Stapishes Celebrate 30th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stapish were pleasantly surprised Sunday, on the occasion of their 30th wedding anniversary, with a dinner given at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jarvis of East Middle St. The tables were beautifully decorated with autumn flowers, forming a color motif of pink and white.

Two large anniversary cakes centered the table, where covers were laid for forty guests. Several gifts were presented Mr. and Mrs. Stapish in remembrance of the occasion.

Guests attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fowler and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Smith, Albert Stapish, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stapish and Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stoffer and children, Irene and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Platt and family and Mary Jane Jarvis, all of Chelsea; Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Shell and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stapish and son of Detroit; Miss Eva Stapish of Ann Arbor; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boltz and family of Monroe and Miss Ruth Lewis of Stockbridge.

Homecoming Plans Nearing Completion

Local interest in the combined 100th Birthday Party and Homecoming for October 5 and 6 is rapidly reaching fever-pitch.

The sports committee, under C. O. Bahnmiller, have drawn up a program of sports which will be of great interest to young and old. Full details of the events will be published next week, at which time the Merchants' Prize Committee will have their lists completed and the prizes to be awarded to the winners. Local merchants generously volunteered to furnish the prizes and from all accounts winning is going to be made worthwhile.

The program committee, Ed. Eaton, chairman, have been very busy and are arranging the staging of a show which will without doubt be far above what might be expected at a homecoming. Big-time vaudeville acts, singing, orchestras, instrumental numbers, quartets and soloists and a grand amateur talent show of varied acts will make up the two day entertainment which will be staged on platforms erected at both ends of the main block. Arrangements have also been made to stage some exhibition bouts each day, which will give Chelsea people an idea of what is in store for them when the Legion resumes its boxing shows this fall and winter.

While the names of former Chelsea residents are coming in, there must be a number of local people who have not as yet handed in their lists, and the invitation committee is asking that they be handed in as soon as possible so that no old timer will be without a personal invitation.

Main street will be the center of activity during the celebration with headquarters in the Kempf-Bank building, which has been loaned to the committees in charge by O. D. Schneider. The registration desk will be located there.

All the supplies at the various booths are being purchased locally and all concessions possible will be controlled by the homecoming committee and all in all it will be a local affair with a big-time air.

An open meeting this Thursday evening, as usual, to go over plans already made, to discuss new projects and take up new suggestions—so don't forget to come tonight, to Kolb's hall and help make our 100th Birthday Party a success!

Hinderer Bros. Safe Recovered Sunday

John Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Steele, who reside on the Weiss farm in Lima township, found the safe taken from Hinderer Bros. store early Saturday morning, June 30, while walking in the Weiss woods just east of the Alber-onion marsh, about eleven o'clock on Sunday morning.

The safe was in a hollow in which rubbish had been dumped at various times and had been broken open and the papers and contents scattered about.

Hinderer Bros. report they have recovered all of their papers. The safe contained no money.

Local Legionnaires Attend Convention

The Sixteenth Annual Convention of The American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary which was held in Traverse City on September 14, 15 and 16 was exceptionally well attended by Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary from all parts of the State of Michigan.

Those from Chelsea who were in attendance were Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Brock, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Hara, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Palmer, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Maroney.

The convention was formally opened at a session held at the Traverse City high school building on Friday morning at which time reports were given by the various chairmen of the numerous state committees. A parade of the 40 and 8 was the big event on that evening.

Saturday, the convention again convened at the high school building in the morning and the regular business routine continued. A parade, in which nearly ten thousand Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary marched, occupied the greater part of the afternoon.

The banquet on Saturday evening was one of the outstanding events of the convention. Approximately one thousand Legionnaires, members of the Auxiliary and guests were seated. Among the distinguished personages present were former Governor Wilbur M. Brucker, and Mrs. Brucker; Department Commander and Mrs. Don Beardslee; former National Commander of the Legion, John Emory; Corporation Counsel for the City of Detroit, Raymond Kelly; former Gov. Chase Osborne; Frank Picard of the Liquor Control Commission of the State of Michigan; National Committeeman Leslie P. Kefgen, and others too numerous to mention. Dancing followed the banquet and it appeared that all present greatly enjoyed the evening.

The session of the convention held on Sunday morning closed the reports of the committees and at noon a joint memorial service was held at the Lyric theatre. This service was extremely impressive and was in honor of the deceased World War veterans. The program opened with a procession, "Onward Christian Soldiers", the colors were advanced by the Department Sergeant-at-Arms and the entire assembly sang "The Star Spangled Banner". An invocation was given by Rev. Frederick Dean King which was followed by a short talk by Mrs. William Love, Department Chaplain, American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Michigan. The memorial address was delivered by Father John Day of Three Oaks, Department Chaplain, American Legion, Department of Michigan. Father Day's address was exceptionally well delivered in which was included "In Flanders Fields". Geoffrey O'Hara sang "There Is No Death", taps were sounded and the audience again proceeded to the high school building for election of officers and decision on the time and place of the next convention.

