Thousands Expected To Attend Birthday Party and Homecoming Here Next Week

FERA Classes May Be Organized Here

The superintendent of the Chelsea public schools is in receipt of a letter from H. Z. Wilber of Michigan State Normal College of Ypsilanti, to the effect that if forty high school graduates of the Chelsea high school or other high schools, who are living in the vicinity of Chelsea, and who are unable to afford a college education, and who would like further education, can be enlisted in classes which may be established in which freshman college subjects will be taught by competent college instructors. The course may be taken without cost to the student except for books and instructional material.

These classes, coming under the FERA, will give college credit which may be used whenever the student enrolls for resident college work.

To establish such classes it is necessary for the Board of Education of the Chelsea public school to provide school rooms, light, heat and janitor service. Owing to the fact that all of the rooms of the Chelsea school are in use every period of the day it will be necessary to start this freshman college after 3:30 in the afternoon.

The superintendent will appreciate it very much if all high school graduates who are living in the vicinity of Chelsea and who are interested in enrolling for freshman subjects at a very slight cost will communicate their desires to him without any delay. Call 257 or send your communication by letter.

Two Political Parties Hold Conventions

Washtenaw County Republicans met last Thursday in a convention to select delegates to the state Republican convention, which will be held today in Flint. Frank B. Devine, Ann Arbor, was chairman of the meeting, and Paul C. Maroney was chosen as delegate from Sylvan township, with Leigh G. Palmer as alternate.

Otto D. Luick was named as member of the Credentials committee, and P. C. Maroney on the Resolutions committee.

Those attending from Sylvan were T. H. Bannmiller, Jacob Hummel, Howard Brooks, Wm. C. Pritchard, P. C. Maroney, O. D. Luick, Walter Riemenschneider, John Frymuth and L. G. Palmer.

A meeting of Washtenaw Democrats, with William L. Walz, of Ann Arbor, as chairman, was held Thursday evening, at the court house, at which Chelsea was represented by Geo. W. Beckwith, J. E. McKune, O. L. Hinderer, Conrad Lehman, Ehler Notten, Charles Meserve and C. W. Maroney.

G. W. Beckwith, J. E. McKune and Leigh Beach of this community were chosen as delegates to the state Democratic convention to be held Friday in Grand Rapids.

Mr. Beckwith will serve on the Credentials committee and C. Lehman on the permanent order of business.

Sharon Church To Be Rededicated Sunday

A Rededication Service will be held at the Sharon Community church on Sunday, September 30, at 2:30 p. m. Everyone who is interested in the cause of the Kingdom of God is welcomed to this service.

The order of service follows:

Final Arrangements Near Completion for Gala Two-Day Event Which Is Sponsored By Local Post of The American Legion

SPECIAL EDITION NEXT WEEK

The 100th Birthday Historical Edition of The Chelsea Standard will be issued next Thursday, October 4th. This issue will contain many historical features, including the history of Lima, Sylvan and Lyndon townships and the village of Chelsea. It will also feature the industrial, religious, school and other activities of this live community.

Because of the additional amount of work necessary in publishing this special number, we ask news contributors and advertisers to cooperate with us by having their copy to us at least one day earlier than is customary. This cooperation will be appreciated.

Working for the American Legion, Sea Scouts will sell this edition on the streets during the two-day homecoming, net proceeds to help in defraying expenses of the celebration. Regular subscribers will, of course, receive their copy of the paper in the usual manner.

Sheriff Andres Will Ask for More Deputies

Permission to add two deputies to his staff in order to form a road patrol for outlying sections of the county and to assist in guarding the new county jail will be asked of the board of supervisors in the October meeting by Sheriff Jacob B. Andres.

An increase of petty stealing in rural villages and farm lands due to unemployment and a "fearful" increase of reckless and drunken drivers makes a road patrol of officers essential for the protection of the public, Sheriff Andres believes. Larger jail quarters also require additional personnel.

A request of Circuit Judge George W. Sample for the use of a deputy on a part-time basis for circuit court investigations is being referred to the board. The court needs an investigating officer to report on the environment and other pertinent facts relative to criminals who are placed on trial, Judge Sample declared.

"Within the last year, numbers of petty thefts in rural districts including burglaries in Chelsea and Manchester and chicken stealing in Bridgewater township have been reported," Sheriff Andres stated. "I believe most of the thefts are performed by unemployed."

"A road patrol of two officers would be able to check on all suspicious cars and probably would prevent enough crime to more than cover the extra expense. The fact that officers are patrolling the county and are apt to show up at any time would be a crime deterrent."

The two deputies, if approved by the board of supervisors, would be paid at the prevailing rate of $1,600 a year. Washtenaw county has the fewest number of deputies than any other county in this part of the state, Sheriff Andres said.

"Another important task of the road patrol would be to arrest drunk and reckless drivers. Since liquor has become legal there has been a fearful increase in such drivers."

HOLD-UP MAN ARRESTED
Joseph Mrowca, 21, Detroit, was arrested last week by Detroit police, cooperating with Deputies Thomas Knight and Dave Gartman of the Washtenaw county sheriff's department, and charged with holding up Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leach in their home two weeks ago. Mr. Leach wanted to Detroit with the officers and identified Mrowca as one of the hold-up men who took $28 from him. He is a brother of the man that worked at Mr. Leach's recently for several days, and is believed to be a member of a once notorious Detroit gang.

NEWLY-WEDS HONORED
About thirty neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rothfuss of Lima on Friday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horning, who were recently married. Progressive bunco furnished diversion for the evening. High honors were awarded Walter Fowler and consolation to Carl Barth. The young couple were presented with several useful gifts.

ATTRACTIONS LISTED INCLUDE MANY UNUSUAL AND INTERESTING FEATURES

Chelsea streets will present a real gala appearance when the Homecoming celebration starts next week, the dates being Friday and Saturday, October 5 and 6. Dr. A. L. Brock, the chairman of the Decorations Committee, reports that Legion emblem banners have been secured and these, with hunting, will be placed over the streets and around the lighting standards. But best of all is the interest displayed by the owners of downtown buildings who have had their store fronts repainted and are making the business district present an air of prosperity. The committee is hoping that this part of the good work will go on until all of the downtown district will be fresh and clean.

The Sports Committee, under C. O. Bannmiller, have arranged a program of events which will include running and roller skating races, pie and watermelon eating and rope-skipping contests, ash-can and toy wagon derbies, greased pole climb and a tug-of-war between the Federal Screw Works and the Chelsea Fire Department and each contest should produce some interesting and exciting rivalry among the contestants.

P. C. Maroney, in charge of invitations, is still ready and anxious to send out more invitations, so if you know of any former resident of the Chelsea district please send in the names to him at the Chelsea State Bank or to the Chelsea Standard office, Miller-Barber Shop or Kolb's Restaurant.

