Six Bids Presented for Postoffice Site

Six bids were presented to H. D. Witherell, postmaster, on sites for the proposed new postoffice building in Chelsea, and the bids were opened in the office of the postmaster on Tuesday, the last day for filing such bids. Bids presented were for the following property: A group bid by A. B. Clark, A. H. Schumacher, Fred Klingler, Mrs. Edith Weber and Mrs. Tillie Lehman, et al, for property with frontage on Park street; Howard Wals, for his property on West Middle street; E. J. and Nettie Notten, for their property, corner of South Main and South streets; Jay and Luella Weinberg, for their property adjacent to the Notten property on South street; A. W. Wilkinson, for property on South Main street adjacent to the Notten property; Wm. F. Wheeler and Mary L. Faust, for property on West Middle street. The bids were filed by Mr. Witherell and will be inspected by Roy La Forge, Postoffice Inspector and Site Agent, who will be here on Monday, September 9. Mr. La Forge will investigate the various sites and study real estate values in Chelsea before making his recommendation, if any, to the Procurement Division, Public Works Branch, at Washington. He will also make a study to determine the necessity for a Federal building in Chelsea.

Norman Bush Killed In Automobile Crash

Norman Bush, 38, of Lyndon township, was instantly killed at 4:15 Thursday afternoon, when an automobile driven by his brother, James Bush, Jr., in which Norman and his father, James Bush, Sr., were passengers, hit an embankment and overturned on the Manchester road, south of Chelsea. It is said that Bush, who was driving at an excessive rate of speed, lost control of his car, which swerved back and forth across the highway before hitting the embankment. Norman Bush died of a broken neck. James and his father were given medical treatment at a local doctor's office for cuts and bruises. The car was demolished.

Norman Bush was born in Lyndon township September 30, 1896, and had lived there his entire life. He is survived by his father, a twin brother, Austin, and two other brothers, James of Lyndon and Howard of Ypsilanti, and three sisters, Mrs. Lewis Fahrner of Sylvan township, Mrs. Fannie Bowerman of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Lou McCoy of Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Staffan funeral home, Rev. F. D. Mumby officiating. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Waterloo.

Work Provided for All Employable Men

With the construction of the viaduct under the M. C. R. R. four miles west of Chelsea, and the new sections of US-12 east of Lima Center, the working men of Chelsea and vicinity are being provided with jobs which will carry on until spring and Chelsea is perhaps the first community to fully benefit under the new works program as every able bodied or employable man on the relief rolls has been provided with employment, and many not on the relief have been placed on the US-12 construction. These jobs are on a 130-hour per month basis and pay is in line with the prevailing wages for the district. Buildings for field offices, shelters and material storage have been erected along the M. C. R. R. and new US-12 intersection and approximately 100 men will be employed at this point. Two centers have been established along US-12 east of Lima and the steam shovels and scrapers are rapidly grading the old D. U. R. right of way preparatory to laying a 31 ft. pavement to connect with the pavement leading out of Ann Arbor.

GOLD SINGLES TOURNAMENT
The first singles tournament to be held in Chelsea will be staged Saturday and Sunday, September 7 and 8. All entries must be turned in to Thos. Alexander on or before noon Friday, Sept. 6. An entry fee of 25c per person will be charged to cover cost of staging the tournament. A gold medal will be given to the winner and runner-up.

LOSERS ENTERTAIN
The losers, in the recent contest held by the Bridge Dinner club, entertained the winners at a dinner on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. H. H. Avery. Mrs. L. T. Freeman received the travelling prize. Mrs. E. R. Dancer was presented with a gift in appreciation of her keeping the records of the club for several years.

LILACS ARE BLOOMING
Lilacs are blooming in Chelsea for the second time this season. Ed. Gentner picked a bouquet of white lilacs from a bush on the McGinness property Wednesday and brought the flowers to the Standard office.

BULLETIN!

A telegram was received by Captain Flo late Wednesday afternoon from Major Stark of Camp Custer, with orders to "abandon occupancy of Chelsea CCC Camp and return with advance party to Black Lake Camp." Further information will be forthcoming from Major Stark as to the reason for this surprise order. The only explanation which can be given by local camp and project officials is the failure to enlist a sufficient number of veterans for the camp company. However, a new recruiting period started on September 1 and it is believed that within a period of 30 days the full company will be recruited. Project officials state that this order coming from Major Stark does not mean that the camp will be abandoned as army officials have been anxious to see the camp established.

First Contingent Is Now Stationed At Sylvan CCC Camp

The first detail of 25 veterans from Black Lake Camp have arrived at the Mill Lake CCC Camp, Sylvan township, having traveled from their camp near Rogers City to the Portage Lake CCC Camp on Saturday, where they were quartered over the week-end. They are engaged in setting up tents for the next contingent of 57 men who will be sent here from the Black Lake Camp within the next week or two. The remainder of the company of 200 men will be selected from the list being enrolled at Camp Custer, and are expected to arrive at the camp some time this fall. Captain Leonard Flo will be in charge of the camp personnel, and will make his headquarters in Chelsea.

