Two Local Streets Will Be Black-Topped

Plans have been approved by the Chelsea common council for the surfacing of Orchard street, and East street from East Middle to Washington with cut-back asphalt, the work to be started as soon as weather conditions permit. These streets will be scarified and put in condition for application of the surfacing in June, according to present plans.

The cut-back asphalt blacktop mixture consists of gravel, sand, small quantity of silt, and oil. This surfacing is easily applied, can be easily repaired, and can be put on streets without curbing if necessary. It is stated that this surfacing will outwear the pre-mix blacktop such as that applied a few years ago on some of the local streets.

The work on the surfacing will be done by the village with their present equipment, under the supervision of Prof. W. J. Emmons, Department of Engineering, University of Michigan, who is a recognized authority on road construction. The blacktop surfacing will be three inches in thickness.

Planning of their budget to permit the blacktop surfacing of a certain amount of streets each year is a part of the program of the present village administration, in the hope that Chelsea will eventually be a "dustless town."

It is also planned by the council to place a blacktop seal coat on West Middle street this year. The street was prepared for surfacing last year and application of the blacktop will be a real improvement.

The streets which are now surfaced with blacktop are in need of repaving, which will be done as soon as possible. A quantity of the pre-mix similar to that used on the surfacing has been purchased for the repair job.

Waterloo Celebrates Michigan Centennial

Celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of Michigan's statehood, Waterloo village and vicinity presented an impressive Centennial program on Wednesday, April 29. It was held in the Gleaner hall at Waterloo before an audience of about 400 people.

Nine school districts were represented, each contributing a part to the program. The schools were the Munith public school, McIntee, Dewey, Parks, McCull, Strobel, Palmer, Mc Hope, and the Waterloo village school. A three piece orchestra from Stockbridge furnished the music.

A very delightful program was presented as follows: Song by Young People's Choir, Waterloo; instrumental solo by Mrs. Helen Beeman; song, "Michigan", by Mt. Hope school; vocal solo by Herbert Collins; song by McIntee school; duet by Mrs. Ray and Mrs. Reel; Munith selection of songs by Young Men's Quartet; Dewey school; music by Stockbridge orchestra.

Next on the program was the presentation of the history of fifty pioneers, who had first settled in the vicinity of Waterloo. These pioneers were represented by descendants of the first settlers. All of the pioneers were dressed in old-fashioned costumes, some of the costumes being over one hundred years old.

Those who took the part of the pioneers were: Clayton Stemen, Woodrow Arts, Glen Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Collins, Daniel Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. Ardell Lantis, Miss Mae Howlett, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gorton, Miss Rose McIntee, Will Barber, Mrs. Ezra Moeckel, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Siegrist, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beeman, Ezra Moeckel, Miss Odema Moeckel, Mr. and Mrs. John Harr, Ben Lantis, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rentschler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pixley, Mr. and Mrs. Will Arts, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Moeckel, Milton Riethmiller, Mr. and Mrs. James Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lutz, Earl Prentice and Grover Arts represented Indians who had lived near Waterloo.

After the pioneers had been welcomed by the grandmother, who was represented by Annabelle Vicary, an old-fashioned wedding was staged with the pioneers as guests. The members of the wedding party were: Bride, Leona Moeckel; groom, Richard Vicary; best man, Bernard Arts; bridesmaid, Lila Uhrig; ring bearer, Amelia Hess; minister, Walter Vicary.

After the wedding some of the pioneers took part in an old-fashioned square dance for which Herbert Harvey called.

The narrator for the history of the pioneers was Mrs. Veva Kalmbach. The Leigh Beeman family played for the square dance: Piano, Mrs. Beeman; mouth organ, Wilbur Beeman; banjo, Mr. Beeman.

Complete Plans for Ball Season Opening

At a meeting of the Chelsea Twilight Ball League held last Friday night at Miller Bros. barber shop it was voted to use the 12-inch soft ball this year, or at least to give the large ball a trial in order to determine if it will prove more popular than the small ball which has been in use in the League since its organization.

The large playground ball is used nationally in soft ball associations, the small ball having become obsolete, and it is believed the decision to change to the larger ball will prove popular with both players and fans. The game played with this ball is different in that there are ten men on a team, with four players in the outfield. Regulation indoor bats must be used, the pitcher throws underhanded, with only one swing of the throwing arm being permissible. A runner cannot leave his base until the pitched ball passes the batter, and bunting is not allowed. Bases are 60 feet apart.

