Atkinsons Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary

An outstanding event in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson was their golden wedding anniversary which was celebrated on Sunday at their home, 383 Madison street.

A family dinner was served at noon, with covers for 22, and the table bore attractive decorations of roses, and two large wedding cakes, appropriately decorated in yellow and white. A three-tiered cake was the gift of their granddaughter, Mrs. Carl Gieske of Manchester. Baskets and bowls of bright autumn flowers were tastefully arranged about the house.

The "bride" was lovely in a dress of black lace, with a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses and gypsophila.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bacon of Ann Arbor, who were attendants at the wedding fifty years ago, and at whose home the ceremony was performed, were present on this occasion.

In the afternoon, from one to five, a reception was held and about 250 friends and neighbors called to extend congratulations.

During the afternoon, musical selections, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" and "Sweetest Story Ever Told," were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. J. Vincent Burg; "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "The Perfect Day" by George Atkinson; "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet," "Old Folks at Home" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," by Mrs. Mildred Friedrich.

Ice cream and cake were served by the Central Circle of the M. E. church, of which Mrs. Atkinson is a member. Guests were present from Ann Arbor, Manchester, Ypsilanti, Lansing, Flint and Jackson.

Several gifts were presented as remembrances of the event.

Cong'l Association Met Here Last Week

The fall meeting of Congressionalists of the Jackson and Southern Associations was held last week; Wednesday and Thursday, at the local Congregational church.

The first evening was taken up by the young peoples' delegates who came in good numbers from the various churches. Eleven delegates came from beyond Coldwater.

Four churches, including the Chelsea group, received their new charter for the Pilgrim Fellowship—the young peoples' work.

Some of the high points in the program were addresses, on "Social Action of the Churches" and "Our Attitude on War," presented respectively by Rev. H. Colburn of Ypsilanti and Rev. A. R. Gold of Clinton. Rev. S. A. Lloyd, superintendent, of Lansing also gave a most interesting address on "Our Relations to Each Other and to the Associations"—and many from the community were present to hear these addresses.

The two Associations were merged, enlarging the area considerably. In the new organization, Rev. A. R. Gold of Clinton was made moderator and Rev. Chas. F. Wolf, registrar.

An invitation extended by the Pinckney church to hold the next meeting, there was considered, but the matter was referred to the advisory committee with power to act. It is probable the meeting will be held in some church farther south. There are two meetings a year.

On the last evening Miss Marguerite Davidson of the Home Missions Board lectured on "Our Interests in the Highlands of Eastern North America." It was very interesting and it is hoped, helpful for the cause of missions.

FITZGERALD TO SPEAK

Washtenaw County Republicans will stage a rally Monday, October 22 at Masonic Temple, Ann Arbor, when Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican candidate for governor, will be the principal speaker. Committee members are working on plans to have a capacity crowd at the dinner which will be held at 6:30. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Young Republican club or at Republican headquarters.

The rally will follow the dinner, in the main auditorium of the Temple, to which the public is invited. Mr. Fitzgerald will speak and will be accompanied on the platform by several other prominent speakers.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY HERE

A Democratic rally will be held in Chelsea Saturday evening at 7:30, with Congressman J. C. Lehr, Christine McDonald, candidate for state senator, Geo. I. Ennen, for state representative and Arthur C. Lehman, for prosecuting attorney, as the speakers. The place of holding the meeting will be advertised by the local committee on Saturday.

FARMERS CLUB POSTPONED

The regular meeting of the Western Washtenaw Farmers club, which was set for Friday of this week, has been postponed until next month.

Chelsea State Bank To Vote On Sale Of Stock To the R. F. C.

Another move in cooperation with the banking policies of the federal government is anticipated by officers of Chelsea State Bank, who have called a shareholders' meeting for Thursday, October 25, at which time the proposition of selling preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be considered.

Favorable action on the matter has been voted by the board of Directors of the bank and they believe stockholders of the institution will concur in their opinion that it is the logical move at this time.

If favorable action is taken by the shareholders at their meeting next week the 1100 shares of common stock outstanding will be reduced from $100.00 to $50.00 par value, and 1100 shares of $50.00 par preferred shares will be sold to the R. F. C.

Similar action has already been taken by practically all of the larger banks of the country, and such action is approved by the State Banking Department.

According to bank officials it is very essential that all shareholders participate in the special meeting which is called for next week. Special notices have been sent to all shareholders.

