Long-Eared Bat Has Use for Its Odd Appendages

The long-eared bat is about five and a quarter inches from the tip of the ears to the end of the tail, and the ears take up one and a half inches. These wonderful ears help, no doubt, when following insects, especially those that make a noise on the wing. They are flexible, can be turned from side to side, and during flight are ever on the move; the fact that it flies on the darkest nights with the greatest speed, dodging all obstructions, and snapping up insects as it travels, seems to prove that it is not guided in any way by sight. The eyes are exceedingly small and in some species we have to put the soft fur before we can see them, while a native in the Philippines Magazine.

Like many of its companions, this bat is not handsome; the body is something like that of a mouse, and the face reminds one of a very ugly little monkey; the wings have no fur on them, consisting of an almost black skin stretched over the bones. The body is covered with soft fur, and on the bottom of each wing, near the tail, are two miniature hands. These are useful when the creature is resting, for it grips the perch with these and hangs head downwards. In winter, this bat finds a sheltered spot, such as the interior of a disused building or a hollow tree, and there, with many companions, it sleeps the winter through. When hibernating, it looks almost like a piece of old wood, and many would pass it by. The long wings, usually "well" prominent objects, are folded along the body.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Where is Halley's Comet, which was seen here in 1910?

Ans.—Halley's Comet which appeared here in 1910 is outward bound, sailing through space at the rate of a thousand miles per second. Nobody knows where it is now, but it is due to return and be seen here again in 1985. If you don't believe this just stick around until then and you will be convinced.

Ques.—Is St. Peter's church in Rome considered the finest and most perfect building in the world? Your answer will settle an argument.

Ans.—St. Peter's church is one of the finest buildings in the world, but the finest and most perfect and costliest is the Taj, which is the tomb of Shah Jehan of India. The edifice is located in Agra, India, and is built completely of the finest white marble. It took 20,000 men, employed incessantly for 17 years, to build it.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer these questions? What are the names of the planets of the Solar System? Which is nearest and which is farthest from the sun? Are any of them inhabited?

Ans.—The names of the planets of the Solar System are: Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, Pluto. Mercury is 36,000,000 miles from the Sun, which is nearest. Pluto is 4,600,000,000 miles distant from the Sun and is therefore farthest of the planets in the solar system. Mercury goes around the Sun once every 88 days, while Pluto makes the same circuit once every 328 1/2 years.

Ques.—What is the correct pronunciation of Facet and also of Nazi?

Ans.—Facet is pronounced "face-it," with accent on the first syllable and "a" sounded like that in father. Nazi is pronounced "nah-see," also with accent on the first syllable and "a" as in father.

Ques.—Is it true that George Washington was married twice?

Ans.—No. George Washington was a bachelor until 1759, when he married a widow, Martha Curtis, her maiden name being Danbridge. It is from this circumstance of his wife being married twice that the erroneous idea originated that it was George himself who was twice married.

Ques.—I would like to ask you who invented the making of artificial ice, and when?

Ans.—In the 16th century the Italians were experimenting with the manufacture of artificial ice, but they made very little progress. Nearly 200 years later Dr. William Cullen invented the first machine to make artificial ice. He was a Scotchman. His machine was based on the vacuum principle, and the atmospheric pressure was reduced by means of an air pump. Improvements were added until today the ammonia absorption processes are used.

Ques.—What is the origin of "mending political fences"?

Ans.—This phrase originated in 1880 just prior to the Republican national convention. A reporter was sent to interview John Sherman on his likelihood of being a presidential candidate. At that time Sherman was living on his farm near Mansfield, O. The reporter was told that Mr. Sherman was outside mending his fences. From this incident the phrase "has been political among all parties ever since—"mending his political fences." Frequently it is applied to Congressmen when they return home from Washington during election years.

Ques.—Was George Washington the first President of the Continental Congress?

Ans.—No. The first President of the Continental Congress was Peyton Randolph of Virginia.

Ques.—Can more than one message be sent over a telephone line at the same time?

Ans.—Yes. In 1873 Thomas A. Edison perfected the quadruplex system by which two or more messages may be sent at the same time from each line. Before that time Dr. Gintl of Vienna devised the first duplex system in 1858 by which a message could be sent from each end at the same time.

