Recreation B. B. Team Plays Here Tuesday

Sponsored by the Recreation Restaurant, and under the training of Dr. L. J. Paul, a group of Chelsea young men, who have made a name for themselves in basketball circles, are appearing in their first game of the season next Tuesday evening, December 4, at the public school auditorium against the fast Ypsilanti Coal team, and their schedule which is being prepared calls for games with teams representing Ann Arbor, Jackson, Tekonsha, Northville, Detroit and Muskegon.

All of their home games will be played on Tuesday evenings and the Trojan basketball team will be pitted against a strong adversary and will play the preliminary games. This will assure local fans a real large evening of first-rate basketball.

The team line-up is:

R. Foster, L. E. Swickard, C. Roasbach, L. G. Bill Howe, R. G. Lixey, Substitutes, J. Dvorak.

Anyone who has been following the Chelsea basketball teams of previous years knows that this line-up will give Chelsea front rank in basketball circles.

Evangelical League Attends Saline Meet

Sunday school workers and League members of the Ann Arbor Federation of Evangelical churches held a Get-Together meeting and social entertainment on Thursday evening at the high school gymnasium in Saline. More than 200 were in attendance, including about 25 from St. Paul's Evangelical League, Chelsea.

A banquet was served at 6:30, after which a miscellaneous program was given, a number being furnished by each society. For Chelsea, Paul E. Niehaus responded with two solos, "De Old Ark's a Moverin'" and "Lanterns," while Paul Junior Niehaus rendered cymbal and tambourine solos, "I Saw Stars" and "Three Little Piggies," with Mrs. Niehaus as accompanist.

Eldon Hawley, in behalf of the Chelsea League, presented the trophy to Saline for having the largest attendance.

TRUCK COLLIDES WITH TREE

As Lloyd Lantis was driving on West Middle, St. Saturday forenoon, on his way to the gravel pit, something went wrong with the steering gear of his truck, the brakes would not work and he ran into a tree, almost completely wrecking his truck. Mr. Lantis received minor injuries to his head and knee, while Harold McDonald, who accompanied him, received bad gashes on his face and forehead.

Sharon Farmer Is Found Murdered

Michael Cerwinika, a Sharon township farmer about 40 years of age, was found murdered in a field near his home at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

When neighbors discovered that his stock had not been fed, they called his brother, Philip, and started an investigation. They found Mr. Cerwinika with his skull badly crushed and several stones near his head. It is believed he had been dead since Sunday. His wife was at the home of her parents in Ann Arbor.

The body was taken to the A. E. Jorgensen funeral home in Manchester, where an autopsy was to be held today (Wednesday). Sheriff's officers are investigating and it is reported that a neighbor has been placed under arrest.

Mr. Cerwinika is survived by the widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cerwinika, a brother, Philip, and a sister, Mrs. Bena Calles, all of Sharon.

Chelsea Wins Debate

The Chelsea high school affirmative debating team won a unanimous decision from the Napoleon high school team at the C. H. S. gym on Monday evening, November 26. Judges were Supt. Dunkel of Manchester, Supt. Van Aken of Dexter and John Allison, instructor in Ann Arbor H. S.

The Chelsea team was Richard Sowars, Estelle Seitz and Jean Blocker. The Chelsea coach is Miss Virginia Harris, and Miss Barrus and her team are to be congratulated on their splendid victory.

SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY

Rosa Munro was pleasantly surprised last Wednesday evening when a number of his friends arrived to help him celebrate his birthday. Five tables of 500 were in play. First prizes were awarded to Mrs. Irwin Klump and James Munro; second prizes to Mrs. Wilbert Breitenwischer and Lynn Kern, and consolation prizes to Mrs. Lynn Kern and Wilbert Breitenwischer. Delicious refreshments were served. Mr. Munro was presented with a gift.

WILL MAKE ROPE HALTERS

The Animal Husbandry class of C. H. S. will give a demonstration on the making of rope halters in the window of Chelsea Hardware Co. on Saturday, December 1, starting at 1:00 o'clock. Anyone desiring to have a halter made by these boys may have it done by furnishing the necessary amount of rope. Information regarding the amount and size of rope will be given by these boys.