Orange and black guide signs have been posted at the corners of the road from Chelsea to the Mill Lake camp, and the work of staking out the locations for temporary barracks and permanent buildings is getting under way. The CCC men, under National Park Service supervision, will construct the recreation hall, temporary garage, pump house, sewers, disposal tanks and fields, trenching for water lines, in addition to other improvements, such as beach work, camp roads, miscellaneous grading, insect pest control, etc.

Contracts for the materials to be used in construction at the camp will be let through army channels, and it is expected that many local skilled and unskilled men will be employed to aid in the construction work, especially on the permanent buildings.

F. R. Nelle, civil engineer, of Wyandotte, has been employed for work on the Waterloo project and has reported here to take up his duties. According to H. A. Lamley, camp superintendent for the National Park Service, states that his department will be started on the improvement within the project as soon as the CCC camp is well established.

Captain Flo states that all provisions for the camp will be purchased in Chelsea, which will eventually amount to an expenditure of about $5,000.00 per month here. This revenue, in addition to the bringing of thousands of tourists who will be attracted here by the project, should prove to be a real benefit to Chelsea business.

The following accomplishments served to keep the veterans of the 2689th company, located at Camp Portage, busy this last week:

Park road drain to lake completed. Drain making woods north of camp accessible. Fill in the same area partially completed.

Mill Lake 1 1/2 miles of power line completed. Started work on beach fill and are making rapid progress.

All trucks equipped with safety rails and seats. Clean-up completed of temporary entrance.

Wrecking of second group of buildings partially completed. Tool boxes completed for all details.

To top off this full week they defeated the Grass Lake soft ball team by the score of 20 to 12.

HERBERT VOGEL PROMOTED
L. P. Vogel received word last week from his son Herbert, who had just returned to Fort Leavenworth, Kan. after a month's vacation, that he had been promoted from a First Lieutenant to the rank of Captain.

Conservation Ass'n Will Meet Tuesday

The next meeting of the Washtenaw County Conservation Association will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Building in Ann Arbor at eight o'clock Tuesday evening, September 10.

There will be no speakers or other entertainment features. Instead the entire session will be devoted to a discussion of the Williamson Plan and an attempt to put some form of it into operation in Washtenaw county during the coming hunting season.

This plan involves cooperation between the landowners of a district and a sportsmen's organization, binding the latter to the observance of rules in hunting, which are in themselves a guarantee to the farmer against indiscriminate trespass.

Members of the sportsmen's association would wear bright colored buttons or other distinguishing badges while hunting and land owners would have the assurance that hunters wearing these buttons would observe the following rules:

1. The hunter's car would always be left in the farmyard of the man on whose land he was hunting.
2. The hunter would undertake to exercise every precaution against breaking down fences, leaving gates open, shooting toward buildings or stock, etc.
3. The association would undertake to compensate landowners in case of any failure to observe these rules by any of its members.

It is expected that the sportsmen's organization and the land owners would cooperate in such measures designed for protecting game as the use of the flushing bar on mowing machines, preservation of cover along fencerows, planting of food crops on waste ground, etc., it being understood that the expense of buying seed would be paid by the sportsmen.

There would be no rule that hunters were to pay fees for the privilege of hunting, but this would not prevent the payment of such fees in individual cases by private arrangement.

This plan, without hunting fees, has been in successful operation for the past year in several counties of the state, notably Kent county.

Without such an arrangement no guarantee against indiscriminate trespass can be made to the farmers of the county and each land owner will, as in the past, have to deal with individual cases of trespass as they present themselves.

It is hoped that at the September 10th meeting there will be in attendance a sufficient number of the land owners of Washtenaw county so that there can be a full discussion and it can be definitely adopted if that seems to be the desire of the meeting.

Western District of Scouting Will Meet

John Fletcher of Chelsea, chairman of the Western District of the Washtenaw-Livingston Boy Scout Council, has announced that a meeting of men interested in the Scouting movement in the western half of Washtenaw county, will be held in the Emanuel church, Manchester, on Friday evening, September 6, at 7:30.

The recently elected executive committee of the district consists of Dr. Max Durfee and George Keal of Dexter, Messrs. John Fletcher and Warren Daniels of Chelsea, Rev. H. S. Rague and Walter Vogt of Manchester, and John Monaghan of Bridge-water.

All troop committeemen and other Scout leaders, fathers of Scouts and other men interested in the extension of Scouting are invited to attend the September 6th meeting.

Ask State Farmers to Grow Red Wheat

Turn to the reds is the advice given Michigan wheat growers by the farm crops department at Michigan State College, but the crops experts mean red wheat and not adoption of an archaic belief.