The beautiful poster bulletin at Main and Middle and the various advertising signs on the highways are the work of Henry Swickard, who is in charge of poster advertising for the event.

The Program Committee, under the direction of Ed. Eaton, are arranging varied entertainment and report that the stage presentation is going to be better than anything ever attempted at a Homecoming. A merry-go-round, Ferris wheel, and airplane ride are among the featured mechanical amusement devices which will be provided. Morry Hoffman, boxing match-maker for the Legion, will have feature boxing exhibitions staged each day, bringing in the best of talent from Ann Arbor, Jackson, Ypsilanti, Manchester and other neighboring cities.

Parking facilities will be provided and everything will be done to make our guests comfortable. Rest rooms will be located at downtown centers. Church and fraternal societies will provide hot lunches and suppers, and any organization desiring to serve meals are requested to get in touch with Ed. Miller so that proper announcements can be made from the stages regarding this service.

The general committee wishes to take this opportunity to request the school authorities of the surrounding territory to grant the school children a holiday starting at noon Friday, to enable all the children to participate in the games and races.

Committee Asks For Relics and Pictures

The committee on decorations for the two day homecoming wish to request that all persons having old relics or pictures pertaining to the history of Chelsea will kindly call or see A. L. Brock, chairman. These articles will be well taken care of and properly labeled. Your help in this respect will aid materially in the decoration of store windows.

W. D. HUSTON INJURED

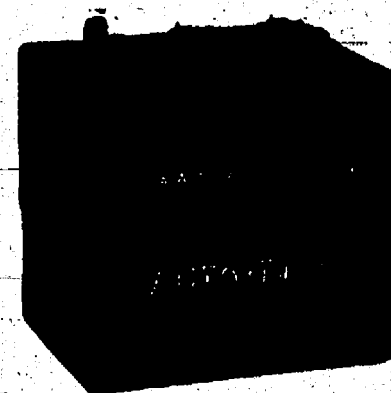

W. D. Huston was severely injured Monday night while driving home from Ann Arbor in the dense fog, when his automobile crashed into an eastbound truck driven by Nathan Fillove of Detroit. The accident occurred near the Steinbach road on US-12, east of Chelsea. Mr. Huston was severely cut about the face and head and was brought to Chelsea Private hospital, where it is believed his injuries will not result seriously.

CORRECTION

An item was published in last week's issue of The Standard which stated that "it is reported that several business men of the town are supporting the Unemployment Council" in their activities. The business men have denied any knowledge of such support, and have asked that this correction be made.

Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of StateNew Auto Sales Up In August
Sales of new automobiles in Michigan were nearly 5,000 more during August, 1934 than during August, 1933, according to records of the Department of State.Last month 13,540 certificates of title were issued on new cars with during August 1933; only 9,460 titles were issued. The sale of used cars, however, showed a slight decrease,
with titles on 34,039 being transferred during the month or 2,206 less than during August a year ago.Half Million Need Licenses Slightly more than 500,000 Michigan automobile drivers must secure new motor vehicle operators' licenses before Jan. 1, 1935.From May 1, 1931 when the new drivers' license law became effective until Jan. 1, 1932, a total of 765,093 were granted licenses. Since May 1 this year, 255,000 have secured new licenses as the old ones expired.The department of state is issuing licenses at the rate of $5.00 a day at the present time.

Oil Industry Showing Gain

That the oil industry is to be a permanent part of Michigan's business life, is shown by the fact that several new crude oil refineries have been granted licenses by the gasoline tax division of the department of state in recent months. All of the new plants will refine nothing but Michigan crude oils.Because of the fact that many new producing wells have been capped to comply with restrictions on crude oil output, it is impossible to determine the actual gain in production during the past year. Despite the restrictions, extensive exploration work is being conducted in many sections of the state in an effort to locate new poles.NORTHVILLE—Coming on top of a record drought and of a terribly cold winter, the damage to fruit in this vicinity wrought by the severe hail storm Saturday afternoon was nearly the "last straw." Hail stones
"as big as hen's eggs" were reported.
They fell for more than two hours all around Northville and were unusually large. Heavy losses were suffered at the Simmons orchards on the Ten Mile road and John Bowers estimates that he lost more than 200 bushels of apples in his orchards on the corner of Nine Mile and Beck roads. Other fruit growers throughout this section also report heavy losses. It is expected that Michigan fruit this year will be less than ever before.—Record.

Made Trained to Catch Fish

The cornucopia, measuring when me-sure about 8 feet long and 3 in extent, easily trained when young, because of their remarkable intelligence, an expert diving bird, is trained and employed in Japan to catch fish.Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—I want to ask you why bees
swarm? Can you answer that?

Ques.—Honey bees will swarm if they get their hives filled with honey before the harvesting season is over for them. In this case they seek another place to continue their honey-making by swarming. Bees instinctively make honey for their own use after they hibernate, but they have no conception of how much they will need for winter. Hence they will continue to make honey some place until after there is no more nectar
to gather.

Ques.—Can you tell me if it is a sign of death in the family when their dog makes a mournful howling
at night?

Ans.—No; this is only superstition. As a rule when a dog makes a mournful howling, it is because he is in some kind of a predicament with which he is not contented.

Ques.—I am writing to ask you how long it takes for mice to become rats?

Ans.—Mice do not grow to become rats. Both rats and mice belong to the rodent family, but they are different species—just the same as sparrows and robins belong to the bird family, but different species.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please state what the population of Los Angeles is? Also if either Wilshire or Reservoir boulevards cross
the Los Angeles river?

Ans.—The population of Los Angeles is 1,238,040. The boulevards mentioned do not cross the river.
Wilshire boulevard lies between Sixth and Seventh streets, and runs due east to Hoover; it then jogs to the southeast about five blocks and ends at Westlake park. Reservoir boulevard begins at Hoover and runs southeast and ends within about one mile from the river.

Ques.—Do potatoes absorb water
from the soil the same as the roots do?

Ans.—No. The roots of the potato plant absorb water from the soil and then transmit it to the potatoes
where it is stored.

Ques.—Which is the correct way to spell the name of the Pennsylvania city, "Pittsburg" or "Pittsburgh"? I see it spelled both ways.

Ans.—While the United States postal authorities spell it "Pittsburg", the correct spelling has always been "Pittsburgh". It was so named and spelled by Gen. Forbes, the English commander who captured the place from the French in 1758. At that time it was known as Fort Duquesne, and when it was renamed by Forbes
in honor of Pitt, the British prime minister, the place was incorporated, and the great seal "Pittsburgh" was legalized by joint resolution of Congress.

Ques.—Who was postmaster-general
in George Washington's cabinet?