Local Livestock At International Show

Among the 50 fleeces making up the wool exhibit from Michigan at the International Livestock Show to be held in Chicago, December 1 to 8 are the pure bred sheep owned by George Halst and Son, and also those owned by Edwin Knapp.

The livestock exhibit totaling 400 animals is the largest ever shown by Michigan breeders. Individual animals that have the best show records in the state this year are included.

Besides the 37 horses, the sheep number close to 300 animals, including two carloads of lambs for the carload exhibit. Fifty fleeces are being shown under the sponsorship of the Michigan Pure-Bred Sheep Breeders' Association; and more than 50 head of beef cattle are included in the state beef exhibit. Since the breeding classes have been taken out of the show and only classes for barrows are now included, the swine exhibit from Michigan is light. Michigan State College, however, is again showing 13 barrows in this department.

Breeders of each of these classes of animals shipped together, thereby cutting transportation costs and making it possible for some exhibitors to send only one animal. Individuals who did not have a full carload sent their animals to Michigan State College to be shipped in carload lots.

The exhibitors include some of the largest breeders in the state.

Dates Announced for 4-H Show - Banquet

The annual 4-H Club show, sponsored by the local Kiwanis club, will be held at the Saline town hall on Saturday, December 8. The 4-H and Kiwanis cooperative banquet will be held at the public school auditorium on Monday evening, December 10.

Included in the show this year will be the livestock of 4-H members, and one of the best shows ever, to be staged by this group is promised. A good program is being prepared for the banquet on Monday evening.

HUNTERS HAVE TOUGH LUCK

Mahlon Dunkel, Irwin Klump, Roy Dillon, Grant Schooley, Otto Lucht, Graham Sprague, Isadore Eder and Leroy Mayer returned Friday from a 10-day hunting trip near Ontonagon. The latter was the only one of the party who killed a buck. According to reports the outing was very enjoyable, however, except for the fact that a "green" chef was employed to prepare delicacies for the festive board. Members of the party say that with a few years' experience, Graham Sprague might be recommended for this duty.

Expect More People
Will Live On Farms

Definite indications that the population on farms will be greater in the next 10 years than it has been in the past decade were pointed out by speakers at the conference of agricultural agents at Michigan State College.

Two main causes for the reversal of the migration to the cities were cited. Many people who moved from farms to towns where they found employment are now back in their home neighborhoods and there is little chance that the older of these people will be employed in shops again. Young people will prevent them finding work in cities.

Men and women who would have gone to towns in the years immediately after 1920 have stayed on farms because they could not find work elsewhere. Most of them will have established homes or will have become older than employment agents desire before business again demands rural people in numbers to man machines in factories.

Problems of adjusting the greater number of residents on farms to conditions as they are now face those who are expected to be agricultural leaders. An increase in the number of producers of farm products surely will have a tendency to increase the amount of food stuffs grown and to decrease the prices received for them.

Much of this increased amount of food will be consumed if city laborers get regular pay envelopes. Until employment conditions improve, farmers will have to plan to conduct their business upon a basis of getting a great deal of their living from their farm and of cutting their cash expenditures to the least possible amount.

Considerable time has been spent in awaiting the return of conditions such as existed in some past period. It now seems to be the better policy to arrange the farm business upon the basis of the present and what can be expected in the future.

Government plans for assisting farmers to obtain parity prices for their produce are to be continued but these plans were announced as temporary when they were begun. Michigan farmers will get benefit payments upon wheat, corn, hogs, and sugar beets if they signed contracts but it would seem to be a sane policy to look ahead and see what might be done to carry the farm business if the benefits are ever discontinued.

Fundamental good farm practices are more essential in bad times than in good times. Proper tilage of the soil, use of the best varieties of tested seeds, application of fertilizers on cash crops, keeping a good supply of excellent livestock, and keeping a set of account books will help any farmer in any kind of economic conditions. It is more profitable to produce 100 units on 10 acres than 100 units on 20 acres, whether it be corn, wheat, or potatoes.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Tell me, dear Sir, what makes a dog wag his tail? Don't duck this question.

Ans.—Our "devil" says that a dog wags his tail because the tail can't wag the dog. However, if you are sincere in this question, we will advise you that the wagging of the tail is simply a dog's characteristic of "smiling" or "beaming" his friendship to you.

Ques.—Will you please answer in this week's issue, or as soon as you can, how deep is the deepest part of the Atlantic ocean? Also, why do airplanes cross the Atlantic by way of Newfoundland?

