State May Reconsider Sale of Cement Plant

More than two hundred citizens of Chelsea and Dexter attended the mass meeting which was held in the local high school building last Friday night. Burnett J. Abbott, secretary of the state administrative board, was present at the meeting to answer what questions he could in regard to the action of the administrative forces in rejecting bids for sale of the state-owned cement plant at Four Mile Lake.

No real satisfaction coming from the meeting, a committee was appointed to confer with the administrative board in an effort to secure the facts of the case. Several members of the committee were in Lansing on Tuesday where they conferred with some members of the board.

According to the report of the local committee it is probable that the matter will be reconsidered and the bids for purchase of the plant will be further investigated before the state proceeds with dismantling operations.

The official boards of both Chelsea and Dexter have petitioned the administrative board to reopen the case and there will no doubt be some definite action within the next few days.

The controversial cement plant issue came very close to being settled for all time Wednesday evening when fire threatened the structures after breaking out in the coal storage building near the front of the plant. This storage building was completely destroyed, and there was some damage to the building where coal is pulverized, the warehouse, mill building and packing plant. The extent of the damage has not been estimated, but will not be a large amount, according to reports. The Chelsea pump was called and aided in saving buildings surrounding the coal storage plant.

School At Rogers Corners To Observe 100th Anniversary

Plans have been completed for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Rogers Corners school, District No. 2, Freedom township, on Sunday, August 19, when an all day get-together meeting will be held on the school grounds.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. in both Zion and St. John's churches, followed by a basket dinner on the grounds from 11 to 2:00. The afternoon program will begin at 2:30. Following is a short history of the District:

During the years of 1834-5, the school of this community was held in the homes of the members. The officers were Lyman Williams, chairman; Daniel G. Rouse, director; Levi Rogers, clerk.

In 1835, $100.00 was raised to build the first school house of logs, and buy a stove.

This building stood until 1843, when a frame school was built and furnished for $270.00. It was painted red.

In 1877 the present brick school was built for about $1060.00, by Jacob James. The records show that D. F. Rockwell was the first teacher, and received $56.00 for the term.

An interesting program is being arranged by the committee and will be published next week.

The public is invited to attend all of the day's events.

Local Girls To Compete for 'Queen of the Fair'

Queen of the Fair is about to be nominated. Here is how she will be selected—the nominating blank printed below is to be used to nominate your favorite Miss. She must be unmarried and between the ages of sixteen and twenty-five. She must be a bona-fide resident of Washtenaw county.

From the young ladies nominated in each city, town and village in the county there will be selected by a committee one to represent her city, town or village. The one selected will represent her community at the Washtenaw County Fair and will be the guest of the Fair Society. From this group will be selected the Queen, and the prize to the Queen will be a trip for her and her mother to the World's Fair at Chicago. Suitable prizes to all who are selected to represent their community will be given.

Miss Chelsea will be selected at the Princess Theatre on Monday evening, August 20, and the nominating petition printed at the bottom of this page is to be used to name your favorite Miss of this community. Mail the nomination to the Chelsea Standard on or before Saturday, August 18.

All the young ladies selected locally will appear on the stage at the Princess Theatre on August 20 and a group of five judges will be selected to name the one who will represent the community at the Washtenaw County Fair as Miss Chelsea, to compete with those from other communities of the county for the title of Queen of the Fair. An attractive prize will be awarded locally to the one who will be selected as Miss Chelsea.

On Thursday evening, August 23, all the girls selected to represent their communities at the Fair will be present at the Michigan Theatre, Ann Arbor, where they will be introduced. They will be guests of the Fair and the Queen of the Fair will be chosen on August 29, the second day of the Fair.

There are many young ladies in this village and vicinity who can offer real competition in the county contest and it is believed a large number will be nominated to appear at the Princess Theatre to compete for the title of Miss Chelsea. Send in your nominating petition at once!

Sea Scouts Arrive Safely In Chicago

The Ypsilanti and Chelsea Sea Scouts, who sailed on the S. S. Truant, a U. S. Navy vessel, from Detroit to Chicago, arrived in Chicago on Saturday, landing shortly before noon at the Naval armory dock, where they were greeted by representatives of the navy, the Chicago board of commerce and the Century of Progress.

They marched in parade formation to the Fourteenth St. entrance of the exposition, down the famous Avenue of Flags and were disbanded at the Hall of Science.