Red wheat on August 26 brought a premium of about three cents a bushel above the price offered for white wheats of the same grades. The College men and members of the Michigan Millers' Association say that this price differential in favor of red wheat is apt to continue for two or three years.

Michigan is fortunate in having a red winter wheat which has been thoroughly tested since its development by plant breeders at East Lansing. This variety is Bald Rock. It is a good producer, grows well on Michigan soils, has a stiff straw resistant to lodging, and is beardless.

This wheat variety runs higher in test weights than most soft, red, winter wheats. Millers accept it readily as its quality is good. It is winter hardy and has been tested in Michigan wheat fields since 1930, during which time some severe winters have occurred.

Elevator managers say that Michigan white wheats are hard to sell and that the only way they can protect themselves in buying is to pay less per bushel than for red wheat. White wheats were in demand at one time for use as pastry flour and in the preparation of breakfast foods. More than a sufficient supply of white wheat is now grown for those uses.

Save the Bean Crop
by McNaughton Plan

Past weather records prove that rains will occur in Michigan during September and the farm crops department at Michigan State College says that the way to avoid weather damage to this year's bean crop is to use the McNaughton system of harvesting.

The additional cost of using this method is very small in comparison with the great protection afforded to the crop. Tests made of putting the beans in the small field stacks have proved that the pick may be reduced as much as 10 to 15 pounds per bushel below the amount taken from beans cured at the same time in windrows and piles.

In addition to the actual savings from the reduction of weather damage, beans may be harvested when a little less mature and will ripen in the stacks. This fact is important to cranberry bean producers, as this bean matures later than the common white pea bean. Threshing can be done at the farmer's convenience after the beans are stacked, and grain can be grown in the field before threshing, as the beans occupy very little space.

Steel fence posts for stakes are driven firmly in the ground, a base of large or small is used to keep the beans off the ground, and the beans are stacked in the McNaughton system. The stacks must have straight sides and should not be more than four or four and one-half feet in diameter. The weight of the stacks should be about twice their width.

The beans are stacked immediately after they have been pulled and raked toward the center of a 32-row strip. Average crops require from 10 to 14 of the stacks per acre. A wagon carrying posts and straw can be driven along and the stakes and bases prepared as needed. The straw base should be at least four inches thick.

Use Correct Dates
for Seeding Wheat

Now that there is a chance to make a profit from a crop of wheat in Michigan it becomes important to remember that the Hessian fly should be controlled by observing the fly-free seeding dates recommended by the entomology department of Michigan State College.

Field surveys made this summer by that department show that the fly has increased in the past few years and will cause serious damage in fields sown before the proper time. The control of the fly depends upon seeding the wheat after the time when the fly deposits eggs on sprouting grain.

Correct seeding dates vary in different places in Michigan, due to the more northerly location of some wheat growing sections and to a lesser degree to the influence of Lake Michigan. Higher lands in some counties can be seeded earlier than fields on bottom lands.

It is possible to compute an average date for each county after which wheat can be seeded safely, and the entomology department has prepared a table of these dates. The earliest safe seeding date is Sept. 2 to 12 on high ground in Otsego county. The latest dates are Sept. 28 to Oct. 2 on low fields in Berrien and St. Joseph counties.

Every county agricultural agent has a complete list of fly-free dates in all counties. Farmers should ask him for the local dates as he is familiar with the locations of the farms and can give exact information.

FAMOUS HANDMASTER WILL MAKE TOUR OF UNITED STATES

Chicago—Jack Hylton, Europe's famous handmaster, who is credited with introducing American syncopation abroad, will bring his noted orchestra to the United States and make a tour of the middle west, according to word received this week from the musician's London office.

Hylton and his troupe will arrive in New York in the Normandie October 21st, and, according to present plans, will then leave for Chicago where he will give his initial performance. His itinerary calls for appearances later in other middle western cities, it was announced.

The visit was arranged by the Music Corporation of America in cooperation with the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and will be Hylton's first tour of this country where he already has gained wide recognition through his phonograph records, and among tourists who have heard his band abroad. He is noted particularly for his original interpretations of modern music.

According to musical observers, Hylton's organization is the most popular orchestra on the Continent, and has appeared with marked success in many European cities. He is a member of the Legion of Honour and is an Officer de l'Instruction Publique.

Call Steamers "Tin Cans"

Many old-time seamen of the salt water era scornfully refer to steel-plated steamers as "tin cans."

Mother's Crazy-Quilt

by LAWRENCE HAUTHORNE

There's more to Mother's crazy-quilt
Than careless eyes can see;
Nobody else could understand
The charm it holds for me!
When she points out the blocks that came
From suits I used to wear,
It brings back joyful memories
That we alone can share!

There's tenderness and sentiment,
There's beauty and romance
In every scrap of coat she used,
And every patch of pants;
And every thread is intertwined
With happiness and cheer—
Because, to us, those memories
Are very, very dear!

