Prevention of Illness

Many people in the past have made the mistake of neglecting health. Those that take the greatest chances with their health are usually those that can least afford to lose it.

Good health cannot be purchased as groceries, however illness can usually be prevented. The first thing to do is to have an Osteopathic Physical examination and at the same time obtain assistance in formulating a definite health program. An Osteopathic Physician will gladly assist you in this. Such a program may be of great importance to you. No one can expect to do his best work and obtain his objective if he does not possess strength and vitality. Even if he did reach his goal with poor health how can he enjoy what he has gained if his health is gone? One of the most difficult jobs a doctor has is to impress upon his patients the importance of preventing illness. We seldom appreciate good health until it is gone.

Many families depend upon Osteopathy for relief from any illness. He is many times the family physician. This confidence is well founded because of the relief that may be expected in tonsillitis, colds, pleurisy, influenza, bronchitis, pneumonia, measles, whooping cough and other acute diseases. Osteopathy usually shortens the length of the disease and prevents complications.

Anyone desiring information regarding Osteopathy may obtain such information by writing: Osteopathic Items, P. O. Box 331, Chelsea, Mich.

FORD SALES TOTAL 1,311,927

Dearborn—World sales of Ford units in 1935 reached a total of 1,311,927, it was announced last week at the home office of the Ford Motor Company here.

This compared with 865,101 total sales in 1934 and represented a gain in 1935 over the preceding year of 446,826 units, or more than 51.6 per cent.

Sales of Ford V-8 units to the public in the United States totaled 1,065,002 units, compared with 677,170 units in 1934; a gain of more than 55.7 per cent.

Paper-Making Industry Started in China, Japan

The art of making paper appears to have been known to the Chinese and Japanese from very early times. It was kept a secret for several centuries by the Chinese, but at the end of the seventh century, as the result of a raid by Moors and Arabs, the secret was wrested from them and imparted to their conquerors, says the Indianapolis News. Paper mills were established in England in 705 A. D., and for 500 years the industry was maintained as a state monopoly. About the twelfth century paper making was introduced by the Moors into Spain, whence it spread to Italy, and later to France, Switzerland and Holland, attaining a high degree of excellence in the last-named country. It was not well established in England till 1485.

The first paper mill in America was erected near Philadelphia in 1690. Until the beginning of the nineteenth century every sheet of paper had to be made laboriously by hand. The credit of introducing a successful paper-making machine belongs to Henry and Seelye Knorringer, who, interested by a French printer, Nicholas Robert, and assisted by Bryan Throckmold, turned out in 1803, the machine which bears their name. The first cylinder machine was put into practical operation by John Dickinson, in England in 1803. In 1823 drying cylinders were added to the Fourdrinier machine, which up to this time had contained no drying apparatus.

Drug Store Will Sell Medicine at 10c for Two Days

Anyone May Buy; Store Prepares for Crowd Saturday; Offer Unheard of Before in Chelsea.

If you were told that you could get high-quality medicine for 10c, it would sound impossible, wouldn't it? And that others have paid a dollar or more for similar medicines—indeed, it seems unbelievable. Yet it is all true, and this offer is being made for the first time in Chelsea for two days only, Friday and Saturday this week, by Burg's Corner Drug Store.

Why Offer Is Made
Because we believe it is only fair that everyone who suffers should have a chance to try the medicine first to see if it will help them before they pay the full price, and because we believe 20 percent of the people of Chelsea need the medicine we offer.

This is not a "euro-all" but the new, scientific medicine, called Indo-Vin, that has helped nearly all who have taken it. Therefore, we offer each person one introductory bottle for 10c (Friday and Saturday ONLY) because we believe those who are benefited will keep on using it. The regular full-size price of this medicine is $1.25.

What It Will Do

Indo-Vin will cleanse your bowels gradually and thoroughly without pain and griping.

It will bring out gases and intestinal impurities which may have been in your system causing you days, weeks or even months of misery.

It will help make the digestive organs sweet and clean, relieving headaches, biliousness, dizzy spells or lary, drowsy, worn-out feelings; also helps avoid accumulations of impurities in the blood stream and kidneys. It will aid in clearing up skin eruptions caused by impurities in the digestive organs, helping to overcome sallow "muddy" complexion due to sluggish liver.

Indo-Vin will make your STOMACH, LIVER, and BOWELS more active, build you up in general and make you LOOK, ACT, and FEEL like a different man or woman.

Now, whether or not it will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will end your suffering in a day or week—remains to be seen. But in light of what has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 10c—a fraction of its actual value. This offer is good Friday and Saturday ONLY.

How To Get It

To get your first bottle for 10c (Friday and Saturday ONLY) bring coupon to our store. Our out-of-town readers may send coupon with 10c (stamps or coin) to Indo-Vin, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio, and medicine will be shipped postpaid.

John Paul Jones Never

Defeated, Never Wounded

John Paul Jones on the ocean during the American Revolution was as General Washington was on land—never known to be defeated in battle or to have received a wound, states a writer in the Washington Post. He displayed the fierce tenacity of ancient sea kings in skirmishes and also possessed the knightly courage of medieval chivalry. In a day when seamen considered a capacity for picturesque and plentiful profanity as a mark of professional attitude, he was distinguished by refraining from oath and curses. He was never known to inflict punishment on his seamen by using a "cat of nine tails," or any similar weapon.

He was born at Arbigland, Scotland, on July 9, 1747, the son of humble parents. Without encouragement or protection, he, at twelve years, rose in a profession by employing his spare moments in study, readily overcoming disadvantages of education, to appear in a position his own energy advanced him. He embarked on a sea career. Years later he came to America to settle his dead brother's estate in Virginia. When he was twenty-nine years of age, patriotism roused through his veins, and he joined the American navy.