Ans.—The postmaster-general was not made a member of the Presidential cabinet until the administration of Andrew Jackson. Samuel Osgood of Massachusetts was the first postmaster-general after the adoption of the United States Constitution. He was appointed by Washington in 1789.

Ques.—I would like to know if the cities of Panama and Colon in the Canal Zone are governed by the United States?

Ans.—They are not. These two cities were excluded from United States government in the treaty with Panama when Uncle Sam took over the Canal Zone.

Ques.—When the President of the United States is commander-in-chief of the army and navy why is it that he never wears a uniform? Didn't James Monroe do it?

Ans.—It is because the President of the United States is a civil officer, notwithstanding that he is the head of the military power of this nation.
For him to wear a military uniform is not regarded as in accordance with American tradition. It is true James Monroe wore a uniform in making a tour of this country while he was President. The uniform he wore, however, was the kind he wore as an officer in the Continental army. That type of uniform was no longer used at that time.

NORTHVILLE—Robert G. Yerkes,
president, presided over the weekly meeting of the Northville Exchange club held Wednesday at the Methodist church house. Back from a recent trip to the east, Mr. Yerkes, in sketching a little of his trip for the entertainment of fellow members, told of his visit to North Adams, Mass.,
the heart of the textile strike area.
In a pullman car, hamburger restaurant, Mr. Yerkes and friends, following a party were enjoying midnight refreshments when in walked six strikers. Engaging them in conversation, said Mr. Yerkes, they were amazed to find that the foreman gets $55.00 per week. His salary was fifty dollars from the factory and five dollars which the union gave him to carry on his strike activities. "The man I talked to was perfectly frank. He said the strike was badly managed;
that it came at a bad time, a time when the mills were idle owing to over-production anyhow. When I asked him to what he attributed the strike he simply said, 'NRA'."—Record.

THE HI-LIGHT

EDITED BY THE PUPILS OF CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL

Chelsea Loses Opener

Chelsea opened its gridiron season
Friday and lost the verdict to Milan.
The final score, Milan 30, Chelsea 0.
Chelsea won the toss-up and chose to receive. Bruckner kicked off for Milan and the ball was received by Dancer, who ran the ball back to the 30-yard marker. After two line plays Dancer fumbled on his own 31 and Milan recovered. Hanson scored the first marker for Milan on an end run.
Bruckner attempted the extra point, but Youngs blocked the kick. After a series of end runs and line plays Chelsea was forced to kick. Hanson received the ball, and after shaking two or three players off he reversed
the ball and accounted for the second touchdown. Bruckner again tried to put the ball between the crossbars but again Youngs came in fast and blocked it. Shortly after this the quarter ended. Score: 12-0, Milan.

After the second quarter started it seemed that the Chelsea team began to click but again they had to kick out of danger and once again that dangerous Milan team took possession of the pigskin. Hanson was again a big factor in the scoring of the third touchdown when he threw a long pass to Bruckner who easily went over the goal line. On a fake placement kick Hanson went through the line for the only extra point made by Milan. The whistle blew, thus ending the first half. Score: 14-0, Milan.

After the intermission Milan kicked off to Chelsea. Allhouse received the ball on his 10 yard line and returned it to the 20. After exchanging of punts and several passes attempted by the Milan team, Chelsea got possession of the ball on her 20 yard line. Hart's attempted pass to Allahouse was intercepted by Bruckner who easily scored. They again tried to kick for the extra point but Allahouse blocked the kick. After a few more plays the third quarter ended.
Score: 25-0, Milan.

During the fourth quarter there wasn't very much excitement. Milan was now using several green men in the line for the coming years. Trying to brush up their passing attack, Tuskey completed a long pass to Bruckner and he was knocked out of bounds on Chelsea's 10 yard line. An end run followed and then Tuskey went through the line for the last and final touchdown. A line play was tried for the extra point but the Chelsea team refused to "give". After the kick-off Chelsea got the ball on their own 42 and Hart threw a pass to Allhouse which set him free from the entire Milan line. The safety man was the last man for Pote
to pass but he stumbled and thus ended
the rally and the game. Final score:
31-0, Milan.

Dance Was Success

"Social deba—stages satilites
High school heads and high batilites
Hipping—skipping—
Doing the Uptown Lowdown."

Something similar at any rate —
maybe it was the carload—the dependable fox trot or maybe a dreamy waltz but they were all doing something. Where? The first senior dance, last Friday evening. Don't tell me you didn't hear. Surely you must have heard it was kinda warm dancing, if you didn't hear anything else.
Regardless of all that preliminary,
it was a success. What could better express it than to say the usual "a good time was had by all?"

Guess there really wasn't so much that was out of the ordinary. The dance offered an opportunity to all the elite to blossom forth in new fall attire—which they did. Maybe some of the attire wasn't so new, but you know on a dance floor what you notice most are anyone's feet (and how well some of us know that).

Oh—and also let us get a view at who was with who—and who wasn't.
But you all noticed that. Were you a little surprised? We were. Evidently things have happened since our last dance—the Jr.-Sr. reception.
Shouldn't wonder if P. S. B. could help there. But back to the dance—it was all okay and the Seniors have made a good start, so we think.

JOURNALISM CLUB ORGANIZED

In order that you, the citizens of Chelsea, may know of the happenings
of your high school, the Journalism club has again been organized. It is much larger than last year's club,
and we hope to issue a paper interesting to you all.

Miss Barrus is again our adviser,
and we have elected Alpha Shaver as editor, with Leona Moeckel as assistant editor. A committee was appointed to select other departments for the paper and they will be at work very soon.

Here's hoping you like the "Hi-Light" better than ever before!

First Secretary of Treasury
Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the treasury of the United States,
though born at Neris, in the West Indies, spent his youth and young manhood in St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

Our nearest fixed star, Alpha Centauri, is about 35,000,000,000 miles

We also have a library.

Fifth Grade

We have a new piano in our room
not new in years—but new to us.
Edwin Gaunt has been furnishing our room with flowers this week. On Thursday he brought a beautiful bas-

good qualities of each variety and give their names. We also learned about the gladioli in the flower
and which varieties had the most bee visitors.

We have elected the officers for the Girls and Boys Council. Election by ballot was as follows:

President—Marvin Wolf,
Vice President—Marion Elsie,
Secretary—Jeannine Moserova,
Treasurer—Roberta Lindsey.

All of us have new spellers called
"My Word Book". These are very much up-to-date and each one con-study, pronunciation and meaning of all the words used in spelling. We are very proud of them.

As I sat beside the radio the other day listening to the news of the day
I thought I heard the name Chelsea.
I listened attentively and this is the dope I heard:

It seems the Sophomores of Chelsea high school gave the Freshmen of the same an initiation party. The Freshmen were requested to come dressed as "kids." The girls wore knee dresses and large green hair ribbons, while the boys wore short pants and splashy green bows.

