Cover it with thy hand!
For it scorseth man, and it scorseth beast,
And it burneth up the land!
It glowers and simmers; a Sun in its name,
But a hell in its wasting, its fierceness and flame.

An oven it gloweth at morn;
A furnace it glareth at noon;
It roasteth the clouds, and it baketh the air.
Till the heavens turn brass in its terrible glare
And the zephyrs smite like a si-moon.

Then cover Thy Sun, O God!
Oh! Cover it with Thy hand,
That its fearful heat may no longer cure
This parched and perishing land!
That this demon-like Sun no longer may glare
On Thy desolate ones in their silent despair.

The cattle vainly roam
In search of spring and stream;
But nothing they find, the fainting and blind,
Save dust and the Sun's red gleam;
For the springs are dry, and the streams are bare,
And all moisture is burnt from this fiery air!

Rain! rain! Oh God, send rain!
For the vault above is brass;
And the earth below lies sore with woe,
With neither corn nor grass;
And the very eyes of the cattle look
Like globes of crimson glass!

Rain for the land, O God!
Oh! Send Thy pleaders rain!
Let not their piteous cries come up
Before Thy Throne in vain!
Speak to Thy clouds, O God!
And bid them seek the sea,
And charge Thine Ocean, Lord, to send
Its waters up to These.

That Thou mayest send them back again
To earth, in showers of welcome rain!

Rain, Lord, for the mourners, rain!
Rain!—Rain for the wretched and lost!
Let them hear the sound of Thy coming rain
Like the tramp of a mighty host!
Let not Thy people plead in vain!
Rain, Lord! Oh send Thy people rain!
For rain the Earth would climb to These!

For-rain the Heavens would seek the Seal

24 YEARS AGO

Thursday, August 4, 1910

Miss Nellie Lowry left on Wednesday morning for a visit with friends in Seattle, Wash.

About 100 attended the Sunday school picnic of St. Paul's church at Cavanaugh Lake yesterday.

The Chelsea Carburetor Co. have received a large new lathe and press drill which they will use in manufacturing carburetors for gasoline engines.

Lightning raised havoc with the municipal pumping station during the thunder shower Wednesday evening, and as it will take a few days to repair the damage the water supply will be limited.

James Beasley is making arrangements to build a residence on his Buchanan street property.

At a recent meeting of the Chelsea Cornet Band, Louis Burg was elected as the leader of the organization.

Dr. J. T. Woods has purchased of Jas. Beasley a vacant lot on Buchanan street opposite the residence of George Leach and will erect a residence on the property this fall.

J. Michael Zahn died at his home in Freedom, Saturday, July 28, 1900.

The Modern Woodmen of America gave a banquet at the town hall last evening in honor of W. L. Plummer, who has been the one instrumental in organizing the Camp at this place.

LaFayette Grange was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fletcher on Wednesday evening.

C. C. Dorr of Sharon and A. Wood of Saline left for Texas last Friday with three carloads of sheep.

Haying is being pushed at full speed on the big marsh in the eastern part of Sharon township. People are coming from all directions to get a dip. It is reported by a man whose word can be relied upon that from where he was working at one end of the marsh he counted nine teams, three single horses, 19 men and one woman, all of whom are engaged in collecting the precious crop.

John Broesamle of Iowa is visiting his mother at Francisco.

Cyrus Updike has sold his farm in Sylvan to Liebeck Brothers.

The oats hereabouts (North Lake) are all cut and many of them stacked. They are a good yield. All spring crops are doing finely, thanks to the timely rains, from the lack of which we have suffered so much in former years. Last year we had no rain from the middle of July until October. It is about 18 years since we had as much moisture at this date as we have at present.

John P. Foster caught a four pound black bass in Johnson Lake on Monday.

The guards on the special western express that goes through on the Michigan Central take no chances on a hold-up. Very recently when the train was opposite the Ann Arbor Water Co.'s plant it stopped suddenly. The guards jumped off and with leveled Winchesters made some men who were riding between the cars get off.

Men engaged in cutting hay on the large Pierce marsh killed seven rattlesnakes on Tuesday.

A company of young men who are camping in a tent at North Lake took a trip on Saturday. They left North Lake at noon, walked to Pinckney. From Pinckney they traveled by rail to Hamburg, Lakeland and Whitmore Lake. Changed cars at Whitmore Lake for Ann Arbor, arrived in Chelsea on the late train, then walked to North Lake. The entire trip was 65 miles, 14 of which were covered on foot, and their expense was 22 cents.

Sticker Permits Good in Michigan

When Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald extended the use of windshield stickers until September 1, with the consent of a majority of the legislature, it was decided that other states would not be notified of the action.

This means that Michigan motorists operating their cars after August 1 with 1933 plates and a windshield permit, are liable to be detained if they travel beyond the Michigan borders.

Interest in politics in Michigan is decreasing if the number of candidates filing with the Department of State can be taken as a criterion.

In 1932 a total of 245 candidates were certified by the department for senator, governor, lieutenant governor, congress and the state legislature. This year petitions were filed for 217 candidates but six filed written notice with the department asking that their petitions be withdrawn.

Large Crowd Enjoys Farmers Day Events

Either the romance of Michigan's lumbering days or a desire to get the latest news on farming drew 5,000 people to the Annual Farmers Day, a crowd intent on hearing the talks of Elmer Beamer-Blissfield, president of the National Livestock Shippers Association, and of Dr. George B. Wehrwein, University of Wisconsin.

cannot be fed. All the agencies of the College will be used to help in moving the cattle with the least possible loss. Attempts will be made to take stock to the few districts in the state where there is some surplus forage.