Ans.—The deepest part of the Atlantic ocean is about 200 miles north of Porto Rico, where the ocean is approximately five miles deep. Airplanes cross the Atlantic by way of Newfoundland simply because this course is the shortest distance from America to Europe. This route is considerably less than a thousand miles before they would reach European shores.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please answer when basketball was first invented? It wasn't known when I went to school in the 80's.

Ans.—You are quite right. Basketball was not known at that time. It was invented in 1891 by James Naismith. It was played by military companies and by the Y. M. C. A. before it found its way into colleges and schools.

Ques.—Who was Pope of Rome during the World War? And what was his attitude in that world conflict?

Ans.—Giuseppe Sarro was Pope of Rome under the title of Pius X when two weeks after the outbreak of the European war the Pope died on Aug. 20, 1914. He was succeeded by Benedict XV as Pope, who died on Jan. 22, 1922. His policy during the World War was strongly in the interest of peace.

Ques.—How was Major Andre, the British spy in the Revolutionary War, captured? And who was it that captured him?

Ans.—Benedict Arnold (at that time an American officer) agreed to give Andre important information about West Point, an American stronghold, for a monetary consideration. To complete the deal Andre sailed up the Hudson and met Arnold in the woods near Stony Point. By some miscalculation Andre was left within the American lines, and, to escape, he took a horse to Tarrytown, but when near that place he was arrested and searched by three men, and papers containing the conditions of the betrayal by Arnold were taken from his person. The three men that captured him were Isaac Van Wert, David Williams, and John Paulding. Each received a pension of $200 a year and were voted a silver medal. A monument now marks the spot where they captured the spy.

Ques.—I would like to ask you what is meant by "gerrymander" when used in politics?

Ans.—This word is derived from the name of Elbridge Gerry, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, who devised a scheme to divide Massachusetts into districts in such a manner that the political party to which he belonged could elect a majority of the State Assembly. The term is now applied in the interest of one party over its opponent. In such instances it is said that the district so organized has been "gerrymandered."

Ques.—Will you please answer which is the proper spelling: "Allegheny" or "Alleghany"?

Ans.—The river, city, and county by that name is spelled "Allegheny", while the mountains and a village near Lynchburg, Va., is spelled "Alleghany."

Ques.—What is the origin of "ampere" as used in electricity?

Ans.—The ampere, the practical unit of electrical current, was so named after Andre Marie Ampere, a celebrated mathematician and physicist, born in Lyons, France, in 1775, and died in Marseilles in 1836. Mr. Ampere began to devote much attention to the phenomena of electromagnetism in 1820, and published a number of profound works on that subject.

Ques.—Where is the town of Bethlehem in Palestine located, if it is still in existence? What is the population?

Ans.—Bethlehem in Palestine is a city of about 10,000 at the present time. It is located six miles south of Jerusalem. It was once destroyed by Moslems, but was restored by the Crusaders in A. D. 1288.

BROOKLYN.—Don Dresser rates as deer hunter No. 1 for Brooklyn this season. He went to West Branch about 40 miles east of Houghton lake last Tuesday and Thursday when the season opened went out and bagged his buck. Friday he brought the 176 pound deer home with him. Exponent.

TECUMSEH.—Thieves, sometime after 12:30 this morning, entered the Butler Motor Sales garage, West Chicago Blvd. and Pearl street, blew open a large office safe and escaped with between $200 and $300. The discovery was made by Bert Updyke, one of the garage employees, when he opened the office soon after 7 o'clock. The thief or thieves—it is believed there was more than one of them—gained an entrance to the building by breaking the glass in a window in the rear of the building. The safe was in the front office, but was moved in to the parts department, where it was blown open and rifled. Cash drawers, placed in the safe when the garage was closed last night, were broken open and left on the floor, and insurance and other valuable papers were strewn about when the discovery was made. PLYMOUTH.—What is probably the biggest deer brought back to Plymouth during the present hunting season was the one shot last week by Alonzo Brookhouser who was hunting in the Upper Peninsula some 30 miles west of the Soo with Forrest Gorton, one of the city mail carriers. When dressed the deer weighed considerably over 200 pounds. Old timers in the woods estimated that the deer before being cleaned must have weighed well over 300 pounds. It has sixteen points and when hung up to a tree, it looked something like a young elephant. Mail.