The Sea Scouts were guests of the exposition Saturday afternoon and Sunday, and planned to leave Chicago at midnight for the return trip to Detroit, with a schedule stop at Mackinaw.

The boys enjoyed the short leave at Chicago and the exposition, and were looking forward to a pleasant trip home. They will return the latter part of the week.

OUR NEIGHBORS

WAYNE—Beautification of the Rouge River valley through Wayne is scheduled to begin this week or next, Charles Goudy, D. P. W. superintendent stated Wednesday. The project will be carried out as a part of the CERA program in Wayne and Goudy has been assured that definite approval of CERA officials will be forthcoming.—County Review.

MILAN—Milan was assured of a new cement bridge over the Saline river on US-23 this week by the State Highway department. The condition of the present structure is such that repairs would be very expensive and in its present condition is unsafe for heavy traffic.—Leader.

WILLIAMSTON—During the past two years there has been considerable discussion of the formation of a historical collection to be centered at the high school. Interested citizens have taken considerable interest in this matter, which has finally resulted in the Board of Education planning on using a spare small room for this purpose. Some very fine cases have been built at a moderate expense to hold the various articles which will from time to time be donated or loaned to the collection.—Enterprise.

NORTHVILLE—Payment of $638,000 started at the Depositors' State Bank on Wednesday. The release of the large sum of money by the R. F. C. completes the payment of the 60 per cent moratorium fund three and a half years ahead of time.—Record.

TECUMSEH—Elva L. Richard of Macon comes through with the prize heat story of the season. If you've got one better, step up. Miss Richard declares that last Thursday she found a hen's nest in a tall clump of grass with a south and west exposure. The nest held four fresh eggs. Miss Richard took the eggs to her home and prepared to cook them but discovered they already had been cooked by the hot sun of the preceding day.—Herald.

BROOKLYN—The Brooklyn post office was just 100 years old last Saturday, July 28. It was established by Calvin H. Swain who founded the village in 1822, establishing a saw mill, and calling the settlers together for church services. Swain was a hustler as well as a hard worker. He went ahead of others and showed them the way. The village had such a start in 1834 that he applied for a post office and the records show that on July 28, 1834 he was appointed postmaster of "Swainsville," which was the name of the office for more than two years when it was changed to Brooklyn. Mail was brought and dispatched only once each week, when one of Mr. Swain's sons rode on horseback to meet the stage at Springville. It then cost 25c for a letter from eastern friends, and the letters came C. O. D.—Exponent.

PINCKNEY—A letter received from Russell Read states that he and Joe Bailey have arrived safely at New Orleans after a delightful canoe trip down the Mississippi River. They shipped their canoe to Memphis and embarked there. 400 pounds of equipment was carried and they camped out on the way, mostly on sandbars. The treatment and hospitality of the southern people is greatly praised by them. The canoe was sold at New Orleans and they return on foot by the thumb route.—Dispatch.

BRIGHTON—Another chapter was added Sunday night to the story of robberies which have occurred in and about Brighton recently. The Ratz hardware store was broken into and a number of 22 rifles, a shot-gun and ammunition were taken. The burglar or burglars gained entrance by prying open the back door of the building. They would seem to have broken into the store for the specific purpose of appropriating the firearms and ammunition since nothing else appears to have been taken. There was a small amount of money in the cash drawer which was not taken, being found just as it was left when the store closed Saturday night.—Argus.

JOB, AND HIS INTEGRITY

O, that I knew where I might find him * * * But He knoweth the way that I take; when He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold.—Job 23:3-10.

Can you think of a scene more pathetic than was Job when he uttered these words?

Under power of the cruel inventor To deviate, slacken and avenge.

His children were killed by a cloud burst; His herd and his cattle were slain; His dwellings destroyed by fire, His good name besmirched and defamed.

O that I knew where to find him, I am sure he would answer my cry; But his wife only mocked his sad pleadings, "If 'twere me, I would curse God and die."

Job had no Bible to teach him, No John the beloved, nor Saint Paul; No Jesus to carry his burden, Though pressed, sadly pressed to the wall.

Integrity—Treasure of Heaven, No power that Satan could hold; Upheld by omnipotent courage, The reason this story is told.

My friend, if Job had the courage, Integrity will go through, When heaven seemed brass, Each friend to the last, Unkind—unfaithful—untrue.

May you with Bible assurance, With church, and all it pretends, With best Holy Spirit to guide you, Find Job's fruition your end.

—Arthur Carlton.