Lester O. Moody of Port Huron was elected Department Commander for the coming year. He served for 16 months overseas with the Sanitary Corps during the World War and bore the rank of lieutenant when discharged from service at Camp Grant, Illinois. Mr. Moody is at present engaged in the printing business at Port Huron. Al Joldersma was re-elected as Finance Officer for the state; and Emil L. Carlson of Flint was re-elected as Historian. The past of chaplain went to Rev. Frederick King of Traverse City, and that of Sergeant-at-Arms to Joseph McGregor of Birmingham.

Flint was selected as the convention city for 1935 and it will be held in August.

The convention went on record as for immediate payment of the Adjusted Compensation.

A Second District Convention of the Legion will be held in Jackson on Sunday, September 30. All members of the Legion and the Auxiliary are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Elah Johnston of Battle Creek were week-end guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doris Rogers.

Food Supply Ample To Feed Everyone

Emphasis placed on drought stories for the past few months have aroused an unwarranted concern among consumers that there will be shortages of human food, according to the Consumers Counsel at Washington.

Members of the Counsel assure everyone that the food supply for human beings is ample. Many staple foods are available in amounts greater than have ever been required in this country. Other foods which have been reduced by the drought are still plentiful enough to remove any need for worry.

Supplies of wheat, corn, and milled rice will be available in quantities equal to normal or above. Milk supplies will be nearly normal, 90 per cent of the normal amount of butter is in sight, cheese is only 5 or 10 per cent below the usual requirements, and the usual amount of condensed milk is available.

Potatoes are 10 per cent below the 10 year average, beans, peas, and peanuts are 5 per cent down, but all other vegetables are normal in quantity. Citrus fruits are above normal and all other fruits are only 10 per cent below the ordinary supply level.

Eggs and poultry are 10 per cent down. Fish supplies are normal. Pork supplies are the scarcest of any food material, being only 70 per cent of normal. Beef and mutton have been more plentiful part of the year but have declined a little in the last months.

Sugar supplies are normal or above. Vegetable fats are plentiful but lard and margarine are 10 per cent lower than usual.

Unwarranted rises in food prices will be caused by unwise over-buying. The supply is ample for everyone.

Young Republicans Plan Active Drive

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Washtenaw County Young Republican club, held Friday evening in the Ypsi-Ann building, Ann Arbor, plans were made for the Republican campaign preceding the November election.

Four county meetings will be held as follows: Ypsilanti, on Monday, September 24, in charge of Clare Hewens; Saline, Monday, October 8, in charge of Fred Bareis; Chelsea, Monday, October 22, in charge of George Atkinson; Ann Arbor, November 5, in charge of the Ann Arbor officers.

The meetings will open with a short business session of the club after which candidates will be introduced and prominent Republican leaders will speak. The remainder of the program will be in charge of the local committee.

KIWANIAN ENTERTAIN

Local Kiwanians were hosts to their wives, members of the Board of Education and their wives, and the faculty of the public schools on Monday evening. Dinner was served at 6:30 in the dining room of the Methodist church, with ladies of the church serving.

Dr. E. W. Blakeman, formerly of University of Wisconsin and University of California, and now Counselor in Religious Education at the University of Michigan, was the speaker of the evening, taking for his subject, "Adequate Motivation." P. F. Niehaus led group singing, with Mrs. Niehaus at the piano, and H. L. Blecker favored with a vocal solo.

TAX DATE EXTENDED

Action was taken by the village council at their regular meeting Monday evening to extend the time for payment of village taxes to October 15, which is positively the last day for collection.

According to Chester Miller, treasurer, far less than 50 percent of the taxes have been paid, although he has been accepting payment of these funds for about ten weeks.

WIN PRIZES AT FAIR

Geo. Haist and Son of Lima township exhibited a flock of their Black Top sheep at the State Fair in Detroit and were awarded the silver cup for the best flock in the state. They were also awarded the first premium in the wool show at the fair. Mr. Haist is president of the Black Top Sheep Breeders' Association of Michigan.

Chelsea Darkened By Storm On Saturday

Chelsea was without electrical service for some time when the Consumers Power company lines were disabled during the wind and rain storm which swept Jackson and adjoining counties late Saturday afternoon.

About six miles west of Chelsea on US-12 a barn on the farm of Miss Winifred Rank was unroofed, the roof dropping across the lines of the Postal company and interrupting direct communication between Jackson and Detroit.

Forty-five poles were torn down and near Chelsea the company lost five additional poles. Traffic along US-12 was tied up for more than an hour by wreckage strewn across the highway.

YOUNSTER BREAKS LEG

Clair Knickerbocker, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Knickerbocker, was jumping from the top of a bedstead to the center of the bed on Friday evening and had the misfortune to break his left leg just below the hip. He was taken to the U. of M. hospital in Ann Arbor where the fracture was reduced and he will be a patient there from six to eight weeks.

SALINE—The sheriff's department has been trying to round up a band of chicken thieves who have been stealing whole flocks in Bridgewater and vicinity. The latest to suffer at their hands is Otto Gail, west of town, who lost 105 the other night. Sheriff Andres states that his department will appreciate being notified of these thefts immediately they are discovered, as he would then have a better chance of cornering the thieves at the city markets where they dispose of their loot.—Observer.