The outstanding event of the program was the initiation. For details about it ask a Freshman. Other entertainment was furnished by playing games and dancing. Oh, yes, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served after which everyone departed, all having enjoyed a real evening with plenty of fun.

And, by the way, the Freshies and Sophies think the new faculty members,
Mr. Johnson and Mr. Wankiewicz, have splendid ideas for entertainment.
Just say "house on fire" to any Soph
or initiated Freshman and see what he will do.

FOOTBALL GAME

Said the teacher one day
in English Lit. class,
"For tomorrow's lesson,
A ballad I'll ask."

As soon as she said it,
The children all sighed,
For to write a ballad
They never had tried.

I tried to get a subject,
But I thought in vain,
At last I thought I'd write
About a football game.

I saw the players on the field,
Then one got the ball.
The other players chased him,
And then I saw him fall.

Another player got the ball,
I thought that he was mean,
I didn't know that both of them
Were playing on one team.

All through the game they laughed
at me,
They told me I was dumb,
For instead of saying touchdown,
I always said home-run.

I decided then and there,
Before the next game of the school's,
That if I could, I surely would Try to learn the rules.

MANCHESTER—People have wondered why the water in the upper pond has such a muddy appearance, even during the weeks when we had no rain to bring the clay soil down from the hills. If they walked across the railroad bridge on a sunny day and gazed down into the pond they would be able to learn the cause as there are scores of carp rooting among the lily pads for food. They have practically destroyed the pickarel, bass, and sunfish that used to be numerous in the pond. Up to the time we mention, in the summertime we almost daily saw turtles on flood-wood punning themselves. We ought to ask the state to help clear the river
of those carp which are multiplying
so rapidly here.—Enterprise.

Lindbergh Baby Kidnaping Brought Near Solution by Arrest—President's Board Offers Plan for Settling the Textile Strike.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union

WITH the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in New York city, the government agents and state police appeared to be well on the way toward solving the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and murder mystery. The prisoner, a German alien thirty-five years old, was nabbed after he had given to a filling station man a $10 gold certificate that was found to be part of the ransom paid the kidnapers by Dr. John F. Condon—"Jafse"—over a cemetery wall in a vain attempt to get the baby returned. In Hauptmann's garage in the Bronx the police found $13,750 which also was identified as part of the $50,000 Jafse had paid. Then circumstantial evidence rapidly was gathered to prove Hauptmann was one of the guilty men, and he was partially identified by Doctor Condon, as well as by a taxi cab driver who said the prisoner was the man who gave him $10 eleven days after the kidnaping to carry a note to Jafse.

Officials of the department of justice announced that Hauptmann's handwriting tallied with that of ransom notes sent by the kidnapers.

Police Commissioner John P. O'Ryan, who made the official announcement of the developments jointly for New York and New Jersey authorities as well as for the federal department of justice, declared that Hauptmann admitted under severe questioning that he had been employed as a carpenter near the Lindbergh home at Hopewell.

O'Ryan also asserted that police had established that Hauptmann had had access to the lumber yard in which lumber was found bearing a peculiar mark, similar to that found on the ladder left at the scene of the kidnaping.

Hauptmann, he added, is in this country illegally. He is married and has a ten-year-old son.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, who were in Los Angeles, were said to have known in advance that the arrest was expected. They excluded themselves and would say nothing for publication.

FEDERAL JUDGE W. CALVIN CHESNUT of Baltimore handed down an opinion holding that the farm appropriation amendment to the federal bankruptcy act passed by congress last June is unconstitutional. This amendment, known as the Cramer-Lankin law, authorizes debt-ridden farmers to go into federal courts and reduce their obligations. The judge held that it violates the rights of creditors as outlined in the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution and that it seeks to supersede the rights of state courts.

The court pointed out that each state has laws to protect both the creditor and the debtor. The Cramer-Lankin act, it was stated, wiped away the safeguards for creditors and amounted to confiscation of property.

PEACE in the textile industry was almost in sight after the President's special mediation board reported to him its plan for ending the bloody strike that has been going on for weeks.

The report was carried to Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park by Secretary of Labor Perkins and Gov. John G. Winant, chairman of the board. It proposed the following four point program:

1. Appointment by the President of a textile-labor relations board of three members to settle all questions of union recognition at the several textile mills and to handle all other employer-employee disputes in the industry.

2. An investigation by the Department of Labor and the federal trade commission of the textile industry's ability to meet the higher wage payments which the union is demanding.

3. A moratorium on the "stretch-out" system, whereby the union claims employers are adding to the work load of their employees during the moratorium the textile labor relations board shall appoint a textile work assignment control board to plan a permanent control of the stretch-out.

4. An investigation by the Department of Labor into the various classifications of work in the textile industry and the wage scale for each classification.

President Roosevelt was highly pleased with the 10,000 word report of the board and expressed his hope that it would show the way to end the strike. F. J. Gorman, leader of the strike, submitted to the union's executive council the question of having the workers return to the mills pending final arrangements.

Immediately preceding these developments the mills had been reopening under military protection, and in consequence the strikers had resumed their acts of violence. There were numerous bloody encounters between them and National Guardsmen in New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Georgia and the Carolinas. In Connecticut the disorders abated and the state troops were being demobilized.

Carrying out his plans for extending the strike to all branches of the textile industry, Gorman sent out orders for 20,000 dyes to quit their jobs.

The union workers were still enraged at Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, for his attack on the strike at a meeting of code authorities in New York. He charged that the walkout was in "absolute violation" of an agreement made by the United Textile Workers with the government last June. This the union leaders flatly denied, and they demanded the resignation of Johnson. Gorman said:

"We will not join in submitting any issue to the NRA as long as General Johnson is administrator or occupies a position of determining influence in the recovery administration. We said he ought to resign and we meant it. Since that is our view, we could not join in any submission to the NRA while he has the power to make NRA decisions."

If present plans are carried out, a quarter of a million cotton garment workers will go on strike throughout the country on October 1. This strike is called, according to the union leaders, because the manufacturers refused to comply with NRA's order to reduce the weekly working hours from 40 to 30.

ONE of the sharpest thorns in the side of the Roosevelt administration will not be in the next congress to give pain to the New Dealers.

James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, leading authority on the Constitution, has announced he will not seek re-election because congress has become a rubber stamp. He had been renominated, but prefers not to run. However, the administration will not be re-elected from his attack.

Heed from his attack in the courts.

Mr. Beck explains: "This is no time for any citizen to lessen his activities in defense of our form of government. I am retiring from congress because I believe I can help in this great cause more effectively in the federal courts, where I have practiced for more than fifty years, than in congress, where the minority is gagged and reduced to impotence."

