Two Escaped Convicts Spend Night Here

Two escaped convicts from the Detroit House of Correction made their way to Chelsea last Wednesday evening and decided it was a good place to spend the night. Early in the evening they entered the Herman Weber home while the Webers were absent, ransacked the house, taking two suits of Mr. Weber's underwear, a pair of trousers, overcoat, 2 shirts, vest, and a supply of provisions. They ran out the back door of the house when Mrs. Weber returned home.

The two convicts, Tony Sumowski, serving 6 months to 5 years for breaking and entering, and Leopold Zyskowski, serving 90 days for larceny, then changed their clothing. Ralph Collins, a neighbor of the Webers, found two shirts and coats worn in the house of correction, while he was burning rubbish.

Coming to Chelsea in a Dodge car which they stole from Lester Kehrl of Salem, Tuesday night, the convicts parked the stolen car on the grounds of the Federal Screw Works where it was discovered on Thursday. After leaving the Weber place they entered the vacant house of Clarence Ulrich on East street, built a fire in the furnace and evidently were quite comfortable until they left there about midnight. Their next escapade was the theft of a car belonging to Don Joseph, which they drove to near Grass Lake. They then boarded a freight train and went to Kalamazoo where they burglarized a clothing store, taking $90 in cash and some clothing.

The convicts were boarding a bus for Chicago when apprehended by Kalamazoo police who had been advised of the escape. They were returned to the Detroit House of Correction and will be arraigned in this county on the various charges when their terms expire in the Detroit institution.

New License Plates Are Now On Sale

Secretary of State Clarke W. Brown placed the 1935 license plates on sale Saturday, November 17 for both new and old automobiles.
While the law provides that plates be available for new cars on December 1, the secretary is given discretion and the date was advanced in order to stimulate the sale of new cars. In past years department records show that automobile sales declined during November because purchasers wished to delay until the next year's plates were available.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Saturday morning about twenty boys from Troop No. 1, Chelsea Boy Scouts, hiked out to Beavertown. Five boys rode their bicycles and two semi-invalids rode out in the car with the Scoutmaster, M. L. Longworth. The boys went out for the purpose of passing some of their outdoor tests. All cooked their own dinner and then took part in the various games planned and led by the Scoutmaster. After a fine day in the open they returned to Chelsea about 4 o'clock.

This week the Boy Scouts are going to assist the Red Cross in their relief work, by gathering up donations of old clothing, bedding and food and taking them to the Red Cross headquarters.

Programs To Feature "Thanks for Health"

Parents of Michigan children were warned by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association this week not to be apprehensive if little Johnny or Mary comes home from school profusely thankful for a little bit of everything, from milk to fresh air and lots of rest.

"Most schools throughout the state began rehearsing their 'Thanks for Health' day programs which will be given next week, opening on Thanksgiving Day," explained Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president.

"Part of the program is a skit in which the children list all sorts of health-giving foods and activities as things to be thankful for and according to reports, they are enthusiastically adding a lot of items from their own experience which are not included in the script. And that's something that we of the anti-tuberculosis movement can be thankful for, because it means our health education is taking effect."

Health-promoting services made possible by the tuberculosis Christmas seal sale were declared to be indispensable to the state's school systems by Dr. Paul F. Volker, state superintendent of public instruction recently when he gave his endorsement to the "Thanks for Health" day program.

HILLTOPS CLEAR

By Emile Loring

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Prudence Schuyler comes from New York to Prosperity Farm, inherited from her uncle, to make a new life for herself and her brother, David, whose health has been broken by tragedy.

CHAPTER II.—The second day on her farm, Prudence ventures into the barn lot after a pile of hay and falls to the ground—would have been badly hurt had not strong young arms been there to catch her. The arms are those of Rodney Gerard, rich, handsome, who lives at Hilltop Ledges on the neighboring farm. There is at once a mutual attraction between the two. Rod decides to stay at his home throughout the fall and winter, leaving after the Thanksgiving dinner to maintain a cool attitude toward him. She suspects men since her sister's husband ran away with her brother's wife.

CHAPTER III.—Ten Calloway, a rival of Rod Gerard, tries to buy the timber off Prue's land, but she dislikes his conceited attitude and distrusts him. Rod to dispose of the timber on the evening Prue is expecting David from New York who is visited by Mrs. Walter Gerard and her thirteen-year-old daughter, Jean. They are hateful, curious persons and leave Prue rankled.