Ques.—What are some of the numerals named which are higher than a decillion? How are they written in figures?

Ans.—Following decillion the denominations are as follows: Undecillion, duodecillion, tredecillion, quatuordecillion, quindecillion. In writing these in figures add three ciphers to each respectively until you reach quindecillion. The latter denomination is written one (1) followed with 48 ciphers.

The Cahokia Mounds
The Cahokia mounds are a group numbering at least 85 mounds on the bottom near Cahokia, Ill. The central mound, known locally as Monk's mound, because it was occupied from 1818 by a settlement of Trappist monks, is the largest artificial earthwork in North America north of Mexico. It is 1,000 feet long, 710 feet wide and 100 feet high. A part of the area is a state park.

CRUMBS

Keep sacred the rules of your life to the letter, Friends are made by sacrificing for them; Oh! I cried, you stepped on my foot, Keep your foot out of the way was the retort! Far better had begged pardon with apology.

The closer we live to God, The stronger will be our faith.

There's only one God, He is the Lord, the Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him, and delivereth them.—Psalm 34.

The Lord redeemeth the soul of His servants, and none of them that trust in Him shall be desolate.—34th Psalm.

OLDSMOBILE SETS RECORD

Oldsmobile retail sales in March were greater than for any month in the long history of the company.

Oldsmobile production scheduled for April is the highest ever set up by the company.

Retail sales in the last 10 days of March were 26 per cent greater than Oldsmobile's best previous 10 day period.

More than twice as many Oldsmobiles were sold at retail in March as in February.

These were the statements of D. E. Ralston, Oldsmobile vice president and general sales manager.

"Oldsmobile dealers delivered 11.5 per cent more cars in March than in April of last year, the record month up to this time. March retail sales were 19 per cent above those of the same month in 1935.

"Sales for the first quarter set a new all time high, being 21 per cent greater than those of the first three months of 1935, the previous record.

"Because of the tremendous and growing demand for Oldsmobiles, the production schedule for this month has been stepped up 20 per cent over that of a year ago, when the month's output set a new high for Oldsmobile.

"Since the introduction of the new 1936 cars we had built 107,733 up to the end of March. Production for the first quarter was 11 per cent greater than that of the comparable period in 1935.

"Reports from the field reveal that with the opening up of the weather the sales record made in March is very likely to fall before this month is over. Public acceptance of Oldsmobile bears out our prediction that again this year Oldsmobile will continue to advance and will break the records set in 1935, thus setting new all time highs in both production and sales."

URGED TO HONOR MOTHERS

Calling attention to Mother's Day, May 10th, Scout Executive Walter MacPeck, in a bulletin to Scout leaders, urges all troops to have mothers attend the troop meeting during the week preceding Mother's Day as special guests of honor of the troop. Some recognition of the part that mothers play in Scouting is recommended, such as the presentation of Scout Mothers' pins, flowers, etc.

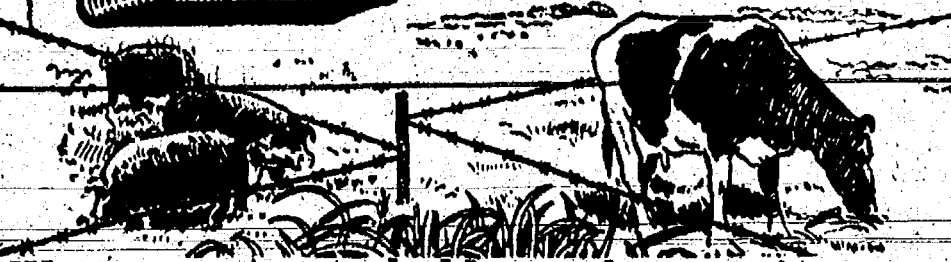

"Another most Scoutlike way to commemorate Mother's Day," Mr. MacPeck recommends, "is for every boy to take his mother to church on Mother's Day."

Portraits in Books
Before printing, books were written by hand, and if the illuminator happened also to be a natural portrait painter, we may have the likeness of some famous personage of the past. The portrait of Chaucer, England's celebrated writer of the fourteenth century, is thus believed to have come down to us as authentic, a fellow-scribe of his generation who knew him, happening also to be a good hand at portrait painting.