"Our form of government can only be saved by restoration of the Republican party to power, and I hope, with my pen and voice to serve that party as effectively in the ranks as in congress."

WISCONSIN'S state primary was especially interesting because of the fact that the Democrats polled the largest vote by a wide margin, the La Follette Progressives and the Republicans trailing. The Democrats re-nominated Gov. Albert G. Schmedeman, vigorous supporter of the New Deal. He will be opposed by Phil La Follette, who received the Progressive nomination without contest, and Howard T. Greene, Republican, who defeated former Governor Zimmerman and J. N. Tiltmeyer.

John N. Callahan, former national committeeman, was named for the senate by the Democrats, and John B. Chappelle was the unopposed choice of the Republicans. Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., was of course nominated by his new party.

RUSSIA was duly admitted to membership in the League of Nations, only three votes in opposition being cast, and then was given a permanent seat in the council of the league. Maxim Litvinov, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, pledged his nation to work through the league for world peace.

Declaring flatly that Russia would give up no attribute of its social system, Litvinov warned the assembly that "peace and security cannot be organized on the basis of shifting sands and verbal promises." It should be established, he said, "that any state is entitled to demand reasonable security from its near and remote neighbors."

This, however, should never be interpreted as distrust, Litvinov added.

Next day, after a debate on plans to end the war between Paraguay and Bolivia, spokesmen for Russia privately asserted that the danger of war in the Far East has lessened relations between Japan and Russia having improved.

NOME, the once famous gold city of Alaska, lies in ruins, having been swept by flames with damage estimated at $3,000,000. Four hundred persons were rendered homeless, and most of the food supplies were burned up. Relief vessels with food and medical supplies were rushed to the place and there was no fear of shortage. The government at Washington granted $50,000 in direct assistance and planned other relief measures. The citizens were hurriedly procuring lumber and other materials in the hope of at least partly rebuilding the city before it is isolated by winter ice.

JAMES A. MOFFETT, federal housing commissioner, announced that on November 1 he would begin releasing funds for the construction of at least a million new homes.

Concerning the home modernization and repair phase of the program, the administrator declared that more than 1,000 communities have set up or are setting up committees to direct the program locally. He predicted that by Thanksgiving more than 5,000 municipalities will have established such committees.

Financial support, he said, has come from 7,000 banks, and such loans have been made in all states but three.

"From field reports we estimate that one million dollars a day of loans are being made under our plan; and from experience in past community modernization campaigns we are sure that double that amount of cash business is being done."

TOBACCO, which is the third largest crop in the United States, has always been without an organized futures market. But it has one now, for the New York Tobacco Exchange, Inc., on Broad street, has opened for business after two years of preliminary organization work in which the federal department of agriculture co-operated.

The contract basis is United States standard fine cured type 12, grade B4F. There are nine types and numerous grades deliverable under specified differentials under the form of contract that has been adopted. The unit of trading is 10,000 pounds and quotations are in cents and five one-hundredths of a cent per pound. Delivery points have been established to date at Norfolk and Newport News, Va., and Louisville, Ky.

NEW YORK'S city assembly has adopted a lottery scheme for the purpose of raising relief funds, a way having been devised to circumvent the law. The business men and the clergy are protesting violently.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI repeatedly asserts that Italy wants no more war, but he is taking no chances. In an order designed to make Italy an "armed nation," his cabinet has directed that all males above the age of eight and below thirty-three, shall receive military training.

At the same time it was revealed that Italy's farming industry will be brought into strong national organization under the corporative state system, to be inaugurated November 10.

The working class will be welded together in one group and the owner-manager class in another. The two classes will be united in the central corporations.

Two major national co-ordinating bodies have been created for the separate groups. These are the Fascist Confederation of Agriculturists, for the owner-managers, and the Fascist Confederation of Agricultural Workers.

If Italy does have a war in the near future, it is likely to be with Yugoslavia. Just now the two nations are quarrelling bitterly. Mussolini is especially vexed because Yugoslavia is harboring 2,500 Austrian Nazis close to the border and not curbing their plans for another push.

AUSTRIA is thoroughly aroused by a seemingly authentic report from Brussels that former Emperor Zita intends to establish her residence in Austria, along with her eight children, including Archduke Otto, pretender to the thrones of both that country and Hungary. It was asserted that this Hapsburg family had been granted permission to return as plain citizens if Otto would promise not to seek in any way to restore the monarchy.

Quite unofficially it is said restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy would not be opposed by either France or Italy, but the British foreign office scouted the idea. The little entente nations would be strongly against it but might not hold the Vienna government entirely responsible.

In Vienna a spokesman for the foreign office said that the return to Austria of the Hapsburg family, even as private individuals, is "still impossible."

Some members of the Hapsburg family may be allowed to return to represent the family in the long pending lawsuit over the Hapsburg properties, he said, but this is not likely to be Archduke Otto, because of the danger that disturbances might result from his presence. Socialists and labor unions would surely start trouble.

C. A. COBB, chief of the cotton production section of the farm administration, announced that the third cotton "parity" payment due in December would be combined with the second rental payment and that both would be distributed in October. The total thus to be paid out will approximate $75,000,000.

Mr. Cobb said that tenants and share croppers had an interest in the "parity" payment and that to put off payment until December, the usual season for many tenants and renters to move to other farms, would cause unnecessary complications.

W. LAWSON LITTLE, a husky San Francisco youth, has accomplished the feat of capturing the British and American national amateur golf championships in one season. This has been done only twice before. Little easily defeated David Goldman of Dallas, Texas, in the finals of the national tournament at Brookline, Mass.

Birds Found on Many Stamps

Birds have been incorporated in many issues of Japanese postage stamps. On that of 1875, are found the wild goose, the wagtail and the falcon, each significant in the country's folklore. The wild goose is emblematic of letter-carrying, for, according to the story, an ambassador of one of China's early emperors was detained by a foreign monarch and reduced to slavery. The unhappy ambassador attached a letter telling of his plight to the leg of a wild goose and in some miraculous manner the goose flew over the spot where the emperor was hunting. The emperor killed the goose, read the letter and soon got his ambassador back, appropriately punishing the offending monarch. The wagtail is the Japanese equivalent of the serpent in our story of Adam and Eve. For anniversaries and coronations the crane and the phoenix are popular subjects, the former as a symbol of longevity from its reputed life of a thousand years and the latter, borrowed incidentally from the Egyptians, as a symbol of immortality, from its legendary ability to rise anew from its funeral pyre.

Habits of the Cuckoo

After she has laid her eggs the female cuckoo watches carefully, and if they are destroyed she finds other nests and lays a second clutch. She is not entirely forgetful about the youngsters. When they arrive in the various nests, the first thing they do is to eject all the other occupants. It is a wonderful struggle to see, with the young cuckoo always the victor, and when each nest contains one hungry youngster, the real mother watches over them, although she never attempts to give them food. Incubation of the eggs, and the feeding of the young, is left to the foster parents. Soon after the young appear, the cuckoo and her mate fly south to their African home.