Saying About "Fooling People"
The oft-quoted saying "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but not all of the people all of the time" is sometimes attributed to D. D. Barnum, the famous showman and circus owner, but more often to Abraham Lincoln, who it is said, used it in a speech delivered at Clinton, Ill., September 8, 1858. But there is no copy of the alleged speech in existence.

The fact is, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, no positive evidence has ever been advanced to establish the authorship of the quotation, which has long been a fertile subject of controversy.

Much Borrowed Word

The word "apricot" comes to us by a strange descent from the Latin meaning "praiseworthy, early ripe." The Greeks borrowed it from the Latin, the Arabs from the Greeks, the Portuguese from the Arabs, the French from the Portuguese and the English from the French. It then, after its travels, emerged as "apricot," and finally took the present form.

Sugar Crystallizes

Ordinary sugar crystallizes when cooked. Invert sugar does not do so readily. Acid vinegar or cream of tartar added to candy while it is being made produces enough invert sugar to keep the candy from crystallizing.

Island of Monte Cristo
Monte Cristo is an island of Italy belonging to the province of Leghorn, 25 miles south of Elba. The highest point is 2,128 feet above sea level, and it has an area of about six square miles. It contains the ruins of a Christian monastery, abandoned in 1683, and is the private property of the king of Italy, who has a shooting lodge there. The name of the island is due to "La Donna de Monte Cristo," by the elder Dumas.

Scents Attract Timber Wolves
The timber wolf, trappers agree, is the wildest of all animals. Only experienced trappers take wolves consistently in traps. They are taken mostly with the aid of secret and jealously guarded scents which have a fatal attraction for the wolves.

Attention Farmers!

Due to the generally poor quality of the Michigan grown wheat the question of proper seed wheat becomes a real problem. If you have wheat with damaged berries, better not use it for seed - get from your neighbor or write the Agricultural Department at Lansing for information as to where to get good seed wheat. If your wheat is light weight but not damaged sow an additional amount in order to insure a good stand.

If you wish to exchange wheat with us for seed purposes we will give you the best we have.

Irish Water Spaniel Is Dependable Hunting Dog
All Spaniels take kindly to water, but for long steady work in chilled waters, the Irish Water Spaniel is the most dependable. The extremely tough-skinned Irish water spaniel, however, and almost unbreakable in this work, with the exception of the most hardy of all spaniels, is in among the best gun dogs, a first-class retriever on land, but unexcelled in water.

His peculiar, but honest face, is long and bare of the profuse curly curl that characterizes his entire body, except for the old thin tail. Small sparkling eyes, set almost flush and void of eyelashes, produce a most charming expression. Though he may provide a laugh upon first sight, his quietness and "smart as a mustard" gaze will soon win one over to a sympathetic smile.

This native of the Emerald Isle, his origin has defied all research. We can but guess that his deep liver coloring came from the Irish setter, his curls of hair, from the curly poodle, and his kind affectionate playful disposition, from both.

He is 50 pounds of quints and devotion. — Los Angeles Times

The Welsh Terrier
The Welsh terrier is a small, wiry, coated black-and-tan dog, standing not more than 14 inches at the shoulder and weighing about 20 pounds. He has a long head, but skull that is narrow between the ears, but not as narrow as the fox terrier, getting slightly narrower toward the eyes. The top of the head should be "dish" or fall away quickly between and below the eyes. Jaw should be strong and muscular, of good punishing power and depth. The ears are V-shaped, small, set on fairly high, carried forward and close to the cheeks. The eyes are small, dark, expressive and intelligent, abundant. The neck is of moderate length, the back short, chest of moderate depth, legs straight and muscular, tail well set on, coat wiry, hard, close and abundant.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—I was born on September 22, 1890. What day of the week was that and what is my horoscope?
Ans.—You were born on Friday. We are not permitted to give individual horoscopes, but to meet this demand in a limited way we will begin this week to give a weekly reading covering the seven-day period of the weeks throughout the year. Sept. 1 to 7 readings: A person born at this period is usually wavering in thoughts to achieve success. Is inclined to think and analyze inwardly and is not outspoken enough in dealings with others. Straightforward, honest, and reveals in the outdoor life.

Ques.—Which town in the United States is farthest north, and which is farthest south?
Ans.—Blaine, Wash., is farthest north, being about 50 miles south of the 50th parallel. Key West, Fla., is farthest south, being about 200 miles north of the 20th parallel.

Ques.—I am paying $20 a month rent. The landlord refused to take that amount in pennies. Can he be forced to take them, or does it exempt me from having to pay?
Ans.—It doesn't exempt you from paying. He may refuse them because pennies are legal tender only for amounts of 25 cents or less. It is surprising that the landlord refuses them, since pennies are redeemable at the United States Treasury in lawful money in sums of $20 or multiples of this sum.