Safe-Cracking Tough Job
Safe-cracking requires more equipment than any other form of burglary. One outfit which was abandoned hurriedly comprised more than 50 articles—drills, saws, bits, levers, chisels, files, pliers, electric wire, bottles of chemicals, gloves, candles, suitcases, 40 feet of rubber hose, torches and two large metal tanks of oxygen and acetylene gas—all of which could not have been carried by four men—Colliers Weekly.

Has Narrowest Thermal Range
The city of Guatemala is 5000 feet above sea level and has, probably, the narrowest thermal range in the world. The highest temperatures which occur in April and May—18.68 degrees F., and the lowest is 61 degrees F., occurring in December and January.

Ann Arbor Daily News Moves to New Building

The Ann Arbor Daily News is moving at the end of this week into its new home at the corner of Huron and Division streets, which is being described as "the most modern newspaper plant in the world." In the design of the building, in the construction details, in the mechanical equipment, and in the editorial and business office furnishings it is said to be the "last word."

Chelsea and all Washtenaw county, together with Ann Arbor will be given an opportunity to see and examine the building in detail within the next few weeks after the Daily News gets settled in the new home. There will be a house-warming for all neighbors of The Daily News on May 21.

The building, with its unique exterior design, has already become a show place of Ann Arbor. The architect, Albert H. Kahn, Inc., has followed Modern, American architectural lines, and produced effects that are unique in this section of the state. The exterior is of select Bedford Indiana limestone which has been rubbed to a white, marble-like finish with carborundum stone. This is offset with a polished artificial black granite base course, black granite spandrels between the floors, and a black granite main entrance.

White limestone and black granite are further offset by the aluminum sash used for the large windows, and the aluminum trim around the windows, in the spandrels and in the entrance, as well as aluminum doors and aluminum plaques decorating the spandrels.

Around the building, in the frieze course, are two belts of stainless steel, adding another unique touch to the exterior.

The exterior architectural effects will be visible at night as well as during the day, for a unique floodlighting system has been installed to illuminate the structure. Four lamp standards of moulded granite have been erected, two on the Huron street side and two on the Division street side. Each standard bears aloft two huge globes, and within each globe are two powerful electric bulbs. One of these bulbs, of 250 watts power, will be used for street lighting; the other, of 750 watts, will direct a brilliant beam of light against the walls of the building, bringing out the contrasts of the white limestone, the black granite, and the lustrous aluminum and stainless steel.

Within the building are spacious quarters for the business offices on the Huron street side of the first floor. In the rear is the press room in which has been installed a new Scott press to take the place of the old Hoe press which has been printing the Daily News for many years in the old plant.

The editorial department extends across the Huron street front on the second floor of the building. This includes a large library.

The composing room is behind the editorial department and the stereotyping department is at the rear. The composing room, stereotyping department, and press room are unique among newspaper plants as they have white tile walls.

Most of the equipment and furnishings in the plant are new, including the Scott press, new stereotyping equipment, a new Monotype typesetting machine, new type-setting machines, new composing room cases, new furniture and filing cases and the like for editorial department and business offices, and a new engraving plant in the basement.

Caesar Says

Greetings, my friends:
Just as spring fever begins to develop it gets frost bitten or drowned out. As spring comes along you'll find more fresh eggs—hanging around on the street corners. To go on with the funny part of this column I have secured "The Reason Why," a story about a boy and girl.

Boy friends: I've never seen such perfectly dreamy eyes.

The girl: You've never stayed so late before.

It isn't bossing that a husband resents—it's being bossed by one who isn't qualified to boss.

Next, we have:
Marion: What do you think I'd do if you tried to kiss me?

Ralph: I haven't any idea.
Marion: Well, aren't you even curious?

Mr. Lyons: Loafing—that's all you do. Haven't you ever felt the impulse to be up and going, Tom?

Tom: Oh yeh, I sat on a bee, once.

Boss: Rufus, did you all go to the lodge meeting last night?

Rufus: No sah, we don't postpone hit.

Boss: How's that?

Rufus: The Grand All Powerful Invisible Most Supreme Unconquerable Potentate dun got beat up by his wife.

At the swiftest clubhouse, says a New York columnist, you find itching feet. And palms.