"Charlie Horse"

This slang term "Charlie horse" is limited to the United States, and denotes the stiffening of the muscles of arm or leg from excessive use, as by an athlete. The term was first applied to a horse afflicted with a form of muscular atrophy known as woe, according to the Literary Digest. Although the stiffening occurs most frequently among baseball players, it may be experienced by anyone, especially by one engaged in strenuous exercise. Movement of the injured part is generally attended by severe pain.

It's a Great Old Game!

BY LAWRENCE HAWTHORNE

We talk about our troubles,
And we think about our fears;
We wonder what will happen
In the coming months and years;
We worry, and we grumble,
And we dread, and we complain—
And we're just about decided
Life is mostly grief and pain!

We read about depressions,
And we hear about hard luck;
We lose our jobs or incomes,
And we almost lose our pluck;
We view a long procession
Of misfortunes, woes and ills,
And we find ourselves surrounded
By our taxes, debts and bills!

And then, my friend, what happens?
Well, there comes a day in Spring
When all this grief and worry
Simply doesn't mean a thing!
The best and the pitcher
Get their orders to begin—
And the only thing that matters
Is to have the home team win!

Her temporary successor will be Mrs. Lois Helman, caseworker for the family welfare bureau. It was understood in Ann Arbor that Mrs. Graves' dismissal came as a result of a petition by the board of supervisors to the state welfare department last June to oust her. Miss Mershon said the resignation was being asked "for the good of the service."

Mrs. Graves tendered her resignation to Miss Mershon on Monday.

LIMA SCHOOL NEWS

Again we have started a busy year. This school has four new beginners: Barbara Luick, Dick Schanz, Richard Hieber and Jimmie Spike. We hope they'll be happy here. There are 27 of us this year.

Our new officers for the Civic Health Club are as follows:

President—Clark Spiko.

We are going to have another poster for our weights this year. It will be called "The Health Race." The white horses mean correct weight, the blue mean within ten percent of the correct weight, and the red means the danger weight.

With our money in the treasury and the health dues we hope to buy a football this year.

Pigeon Roost Settlement Wiped Out by Marauders

What was known as the Pigeon Roost settlement in Indiana consisted of several families that made a little community in what is now Scott county, says a writer in the Indianapolis News. This settlement, founded in 1808, was separated from any other by several miles, and was confined to about a square mile of territory. On September 8, 1812, it was attacked by a band of about twelve marauders, said to have been Shawnee who, scouring the locality, going from cabin to cabin, murdered within an hour twenty-two persons—sixteen of them children and five women. Prior to this general killing two men were shot in the woods. Most of the cabin homes were burned. A spirited fight in the house of William Collins, in which three Indians were killed, probably prevented a greater slaughter, as the chief of the savages enabled the blockhouses that stood within a few miles. Several spectacular escapes have been recorded. The news of the massacres was carried to Charlestown, Clark county, and by 2 p. m. the next day 6000 men were on their way where only one house remained standing. They took up the trail of the savages, but never caught up with them. Two children were carried away by the Indians, Glasey McCoy, age three, and a boy, Peter Huffman. They were later returned to their people, but went back to the Indians afterward. In 1808 an appropriation was made by legislature for a monument of Bedford limestone, 44 feet high, which was dedicated October 1, 1904, at the spot where the massacre victims were buried.

HILLTOPS CLEAR

By Emilie Loring

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Prudence Schuyler comes from New York to Prosperity Farm, inherited from her uncle, to make a new life for herself and her brother, David, whose health has been broken by travel.

CHAPTER II.—The second day on her farm Prue adventures into the barn loft after eggs. She slips on the hay and falls to the ground—would have been badly hurt had not a young man been there to catch her. The arms are those of Rodney Gerard, rich young man, who lives at High Ledges on the neighboring farm. There is at once a mutual attraction between the two. Rod decides to stay at his home throughout the fall and winter, "looking after the timber." But Prudence decides to maintain a cool attitude toward him. She suspects that since her sister's husband ran away with her brother's wife.

CHAPTER III.—Len Calloway, a rival of Rod Gerard, tries to buy the timber off Prue's land, but she dislikes his conceited attitude and contracts with Rod to dispose of the trees. On the evening Prue is expecting David from New York she is visited by Mrs. Walter Gerard and her thirteen-year-old daughter, Jean. They are hateful, curious persons and leave Prue rankled.

CHAPTER IV.—A few days later Prudence comes in contact with them again when she accompanies Rod to his place. A clown comes, advertising a circus in a nearby town. Prue promises to accompany Rod and Jean to the circus.

"Walter!" Gerard felt again the shock that had brought him up standing. "Walter! Walter has a wife?" He remembered her laugh. "Say, Big Boy, where have you come from? Been asleep since the Puritans landed?" He had caught her hands tight in his. "Look here, Milly, you can't do that. Walter isn't worth it. Milly! Milly! Promise that you—you won't—until I see you again."

Quite plainly now he could see her shining eyes as he had met his. "Listen, if you care what I do, I promise, Roddy."

He sent the car ahead in a burst of speed. A string of wagons was leaving the show grounds as he entered. That meant that the audience was in the big tent. Gerard stopped before the tent on the wall of which "MADAME SEBASTIAN MILLER" was stamped in black letters. As if she had been waiting for him, Milly Gooch stepped from behind the curtain drawn across the front of it.

Never had he seen her look lovelier. Her dark hair was curled close to her head; the mascara on her lashes increased the brilliancy of her narrow, shoe-black eyes; the crimson of her lips accentuated the ivory tint of her skin. Her great dark eyes glittered with tears.

"You sure are a dependable guy, Roddy." She perched on the top of a pedestal. "Take that chair, Say, wasn't that a terrible deal Grandpop got this morning. And wasn't it like Len Calloway to put on his act at just that minute! That hooz's grown old!"

"When did you talk with him last, Milly?"

"The day I gave him back his ring. Look out for him, he has it in for you, Roddy. Doesn't he know that it was Walter, not you, who made me break with him?"

"I came to see if I could help about your grandfather. Won't you need money?"

"Not from you. The management takes care of that. Who was the kid Grandpop saved?"

"Walter's little girl, Jean."

"Well, of all the breaks—Grandpop passing out for the kid of the man he hated." She laughed, laughed until the sound cracked in an hysterical sob.

"Milly! Milly! Stop! You won't be able to ride if you don't. Here, look up!" He pulled a handkerchief from his pocket. "Let me wipe your eyes. Now smile as if I were a Johnnie in the front row."