Magyar Courtships.

Magyars never tire of love making, and courtships often last for years. But when it comes to the actual proposal and arrangements for marriage, that is all left to a go-between. The suitor sends a proxy, a woman friend usually, to begin his wooing by making inquiry as to whether his suit would be welcome. If he is encouraged to do so, he promptly calls in person, but accompanied by a friend dressed in holiday attire, who in eloquent and poetic phrases showers compliments upon the girl and her family and praises the suitor.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

"OH, THEY'RE NOT HOME, AND I MUST FIND A TELEPHONE!"

It's inconvenient and often embarrassing to use a neighbor's telephone frequently. But it would be serious . . . perhaps even tragic . . . should sudden sickness, fire, accident or other emergency occur while the neighbors were away, and you could not reach a telephone promptly.

Why continue the inconvenience and risk of being without a telephone of your own? Telephone service costs only a few cents a day. Call, visit or write the Telephone Business Office to place an order. Installation will be made promptly.

Fly Is Wonderfully Made
Eyesight Is Unsurpassed

Although a pest, the house-fly is wonderfully made, and when just out of the chrysalis, with the sun gleaming upon its wings, beautiful. It belongs to a class of insects known as the Diptera, which means two-winged flies. If we examine it under a magnifying glass we see that on its head are two large compound eyes. This means that instead of having two eyes like most animals, each consists of thousands of tiny lenses. All insects have these compound eyes, and those of the house-fly can be divided up into 14,000 separate lenses. In addition to these, the fly has three more situated on top of its head.

On each foot, and it has six legs, there are two sharp claws, looking when magnified, like the talons of a bird of prey. With these it is able to walk with ease over any rough surface, but it is also provided with molat pads which assist it to run up a window or wall, or walk upside-down on a ceiling. On its pads it picks up and carries all kinds of disease germs.

It has two wings which vibrate at a great speed when in flight. Near the base of each there is a wonderful piece of mechanism, which is really its buzzer, consisting of two tiny drums—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Sleeping Beauty's Castle
The ancestral castle of the Counts of Elts is in Germany. High on a precipitous rock, rimmed with woods and hills, cloud-reaching with its towers and turrets, it is one of the truest to type, the type that dreamers conceive, when they see ladies fair and knights bold prancing homeward toward the end of a romantic day. The Sleeping Beauty is said to have lived in this castle, or rather that the author of the old tale wrote it after a visit into its grand halls. It dates back to the Twelfth Century and has seen many a battle waged about its walls. It might almost be said to be three castles in one, grouped about an inner court, and each of the three has its own entrance. Inside the walls are lined with the portraits of ancient worthies, armor and weapons. All the paraphernalia of legend-haunted rooms surround the visitor—carved doors, old powder tankards, heavy iron-bound chests, a wonderful dining hall and a massive table from which venison and wine must have been often taken in merriment.

Greyhounds Liked by Nobility
The modern type of greyhound is a development from a form which arose in western Asia before the Christian era and was adopted and esteemed in Syria, Egypt and Rome during the classic period. Those dogs were taken by the Romans in their conquest of Europe and later became the favorite of nobility and were extensively used in falconry. The earliest notices of the greyhound in literature are those in Ovid's Metamorphoses and in the poem on hunting by Gratian. The greyhound was so highly esteemed that it was protected by the Salic, Burgundian and German barbaric codes, and Spelman is authority for the statement that at the court of Charlemagne there was a special officer of the greyhound kennel.

Cultivation of Lemons
Lemons seem to have been unknown to the ancient Greeks and Romans, and to have been introduced by the Arabs into Spain between the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. In 1594 the fruit was cultivated in the Azores and shipped to England. As a cultivated plant it is grown throughout the Mediterranean countries and in most tropical and sub-tropical regions.

The hostess served refreshments.

Living Stone
Living stone is a term applied in sculpture to stone in its native or original position as contrasted with marble or granite which has been quarried. The Lion of Lucerne in Switzerland, the Confederate Memorial on Stone Mountain in Georgia and the Rushmore Memorial in South Dakota are among the famous pieces of sculpture carved from living rock.

Curfew, English Custom,
Still Observed in Places

The well-known tradition, "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight" was written about the curfew bell of Chertsey church, near the Thames in Surrey, where it rings every night through the winter until March—as it has done for centuries, notes a writer in the Montreal Herald.