After that scratch I'll be leaving you until my head again itches from bad jokes.

So long.

Kindergarten
We drew pictures about the story "Little Red Riding Hood." We drew these pictures on our easel.

Earl Scripser is back after having been absent several weeks.

We moved our grocery store and changed it into a doll house. We have our library table back again. It is so much lighter and more comfortable to work on.

We worked with clay and made things about spring.

Miss Boongaard showed us two bluebirds. We have been looking for some outdoors. "We think it will be easier to find them now."

First Grade
We put our train in the storeroom. We will play with it next year.

Mrs. Schenck took pictures of our train outdoors.

We have some new flower pictures.

Second Grade
Tuesday was Doris Nagoy's ninth birthday and we wished her many happy birthdays to come.

The parochial school not being in session on Tuesday, Robert, Joseph and Philip Roy visited our room. We enjoyed their coming.

Barbara O'Hara and Mary Nordman were also present in the afternoon.

Jack Christwell brought us a small toad. He is named Timothy. We find him quite lively, for he likes to hop about our school room.

John Wals brought us some frog wren house to school Wednesday morning, April 15.

We have finished multiplication, division, addition and subtraction in denominate numbers.

We had perfect attendance Monday morning in school. December 20, 1935, was the last day that we were all present at one time.

An old classmate of the present sixth grade visited us last Friday. It was Dick Kinsey, who is now attending school in Ann Arbor. We were glad to see him.

Miss Canfield brought from Ann Arbor the bird skin of the male and female bluebirds. We are also coloring the bluebird pictures in nature study and some of us have built nest boxes for them.

June Crawford has a cocoon and we think it is going to come out soon because he is wiggling all around inside. It almost turned itself over several times.

We have three new birds on our bird clock for the month of April. There are the Towhee, the Flicker and Bluebird.

Miss Canfield brought a world map showing that King Edward owns about one-fourth of the whole world. Fairbelle Stanley is back from a long absence. She was in Toledo with her father and brother and also she was sick with the flu. She came home Sunday night.

Pearl brought a world map of Germany showing its possessions. Hitler's next move is to get her lands back that she lost during the world war.

Chivalry

The word chivalry is defined as the medieval system of military privileges, with its peculiar honorary titles and aristocratic limitations of honorable position to the possessors of those titles, founded upon the several degrees of military service rendered on horseback. It also means the naves and customs pertaining to the order of knighthood; the ideal qualifications of a knight, collectively, as courtesy, generosity, valor, and dexterity in arms.

Vandals in Africa

The Vandals, a Teutonic race, who ravaged the Roman empire at its decline in the fifth century, entered North Africa through Spain, and, curiously enough, although the Vandal kingdom did away in slough about the only word of the German speech which they brought into Africa for the first time, which entered the traditions of North Africa for some time, was the word "trinken," "to drink."

Currency Used by Indians

Surrency used among certain tribes of the North American Indians was "wampum." Long strings of cylindrical beads were made of shell as a medium of exchange. Purple shell was regarded as of greater value than the white. In colonial times, such beads were recognized by the English and Dutch traders, and given a fixed value by the colonial governments to regulate the Indian trade.

Pompeian Red, Old Color

Pompeian red, a color popular in the decoration of rooms, was originally used in houses in the ancient Italian city of Pompeii, which was destroyed by the eruption of Vesuvius 2,000 years ago. The paint, made of a mixture of egg yolk, distilled water and ground earth, has been found on many walls in good condition.

The jack was the first animal domesticated by man for carrying burdens. Jacks were bred and raised by King David. In 1787 the king of Spain presented George Washington with a Jack and Jennet. A. T. & T. Co. Shows Large Quarter Gain

The following statement was issued by Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, at the annual meeting of the stockholders on Wednesday, April 15th:

As shown in the statement accompanying the quarterly dividend check which the stockholders received this morning, there was a net gain of 201,000 telephones for the first quarter of this year as compared with a net gain of 118,000 telephones in the corresponding period of 1935 and the number of toll and long distance calls was approximately 13 per cent greater than the corresponding period last year. During the first week in April, we gained 17,500 telephones as compared with 10,000 in the corresponding week last year, and long distance calls originating in larger cities showed an increase for the week of about 19 per cent as compared with the corresponding week last year. The business of the System continues to show a steady gain.