She looked up with an attempt which twisted her heart.

"That's back! All set now?"

She choked back a sob. Caught the handkerchief.

"All set, Roddy. May I have this?"

"Sure, but what the Dickens will you do with it? Haven't any pockets concealed in that ritzy costume, have you?"

"Oh, yes, I'll tuck it in here."

"She thrust it under her low-cut bodice."

"What will you do this winter, Milly?"

"Hollywood. Two big shots from a traveling talkie studio saw me ride a month ago. And who do you think? Mother Puffer and old 'whatta mean' in St. Paul to see me this afternoon! She wants I should spend Christmas with them. What say, Roddy?"

"If you visit the Puffers you may run into Len Calloway."

"What if I do? I'll give him a little whiff for old times' sake. You don't think I'm afraid of that big nose, do you? I've traveled some since I met you that S. O. S."

"And traveled straight, Milly?"

She met his eyes squarely. "Yes."

thing. Didn't I promise? I'm off men, they're just a game, anyway."

"Time for your act, Milly."

As the maid spoke behind them, a groom in rose-color velvet with silver trappings led a milk-white horse bridled with rhinestones to the tent.

Milly caught Rodney's hands and looked up at him. "I'll be good. I promised you, didn't I? There's only one person who could tempt me not to be—and he—he doesn't know I'm on earth. Ho—"

A hiss. A flash cut off the word.

"What was that?"

"Don't be so jumpy, Roddy. If you traveled with this show you'd get used to that sound. Flashlight. Publicity, of course. Some reporter writing up the show wants a picture. A whistle blew. 'That's for me. I'd better get going. Bye-bye, Roddy. Don't—don't send me any more money—ever—I won't need it—now that I've gone Hollywood. Perhaps you'll be at High Ledges at Christmas—if Miss Schuyler stays.'"

What did she mean by that, Gerard wondered, as his eyes followed her in her rose-color tulle and glistening satin across the yard. Was his feeling for Prue so evident?

One foot on the step of his car, Gerard stopped and stared. Had a red monster shot out of the parking place just ahead of him? Was Len Calloway so much on his mind that he had imagined it?

Prudence pulled at the wire netting at one side of the poultry yard.

"Darn!" she gritted between her teeth, as the elusive thing wriggled away from her. "Mr. S. I'm not so good as I thought. Give me a hand, will you?"

Puffer seized the netting, and pulled. "Grandi! Hold it a minute till I get this bird in; two more, and it's done. These pesky hens got out yesterday and scratched in my garden border. There! I'd like to see them get through that!"

"The pesky hens ain't the only things that escaped yesterday. Fear 'bout the convict who dug himself out of prison?"

"Jane-Mack heard the announcement on the radio and told me. She's all excited about it. He isn't likely to come to this small town, is he?"

"Gorry-me, he'd be running his head into a wall if he did." Puffer shook the wire netting. "That's a good job you've done. And you've done another good job. Your brother is so much better."

Prudence sprang to her feet. Her eyes shone, her face was radiant.

"Then you've noticed it, too, Mr. S. It isn't just my imagination?"

"Sure, I've noticed it. So's Mother. Whatna mean is, his color is better. His voice is stronger, and he moves quicker. Comin' to live in the country is just settin' David on his feet. Rod's noticed it, too."

"Oh, he has! I haven't seen Mr. Gerard lately so I didn't know. Prudence avoided Puffer's eyes as she remembered the many times of late that she had fled to the barn loft so that she would not see Rodney Gerard when he called.

"Gorry-me, you haven't seen him? Seen Jim Armstrong?"

"No, I've him, but—but I was out when he called."

"Well, of course, it was away to the city most three weeks trying to get some firms to sign up for the timber you and him are going to cut. Since he come back he's been terrible busy cruising the woods. Rod isn't used to havin' difficulty gettin' what he wants; things have always come easy for him. This timber business 'pears to be gettin' on his nerves. Jim was tellin' me this mornin' that Rod snapped at every one who come near him yesterday. Perhaps it's that newspaper picture of him and Milly Gooch holdin' hands in front of her tent at the circus that come out in the local paper the day after the show was here that got him mad. Well, if here he isn't now! What you gum-shoeling round like that for, Roddy?"

Prudence was furious at her own start of surprise. Had Rodney Gerard seen it? He did look troubled. There were lines between his nose and mouth she never had seen before; he had lost some of his bloom. His eyes seemed deeper and darker and bluer in color.

"Well, will I pass? Perhaps you weren't sakin' me up, perhaps you were just wondering how it happened that I had caught you, Prue of Prosperity farm."

"Don't hite, Rod." St. Puffer flung himself into the breach. "Now that you've got company, Miss Prue, I'll go an' chop some wood."

He moved away with surprising quickness.

"Mr. S.!" Prudence started after him, but Gerard caught her arm and held it.

"You're not going until you tell me why you have been dodging me."

"I dodging! How absurd!"

"Is it? Drop that hammer. It makes you look bloodthirsty." As she still clutched the tool, he loosened her fingers until it dropped to the ground.

"That's better. I want to talk to you before Armstrong and Jean get here. Have you seen that infernal picture?"

"Picture?" Prue echoed the word with breezy indifference.

"Don't bluff. You know perfectly well that I'm referring to that fool snapshot of Milly Gooch and me at the circus."

"Oh, that! Really, I'm not interested."

"Look here, you're got to be late."

"So Fine, I'll Tuck it in Here."

Prudence was willing to bet my roundster that Calloway had a hand in that. It would be like his methods—

"Don't abuse, Len Calloway. It would be disloyal for me to listen because—Prudence hoped that her eyes and voice were as unimpeachably provocative as she intended them to be—because, you see, I've decided to have him cut my timber."

Never had she seen eyes blaze as Rodney Gerard's blazed to his white face. She remembered what St. had said about his mind the last week. She shouldn't have tried to torment him—but hadn't that hateful picture hurt her, too? He caught her by the shoulders.

"You didn't mean that, Prue, about letting Calloway cut for you."

"Of course I meant it. The more I think of it the more I go bullish on the idea. I'm beginning to like Len very much. He's so forceful, so—"

"Forceful!" For a pulsing instant Rodney Gerard hesitated, then he caught her in his arms. "Forceful!" He crushed her mouth, hard, ardent, upon hers. "If that's what you like—Gorgeous—" He kissed her again.

Prudence wrenched herself free. Every pulse in her body was throbbing unheavily. How had he dared! Was that the way he kissed the circus rider? She dragged her voice back. "Don't ever speak to me again! Ever! Do you think I'll let you cut my timber now? Suppose Len Calloway does cheat me in money, at least I shall be safe with him."