The Farmers Day choir singing contest drew many entries. The prize winners in Class A were Howard City Methodist, first; Grass Lake Federated, second; Walled Lake Methodist, third; and Bristol Methodist, fourth. Class B winners were Stockbridge Methodist, first; Adrian Township Congregational, second; Marcellus Methodist, third; Gallien Methodist, fourth; South Blendon Reformed, fifth; and Wheatfield Methodist, sixth.

The plots are located on Mt. Hope Ave., one mile south of the College campus. Tests of the effects of phosphate and potash in varying amounts, alone and in combination, furnish some of the most striking lessons on muck farming. The effects of the different amounts of fertilizer ingredients are readily seen. Tests of nitrates are also shown.

Ques.—In what State is Yellowstone Park located?
Ans.—Nearly the whole of Yellowstone Park is located in the extreme northwest corner of Wyoming. It extends one mile into Idaho all along the Park's western boundary, and two and one-half miles into Montana on the full length of its northern boundary.

JACKSON—During a 10-hour period on Tuesday, the memorable day when Jackson thermometers soared to 104 and points north, the fire department answered 22 grass fire alarms. One house and barn were destroyed, but the other fires caused slight damage.—Evening Star.

HILLTOPS CLEAR
By EMILIE LORING
A story of love and of adventure, breath-taking and thrilling, with the crisp and fragrant Maine woods for a setting. This delightful tale of a girl who finally found happiness in a world from which she had run away is to be published serially in these columns. You will enjoy it from beginning to end.

TECUMSEH—Lenawee's intense heat wave and drought was broken last night about 8 o'clock by a wind, rain and electrical storm in which a youth was killed near Rome Center, buildings, trees and corn were leveled, and practically all sections of the county received a generous amount of rainfall that still continued this morning (Thursday).—Herald.

Ques.—I have been told that thunder will turn milk sour. Is that true?
Ans.—No. Milk turns sour because a certain kind of germ grows in it, known as the lactic acid bacterium. The common idea that thunder will turn milk sour comes from the fact that thunder usually occurs on a very hot day—and it is the hot day that sours the milk, not the thunder.

Bahnmiller of Chelsea was the oldest member in attendance, while the youngest was Dale Lindemann of Dexter. The 1935 reunion will be held at Pleasant Lake, Jackson county.

WANT DAREDEVIL

Like a page torn raggedly from those engrossing tales of the "Suicide Club" comes the invitation by way of a classified advertisement in this issue of The Standard for a young man to risk his life and limbs—for a consideration.

If he wins he comes out of the ordeal richer. If he loses—but then—no young man who would take up such a challenge would consider for a moment the possibility of failure. Five minutes of hair-raising, breath-taking excitement is all the feat would take.

Though the reward is not stipulated in the advertisement, it is understood that the doers of the death-defying stunt will be given several hundred dollars, if they live. They will be allowed to protect themselves with special clothing and helmets if they care to.

The Congress of Daredevils of which there are fourteen events at the Jackson fair grounds on Sunday, August 12, including motorcycle races, auto polo, Camille Renaud jumping over an auto with a motorcycle, Mary Wiggins, Hollywood stunt girl crashing through a board wall with a motorcycle, and Ash Can Derby, somersaulting car, Funny Ford and a roll-over car, will be put on this one afternoon only.

12,000 Termites Species Listed

There are over 12,000 species of termites, the destructive insect, some forty of them in the United States.

SOUTH WATERLOO

Mrs. John Papier of Ventura, Cal. and Mrs. Fred Taylor of Grass Lake spent Friday with Mrs. Samuel Harr and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Runciman and family spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Rothman and family.

Mrs. Geo. Baldwin and son of Jackson spent Thursday and Friday at the A. W. Seigrist home.

Miss Mildred Griffith of Battle Creek spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Roland Moeckel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lee of Vandercreek Lake spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Rothman.

Sixty-six relatives from Caro, Ann Arbor, Hilldale, Jackson, Battle Creek, Eaton Rapids and Munith came and gave Samuel Harr a complete surprise Sunday, it being in honor of his 69th birthday. Pot luck dinner was served and a most enjoyable time had. Guests departed in the late evening to their various homes, wishing Mr. Harr many happy returns of the day.

Romaine and Lomaine Denig were Sunday guests of Robert and Myrtle Baldwin.

Twilight Ball Season Will Close August 14

Chelsea's 1934 Twilight Ball League season is drawing to a close, with only a few games remaining to be played. An interesting contest has been witnessed by baseball fans during the season. St. Paul's team, which in previous years has not been a serious threat to the league leaders, has maintained top position most of the season until the past week when the Congregational and American Legion teams have moved up to tie St. Paul's for first position. If these three teams can win the remainder of their games there will no doubt be a "world's series" played in Chelsea immediately following the close of the official Twilight League schedule. The last game of the season, a postponed encounter, will be played on Tuesday evening, August 14, between the Congregational and Methodists. Otherwise, all games will be completed next week, with the following schedule: Thursday, August 2—Trojans vs. St. Paul's. Friday, August 3—Legion vs. Methodists (postponed game). Monday, August 6—Trojans vs. Congregational (postponed to Friday, August 10). Tuesday, August 7—St. Pauls vs. Methodists. Tuesday, August 9—Legion vs. Sea Scouts. CLIFFORD H. GREEN

In an auto collision Saturday evening near Big Rapids, Clifford H. Green of Grand Rapids suffered injuries from which he died Sunday morning at a Big Rapids hospital. Mr. Green was the husband of Elsie Hoppe Young, a former Chelsea resident. He is survived by the widow and two daughters by a former marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hoppe attended the funeral, which was held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Metcalf funeral parlors, Grand Rapids. Interment was at Gratton Center.