He resolved to save the "Thirteen Colonies," warring in infancy after leaving England's apron string, from oblivion. He became first lieutenant of the Alfred flagship, and hoisted her flag in 1775.

Poster Contest To Be

Conducted in Schools

The opening safety drive of 1936 to further reduce traffic accidents among school children in Michigan will begin within two weeks with a state-wide poster contest for elementary school pupils, it was announced this week by H. O. Rounds, director of the safety and traffic division of the Automobile Club of Michigan. "Street Safety" will be the poster theme for children up to and in the sixth grade.

This contest, to be under the sponsorship of the Automobile Club, is in keeping with a national movement which recommends poster and essay contests as a means to reduce fatal accidents 35 per cent.

Cash prizes and medals will be awarded winners of the contest, the first held in four years. Originality of theme, neatness and excellence of art work will count in the awarding of prizes. Complete details will be sent to school principals in the near future, Rounds said.

A school principal with two other persons will form a judging committee to choose the best two posters in the school. In cities where there is a club branch, these posters will be sent to the office of the local manager, who will select an impartial committee of citizens of which one will be a newspaperman. In towns where the club does not have branches, newspaper editors will be asked to act as committee chairmen.

This committee will judge the two best in the town or city and forward winning posters to Rounds in Detroit. A third committee in Detroit will decide the state winner who will receive a $25 cash award. Second prize will be $10. A number of lesser amounts will be given to pupils receiving honorable mention.

"The poster contest is a continuation of the club's effort to make children conscious of the many highway dangers," Rounds said in discussing the competition. "It is interesting to note that from the time the automobile was invented up to and including 1930, there was an increase of fatal accidents. But in 1930, and to date, due to the club's work with children, there has been a downward trend for the first time in the history of the state. This was the second year after the school program was presented by the club. This contest in having children draw and sketch street dangers should aid materially in making a child safety conscious."

OVER THE PARTY WIRE

Central, give me number 206, please. Hello, is that you, Dot?

This is Mary.

Did you know that the Seniors are going to have another dance on February 21st?

Oh, you read it in the paper. Did you see what orchestra they've got?

You can't remember? Have you ever heard of The Albion College Dance Orchestra?

Can't remember hearing them—well then you have never heard this orchestra, for when you once hear and see these college players you can't forget them.

They come from Albion—yeah—it is funny that they would come way down here.

They even cancelled a theater engagement in order to be able to play here on February 21st.

I heard them up at Albion College last summer.

Sure it's a good orchestra—there are five members, all of them the classy college type.

Sounds good, doesn't it? Well it is good. I know because I've heard it and its classy too. They have that old college spirit, you know what I mean—the rah-rah, fight 'em, spirit.

O.K., I'll see you there—bring the rest of the gang for it promises to be something!

Putting on the Top Hat at the Senior dance.

Until then, so-long—Dot.

Lightness and Strength

Make Aluminum Popular
Aluminum is used wherever a combination of lightness and strength is desired. The pure metal is highly reactive with various corrosive substances, yet in actual practice it resists corrosion very much better than the theoretically more resistant iron. The reason for this, writes Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune, is that aluminum on exposure to the atmosphere forms a microscopically thin, tough, air-tight coating of aluminum oxide which gives the underlying metal perfect protection against corrosion. Iron on the other hand, forms a brittle, porous rust that flakes off and exposes more metal.

Along with the advantage of lightness and rust resistance, pure aluminum has the disadvantage of being relatively soft. For a long time this limited its use to the manufacture of kitchen utensils, sheet aluminum, and similar uses in which it was not subjected to very great strain. However, there have been developed some highly successful aluminum alloys, in which the metal has a strength approaching that of steel, with no sacrifice of lightness. Oddly enough, in the cases of some of the most useful of these alloys the aluminum in gaining strength, loses much of its resistance to corrosion. This fault, however, can easily be remedied by giving the alloy a thin coating of the pure metal.

A Widow's Name
Emily Post's "Etiquette" says: "A widow no less than a married woman should always continue to use her husband's Christian name, or his name and another initial, engraved on her cards. She is Mrs. John Hunter Titherington-Smith."

But no one should ever address an envelope, except from a bank or a lawyer's office, "Mrs. Sarah Smith." As to the signature, Miss Post declares "a married woman should always sign a letter to a stranger, a bank, business firm, etc., with her baptismal name, and add, in parenthesis, her married name."

Dutch Bee Mart
Holland is world famous for its tulips, hyacinths and other bulbs, and a good many cheaters, but not so many people know that it is also a great industrial center for honey. Once a year, in the market of Veenendaal, which is the largest in the world, bargaining is done in about 2,000 steps, or hives of straw, housing about 20,000 bees each. The country people come to the market on bicycles, with a huge skep hanging from each side of the vehicle. In the heavier hives, the bees are killed by sulphur fumes while the honey is being removed.

Value of Punctuality
There is no more desirable business qualification than punctuality, and no other so indispensable to a man of affairs, or to anyone who would save his own time and that of others. Napoleon once invited his marshals to dine with him, but, as they did not arrive at the moment appointed, he began to eat without them. They came in just as he was rising from the table. "Gentlemen," said he, "dinner is now over, and we will immediately proceed to business."

Moon Receives Light of Sun on One Side at Time

The moon being a sphere, like the earth, it receives the light of the sun only on one side at a time. The dark of the moon is simply its night; the illuminated side, its day. Since the moon revolves about the earth, we see it in varying positions with relation to the sun.

Sometimes, states a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, when the moon is "behind" the earth, and hence in such a position that we can see all of its illuminated side, the sun, the earth and the satellite come into a single line. It is then that the earth throws its round shadow on the moon's face, depriving it of part, or even all, of its light. This is an eclipse.

The moon revolves on its axis, and thus presents all sides of itself to the sun. But the pull of the earth is so strong that it can never turn its face away from us. Its revolution on its axis is achieved therefore in the same length of time it takes the moon to travel around the earth—27.32166 days. We can never see the other side of the moon, therefore, and a day on that body is almost a month long.