CHAPTER IV.—A few days later Prudence comes in contact with them again when they accompany Rod to his place. A child comes, advertising a circus in a nearby town. Prue promises to accompany Rod and Jean to the circus.

CHAPTER V.—They go to the circus, and while they are watching the parade, a child, an old clown, is accidentally killed. He was the grandfather of Milly Gooch, one of the circus riders. Rod becomes friendly with Milly when she and her parents spent a year on Prosperity Farm. Now her parents are dead. Calloway intimidates the circus manager in the distance so that they cannot be hired to cut the timber for Rodney Gerard.

CHAPTER VI.—Milly Gooch broke her engagement to Calloway. He leaves it was the cause and has since been Rod's enemy. After the accident to the clown, Rod calls on Milly to see if he can be of any help. Prue hardens herself with "I'm against Rod when she sees in the newspaper a flashlight picture of him with Milly.

With all her force Prudence brought the full side of the ax down on his arm. His sentence shattered into profanity. His arm clattered to the floor. Gerard seized it, thrust it against his back as he whirled on Prue.

"What! Cut that out!"

"What! Cut that out!" Gerard's words, if not his voice, were a perfect imitation as he prattled the cursing, shambling man toward the door.

Calloway thundered: "You're not letting him get away, Rod? Don't you know he's the escaped prisoner they're hunting?"

"He won't make his get-away with you at his heels. Give your job to deliver him to the sheriff after you've tricked Mike Schuyler's pearls off him. Get busy, Len."

How could Rodney be so cool, so smiling, Prudence wondered frantically. "He don't need get busy. Here they are." The captive pulled the lovely, hairless strip from under his ragged, dirty shirt. Prudence snatched it from the floor and clutched it tight against her breast.

"Come across with those jewels!" Gerard poked a reminder.

"Jasen, don't get fresh with the gut. I've coughed up the pearls, ain't I?—an' I don't know nothin' about no jewels!"

"Let him go! Let him go! I don't care about the jewels. Please let him go." The break in Prue's voice maddened her.

"The muscles of Gerard's jaw tightened.

"You're way!" He held out the revolver. "Take it, Len. Don't let this bird stop till you have him safe behind bars."

Calloway gripped the gun. He said through clenched teeth:

"You're making chances. How do you know I won't shoot you?"

Rodney Gerard regarded him through narrowed lids and smiled.

"Because you're such a just man, Len. Drop that ax, Prue, you won't need it again."

"Get going!" Calloway's fury was partially expended in the jab he gave the man at the other end of the revolver.

The door swung on its hinges. Through the opening came the crackling of twigs under stumbling, heavy feet, rough voices. The sounds dwindled into forest silence.

"Is it safe to go now?" With unsteady fingers Prue tried to clasp the pearls about her throat.

"In just a minute. Let me do that. Bend your head, Gorgeous."

The husk in Gerard's voice, his fingers against the back of her neck set Prue shivering again.

"What's the matter?" He looked down at her skirt. "Your clothes are soaked. Your lips are blue. How did you get so wet? That's a mean bruise. What happened?"

"Lost my way. Fell into the brook."

He pulled off his coat. "Put your wanted to tell you of our experiences—but if you've taken cold."

"I never take cold. As soon as I get of these wet clothes I'll be all right." How could she face Jim Armstrong, she wondered.

He lifted her out of the roadster and pulled off the robe. "You're shivering. There isn't a light in the house. Where is Jane Mack?"

"Having tea with Mrs. S.S. probably."

"You're shivering again. Come on! I'm going in with you!"

"No! No! Go home! I don't need anyone."

"See you! Come on!" He laid a compelling arm about her shoulders and drew her along the path. The knob of the front door turned under his hand. He followed her into the living room which was faintly lighted by blinking coals on the hearth.

"Sit in that wing chair. Don't try to talk."

He hung pine cones from the big copper kettle beside the fireplace on the embers. They blazed. Carefully he laid birch kindling, when that caught he piled on large logs and lighted the lamp.

Prudence protested hoarsely: "Please don't do anything more. I can take care of myself."

"Get a heater in the house? Is your room warm?"

"My own room upstairs? Only when I have a fire in the stove."

