Chelsea Scouts Invited to Mich. State Game

Chelsea Scout leaders Marion Longworth and Wilber Riemenschneider have received word from Scout Executive Walter MacPeck announcing the Thirteenth Annual Boy Scout Day at Michigan State College, East Lansing, on Saturday, September 28. The Athletic Association of the college will be hosts to the Scouts on that day.

All Scouts, Executives, Scoutmasters and drivers of cars will be admitted free to the Wayne University-Michigan State College football game at 2:00 p. m. The Scout uniform or Scout registration card will serve as admission. Scouts should wear the uniform if possible. All groups will enter at gate 20, at the southeast corner of the stadium.

The annual parade of the Scouts has been necessarily eliminated because of the lack of sufficient area in which to hold the great number of Scouts. Macklin Field is now shaped like a bowl with eleven more rows of seats added at the bottom of the old stands and continued around both ends. The addition of the seats was made possible by lowering the playing field about eight feet and removing the running track.

All Scout executives and Scoutmasters visiting the college on Boy Scout Day are required to register in the Main hall of the gymnasium, where they will receive complete instructions. Registration is to provide those in charge with the name of the leader in charge and the approximate number of boys in the group.

Some troops or councils may wish to make this an overnight camping trip. For the benefit of those arriving on Friday night, or Saturday morning, a place adjacent to the Freshman football field has been set aside, on which to pitch tents and cook-meals. Saturday morning will be devoted to sightseeing trips around the campus. These trips will start from the gymnasium with a guide in charge of each group.

Last year 8550 Scouts visited the Michigan State campus.

For further information local Scouts are requested to write Washington-Livingston Council, Boy Scouts of America, 324 E. Huron St., Ann Arbor.

Drive Under Way For $16,000,000 In Back Taxes

With the campaign on in every county in Michigan to collect the second installment of taxes due under the ten-year plan, State Treasurer Theodore I. Fry predicted this week that the payments will aggregate $16,000,000.

A sizable army of taxpayers already has begun marching on the various county treasurers, demanding a "paid" stamp on their bills. Early collection reports all have been good. "On the basis of our experience a year ago, when the ten-year plan was inaugurated, I have no hesitancy about saying that this year's drive will be a big success," Treasurer Fry said. "I look for collections to top last year's total of $15,000,000 and to reach possibly $16,000,000."

"Business conditions are better generally, some individuals have kept their bonus money to pay the tax installment, and an investment in real estate is well worth protecting at this time. I am sure that practically everybody who paid his first installment on back taxes will realize the necessity for keeping up the payments."

"One of the purposes of the campaign is to acquaint those who failed to pay the first installment with the fact that they may still do so, with only a slight extra charge. A third group, who are now financially able to do so, will pay the whole thing up, in this way saving large amounts of interest and clearing the title to their property."

The rush of the public to pay in advance of the September 1 deadline recalls last year's jams at the treasurers' offices. All indications are that again this eleventh-hour visitors will have to wait in line and take their turn. Officials point out that those who pay now, not only gain the comfort of knowing that their property is protected, but save themselves this trouble of waiting.

The onslaught of the taxpayers gives visible proof of a thriving public realization that the State of Michigan is offering a bargain. Under the plan, taxes for 1932 and prior years—for state, counties, villages, townships, and all cities except Detroit, which has its own seven-year plan—are lumped and then divided into ten annual payments. All the heavy interest on these old taxes has been cancelled. The next interest amounts to only four per cent per year on each installment, figured from September 1, 1935, when the plan went into effect.

Those who are just starting in and making the two payments, put themselves on an equal footing with the rest, getting another eight years to meet the balance owing.

The ten-year plan, embodied in the Moore-Holbeck Act, was the happy solution of an extremely serious tax problem. Many millions of dollars in taxes lay uncollected, and apparently uncollectable, on tax rolls. Accumulated for years, the taxes in their net amount were so huge that the property owners, despairing of ever paying the total, refused to pay any one year's delinquent tax. Interest and penalty on the older unpaid taxes ran as high as 50 and 60 per cent of the original amount, a fact which further discouraged payment.