THE HI-LIGHT

EDITED BY THE PUPILS OF CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL.

EDITORIAL

What scandalous things are done in the name of initiation! Initiation originally meant to start a novice off in a new society or organization (now it means to start a freshman in at one end of the stage and take him out the other—feet first). This start usually consisted of disclosing the deep secrets of the society to the newcomer, quite often on a dark night in some forlorn spot. Merely making one's way to the appointed spot was something of an ordeal. In this way came about the tradition of leading the candidate through dark passages. Of course there were plenty of opportunities for horseplay while they were on their way. From such an innocent beginning evolved the modern hazing. The modern initiation, as commonly committed by sophomores, consists of 99 percent "rough stuff" and 1 percent true initiation. Paddling, whipping, shocking and similar actions certainly produce no sense of brotherhood between the initiators and initiates. This year let's give the Freshmen a little less whacking and a little more backing.

Who'd Have Believed It

Maybe you're wondering what all our teachers were doing this summer. While we were sitting about sweating in the heat or else having some kind of a good time (from first week reports I'd say these were rather scarce, however). Regardless, we did inquire of our teachers their whereabouts during the summer and our results are thus:

Mrs. Dancer had one grand time in summer school at Ann Arbor—8 weeks of school. We can't help wondering if 9 months isn't enough?

Miss Bojore really had an exceptional vacation. While we were practically dying of heat she was going around in heavy jacket and woolen skirts—almost wearing mittens too, I guess—and making good use of line and reel. She says fishing was swell near Alpena. Then just to be a bit more sensational she acquired a husband and six children for six weeks in Ponton, Mich. But wait! there's a catch! They belonged to her sister—who has hay fever and yours truly can sympathize. Well, Miss Bojore took her sister's place as head of the household while her sister was north. Some fun!

Mrs. Steiner was quite simple in her answer. She merely replied that she was at home waiting on her family. It's really quite complicated, though. If you don't believe it try it sometime!

Miss Hazard, it seems, spent her summer in Grand Rapids, and stood up at weddings on the side.

Miss Barrus says that like lots of other people, she was lacking funds to do something really big, so she just sort of stuck around home at Clinton, Wisconsin, you know. She did admit that she learned to cook (you could put 2 and 2 together there, but it might not mean anything and yet it might—so—?)

Mr. Lyons, you're probably aware, was about town all summer, doing a lot of camping I understand, and keeping house for himself. Oh, for the great outdoors! The wide open spaces—Ah me!

Miss Yager, as I remember, went to summer school at Ypsilanti—another one of these people who love school.

On the whole I'd say it wasn't a bad summer but maybe you should ask them. They probably didn't tell me all! Who'd have believed they were so domestic?

Freshman Hopes

The Freshman boys sincerely hope that the initiations will soon be put to an end and they are looking forward to passing the punishment on to coming Freshmen.

The girls of this massive class hope to make new conquests, especially at the Freshman-Sophomore party.

We are proud of our size. To have as much quality as we have quantity is the real expectation of the entire Freshman class.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

After nearly two weeks of school, the enrollment of the grades are:

Twelfth Grade	53
Eleventh Grade	49
Tenth Grade	50
Ninth Grade	60
Eighth Grade	33
Seventh Grade	37
Sixth Grade	23
Fifth Grade	26
Fourth Grade	26
Third Grade	32

HOT DOGS AND CANDY BARS

The Senior class wishes to tell you to bring an extra nickel to the football game Friday and buy yourself a hot dog. The Seniors will be selling hot dogs and candy bars. "Please, please, please," they say, "buy at least one!"

Lobolly Pine in Maryland

The northernmost stand of lobolly pine in the state of Maryland is located near Rock Hall in the southwestern part of Kent county.

Elementary News

The reason why we write this news in such a simple language is to make it possible for the grade children to read it. We understand that they greatly enjoy reading about themselves. Who doesn't?

First Grade

We have twelve girls and fourteen boys in our room.
Miss Yager gave us some name cards.

Second Grade

Nalda Olson and Dean Figg are with us this year. And we enjoy having them with us.
Ellen Loeffler brought us a new Oriole's nest.

Mr. Gentner, we would like to thank you for keeping our bullhead this summer for us.

Third Grade

We have Eugene Townsend, formerly from Summerville, Ohio, with us this year.

Our new song books are greatly appreciated by us all, and we are learning to sing by rote.

There are just as many boys as girls—sixteen of each. Isn't that nice!

We like our Problem and Practice Arithmetic Books and are proud of the fact that we are able to use them.

Fourth Grade

We have twenty-six boys and girls in this grade.

In order to keep some of the beautiful autumn colors we are waxing leaves.

Committees have been appointed to make chairs out of orange crates for a reading table.

Teacher, Teacher!

To take the places of the teachers who left last year, namely, Miss Cash, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Cross, Miss Brown and Miss Williams, we have six new teachers.

Albert Johnson, whose home is Sidney, Michigan, is a graduate of Western State Teachers College in Kalamazoo, Michigan. He will coach basketball and baseball and is an assistant coach in football. He also teaches mathematics (afterthought).