WATERLOO

There will be no preaching service at the church next Sunday. Sunday school will begin at 10 o'clock with a special program with numbers by members of Camp Lakewood and local talent. Everyone is welcome. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wahl and son spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Green. Mrs. Dennis Leach and son Roland visited the former's father, George Archenbronn, on Sunday. A very large crowd was present at the ice cream social at Arthur Wals' home on last Friday evening, regardless of cool weather. Thanks and come again.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION by the members of the Old People's Home, Chelsea, Michigan, as Rev. Wm. J. Balmer and Mrs. Balmer retire after seven years' continuous service as Superintendent and Matron of the Home: Dr. and Mrs. Balmer have so directed life in the Home that all deeply regret their retirement. This is a wonderful compliment to come from the one hundred members of the Home family and helpers. We were banded by our nativity, age, environment and intellectual attainments, in the rough and the polished state. We came here for a Home. We found it in the care, life, character, love and good will of Brother and Sister Balmer. Choice souls these, walking with God and working for our interests, watching over us that the last expiring light on earth might gleam from the world's Redeemer. August 1st is the date of ending this service. May the blessing of God enhance health and opportunity of blessing others make our loss their gain. May the roll of Heaven witness our eternal reunion. Knowing the condition of Rev. Balmer's health, requiring rest and care, we welcome the coming of Rev. H. A. Leeson, D. D., to be the Superintendent of the Home and Mrs. E. P. Bennett as Matron. With these and the efficient aid in the Home remaining we feel assured that the continued blessing of the Heavenly Father is ours. We also desire to express our thanks to Dr. Jacklin and the Board of Directors for their wise management of the Home in all its interests. (Signed) Members of the Old People's Home

Murder of Dollfuss by Nazis Creates Serious Situation in Europe—Bandit Dillinger Slain by Federal Agents in Chicago.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

ENGELBERT DOLLFUSS, intrepid little chancellor of Austria, has fallen a victim of his political enemies.

Engelbert Dollfuss

He was shot and killed by a group of 141 Nazis, disguised in uniforms, broke into the chancellery in Vienna and made prisoners of Dollfuss and a number of his ministers.

The chancellor was beaten and shot and left to bleed to death, his captors refusing to permit a physician or a priest to be called.

Meanwhile another small bunch of Nazis had seized the radio broadcasting office and had given out a statement that Dollfuss had resigned and would be succeeded as chancellor by Dr. Anton Rintelen, the minister to Italy.

Rintelen was called to Vienna immediately, put in a cell and there shot seriously. Officials said he tried to commit suicide.

President Miklas called on Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, minister of education under Dollfuss, to head the government, and he, together with former Vice-Chancellor Emil Fey and Eringer Ernst von Starheimberg, the vice-chancellor, took charge of the situation with the help of the police.

Soon afterwards it was announced that Von Starheimberg had been named chancellor in the province of Styria and some other regions civil war broke out, almost at once and the Nazis, strong in numbers especially in Graz, were desperately fighting with the regular army and the help of the Wehrmacht.

Italy, France and Great Britain were conferring as to the best measure to take to carry out their pledges of last February that the integrity of Austria should be maintained.

Italy, especially, was determined that the Austrian Nazis should not gain control of the country and was ready for armed intervention.

Mussolini had 75,000 troops encamped near the Austrian frontier and personally assured Prince Von Starheimberg that he would defend Austrian independence.

The French professed to look on the Nazi revolt as an internal event not warranting intervention at present, but the question of maintaining Austrian independence is one of the few in which they agree entirely with the Italians.

Naturally, everyone blamed Germany for the tragedy in Vienna, for the German Nazis have carried on a long and persistent campaign against Dollfuss, making use of the radio without restraint.

Hitler's government, however, tried to avoid implication in the Vienna uprising. Minister Heith was recalled to Berlin because of his unauthorized action in helping the Nazi group, and Hitler appointed Franz von Papen to succeed him.

The border was closed to all political fugitives from Austria. The German press, always under control, was careful not to express joy over the killing of Dollfuss.

On the side lines, waiting to see what course would prove most advantageous to themselves, were Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Hungary.

The situation in central Europe thus was packed with dynamite almost as it was twenty years ago, and in all the world capitals the danger of serious international repercussions was recognized.

Another general European war may be avoided for the present, but bloody conflict in Austria seemed certain.

For the first time in history a President of the United States set foot on Hawaiian soil when Mr. Roosevelt landed at Hilo. He went ashore there especially to visit the great Kilauea volcano, and being driven to the edge of the huge heap of Halemauahu, he made a sacrifice to Pele, the fire goddess, by tossing a bunch of red chili berries into the crater.

The city of Hilo gave the President a warm welcome and staged a pageant. Then he proceeded to Honolulu for the main events of his visit. His activities there included a review of 15,000 troops and an inspection of the Pearl Harbor naval base. He was entertained at luncheon by Maj. Gen. B. H. Wells, commander of the army department, attended a picnic given by the Harvard club, ate dinner with Gov. Joseph Poindexter and, after a reception at the governor's mansion retired to the Royal Hawaiian hotel at Waikiki beach.

Father Francis J. Hans and P. H. Dunnehan, federal labor conciliators, offered a plan of settlement which was accepted by the strikers, but the employers turned it down, asserting that the Reds were behind the strike and that they would have no dealings with Communists.

Gov. Floyd Olson immediately declared martial law in the city and Hennepin county and Adjutant General Walsh of the National Guard became dictator. The decree even authorized the press to a considerable degree.

Four thousand guardsmen were mobilized and motor patrols toured the streets at intervals.

Following a conference of delegates, J. J. Noonan, president of the Licensed Teamsters' Protective association, announced in Detroit that a unanimous vote bound all unions and continued strike action in demand of an eight-hour day and a $3,000 yearly wage.