What we speak of as a lunar month is more than 27½ days, however. In consequence of the moon's motion in common with the earth about the sun, the time between one "new" moon and the next is a little less than 29 days and 13 hours.

If you saw a tree in the Summertime without leaves—without fruit—you would say it was useless—cumbered up the ground—should be cut down; for the purpose of a tree is to accumulate leaves and fruit.

SO it is with human beings. For accumulation of money in bank is as necessary to a man as the accumulation of fruit and leaves to a tree.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY

by Vance Wyman
© Public Ledger

The House on the Hudson

SEVERAL years ago Chief Flynn, of the United States Secret service, discovered that counterfeit $2 bills were being circulated in large quantities in the eastern part of the country. His search first led him to Philadelphia, but the trail was imperfect and he returned to New York, where he finally located some of the men who were passing the bad money.

A general raid in various sections led to the arrest of twenty men, most of them Italians.

This was very well, as far as it went, but it did not go far enough for the detective.

His desire was to find the men who were manufacturing the money, and eventually he got a clue which made him believe that the plant of the conspirators was located in a town on the Hudson river in New York state.

He went there and discovered what was called, in the language of the department, a deserted house.

It was not actually deserted, because an aged Italian and his wife were living there, and when they learned the mission of Mr. Flynn they vigorously protested their innocence of any wrongdoing.

But paper and ink had been shipped to this town of Highland, and when he made a search of the premises he discovered dies and other tools used in the making of counterfeit money.

He decided not to arrest the old couple, feeling that premature action might enable the real culprits to escape.

He returned to New York again and in the course of a few weeks managed to get on the trail of two men who were known to be in the business of making bogus money.

Salvatore Cueno and Vincent Gaglio were the suspected ones, and it did not take long to satisfy the secret service man that they were connected with the deserted house on the Hudson and knew something about the $2 bills which were being circulated in the Eastern cities.

They were shadowed day and night. The chief spent his days in his office—laying his plans and his evenings in gathering evidence.

One morning one of his men called at the office and told him that the suspects knew they were being shadowed, and had been heard making threats against him.

He shut his lips grimly and decided upon his plan of action.

The threat which had come to him was regarded as a challenge.

Flynn accepted it.

That night he started out as usual, but instead of pursuing his usual round of investigation he made straight for the saloon where he was likely to find the two men he was interested in.

It was the sort of thing that required nerve, but anyone who is acquainted with this great detective knows that he is not deficient in courage.

The door of the place was shut and locked. He knocked on the panels and demanded admittance.

The door was opened on a crack. Flynn pushed his way in, and found that the saloon was crowded with a motley assemblage of men and boys, most of whom were easily recognizable as inhabitants of the underworld.

His dramatic entrance filled them with awe.

For some moments they stood there looking at him without saying a word. Before they had time to recover from their surprise he pulled a revolver and shouted:

"Hands up, everybody!"

He had planned all of this before he entered the place.

He knew the psychology of crowds. He knew, especially, the kind of men he would have to deal with.

The result was exactly what he had anticipated.

Every man in the saloon raised his hands, and the next moment a corps of assistants rushed into the place and placed the men under arrest. Among them were the two men he was after.

They were taken before a United States commissioner and held for trial. When the trial took place some time later the evidence was so complete and conclusive that they were promptly convicted and sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary.

Most of the other persons caught in the raid were released, but it is a significant fact that the manufacturing and circulation of the counterfeit bills ceased from that time.

It was a clever piece of detective work, involving keen headwork and personal courage.

Iron Age Relics Are Found

Relics of an early Iron Age have been found in the caves at Ballinacorney, Ireland, by a group of archaeologists under Dr. J. Wilfrid Jackson of the Manchester museum. The most remarkable and unique find was a roughly finished female figure in baked clay, which was similar to some of the clay figures of Crete and other Mediterranean places of ancient times. A fireplace, built of large water-worn stones, was unearthed at a depth of six feet. It was partially surrounded by a wall of similar stones. Among the worked bones were pincers and needles, including a very fine polished needle about two inches long, with a perfectly formed eye.

Natural Gypsum Rock Is

Also Known as Alabaster

Gypsum is probably best known to the average man as plaster of Paris. Crushed gypsum rock as it comes from the mine, heat it to drive out about three-quarters of the moisture in it and this familiar cement results. Mix it with small stones and a binding material and one has stucco. The same, incidentally, comes from the famous Montmartre deposits near Paris, says Science Service.

Natural gypsum rock is also known as alabaster, when in the massive granular form. Easily carved, it has been for ages a favorite for jewelry and statuary.

Most gypsum beds have been formed by the evaporation of water from salt lakes or the arms of the sea. Commonly they occur along with salt beds which originated in the same manner.

Gypsum, however, is much more widespread than salt, for it will deposit out of sea water after 37 percent of the water has evaporated, while 93 percent of sea water must evaporate before the salt in it will be deposited.

Synthetic gypsum is superior to the natural products in many respects. Because of the high temperature of the reaction of which it is a by-product, and because strong sulphuric acid is used to produce the reaction, all impurities except a minute trace of harmless silica are removed.

The Technical Knockout

A technical knockout is registered when a referee does not actually count out the fighter. In most cases a technical knockout is in reality a real knockout as far as punishment is concerned. Occasionally when a handler thinks his fighter has absorbed enough punishment and can only endanger life and limb if he continues, he throws in a towel as a signal of surrender. That is a technical knockout defeat because the referee has not actually counted him out. Sometimes a fighter may be ahead on points and accidentally sprains an ankle or throws an elbow out of joint and is unable to go on. In this case a technical knockout victory is conceded his opponent.