Ques.—Is a boy closer related to his parents than he is to his sister?
Ans.—No. The boy and his parent have one-half common blood, while brothers and sisters have full common blood.

Ques.—I would like to know why milk tests in the same herd of cows will vary from time to time.
Ans.—Several factors may cause this. Among them are included the time between milkings, completeness of milking, and weather conditions. Night milk will usually test higher than morning milk.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer in your paper when ex-President Wilson is buried?
Ans.—Ex-President Woodrow Wilson's remains are in a tomb in the Washington Cathedral, along with a few other famous Americans.

Ques.—What airplane pilot has flown the greatest number of miles in the past ten years?
Ans.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh holds this record, with nearly 600,000 miles flown between 1924 and 1934.

Ques.—When Congress raised the President's salary from $50,000 to $75,000 a year did President Theodore Roosevelt sign the bill because he would get $25,000 a year more?
Ans.—No. It would have been unconstitutional for Congress to raise the President's salary to take effect at once. When the law was passed, it was to take effect with the succeeding President, which was William Howard Taft. Hence he was the first to receive the increased salary.

Ques.—Can you tell me which are the two largest fresh water lakes in the world?
Ans.—Lake Superior, with 89,000 square miles, is the largest in the world, with Victoria Nyansa lake in Africa second largest, with 80,000 square miles.

Ques.—Is Spain a republic? If so, what has become of the king and royal family?
Ans.—Spain was proclaimed a republic on April 14, 1931, and still has that form of government. King Alfonso XIII and the royal family took flight to France where they went in to self-imposed exile.

Ques.—In a baseball game there is a runner on third and a runner on first, with two out. The runner on first gets trapped between first and second and the instant he is tagged out the runner from third scores or crosses the home plate. Does the run count or not?
Ans.—The run counts. In an extremely close play where there is a doubt, the decision of the umpire should favor the baserunner.

MILAN—Announcement was made Wednesday by F. K. Ross of the American Furnace and Foundry Company and the American Boiler and Foundry Company that the factory would open for full production next Tuesday, September 10. The plants have been closed since the middle of July. A considerable amount of work and alterations have been made in the plants during the layoff. The plant will assume again the five day a week schedule with approximately the same force that was employed at the time of the shutdown in July, according to Mr. Ross. This schedule will continue until the first of November, when conditions in the eastern markets will determine the production schedule for the balance of the year. With the reopening of the American plants, the business conditions in Milan appear exceedingly bright for fall and early winter. All of Milan's industrial plants will be in operation and work will be available for the greater proportion of Milan's workers. — E. J. C.

REFLECTION

I cannot choose a pick-up here from every post or sign, Nor read a lot from magazines And forge them into rhyme; I love to meditate and draw From memories I hold dear, And spread them out from time to time To keep me in good cheer.

The springtime flowers of the wood, Awaiting you and me, The apple, cherry, lilac, peach, At every turn we see; The little tail-tale dandelion, Its silent witness uttered, When it reflected on our chin Your bread must be well buttered.

How sweet to me in memories store Of things and folks we know, Dear Uncle David, Aunt Mariah, Well, Alma, Ella too, The old split chair he sat upon, The fields which he roamed, The deeds which he uttered, O, they never will be dead.

That ham—smoked ham of Aunt Mariah, O my, I smelt it now! Potatoes, bread, and cherry pie, To cook, she well knew how. Our school days? Yes, we scrapped sometimes, As most all kiddies do, But mother's logic with her love Smothered out our boo-hoo-hoo's. We mixed our bitter with the sweet, For 'tis an' Ma worked hard, But somehow, though we know not how, Each other's lot was shared.

Those childhood days of long ago, In memory's basket rest, But somehow, floating down the years Bring us a happy rest; The birds and flowers that sing and bloom, Are just as sweet today, May we appreciate them all, And prize them while we may.

—Arthur Carlton.

GRASS LAKE—In celebration of the 100th anniversary of the existence of the church in Grass Lake the Evangelical church, combining the Congregational and Baptist denominations will hold special services in commemoration of the event Sunday and Monday.

PINCKNEY—The bond issue special election in Pinckney township last Friday was defeated. There were 101 votes cast against it and only 70 for it. The amount of the bond issue was $12,000 and the bonds would have run 18 years. A new site would have been purchased and a 12 grade school built. This was not a CWA or PWA project and the whole amount would have been raised by tax. The schools of Unadilla township voted to consolidate a number of years ago but never have built a school. A ten grade school is maintained at Gregory and most of the district schools are operated. — Dispatch.

DUNDEN—William J. Adams, publisher of the Reporter, passed away Thursday evening at his home here, after an illness extending over a period of years. His death was the indirect result of serious shrapnel wounds and gas received in the World War. — Reporter.