The floods which broke all records in a number of the eastern states last month created unprecedented difficulties in the giving of telephone service over a larger area than the Bell System has experienced before.

In Pennsylvania alone there were a quarter of a million telephones in the areas affected by the floods. In spite of the fact that the floods receded slowly, most of the trouble was repaired within ten days and within two weeks service was practically normal. Bell System equipment and training are standardized so that men from any part of the System can go to work anywhere else without delay. To help in Pennsylvania, men and trucks came from Ohio, Illinois, New York, Michigan and New Jersey. Similarly with supplies. The Western Electric company has 29 supply points throughout the United States. From twelve of these which were in the flooded areas or near enough to be called on for shipments, equipment was rushed to the stricken points. There were hundreds of switchboards, 33,000 telephones, about a million pounds of line wire, 50,000,000 conductor feet of rubber insulated wire, 200,000,000 conductor feet of wire in lead covered cables, and large quantities of hardware and construction material. Despite the unprecedented demand, 95 per cent of the orders were filled on the day received—most of them within a few hours. The Pittsburgh warehouse functioned, delivering material from second story windows of the warehouse by boat.

In a letter to the president of The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company the governor of New Hampshire says:

"It is almost impossible for me to express to you the personal appreciation I feel and the appreciation I know the people of the state of New Hampshire feel for the services you gave us throughout your organization during the period of recent disaster."

The services rendered in New Hampshire were typical of those rendered elsewhere in this flood period and typical of the telephone workers' services in past emergencies. The organization of the System provides the means and material for their effective work in crises but nothing but their own morale and the spirit of service accounts for the extraordinary personal courage and effort which they contribute. I want to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation and I feel sure you will allow me to say the stockholders' appreciation of the heroic achievements in this emergency of those thousands of telephone workers, many of whom had the same personal problems of loss and distraction which afflicted the other inhabitants of the stricken districts.

Child Health Day Will Be Observed

May Day this year will mark the thirteenth annual observance of Child Health Day throughout North America. Health authorities and organizations everywhere will once again concentrate public attention upon the fundamental need of a year-round community program looking toward the protection and the development of the physical and the mental health of children.

"Health and Security for Every Child" is the May Day slogan for 1936. The objective in each state and community will be to consider the far-reaching consequences of the vast social security program with its provisions for maternal and child health, for the care of crippled children, for the extending of child welfare services, and for aid to dependent children.

Here in Michigan the state May Day chairman is Miss Marjorie Dolan, Director of the Bureau of Education, Michigan Department of Health. Other state officials, county and city health departments and nurses, school authorities, and private organizations and agencies concerned with child health and welfare are co-operating in the program. The national May Day program, originated by the American Child Health Association in 1924, is being sponsored this year by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

May Day serves as a day of reckoning in Michigan public health, for it attracts public attention to what is being done for the benefit of children and new objectives are charted for the all-year program. The well-rounded development of the child has long been accepted as a community responsibility calling for cooperative action. The May Day - Child Health Day committee of the Conference of State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America recommended that "this community responsibility and cooperation can be made most effective by the promotion and support of, first, adequate full-time community health service in cooperation with the medical and dental professions with special emphasis on the needs of the infant and preschool child; second, an adequate school health program adapted to meet the needs of each community."

Many local parent-teacher associations use May Day as the starting signal for their annual Summer Round-Up, their health campaign among the youngsters who are preparing to start their first year of school.

In view of the expansion of child and maternal health activities this year through the social security measures, the May Day emphasis will be placed upon the local needs of mothers and children in their own community, and the local agencies available to give maternal and child health and welfare services.

JACKSON—Junior Wyatt, 11, was near death last Thursday afternoon as most people get without succumbing. Enjoying spring vacation, he sauntered along the river bank. Near the Cincinnati Northern bridge he walked a log out into the stream, slipped and fell into the black ooze there. It was up to his hips. Struggling to get out, he sank to his chest. An unidentified man evidently heard his screams for help and told a railroad signal towerman, C. R. Hartzell, Hartzell called police. In five minutes a crew of seven, Patrolmen Rex Sowle, Byrne Bowditch and Fred Resor, and Firemen Herbert Crawford, Ray Howard and Chief Daughton, with his driver, Carl Lee, arrived. When Crawford reached the boy, Junior's head and one shoulder were above water. Crawford himself was up to his armpits.—Evening Star.