LOCAL MEN STRANDED

Norman Grimwade, William Wheeler, Jr. and Melvin Lesser motored to Hudson on Tuesday morning. On the return trip they left Hudson at 11 a. m. and got stuck in a snow bank a mile south of the Whitney Watkins farm on the Wampler Lake road. After digging out of that bank they turned around, attempting to go back, but became stuck again. They spent the night at a neighboring farm home. They also ran out of gasoline, which necessitated hitching up a team to the old bob sleigh and driving several miles for a supply. They reached Chelsea around noon on Wednesday. A searching party had started to their rescue but met the boys in Jackson Wednesday forenoon. Bill says that he always wanted to be snowbound and now he has realized his ambition.

STUDY CLUB MEETING

The Child Study club held one of the happiest and most unusual meetings of the year on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Faye Palmer, Park St.

The program committee decided at the beginning of the year that "all work and no play" makes club programs dull as well as "jack". So they provided for a stunt night in this year's program. The club was divided into five committees, each committee making an effort to outdo the others in mirth provoking entertainment.

Prof. Wiggly opened the program with a pipe organ overture from the "American Yankee," by Herr Duddle. A highly educational (?) television program, with some of the outstanding nursery rhyme characters, was portrayed. The members were then asked, during intermission, to compete with each other at gum modeling, prizes being awarded Mrs. D. A. Riker for her nearly perfect toad, and Mrs. M. R. Longworth for her almost perfect cat. The fourth was a very clever puppet show, entitled "Father Takes the Family for a Ride". This committee had constructed the scenery and puppets and written their own script, which included during the conversation of the amusing characters, every member of the club. The character parade, ending in gales of laughter in a mock wedding, with very appropriate refreshments served by the hostesses, made a grand climax for stunt night.

Chairmen of the various stunts were Mrs. G. W. Walworth, Mrs. Paul G. Schable, Mrs. A. C. Fisher, Mrs. Jess Miller, and Mrs. Faye Palmer. The routine business of the club clamored for attention, so a short business meeting followed the refreshments. The next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday evening, February 25, at the home of Mrs. E. W. Eaton. The topic will be "Preschool Problems."

Spring, Mystic Image, Costa Rica Attraction

According to legend, a native girl of Costa Rica, while gathering firewood, found a small stone image upon a flat rock and carried it back to the village when she returned. In the morning it could not be found, but another trip for wood disclosed the image at the place of discovery where later a spring of cool, pure water issued from a hole in the rock.

The local natives suggested that the image remain undisturbed, since apparently it had returned without human aid. A small shrine was built upon the spot, and the image and the waters of the spring became accredited with miraculous healing powers.

Although locally called "La Negrita," from the neighborhood in which it was found, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, the image is best known as "Nuestra Señora de los Angeles, Patrona de Costa Rica," or "La Virgen de los Angeles." The image is surrounded by an elaborate glory formed of gold and precious stones, and remains where found but under a glass cover and within the octagonal iron grill which protects the spring.

In front of the shrine and spring stands the church of La Virgen de los Angeles. This is within the city of Cartago, which was the original capital of the country and until recently, the second largest city.

Cadix an Important City

Throughout its long history, Cadix, a city of Spain, has maintained its prominence in the world since its earliest founding by the Phoenicians, about 1100 B. C. It has been occupied by many races; in 501 B. C. by the Carthaginians; in 40 B. C. by Rome; when it was known as the Joyous City. Its cooking and dancing girls being famous throughout the civilized world. After the discovery of America it became the headquarters of the Spanish treasure fleet and was known as the wealthiest port of western Europe. It was burned and sacked by Sir Francis Drake, by the earl of Essex and by Lord Charles Howard, but each time recovered to a greater splendor. About 1705 its wealth was said to be greater than that of London.

Vehicles With Wheels, Old

Vehicles with wheels date back to time unknown. The Roman chariots used for war, for pleasure and for sport were but a development of more than 2,000 years of testing and improvement. Buried under volcanic ash . . . sunk in solidifying lava . . . hidden under layers of desert sand . . . wheel tracks made in forgotten centuries have been uncovered by archaeologists. And these ancient wheel tracks, dating back longer than the very earliest standard chariots used a span between the wheels measuring the same width as that of our modern standard-gauge railroad tracks.

Noddy and Sooty Terns

In appearance and habits there is a great deal of similarity between the noddy and sooty terns. Both are graceful birds from 15 to 18 inches long. Both are remarkably strong of wing, have long black bills and are expert fishermen. While the sooty tern is black with distinctive white markings and white breast, the "noddies" run more to inconspicuous grays and browns in coloring. The latter are notable, however, for their curious habit of bowing repeatedly in apparent salutation upon coming face to face with others of their kind.

Wind Spreads Seeds

FELLOWSHIP CLUB MEETS

The February meeting of the Fellowship club was held in the dining room of the Methodist church on Tuesday evening. Dinner was served at 6:30. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gaunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Musbach, with other helpers, were on the committee. President Breesamle conducted a brief business session and then called on the pastor to direct community singing. Mrs. Mumby gave readings by Margaret Sangster, Eddie Guest, and T. C. Harbough's "Trouble in the Choir."

The speaker of the evening was Rev. W. P. Ainsworth of Denton, who spoke on "The Value of a Margin," and pointed out that moral and spiritual tragedy could only be avoided by having resources in reserve. Dr. H. A. Leeson spoke briefly and the crowd departed with many expressions of appreciation for the evening's activities.

Santa Maria, Pinta, Nina

Described in Catalog

The dimensions of the Santa Maria, the flagship of the squadron of three vessels commanded by Christopher Columbus during his famous voyage of 1492, which led to the discovery of America, were as follows:

Length—between perpendiculars, 74.12 feet; extreme length of ship proper, 85 feet; length over all, 128.25 feet; breadth, extreme, 25.71 feet; depth of hold, 12.46 feet; displacement, fully laden, 288 tons; weight of hull, 60.5 tons; burden, about 100 tons; complement, 52 men.

