Work On P. O. Site Is Progressing Rapidly

Work of wrecking the house on the site for the new Chelsea post office, which was started last Thursday, has progressed rapidly. It is expected all the debris will be cleared from the lot this week, according to R. S. Spence, of the Spence Bros. Construction Co., general contractors on the project.

The sub-contract for excavation work has been let to Fred Coe of Pontiac, and he will have his equipment on the ground by the first of next week. The size of the basement excavation will be 35x65 feet, which will require removal of about 1000 yards of dirt. The main building will be 61x62 feet. The excavating work should be completed in about one week, according to Mr. Spence, and then the construction of footings will be started.

Some of the materials from the wrecked building have been sold, some has been used for construction of an office on the property, and the remainder will be used in construction work on the post office building. Two trees have been cut down, one along the street and the other on the property, and the other trees have been boxed for protection during the period of construction.

Sub-contracts will be let for plumbing and heating, wiring, and roofing. Ten men have been employed in wrecking the house, and the regular construction force will be from ten to twelve men, according to Mr. Spence.

Farmers Are Warned
Against Racketeers

Through the 30 posts, Michigan State Police this week sent a warning to farmers to check carefully on all strangers who come to their farms to negotiate purchase of poultry or stock.

The game is, the troopers have learned, for thieves to call in daylight on a pretext of buying. The visit gives the opportunity to look over poultry and stock, see how it is kept and generally get "the lay of the land". They then return under cover of night and help themselves. In all cases where there is a call to negotiate a purchase, farmers are being urged to make a note of the car license numbers and observe the callers closely. Then, in event of a night raid, they would have information which their sheriff or their state police could use effectively in recovering the stolen property.

CHAPTER MEETS

Forty members and guests were present at the August meeting of Unity chapter at the home of Mrs. Howard Holmes on Thursday afternoon. A short program was given. Mrs. L. T. Freeman, Mrs. D. E. Beach and Mrs. Fred Gentner presided at the tea tables. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. Fred Gentner, Mrs. E. E. Smith, Miss Mantle Spaulding and Miss Minnie Allyn.

ST. MARY SCHOOL OPENS TUES. St. Mary's Parochial school will open Tuesday, September 8, the work will be in charge of the Sisters of St. Dominic, with the same corps of teachers as last year.

First grade	30
Second grade	25
Third grade	30
Fourth grade	35
Fifth grade	38
Sixth grade	39
Seventh grade	24
Eighth grade	23

Monday morning was devoted to teachers' meetings. In the afternoon students were enrolled, classified and assigned to classes, and school sessions were started according to schedule Tuesday morning.

Supt. Blecker states that there is a demand for many second hand books, including 9th, 11th, 12th English, Algebra, Geometry, World History, American History, Economics, American Government, Community Civics, Shorthand and Bookkeeping.

Hold Football Meeting

By Harrie Blecker, Jr. The 1936 football season began this year with a horde of athletes who, on Monday, swarmed to a football meeting held under the controlling force of Mr. Johnson.

After the equipment was distributed, the boys began their first regular practice at the new field located on the road to the Holmes field.

This year for the first time in the history of C. H. S. football shoes (16 pairs) were given out to the lettermen and to those who will show the most promise the next few weeks. This was made possible through the generosity of the Board of Education and the athletes wish to heartily thank them for it. A great number of the fellows were using shoes which were of improper sizes and of unnecessary bulk. We hope that the team has been benefited as I am sure it has been and will be in the athletic contests this fall.

This practice is not uncommon, as many other schools practice all football equipment, but for a village the size of Chelsea we all feel that the Board of Education deserves a big hand (intermission for hand-clapping).

The following quotations are taken from various conversations overheard at football practice at around 5:16 o'clock on Monday:

"Ow!"
"Oh, my feet!"
"Hey, get off my foot, it's sore."
"Watch out, Punk, my shoes are off."

Never fear, fellows, they're bound to soften up (we hope).

Chelsea chances this year are rated O. K. This rating was done by a board of leading coaches throughout the country and why did they make this decision? Reasons: Experienced line; a backfield which is composed of players of experience and are mainly Sophomores and Juniors, allowing two or three more years of football; George Prinzing at the helm; Coaches Spaulding and Johnson; a good school spirit; a good town spirit.

The following reported for football: *Prinzing, *Brueckner, *Bycraft, *L. Niehaus, *Belsus, *Koebe, *Spaulding, *Tisch, *Bahmiller, *Harrison, *Strieter, *Fletcher, *Blecker, Daniels, H. Niehaus, Grove, Prudden, Schneider, Wheeler, White, Lane, Slocum, Osborn, Holbrook, Dingle, Bartok, Riemenschneider, Winans, Bristle, Lindauer, F. Novess, Rowa. (2) Lettermen returning.