"Then I'll get your dry clothes, you can't stay in those wet things, and you are not going up to that cold room to change. Stick out your foot."

He dropped to one knee and undressed the boot—she automatically held out. For an instant she was dumb from surprise, but only for an instant.

"Rodney Gerard, don't dare go to my room."

"Did you say 'dare'? I'm going under the Trailing with the Enemy net. It's being used this year."

He carefully removed the other boot, placed the pair side by side on the hearth, and crossed the room.

Huddled in the wing chair, she regarded him as he returned. Green crepe pajamas hung over one arm, her flannel house coat striped in blue and green over the other. How had he known what to bring?

"Here you are! Get out of those wet things and into these."

He drew a chair in front of the fire and laid the garments over its back. Prudence regarded him with a superior smile, as superior as a smile could be with clattering teeth behind it.

"Just naturally helpful, aren't you? I haven't the slightest intention of changing. I'll stay here until Macky gets back."

"You have another glass coming to you. You'll change to dry clothes while I'm in the kitchen making a cup of hot tea. Now get this. If you haven't when I come back, I'll peel off those wet things myself. He poked on the fire. "Make it snappy. It doesn't take long to boil water."

Prudence wrinkled her nose at his back. The act of defiance precipitated a body-wrenching sneeze. Let him try to make her change. Just let him try.

Entertainment At High School Friday

Motion pictures of the Muscle Shoals Project will be shown in the high school auditorium on Friday evening, November 23 at 8:00. In addition to the 1000 feet of film showing the project will appear some tap dancing and a colored male quartet. A good entertainment is promised to all who come.

Many people have sometime heard of Muscle Shoals, but can tell you little about it. They doubtless cannot tell you just what state it happens to be in. Considerable interest is being shown in this area located in the Tennessee Valley in the state of Alabama, since President Roosevelt came to be president. Known for many years as the "Government's White Elephant" it is now blossoming out to be one of the administration's great social experiments.

In March, 1933, Congress authorized the completion of the Muscle Shoals plants as part of a large scheme for the development of the Tennessee Valley area. A board of three men, known as "Tennessee Valley Authority," with nine year term of office was created to take this entirely out of scope of political influence.

This project is one of the greatest social experiments ever attempted in our country. It should be of sufficient interest for you to come and see it. This scheme is gigantic and calls for factories, good roads, good schools, churches, medical centers, dental clinics, business places and the building of thousands of new homes.

The Chelsea Seniors are bringing this to Chelsea for benefit of the people of the community, old and new alike. It will show you something you can't get out of books, magazines or newspapers. Attractively many people are living in this area.

Doctor Morgan, who is the director plans to promote rural life along with construction work. About twice as many men will be hired as there is work to employ. Each man will work three days a week as a paid laborer, leaving three days to tend a two acre farm which will be provided by the government for each worker.

The Seniors promise you a very good entertainment and know you will enjoy it. As an extra attraction the Muscle Shoals company will purchase a sack of flour from each independent merchant. These bags of flour will be given away at the end of the program to the one whose name is drawn from a box.

Our travel shelf is growing. We have articles from Holland, Michigan, Niagara Falls, Atlantic Ocean, and Vancouver. Each time Miss Kern calls the roll now we give various parts of a turkey.

Sixth Grade
Louis Palmer and Grace Blomenschneider had a birthday recently. We are learning the song "Over the River and Through the Woods." Our bulletin board is attractively decorated for Thanksgiving, which is not very far off.

Girls' Athletics

Basketball season again! To those who can't remember what the season was like, I will tell you. The girls won four and lost two. Not bad! We hope to do better this year, but the absence of four very good players may prove fatal. Ruth Paist, Helen Hofferek, Jean With and Barbara Blecker graduated last June and whether we can get along without them or not remains to be seen.

The tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades are to be under the direction of Miss Hazard, very ably assisted by Miss Foylke. 24 girls came to the meeting and we start practice on Thursday. We plan to use both three court and two court basketball. We have games scheduled with Manchester, Clinton and Belleville and hope to have more before the season starts.

EDITORIAL

Caution is often confused with cowardice.

Caution consists of prudence in regard to danger.

Cowardice is defined as dishonorable fear.