WAYNE—One of the largest real estate transactions in recent years was quietly completed last week when the Stinson Aircraft Corporation, the world's largest builders of cabin airplanes, acquired the tract of land immediately north of their present factory site and bounded on the north by Van Horn road. This provides sufficient land for the completion of an improved north and south runway and contractors will be at work next week on this job. — County Review.

SALINE—A destructive fire occurred Friday afternoon at the William Love farm, on the Bridgewater road. Four large barns and other smaller buildings were destroyed, together with about three thousand bushels of grain, with a loss of about $30,000, partially covered by insurance. Fire departments from Saline and Bridgewater responded and their efforts, aided by the shifting of the wind, saved the house and garage. — Observer.

Bulls as Food
Certain types of bulls, modified as food storage organs, are items in our own diet. A cabbage head is but an overgrown bud, and the good part of cauliflower is a cluster of flower buds. Jerusalem artichokes and head lettuce are other examples. Cloves are buds used as seasoning. There are underground buds, called bulbs, whose scales thicken with stored up food for propagation and for continuing the life of the plant through the dormant period. Tulips and onions are such bulbs.

Wild and Domesticated Dog
Of the 200 odd species of wild and domesticated dogs in the world today, one—the dingo of Australia—is found in both wild and tame states. An outstanding characteristic of the wild dingo, a ruthless killer of sheep for sport as well as for food, is his ability to follow death when caught. He will lie motionless, allowing his captor to maul him unmercifully, until his change for escape arrives. Then away he goes. — Collier's Weekly.

Stories Have Four-Hour Day
Members of the Munich Bird Society of Munich, Germany, discovered that when stories fly south to escape the European winter they travel more than 125 miles a day. They fly only four hours a day, spending the other 20 in feeding, resting and sleeping. They average over 30 miles an hour in their flight of thousands of miles over the stark airways.

Rhinoceros Larger Than Elephant
Fossil bone discoveries show that in ancient times there was a kind of giant rhinoceros that stood almost eight feet high, far larger than the elephants.

Cotton Not So Pinniful
In pioneer days in Ohio cotton was a luxury sometimes purchased for a wedding dress at a cost of $1 a yard. Silks, satins and laces were not even dreamed of.

Ragweed Generally Unpopular
Ragweed is cloaked with loathing by many fever victims. It is also an enemy to the farmer, for it is a host plant for the common stalk borer and for onion thrips.

For the Doubters

Three of the chief objections we meet in selling electric ranges are:

- (1) They are too slow.
- (2) They cost too much.
- (3) They are too expensive to operate.

However, it is amusing to observe that the people who say the most against the electric range are usually the people who have never used one. It seems we are always most down on the things we are least up on.

When Fulton first tried out his steamboat, skeptics, scoffers, and merely curious people lined the river banks. "He'll never get it started," they all agreed. "He'll never get it started."

And then when the boat did start, they all ran excitedly along the banks, exclaiming: "He'll never get it stopped! He'll never get it stopped!" and the rest we know about!

With the lower electric rates now in effect, installation of an electric range is real economy.

The Public Looks at its Telephone

(Excerpts from unsolicited letters from Michigan Bell Telephone subscribers)

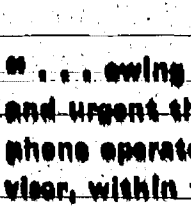

"... did not know his address nor any particular leads we might use in running this fellow down, but we eventually did through the very courteous service of the long-distance operator. ... I finally reached my party ... was much impressed by the way in which the operator was anxious to help..."

"... this was anything but a simple case, and my reason for offering commendation to your operator is that she handled the whole thing with quick understanding, and quickly converted me from a rather abused sort of person to one who appreciates good service well enough to tell about it."

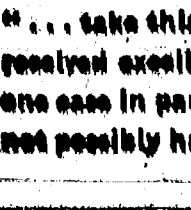

"Last night about 1 A.M. ... a serious situation had arisen. ... A truck had killed some one. A telephone call had been placed by the driver. ... In his excitement the only information given was that the accident had occurred some six miles out of Fostoria, Ohio. ... It was imperative that officials know who the driver was. Exactly where was the accident? Were there any others injured? If so, to what hospital were they taken? Would aid need to be sent? ... All these details must be cleared immediately. ... A call was placed ... the operator located the driver at a barbecue stand six miles south of Fostoria. The connection was completed ... example of splendid personalization and helpfulness in times of emergency."

"... owing to a most unfortunate accident, it became very important and urgent that we have medical assistance and we appealed to our telephone operator. ... Thanks to the efficiency of the operator and supervisor, within ten minutes the doctor had the patient out of danger. The patient joins me in expressing our sincere thanks."

"... I feel as chief of our fire department that a word of commendation to the operators for their co-operation is worthy of mention by us. When we are on the receiving end of an emergency telephone call, our experience has shown that the caller is nearly always in a highly excited state of mind and unable to talk distinctly enough to give us the proper location, and in these cases the operators have rendered very commendable assistance. ... I write this merely to pass on to you the thanks that we receive from many citizens ... without the valuable assistance and attention to duty of the telephone girls this very important service would be subject to delay."