Chelsea's banking situation has remained very favorable during the trying period of the past few years. Both the Farmers and Merchants Bank and Kempt Commercial and Savings Bank were opened for complete banking functions immediately following the banking holiday in March, 1933, and easily qualified for all provisions of the Federal Deposit Insurance.

The two banks were merged on March 1, 1934 as the Chelsea State Bank. This bank qualified for the increased protection afforded by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation on July 1 of this year.

Supervisors Re-elect Six County Officials

The Washtenaw county board of Supervisors, convening on Tuesday at the court house, re-elected six county officials to succeed themselves. They are: L. O. Cushing, chairman of the board of county officers; Otto D. Lulek, member of the auditing board; Adolph Andres, road commissioner; Mrs. Mildred Robinson, school examiner; Bert Lowery, member of the board of poor commissioners, and Mrs. Blanche Seabolt, member of the county old age pension board.

A request for $500 to cover local office expenses of the National Re-employment service was referred to the finance committee. A total of 3,000 persons in the county have registered with the re-employment service, as reported by Mr. Spangler, director.

The board adjourned for a few days to allow a special committee to consult with state welfare officials in regard to appropriating money for county welfare use, before definite action is taken.

ARRESTED FOR STEALING OATS

James Worden, 18, and Harold Buxton, 32, of Sylvan township, were arrested Saturday afternoon by Washtenaw county sheriff's officers acting on advice of Deputy Fred W. McKune of Jackson that two men driving Washtenaw county automobiles had sold some oats in Jackson. The license numbers of the cars were traced to Worden and Buxton, who confessed that the oats had been stolen from Sylvester Weber of Sylvan township. When informed of the matter Mr. Weber had not yet discovered the theft. About 48 bushels of oats had been stolen, the men receiving $22.00 for their loot.

The pair waived examination Monday afternoon when arraigned before Justice Jay H. Payne and were bound to circuit court on bonds of $1,500 each.

Among the books which have recently been taken off the rental shelf and put on the free shelves are: "Within this Present"—Barnes.

WHAT A FISHING TRIP!

Floyd Rowe, P. C. Maroney, Wilbur Hinderer and Dr. A. L. Brock spent Sunday at Northport on a fishing trip. It is reported the catch consisted of one fish—a Mackinaw trout weighing 11½ pounds. The alibi is that the waves were too high. A long trip for one fish!

Freshman College Will Open Monday

The Chelsea Freshman College will open for business Monday afternoon, October 22, at 3:45 o'clock. All the applicants are to meet at this time in room 14 in the Chelsea high school.

Tentative list of subjects to be offered is as follows: English, Political Science, Chemistry, Trigonometry, German or French, possibly both, Shorthand, Typewriting and Book-keeping. There will probably be two sections each of English and Political Science and one in each of the other subjects offered.

Where less than five students wanted a class in the preliminary enrollment the subject was not considered. The schedule will consist of four periods, two before supper, starting at 3:45 and ending at 5:30, and two after supper, starting at 6:15, and ending at 8 o'clock.

Teachers are being selected by H. Z. Wilber of the Michigan State Normal College of Ypsilanti. Text books are being ordered and it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the opening of the classes next Monday. The present enrollment is 33 and there is still room for additional people. If the enrollment reaches 40 the college would be eligible for four teachers, with a more varied program.

Arrangements are being made to get in the 12 weeks of work necessary for a term of credit before Dec. 21.

Religious Council In Session Today

A meeting of the Washtenaw Council of Religious Education is being held today at the Webster Congregational church in Webster township, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

The afternoon session, with Horace Whitney presiding, will be devoted to business, reports of committees and election of officers. A talk on "We Shall Teach the Teacher" will be given by Miss Ione Catton, Children's Division Supt. Group conferences will be held for children, young people, adult, administrative and general education.

Clarence McBride, of Chelsea, N. W. District President of the Council, will preside at the evening session, and "Blazing Trails in Church Life" will be the theme of an address by Miss Catton.

Group conferences, worship service and consecration of new officers will conclude the program.

STEELE-LESSER WEDDING

St. Mary church was the scene of a pretty wedding which was solemnized at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, October 17, when Miss Katherine Elizabeth Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Steele of Lima township, became the bride of Melvin Ward Lesser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Lesser of Sylvan.

The nuptial mass was read by Rev. Francis P. Kolb of Dowagiac, uncle of the bride.