Six teams are entered in the League for the season which will start next Monday. The teams are: St. Paul's, Chelsea Standard, Trojans, Spaulding Chevrolet, Grove Bros., and Merkel Bros. Some of the managers have failed to sign enough players to start the season as scheduled but it is believed there will be sufficient men signed before the opening dates to insure a full quota of players on all the teams. Anyone desiring to play should report to Pres. L. J. Paul or to any of the team sponsors.

Village President Roy Harris will pitch the first ball to open the season next Monday. Dr. L. J. Paul, president of the League, will make an effort to retrieve the ball, and the umpire on the first ball will be Village President Pro-Tem J. E. Weber. All games will start promptly at 6:30.

The first week's schedule of games, which will be played at Wilkinson field, south of Washington street, is as follows:

Monday, May 11—St. Paul's vs. Chelsea Standard.

Tuesday, May 12—Trojans vs. the Spaulding Chevrolet.

Thursday, May 14—Grove Bros. vs. Merkel Bros.

329TH VETERANS IN DETROIT

Former members of the 329th Field Artillery, Custer division, are invited to the 5th annual regimental reunion to be held at the Fort Shelby hotel in Detroit on Saturday and Sunday, May 16 and 17, according to E. J. Hanna of Harbor Springs, publicity director and editor of "The 329th Barrage," regimental newspaper.

Maher of Detroit, was a stable sergeant in the 329th. While stationed in the St. Mihiel sector in France the 329th fired enough shells to give an empty shell case as a souvenir to practically every family in Detroit. The 329th flags are on display in the capitol lobby in Lansing. The regiment was "on the lines" when the Armistice was signed.

The officers of the association are: Kenneth Herkimer, Detroit, commander; George Trotter, Detroit, vice commander; Alfred L. Burns, Detroit, adjutant; Oscar Brady, Battle Creek, chaplain; and Harry H. Gemuend, Ionia, judge advocate.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Is there such a place as Hell Gate? If there is will you please state where it is located and what it is?

Ans.—Hell Gate is the name of a formerly dangerous pass in the East River, between New York and Long Island. This pass is a portion of the Strait which connects Long Island Sound with New York Bay. In 1895 the dangers of this pass were removed by submarine mining and the use of powerful explosives, but the name "Hell Gate" has survived.

Ques.—What was the nationality of Patrick Henry of Revolutionary War fame, and what was his profession?

Ans.—Patrick Henry was descended from Scotch parentage. While he was born in Virginia in 1736, his father and mother were born in Scotland. Patrick Henry was a farmer, and also engaged in business as a country general storekeeper. He failed in both and began the study of law and became a brilliant lawyer, and, coupled with his marvelous oratory, his rise to the United States Senate was rapid.

Ques.—What makes my dog hang his tongue out of his mouth?

Ans.—He does this probably to balance his tail. Mr. Tee Hee. However, if you are sincere in this question, we will advise you that this is the way a dog sweats.

Ques.—I wish to ask you why pound is abbreviated "lb." and ounce abbreviated "oz."?

Ans.—The pound is abbreviated "lb." because this abbreviation is of Latin origin—"libra," meaning pound. When the symbol "lb." is plural the "s" is added. But this is an English contribution. "Oz." is the symbol to represent onza, which is Italian for the word ounce.

Ques.—How many soldiers of the Civil War are living at the present time?

Ans.—Veterans of the Civil War are passing away so rapidly that up-to-date figures on those still alive cannot be given with accuracy. It is estimated there are about 20,000 Union veterans and about 8,000 Confederate veterans still living.

Ques.—Does corn have any by-products?

Ans.—Yes, corn has many by-products, such as yeast, gluten, dry and wet starches, sugar, alcohol, corn oil, salad oils and glycerin.

Ques.—While I have a very strong will power, still my wife is very obstinate. What should I do?

Ans.—Hard to say. It looks like her "won't power" has you bested.

Ques.—I am working a prize crossword puzzle, but am lost for a word that is defined as "nearsighted." The word must begin with "m" and have six letters. Can you help me out?

Ans.—The only word we know of that is defined as "nearsighted," and having six letters, beginning with "m," is "myopic."

Ques.—What has become of Hugh Jennings, once the manager of the Detroit baseball club?

Ans.—Hugh A. Jennings, former manager of the Detroit baseball club, died at his home in Scranton, Pa., on Feb. 1, 1928.

Ques.—What are the salaries of the members of the United States Supreme Court? Also the clerks, etc.

Ans.—The chief justice gets $20,500 a year and the associate justices get $20,000 a year each. Clerk gets $8,000; marshal, $4,500; reporter, $8,000.

Ques.—I wish to know what is "Lloyd's" and what and where do they do business?