Schedule of 1936 football games: September 13—Clinton, here. September 25—At Belleville. October 2—Saline, here. October 9—At Dundee. October 16—At Rosevelt. October 23—Milan, here. October 30—At Tecumseh. November 6—Manchester, here.

Wilber M. Brucker, candidate for the senatorial nomination on the Republican ticket, spoke to approximately 200 people at the corner of Main and Middle street Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Brucker criticized his opponent for the nomination, Senator James Couzens, for his support of the New Deal, and bitterly attacked the extravagant spending orgy of the New Deal administration in Washington. The candidate visited other towns in the county on Tuesday and spoke Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple in Ann Arbor.

APPOINTED MANAGER

Roy C. Ives has been appointed manager of the Washtenaw Farmers Supply Co. feed mill at 122 E. Jackson St., Chelsea. Mr. Ives is well acquainted with farmers of the Chelsea territory and the owners of the feed mill are fortunate in securing him for local manager.

Warning Issued On
Dumping of Rubbish

Kenneth Hallenbeck, superintendent and manager of the Washtenaw County Road Commission, was in Chelsea and vicinity on Saturday investigating the promiscuous dumping of garbage, tin cans, etc. along the country roads.

Mr. Hallenbeck stated that many of the roadsides in this vicinity, as well as in other parts of the county, are strewn with rubbish of all kinds, which reflects ignorance of the law and lack of pride of those who follow this practice.

Dumping of rubbish along the highways is a misdemeanor and a severe penalty can be imposed upon violators of this statute. Mr. Hallenbeck stated that one resident of the county was recently fined $18 for such an offense. He asks that anyone detecting a violator report him to the road commission and that the practice can no doubt be stopped if there are a few fines meted out against those who insist on using the roadsides as a dumping ground.

The village maintains a dumping ground on North Main street, on the Page lot, just north of the Spaulding garage. Rubbish and tin cans may be dumped there, but other provision must be made by residents for garbage disposal.

The nominating committee was Mrs. Wilbur Hinderer, Mrs. A. L. Brock and Mrs. John Hummel, and officers were elected as follows:

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be a special meeting Tuesday evening, September 15, with installation of officers and a pot luck supper.

The Auxiliary wishes to announce to its members that they are putting on a membership drive and are striving to win a citation, so each member is requested to pay her dues by September 20.

HONORED AT SHOWERS

Mrs. Russell McLaughlin, the former Jean F. Dancer, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Frances Kantlehner. The afternoon was spent in playing keno and other games, after which refreshments were served. Gladoli and other summer flowers were arranged about the rooms. Mrs. McLaughlin received many lovely gifts. Twenty-two friends were present at the party, among whom were Miss Clara Portnoss of Whitmore Lake and Miss Lella Seitz of Jackson.

Miss Mary Jean Winans was hostess Tuesday evening at a kitchen shower for Mrs. McLaughlin at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Winans on South St., the guests including several members of their graduating class of 1931, of Chelsea high school. A social time was enjoyed while the guests hemmed towels for the bride, and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Survey Shows Winter Fishing Not Injurious

After an intensive study of nearly 80 inland lakes in the northern and southern parts of the state, together with other data, the institute of fisheries research of the department of conservation has reached the conclusion that winter fishing in general, is not injurious to summer fishing.

The question has been raised by many sportsmen, who have expressed themselves as being of the opinion that ice fishing by means of hook and line and the spear is an unjustified and serious drain on the fish population of the lake and so reduces the supply of fish as to injure summer fishing.

In recent years certain states have enacted laws to prevent or curtail the take of fish through the ice. In the fall of 1935 in Michigan the number of ice lakes permitted was reduced by commission action from five to two. At the time this reduction was being considered the institute was asked to advise concerning the wisdom of the proposed action. The facts available indicated that winter fishing was not generally a factor in reducing the fish supply in lakes, but the evidence was not sufficient.

A series of intensive studies was begun on various lakes and the findings are contained in a report released by Dr. A. S. Hazzard, director of the institute. Dr. Hazzard says: "It must be concluded, on the basis of evidence now available, that in general in Michigan winter fishing is not deleterious to summer fishing and that those lakes in which winter fishing might adversely affect the summer fishing are the exception rather than the rule."

It is believed that, except for the possible curtailment of winter fishing on a few lakes where evidence may definitely indicate the need for greater restriction, winter fishing in Michigan is justified, not only because it has failed in general to prove objectionable to summer fishing, but, because farmers, resort operators and other local residents whose work in summer is of such nature that it does not allow them to take time for fishing at that season are entitled to enjoy this form of recreation. It appears, on the basis of evidence now available, that in general those who strongly object to winter fishing in Michigan are prejudiced or misinformed."

Probably the most significant comparison which can be made is of the actual catch per acre and total catch in lakes in summer and in winter. Dr. Hazzard says. In his comparison of data obtained by CCC men on winter and summer fishing in Fife lake, R. L. Eschmeyer of the institute gives the following figures for 1934: Catch per acre in winter, 36 fish; total winter catch, 286; catch per acre in summer, 14.3 fish; total summer catch, 11,460. In the winter of 1935 the number of fish was 136 or 17 fish per acre as compared with 11,666 fish or 14.6 per acre in the summer.