A Detroit man, Leon Waskiewicz, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan, also is here to brighten our fair city. He teaches seventh and eighth grade History and Science and eighth grade English.

Now we come to the female part of the new teaching staff:

Roberta Fowlkes, whose home town is Mt. Pleasant, is also a graduate of the University of Michigan. She teaches Latin and English in the eleventh and twelfth grades.

Martina Georg, who was a practice teacher here last year, likes Chelsea so well she came back to teach Commercial subjects and Economics and History. She likewise is a graduate with a masters degree from the University of Michigan and lives in Ann Arbor.

Mildred Kern, whose home is just over the hill in Manchester, has a lite certificate from Michigan State Normal college in Ypsilanti. She instructs the fourth grade.

Alice Canfield is last but not least. She lives in Benton Harbor and is a graduate of Western State Teachers College and teaches the sixth grade.

Football News

Chelsea High has started practice for the coming season which will open Friday, Sept. 21, at Chelsea with Milan furnishing the opposition.

The team is being coached by Harold Spaulding, with Arthur Johnson acting as assistant coach and athletic director.

Chelsea was weakened by the loss of five regulars from last year's team. Three players graduated and two other boys are unable to play. The team has been working hard for about two weeks and appears to be rounding into good shape for the coming season. Some new equipment has been purchased and the boys will be well attired for the coming season.

There are about thirty boys out for football. Fifteen of the boys are experienced and the burden of putting out a good team is up to these boys. The support of the team will have a great deal to do with its success. So the school and the townpeople's support will be appreciated.

The schedule is as follows:
September 21—Milan here.
September 28—Open date.
October 5—St. Johns, there.
October 12—Belleville, there.
October 19—Saline, here.
October 26—Dundee, there.
November 2—Roosevelt, there.
November 9—Manchester, here.
November 16—Van Dyke, here.

Dance!

The first dance of the season is being sponsored by the Seniors on Friday, September 21. It will begin at 9 o'clock sharp to the music of Al Cowan and his orchestra, whom you will remember played for the Alumni dance last year. Bring your best girl and come. The Seniors guarantee that all who come will have a good time. Let's support the Seniors in their first project by being there.

The days of the "3 R's" have returned for 1,382,630 of Michigan's school children...

Railroad taxes—$7,829,198 in 1933-34—go directly toward the education of those youngsters.

Railroad taxes are the bulwark of our primary school fund. But now those tax payments are in danger.

Unfair, inequitable competition, particularly from unregulated trucks, has so cut into the railroads' income that their tax payments have become a problem. If this situation continues those tax payments inevitably must stop.

To the extent that the railroads are destroyed as a source of tax revenue the payments they now make will have to fall upon the citizen.

Can he afford, then, to permit the job of transportation to be shifted largely from a tax-yielding agency—the railroad—to a tax-consuming form of transport? Is he ready to take on this added tax burden?

The railroad problem is deplorable, but not beyond remedy. It can be solved within our legislatures.

Our next Michigan legislature should see that motor trucks and buses are taxed to meet fully the costs to the public which their operation entails; that they submit to regulations comparable with those governing the railroads, and, in addition, that they contribute equitably to the general expense of government.

Michigan and the "3 R's" need the railroads. And the railroads need constructive legislation. It is only fair that they be given at least an equal chance.

STOCKBRIDGE—The local fire department was called to Millville Wednesday to extinguish a fire in the belfry of the church, which was started when lightning struck it during one of the worst storms of many months. Between the downpour of rain and the new blacktop road west through the village, the fire truck made slow progress. The tar mixed with gravel had not had time to set, and the rain made it worse than a sheet of ice for fast travel. The fire was extinguished shortly after the arrival of the department, the rain keeping it from spreading to the main roof of the church.—Brief-Sun.

34 YEARS AGO

Thursday, September 20, 1900

William Kellogg of Sylvan left for Detroit Saturday where he will take up the study of law.

Michigan produced more than 34,000,000 pounds of beet-sugar during the past year.

Alber & Young struck a flowing well on the farm of Godfrey Elsonman of Freedom last week, at a depth of 48 feet. The water rises a distance of 12 feet above the surface of the ground.

The creamery at this place is shipping from 100 to 120 gallons of cream from this station daily. Two new routes have been established in Freedom, one of which started up this week and the other will start soon.

Mrs. John W. Cappy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Alber, died at her home on Main street, Tuesday evening, September 18, 1900.

The Ladies' Research club met with Mrs. A. R. Welch on Monday evening and the following officers were elected.

OUR NEIGHBORS

MANCHESTER—School opened last week with an enrollment of 306; the largest on record. Of this number, 133 are in the elementary grades and 173 in the high school. There are 16 pupils in the kindergarten, 35 starting in the ninth grade and with 41 in the senior class, the class of '35 promises to be much the largest class ever to have been graduated from Manchester high school.—Enterprise.

MASON—Ingham county is broke. If it cashed all its securities, drew all its money out of the banks and scraped the bottom of its cash box, it could not pay off its trust funds and give the county road commission the money the state has collected for it from the makers of automobiles.