Noonan said the next move was up to the shipowners, chiefly represented by John W. Cushing, Chicago, and G. A. Tomlinson, Cleveland.

About ninety tugs have been tied up at Great Lakes ports since the men left their jobs June 1, Noonan said.

JOHN DILLINGER, murderer, bank robber, outlaw and most notorious of America's modern desperadoes, is dead. Traced to Chicago, he ventured a visit to a moving picture theater to see a film of the life of a man who ended in the electric chair.

John Dillinger

He came out of the theater federal agents and a police squad from East Chicago, Indiana, surrounded him. He drew his pistol and was instantly shot to death.

Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the investigating forces of the Department of Justice in Chicago, led his men in this final and successful effort to get Dillinger, dead or alive.

The outlaw had sought to disguise himself by having his face lifted and his hair dyed and by growing a short mustache. His finger tips, also, had been treated with acid. His identification, however, was immediate and certain.

It was credibly reported that a woman had given the tip that resulted in the killing of Dillinger, but naturally, her name was not made public, for five members of his gang are still at large and might be expected to avenge their leader.

The informant is due to receive at least a considerable share of the rewards offered by the governments of the United States, Indiana and Minnesota for information leading to the capture or death of Dillinger.

Attorney General Cummings in Washington was elated by the news of Dillinger's death. He warmly praised the work of Mr. Purvis and his men, who had devoted most of their time for four and a half months to the elimination of the desperado.

Three of the Dillinger gang besides the leader have been killed in battle with the law. Eight others are in prison, two of them under sentence of death.

With the collapse of the general strike in the San Francisco area and the defeat of the radical element among the workers, the longshoremen at all ports of the Pacific coast voted to submit to arbitration their differences with the ship owners.

The latter had agreed to arbitrate and at the same time had promised to bargain collectively with other maritime unions. In the San Francisco bay region there were 108 vessels in port and the work of loading and unloading these went on rapidly.

In other respects normal conditions there were restored. The "vigilante" bands continued their raids on Communist hangouts and the police arrested a number of radicals. The hope that the alien agitators captured can be deported was rather dashed by the attitude assumed by Secretary of Labor Perkins in the matter of deportations.

She is waiting for the next congress to pass the leniency measure that would give her dictatorial power in those cases.

OLE H. OLSON is in the saddle as the acting governor of North Dakota and matters political were quieter in Bismarck. The house of the state legislature called into session by William Langer, the ousted governor, went home after naming a committee to consider impeachments. The senate couldn't muster a quorum and so it quit.

Acting Governor Olson declared a moratorium on every form of debt when the debtor can show inability to pay. It is designed to protect the farmer, small business man and house owner from foreclosure.

All American possessions except the Philippines, Samoa and Guam are now under the direction of a single government agency. The division of territories and island possessions, created by President Roosevelt under authority of the government economy act, has taken over control of Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Previously Puerto Rico was under the War department and the others under the Interior department.

The navy will continue to govern Guam and Samoa, and the War department will have charge of the Philippines until they accept independence voted them by the last congress.

AN executive order given out in Washington, the President set in motion his great reforestation program designed to help the plains area of the Middle West. He allocated $15,000,000 from the $250,000,000 drought relief fund for the beginning of work on a $75,000,000 forest shelter belt a hundred miles wide and extending more than 1,000 miles through the heart of the drought area from the Canadian border to the Texas Panhandle.

Announcement of the President's action and of the gigantic undertaking was made by Secretary Wallace, who authorized the forest service to use up to $10,000,000 of the $15,000,000 allocated to begin work on the project immediately.

AS PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT signed the executive order, he was hearing how long it took time to announce the membership of the national mediation board for the settlement of railroad disputes. The men he appointed are:

William M. Tolson, Attorney General, for the term ending February, 1935.

James W. Carmalt, Washington, D. C., for the term ending February, 1935.

John Carmody, chief engineer of the federal emergency relief administration, for the term ending February, 1935.

The President also named Murray Latimer chairman of the railroad retirement board, created by a recent act of congress.

MOSCOW has finally realized that it cannot get trade credits in the United States until it in some way squares up the old czarist debts owed in this country.

Therefore Ambassador Trojansky and Secretary of State Hull have begun preliminary conversations on the subject, at the instance of the Soviet government.

Russia owes the United States government $337,000,000 which this country lent to the czarist and Kerensky governments during the war.

The Reds repudiated these debts when they seized control of Russia. The Roosevelt administration has firmly refused trade credits to the Soviet government until some sort of an agreement is reached on these debts.

Although the Reconstruction Finance corporation has had an export-import bank set up for months to finance Russian trade, not a single loan has been made. Under terms of the Johnson act, which prevents new American loans to foreign debt defaulters, the bank has held that it cannot extend credit to Russia.

HAVING given nearly three months to the study of the nation's air defense, the board headed by Newton D. Baker has submitted a report which calls for immediate strengthening of the army air corps to meet "the most serious war threat against our country that can be conceived."

The report says the army air forces are decidedly inferior to American navy and civil units that lead the world in strength and efficiency.

The budget bureau and niggardly appropriations by congress are held to blame.

Shortage of modern equipment, resulting from the reduced appropriations and stagnation in promotion of army air officers, the board warned, has affected the morale of the entire army.

The report scoffed at reports the United States was vulnerable to air invasion. It also opposed the unification of army and navy air forces under a separate national defense unit.

First giving assurance that its recommendations do not embrace a national policy of aggression, the board proposed:

1. A national aviation policy to be retained for a "reasonable" length of time.

2. Effectuation of the 1920 act which called for expansion of the army air corps to 2,820 planes with a larger ratio of combat units.