"Intensive winter census on 23 lakes indicates a total catch of 16,659 fish for 57,076 acres or an average of less than 3 fish per acre; summer fishing on six lakes yielded 50,114 fish for 2,741 acres, an average of 18.3 fish per acre.

"In other words summer fishing resulted in the removal of 61 times as many fish per acre of water fished as did winter fishing."

Coast Guard Founded in 1918

The United States Coast Guard was created in 1915 by an act of congress which combined the revenue cutter service and the life saving service. Both of these units were administered as divisions of the Treasury department, and their successor, the coast guard, is under that department also. Ordinarily the coast guard has no direct connection with the navy, but the President is authorized in time of war or other emergency, to make it a part of the navy.

Authors' Eccentricities

Flaubert, the master of exquisite style, rolled himself violently on the carpet whenever he could not find the expression to his taste. Shelley used to toast his head before an open fire to gain inspiration. Voltaire could never begin work unless there was an exact dozen of pencils with sharpened points at his side. Dickens delighted in ornamenting himself with costly jewelry.

Halley's Comet

Halley did not discover the comet which bears his name, but five years later, in 1687, he computed its orbit.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—What is meant by "oasis"?
Ans.—"Oasis" means literally a fertile spot. The term is usually identified with a desert. Even though a desert's surface is arid, there are underground streams which occasionally find their way to the surface in the form of springs, which are known as "water holes." Around these water holes the land again becomes rich and fertile and produces many kinds of tropical vegetation. Some of the "spots" are very little more than stopping places for water, while some are large enough for permanent habitation.

Ques.—Can you answer why the State of Maine holds its Congressional elections in September instead of November, like all other States?

Ans.—When Maine became a State in 1820 the roads in that State were very poor, and they made traveling facilities very bad in November. Hence the State constitution fixed September for congressional and State elections. In 1845 Congress specified the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. Exceptions were made in favor of Arkansas, Maine and Oregon. Arkansas and Oregon changed their constitution to conform with the Federal law, but Maine continued to hold its State and Congressional election in September, while it votes for President in November, the same as the other States.

Ques.—What is the legal name or term for an area set apart for the continual protection of wild life and breeding game for hunting?

Ans.—No legal term has been adopted by Congress to designate such a place. Sanctuaries, reservations, preserves and reserves are used interchangeably in executive orders as well as by States and local divisions. Originally "preserve" meant an area for the protection of wild life, while "reserve" meant an area for breeding game for hunting. Now the most accepted blanket form is "game refuge."

Ques.—Who was the inventor of the radio tube? And when?

Ans.—The radio vacuum tube which made possible voice transmission without the use of wires was perfected by Dr. Lee De Forest in 1916.

Ques.—Is it known how hot the sun is at its surface? Also what is the diameter of the sun?

Ans.—It is not known what the intensity of the sun's heat is at its surface. However, scientists are agreed that the temperature at that point is about 12,000 degrees (Fahrenheit) above zero. The diameter of the sun is 864,100 miles.

Ques.—Is Siam a part of China? Do they speak Chinese or have they a language of their own?

Ans.—Siam is an independent limited Monarchy. Their language is Siamese. The only thing they have in common with the Chinese is their religion—Buddhism—of which there are approximately 12,000,000 or about 55 people (average) to the square mile of their territory.

Ques.—What do you think of the third party?

Ans.—A third party might be all right in some places, but in most cases it doesn't work so well in the parlor.

Ques.—I am writing to ask you how many Indians there are in the United States and Canada?

Ans.—In the United States there are approximately 400,000 Indians, while in Canada the approximate number is 125,000.

Ques.—Are there any records showing the death rate of World War veterans?

Ans.—Yes. Statistics show that up to the present time the death rate among World War veterans on the average has been approximately 25,000 a year.

Ques.—Who was Frances Hodgson Burnett?

Ans.—Frances Hodgson Burnett was an author who died in 1924. She achieved world fame when she wrote "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Ques.—Isn't a World War soldier who served sixty days entitled to a bonus?

Ans.—No. The $60 paid him on discharge covered the first sixty days of service so far as the present bonus is concerned.