Ans.—Lloyd's is an association of underwriters in London, England. It got its name from a coffee house kept by Edward Lloyd in Tower street, London about the middle of the 17th century, where underwriters met to transact business. In 1774 they removed to the Royal Exchange, but have retained the name of Lloyd's ever since. Besides insurance Lloyd's is an organization for the collection and distribution of maritime intelligence, and also for posting the betting odds on major sporting events.

OUR NEIGHBORS

HOWELL—It hardly seems possible that an election could be held in Livingston county with only 108 ballots cast and 58 votes be sufficient to elect a sheriff with a plurality of 20 in a field of four candidates. Yet such is the fact recorded concerning the first election held in this bailiwick on the first Monday in May, 1836, just one hundred years ago. Another striking fact is that even in that first election there was no death of candidates for the office of sheriff—and perhaps there we have the great grandfather of the modern trend of the many seeking this important county office.—Republican-Press.

CHARLOTTE—Four representatives of the Pet Milk Co. of New York have been in this neighborhood for several days looking over the prospects of starting a buying station in Charlotte. The four gentlemen attended the Rotary club luncheon and W. M. Jackson, district manager of the company at Hudson, explained the survey, which the said was quite favorable. A committee, composed of Earl M. McGrath, Clifford McIntyre and Hans Kadel, was named to confer with milk haulers in this section with a view to guaranteeing a sufficient supply of milk to warrant the opening of a station here. At the present time milk is being hauled to four out of the county points: Mason, Homer, Portland and Nashville, and the final action hinges on the supply that can be signed up for Charlotte delivery.—Republican-Tribune.

PINCKNEY—The following is the schedule of the wages paid on the new school building, according to a notice tacked up on the office. Brick layers, 70c per hour; carpenters, 65c; form builders, 55c; hammer and saw men, 50c; handy men, 50c; structural iron workers, 75c; laborers, 35c; hod carriers, 40c; metal lathers, 60c; air compressor operator, 50c; hoist operator, 50c; concrete mixer operator, 60c; painters, 65c; plasterers, 70c; plumbers, 90c; tile floor layer, 75c; roof-layer, 60c; steam fitter, stone cutter, stone mason, 75c; teamster, 50c; truck driver, 50c; tile setter, 50c; welder, 60c; water proofer, 60c; man and team, $1.25. Riveting and welding started on the steel work last week. On account of the lost time last month, the men have been working six days a week.—Dispatch.

TECUMSEH—Mervin Fish, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Fish, ranks himself with the big fishermen. Saturday afternoon at Globe Pond the child caught and landed, with a casting rod, a 28 inch pike.—Herald.

MOTHER'S DAY

Dedicated to Mrs. N. N. T.

Unassuming—quiet—listening. Others give their viewpoint views. With their gestures high and lofty. Measure off the things they'd do!

When loud comments are all ended, And preambles melt away, Unassuming, yet with prudence, That she would say—Mother speaks.

Stop, look and listen, Perhaps your plan may best delay, Let one with more wide experience Quietly suggest the way.

Egyptian Women Long Ago

Were Users of Cosmetics

The beautiful women of Egypt have been indulging in the use of cosmetics for at least 3,000 years. It may be that kohl and henna were in vogue for thousands of years before that, as well as the ointments, unguents and the coloring made from various herbs and vegetables, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times. But we are certain that they were in vogue when King Tut was not a mummy.

In the Valley of the Kings where the Egyptian ruler had slept for 30 centuries, undisturbed, in his gold sarcophagus guarded by his gold cat, were the little mummies just containing the cosmetics he might need in his death—perceptions. The faint and musty perfume of antiquity still clung to the delicate jars of alabaster.

The art of personal decoration has not always been peculiar to women and slaves. The men of those far-off days cultivated curls and beards, anointed themselves and were arrayed in true masculine splendor.

Tall Tales

As told to: ELMO FRANK E. SCOTT HANAN AND SCOTT WATSON

The White Cliffs of Dover

"BACK in the days when we had iron men on wooden ships instead of wooden men on iron ships," said Cap'n John of Marblehead, "I signed on for my first cruise with Old Stormalung. A big feller the skipper was—just four fathoms and a compass width from the deck to the bridge of his nose.

"He had to be, of course, for his vessel, the Courser, was the biggest ship on the Atlantic. Why, I mind the day he sent a young feller aloft to push a cloud off the top of the mainmast . . . when he came down he was dripping wet with something white. Dangled near drowned up there in the Milky Way . . . he was sputterin'.

"But I was startin' to tell you about that time a storm drove us toward the English channel. Between Galais and the cliffs of Dover Old Stormalung took one squint ahead and yelled: 'Will she make it?'

"May scrape a bit of paint off'n her sides but I think she will," answered the man at the wheel.