"... take this opportunity to extend our appreciation. ... We have always received excellent and courteous service from all your operators, but this one case in particular warrants merit. This girl ... about 12:30 A.M., could not possibly have done more if it had been her own house that was on fire."

"This morning about 8 o'clock I was faced with the necessity of reaching, on Long Distance, the general manager of a New York company. ... They had recently changed managers ... and we did not have his address. This call was very important, and also on Sunday. Your operator finally located my man in one of the suburban towns of New Jersey, and I could well understand the satisfied tone of the operator when she said, 'I think I have the right man for you.'"

These comments describe the kind of service we wish always to give. In order that we may constantly serve you better, we request a prompt report on any feature of the service unsatisfactory to you.

Chippendale Furniture

We constantly are hearing about Chippendale furniture. Our derivatives from the work of this great English cabinet maker are among the most popular in modern furniture stocks; but they really bear little resemblance to the documented work of Thomas Chippendale, according to house furnishing experts. The Chippendale style is not the original creation of any one man but the product of a school according to a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. It was from the French and from a revival of interest in Chinese and Gothic motives that the Chippendale school drew inspiration. It was more a school of ornament than it was a school of style. Chippendale's name has become generic for all furniture produced in England and America between 1750 and 1780. This includes the pre-Chippendale period.

Allen Registration

The first legislation by congress regarding immigration was passed in 1884 and had for its purpose the encouragement of immigration. In 1882 the first act was passed that provided for a "head tax" on immigrants, the amount being 50 cents a head. This tax was increased to a dollar by the act of 1894, then to two dollars by the act of 1903, to four dollars by the act of 1907 and to eight dollars by the act of 1917. Until the law of 1892 there was no general registration of immigrants and it was not until 1891 that the federal government took entire charge of the immigration laws.

Opportunity

ONE of the narrowing and restricting material beliefs which would rob us of our heritage of good is the belief in limited opportunity. In fact many people believe that opportunity comes but once in a lifetime, and that if it is not grasped, life for them is a failure. . . . To those whose spheres of usefulness are cramped and circumscribed, or whose environment appears restricted, dull, colorless, the study of the life of Joseph should prove interesting. He had some very gloomy and restricting experiences. However, he did not entertain resentment, but in every experience made use of his opportunity to prove the power of God. Thus, his spiritual thinking lifted him to become a very great statesman. The spiritual qualities he reflected, even when in the pit and in the prison, prepared him for that position of great usefulness and service to which he attained in Egypt, and through which he had a wider opportunity to use his God-given qualities of courage, wisdom, resourcefulness, mercy, and forgiveness.

Opportunity is ever present. The opportunity to usefully serve and to enjoy life is ever present. It is not a matter of need to pray for vision, and, like Joseph, to use our present circumstances as steppingstones to a higher sense of true living and service. If, instead of beating vainly against restricting circumstances or environment, we open our thought to the unfolding of spiritual ideas and the facts of real being, which alone cast out the false beliefs of restriction, environment and lack of opportunity—if we put off limited modes of thought and let that Mind which is infinite divine Love govern our thinking, then we shall find imprisonment of beliefs of cramped environment giving place to wider, fuller opportunities.

Jesus said, "I can of mine own self do nothing, and, 'The Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.' He understood the spiritual relationship which exists between God and man. As the understanding of God as Life is in some measure gained through Christian Science, opportunities for a fuller life will be seen to be our inherent inalienable right."

Another false belief which would claim to limit opportunity is that of age. People are apt to think that when they reach what is termed advanced middle age their opportunities for usefulness are rapidly diminishing, and they begin to look on their life as nearly over. Moses at the age of eighty years might have thought that his opportunity for useful work had terminated; but during his forty years' retirement which followed his too impetuous defense of his countrymen, he was being prepared for his great life-work. He advanced in spiritual understanding to the realization of God as Mind, Spirit, and at the age of eighty his mission was unfolded to him. For forty years more he was engaged in the so-called task of leading the children of Israel through the wilderness toward the promised land. Mary Baker Eddy says of him (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 200): "Moses advanced a nation to the worship of God in Spirit." What an achievement! And of him the Bible records that at the age of one hundred and twenty, "his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated."

When this great mission was revealed to him, the false arguments of diffidence and reluctance to face the responsibility presented themselves to Moses; it was only when he relied on God's promise to be with him and teach him what to say and to do that his false sense of responsibility and diffidence was replaced by true humility. So he went forward in his work, wherein he was given the opportunity to use the spiritual quality of meekness and receive the revelation of God's will.