"Prue! You can't do it! You knew what you were doing when you looked at me like that. You're a child. He's a sport. You deliberately smashed my control, and now you make me pay for letting myself go. Well, I'll take my medicine. I will keep away until you want me. I'll never kiss you again until you ask me to, if—"

"I ask you? That's the funniest thing I ever heard."

"All right. It's the funniest thing you ever heard. But the promise stands. I—"

"Hill Rod!"

The hall came from the garden. Prudence dashed toward the gate and collided with a big, spectacled man with heart warning eyes. He smiled. "Miss Schuyler, isn't it? I would recognize you anywhere from Jean's description. I'm Jim Armstrong, and I am happy to report that you have a nice little bunch of money in your wood lot."

Prudence extended an eager hand. "Have I really! I'm so glad you've come. Now I can learn a lot about trees. Will you take me on as a pupil?"

From the corner of her eye Prue noted with satisfaction the set of Rodney Gerard's jaw. She would show him that he couldn't kiss her after he had been holding Milly Gooch's hands.

Jim Armstrong laughed. "Sure! I'll take you along if Rod says the word. He's my boss. I'm a whale of a teacher. Rod said you had a plan of your wood lot. The Hundreds, Miss Schuyler. May I see it?"

"Of course. It's in my shop. I'll bring it to the living room."

Prudence was conscious of Gerard watching her as a few moments later she cleared a place on her brother's desk and spread out the blueprint.

She crossed the room to speak to David Schuyler seated in the wing chair. As Armstrong joined them, Rodney Gerard detained Prudence at the desk.

"Wait a minute! Look here, Prue, you didn't mean what you said about letting Calloway cut that timber. You wouldn't do it."

"The sternness of his voice sent tingles through her veins, but she kept her lids provokingly lowered.

"I can transact my own business, thank you. When I need help I shall appeal to Mr. Armstrong. He impresses me as being such a reliable, self-controlled person."

"And I'm not. I get you. All right."

let me cut your timber and you will have no fault to find with me again—ever—I'll be the original ice man."

He turned on his heel.

As the outer door closed on Armstrong and Gerard, Prudence crossed to the fireplace and held on her hands resting on the mantel looked unseeingly down at the red coin.

Fireflies Have Perfect Lighting System of Own

Lightning bugs, glowworms and fireflies, as these insects are called, have a perfect lighting system which science has not been able to equal, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The light, which these insects carry and intermittently flash during summer nights, is not due to phosphorus, as is commonly supposed, because it glows in the dark with a green light.

The light is produced by two secretions, on which the introduction of oxygen has the effect of combustion. Strictly speaking, the firefly is not a fly at all; neither is it a worm. It belongs to the beetle group of insects.

The appellation "glowworm" is due to the fact that the female of this species is wingless, and bears a striking resemblance to a worm, as does the insect in the larva stage. Not only is the adult, particularly the female, light producing; even in the egg, larva and pupa stages this organism gives off a pale phosphorescent glow.

Examined under magnifying glass, the lantern mechanism of the firefly appears on the last three segments of the abdomen. The microscopic organ is made up of a ventral mass of large cells where the luminescence originates, and directly behind it is another layer of small cells which acts as the reflector. Two large tracheal trunks or air-tubes pass into the light organ and branch out into every cell. These tubes give an abundant supply of oxygen to the photogenic cells. Paralyzing the air tubes is a system of white,

Gift to Lafayette

In recognition of General Lafayette's services during the Revolution, congress, by act of December 28, 1824, granted him $200,000 and one complete township of land to be located "in any of the unappropriated lands of the United States." The selection was made in what was then known as West Florida and embraced 23,028.50 acres covering part of the present city of Tallahassee. Lafayette never saw this Florida land. An attempt was made to colonize it by French settlers under Count LaPorte, but the scheme failed.

A few years later Lafayette sent out his nephew, Charles Muret, to colonize it, but this attempt also failed. Lafayette made no further use of the land, and after his death, it was sold by his heirs and is now owned by numerous individuals.

Size of the Brain

It would be difficult to prove that the size of the average brain has increased to any great extent during the centuries. Examination of the skulls of persons who died centuries ago does not indicate any particular change in size. However, various authorities claim that weight of brain has no direct relationship with intelligence.

Exceptionally large brains have been found both in great geniuses and in imbeciles. Intellectual capacity is said to depend on the great multiplicity of nerve cell connections rather than on weight or size of brain. In any comparison of this kind the value of the accumulated knowledge of the ages should be taken into account.

Potassium Is Chemical
That Is Used Many Ways
Potash used as fertilizer is called potassium chloride and potassium sulfate. In various other forms the commodity has many important uses. Mink's furs are dressed with potassium aluminum sulfate and it may purify the water she drinks. The colored design on grandma's calico dress was printed with the use of potassium bichromate which also is extensively used by photographers, tanners and blue-print paper manufacturers.

Every drug store, says a National Geographic society bulletin, contains a jar of potassium bromide for medicinal use. Glass and soft soap manufacturers employ potassium carbonate, while potassium citrate is essential in the manufacture of firecrackers and rockets. Photographers' flashlight powder and some paints and toothpastes.

Gold is extracted from ore with potassium cyanide. Potassium hydroxide is extensively used in soap, disinfectant and grease-making. The pink color of canned corned beef is caused by potassium ultrate, better known as saltpeter, which is a preservative and also is used in the manufacture of black blasting powder, shrapnel shells, fuses and smokeless powder charge.

Potassium acetate and potassium permanganate are bleachers and dyes. The latter also finds its way into medical preparations, is a strong disinfectant, and is used in the manufacture of saccharine. Potassium tartrate is the chief constituent of cream of tartar. Baking powder manufacturers use about 50 per cent of the supply. In the chemical laboratory the uses of potash are legion.

Tadpole Lives Like Fish,
Then Develops Into Frog
The frog begins life as a tiny black speck of an egg surrounded by an albuminous coat. This coat swells enormously when exposed to water and serves to protect the delicate egg within. After many weeks the egg hatches into a tiny wriggler with a very long and visible intestine and a long tail. This tadpole lives as a fish, "breathing" in the water through its gills.

After many weeks of feeding upon the algae in the pond, the tadpole undergoes a transformation into a frog. Its long tail is absorbed completely, and its intestines shrink to one-fourth of the original length. Since it now subsists upon an animal diet, it has no need for such a lengthy digestive apparatus for this highly nutritious food. As a vegetarian in its youth, it required huge quantities of algae to derive the nourishment necessary for growth, hence the long intestine.

The young frog sprouts legs slowly, and loses its gills which are replaced by a pair of lungs, making the frog an air breather. In breathing, the frog must swallow its air, very much as it swallows its food. A dislocated or broken jaw in a frog would be a serious if not fatal matter. The moist thin skin also serves as an organ of respiration in the frog.