The Port of Barcelona

The port of Barcelona is modern in appearance, even though it dates to the second century and ranked with Genoa and Venice in Mediterranean trade in the Middle Ages. The spacious harbor into which the Phoenicians sailed in search of new business, and which Columbus entered after his return from America, now is pierced by long wharves, each accommodating several large vessels at a time.

Money Issuing Power

There is no limit on the money issuing power of a government. Written constitutions in every case vest the legislative authority with full power to issue money and regulate its value. In most cases governments then delegate the money issuing power to central banks or ordinary commercial banks, but restrict their note issuing power by requiring certain metallic reserves.

Cornstalks Harbor Borer Survivors

A few cornstalks in a field sown with small grain or other crops may lead to infestation of neighboring plantings by the corn borer.

The custom of discing the field before sowing may lead to a fifty-fold increase in the borer. Plowing the field before sowing decreased dangers from the borer but is rendered less effective where refuse or a few corn stalks remain on the surface.

Studies at Michigan State College, East Lansing, by C. B. Dibble, extension specialist in insect control, reveal the importance of clean fields in exterminating the corn borer. Borers buried 18 inches beneath the ground have made their way to the surface and found protection in stray corn stalks and refuse.

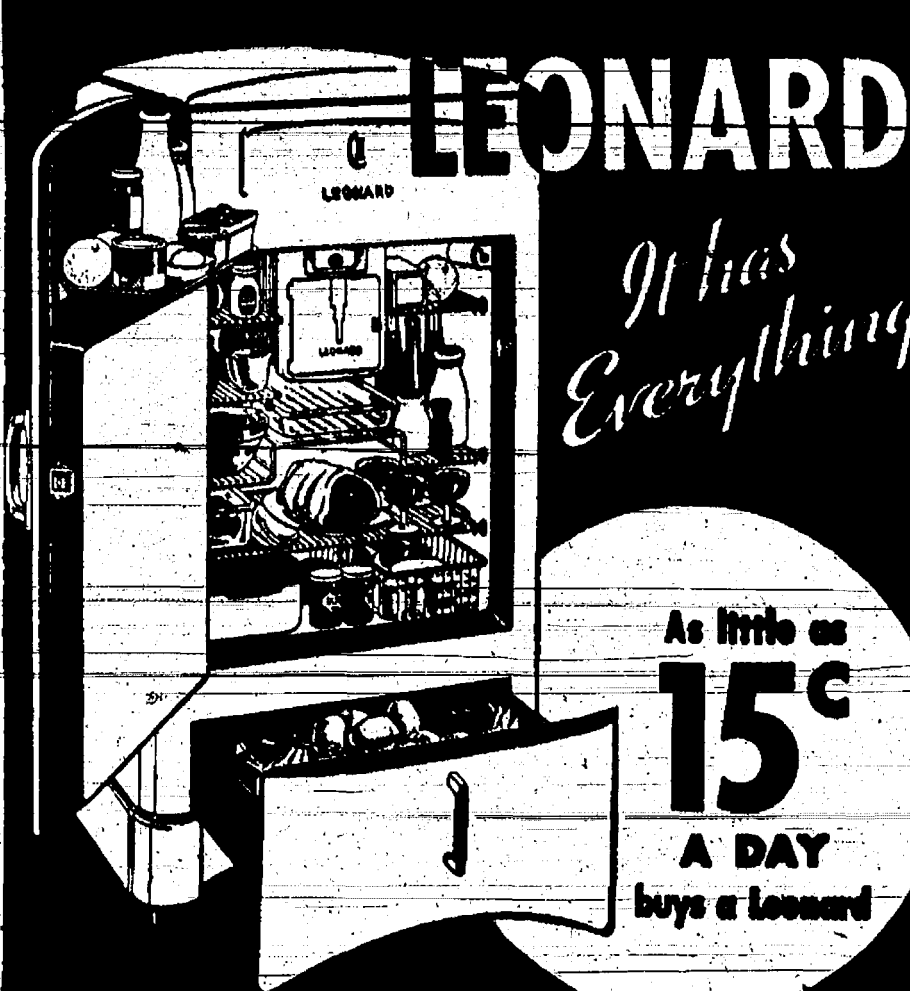

"Pieces of refuse harbor and protect the corn borer larvae," Dr. Dibble says. "These borers later develop into moths to fly around and lay eggs in new cornfields. If two borers survive to become moths, they are sufficient to populate a cornfield with 100 borers."