The bride was attired in a dark green suit with brown fur trimming, and hat to match. Her accessories were brown. Miss Mary Jane Burg, as bridesmaid, was gowned in green crepe, trimmed with lapin fur with matching hat and brown accessories. Both carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. The altar was lovely in its decorations of autumn flowers.

Music for the occasion was rendered by Joseph Morris and Richard Lyons, with Sister Marie Sylvester presiding at the organ.

Following the service, a three-course wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the wedding party and the immediate families. The table appointments were in pink and green, a wedding cake decorated with pink roses forming the centerpiece.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's parochial school, class of 1932, the groom graduating the same year from Chelsea high school.

On their return from a wedding trip to Cooleyville, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Lesser will make their home with the groom's parents in Sylvan township.

Chelsea Wins First Game for This Season

The boys from up har went down thar and won their first game of the season. The Chelsea boys were a bit too good for Belleville and due to that Chelsea won 13-7.

Chelsea lost the toss-up and the griviron men of Belleville decided to kick-off to the Chelsea "kicks." After two or three plays Belleville found out that Friday wasn't their day for a rest. Both teams had possession of the ball several times but neither team could account for a marker in the first quarter. Score 0-0.

At the beginning of the second quarter Belleville got the pigskin near the last line marker of the field. They tried several running plays but the "kicks" showed that Belleville couldn't put anything over on them. Belleville did succeed in one attempt and that was an underhanded flat pass from which the receiver easily scored. The attempted placement kick was good. This seemed to put more fight into the Chelsea boys and it wasn't very long before things began to look rosy for the Chelsea team. With 21 seconds left in the first half P. Novess threw a pass to Youngs and Youngs showed he had his breakfast in the morning for he spit the ball past the defense men and had plenty of energy left to spare. The extra point-punt failed to go between the uprights and over the cross bar. The half ended with the score 7-0 in favor of Belleville.

In the third quarter both teams wanted to show who had the best aerial attack. Passes were flying in all directions but most of them were grounded. But in the meantime Chelsea got the ball near the Belleville goal line and Capt. Seitz showed his speed when he outran his interference men around his right end for the second touchdown. The extra point fooled the Belleville boys.

The team lined up as if to kick but instead Seitz, holding the ball, flopped it back to Bruckner who was supposed to kick the ball but instead he threw it to Novess who easily accounted for the extra point. This touchdown and the way that last point was made, began to show up on the Belleville boys. They began to slack up and the third quarter ended with Chelsea leading 13-7.

During almost the entire last quarter both teams were exchanging punts and trying several line plays. The game ended with neither team threatening to score. Final score, 13-7, Chelsea.

The Chelsea boys displayed a good job of tackling and blocking. Mr. Spaulding surely had the boys whipped into shape for that game. He stated that the boys are going to be in twice as good a condition this week against the Saline team.

The boys have got the "go" spirit and let's go out to the game Friday

EDITORIAL

We've often heard that it's not safe to condemn new ideas, which is invariably true, but it is safe for one person to condemn anything—an opinion, an invention, or a custom? The reason? As the old man puts it: "What's one man's food is another man's poison." Probably nothing affects everyone equally. The difference in effect lies in the difference between individuals and their circumstances.

Prohibition is a good example. It has been debunked far out of our depth by experts, the man on the street has discussed it vehemently, but can any one say with truth that because he doesn't like liquor the twenty-first amendment is all rot?

When the telephone was first brought out of obscurity into the public eye the following statement appeared in a Boston newspaper: "A man about 46 years of age giving the name of Joshua Coppersmith has been arrested in New York for attempting to extort funds from ignorant and superstitious people by exhibiting a device which he says will convey the human voice, any distance over metallic wires so that it will be heard by the listener at the other end. He calls the instrument a 'telephone', which is obviously intended to imitate the word 'telegraph' and win the confidence of those who know of the success of the latter without understanding the principles on which it is based." We who have witnessed the triumph of the telephone over all obstacles will immediately discount this paragraph as absurd, but perhaps the writer had an axe to grind. Assuming he was affiliated with a telephone company, would he have been justified in condemning this dangerous rival? We think not, at least if it did nothing more than put his telephone company out of business.