HILLTOPS CLEAR By Emilie Loring

CHAPTER I

The automobile lurched over deeply rutted roads. When it didn't lurch, it skidded. A cold, bone-penetrating fog transformed trees into ghastly giants, houses into weird dwarfs and filled the world. Moisture dripped from twigs and branches. The faint far moan of a busy deflated motor, the grayness with melancholy monotony. The smell of the sea curdled behind the sickly fastened side curtains of the car.

The lean, angular driver stopped the engine and climbed out. "What is the matter, Mr. Puffer?" Prudence Schuyler inquired from the cavernous gloom of the back seat.

"Tires leaky. Guess they'll hold out till we get there, though." His passenger valiantly swallowed an exclamation of concern. She patting encouragement on the hand of the woman beside her. She really needed someone to pull her spirit out of the pit of depression, she told herself.

A motor purred alongside. "That you, Sir? What's the matter? Tire trouble? Flat?" The voice was hollow, muffled, a man's voice. Shut within the curtained car, Prudence could see nothing but the uncanny mist.

"Tires flat yet." From the gruffness of his answer she judged that Mr. Puffer did not care for the person who had halted him. "Has the girl come?"

There was eagerness in the question—a hint of anxiety, more than a hint of arrogance. If the wheel under her could talk, she would have said that its shank was warning her to keep quiet. Prudence decided.

"Gorry-me, you wouldn't expect city folks to come to the country in this storm, would you? Whatta mean is, guess she'll get to the red brick house 'bout tomorrow."

The red brick house! Her house! The voice in the fog was laughing for her, Prudence Schuyler. Why had Mr. Puffer evaded the question? She watched him as he resumed his seat.

"Phone me the minute she arrives, Sir." A grunt from the man at the wheel was the only response. A red tail light shot into the golden mist of its own powerful headlights and dwindled to a spark.

Prudence leaned forward. "Was that voice, which sounded like a demon of the fog, inquiring for me, Mr. Puffer?"

"Yep." "Why did you sidetrack him? Why tell him that I was arriving tomorrow?"

"Gorry-me, you wait an' you'll see, Miss Schuyler. Whatta mean is, by tomorrow you'll have kinder got yer bearings an' know what to say. Len Calloway'll tie you up tight to him, if he can."

"The me up! You're not attending to a matrimonial tie by any chance, are you?"

The driver looked back. "Glad to hear you laugh. When I met you at the station, I was afraid you was going to break out cryin'. It sure is a mean night for you to arrive. Not much further to go. We're passing the Gerard place now."

It was evident that he considered the voice in the fog a closed incident. Couldn't he feel that she was fairly tingling with curiosity? Prudence asked herself. She had better seem indifferent. She said lightly:

"I'm glad to know there is something tangible to pass." "Tain't always like this; just wait till the sun shines. Gerard is your neighbor on the east, that is, if you can call it being a neighbor when the houses are two miles apart. His folks come down only for the summer, but I reckon you've come to stay. Judgment by the truck load of stuff carted up to the red brick house the other day."

For no reason she could explain to herself, Prudence Schuyler evaded an answer. With the intention of turning the driver's attention from her affairs, she suggested:

"Tell me about the Gerard family." Her ruse succeeded. "I'll tell you about the Gerard; perhaps I'll take your mind off the rough going. The estate, which includes plants, building, golf links, mountain streams, an' about two miles of sand shore besides the sea front, belongs to Rod Gerard. His name's Rodney, but the townspeople call him Rod. He's one of those rich fellows you read about who fly airplanes, own a string of polo ponies, an' have a rally to bring up their breakfast, crease their pants, an' lay out their pink silk pajamas—but he ain't a bit stuck-up."

"Sounds like a first family of Hollywood." "Whatta mean is, folks here think a lot of Rod, but he has an older brother Walter an' that brother has a wife, Walt was the son by old man Gerard's

Prudence Schuyler's throat tightened as she blinked at the red brick house she had inherited. Its white trim, its hooded doorway glowing faintly through the fog with a sort of phosphorescence.

A woman, designed on the rutherford plan, with an extra chin or two in the best Rembrandt manner, greeted her in the hall. She looked quickly away from the girl's face, patted her arm with motherly understanding.

"Come right in and wash and take off your hat. Supper's all ready, dearie. When you get something to eat, things'll look different. Life can seem awful dark and dreary on an empty stomach."

Prudence achieved a smile. "Thank you, Mrs. Puffer. This is Jane Mack, who has come to help me keep house. She has been a standby in our family since the first day she came to make little girl frocks for me. Will you tell her where to find things, please?"

As the two women disappeared, Prudence lingered in the hall, slipped off her rain-coat, pulled off her close turban. She entered the room on her right. Her brown eyes, already bleak from emotion, dilated as she saw herself reflected in the long old-fashioned pier glass between the windows.

"Not too bad." She made a grimace at the looking-glass girl before she turned to inspect her surroundings. The room was cozy, homely. Her spirit stirred damp wings. Her back to the far wall, Prudence might not have known that she had seen a few moments ago.

The dining room was cheery with crackling logs in the Franklin fireplace when she entered a few moments later. A huge platter of savory beef-steak, garnished with fluffy white dumplings flanked by plump brown bread, gave out an appetizing aroma. For the first time she had left New York Prudence's heart felt warm.

"Oh, how tempting! Come, Macky, aren't you starved? Mrs. Puffer, won't you sit with us and serve? It will seem more home-like to have you here."

Stark, thin-lipped Jane Mack, her high cheek bones flaunting red flags of excitement, took her seat with an air of being about to commit a social blunder. The rosy-faced stout woman plumped into her chair with a contented sigh.

"Dearie, I'll do just that." After an interval devoted to sipping and eating, she sympathized: "I hope you didn't mind the trip from the railroad station. Seven miles isn't far, but it's a long way to drive over a strange road in a fog!"