The Santa Maria's armament consisted of eight pieces, two lombards firing stone shot weighing two pounds, and six falconets of wrought iron firing stones thirteen ounces in weight. These dimensions are taken from a description of the ship given in a catalogue of the collections in the Science Museum of South Kensington, London, compiled by G. L. Overton, A. B. C. S. A rigged model of the Santa Maria was presented to the museum by the Spanish government in 1892.

Descriptions of the other vessels forming the squadron—the caravels Pinta and Nina—are not so readily available, records disclosing only that they were of about 50 and 40 tons burden, respectively, and each having a complement of 18 men.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sweden's Isle of Oland

Holdover From Flint Age

Europe, too, has its Easter island, with groups of prehistoric stones, which are as puzzling to explain as those in the Pacific, notes a Borgholm, Sweden, correspondent in the Detroit News. Just off the coast of Sweden, on the island of Oland, these great rocks are arranged in the forms of ships, with masts, masts, sterns, and even benches for rowers.

The finest of these prehistoric monuments stands near the village of Hogstrum, and because of its size the inhabitants have dubbed it "Norr's Ark." Two stone forts, remarkable because they were built without mortar and have lasted thousands of years, stand near it. From finds in the mounds which dot the islands, archaeologists believe that the stones were put in place during the Flint age.

The island of Oland is today a second "windmill land." Windmills dot the cliffs along its coast and in the interior, which is level and rather bare, they actually outnumber the trees. A favorite resort of the Swedish people, the island is much visited by botanists, for its mild climate and rich soil support a great variety of vegetation, including many plants not found on the mainland. It is also famous for its large numbers of birds.

Says "Marseillaise" Misnomer

Claude Joseph Rouget de l'Isle, French officer, wrote both the words and music of the stirring call to arms. He was born in Lons-le-Saulnier, in the Jura mountains, in 1760, and died in Chateau de l'Isle, near Paris, in 1836. By an accident of history, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press, the "Marseillaise" is misnamed. It should be called the "Hymne de Strasbourg," for it was not born in Marseilles, but in the Alsatian city on the Rhine. In 1792 Rouget de l'Isle was doing garrison duty in Strasbourg; in the leisure hours he amused himself with the hobby of poetry and music. One night he was a guest at a reception given by Frederic de Dietrich, mayor of Strasbourg. The mayor's niece asked the youthful French officer to sing something. He acceded to her request and the "something" was the thrilling, heart-throbbing "Marseillaise."

The most perfect ventilation system on earth is the natural ventilation of New Mexico's Carlsbad Caverns which have the same temperature throughout the year.

An Explosion

An explosion is simply a very rapid burning, which is nothing but oxidation. Therefore, since oxygen is necessary to support combustion, an explosion cannot take place in a vacuum.

Candle Snuffers

In early candlestick days the thick wicks of candles were made of a soft material and every home had its snuffers, a sawtooth instrument for removing snuff from the candles.

A Noble Calling

Life is a great and noble calling, not a mean and grovelling thing to be shuffled through as we can, but a lofty and exalted destiny.

Placing Flowers on Graves

The ancients believed that the dead enjoyed the fragrance of flowers.

Transforming the Common Task

It is safe to say that the great majority of individuals perform the usual routine duties over and over again. It is not difficult for them to foresee when they arise in the morning just what the day's work will be, and if the work is of a somewhat uninteresting character the performance of it may be allowed to descend into a mere perfunctory operation, a mechanical round, which affords little pleasure to the individual.

There are few things more delightful than the ability to look forward to one's daily work and to enter upon it with zest and spontaneity. The "trivial round, the common task," becomes transformed when perception is in this way. Sloth is banished, and any sense of drudgery abolished. Duties which might otherwise seem monotonous or arduous, if not indeed onerous, are lightened when the heart, having learned something of the true nature of service, sings at its work.

George Herbert must have recognized this fact when he wrote, "Who sweeps a room as for Thy laws"

Makes that and the action one."

Indeed, the efficient performance of our present task is often the first step towards the gaining of a more responsible and congenial one. Improvement in any phase of our experience must begin right where we are. Today, the present moment is ours in which to make a new beginning from which to transform our activity in the "trivial round, the common task," into something approximating perfection.

The keynote of such transformation lies in an apprehension of the truth about God and man's relationship to Him. As it is seen that God, spirit, is the author or creator of spiritual perfection only, as must inevitably be the case, it is also seen that the man of His creating must be, and is, spiritual and perfect; for like can only produce like. What a new and delightful incentive for righteous and useful living comes with such a revelation! How changed becomes one's outlook upon life in general! Not personal aggrandizement or gain, but opportunity for helpful service becomes one's chief concern. Unselfed love has been admitted into thought, and has begun its benevolent reign in our everyday experience. No greater blessing could possibly be ours.

It has been truly said that in the study of astronomy it is necessary to take one's mental stand outside of the earth before a correct view of the universe can be gained. In like manner it is impossible to obtain an accurate estimate of our surroundings or environment until we mentally posit ourselves outside of matter. To the extent that this is done are we able to appraise things for just what they are, for then have we gained a new standard of values. Unimportant things no longer concern us unduly. We are not awayed or disturbed by trifles. Our grasp on spiritual reality extends judgment, purifies purpose, and clarifies vision. Is it any wonder that he who is attaining this poised and consequent efficiency finds himself in greater demand to fill useful and responsible positions? The Bible promises (Matthew 25:23), "Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things," may be placed by each of us today.

This being "faithful over a few things" may be the very thing which is testing our mettle and proving our trustworthiness. In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 323) Mary Baker Eddy writes, "If faithful over a few things, we shall be made rulers over many; but the one unused talent decays and is lost."