Roll Call And Human Reactions

Miss Hazard was taking roll one morning when she had an inspiration. She looked down the aisle, counted the feet, and divided by two. The result was successful.

Later, Miss Hazard decided to list the human reactions in a study hall. When the list was complete it looked something like this:

1. Twisting of the spine and neck to see behind.
2. Trying to dislocate jaws by chewing gum.
3. Feet and legs sprawled everywhere but under the desks.
4. Many over active tongues.
5. Overworked vocal cords.

The Biology Banquet

The Biology Club which was organized under the supervision of Mr. Lyons at the beginning of the year, has taken a step forward into society.

Last Tuesday, November 20, 1934 at 6:30 a banquet was given for all members of the Biology Club. The menu consisted of roast pork and all the trimmings. Everyone enjoyed it immensely.

The tables were in a square shape with the red-fox, which Messrs. Lyons and Johnson caught, on their hunting trip, on a table surrounded by leaves in the center. The fox was the chief subject. Mr. Johnson told the tale of how it was caught. He himself, being the one who had had the pleasure of shooting it. Mr. Wasikiewicz read a very interesting detailed subject on foxes. Remarks were given by Mr. Lyons and Mr. Niehaus, with Mr. Allhouse acting as toastmaster. Then everyone, after having had a very enjoyable evening, returned home in the pouring rain.

Courtesy!

Courtesy! How many times have we heard that word only to seemingly forget its meaning as soon as it means lost time.

Courtesy is essential everywhere. We like to go into a hotel and be treated courteously by the employees. In traveling or in everyday life we should be courteous. A home may be broken up by such discourteous acts as talking back to your mother or constantly finding fault with things about the home. You must remember courtesy starts in the home.

We the Sophomores have organized a Courtesy Club for the purpose of making the Sophomores a more courteous class and we need it. If a Sophomore told his mother that he or she had joined a Courtesy Club, she might say, "Now that is fine and you can start right here in this home," but the Sophomore might reply, "But mother, the club is only for school." This imaginary incident shows that the pupil is misinformed on the purpose of the club. The club is not only active in school but everywhere.

A few other places where courtesy is lacking is on the football field among the spectators on the basketball floor, especially in the home of the opposing team. Sportsmanship is not only being a good loser and a good winner but also being courteous. I believe the school is the principal site of a great deal of discourtesy. A boy is called a sissy, a pansy, and other pet names of most all schools if he is courteous. This should not be! I think our Courtesy Club will have a marked influence on the manners of the Chelsea high school student body.

Caesar Says -

I have practically decided to stick to the business of being a serious and a slightly dull person. For a week, I've been trying to make use of the phrase "An elephant never forgets." Then one evening someone came to return a book which she had borrowed a while ago.

"Well," replied she, handing me the book, "I'm reminded of the old saying, 'An elephant never forgets.'"

Remembering that she had borrowed this book, I wanted to match the first. I said, "I'm reminded of the old saying, 'An elephant never forgets.'"

Leaving you, let me give you this advice: Take care of the ponies and the dollars will take care of themselves.

The earth owes me a living - but I can't collect it.

Wishing myself better luck next time let me say - So long!

Slang is popular but unauthorized language, usually intelligent. Slang has been defined cleverly as vigorous out-law language.

Editorial

Cooperation is what we need to make our school the best. We must cooperate with our teachers, class officers and all the other members of our school.

Our football or basketball team will come out the victors if the players will work and fight together.

Our Sophomores have started a courtesy drive. This courtesy drive will not fail if we work with the Sophomores. The courtesy of the student body as a whole needs much improvement. Thus far we have failed to give our faculty the respect due to them. Courtesy among the students is also lacking.

These clubs and drives will benefit our school so let all cooperate with them. The horses are pulling our cart up a high hill - why shouldn't we get out and push?

Caruso, Junior

By this time Johnny was quite taken down. He'd not counted on anything like this, so after a great deal of fussing around, he answered stiffly:

"I'm sorry - I didn't understand."

"That's quite all right, you weren't expected to. However I am still waiting for you to confess your interest in music. It's not very often you find people in as small a town as this who have a conception of the fine arts the way you do - so stop being so absurdly bashful, and answer me before I die of anticipation."