"Can't have that!" roared Old Stormalung. "All hands over and soap the sides . . . put an extra heavy coat on the starboard."

"The next minute me and the rest of the crew was plasterin' the sides of the Courser with all the soap we had on board and she eased through without a bit of trouble. Of course, it was such a tight fit that the Dover cliffs scraped every bit of the soap off the starboard side. Ever since those cliffs have been pure white . . . that's our soap still clingin' to 'em. Sure it is! Next time you go through the channel take a look at the waves. They're still a bit foamy from that same soap!"

"It's connected now, Madam"

A TELEPHONE, the moment it is connected, brings definite benefits to a home. Large or small, in city or country, that home is improved by the presence of a telephone.

Of foremost importance is the benefit of protection. A telephone is a form of insurance against fire and theft. It has saved Michigan homes by the speed with which it has brought firemen to the scene. It has routed burglars by its promptness in flashing an alarm to the police. And in times of illness—during those dread hours when there is sickness in the house—a single telephone call can give help of a kind that no one could appraise in terms of dollars and cents.

Another benefit of the telephone shows itself in the work of the housewife. It reduces the drudgery in her daily routine, saves her many steps. Particularly in bad weather does she appreciate the privilege, made possible only by the telephone, of doing her shopping without leaving the house.

In social matters the installation of a telephone can mark a new era in the family life. No longer are the various members of the household out of reach of their friends and relatives. A telephone in the home instantly puts them "in touch." It makes social gatherings and many of the pleasures of friendship available both to adults and children.

The telephone is one of the most worth-while of present-day conveniences. Dependable and economical, the genuine value of its service has made it an accepted feature in the modern Michigan home.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY

Mystery of the Old Carpet Bag

ONE hundred thousand dollars in gold, packed in iron boxes, and these in turn placed in a safe with a Chubb lock, was stolen during the trip from Folkestone to Boulogne. That is to say, the gold was in the safe when it left the office of the express company—and it was not there when it reached its destination. To add to the mystification there were only three keys to the safe and the whereabouts of each one was known.

The traffic superintendent in London had one; the head of the Folkestone railway had another, and the captain of the Folkestone-Boulogne boat had the third.

The outside of the safe gave some evidence, of having been tampered with, but the iron boxes, instead of holding gold dust, were filled with small shot.

When had the gold been stolen?

Where had the change been made from the gold to the shot?

Who could have been guilty of this audacious robbery?

These were the three questions which troubled the police of two countries.

It was annoying, irritating and all of the other things in the calendar.

The boats running between the two ports were carefully searched. The waiting rooms at both ends of the line were subjected to a keen scrutiny, and altogether the detectives used up all of the tricks of the trade in trying to find a clue to this astonishing theft.

Finally they found an article that cast a ray of light on the case.

It was in the form of an old carpet bag which was located in the station at Folkestone.

The ownership of the bag was traced to a man named Peter Agar.

That in itself meant nothing.

The great big fact was that the photograph of Peter Agar occupied a place of honor in the Hogues gallery at Scotland Yard.

Numerous copies of this photograph were made and were shown to conductors, sailors, storekeepers, and others, and as a result of this it was pretty well proved that Peter Agar had been seen loitering in the vicinity of the Folkestone-Boulogne boat on the day the money disappeared.

But if he were guilty of the theft how could he have gotten the money from the locked safe?

In the meantime the police started to look for Peter.

It might have taken them a long while to locate him if Peter had not been conveniently arrested for forging checks.

The detectives visited him in jail and asked him to tell what he knew of the robbery of the safe with the gold dust.

It was quite indignant at this, and intimated that he considered it highly unprofessional to ask a man if he is a safe robber when he is already serving time as a check forger.

In a word, he declined to give the authorities any information.

One morning a woman named Mrs. Kay called at Scotland Yard, and without any preliminaries told the amazed officials that the gold-dust robbery had been committed by Agar, John Pierce and Charles Tester.

Tester was employed in the traffic department at London bridge.

They asked her what motive she had in "squalling."

She answered in one word: "Revenge."

It seems that when Agar went to jail on the forgery charges he left $45,000 with Pierce to support Mrs. Kay, who was his "dear friend."

Pierce lent her money once or twice and then ceased payment altogether.

It was evident that he intended to "heat her."

She was furious and a furious woman is dangerous.

The state of affairs was explained to Agar and he told the whole story.

Agar and Pierce had conceived the scheme of robbing the safe, but in order to do so it was necessary to get the assistance of some one connected with the railway.

They took Tester into partnership, and the first move came when Pierce visited the Folkestone office with a bandful of wax and secured an impression of the key of the safe. After that it was simply a matter of arranging the details.