Governmental units needed the money which these taxes represented. A tax title sale would have raised funds, but thousands of families would have lost their homes and life savings. Pledging the delinquencies for a good-sized loan was also considered and rejected, because paying back the interest and principal on the loan would just have added that much more of a burden on the already over-burdened property owner.

Then the part-payment idea was evolved. The state went right to its own property owners for assistance, and made the paying of taxes popular. Of the $15,000,000 collected last year, about ten per cent went to the state treasury, while the other ninety per cent went into local treasuries.

The $15,000,000 was actual cash. Through payment of it, $55,000,000 in taxes was "revived" and shifted from dead to active rolls, with collection of the whole amount merely a matter of time.

So successful has been Michigan's new method of collecting delinquent taxes that it has commanded nationwide interest. All county treasurers have the machinery of their offices geared to provide a maximum of service, knowing that the tide of taxpayers will be a rising one right up to the last minute.

The campaign, for which $27,000 has been appropriated this year, is again being handled by Milton M. Alexander of Detroit.

L. A. S. HOLDS PICNIC
The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's church held a picnic on Friday at the home of Mrs. Chris. Schneider, which was attended by 26 members and 11 guests. A delicious supper was served.

Legion Convention Opens on Saturday

The attention of all members of The American Legion and the Auxiliary is called to the fact that the annual Department Convention for the Department of Michigan will take place in Lansing, starting with a pre-convention meeting of the executive committee at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday, August 15.

One of the big events of the convention will be the 40 and 8 parade which will take place following the annual pre-convention dance in the ball room of the Hotel Olds, on Saturday evening.

On Sunday, starting at ten o'clock in the morning a joint memorial service will be held at Prudden hall. Any Legionnaire or member of the Auxiliary who has never had the privilege of witnessing one of these ceremonies should take this opportunity to see and hear this most impressive part of the convention program.

Following the memorial service, at one o'clock, will be the zone caucuses and later in the afternoon the preliminaries of the Drum and Bugle Corps will be held at Pottengill field. At this time the noted American Legion Zouaves of Richard F. Smith Post of Jackson will go on exhibition. This also is an event well worth seeing. The finals of the Bugle corps contest will be held at eight p. m. at the same place.

The annual convention parade of the Legion will be held on Monday, this being scheduled to start at two p. m. A grand military ball, which is open to any and all Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary will be at the Masonic Temple at 10:30 p. m. on the same date.

On Tuesday the convention will swing into full business sway, starting at 9:00 in the morning and continuing until the Department officers are elected for the coming year. All local parties interested should plan to attend all or at least part of the above activities.

Book Mending Is Local WPA Project

During the past few months Chelsea Public Library has benefited materially from the WPA book mending project in this county. Almost 500 books have been mended by Mrs. Susie Hulce, under the direction of Mrs. Lucile Wright of Ann Arbor, who is directing the work in this county. County headquarters are in the court house, Ann Arbor. The number of books to be mended here will total about 800.

Books from rural schools throughout the county are being collected and mended at the Ann Arbor headquarters, where 12 workers are kept busy. They have mended 8800 books and expect to repair a total of 12,000 books before the project is finished. The project was started in this county in April.

This work is financed entirely by the WPA, there being no local cost in having the books mended. Library officials state that it is a real service as it will prolong the life of the books for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brooks have moved into their new residence on West Middle street.

The Merchant Milling Co. is shipping in western wheat and Minnesota flour every week.

Sunday being the 82nd birthday of Jacob Shaver, his children gathered at his home on West Middle street and had a family reunion and dinner.

M. A. Shaver took his merry-go-round to Cavanaugh Lake Monday, where it was used for the Sunday school picnics on Tuesday and Wednesday, and it will also be operated for the benefit of the members of St. Mary's church at their annual picnic Thursday, August 21st.

Hen-Intelligence Cuts Feed Labor

Proof that laying pullets can pick and choose from individual hoppers of grain and laying mash with sufficient sagacity to obtain enough protein in their diet to maintain good production and body weight is found in experiments conducted and summarized by J. A. Davidson, assistant professor in poultry husbandry at Michigan State College.