In the experiments, cages were placed on cleanly plowed ground and on fields disced and planted to small grain. No moths were found in the first case. In the second, surface cornstalks furnished shelter and protection to the borers while the growing grain provided shade. Where clean fields were used, borers made their way to the surface but perished from exposure to sun, wind, and rain, or were picked up by birds, shrews, skunks, field mice and other natural enemies.

The Average Vocabulary
Average vocabulary depends chiefly on education and reading habit, says the Detroit News. One authority states that an average individual who does not do much thinking or reading uses only about 1,000 words, while one who is educated, talks well and does a moderate amount of reading and writing should have a vocabulary of 8,000 to 9,000 words. This is the working vocabulary; the recognition vocabulary is given as about three times these figures. A grade school graduate, on the average, can use 1,200 to 2,000 words; a high school graduate 3,000 to 4,000; a college graduate, 5,000 to 12,000.

The Miracle Becomes a Commonplace

This Michigan gentleman takes modern telephone service calmly. He does no marveling over the fact that he can so easily call up a friend to ask about a sledding party, or to find out tomorrow's assignment in arithmetic.

And yet his father knew a day when it was still considered a miracle that two people, miles apart, could talk to one another just as if they were standing face to face. He can remember when the telephone was a curiosity, when the service was slow, expensive and almost entirely restricted to local use.

What changed the miracle to a commonplace? Why did telephones in Michigan, during a single generation, increase from 340,000 to 630,000?

The chief factor behind this change was value. A constantly growing usefulness made the telephone a good "buy." Each year additional thousands of people found it worth more than its cost. Every new telephone installed broadened the range—and value—of the others. The service grew steadily more prompt, more dependable. New uses were found for it. Subscribers learned that it brought them profitable convenience, comfort, protection. And the telephone, meanwhile, changed from a curiosity to an indispensable part of the social and business life of Michigan.