They arranged to meet the messenger with the safe at a certain point in the journey.

Agar carried the old carpet bag filled with shot and this was quickly substituted for the gold dust.

The loot was divided into three equal parts and the mystery might never have been solved if it had not been for the old carpet bag.

World's Biggest Book

The world's biggest book is in the British museum. It is a gazetteer and atlas of the world printed in Amsterdam in 1650, and is six feet high, four feet wide, and six inches thick. It has a wall space to itself, and students have to consult it as it stands in the position. The British museum also has some of the world's smallest books. Some are slightly smaller in size than a postage stamp. There was a great vogue for these tiny books a century back, and they were carried in the waistcoat pocket.

Skeet Shooting

In skeet, as in trapshooting, the expert does not take deliberate aim. He simply looks at the target with both eyes open, concentrates on breaking it, instinctively swings his gun along the line of flight, and at the right instant, without a pause, pulls the trigger. The exact spot to place the shot load can be learned only by experience. Nearly all skeet targets require a slightly different holding and swing, just as clucking birds do in actual field shooting experience.

Early Known Islands

The Solomons, 100 miles northeast of Australia, are among the most remote of the Pacific islands, yet save for the Ladrones and perhaps the Marshalls, they were the earliest found by Europeans. They were discovered, strangely, from Peru, where adventurers, thirsting for more gold, heard rumors of a continent close-by to the west. Lost for 200 years, they were rediscovered in 1767.

Fortune Telling Old

Fortune telling, in its many forms, is as old as mankind. Much of it is harmless, people, just for amusement, handing out a few nickels for palm reading, or crystal gazing or what not. However, investigation discloses that innocent persons are misled of tens of thousands of dollars yearly by psychological fakery which can make no way be fulfilled.

Tigers Revered

The more primitive of India still believe the tiger supernatural and there is a widespread belief there that the spirits of the men killed by a man-eating tiger become the servants of the tiger, and not only help to kill other human beings, but with their superior intelligence assist it to avoid dangers and snares.

Libyans Had Lighthouses

The earliest lighthouses of which record exists were the towers built by the Libyans in lower Egypt, beacon fires being maintained in some of them by priests.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chinese Householder Can

Pawn Wife in Emergency

When a Chinese householder has pawned all his household effects and still needs money, he has one resource left. He can take his wife along to "Uncle" and pawn her, declares a writer in Answers Magazine.

How much he can raise in this way depends on the lady's age, looks, health, and temper. But when his wife is struck he can go on his way, knowing that so long as he pays the interest regularly, his wife will be well fed and looked after.

The existence of a number of pawnshops which specialize in wives was discovered in Peking as a result of two women refusing to leave the pawnshop when their husbands called with the money to redeem them.

The Chinese are accustomed to financial transactions of this kind. Whenever there is a famine, middlemen tour the districts which are hardest hit, buying young girls from their parents.

These girls are afterwards sold as domestic servants in other parts of China. Nobody seems to see anything wrong in this, and when, some years ago, the British authorities set themselves to stamp out domestic slavery in Hong Kong, the reform met with strenuous opposition.

MICHIGAN FIRST AIDERS LEND HELPING HAND

Following this accident these service station attendants, recently trained in Red Cross First Aid, had reason to call upon their newly acquired knowledge when a Michigan motorist suffered a severe head injury much sooner than will not be uncommon along the hazardous stretches of road where mishaps frequently occur. All Red Cross First Aiders are volunteers and are trained to deal with emergencies until the doctor arrives. Their establishments are equipped and regularly inspected by local chapters of the organization. The Monroe chapter was the first in Michigan to inaugurate the safety program.

It Pays To Advertise

The Junior play is packed with laughs, filled with intrigue and sprinkled with a charming romantic element.

Mr. Martin, a soap king (Charles Bycraft) has brilliant future planned for his son Rodney (Harry Blecker) but Rodney doesn't seem interested enough to work until Mary Grayson (Eileen Adam) appears on the scene employed by Mr. Martin to serve as Rodney's inspiration. The play is livened by the appearance of the dynamic Mr. Poole (Paul Helemer), firm believer in the motto "It Pays to Advertise."

His fast speech combined with the Countess' French and Ellery Clark's Oxford drawl provides amusement in itself. The Countess (Doris Rogers) turns out to be quite a character, making Mae West quite envious. The plot thickens as the sale for 19 soap gets under way and Miss Grayson finds herself helplessly in love with the very person she's been paid to encourage.

All in all it's just absolutely too good to miss. You're bound to go home with "It Pays to Advertise" firmly implanted in your mind as one of the best plays given. Date: Friday evening, May 8.