In the face of the balances shown by the books of the county treasurer on September 1, it must continue to pay out of trust funds approximately $80,000 a month for general fund purposes; $5,000 a month for county poor relief; $7,000 for operation of the tuberculosis sanitarium; $5,000 to the county emergency relief commission for soldiers and sailors relief; and several thousand dollars each month for other charges against the county.—County News.

MILAN—A marked increase in attendance was evident at the opening of the new school year this week. The first day enrollment reached five hundred and fifty-eight, nearly twenty over the figure of a year ago on the opening date. The unusual increase can not be accounted for except the natural growth of the community and the changing economic conditions. The greatest decrease occurred in the junior class, where a number of people failed to return to the classes. The high school enrollment includes: Freshmen, 70; sophomores, 58; juniors, 38; seniors, 44.—Leader.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Can you tell me what golf balls are made of, and why they are not made smooth?

Ans.—The center of a golf ball contains a round rubber bag which is filled with paste. This bag is covered with windings of stretched rubber tape and thread. This in turn is covered with gutta-percha or balata, which are moulded on in a steam-heated press. The ball is "pitted" (mashed, dimpled or brambled) in order to give a "lift" to the ball when it is hit with a back spin. A smooth ball would not carry as far as a "pitted" ball.

Ques.—You once stated that boiled water will freeze quicker than water that has not been boiled, and that boiled water will freeze more solidly. Now I would like to know the reason it will do this?

Ans.—No doubt you misunderstood the answer. Water which has previously been boiled will freeze more rapidly than water which has not previously been boiled, and will also freeze more solidly. This becomes a fact because water that has been boiled loses a large percentage of its air. It is understood that in making the test, both boiled and unboiled water are to be of the same temperature when placed under the same freezing conditions. Of course, when two kinds of water are not of the same temperature, the colder water will freeze first, but won't be as solid. That is reason water is heated before making artificial ice.

Ques.—I am told that pigeons and swallows have bedbugs in their nests. Is this how they get into some homes?

Ans.—It is true that bugs greatly resembling the common bedbug infests some nests of the pigeons and swallows. However, they are entirely different from the ordinary house bedbug, and will not attack human beings. Many bats have these bugs which may be termed "nestbugs."

Ques.—I would like to know why barbers' poles are striped red and white? When did it originate?

Ans.—About two hundred years ago and prior to that time all barbers were also surgeons. They not only cut hair and shaved their customers, but they practiced minor surgery—such as dressing wounds and blood-letting. Originally a brass basin was suspended from a red-and-white striped pole. The basin was discarded in America, but it may still be seen in Europe. The basin represented a vessel catching blood and the stripes represented bandages. Barbers in England were prohibited from practicing surgery in 1745, and about fifty years later France and Germany did the same. But the striped pole survived as the barbers' symbol. This symbol became so deeply imbedded as the sign of a barber that it was brought to America, where it became equally significant. It is not known when it originated.

Ques.—Can you tell me in your good paper what kind of government do they have in the Philippine Islands and Hawaii?

Ans.—Hawaii and the Philippine Islands are governed practically the same as any other territory of the United States. They have a senate and house of representatives elected by the people and is presided over by a governor-general with power to veto. The governor-general is appointed by the President of the United States. Five members of the cabinet are native-born citizens of their country.

Ques.—Did dogs once live a wild life? If so, when did they become domesticated? Are they native to America?

Ans.—The dog is native to North America originally in its wild state. The dog family developed two groups, one of which is the common ancestor of our modern dogs, foxes and wolves. The other fathered giant dogs that weighed from 1,000 pounds to 5,000 pounds. Thirty-eight million years ago the first group began spreading all over the world—Asia, Europe, Africa and South America. It was not until the Stone Age, about one million years ago, that dogs first made friends with man and this relationship has continued ever since. Very little is known of their habits prior to that time.

Ques.—I am not a music critic, but I would like to know what is the most popular air in America. Will you answer that?

Ans.—We can hardly answer that, because it is a matter of opinion. Our "devil", however, says "it is the air in an automobile tire."

Ques.—Will you please tell me where the headquarters of the National and Columbia Broadcasting Companies are located?

Ans.—They are located in New York City. Four very large buildings on the Sixth avenue side of Rockefeller Square is popularly known as Radio City. It is in these buildings that the Master Stations are located. The National and Columbia Broadcasting Companies boast of having the largest theater and largest pipe organ in the world at Radio City.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you kindly explain which is the correct side of the highway for a person to walk on, the left hand side or the right hand side?

Ans.—A pedestrian should always walk on the left hand side of the highway, in order to see approaching traffic.

News Review of Current Events

NEARLY always in the case of a marine disaster persons come forward with accusations of negligence and misbehavior on the part of the officers and crew of the vessel concerned. This is true now of the Morro Castle, the Ward liner which burned eight miles off the New Jersey coast with a loss of 135 lives.

George W. Rogers

The ship's master, Capt. Robert Wilcott, had died of heart disease only a few hours before the tragedy, and William F. Warms, chief officer, was in command. With 12 other officers and members of the crew he stood by the blazing ship until the bulk was towed to Asbury Park and beached.