"Only so long! I thought it must at least have been a thousand." The satisfying food was ringing up the curtain of depression. "That is unfortunate when Mr. Puffer diverted our thoughts by most interesting descriptions of our neighbors."

Jane Mack made her one contribution to the conversation. "Do you have movies here, Mrs. Puffer?"

"Three times a week in the village. The manager tries to show the films people want to see."

"Does he?" Jane Mack's eyes snapped. "I love mystery and gangster pictures."

Prudence gazed at the thin face in speechless amazement. She had known the woman almost all her life, but had she been taking her to a picture, she would have selected one with de luxe settings and smart frocks. How little one could tell what was going on in a person's mind, even the mind of someone near and dear. She said aloud:

"Now we'll help clear away and do the dishes." "Not you, dearie. You go into what your uncle called the living room, and see if Miss Mack wants to lend a hand, perhaps she'll be more contented to be busy."

Curled in the depths of a wing chair before the purring fire, Prudence looked about the room—indubitably a man's room—when almost over night had become hers. It had the musty smell of furniture drenched with stale tobacco smoke. There was an air of mystery about the closed secretary.

When her uncle had last sat at that desk, had he felt the faint far breath of eternity blowing toward him?

Her interested eyes wandered on. Above the mantel hung the one picture the room presented: a delicately colored engraving of Franklin at the court of France. Benjamin, stage center, bent his head to receive a wreath from the gorgeously apparelled Countess Polignac, while from an alvan, Louis the Sixteenth and Marie Antoinette looked on with royal indifference.

They all had been real once, the girl mused; they had held their heads high while their hearts broke, they had smiled through tragedy, while she, with youth, health, opportunity, and her brother, had fairly wallowed in self-pity these last few weeks.

She sprang to her feet. "I'll make a vow, now, that from this moment I'll forget self-pity. I'll regard this experience at—what shall I name the place which has a lift to it? I know! Prosperity farm! Grand—at large of indefinable longing, the girl looked up at the star-punctured heavens. With a shaky laugh at her own absurdity, she flung out her hands toward the man in the moon.

"Your excellency, I thank you for the royal welcome! Prue of Prosperity farm salutes you!" (To be continued next week) to him? That was an interesting bit of biography Mr. Puffer volunteered about our neighbors. I'm willing to wager my first crop of chickens that I shall detest the Gerard heir. Rich playboy, I have no illusions about his type. If I meet him, I'll be colder than an electric ice-box running on high. Also something tells me that Mrs. Mack and I will be antagonistic from the start. Maybe, though, I won't meet her; maybe she won't see her farming neighbor even as a dot on her social horizon."

"Miss Prue, I'm ready to go up now," lean, lank Jane Mack announced from the threshold. "Mrs. Puffer showed me where to find the supplies. I guess she'll be a good neighbor. Wish I hadn't seen that procession in my tea cup, though."

"Now, Macky, don't look for trouble in tea grounds; haven't we had enough fairly sitting in our laps these last weeks without hunting out more? Come on up, let's see the rest of the house."

Interest in Prue's eyes glowed into excited anticipation as they went, from room to room.

"Macky, think of having a whole house in which to spread out after years in an apartment! We'll make it a dream. We will warm it with color till it makes hearts glow just to come into it."

A faint pink crept under the woman's skin. Her washed-out eyes shone with a lovely light.

"You'll make hearts glow all right, Miss Prue. Your brother said to me just before we left the apartment, 'I'm not afraid for Prue. She'll make a home wherever she is. She'll like her mother.'"

Prue slipped her hand within the crook of the woman's thin arm and for an instant pressed her cheek against her hard shoulder.

"I suppose there isn't a person in this village who doesn't know that my brother's wife ran away with my father's husband," she said in a muffled voice.

"There, there, Miss Prue, suppose they do? 'Twasn't your brother David's fault nor your sister Julia's. If folks here know about it at all, they know that if you make too much of it, they may think there's something back of it all you're ashamed of. I know folks."

Prudence smiled and patted the woman's bony hand. Her eyes entered the room she had selected for herself.

Long after she had extinguished the light, she lay with wide-open eyes staring at the fog which hung like a curtain of gray gauze before the wide-open window. She watched the steamy fringe of water dripping from the window as she lived over the last weeks. As if his heart had not been sufficiently unprinted by the desertion and tragic death of his wife, David, whose health had been undermined by service overseas, had been ordered to give up work and live in the country.

The country! The inexorable command had staggered her at first. How could they go with no money for living? When the crash had come in their fortunes six months before, she had opened a studio and had worked professionally at what had been a delightful avocation—the craft of a designer and maker of jewelry and silver boxes. Each month had seen an increase in the number and importance of her orders; then had come the command to go to the country, which had meant that she must give up her shop.

While she was struggling with her problems and doggedly assuring herself that she would find a way to relieve the situation, a way opened, but not from her effort. Her father's brother, Austin Schuyler, had invested part of his small fortune in an enterprise, then had made the dream of years come true by buying and stocking a Maine farm with the remainder. For the first time in his life, he had said, he had what he wanted—and then one morning he didn't wake. He had willed the Maine property and five thousand dollars in cash to his niece Prudence.

The legacy had providentially answered the on to the country problem. Now that the strain was eased, she had had a confused remembrance of the days during which she had cleared and sub-leased the apartment. At the last moment, Jane Mack had begged to go with her. Her eyes were giving out for sewing, she had said, but she knew almost everything there was to know about a house—she had been trained by a New England mother.

Prudence had hugged her in her relief. Jane Mack might be grim and a confirmed pessimist but she could cook, while she herself farmed and, at opportunity and time allowed, worked at her craft.