The only talent which we seem to possess is the ability to perform some simple task well and efficiently today, and to do the next thing that comes to hand and do it thoroughly? Then we should use it. Such use fits us for a wider sphere of action, and at the same time transforms our present experience into something uplifting and ennobling. Mrs. Eddy also writes in her work "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 116), "Never absent from your post, never unready to look for God; in obedience, balance, 'faithful' over a few things." Such labor constitutes working "as for Thy law," and ensures its own reward.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Locksmiths' Art Shown

In Rouen Museum Exhibit
An unusual museum is situated in this ancient capital of Normandy, writes a Rouen, France, United Press correspondent. It is a museum containing specimens of the art of the iron worker and locksmith through the ages.

The collection was started with the acquisition of a few curious keys by a native of Rouen, Jean Louis Le Secq, and then became a life passion with him and with his son, Henri, who continued the work after his father's death.

The museum includes primitive surgical instruments, strong boxes with complicated locks, ancient iron work signs and numerous religious relics. One of the latter is an elaborate crèche, or manger, surmounted by a crown which hung on a chain from the roof of a church. On it are the words:—

"This was given by Charles Le Jaune and Marie Briffaut, his wife, both of this said parish, and for whom a Te Deum shall be chanted every Sunday as long as the crèche shall last, 1748."

Three large cases at the museum contain only English keys of all varieties, including one which bears the royal monogram and the words "Horse Guards."

Much of the collection in the museum dates back to the early days when every worker belonged to a trade guild, and before he could become a master of his craft he had to produce a masterpiece. Because of this, many of the exhibits are of particular interest from the standpoint of art and technology.

SOUTH LYON—Fire. Wednesday night, destroyed the rural school building in District No. 8, Northfield and Salem, located on Six Mile road, two miles west of the Pontiac road. Although nothing but the stone wall remains of the building, all school equipment—desks, organ, bookcase, etc., were removed. The school was one of the landmarks of the community, having been built about 80 years ago. It had just been redecorated, both inside and out, and also wired for electricity. There was no insurance on the property. Authorities state there never was any insurance carried.—Herald.

Old Castle of Trevano

Recalls Reign of Czar

In the valley of Cassarate above Lugano in southern Switzerland, stands the castle of Trevano. Baron von Derwies, a Russian millionaire and private secretary of the czar, built the chateau Trevano between the 60s and 70s of the last century at an outlay of some 12,000,000 francs, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. He was a patron of the fine arts and as such he maintained in the castle a high class orchestra and a small theatrical company, so that Trevano soon became a rendezvous of the musical world. However, the owner died in 1881 and the castle remained unoccupied for almost 20 years.

Its second owner was Louis Lombard, a Frenchman by birth and an eminent violinist by profession. His artistic career in the United States brought him great wealth.

Von Derwies had planned to develop Trevano into a Bayreuth of the southland. Some of the foremost musicians of his days played at Trevano and an orchestra under his direction gave over 400 symphony concerts which were attended by the elite of Europe's musical and social leaders.

Some of the noted figures within the chateau are a staircase with a balustrade of 300 columns of finely cut Bohemian glass; elaborately carved doors and mantel pieces; masterpieces of the locksmiths' art; walls of flawless Carrara marble; mosaic floors; frescoes, etc.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—I would like to know why mechanical timepieces are called "clocks"? Thank you.

Ans.—"Clock" is a Celtic word of Celtic origin and is derived from the Saxon "clugga," meaning "bell". The French for "bell" is "cloche," Danish is "klokke." Use of this word to denote a mechanical timepiece is explained by the fact that ancient monks divided their day into periods, each marked by the sounding of a bell. Other people eventually depended on the monastery bells in keeping track of the time. The English form of spelling "cloche" and "klokke" is "clock."

Ques.—When an airplane is high in the air for many hours why isn't it left behind while the earth is turning on its axis completely around every 24 hours?

Ans.—This is because a coat of air envelops the earth for an undetermined distance above its surface. This atmosphere is virtually a part of the earth and turns with it. Hence, any object within this air coating would, of course, revolve with the earth.

Ques.—How did the Indians catch and tame wild horses of the West?

Ans.—Horses were unknown to the American Indians until the coming of Christopher Columbus and the Spanish occupation. The so-called "wild horses" of the West are just descendants of the domestic species. Fossil remains indicate that animals of the horse family—but differing greatly from our domestic species—lived in the Americas about 25,000 years ago. Then for some unknown reason they became extinct.

Ques.—Can you answer if President Washington's inaugural message to Congress was written or spoken?

Ans.—George Washington's inaugural address to Congress was spoken. First he was administered the oath of office by the Chancellor of the State of New York while standing on the balcony of the Federal Hall in New York, after which he immediately repaired to the Senate chamber where he delivered his message in a low, tremulous voice.

Ques.—I am curious to know how the monkey wrench got its name. Can you answer?

Ans.—The origin of the name is not known as a certainty. The most acceptable reason is that a London blacksmith by the name of Monche (pronounced Mun-kee) made the first wrench with adjustable jaws, and when this wrench became popular it became known as the "monkey" wrench.

Ques.—I wish to ask you if the dead can communicate with the living.

Ans.—We do not know. However, a friend tells us that a few years ago he lent a fellow a dime just before he died and he has never heard from him since.

Ques.—Does "kith and kin" mean the same thing? If they do, why do people use the words together?

Ans.—No, they do not mean the same. "Kith" means known or acquainted with, while "kin" refers to tribe, family, clan, relatives, etc. Thus the expression "kith and kin" literally means "friends and relations."

Ques.—To settle a dispute will you please state if a player is obliged to take a jump in a checker game if he has any other move he can make?

Ans.—Yes. Since the objective of the game is to cause the removal or blocking of an opponent's playing pieces, it is a cardinal rule that jumps must be made. However, a player may take his choice if more than one jump is offered at the same time.