Caution is often a sign of true bravery, while inaction only indicates foolishness. Of course inaction is excusable under certain circumstances, where an instant delay may mean injury or death, but such an occasion occurs very seldom.

Therefore, in general:

CAUTION can make you FOOLHARDINESS will surely break you.

Caesar Says

Nice weather for November! Am I right? Don't worry, this isn't going to be all about weather. But just the same I have spring fever again.

Now for the unusual part—foolish sayings having sensible meanings. The only time a girl's time is precious is when she wears a diamond wrist watch.

A patient fought with his dentist to save a tooth, which ended in a draw.

Something which will keep your mind is a bushful boy friend.

Many a man has been stung trying to get a little honey for himself.

Now for our "antique" jokes:
M. Bruckner: I say only what I know.
Virginia Cooper—Ah, one of those big, strong, silent men.

Estelle Stoltz: It is just midnight; the moment when miracles happen.
N. Wink—I think.
Estelle—There! Didn't I tell you?

Lost (What a relief) the morning department.
A person born during this week should not jump from thirteen story windows; it might prove fatal, and he will dislike persons who hum theme songs at the movies.

—So long.

Sportsmanship

What say the bleachers on the field? Long empty and disused? For many a week they have appeared. Tired are they of being abused. Of hearing outcalls and boos. What if the opposing team does win? Is that such an awful sin? That which is uttered from the lip, Tells about your sportsmanship.

Van Dyke Squad Tops Chelsea Hi Eleven

Chelsea Hi officially closed their gridiron season last Friday when it dropped the last game of the season to the powerful Van Dyke eleven. The score was 19 to 6.

This game closed the 1934 football season and Chelsea High came thru with a team that was tied for second place in the Huron Valley League. Milan was the only team in the league that beat Chelsea. Leo Allhouse, Max Youngs, Junior Seitz, Captain Norman Wenk, Robert Williams, Loren Beutler, Robert Niehaus, Richard Sowers and Lynn Dancer are the Seniors who have completed football for the high school. These boys showed a good spirit all season and without a doubt they will be missed next year. There is good reserve material and chances are that Coach Spaulding will build up a good team as he has done in the past years. A great deal of credit should be given to Mr. Spaulding for his time and effort.

Real Football

All this season of football everyone of our dear Hi-Lighter readers have watched carefully. Nickle Panarites' interesting resume of the games. However, Nickle in telling all the technical details forgot a few things. Did you ever stop and listen to the remarks flying around in the side lines? If you ever have you've probably discovered they're much more amusing than the actual battle itself—especially among those remarks of the feminine supporters. Here's a part of what you'd doubtless hear—

Something from everyone. Gee, look here they come—my gosh, they're big! Heck! Not as big as Seitz! Where? Heavens! Look at him! Which one? Number 27, no, 34—did you ever see such a handsome? And he's blonde and I simply can't stand them! Wonder if Millie remembered the green dress? Hey! Get that horse out of here! Come on Bunty! Let's yell—it's kickoff. Gee, look at him—that's the best player on the team. Girls say he's the nicest kid in his town. Sweet dancer. Bet he's not any better than some of our boys. Come on, Peter! No, oh! he's down. Gosh! They did it! He's down! That's not him purposely, feel! Say did you hear the latest—ya it's Ozzie alright—and guess Max has support, too, huh? Oh! the mean! He's hurt him. Gee, they all pick on him, he's such a little guy they think. Oh! Somebody's hurt! Who is it? Gosh! It's start praying, Jane McGaffigan! It might be—No! Oh look, it's Normie! Oh! that big brute! He's twice as big as Normie—why don't they pick on somebody their own size. Oh! He's up—look at his nose. Oh—let's go away. Gee, there's some kids I know, come on! Did you get a hot dog? Where's Bunty? Yeah team! Yeah team! Fight 'em—fight 'em—fight 'em! Oh! Stop him. Stop him. That's a don't it up! Come on Uncle Richard! Hey—penalty! Goodie! He's not us. Oh boy now watch. I'll be a puss. Nope! Now let's go to town! Oh, who's that coming in? Isn't it adorable? Look at these curls! Gee, Bob Williams isn't here is he? Who'd you say you're going with? Wait till she hears that. Get in these Ozzie! Oh! Oh! Take him out—oh—a-h-h! He's over!

So it goes on every Friday afternoon—and probably will for years to come.