Could she afford to keep Si Puffer as helper on the place? Her thoughts ran on. She couldn't afford not to be interested in present. Already he had stood like a guardian angel between her and the vice in the fog; how he had greeted the name, "Len Calloway"! What had the man wanted? Something which she demanded had antagonized her. "To-morrow" was almost here. Soon she would know.

The muflin hangings swung into the room like two frail, transparent wings. Had the wind changed?

She ran to the window. The fog had cleared as if by magic. With a surge of indefinable longing, the girl looked up at the star-punctured heavens. With a shaky laugh at her own absurdity, she flung out her hands toward the man in the moon.

"Your excellency, I thank you for the royal welcome! Prue of Prosperity farm salutes you!" (To be continued next week)

NOW THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the south front door of the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, on the third day of August, A. D. 1934, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day; which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situate and being in the city of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, to-wit: Lot number sixty-four (64), Granger & Bixby's Addition to the city of Ann Arbor, according to the recorded plat thereof, as recorded on page 11 in Liber 3 of Plats in and for Washtenaw County, Michigan, subject to the following restrictions: that no building other than one single private dwelling house and appropriate out-buildings shall be constructed or maintained thereon, and that any such dwelling house shall cost not less than $3,500.00 and shall be placed not nearer than 35 feet from the south line nor nearer than 15 feet from the east line of said lot, and that said lot shall be kept free from junk, rubbish and other material until such time as materials are needed for the construction of said dwelling house and out-buildings, and further that these restrictions shall run with the land." The Board of Regents of the University of Michigan, Mortgagee. BURKE & BURKE, Attorneys for Mortgagee. Business Address: Ann Arbor, Michigan. Dated May 10th, 1934. MORTGAGE SALE Default having been made in the terms of a certain mortgage executed by Dugald Duncanson and Iola Duncanson, husband and wife of Ann Arbor, Michigan, to Jane E. Roberts of Ann Arbor, Michigan, which said mortgage is dated the 11th day of December, 1925 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan, on the 11th day of December, 1925 in Liber 174 of Mortgages, on Page 13, which said mortgage was afterward on the 27th day of April, 1931 assigned to Otis M. Hall, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County on April 29th, 1931 in Liber 20 of Assignments on Page 501; which said Assignment was set aside by a Decree of the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, made and entered on the 4th day of November, 1933 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County in Liber 809 on Page 304, and said Jane E. Roberts is now the owner of said mortgage, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal the sum of $900.00 and interest amounting to $240.00, making a total of $1140.00, all of which has been paid due for thirty days, and an attorney fee of $35.00 as provided by law and said mortgage and no suit or proceedings at law have ben instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Therefore, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, on Monday the 22nd day of October, 1934, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, Eastern Standard Time, the undersigned will sell at the South Front Door of the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw is held, at Public Auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount so due as aforesaid on said mortgage with six and one half per cent interest and all legal costs and attorney fees, to-wit: Lot number fifty-one (51) in Fairview Heights Subdivision, Ypsilanti township, Washtenaw County, Michigan, according to the recorded plat thereof. Dated: July 10, 1934. JOSEPH C. HOOPER, Circuit Court Commissioner, Washtenaw County, Mich. POLLOCK and FLORES, Attorneys for Plaintiff, 419 First National Bldg., Ann Arbor, Michigan. July 12-Aug 26

The Time to Be Glad

by LAWRENCE HAWTHORNE

A young man lives in the future; An old man lives in the past; For Youth, time is moving too slowly, For Age, it is moving too fast.

A young man dreams of the gladness The years just before him will bring; An old man dreams of his pleasures When life held the magic of Spring.

But Youth and Age are in error! The present alone can convey The joy and cheer and contentment. We seek as we journey life's way.

Today is the time to be happy! No matter how young or how old, It's always Today that must bring us The blessings our fortunes unfold.

Popular Carnation Known Before Sixteenth Century

The early history of the carnation is, unhappily, involved in obscurity, the earliest record of the plant dating no further back than the beginning of the sixteenth century, when Bishop Douglas mentions it among other garden flowers, notes a correspondent in the Kansas City Star. It is safe to assume the carnation was in cultivation much earlier than we are able to trace by any written record, and not improbably it was no uncommon plant. Turner's remark in "Libellus," where he calls it Incarnatio, favors that supposition. Recorded in "Hakluyt," written in 1583, the word referring to the plant occurs as if in common use. It was not until Gerard published his "Herbal" in 1597 that the extent to which the carnation was cultivated and the great numbers of varieties that were at the time grown in gardens, can be gauged fully. It then suddenly bursts upon our ken a fully developed flower, already divided into sections, the plants differing from each other in the habit of growth and cultural requirements, but alike in the remarkable range of colors embraced by each. It was said varieties were introduced from various countries, but Gerard's declaration that "every climate and country bringeth forth new sorts" is no doubt more consistent with fact.

Emerald Said to Promote Friendship, Conquer Sin

The emerald is regarded as an emblem of success in love; its green color is said to promote friendship and constancy of mind, while other authorities attribute to it the meaning of immortality and conquering of sin, writes an authority in the Kansas City Star. Even in the days of Egypt this stone was highly esteemed; he wrote of emeralds: "Neither did nor slande, nor yet the light of a candle, causes them to lose their luster." The fresh color of emerald was supposed to be good for the eyes (bearing out modern optical opinion on the restful qualities of green), Pliny says, "There is not a gem or precious stone that so fully possesseth the eye, and yet never contenteth it with satiety. Nay, if the sight hath been wearied and dimmed by tentative poring upon anything else, the beholding of this stone doth refresh and restore it again."