Editorial

By Jean Blecker

A great number of students in any high school are taking the wrong attitude toward a high school education. They are under the impression that high school is easy, and the best way to get through school is to "slide through." By sliding through I mean getting mediocre marks and doing no more school work or outside activities than is necessary.

To the first impression, I would acquiesce. High school is easy for the majority of students.

But to the second impression, I would definitely disagree. No one should wish to slide through high school. Good marks are just as easy to get as poor marks are. Good grades give the student personal satisfaction and raise him higher in the estimation of his parents and faculty. Reasonable marks help in later life. They stand for concentration, a well developed brain, and a quick thinking individual.

Because of the two points I have mentioned (1) that good marks should be a goal for (2) high school is comparatively simple, I think that during high school years, the student should assimilate all the extra information he possibly can. He should endeavor to acquire a high general knowledge. The possibilities for this are unlimited. The field of debating, declaiming, oratory is extremely interesting and very helpful for it gives the individual confidence and poise and an improved vocabulary. Athletics are important in the life of an individual. Basketball, football, baseball, all develop the body and try to teach good sportsmanship and cooperation in the individual. The various clubs tax and develop the mind—journalism, reading, Latin, music and dramatics.

The items I have mentioned should be participated in as much as possible. The years in high school are the time to take part in the race for general knowledge. When the individual graduates, whether or not he plans to advance into higher fields of education, the opportunities are very much limited. In college a person must concentrate so much on his particular field that there is little time for extra activities. The chances for a working individual are even less. He would care little about reading the best seller or of going to the concert at the hall after working.

Whether everyone agrees with me or not, high school is the time for good marks, social and intellectual activities. There is no other place where you have the individual attention of advisors or such great opportunities. Take the most of them!

Skip Day

Dorothy Beach, Jean Dancer, Della Eschelbach, Ruth Haselchwerdt, Estelle Seitz, Margaret Williams, Jeanette and Gerald Cook, Alton Koenig, Tommy Taylor, and Fritz Strieder went to Belle Isle in the morning. They found the RKO Downtown a good place to dry off after their trip to the lake.

While eating lunch in Kresge's, they met Ruthie Barnes, Buddy Rogers' solo dancer. She was quite pleased that they recognized her and gave each of them her autograph. She also promised to send them her picture.

Uncle Neal, Prudy and John Eccles showed the group how a program is broadcast. Fritz and Alton refused to go in to see Uncle Neal. They then took the bus through the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel. After a short stay in Windsor they returned by ferry. A show at the Michigan filled up the time after dinner.

Ralph Clinton, Olen Hart, Morris Brueckner, Maurice Lyons, Dud Foster and Charles Hulce saw the shows at the RKO Downtown and at the Adams. They drove around Detroit before returning home. Thelma Faber and Lorinda Beutler visited Stockbridge high school. (I see some people like school).

Jean Blecker, La Rue Wolf, Angeline Burg and Jane Belser spent most of the day in the rain. They spent the morning in Hudson's and other stores and out in the Fisher building. They went to WJR but local programs weren't on just then so they were rather disappointed. Back downtown they ate lunch at Stauffer's and then went to the theater. They enjoyed Iphigene Jones very much. After the show they went back to Ann Arbor and ate dinner at the M. Hut. Barbara Blecker joined the group and they went to see "Wife vs. Secretary" before they came home.

Lowell Scripser, Walter and Clarence Ottomano went to Dearborn and picked up three kids from the Dearborn H. They went on to Detroit and went to a show. They returned and ran around Ypsi, Ann Arbor and Chelsea before returning home.

Jean Lapp, Anna Freysinger, Helen and Florence Heim went to Detroit. The first thing they did was eat at Highland Park. They went downtown and through all the stores until it was time to eat again. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in seeing a double feature and stage show.

Virginia Cooper spent the day in Jackson shopping and seeing a show. Julianne Belser was with her aunt in Ann Arbor.

Mary Gilbert was getting beautiful in Chelsea with a permanent wave. Marceline Leitch, Ruthann, Foster, Virginia Van Riper, and Dorothy Pritchard took the train at Ann Arbor and went to Detroit.

After arriving there, they walked up town where they made a tour through several of the large buildings—Hudson's, Crowley-Miller's, Kern's, etc.

At lunch time they ate at Thompson's restaurant on Woodward Ave.

In the afternoon and early evening they did the following: Took a ferry to Windsor, had a large glass of ginger ale at Vornor's, went through the Business Institute in the Michigan Theater Building, saw show at the Michigan Theater, and shopped at the ten cent stores.