Ques.—Can you please tell me why 56 1/2 inches was adopted as the standard width of all railroad tracks?

Ans.—The width of railroad tracks (56 1/2 inches from the inside of one rail to the inside of the other) was first used for the English tramways so as to conform with the gauge of the common road wagon. Thus, one width was naturally selected for most of the steam railways.

Ques.—We have an argument as to when the Washington monument was begun and completed. Will you please answer? Thank you.

Ans.—The cornerstone of the Washington monument was laid July 4, 1848. The capstone was set in place Dec. 6, 1884, and the monument was dedicated Feb. 21, 1845. However, it was not opened to the public until Oct. 9, 1888.

Ques.—Can you answer if President Washington's inaugural message to Congress was written or spoken?

Ans.—George Washington's inaugural address to Congress was spoken. First he was administered the oath of office by the Chancellor of the State of New York while standing on the balcony of the Federal Hall in New York, after which he immediately repaired to the Senate chamber where he delivered his message in a low, tremulous voice.

The Word "Maru"

The word Maru originally meant "a circle." Its present meaning as applied to ships is obscure to the Japanese themselves. When used as a prefix the word means "full," "complete," "all." But it is used as a suffix to the names of ships, not a prefix. According to Japanese tradition, the use of Maru in ships' names dates back to the Eighteenth century, when a Japanese nobleman called a pleasure boat "Maru."

Some Japanese scholars, among them school teachers of the present day, understand the word Maru to mean "in a state of motion" or "moving." Many Japanese seamen take it to mean "good luck," the word meaning "circle" indicating that the ship will safely sail back to its home port.

Buffalo on White House Site

The first white men to ascend the Potomac river saw specimens of the American bison—the correct name of the humped and shaggy "buffalo"—near the place where the White House stands, observes a writer in the New York Times. If there were no other evidence—and there is plenty—the Elk river flowing from Maryland into the Chesapeake bay indicates by its name that the early settlers saw enough of these animals along its course to name the stream for them.

Believed in Curses

Egyptians believed in the efficacy of curses and engraved them on tombs. One dates back to 2700 B. C.

GIVE THEM TO ME NOW

I would rather have one little rose from the garden of a friend, Than to have the choicest flowers When my stay on earth shall end.

I would rather have one pleasant word in kindness said to me, Than flattery when my heart is still And life has ceased to be.

I would rather have a loving smile from friends I know are true, Than tears shed 'round my casket When this world I've bid adieu.

Bring to me your flower today, Whether pink, or white, or red, I'd rather have one blossoming now Than many when I'm dead.

Selected—Arthur Carlton.

Tides Brak' Earth

The moon produces the tides on the sea which act as a brake on the earth's rotation; and from its present rate the moon has been acting as a brake for some period between 1,000,000 and 20,000,000 years.

There were 1038 paid admissions at one dollar per, and a considerable number of spectators who were content to see what they could from outside the grounds. The filling stations here added to their receipts and from noon until six in the evening the cafes were crowded.—Argus.

PINCKNEY—Pinckney had another early morning fire Tuesday in which the Thomas Road Sons elevator burned, with an estimated loss of $10,000, which was partially covered by insurance in the Michigan Millers' Association. Fred Read informs us that the loss will be only partially covered by insurance. The building contained 500 bags full of beans and 500 bushels of wheat and rye, mostly rye, besides bran, stock feed, etc.; also grain machinery, large motor and hoisting apparatus. The bean-picking machinery was in the next building and was saved as was also the cement, plaster, coal, etc. As yet no decision has been made as to what will be done, but undoubtedly a temporary office will be fitted up in the storage sheds or lumber house. The books and accounts were in the safe and were found to be uninjured when this was dragged out of the fire.—Dispatch.

BROOKLYN—Russell Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Watts of Napoleon thought he was doing fine when he speared a 10 pound pike in Wolf lake on opening day, but he did better last week. Wednesday he speared a 13 pounder through the 13 inch ice of Little Stony Lake. Howard Bartlett brought to town a pike he speared in Fay's lake last week that weighed nearly 14 pounds.—Exponent.

MILAN—After several months of litigation, during which time there were many rumors, guesses and conjectures on the part of the citizens of Milan, the Ford Motor Company this week became the owners of the Johnston Lumber Company and also made the final arrangements for the property of the Michael Neckel Estate. Deeds and abstracts were turned over to Mr. Newton of the Ford Motor Company Monday of this week for a purchase price that was not made public. In taking over the Neckel property the Ford Company gains one of the oldest mill sites in this section of the state and the oldest in either Monroe or Washtenaw County. The property has been used for a flour and grist mill for more than a hundred years and was established by the Willson family here in the early pioneer days and was in use up to a few years ago when the death of the late Michael Neckel closed the doors.—Leader.

Ship Models, Oars and

Anchors Are in Churches

Ship models have been presented to cathedrals and churches for many centuries, and this old custom was revived when a model of the Mary Rose, a vessel with a notable war record, was hung in Portsmouth cathedral.

Then a large model of a lifeboat "bunk" from the vesting of the parish church at South Shields, in commemoration of the fact that the first lifeboat was built, and launched at that town in 1730. Another model lifeboat has been placed in Southwold church.

Gifts of ship models are not confined to Christian churches. They are to be found also in many shrines and temples on the coast of Japan. There they take the form of models of the picturesque Japanese fishing craft. Japanese fishermen also sometimes present anchors and oars to the temples where they worship.

Virgin Islands Justly

Claim a Thrilling Past

All the Virgin Island group can boast a thrilling past. They were discovered and named by Columbus on his second voyage in 1493, states a writer in the Chicago Daily News. In the passage between St. Thomas and Puerto Rico pirates used to lie in wait for passing ships and the entire area reeks with memories of those roving days.