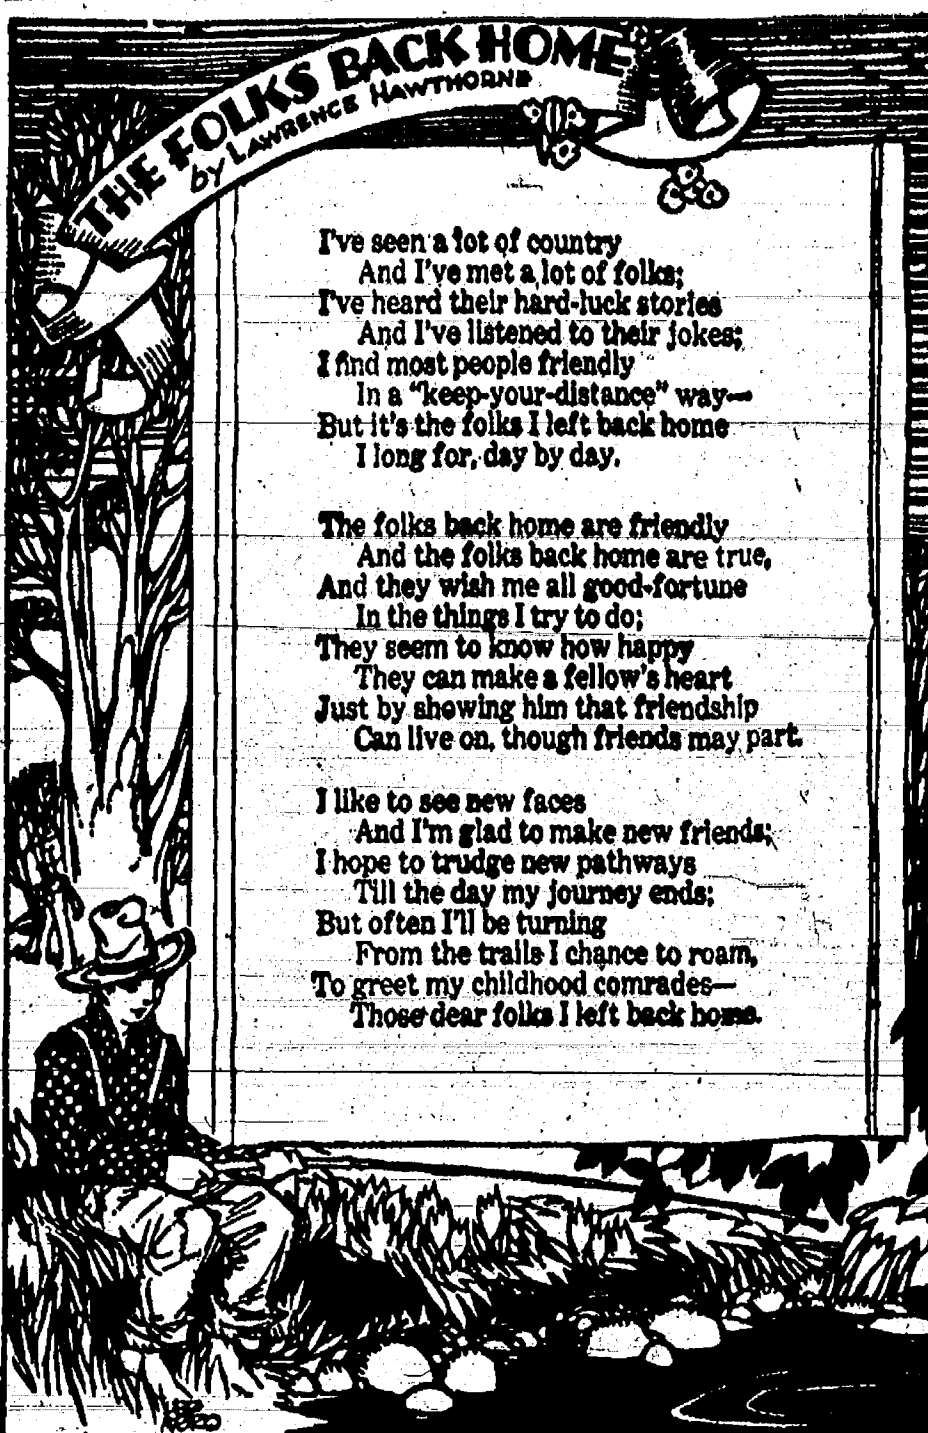

Ques.—Can you answer in your good paper what Alfred E. Smith's middle name is?

Ans.—The name of the Democratic presidential candidate in 1928 is Alfred Emanuel Smith.

Ques.—Who is the tallest person in the United States, if it is known?

Ans.—The tallest person on record is Robert Wadlow of Alton, Ill., who is 8 feet 4 inches tall.

Macaroni, Spaghetti Shapes
Macaroni and spaghetti in Italy have almost as many shapes as there are cities in the country. At Bologna it is ribbon shaped; in Rome it comes in strips, but that of Sicily amazes travelers most of all. It is skillfully rolled around knitting needles to make it a tiny spiral.

I've seen a lot of country
And I've met a lot of folks;
I've heard their hard-luck stories
And I've listened to their jokes;
I find most people friendly
In a "keep-your-distance" way—
But it's the folks I left back home
I long for, day by day.