Then a taxi was hailed which took the crew back to the depot where they soon ended an enjoyable day.

Caesar Says

Spring has finally arrived and the tonic business is picking up fast.

Judge—You know why you are here? Clinton—Yes, I was a bit late hearing about the arrival of the police.

The bride wore a green gown of pink organdy with matching accessories.

"Do you think America will take a leading place in Art as it has taken in Commerce?"

"Yes, We captains of industry are just waking up to the advantage that Art affords if you know how to buy and when to sell."

Nothing gives a girl a more natural charm than a graceful carriage, says a beauty authority. But for a boy to have charm he needs a sporty coupe.

The young constable was undergoing the viva voce part of his examination. "Now assume," said the examiner, "that you are accosted by a charming young lady late one evening, who tells you that a strange man has embraced and kissed her. What would you do?"

The young constable did not hesitate long. "I should endeavor to reconstruct the crime with the young lady's assistance," he replied.

Well, so long, until Caesar speaks again.

ELECTED BASEBALL CAPTAIN
In a short meeting held Thursday in Room 25, the members of the Chelsea squad chose "Oa" Hart to lead the Chelsea Nine for the '36 season.

slips look like the summer sunshine.

We had a very happy three-day week-end.
Phillip brought a large toad. We are going to study all about him.
We are very busy these last few weeks of school with reviews and lessons.

Nancy Every brought us two books. We are very sorry Kathleen Fisher is moving Thursday. We hope her new schoolmates will enjoy her as much as we did. We shall miss her but Ruth Ann Schenk will miss her most.

Miss Dolores enjoyed visiting the third grade in Ann Arbor and with Miss Clay in Ypsilanti.

The following have had either an "A" or "B" record during the past six weeks: Philip Vogel, Elaine Schmidt, Esther Riemschneider, Ruth Osterle, Eleanor Harper and Mary Christwell.

The fifth grade have been making cherry blossoms. They made some for Miss Kern. We have them in our room now.

Visitors in our room were Miss Birdella Breitenwischer and Miss Zoe Herman of Manchester and Mrs. Alvin-Foor, Dick's mother.

Doris and Betty brought us a big bouquet of daffodils.
In Art we made bird silhouettes on blue mountings. We had some very good results.

We are planning a visit to the U. of M. Museum on Thursday afternoon. Several of the mothers have kindly consented to drive.

All of our polywogs died. We were very sorry because they had hatched so nicely and in such numbers.
Elaine and Eugene brought some frogs. One began to sing in school for us.

Phillip has gone on a trip to North Carolina. We are sure we shall miss him—but we hope he has a good time and comes back ready to tell us all about this trip.

Doris Collins has drawn us another pretty spring picture on our easel. We like your pictures Doris and appreciate your work.

Twenty-five people are going to join the Audubon Bird Club. By having twenty-five members we will receive the "Bird-Lore" magazine for our room. We will receive a pin and six bird-stories and bird pictures.

We have raised from fifteen people having perfect inspection to twenty-seven.

Norman Krantz brought a big frog skin for us to see. The frog weighed four pounds. Some sixth grade girls brought a baby red-squirrel for us to see too.

Ruth Cooper brought some lilac twigs which have buds on. We hope they will blossom.

Greetings to James Barkley, who is convalescing and to Janette May, who has the mumps. Hurry back, both of you!

Elva Flak from the sixth grade brought her pet squirrel to our room and showed us how he drank his milk from an eye dropper. It was interesting to see him hold the eye dropper with both his paws.

Those who have been neither absent nor tardy during the last month are: Caroline Breitenwischer, Helen Grabowski, Margaret Knapp, Luther Kusterer, Edith McDonald, Douglas Miller, Clayton Myers, Doris Parsons, Stanley Policht, Dolores Schanz, Irvan Slane, Helen Spiegelberg, Robert Strieder, Charles Downer, Eugene Turner.

We have begun our final review in Arithmetic. Due to the fact that we have had such fine cooperation of the parents we shall be able to finish all of our Arithmetic work as outlined in our curriculum.

The Clean-Up Patrol are glad for the help the other students have given in keeping our grounds free from unsightly waste paper. Each week shows improvement.

Sixth Grade
Reporter: Junior Miller
Assistant: Joan Crawford
Margaret Reed, Marian Elise and Beadie S. had birthdays last week.

We are glad we had a vacation on Friday, May 1. It gave us a chance to get out in the sunshine.
We are sorry Robert Fisher is going away Thursday. He is going to Port Huron for the rest of the school year. If they like it, they will move there.

Elva Flak brought a squirrel to school one day last week. She took it around to the grade building and showed us how she fed it. She fed it milk from an eye dropper. Thank you, Elva.