On page 245 of Science and Health, Mr. Eddy says: "Except for the error of measuring and limiting all that is good and beautiful, man would enjoy more than three score years and ten and still maintain his vigor, freshness, and promise. Man, governed by immortal Mind, is always beautiful and grand. Each succeeding year unfolds wisdom, beauty, and holiness."

The grandeur and glory of life are stretching out before us in the sterner of good. It is not opportunity which is lacking, for God is the Giver. It is the ability to perceive it for which we must pray. Often fear and care form a mist, but as Truth clears the vision we are enabled to see opportunity as ever at hand.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Earthworms Necessary

Render Great Service
Just how important earthworms are can be seen when it is known that without them all the fertile acres of land which produce our food would become cold, hard, and sterile. Rain-water could not be absorbed, floods would be common, and plant life would degenerate. In short, all animal life would be in a pretty bad spot. observes a writer in Pathfinder Magazine. These primitive bits of life, however, do not perform this great service because they are the willing slaves of all higher forms of animal life. Again nature has stepped in and "fixed" things. They are spurred on by a desire to live and preserve themselves, and their service to the world is only incidental. The chief food on their menu happens to be soil, and this they eat continuously. They burrow through the ground eating as they go, and the simple but effective digestive organs extract all the animal and vegetable matter. When the digestive process has been completed the worm moves up his burrow and evacuates the soil on the surface of the ground. In this manner, it is estimated, about 20 tons of soil to the acre are brought from below the surface and deposited on the top of the ground each year.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY

The Great Express Company Robbery

IT WAS in the early eighties that one of the cleverest crooks in the country stood outside of the wired enclosure of an Adams express office and looked longingly at a package of bank notes on a shelf beyond his reach. It was near the noon hour and most of the clerks were preparing to go out for lunch.

The crook noticed that some of them wore linen dusters and that when they left the enclosure they doffed these office coats and tossed them to one side. It did not take this gentleman long to come to his determination.

The door leading to the enclosure was partly opened. He slipped inside and, tossing his hat into a corner, hastily put on an unmarked linen duster that had been discarded.

He stuck a pen behind his ear and in that guise readily resembled one of the regular clerks. He was in the enclosure less than a minute, and when he departed he carried with him a package of bonds which was estimated to be worth $10,000.

A few days after this it was reported that a man entered one of the oldest and wealthiest banks in the city of Philadelphia, and by means of a sharpened umbrella pulled out a package of money from behind one of the gridded windows and made his escape with it.

The sum was placed at $10,000, but that was the least part of it. The audacity of the theft was what caused consternation in the financial district.

If such things were possible, then no institution would be safe. These two cases were much talked about, and they were especially interesting to Francis Kelly, the famous bank detective who patrolled the financial district in Philadelphia and whose beat included the custom house, the sub-treasury and the famous banking house of Drexel & Co.; the Philadelphia branch of Drexel-Morgan & Co.

Kelly was not only a keen student of human nature, but he knew the ways of the get-rich-quick members of the criminal fraternity. He discussed the matter with one of his associates. "I'd be willing to stake my reputation on the fact that both of these jobs were done by Chauncey Johnson," he said. "I know his methods like a book and I don't know another man in the United States who could have pulled them off as neatly as Johnson."

Kelly had been in the United States secret service and had also been chief of detectives in Philadelphia, but at that time was in the employ of the houses in the financial district. He acted, as he often said, as a "preventive."

The bank crooks knew that he was on the job there, and as a consequence they gave that section a pretty wide berth. "Good-morning, Chauncey," he said familiarly, "what are you doing here?" "I don't know you," was the gruff reply, "and that's not my name."

"Why," was the cheerful reply, "everybody knows Chauncey Johnson, and I'm somebody."

It was impossible to brazen it out any longer, and the famous bank robber admitted his identity. He insisted, however, that he had no evil intentions on this particular bank and had walked in for the purpose of looking at the large oil painting of the founder of the house.

The explanation was accepted, but the man was taken into custody and lodged in the city hall.

Later he was escorted to New York, where it was said that he was wanted for the Adams Express company robbery. The moral is that it is dangerous to take too many chances—even if you are at the head of your profession.

Science Witnesses Evolution
Scientists are now permitted to see evolution in actual progress because of the discovery of red quail on a southern game preserve. This bird, red speckled of the ordinary bobwhite, is exactly like the rest of the family except as to color. This subspecies breeds true to color even when mated with the usual brown and white birds. It is the first time that natural evolution has ever been witnessed and consequently scientists are keeping a close watch on the birds.—Pathfinder Magazine.

New Sleeping Luxury
Cello fiber, the product of a tropical tree already widely used for insulating purposes, now bids fair to replace wool and down in the manufacture of bed quilts and comforters. Tests have proven it to be 22 per cent more efficient than wool for this purpose and as light in weight as the softest down. In addition this material is said to be naturally moth-proof and resistant to odors and does not have a tendency to "ball up" in the cleaning process as do ordinary comfortable fillers.