The other fellow is always perfectly correct for himself.
Reveries of the Alumnus
 Between the dark and the daylight,
 When the night is beginning to lower,
 Comes a pause in my day's occupation
 That I know as my memory hour.
 From my study I see in the lamplight
 As the wind the curtains sways,
 The old familiar faces,
 That I knew in the good old days.
 I again hear from the desks around me,
 The shuffle of restless feet,
 And the sound of a door that is opened.
 To help hasten their retreat.
 A sudden rush from the doorways,
 A sudden raid from the hall,
 At the bell's given signal
 They join in the rush, one and all.
 In the hurrying changing of classes,
 I see descending the long broad stairs,
 Grave Seniors, gay Sophomores and Juniors
 And Freshmen with wise knowing airs.
 Do you think, O blue eyed bandetti,
 Because you're a freshman tall,
 That such a hoary old graduate as I am
 Is not a match for you all?
 I have them fast in my fortress,
 And will never let them depart,
 Those old school-day memories
 Are the dearest of my heart.
 There I will keep them forever—
 As the years pass away,
 And the Freshmen are now grave,
 Old people,
 And yet these memories stay.

Contest!

The advanced speech class has taken a great interest in the state debate question. Chelsea High is now a member of the "State Forensic League." For the first time in several years Chelsea high school expects to enter into the contest, debating with other schools of its own size which belong to the League. They will begin the debates the latter part of November. Before this time practice debates will be arranged and carried on with Ann Arbor and Jackson high schools.

The debate question concerns "Federal Aid to Education." The students of the Speech II class, under the direction of Miss Barrus, wish the entire school and townpeople to catch the spirit of this contest and to give us their moral support.

A Party?

Yes, a party. The Sophomores gave the Freshmen a party so the Freshmen thought that they would give the Sophomores a party. Good idea, wasn't it? At least we Sophomores think so.

Music for dancing was provided, Mr. Lyons being the main attraction, with his banjo. Games were played and, as the season suggests, doughnuts and cider were served. The party broke up at 10:30 and a good time was had by all. (Familiar phrase, but just the same it's true).

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Prudence Schuyler comes from New York to Prosperity Farm, inherited from her uncle, to make a new life for herself and her brother, David, whose health has been broken by tragedy.

CHAPTER II.—The second day on her farm Prudence ventures into the barn loft after eggs. She slips on the hay and falls to the ground—would have been badly hurt had not strong young arms been there to catch her. The arms are those of Rodney Gerard, rich young man, who lives at High Ledges on the neighboring farm. There is at once a mutual attraction between the two. Rod decides to stay at his home throughout the fall and winter, "looking after the timber." But Prudence decides to maintain a cool attitude toward him. She suspects Prudence since her sister's husband ran away with her brother's wife.

CHAPTER III.—Len Calloway, a rival of Rod Gerard, tries to buy the timber of Prudence's land, but she dislikes his conceited attitude and contracts with Rod to dispose of the trees. On the evening Prue is expecting David from New York, she is visited by Walter Gerard and her thirteen-year-old daughter, Jean. They are hateful, curious persons and leave Prue rankled.

CHAPTER IV.—A few days later Prudence comes in contact with them again when she accompanies Rod to his place. A clown comes, advertising a circus in a nearby town. Prue promises to accompany Rod and Jean to the circus.

Prudence shook her head. "The plan is all right, but you must make allowance for the fact that Dave believes that his boys like 'all God's children get wings' when they are exposed to the right spiritual conditions."

Her brother's fine eyes were alight with enthusiasm.
 "You're wrong, Prue, they have more sporting spirit than you think. Most of them never had a chance. Suppose we set three or four permanently on their feet and incidentally get the timber out. Wouldn't that be worth while? What say, Gerard?"

"I think it's keen. Give me a letter to the head of the Rescue mission and I will go to New York tomorrow."

"I'll go with you."
 "David!"
 "Don't spike our plan, Prue, with fear for me. I must be sure that the boys understand the proposition. Don't make an invalid of me, I'm through with that. I'm going."

"Of course, if that's the way you feel about it, Dave, who am I to stand in your way?"
 "Glad you realize your unimportance, Prue." Her brother smiled at her.
 "Shall we go tomorrow, Rodney?" His voice had the eagerness of a boy's about to fare forth on an adventure.

"Yes. Perhaps you'll come and see us off." Gerard's eyes were on Prudence.
 "You couldn't take me, could you, Uncle Rod? This house will seem awful big without you." She swallowed hard.

"Let Jean come and stay with me." "Oh, Uncle Rod, may I stay with Miss Prue while you're away? I'll be as good as gold."
 "Do you really want her?" For the first time since she had entered the room Gerard felt that Prudence looked at him. "Just a moment, K. K. Do you really want her, Prue?"