"Common practice for many years has been to assume that the birds are incapable of taking care of their own requirements," he explains. "Hopper feeding in an experiment with four lots of pullets has shown in this recent experiment at the college that pullets if given an opportunity will balance their crude protein intake under conditions of this trial to take care of their needs."

The hopper feeding consisted of setting before the chickens continuous supplies of corn, of oats and of a 20 per cent crude protein mash, permitting the pullets to make their own choice as they picked out their feed.

This method eliminates irregularities in time of feeding and amount fed, says Professor Davidson. The continuous hopper system offers a solution to losses in birds or production caused by a change of individuals doing the feeding as often happens on many farms.

Artificial lights to provide a 13 to 14 hour working day for the pens probably are necessary for the successful use of this method of feeding. The mortality was similar to other years under usual methods of feeding. Production, without any culling except of hopelessly sick birds, ranged from 44.3 to 47.1 per cent for 11 months for White Leghorns, and from 46.5 to 49.6 per cent for pens of Rhode Island Reds. For the 11 months, the total feed per bird ranged from 79.9 pounds to 98.45 pounds.

"SATISFIED"

(A song by Captain Casey)

I love to tell the old story,
The blessed story of His love;
It fills my soul with wondrous glory,
It points me to the things above.

He gives me balm for every sorrow,
He takes my anxious, my care away;

I'm sure to have a bright tomorrow,
A fore taste of Eternal day.

I hale Him now my Lord and Master,
I'm sealed with His own signet ring;

Soon in the courts of seaster,
I'll hale Him my eternal King.

I soon shall rise with youth immortal,
Life's weary toils be over past;
Safe, safe beyond Heaven's swinging portals,
I'll reach my home and crown at last.

I'm satisfied—I'm satisfied
With Jesus Christ the crucified;
With Jesus Christ the crucified;
I'm satisfied—I'm satisfied.

—Arthur Caulton.

Labor amounted to $17,630.10 with truck hire, under which drivers are included, amounting to $8240.39. Extra weed-cutting crews boosted the number employed and the amount paid out. "This loose talk about RED CROWN is started by pixilated people"

... MISSED Mrs. Precious Popyew

"STANDARD Red Crown gives 150 miles a gallon and not a fraction more!" continued Mrs. Popyew, affectionately called "Pixie" by her host of friends in Tall Story circles.

She added: "To stop this loose talk I put my foot down. Unfortunately, it was on the accelerator and the car leaped clear into the next precinct. Red Crown is responsive."

We have more than a faint suspicion that "Pixie" is indulging in slightly "loose talk" herself. Standard Red Crown does give as long mileage as any gasoline—possibly more—but definitely not 150 miles per gallon!

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—How fast can an ostrich fly?

Ans.—Ostriches cannot fly. Their wings are too small. The ancestors of the ostrich have lived for many millions of years in countries where ability to run fast was more important than ability to fly. Hence, in time the wings grew practically useless, and the muscles of their legs developed to increase the running power—the ostrich being the most fleet-footed of any living thing.

Ques.—To settle a dispute will you kindly answer on what day of the week was Benjamin Franklin born? We can't find anybody that can answer this question, so we are leaving it to you?

Ans.—Benjamin Franklin was born on January 17, 1706—this date occurring on Sunday.

Ques.—What is the native country of the gorilla? And what do they eat and how do they live and sleep?

Ans.—The gorilla is a native of the western part of Africa. They subsist chiefly on fruit and vegetables, and do not eat meat. They live in families similarly to human beings, and they build hammocks in trees where they sleep and rest.

Ques.—Is it true that there was one President of the United States who wrote his own epitaph to be placed upon his tombstone? If so, who was it? And what did he write?

Ans.—Yes. It was Thomas Jefferson. After his death the following epitaph was found among his papers and which had been written by him: "Here lies Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the statute for religious freedom in Virginia, and founder of the University of Virginia." While Jefferson was elected twice as President of the United States, he apparently did not consider that fact of sufficient importance to be put upon his tombstone. The epitaph upon his tombstone is exactly as he wrote it.