The folks back home are friendly
And the folks back home are true,
And they wish me all good-fortunes
In the things I try to do;
They seem to know how happy
They can make a fellow's heart
Just by showing him that friendship
Can live on, though friends may part.

I like to see new faces
And I'm glad to make new friends;
I hope to trudge new pathways
Till the day my journey ends;
But often I'll be turning
From the trails I chance to roam,
To greet my childhood comrades—
Those dear folks I left back home.

Fertilize Lawn To Curb Weed Growth

Fertilization of lawns during the first part of September not only will increase the vigor of the grass but may help solve the crab grass problem for next year, says James Tyson, of the Michigan State College soils department.

An application now of fertilizer helps the grass to make growth ahead of weeds and provides needed nourishment for the grass during the fall growing period, says Tyson. Because the lawn grass continues some growth after the first frosts, fertilization of the lawn may be helpful in controlling crab grass which is killed at the first frost. The lawn grass continues to make growth and is thus better able to crowd-out the crab grass next spring.

If a complete fertilizer has been used during the present growing season, five pounds of ammonium sulphate per 1,000 square feet will be all that is necessary now. If the lawn has not been fertilized during this summer one should use 10 pounds per 1,000 square feet of a 10-6-4 commercial fertilizer. Either of the fertilizers should be used only when the grass is dry and then sufficient water applied to wash in the chemical. Otherwise the turf may be injured.

Dancing Pebble Is Used by Oil Well Shooters

A pebble dances like a Mexican jumping bean and anxious oil well shooters breathe a sigh of relief, for they know that the charge of T.N.T. which they had to place a mile underground has exploded.

Not infrequently the shooters must plant explosive charges at depths of four and five thousand feet. At such great depths the shock and sound of explosions sometimes give no evidence on the surface of a blast. How to make sure that the charge has gone off was the problem of the shooters.

Resort to the simple expedient of a dancing pebble has now proved to be the solution and in some oil fields the shooters occasionally find the pebble to stand them in good stead.

After planting the charge and making the necessary electrical connections, the shooter stretches over the casing head, or hole of the well, a thin sheet of paper upon which he places a pebble.

If the T.N.T. explodes the pebble starts dancing, or the paper membrane bursts. If not, there is no observable effect on either the pebble or the paper.

Origin of Alphabet Is Puzzle to Scientists

The origin of the English alphabet has long puzzled scientists. They knew the earliest form of writing was pictures, but it was difficult to show the evolution from natural signs to artificial letters. Dr. George Lamsa, authority on race study associated with Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., announced that every letter of the alphabet was a modified word picture. Lamsa found the key in Aramaic, a language of the Euphrates valley about 600 B. C., and discovered that the ancients like ours to represent objects. Examples: A—ox worshipped as god for its power; B—house, shape resembling floor plan; C—camel, from the hump; H—trap for foxes of the same shape; I—the human eye; K—clenched fist; L—jaw bone; M—water, shaped like waves; O—a container for liquids; R—human head, including neck; T—door, as of a tent; Y—the human hand with fingers spread. Doctor Lamsa recently completed the first translation of the Old Testament from Aramaic in 2,000 years.

Child's Lunch Affects Progress In School

Progress that a child makes in school is influenced by the sort of lunch he eats at noon. Roberta Hershey, extension nutrition specialist, Michigan State College, points out that this noon lunch should receive more attention than merely preparing a few sandwiches of miscellaneous leftovers and a piece of cake.

"The noon lunch for the child who must carry his meal with him challenges the imagination and skill of the home maker," Miss Hershey says. "In the first place, every child should have at least one hot dish each meal, particularly from September to June. Hot dishes usually have a better nutritive value than cold ones and also tend to stimulate the appetite and digestion. If hot dishes cannot be obtained at the school, the school luncheon-lunch box should be equipped with a thermos bottle so that the home may supply this lack."

A good pattern for a lunch box may include the following: Sandwich with a filling of meat, cheese, egg, fish, peanut butter, baked beans or a substantial food with bread and butter; a succulent food such as salads, vegetable sandwich, raw or cooked vegetable or fruit; milk, for drinking or in a bottle of milk soup, cocoa, custard or other milk puddings; fruit or fruit juice; and something sweet.

If a thermos bottle is available a great care of the problem of providing nutritive lunch for the child is solved. The homemaker should not overlook the importance of packing the lunch attractively and providing little surprises in the choice of food from day to day.

Choice of lunch box has a great influence upon the ease in which the child's noon meal is planned and also upon his desire to eat the meal. Lunch boxes should always be of tin or aluminum so that they may be easily cleaned and sealed.

Gen. Sherman Was Author of Numerous Epigrams

"War is hell," isn't the only blunt thing Sherman said. Lloyd Lewis reveals the Civil war general as an indefatigable epigram-maker in his biography, "Sherman: Fighting Prophet."

Some Shermanisms: "Military fame is to be killed on the field of battle and have your name wrong in the newspapers."