Johnny resented being called bashful, even by her. It made him quite furious, so he answered with much determination:

"Why should I tell you?"

"Now don't be that way. My intentions are quite noble, I assure you. By the way, who are you anyway? Not the family gardener I know, because he was about seventy the last time I was here."

"Well," answered Johnny quite determinedly, "I'm Johnny Sullivan, son of Michael Sullivan, the chief of police in this city. I'm red-headed, Irish to the core, white, single, and twenty-one, and I like to sing!"

"Now we're getting somewhere," she said triumphantly. "So you like to sing. I suppose you think you're another Crosby, radio bound?"

"I do NOT!" he interrupted her furiously. "I hate crooners, crooning and I can't stand jazz. I'm for opera in a big way and I can't hardly wait until I get there. Ever been in the Metropolitan?"

"Yes, a number of times. It's quite a place - I -"

Just at this point a girl in black and white uniform entered the room. Janet Meade saw her. "Yes, Celie?"

"Mr. Dawson is here," said the quiet voice of the girl.

Johnny still standing outside the open window, felt his heart slipping as she exclaimed, running to the doorway: "Bring him in quick!" - and when there was no response, "Where on earth is he?"

Finally with a little squeal of joy, she leaped toward him, as he loomed in the doorway.

He was also very distinguished looking. His suit looked very much like Bond Street, and was nearly as good looking as the men in the Stetson hat ads. His attire was complete even to the small gardenia in his button-hole.

In other words he was typically New York, and openly displayed the fact that he was wealthy, or perhaps one of these proud but starving aristocrats, though his appearance spelled wealth.

Janet kissed him briefly but affectionately, and exclaimed: "Oh, Greg, I'm so glad you've come. Indeed you look like the dickens right now."

He smiled a lazy smile, then he said:

"Always glad to be of service, lady. What have you got up your sleeve now? Don't tell me you've written a lullaby for me. No, but seriously, Jan, I'm certainly pleased with the way I was received around here. I thought sure you'd have watchdogs and detectives all around the place to see that you weren't interrupted from your fairy tales. I thought sure I was risking life and limb to venture to see you here, and when I arrive - lo, and behold, you practically fall on my neck - and when I think of the way you talked when you left. It must be something terrific. Go on, shoot."

She gave him a little hug, then went on. "You should see him; Greg, he's absolutely darling. He has the nicest red hair, and the handsomest brown eyes, Greg, and he does not have a lot of freckles. His name is Johnny, and his pop's the chief of police. He's Irish to the core, white, single, and twenty-one and just the thing you're looking for. He thinks he likes opera and declares up and down that he hates jazz. He loves Wagnerian opera, knows who Caruso is and loves to sing. Now there it is, all in one breath. What more could you want?"

The eminent Mr. Dawson frowned a moment, then raising his eyes to the ceiling, back to the floor and back to Janet, said:

"Have I a rival on the scene so soon? He sounds all right, if he's as good as you say he is. Personally I think it's too good to be true, and I'm wondering if I like the idea so well. He must be pretty good to get nonchalant Miss Meade so enthusiastic."

"And I must be pretty good if I can get the very famous and famous Mr. Dawson a little jealous. But come on Greg, I'll show him to you. He's just outside the window in the music room. You'll want him the first thing you know."

HIDE MILDLY THE ERRING
(Selected)
As true today as when Grandpa sang it 75 years ago

Chide mildly the erring, kind language endear,
Grief follows the sinful, add not to their tears;
Avoid with reproaches fresh pain to bestow,
The heart which is stricken, needs never a blow.

Chide mildly the erring, jeer not at their fall,
If strength be but human, how weakly were all;
What marvel, that footsteps should wander astray,
When tempests so shadow life's wearisome way.

Chide mildly the erring, entreat them with care,
Their natures are mortal, they need not despair;
We all have some frailty, we all are unwise,
The grace which redeems us must come from the Skies.

Thanksgiving Day

TO OUR FOREFATHERS who developed this great land of plenty we owe much.

They were courageous, hard-working and thrifty, and above all thankful for the blessings their honest efforts and labors brought them.

Is it not well then that we too, on this Thanksgiving Day, as we enjoy our pumpkin pie and turkey, consider our own courage, hard-work and thrift and be truly thankful for the wonderful example our forefathers gave us.