Ques.—Has Ireland an official language of their own, or is English considered their official language?

Ans.—The official language of Ireland is English. The native language is Erse, but English has been spoken so long in the Emerald Isle that very few of the population can speak Erse (Irish).

Ques.—In playing Contract Bridge, what is the score for making a Slam contract? Does the score go above or below the line?

Ans.—Contract Bridge is played in Rubbers (two best out of three games). As soon as one side wins a game they are vulnerable. If each side has won a game, then both sides are vulnerable. If you bid and make a little slam against a side that has not won a game in the rubber you count 500 below the line; if made against a side that has won a game you count 750 below the line. A grand slam is 1,500 and 2,500 against "not vulnerable" and "vulnerable" respectively. Any time that 100 or more is made in tricks it constitutes a "game," and the side winning it, is then vulnerable.

Ques.—A friend of mine, who is a World War veteran, says he saw a sea serpent while crossing the Atlantic. Has any of them ever been caught? And how?

Ans.—No animal corresponding to the so-called "sea serpent" has ever been caught—not even known. The many reports of sea serpents may be due to seeing several animals together, as, for instance, a string of porpoises following each other. Their movements in the water as they bob up and down with the waves, gives the appearance in the distance of a huge serpent swimming on the surface of the water.

Ques.—What is "ptomaine poisoning," and how is the first word pronounced?

Ans.—Ptomaine poisoning comes from spoiled meat. The spilling occurs because various kinds of germs grow in it. Most of the germs produce poisonous substances. Then when we eat this spoiled meat, the poison which the germs produced in it may poison us; and this is known as ptomaine poisoning. The word is pronounced with the "p" silent, and accented on the first syllable, as if spelled "to-main."

Ques.—If sound waves travel only five miles a second why is it that we can hear instantly voices over the radio that are hundreds and thousands of miles away?

Ans.—This is because radio waves are ether waves and not sound waves. These ether radio waves can pass through any known matter, and they are comparatively instantaneous.

Length of Grand Canyon—The Grand canyon of the Colorado is 280 miles.

Find Needless Killing of Undersize Fish

Lansing—A needless killing of thousands of undersize fish is going on in Michigan if the conduct of fishermen generally were to be judged by that of a group on Arbutus lake near Traverse City recently.

The anglers mentioned in a report sent to the Department of Conservation had run into a school of undersize bluegills which were taking their bait. The small fish were being pulled roughly off the hooks and thrown back into the water.

"The incident, in itself, might be considered of minor consequence were it an isolated case, but in all probability it is not," commented Fred A. Westerman, chief of fisheries operations. "There is no doubt that a large number of fishermen still have not learned or remain indifferent to the fact that undersize fish invariably will not survive rough handling."

"When an undersize fish is taken, the hook should be removed carefully while the fish is held in a wet hand. The fish then should be eased into the water, not thrown."

Every undersize fish will be a keeper some day, Westerman says, and most will survive being hooked if handled carefully and properly.

Song of 17-Year Locust
The song of the 17-year locust has no resemblance to the shrill undulating screech of the annual locusts. The song and notes of the larger variety of the 17-year cicada have a burr sound and at least four different utterances can be distinguished.

Will Encourage Sale of Michigan Sugar

Saginaw—According to an announcement made today by J. C. Adair, advertising manager of the Farmers and Manufacturers beet sugar association, which represents practically every sugar beet grower and beet sugar processor in Michigan, an intensive campaign will be launched this fall to encourage the sale of Michigan-made beet sugar in Michigan.

"All authorities are agreed," declared Mr. Adair, "that beet sugar is identical in every respect with the highest grades of cane sugar and we propose to convey this fact to every consumer of sugar in Michigan. It is unsound and uneconomic for the people of Michigan to import sugar from foreign countries when we are producing millions of pounds of the highest quality sugar produced anywhere in the world in Michigan factories from sugar beets grown on Michigan farms by Michigan farmers."

"Michigan is the third largest beet sugar producing state in the United States and sugar beet growing is one of our most important agricultural industries. The production of beet sugar in Michigan is an important factor in restoring the purchasing power of thousands of Michigan farmers and in providing thousands of Michigan workers with employment."