"Of all lives on earth a banker's is the worst, and no wonder they are specially debarr'd all chances of heaven."

"Never give reasons for what you do until you must. Maybe after a while a better reason will pop into your head."

"Like in a race the end of a war is all that is remembered by the great world."

"The great theory of self-government began with Old Adam and has made precious little progress since."

"In human nature there is so much of the male left that suppression of a newspaper only increases its circulation."

"I am not eligible for political life because I have not graduated from the penitentiary. If forced to choose between the penitentiary and the White House I would say the penitentiary, thank you."

War correspondents print their limited and talented observations as the history of events they neither see nor comprehend.

Effect of Real Love Is Revealed in Old Letter

"Dear Mame: What you asked me about did I love Charlie, well, dear, it's this way. I'm afraid I don't take him I'll be sorry, and if I do I'll regret it, because I can't live without him any more than I expect I'll be able to live with him. It's just so exciting being miserable until I'm happy, that if I ain't in love with him I might as well find it out one way or another, and so we're going to get married. If I don't change my mind, and if I do, the Lord have mercy on my soul, Mame, because he's an awful lemon if he has got a job! So that's how it is, dearie, and they tell me it's just perfectly natural, like the measles."

"I'll send you an invitation, and when you see me walking down the aisle with him, for the love of Mike, Mame, don't giggle. This is too darned serious for you to act like you feel like."

GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

A minstrel show was given by the colored boys at Boytown Camp at Mill Lake, on Tuesday evening of last week, the last night before their return to their homes in Detroit.
The entertainment was given in the "bow" or natural amphitheatre west of the central group, with about 200 people seated on the slope and the smaller boys of the camp, who were not in the show, seated about a large camp fire and in front of the stage. With the help of the counselors, the boys had arranged a stage with curtains, electric lights, etc.
The program was a typical minstrel show, with boys taking all parts except the interlocutor, who was a counselor. "Basin Street Blues," "St. James Infirmary" were favorite numbers and there was much "trunkin" and soft shoe dancing. All in all, the boys and their counselors are to be complimented, and it was evident that they enjoyed themselves as much as they pleased the audience.

MY FAIRY SHIP

I stand here idly waiting
For my fairy ship to land,
Glancing upon the sunshine
That gilds the sparkling sand.
Dreaming of wondrous treasures
That shall be my own some day,
When from a distant country
My ship shall sail away.
I then shall build a palace
So beautiful and grand,
The very sun will wonder,
To see it in this land.
It's fountains rain down splendor,
The birds will sing forever,
In merry, merry whirl.
Life scenes are pleasant to me,
With friends I dearly love,
They might be less delightful
In some enchanted grove.
But to those who gather 'round me
I sometimes gaily say,
"You shall share this fairy fortune
When it comes to me, some day."
For I'm waiting, waiting, waiting—
Waiting for my ship to come in.

Arranged by Arthur Carlton.

GRASS LAKE—Because Walter Wilson, one of the bandits who robbed the Farmers State Bank of Grass Lake in 1920 and later killed Harry Worden, deputy sheriff, while evading capture, has not more than five years to live, he will probably be recommended for release from the prison at Marquette where he is serving a double life sentence. It is said Wilson's present physical condition is due in part at least, to bullet wounds received at the time of his capture. That one other officer was not slain was not the fault of Wilson. His gun jammed while he was endeavoring to shoot Deputy Sheriff Veri Kutt and Wilson was shot eight times by Van Loomis, then a special officer. Just why Wilson should be granted the favor of release from prison at this time is difficult to understand. The court apparently did not intend that he should ever be freed for a double life sentence was imposed. Harry Worden is dead, his life cut short by bullets from the bandit gang. Wilson should remain in prison.—News.

MILAN—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taylor Monday morning received a large watermelon shipped from Texas. It was sent by express by C. B. Cornell, a business associate of Mr. Taylor. The melon weighed sixty pounds and measured twenty three inches around, coming packed in grass in a washtub. There was no cover on the tub and strangely enough no one tampered with the melon or plugged it to see if it was ripe. Perhaps the trainman who handled it were not in a mood for the southern fruit, but the Taylor family are enjoying the vine ripened melon, directly from the country where melons are melons. Word was received from Mr. Cornell, whose home is in Cleveland, that he is on his way to California and shipped the melon from Weatherford, Texas. The huge melon was taken from the same patch that produced a similar melon shipped last week to President Roosevelt in Washington by residents of that town.—Leader.