Chertsey is not the only place where the curfew can be heard, for these ancient bells are still rung in many towns and villages. This shows how general the custom was once, and indeed, the ringing of the curfew was once one of the most important customs. Wherever there were people living, there the curfew had to be rung. These were the king's orders.

William the Conqueror was the first king to make this custom a strict law, and every night at eight o'clock the curfew bell was rung, which meant that all fires and lights had to be put out, and everybody had to go indoors. Those found outside by the king's soldiers after the bell had rung were severely punished. As the years went by the rules were made less strict, and the hour of bedtime grew later.

It is said that only in one place was the curfew allowed to be rung later than anywhere else. This was at St. Mary-le-Moor, at Wallingford, in Berkshire, where the people rang the bell to welcome William after his victory at Hastings. As a reward for this welcome the new king granted permission for the curfew to be rung at nine o'clock at night.

Romance of Wedding Ring

Dates to Egyptian Times
The Egyptians of old said that a delicate nerve runs from the fourth finger of the left hand to the heart, writes a correspondent in the Weekly Irish Times. So this finger is adorned with the wedding ring, the left hand being chosen to show that the woman is to be "subject to the man."

Ring posies or nothings were inscribed inside the rings given by men to women in the sixteenth century. The "posies" were composed of rhyming lines, such as:

"In thee, my choice, I do believe,
"My heart and I will be true."
"You see then think of me."
"Not two, but one, till life is done."

The old Misspish ring—a gold ring bearing the word "Misspish"—was exchanged between lovers when they were to be parted for any length of time, the word Misspish being interpreted as "The Lord watch between thee and me when we are absent one from the other."

In ancient Rome special star-rings, dedicated to the Goddess of Health, were worn as protection against disease and plagues. Part of the design of the ring was a coiled snake, the viper having been regarded as a symbol of healing. Perhaps, this was the origin of the so-called "Hallowed Rings" of the Middle Ages—rings made from nails taken out of old coffins, which were supposed to cure cramps in the muscles.—Montreal Herald.

Uses for Camphor

China uses camphor for embalming purposes. India burns vast quantities in its temples. But western countries are the largest consumers; and the United States takes about 50 per cent of the world's total supply. The demand for camphor increases not only when there is a severe epidemic of influenza, but when war breaks out or the moving picture industry is booming. Modern scientific research has found a score of new uses for it. Perfumes, bases, paint thinners, sterilizers, medicines and deodorants are made from various grades of camphor oil. Smokeless gunpowder calls for camphor in its manufacture. Celluloid, used for all kinds of articles, from the baby's rattle to moving picture film, is manufactured from some vegetable oil like cotton or wood pulp, and camphor is the only substance that can make this cellulose base plastic.

Potash

The name potash was derived from the early method of producing the commodity. Wood ashes were placed in a pot and water poured over them from time to time. Then the mineral was extracted from the liquid. This method has even survived the mining of the large deposits of potash which were discovered in Germany in the middle of the last century, and which have since been the world's most important source. Before the World War the Stassfurt and Alsace deposits gave the Kaiser virtual control of much of the world's agriculture.

New Hampshire's Lakes

In the 3,000 square miles with which the United States geological survey credits New Hampshire there are more than 900 lakes and ponds, from a few acres in extent to Winnepesaukee, about 80 miles long. There are 14 mountain peaks that rise more than 5,000 feet above the level of the sea, and an almost uncounted number ranging from 1,000 to 4,000 feet in height. The majority of the mountains are thickly wooded.

The Oldest Band

The honor of being the oldest band goes to the United States Marine band which was organized in 1798. More than a century later, in 1910, the United States Navy band was organized from musicians on board the Presidential yacht, the Mayflower, and the Navy Band. The United States Army band did not come into existence until 1922.

A Fighting Chance

by
LAWRENCE
HAWTHORNE

There's a good, old baseball maxim
That is true of life, as well;
And it ought to be adopted
By the folks who try to tell
Whether fortune will be better
In the days that lie ahead,
Or be full of disappointments
And unhappiness instead.

It's a mighty helpful doctrine
For a man to contemplate
When he's facing loss or failure,
Whether trivial or great;
It will give him hope and courage;
It will show him at a glance
That you never are defeated
While you have a fighting chance.

Any baseball star will tell you
That he plays to get the breaks—
Bearing down just so much harder
In the face of bad mistakes;
And he wins a lot of ball games,
For he knows beyond a doubt
That "a game is never ended
Till the final man is out!"