"Of course I want her."
 "Okay then. Come over and see off your brother, Prue, then Jim will drive you and Jean back to the red brick house."

"The car is in running order, sir," announced Patch.
 "Then we must go at once, Dave. Jane Mack will think we have been held up by that prisoner who escaped day before yesterday. I wish you success, Mr. Gerard, but just wait till you see Terry McGowan and Shance O'Shea. I tremble to think what the villagers will say when they see that colorful and near fatal profane aggregation which you are planning to hurl into their unsuspecting midst."

"Unless if you and Rod can stand them, Dave, the rest of us can," encouraged St. Puffer. "Most of us are all-fired sick of Calloway and his tooties." His father was a big man in the community, but the son—well, what a mean he, I don't wonder that Milly Gooch!" His eyes met Gerard's. "Gorry-me, I guess I better get a move on and measure that cattle barn right off so's we can get those bunks in."

As he left the room, Gerard turned to look at Prudence, who was talking gaily with Jim Armstrong. Something in the bend of his friend's head tightened a band around Rodney's heart.

As Armstrong crossed the room to speak to David Schuyler, Rodney's hands tightened on Prudence's shoulders.

"Just a minute, girl. I know why you are flirting so outrageously with Jim, but has it occurred to you that what may be fun to you may prove a knockout for him?"

Prudence twisted free and asked with suspicious sweetness: "Suppose I am not flirting?"

"Dark, isn't it? Pitch-black roads must be a state of Maine specialty," Prudence commented, as she bent forward to look through the windshield against which an occasional big snowflake splashed and melted. "To-morrow you will be winging to New York. Jean and I will let us to the post office daily for letters."

"We'll keep you informed as to progress. I'm glad you asked Jean to stay with you. That girl is growing a soul."

"Curious that she has so little love for either of her parents. Usually a child adores one of them."

"Have you heard anything about her father which sounds lovable? As for her mother—she is the type of, know-it-all females who fires me with a desire to hurl something at her, preferably something that will squash. Know the urge?"

"To a quiver. It's wonderful to hear you laugh again."

"It is a sound to which you will get accustomed from now on. When I opened my eyes this morning, it seemed as if I emerged from a smothering fog into light and life—full, vigorous, courageous life—with a renewed assurance of the indestructibility of the human soul. Through the corridors of my mind echoed the fragment of a verse I haven't thought of for years: 'Lengthening roads that wind through dust and heat to hill-tops clear.' Hilltops clear! I awoke on this morning. Here we are. Those lighted windows in the red brick look like brilliant eyes watching for us. Nice old house."

"I love it. Always feel like patting it as I pass."

David Schuyler turned as he stepped from the car.

"It helps to hear you say that, Prue. You don't know how troubled I have been—that for me you gave up your friends and work in the city to come into the country. If you had been discontented—"

Prudence laughed. "I discontented! Somebody once said, 'Tragedy is chic but discontent is dowdy.' Now, I ask you, can you think of me as being dowdy?"

"I can think of you only as being the best little sport on earth," her brother commended gruffly.
 David wouldn't think her the best little sport on earth if he knew how tight and choky her throat was at the thought of his making the trip to the city. Suppose it were to undo all the good that life in the country had accomplished. Prudence asked herself the next morning, as before breakfast, she ran down the stairs. She stopped in amazement as Rodney Gerard, David, and Jane Mack stepped from her shop.

"What in the world—have you changed your plans?" she demanded, and drew a quick sigh of relief. "What has happened? You three look—"

"Can't Rodney come to tell me of something extra to pack, Prue, with out turning your eyes into huge interrogation points?" David Schuyler demanded with assumed indignation.

"Of course, but—"

"I'll be seeing you, Dave. Prue, be sure that he wears his warmest coat. Keep me posted, Miss Mack." With the last request Rodney Gerard closed the front door behind him.

Prudence looked from her brother's amused eyes to Jane Mack's flushed face.

"What are you to keep him posted about, Stucky?"

"Mr. Gerard knows that I'm kind of anxious about that prisoner who's on the loose, and with no man in the house—"

"Forget it!" David Schuyler interrupted. "Look over my bag and see if I have everything I need, will you, Prue?"

Excitement over the trip was certainly doing David good, not harm. His eyes were brighter, his face less careworn. Prudence decided an hour later, as standing between Jim Armstrong and Jean she watched Rodney Gerard's plane take off from the landing field which had a double runway, east-west, north-south.