The finest emeralds in the rich velvet and grass green color come from the South American republic of Colombia, the lighter green emeralds from Tukwaja, Asiatic Russia, and New South Wales. Among poetical references are the lovely lines from Coleridge:

"I mark the glow-worm, as I pass, Mow with 'green radiance' through the An emerald of light." Females Dominate. Females dominate in insect life, declares a European scientist, and there are signs among human beings that females are gradually getting control.

State's Corner Cut Off Owing to a loop or double bend in the Mississippi river there is an area of about ten square miles in the extreme southwest corner of Kentucky that can not be reached from the rest of the state without passing through a part of Missouri or Tennessee. By the treaty of 1783 with Great Britain, the middle of the Mississippi became the western boundary of Kentucky, which was then part of Virginia. Kentucky successfully claimed the detached area because Missouri has no claim to territory on the opposite side of the river, and Tennessee could claim no territory north of the line 37 degrees and 30 minutes north latitude.

Told by the Ring There is an amusing old theory that a ring worn on the first, or index, finger was a sign that the wearer was willing to marry, but "bespoken"; when the engagement took place, a ring was worn on the second finger. On the third finger, of course. It said that the wearer was married; while those independent people who desired to publish to the world that they were neither desirous of, nor interested in, marriage put a ring on the little finger. But, apart from engagement and wedding rings, to which the third finger of the left hand is now dedicated, most people put rings on any finger they fancy.—Answers Magazine.

"Foolscap" Paper

The original dimensions of "foolscap" paper were 18 by 10 inches. Today, says G. B. Turner in the Kansas City Times, paper so described is usually 8 by 18 inches, the equivalent of the original-sized sheet folded once over and cut. Its name is traced to a very ancient error, that of corrupting into "foolscap" the original spelling, which was "folio-capo," meaning in Italian "folio-sized sheet." This error led in the Middle Ages to impress upon such paper a watermark depicting a fool's head with cap and bells, the indignity of the court jesters of the time.

Boston Innkeeper Ordered to Deliver Mail in 1639

Until 1639 there is no trace of a postal system in America. In the winter of that year one Richard Fairbanks, Innkeeper of Boston, was ordered by the general court to keep his house open for all letters "brought from beyond the seas, or . . . to be sent thither." The colonists were not compelled to leave their letters with him, but he was under obligation to deliver them "according to their directions."

This action, as far as can be discovered, was the first effort on the continent to provide a post-office.

During the colonial period post riders and shops were the most common means of mail transportation. The stage coach was not introduced regularly until 1785. Five years thereafter there were only 20 mail contracts (65% depending to the number of stage-coach routes) in existence.

The greatest difficulty was with the slowness and uncertainty of the mails. Carriers not only made out their own schedules but set them aside at their own pleasure. If the day on which mail was to leave or arrive was known it was considered sufficiently definite.

Up to 1872 there apparently was no arrangement for the transmission and delivery of domestic letters. In December of that year there was an effort to start a monthly post between New York and Boston, originating with Francis Lovelace, governor of New York.

Cost of Engraving Stamps

The Post Office department says: The cost of engraving a new postage stamp is from $300 to $500, depending on the size of the stamp and the amount of detail work. However, the department's preliminary studies for this expense through the sale of the new stamps to collectors. Therefore, every new stamp issued is a source of profitable revenue to the government.

Balloon Found Inside Cod

Fishermen found inside a cod caught in the North sea a toy balloon sent up from Hendon, England.

Beware These Perfumes; Some Have Caused Death

Our craze for perfume is an echo of the King Solomon's days, but not all scents are "sweet-smelling savors." Certain trees breathe out poison, and would beddle the traveler who rests beneath their shade, writes an authority in Tit-Bits Magazine.

The slopes of Chilli is a tree which the natives look upon as being possessed of an evil spirit. Many innocent travelers have crept under its branches during the heat of the day, and paid for its shade with their lives. After resting under one of these trees for a short time, the hands and feet of a traveler become swollen, as in a case of snake-bite, and the surface of the skin is covered with boils. British visitors in the vicinity of Valparaiso have succumbed to the influence of this tree.

The trumpet flower, or datura, found in most tropical countries, although not deadly in the open air is highly dangerous in a room. Fascinated by its coloring and scent, uninformed people take it indoors and soon fall into a trance, developing into a deadly stupor, from which they may never awaken. If this trumpet flower were brought into a sick room and left for the night, it would mean certain death for the patient. Recently, in South America, an accusation of murder was brought against a family who were said to have profited financially by the death, in their house, of a wealthy relative. It was found that trumpet flowers had become mixed with others in a vase, which was allowed to stay in the house all night and had caused the death.

Greek Culture in Old Egypt

Astonishing proof of the extent to which Greek culture and art had penetrated Egypt and Nile valley in the five centuries following the accession of Ptolemy I was unearthed at Hermopolis, where murals of Homeric legends were found. Supporting this painted testimony is a series of small temples and tombs which, when cleared, showed a strange admixture of Greek architecture to the customary Egyptian forms.—Literary Digest.

The word "tin," when descriptive of cans, inexpensive kitchen utensils, toys and similar articles, is a misnomer, declares G. H. Fisher in the Kansas City Times. Strictly speaking, all tinware consists of things made of tin-plate, thin sheets of iron, or steel coated with pure tin to prevent rusting. This process, known as "tinning," involves dipping the sheet-iron or steel in a bath of molten tin. Tin itself is a white, lustrous, highly malleable and ductile metal, too pliant to be of value as the sole metal in articles that require much handling or hard usage.

SHARON

There will be no services at the Community church next Sunday, August 5, on account of Rev. Wolf being on his vacation. However, on Sunday, August 12 there will be services at the usual time. The ice cream social sponsored by the Ladies' Aid and held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Hagedorn last Friday evening was well attended and netted the society about $23.