Several of the surviving passengers testified before the federal steamboat inspection board that no alarm was sounded and little or no aid was given panic-stricken passengers by the members of the crew. Then George W. Rogers, chief radio operator, and his first assistant, George I. Alagna, told of the delay in sending out the SOS call, asserting they could not obtain an order for it from the bridge. This, of course, was explained by the usual reluctance of steamship officers to call for help because the salvage charges are heavy. Alagna was put under arrest as a material witness after he had told his story to a federal grand jury. The value of his testimony was somewhat lessened by Rogers' admission to both the board and the grand jury that Alagna had been distracted by Captain Wilcott as a radical and an agitator, and that Alagna some months ago tried to instigate a riot on the ship as a protest against the food served the crew.

The first actual evidence indicating that the fire was of incendiary origin was furnished by Quartermaster Gus Harmon.

"It was like the flash of a 16-inch gun," he declared. "It couldn't have been gasoline because it traveled much faster. It might have been some sort of chemical, all of which would light up when one point of it started. There was a funny, acid smoke coming out of the flash."

Other officers of the ship testified that they believed the fire was of incendiary origin and was fed by gasoline or chemicals, but they could suggest no motive for such a horrible crime. Acting Captain Wainwright said he based his opinion that the blaze was incendiary on two facts: First, because on August 27, on a previous voyage to Havana, there was a suspicious blaze in the No. 5 hold; second, because reports to him indicated that the writing room locker, in which the fatal fire started, exploded. The flames, he explained further, acted "like gasoline or kerosene," and fire extinguishers had no effect on them.

The chief of the secret police in Havana declares the burning of the Morro Castle was an act of sabotage by members of a secret international maritime association that takes its orders from the Communists of Moscow.

The international Typographical union, in convention at Chicago, defeated a proposal by delegates representing local No. 6 of New York for a four day thirty hour week to be optional with each local by a referendum vote. Charges were made that the plan had been instigated by Communists in control of the New York local, who are seeking to wreck the international organization and vilify its officers.

The accusation was denied by the president of the local, which has a membership of 16,500 union printers in New York. Other delegates supplied the convention with circulars setting forth the charges of communistic interference.

In the fifth installment of the senate banking committee on its stock market investigation internal revenue agents were charged with "laxity in enforcement" for accepting, without examination, income tax returns prepared by J. P. Morgan & Co.

The committee presented a long review of evidence that officials of the Morgan company, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the National City bank of New York "avoided" a variety of methods.

"Many returns, particularly of partners in large banking houses, were exempted from adequate scrutiny," the committee said.

"When examinations were made the same laxity in them was comparatively short, in view of the wealth of the taxpayers and the complex nature of their transactions."

"Thus, in 1930, according to the bureau's own records, one day was spent in checking the partnership return of J. P. Morgan & Co. and Drexel & Co., the most powerful banking group in the world."

"This return was not subjected to any field examination and apparently the agent's explanation was sufficient to satisfy the internal revenue bureau that none was necessary."

Lapps Most Primitive

The Lapps are the most primitive people of Europe—nomads, depending almost solely upon their reindeer for food, clothing, home, and household utensils. They are a peace-loving and good-natured race. Though they live like animals, anger is unknown to them. The government of Sweden makes every effort to spread the rudiments of education, and especially hygiene, among the Lapps; though they have accepted Christianity and made it a dominating part of their lives, the practices of civilization make not the slightest impression upon them.

Discovery of Baffin Bay

Baffin bay was discovered by an Englishman, named Baffin, in 1615. Baffin land is separated from Greenland by Baffin bay where the surface of the sea is covered during the greater part of the year with ice, which extends from shore to shore in winter, possessing a slow southward movement. In spring and summer the middle begins to move less slowly southward, leaving navigable passages between the coasts.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Prudence Schuyler comes from New York to Prospect Farm, inherited from her uncle, to make a new life for herself and her brother, David, whose health has been broken by trouble.

CHAPTER II— The second day on her farm Prudence ventures into the barn loft after eggs. She slips on the hay and falls to the ground. Would have been back hurt had not strong young arms been there to catch her. The arms are those of Rodney Gerard, rich young man, who lives at High Legges on the neighboring farm. There is at once a mutual attraction between the two. Rod decides to stay at his home throughout the fall and winter, "looking after the timber." But Prudence decides to make a new life for herself. She is only but that she should know what happened, what a day I am as a guardian.

CHAPTER III— Len Calloway, a rival of Rod Gerard, tries to buy the timber off Prudence's land, but she dislikes his conceited attitude and contracts with Rod to dispose of the trees. On the evening of the day Prudence comes from New York she is visited by Mrs. Walter Gerard and her thirteen-year-old daughter, Jean. They are hateful, curious persons and leave Prudence fuming.

CHAPTER IV— A few days later Prudence comes in contact with them again when she accompanies Rod to his place. A clown comes, advertising a circus in a nearby town. Prudence goes to accompany Rod and Jean to the circus.