Jean slipped an arm in Prue's and one in Armstrong's as they crossed the field which bordered a pond. Prudence commented upon the lure of ponds in general and this one in particular.

"What a place to skate!" she exclaimed in conclusion.
 "It's a bear!" Jean agreed. "Perhaps Uncle Rod will have a skating party for us. Ask him, will you, Miss Prue?"

"We'll wait until the timber is cut before we ask for parties. You understand, K. K., don't you, that the object of your uncle's trip to New York is to be kept a deep, dark secret?"

Jean scowled. "Do you think I'd tell? I'm not dumb if I'm not pretty. I—well, for crying out loud!"

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—What causes a person to become baldheaded? And why do people have different colored hair?

Ans.—Bad circulation in the blood of the scalp is the principal cause of baldness. Inside of each hair there are thousands of little granules of colored substances that, when properly nourished, determine the color of the hair and also its growth. These hair cells go "on strike", so to speak, when they are improperly nourished, and instead of not only refusing to make color, they refuse to make hair at all, as the hair cells become dead. Thus baldness follows.

Ques.—Will you please tell in your question column if the Titanic steamship was American or British owned? When, where and how did it sink? Also the number of lives lost?

Ans.—The ill-fated Titanic was a British-owned vessel, being owned by the White Star Steamship Co. of London. On April 10, 1912, the Titanic left Southampton, England, on its first voyage across the Atlantic. The ship was brand new, having just been completed by Harland & Wolff, shipbuilders of Belfast, Ireland, at a cost of 1,600,000 pounds sterling (approximately $7,500,000). It was the largest and most elaborate ship in the world. On April 14, just four days later, it collided with an iceberg on the Atlantic ocean in 41:16 north, and longitude 50:14 west, at 11:46 p. m. Sunday, and sank at 3:30 a. m. Monday. 1,517 lives were lost, 400 of them being Americans.

Ques.—To settle an argument, will you kindly explain in your questions and answers just what a bench warrant is, and why it is called a "bench" warrant?

Ans.—A bench warrant is a warrant that is issued by a presiding judge, or by a court against a person guilty of contempt of court, or for a person that has been indicted for some crime. It is called a "bench" warrant in distinction from a justice of the peace warrant.

Ques.—I want to ask in your interesting paper what it is that makes a person sneeze?

Ans.—Sneezing is one of the phenomena of nature. In the nostrils there is an automatic device to keep insects and other dangerous atoms from getting into the lungs and the air passage leading to them. If anything touches the nerves in the lining of the nose they send a message to the nerve center of the brain which controls the muscles of the chest. This center orders a sudden contraction of these muscles, and the resulting sneeze blows out whatever it was that touched the nerves. Usually it will repeat until it succeeds in doing so.

Ques.—Silly as it may seem, I am asking you in good faith why are tears salty?

Ans.—Tears are salty because living matter is accustomed to salty solutions. If the tears were not salty they would hurt the living membrane of the eye, which is extremely delicate. All of the fluids in the body and all of its secretions are more or less salty.

Ques.—What is the speed record on a typewriter and who holds it?

Ans.—On July 18, 1912, Miss Frances Wilson of New York established a record of copying 7,219 words in one hour on the typewriter. She made 68 errors, and one word was deducted for each error. This gave her a net score of 115 words a minute. We have no record that this has been beaten.

Ques.—Was the Battleship Maine, which was sunk in Havana harbor, ever raised? If so, where is it now?

Ans.—Yes. The Maine which was sunk on the night of Feb. 15, 1898, was raised in 1911-1912. On March 18, 1912, it was towed out to the open sea and was sunk amid impressive ceremonies. The hull was draped with United States flags, roses and evergreen, and the ceremony took on the aspect of a funeral which was two miles long, headed by two United States cruisers, the Cuban navy and hundreds of smaller craft. It now lies at the bottom of one of the deepest parts of the Atlantic ocean.

Ques.—When a person goes on a visit to an European country is he obliged to get a passport? If so, where does he get it, and how much does it cost, if anything?

Ans.—Yes. Passports are issued to citizens of the United States upon application to the State Department at Washington. The questions in the application are numerous and must be answered and sworn to before a notary public or other persons empowered to administer oaths. The fee is $1.

Republican Meeting

Two hundred Republicans from all parts of Washtenaw county as well as Chelsea were present at the dinner meeting held at the local public school auditorium Wednesday evening. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock by the Senior class of the high school.