CAMP MEETING CLOSES

Grand Lodge, Aug. 330—The 1936 Seventh Day Adventist camp meeting, an annual twelve-day event here at their permanent camp grounds, was brought to a close tonight with an address by C. L. Vorles of Benton Harbor. Tomorrow morning hundreds of Adventists will be making their way to their homes in all parts of the state. The high point of the conference was reached last night when Carlyle B. Haynes, president of the Michigan Conference directed in a mass meeting, which was attended by upwards of 3,000 Adventists. Mr. Haynes presented plans for the new auditorium and a spontaneous response to his brief appeal brought pledges totalling over $3,000 for the new auditorium, payable December 31. This guarantees an immediate start on this new camp ground improvement. Mr. Haynes sang a song that he has made famous at four world conference sessions of Seventh Day Adventists, the traditional Advent hymn: "No Never Part Again." He was answered in the antiphonal response by a large youth choir under the direction of Harvey R. Davies, of Cedar Lake Academy. Following this, Herbert C. White, formerly a Seventh Day Adventist missionary in China, and a grandson of James White, one of the pioneers of the Adventist faith, presented his lecture, "China the Beautiful", which was illustrated by 100 of his own hand-colored slides.
Glue Long in Use
The history of glue dates as far back as the story of civilization runs. Among the possessions of King Tut. which were brought to light were beautiful inlaid wooden plaques that were put together with glue. Apparently it was one of the first manufactured products which are still in general use today.
Inspiration in Teaching
The teacher who is attempting to teach without inspiring the pupil with a desire to learn is hammering on cold iron.

Radio Commencement Exercises

More than 200 widely separated chapters of the American Institute of Banking—the educational section of the American Bankers Association hold annually in September a simultaneous commencement exercise at which they listen to the speaker of the evening by radio. This is said to be the most extensive graduation ceremony held by any educational institution. The aggregate membership of the chapters, which are located in cities and towns throughout the United States, totals about 35,000 bank employees and officers. The graduates number each year more than 2,000, and total graduates are now over 25,000.

The Business Outlook

NEW YORK. The natural forces of recovery have demonstrated their strength and have a momentum which may reasonably be expected to carry the country into new high ground, says "Banking," the publication of the American Bankers Association, in its August issue. The monetary stimulation following the distribution of bonus funds to the veterans has practically died away and is no longer an important business factor. A certain degree of uncertainty arising from the national political campaign is unavoidable, the magazine says.

Foreign Trade

The Commerce and Marine Commission of the American Bankers Association has made a report which shows that the foreign trade of the world for the year 1935 on the basis of its estimated physical volume was 78.9 per cent of the 1929 level. This was 2.1 per cent above the volume of 1934 and is the highest since 1929. The gold values of world trade were much lower due to the lower commodity prices in January, 1936. The combined index of 75 countries showed 35.7 per cent of the 1929 average.

Marajo Island

Marajo is an island about the size of Belgium, in the mouth of the Amazon. Its government is a feudal system which has for its object the happiness of the people. There are no biting insects on the island, and pretty girls play guitars to the stranger there for the sole fun of confusing him.

SALINE—Fred Schmid and son William fished in Bishop lake on Monday, and were the results gratifying? We'll say so. Upon their return about 6 p. m. they brought two pike, one of which weighed nearly seven pounds and the other nearly four; a bullhead that almost reached two pounds, and several bluegills, all caught with small hooks with crickets as bait, ordinary reed poles being used.—Observer.

PINCKNEY—The Pinckney school board will receive bids on seating equipment for the new Pinckney school Monday. The building is rapidly nearing completion.—Dispatch.

Origin of April Fool Day

Is Lost in Mists of Time

The origin of the April Fool custom is unknown, but it is very ancient and is thought to be a relic of those once universal festivities held at the beginning of spring. A Hindu celebration is the Hindu festival at this time, the chief amusement being the sending of people on fruitless and foolish errands. The ancient Romans had a Feast of Fools, on February 17, when they played burlesque tricks. This was revived during the Middle Ages and often celebrated even in the churches at the time of the old New Year festivities, March 25 to April 1. Some have found the origin of April Fool's day in the change from the Julian calendar to the Gregorian calendar in France in 1564, when the New Year's day was moved to January 1. It is argued that part of the old celebration on the April date was then converted into burlesque. One pretended religious connection is found in the fact that the medieval miracle plays showed Jesus being sent for trial from one official to another, it being held that this accounts for the foolish errands of this day, but this is a very unlikely explanation of April Fool origins.

How Moon-Began Puzzle

To Learned Astronomers

What is origin of the moon? Was the earth's satellite fashioned out of a part of this whirling world in some way the "same manner as the Bible describes the creation of Eve out of one of Adam's ribs?

Some years ago, an eminent astronomer suggested that, after the earth had been formed, but before it had reached its present shape, the moon was thrown off like a bit of mud from an automobile wheel, by the rapid revolution.

Dr. Beno Gutenberg, of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, recently renewed this discussion by the fact that study of earthquakes indicates there is underneath the bed of the Pacific ocean, an absence of the rocks which make up the earth's outer crust—such as limestones, sandstones, and granites, of which the different continents are formed.