The postoffice loaned us a poster poppy postcard. It was made by Jack Laird. He made all of it with crayons. We all wish we would do as well.

We are making posters for the American Legion Poppy Day.
Betty Platt brought some spring wild flowers.

Ganges Water Sacred
Benares, India, is the center of the real Hindu life and religion. Swarms of pilgrims travel miles to bathe in the sacred waters of the Ganges—to drink and have their faces—thus, in their belief, washing away their sins and assuring the salvation of their souls. They stand by the hundreds waist deep in the murky water, lips moving in prayer, oblivious to their religious fervor to curious onlookers. The terraced slopes leading to the river are crowded with pilgrims, sacred cattle and many of India's three million holy men.

The Earliest Camel

Three million years ago, according to paleontologists, a little creature about the size of a jackrabbit roamed the plains of North America. This was the earliest camel known to science, and through the succeeding millions of years it gradually developed into the camel we know today. Then, having populated Asia, it disappeared from the American continent.

Slippery Pilchards Are Valuable Cornish Yield

The little brother of the herring, the pilchard, keeps Cornish fishing folk busy, says Pearson's London Weekly. A good catch of pilchards, according to the Great Western Railway Magazine, may be four or five "lasts." A "last" is 10,000. A "cran" of herring is about a thousand.

One last may net as many as 40,000 slippery pilchards. The catch is counted in Cornish arithmetic, which reckons each 128 pilchards as 100 only.

On landing, the fish are put into huge tanks, and salt is added by the ton, to induce the production of the natural oil of the pilchard. This oil mixes with the brine and forms the pickle in which the fish has to remain for at least three weeks.

Pilchards are packed for dispatch a thousand to a barrel, with tails to the center like soldiers in a bell tent. Each full barrel is then placed in a gigantic press and squeezed down until the fish are hard and firm. The natural oil, a clear, golden liquid, is separated from the brine, and sold for medicinal purposes.

Food's Deteriorate—In general, foods deteriorate on aging with varying intensity. This is manifested by such visible conditions as mold, rot and loss of moisture which is concomitant with a hardening effect. Many times, however, this deterioration can only be detected by the change in aroma and flavor, as with butter and eggs, and coffee belongs to this class.

One of the greatest causes for spoilage in foods is the presence of oxygen. This gas is instrumental in changing some of the various constituents of foods which have an affinity for it and thereby alters the flavor of the entire food. The chemical composition of the roasted coffee bean is such that it is very easily attacked by oxygen.

Victoria Falls Twice in Height, Width of Niagara

The Victoria falls are located on the Zambesi river, in Rhodesia. They are more than twice the height and somewhat wider than Niagara falls. The native name is "Mosi-oa-Tunya"—"Thundering Smoke" or "Smoke Dies-Sound-Here."

The Zambesi, one of the four great rivers of Africa, is more than 1,700 miles in length and carries an enormous volume of water, so that the falls are a magnificent spectacle at any time of the year. But this volume of water, states a writer in the Overseas Land Plain Dealer, is not as great as that which pours out of our lakes, and it is in this respect that the Victoria falls are inferior to Niagara.

The African cataract is divided by islands so that it forms four falls, two wide and two narrow. Near the right bank of the Zambesi is the Leaping Water, a fall 108 feet wide; then Boaruka island; then the main fall, 1,419 feet wide; then Livingstone island; then the Rainbow fall, 1,400 feet wide; then another island, and finally the Eastern cataract, which resembles the Leaping Water.

The Victoria falls occur where the Zambesi is at its widest. They fall over an edge which is almost vertical, but instead of falling into an open basin as Niagara does, they drop into a chasm the opposite wall of which is only 80 to 240 feet away. The outlet of all this water is a gorge 300 feet wide, which leads a little farther on into a Grand canyon 40 miles long.

The falls were discovered by David Livingstone on November 17, 1855. They are on the route of the Cape-to-Cairo railway, and a bridge 650 feet long crosses the canyon some distance below the falls.

Rubinoff Holds World Record for Broadcasting

Rubinoff and his violin—and Chevrolet—are a combination that few, if any, radio listeners in the United States have not received in their homes via the air. The famous violinist and his Stradivarius, a drive of the Chevrolet Musical Moments program, have the distinction of going on the air from more broadcasting stations than any other program in the history of radio. Three hundred and seventy-eight stations broadcast Rubinoff three times a week, a total of 1134 fifteen-minute programs. That figures out at 263 hours, and if one week's programs were broadcast out after the other, day and night, it would require 11 days. The illustration shows Rubinoff, carrying his precious violin, posing with his car after a special appearance at Detroit.