"Nothing can hurt him again, Milly. You—"

"So, I've run Milly Gooch to earth at last! Madelonella Milles! And with you, Gerard! She would be!"

With a smothered imprecation, Rodney wheeled to face Len Calloway who leaned against the side of the door. With difficulty he kept his voice low.

"Don't you see what has happened? If you can't keep your dirty mouth shut, get out."

The sound Calloway made was more a snarl than a laugh, though an expression of sardonic mirth doubtless had been his intention.

"I'm going."

He turned to Prudence, who white and still, knelt beside the couch on which Jean was stirring restlessly.

"Any ten-year-old child would get wise to what's been going on between those two, Miss Schuyler."

Rodney Gerard shut his teeth hard into his lip. Prudence could deduce anything from Calloway's voice and implication. What would she think? Milly Gooch caught his hand and with a choking sob laid her cheek against it.

"What shall I do, Roddy? Grand-pops is gone and I have only you now."

Half of her appeal to him was genuine grief; half was staged to irritate Len Calloway who was glaring at her from the threshold. Gerard decided.

With a suggestive laugh Calloway departed. The physician touched Gerard's shoulder.

"You'd better get that youngster home—quick."

"I will."

Rodney bent over the girl, crouched beside the crumpled body of the clown. He freed the hand she still clutched. "I'll see you tonight, Milly. Pull yourself together!" He laid his hand on the bowed head before he turned away.

"Come, Jean. I'll carry you, dear."

The town behind them, Gerard sent the roadster forward along the smooth road between its gay borders of fall shrubs. Once he looked at Prudence. She had her face against Jean's hair; the child's long lashes lay like fringes on her pale cheeks. He sat gruffly.

"What a mix-up! A town burns up. A circus is thrown off schedule. A clown sent scotting. He took a chance on your garden—he'd try anything once—and then a man who hates me lays his hand on my shoulder—and this for Jean—and tragedy for Chicot. Chicot's daughter, her husband, and child lived in the red brick house when Milly Gooch was a little girl. He visited them. That was what he meant yesterday when he said that he had lived in this region."

"I suspected you had seen him before."

"And because of what Len Calloway implied, you have me tried and sentenced, I'll bet."

She did not answer, only moved her cheek closer against Jean's hair. He kept both hands tight on the wheel. Why had he let her invade his life? Why had he allowed her to make him madly happy or so infernally miserable by a look? Rapture and agony. He knew what the words meant now. "I'll drop you at your gate," he proposed curtly.

"No, I will go on to High Legges. I won't leave Jean until I see her with her mother."

Jean opened her eyes and lifted her head from Prudence's shoulder.

"I'm not going home until Mother has gone. There's nothing the matter with me except that I feel kind of daisy; it helps steady things if my eyes closed. You won't mind if I strong quizzed, as he lighted his pipe. "You, and so pretty?" Jean chirped eagerly. "Mother Puffer says that her eyes are like brown pansies and that her voice would coax the birds off the bushes. When she laughs her eyes are all gold spangles."

"K. K., you've been so quiet I had forgotten you were here. It's time you went upstairs. Toodle along now like a good girl."

"All right, Uncle Rod." She kissed him, and with a little curtsy said good-night to Armstrong. The two men rose and waited until she had left the room. Then the forester dropped a question.

"Has this man Calloway by any chance a sentimental interest in your neighbor?"

"He'd better not have."

"Why the growl?"

Rodney Gerard rose impetuously and stood back to the fire. "Here are my cards face up on the table. I'm mad about Prudence Schuyler. I will marry her if I have to move the world to do it. Got that straight?"

"I'll say I got it straight. I can read a 'No Trespassing' sign when I see one, believe me. Does the lady with the spangled eyes realize that she is posted, Rod?"

"It's no joke to me, Jim. I guess the old song's right. Love has a meaning all its own—to different people. Mine is the one-woman brand. The first time I met Prudence I can't explain it to you, but I will think I've gone goofy. I felt as if—as if the universe had been made over and I was reborn with an ambition to gain the world by the tail and a determination to make the girl love me."

"Hanging to go to the deep end, aren't you? Um, pretty serious jam you're in, Roddy."

"It damn well is."

Armstrong laid his hand on Gerard's shoulder. His eyes were warm with attention.

"Back up! I don't know how any girl could resist you. You generally got what you want. To return to our muttons. Contracts made to sell your lumber?"

"Not a contract. I have been with what St. Puffer calls 'hot up' with this fellow—Calloway—that I hadn't thought where I would dispose of it."

"You'd better get busy on that end. I'll give you a list of good concerns; then you'd better hustle after business. Do we start our investigation of the timber tracts tomorrow?"

"Yes," Gerard glanced at the clock.

"You'll excuse me, Jim, if I break away? Something important I've got to take care of tonight. St. Puffer is engaging me to go along with us tomorrow to—"

Puffer appeared in the doorway.

"Here he is now! Come in, St. This is my old friend Jim Armstrong who has come to tell us what trees to take out."

"Pleased to make your acquaintance, Jim. Sorry, Mr. Rod, I'm plumb discouraged. Don't know where you're going to need a forester."

"Why not? What has happened?"