"Pirate's bay," "Rendezvous bay," "Gallows bay," "Cutlass reef," and similar names recall a violent past. From St. Croix Sir Walter Raleigh was driven by cannibals, and later the Dutch, the French and the English struggled for possession of the island. When France won the struggle she sold the island to the Knights of Malta, who sold it to the Danes in 1733, who sold it to us in 1916.

Above the jewel-like harbor of St. Thomas the picturesque pink and white city rambles up the hillside and is still a sort of spotless tropical Danish town in appearance. But in long years of possession the Danes never did force their language on the inhabitants and English is generally spoken.

Watt Once Boycotted

James Watt (1736-1810), who conceived the steam engine and thus revolutionized the world, at twenty-one, tried to set up as an instrument maker in Glasgow, but was boycotted from doing so by the conservatism of the trade unions of his day. His genius might have been lost to the world had not the professors at the university appointed him "mathematical instrument maker to the university, with a house and workshop for himself.

Holy City Lives in Fear

Mecca, holy city of Islam, lives in greater fear of spiritual contamination than any other town on earth, says Collier's Weekly. No adherent of another religion may pollute it with his presence and no Mohammedan himself will enter its gates until attired in a dress without seams—for seams are made with needles and thread which usually are manufactured by "infidels."

Obscurantists

Obscurantists is the name given to those who are supposed to look with dislike and apprehension on the progress of knowledge, especially to such as defend the ancient prejudices against what is believed to be scientific truth.

Greatest Cataract in the World

In the southeastern part of Finland, is the greatest cataract in the world, a narrow cut through which roar the waters drained from thousands of square miles. Near Imatra is the largest lake in Europe, Lake Ladoga, forming part of the boundary between Russia and Finland. Thirty miles out in it, on a group of islands, is the only Russian monastery now serving a religious purpose.

Reds, Yellows, "Warm" Colors

Reds and yellows and their derivations are said to be "warm" colors, producing a feeling of warmth and cheer in a room where such hues predominate. "Warm" colors include all modifications of red and yellow, from the palest straw tint down through orange and brown, and from the most delicate rose color to the deepest crimson and mahogany.

Plate Applications Show Carelessness

Current figures of the Department of State show that practically every fifth application for 1936 automobile license plates contains an error of some sort.

This condition is not the fault of the managers of the branch offices of the Department of State nor of their clerks. Each application is carefully checked but when "rush" days occur there is not sufficient time for a detailed check of each application submitted, with the result that errors sometimes pass unnoticed. A recent typical "rush" day showed that a total of 33,239 applications for plates and half-year permits or "stickers" was forwarded to the state capital from branch offices, and that about 1,000 had to be segregated for further checking.

A former Secretary of State once estimated that the errors made by the taxpayers cost the state about $50,000 annually because of the necessity for involved investigation and other similar activities. Naturally, the errors made by motorists in making out their license applications would make up a large portion of this.

People who write their "signatures" rather than their names cause grief, others, in writing long serial or engine numbers on opposite portions of an application, will become confused. Others fail to furnish necessary information. In the meantime, of course, they have their plates and the state has the application which must be held up for study and investigation. These errors also cause delay in the return of titles to the applicants.

Man Likes to Make Trouble

"When a man gets to trouble-making," said Uncle Eben, "he don't care so much about do-ing so long as he can have the fun of workin' overtime."

Excuses Fatal

He that is good for making excuses, is seldom good for anything else.—Franklin.

London's Lord Mayor's Job

The position of lord mayor of London makes extreme financial demands although it involves many feudal prerogatives. Most lord mayors are from $10,000 to $15,000 poorer when they leave office, despite a $10,000 salary for the year. They are, however, spokesmen for the king in times of emergency, admirals of the Port of London, and ex-officio members of the privy council. The password of the tower of London is confided to the lord mayor, and only with his permission may armed troops pass through the city. He also has the right to close the temple bar to the king. These rights and privileges go back to the time of William the Conqueror.

Thick Soils Called Loess

A large part of the United States is covered by thick soils often called loess, borrowing a name applied to similar deposits in Europe and China. Geologists believe that these soils were laid down, precisely as in Kodak Island, Alaska, dust storms, out of rock dust ground-up and left by ice age glaciers, then redistributed by winds as the ice age was ending. With a few exceptions the wide areas of fertile soils in the world all belong to these loess deposits or to regions where parts of the loess deposits have been reworked by streams.

An Enchanting Land

Lugano, in southern Switzerland, is one of the enchanting spots in the land of the Alps. Here the vegetation, coloring and atmosphere of Italy combining with the grandeur which is characteristic of the mountains. The town itself curves in a semicircle around the laplacid colored Lake Ceresio, known under the name of "Lake of Lugano."

Indians Use Mountain Beaver

Fortunately for itself, the mountain beaver has no value in the eyes of a white man, but the Indians used to hunt it for its skin, which they used for making robes, and probably also for its flesh. There is no reason to think it would make any worse eating than either a squirrel or a woodchuck.

New Chevrolet Truck on Economy-Safety Run

Carrying a 10,000-lb. cement block from Los Angeles to New York, a 1 1/4-ton Chevrolet truck—one of the new 1936 models just introduced—demonstrated that safe driving means economy. Speed limits were observed in every community, with 35 m.p.h. the maximum on the open road. The 351 1/4 miles were completed on two quarts of oil and 308.6 gallons of gasoline, at a cost of 0.16 cents per mile, or one-third of a cent per ton mile. The entire run was completed without any mechanical failure, repairs, or even a scratched fender. The illustrations show the test truck and features of the new 1936 models. Coupe type cabs with solid steel roof, full-flowing rear axle, and full-length water jackets, are some of the improvements. In the lower right, Harry Harts, who drove the cross-continent test, is seen beside the 10,000-lb. block. The test was officially observed by the American Automobile Association.