"The people of Michigan have shown a willingness to cooperate with the sugar beet growers and while a large portion of our annual sugar production is marketed within the state there is still a large quantity of Michigan-made beet sugar which has to be marketed outside of the state."

"Through the medium of newspaper advertising and our educational campaign we hope to break down the erroneous impressions, still held by many Michigan housewives, concerning the relative merits of beet and cane sugar and ultimately market every pound of Michigan-made beet sugar in Michigan."

Law Versus Chance

ATENDENCY of the unenlightened human mind to believe that it can ultimately better conditions, financial, or otherwise, by resorting to what is known as the element of chance, is one of the delusions which seem to beset mortal existence. If uncorrected, it may lead the individual into most undesirable, if not, indeed, unlawful byways of speculative endeavor. It may also tend to keep him in a continual condition of unrest and disappointment because of unfulfilled hopes and expectations. Furthermore, he may fail to see that having admitted what is called chance into his thinking, having accepted it as something, and consented to its so-called operation, he may see this attitude of thought externalized in his human experience in ways which are not desirable. The Apostle Paul said (Romans 6:16): "Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are, to whom ye obey?"

To yield oneself a servant to chance is to place oneself in a precarious position. Moreover, it means pinning one's faith to false gods—to things which in reality do not exist, such as so-called good fortune, good luck, and so on. Anything which can change in a moment from what appears to be good, to something which manifests itself as evil, is never good and never will be for good. It is stable, unchangeable, indestructible, never subject to chance, or away by untoward circumstance.

What a contrast to such a possible experience is that of one whose thought and life are governed by divine law! It means safety instead of danger, security in place of uncertainty and risk, stability and steadfastness of thought and purpose instead of vacillating instability. Conformity to divine law in one's thinking and conduct precludes any such thing as chance. Correct thinking resulting in right action brings its own legitimate return and reward. The more one's thoughts and life are governed by the law of God, the more assured is one not alone of true prosperity and success, but also of safeguarding from all ill.

How reassuring it is to remember that as mental allegiance is transferred from any dependence upon chance to reliance upon the operation of divine law, not alone are we ourselves safeguarded from harm, but we are helping to safeguard the entire world. On page 424 of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes, "Accidents are unknown to God, or immortal Mind, and we must leave the mortal basis of belief and unite with the one Mind, in order to change the notion of chance to the proper sense of God's unerring direction and thus bring out harmony." Who is there, who, having changed "the notion of chance" to "God's unerring direction," does not feel happier, more at peace, more safe and secure? He has exchanged a precarious and unstable mental footing, which Christ Jesus spoke of as a house built "upon the sand," for one which the Master described as a house built "upon a rock," against which the winds and rains and floods of adverse circumstances could not prevail.

One thus conforming with divine law is graphically described in the first Psalm in the following beautiful metaphor (Psalm 1:3): "And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Believe Death Valley Was Once a Lake Bed

In support of the view that Death Valley in California was formerly the bed of a lake, is the discovery of traces of an ancient water-line running along the base of the mountains at a height of 800 feet. The bottom of the valley is 200 feet below sea-level. The winds from the Pacific cross four ranges of mountains before reaching the valley, and by that time they have been drained of their last drop of moisture.

It is said that no spot on earth surpasses Death Valley in aridity or Tophet-like heat. The lake that once filled it is believed to have been filled by a river which has now also vanished. The bones of animals of the valley are commercially important, but labor is all but impossible in a place where there is without water for a single hour in summer means death.

If poisons are to be kept, they should be locked in a separate compartment and should be suitably labelled. The medicine chest should be well away from children's reach.

Admission to West Point
It is not required that an applicant for admission to West Point be a high school graduate. But the entrance examination is such that unless he has had a first class high school education or its equivalent, he will not be able to make an entering grade. The course of study is four years, during which the cadets are under strict military discipline. Summers are spent in camp. Upon graduation cadets are commissioned second lieutenants in the United States Army, and are assigned wherever they may be needed. Upon entrance to the academy a student binds himself to the government for eight years.