"Now don't fly off the handle like that just because I hint we're in for trouble. What's the matter is, I've been all over the village trying to hire men to cut for us tomorrow. They all had some fool excuse. I cornered one of 'em'—jest squeezed it out of him that Len Calloway had let it be known that none of them would get more work from him—ever! If they hired out to you. He's got 'em scared. He pointed out that you might start out big, Rod, but you wouldn't stick; that this was just a fad of yours, an' where would they be when you quit?"

"I quit!" Gerard's blue eyes were black. "Go back and tell those men that there isn't room in this town for Len Calloway and me and that I am staying."

CHAPTER VI

His challenge to Calloway had been good theater, but could he back it up? Gerard asked himself, as a few moments later his car shot into the highway between the two great iron gates set in stone posts at High Legges. He wanted to reach the show grounds before Milly went on for her act. Perhaps he couldn't help her, but if he didn't, she might turn to someone so disinterested as he.

His thoughts turned back to the first time he had seen Milly Gooch. Her father and mother had hired the old, out-of-repair red brick house for a month and had lived there one summer while out of a circus job. He at High Legges from prep school for vacation, had spent every available hour with the family listening to their stories of the Big Top.

After the Gooch family left the red brick house for the circus, Milly had come each year to visit the Puffers to get "fed up" and some red blood into her. Mother Puffer had told him. He had seen her rarely, but, as she had grown into a stunning looking girl, her long, narrow eyes and her expert use of her hands had caught his eye. Calloway had been just an exciting game with her. She had become engaged to him.

Next no more of her and no more recovered a wire.

"ROD, MUST SEE YOU STOP SHOW IN YONKERS SATURDAY STOP DON'T FAIL ME"

"MILLY GOOCH!"

He could recall even his amusements at the summons. Why had she sent for him? In that far away summer Walter had been more of a friend than he; he had been fascinated by her mother. Of course he would go. He remembered the defiance in her big dark eyes, the whiteness of her face under its make-up, as she had whispered:

"I've walked out on Len, Rod."

He recalled that he had laughed at her—it was unbelievable that Calloway would release anything he once had held. She had retorted:

"Yeah, it isn't a joke. I—well, your brother Walter's been my boy friend. I just burn him up. I'm sick of riding, riding whether I'm feeling bum or not, and having Grandpops out of a job half the time. I'm going to be a lady and be taken care of and take care of him."

(To be continued next week)

Country-Wide Repair Job Launched By FHA

In an ambitious movement designed to lift the lagging construction and capital goods industries out of the doldrums, the Federal Housing Administration has launched its nationwide program to encourage the repair and modernization of residential and commercial properties.

This program is in line with the objectives of Title 1 of the National Housing Act, passed by the 73rd Congress as one of the most important pieces of recovery legislation since the National Recovery Act.

Under the terms of the Act, private financial institutions are enabled to make investments having the same degree of security and liquidity as is possessed by their best collateral loans. The Government makes no direct loans to property owners, but rather creates the machinery by which borrowers may obtain funds from established credit sources with greater ease than even in normal times.

Private industry and public officials alike agree that property modernization in the United States constitutes a national need. Millions of American homes, apartments, offices, stores, factories, and other buildings have suffered seriously from lack of normal care and attention during the past four or five years of depression. It is conservatively estimated that 16,500,000 buildings in the United States have reached a serious state of disrepair, and of these at least 3,000,000 have arrived at such a physical state that nothing short of a major building operation can save them. The remaining 13,500,000 for the most part require only minor repairs, but they are of the character that must be initiated at once to offset serious deterioration.

The Federal Government, through the Housing Administration, will insure lending agencies against 100 percent of all losses, provided the total of such losses does not exceed 20 percent of the aggregate amount of funds advanced for property improvements. This insurance is virtually an iron-clad guarantee of protection for the financial institutions, since the highest known loss ratio on similar types of loans has not exceeded 3 percent.

How To Get Repair Loans

Here, in a nutshell, is the plan for borrowing modernization funds under the Federal Housing Program.

1. A modernization loan is solely for the purpose of repairing, altering or improving your home, shop, farmhouse, store or other building. Diversion of the money to any other purpose is strictly prohibited.

2. It cannot be for less than $100 or for more than $2,000. The borrower must have a bona fide source of income equal to at least five times the annual payments.

3. It can be made for terms up to three years, but may be paid in full earlier than the maturity date if the borrower desires.

4. Maximum charges, including interest and fees, cannot exceed an amount equivalent to 3 1/2 percent per year per $100 original face amount of the note.

5. To get a modernization loan, the property owner must present to the bank or other lending institution a precise estimate of the cost of the improvements and should be able to prove that they are necessary or advisable.

6. In addition, the property owner must file a Property Owner's Credit Statement, showing his financial condition, sources and amount of income and other information necessary to determine his ability to repay the loan.

If the bank considers the improvements advisable, and the property owner able to meet the payments when due, it can advance the money on the personal note of the property owner. The note must be signed by both husband and wife, if the property owner is married. No mortgage or collateral security is necessary, unless State laws or the financial institution's officials demand it.