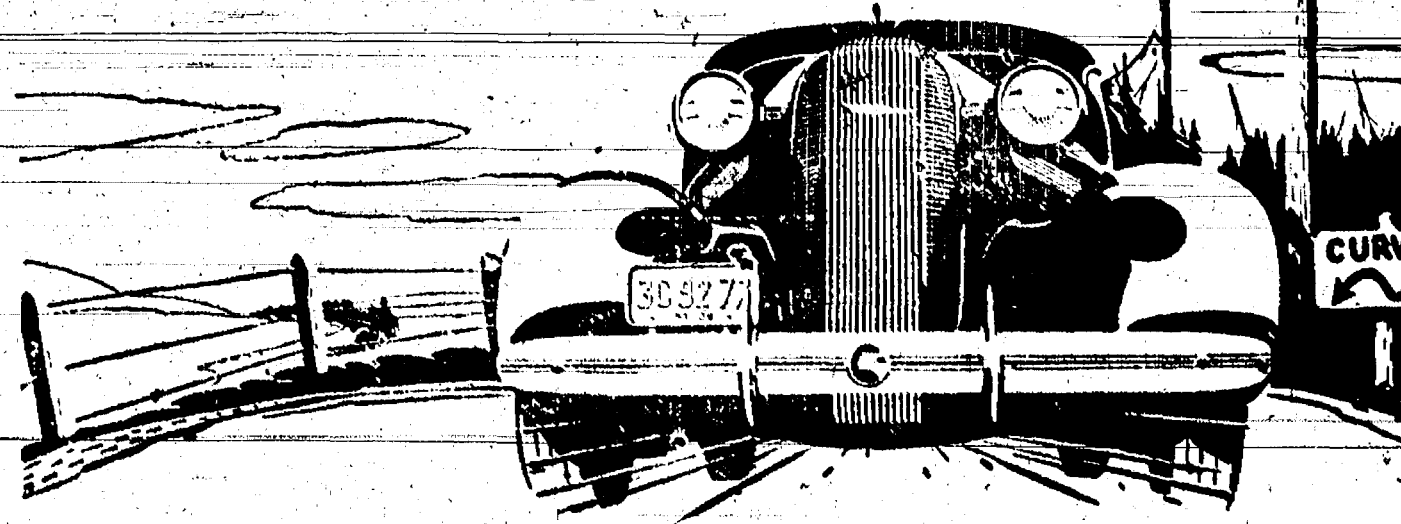

The sincere desire of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company is that each year shall see greater telephone value rendered for every dollar of telephone cost.

The Colorado Cinder Beetle

WHEN the Santa Fe Railroad was built into Colorado, its coming brought rejoicing to the residents of the rich Arkansas river valley. It meant an outlet for their crops and prosperity. But that lasted only a little while. Then disaster swept down upon them.

Every night a large section of the railroad disappeared. Something was taking away the cinder ballast. Trains schedules were disrupted and there were endless delays until the damage could be repaired. In several cases freight trains were wrecked or derailed.

Santa Fe officials were frantic, for no one could discover what was carrying away the ballast. Finally a newspaper man, Charles Blakeley of the Kansas City Star, suggested that possibly the Colorado cinder beetle was eating up the ballast and his surmise proved correct.

How to check the ravages of the insect was the next problem. That was solved when it was discovered that the cinder beetle used for ballast were from soft coal. So hard coal cinders were substituted and the cinder beetles broke their jaws trying to eat them. For some time, it is said, passengers on the Santa Fe were kept awake at nights by the cinder beetles screaming with the pain of their broken jaws. So the railroad speeded up the schedules of their passenger trains. They now went so fast that the passengers heard the moaning of the broken jaws—cinder beetles merged into a symphony of sound, like the rustle of wind through pine trees, that quickly lulled them to sleep.

When a harder race of cinder beetles developed with jaws capable of eating hard coal cinders, the Santa Fe was ready for them. They began using crushed rock and since that time have had no trouble with the little pests.

SAVAGE SCHOOL NEWS

Our Beginners are busy enjoying their First Grade readers. They are learning to make neat numbers and to know simple addition facts. In spelling they enjoy the "Easter Bunny Game," which consists of hunting for their lost "bunny word." Then in order to claim it, they must write its name, spell and name the word.

The Fourth Graders are working on multiplication and division problems. In English class they are writing Easter plays, stories, and poems. They have finished their geography book, and are reviewing it now.

Edward Visel has completed his agriculture book, and is now reviewing civil government. He is reviewing for his last series of county tests.

We are all busy making collections for our "nature book." Richard and Robert Venner brought large bunches of pussy willows. We have a begonia plant in bloom and are watching our carrot plant develop.

Paul Bollinger, Richard Butcher, Thomas Franklin, Richard Venner and Edward Visel have been neither absent nor tardy so far this month.

Frederick Weber has started to school now, and is learning to identify sentences and words from the reading chart.

Rosemary Bollinger visited our school last Thursday afternoon.

April 10th was the occasion of a delightful Easter party. Games consisted of an Easter egg hunt, dressing to resemble a bunny, a peanut race, a number tossing game, and a needle threading contest. Delicious refreshments of cake and jello were served by Mrs. Butcher and Mrs. Franklin. We all had a lot of Easter candies, peanuts, marshmallow buns, and a very merry Easter bazaar.

Guests of the occasion were Mrs. Ray Butcher, Mrs. Franklin, Donald Butcher, Winona Franklin and Ruth Aldrich.

Least Hairy Peoples

The least hairy peoples are the yellow and red races, the men often severely having even rudimentary beards, such as many American Indians and the Mongols. Negroid peoples may be said to be intermediate, but usually inclined to hairlessness. The amount of hair is, of course, somewhat related to its type.

Bray, now in his 92nd year. Each member of the Home was also the recipient of a beautiful handkerchief and bonbons as an Easter present through the courtesy of the Susanna Wesley Bible class of Mt. Hope church of Detroit. The excellent chicken dinner was made possible in large part through the courteous generosity of Mrs. E. T. Reynolds of Detroit, a very kind friend of the Home.