How Mother's Day Began

Credit for the originator of Mother's day is usually given to Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia. She began her efforts in 1908, shortly after the death of her own mother, to urge that a day be set apart "in honor of the best of mothers, your own." She formed the Mother's Day association, addressed meetings, and campaigned among conventions and church gatherings, and finally the day was fixed in 1908 as the second Sunday in May.

In 1913 Miss Jarvis got the Pennsylvania legislature to designate the first official Mother's day in the spring of 1914 the movement reached congress, where an unhesitant majority went on record in endorsement of the observance.

Visit White Pygmies

A race of white pygmies is described by three Frenchmen who landed at Marseilles, after an expedition into the heart of Africa. These three explorers were sent by a Paris news paper to investigate the lives of these strange people. They landed at Dakar, Senegal, traveled inland via Bamako and Gao to the Soudan regions and finally reached the almost unknown tract of country where the white pygmies live. The white pygmies are a very primitive race about three feet high with enormous heads. They keep themselves strictly apart from other tribes and live by hunting elephants and antelopes.

How to Figure Board Feet

A board foot is a board one foot square and one inch thick. To get the board measure, express the length and width in feet and the thickness in inches; the product of these will be the number of feet-board measure. Thus, a plank 18 feet long, 14 inches wide, 2 inches thick is measured as follows: 18 times one and one-sixth, times two; equals 42 feet board measure. One formula for calculating the amount of timber in a given log is to deduct 4 inches from the diameter at the small end, square one-quarter of the remainder and multiply by the length in feet.

Classes of Draft Horses

The best heavy horses, classified as heavy drafters, stand from 16 to 17½ hands high (a hand being about four inches) and weigh from 1,750 to 2,200 pounds. The light-draft horses are similar in type to the heavy, but are smaller. They range in height from 15 to 16½ hands and weigh from 1,000 to 1,750 pounds. A majority of our light horses (the class which is intermediate in size between ponies and draft horses) are from 15 to 16 hands high and weigh from 900 to 1,200 pounds.

Popular Song Forms

Sigmund Spaeth says that the form technically known as "song form" is followed by most popular choruses, and also by folk-music in general. It is often called the "ternary form," or the A-B-A form, consisting of three parts, of which the third is merely a repetition of the first. Generally, the first is repeated before the second begins, and then again at the close, so that it is really A-A-B-A. This is the commonest form of popular choruses, each part taking eight measures.

VOTE FOR BURR!

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

DON'T INCLUDE TOO MUCH IN ONE PICTURE

This picture, while striking, is really two pictures in one.

ONE of the faults often seen in the work of an amateur photographer, especially of a beginner, is the inclusion of too much in one picture. He tries to "hog the whole show," as it were, with results that are uninteresting or distracting.

For example, from the top of a mountain or other eminence, he is impressed by a vast panorama of country—several hundred square miles of it spreading to the horizon in a great semi-circle—and promptly tries to compress it into a few square inches of film. The result on the film is little more than a wavy or jagged line—the horizon line—separating a white space from a dark space. He failed to note how all the interesting detail was swallowed up in the vastness of the scene.

Such a panorama may be saved by beautiful cloud effects obtained by using a color filter and, of course, it can serve, and may well be treasured, as a "record" picture of a visit, but vastness unrelieved by nearby detail generally makes a poor picture. Better to let the panorama be a background for something worth looking at in the foreground. A foreground object—a single tree, a human being, a grazing cow, a nearby cottage on the mountain slope, often will make all the difference in a scenic picture between something interesting to look at and little or nothing.

Again, in nearby scenes, there is frequently material for two or even more complete pictures that the picture taker has crowded into one, with the result that the eye wanders from one point to another, producing a sense of irritation rather than of pleasure. All right in a three-ring circus, if you like, but not for a good photograph. Selection, leaving out what is not really required, is a lesson to be learned. The viewpoint should be chosen carefully, remembering that much that is extraneous may be eliminated, or at least made unobtrusive, by moving the camera to the right or left, up or down, nearer or farther away, or by focusing on different planes, or by using different diaphragm openings in the lens.

But, sometimes, you say, how can you help getting in several objects of competing interest when Nature or circumstance has them in the picture you want to take. It is true that this situation cannot always be easily avoided but, when you are confronted with it, you may find yourself lucky after all. Go ahead and shoot and then examine your print. Imagine a scene on a river. Your point of interest is a girl in a bathing suit about to dive from a row-boat in mid-stream. You have to snap the picture from the river bank fifty feet distant. You find when the print is finished that interest in the girl is rivaled by that in a small boy in the foreground at the right, fishing from the bank. Beyond, diagonally across the river on the left is a dam and picturesque old mill in a setting of willows. You have three pictures in one. What do you do? You take your print and mask each one of these interesting pictures from the two others, mark them and have the corresponding sections on the negative separately enlarged.

Many a fine picture is made by enlarging a selected portion of a miscellaneous composition.

BANK GROUPS MAKE NATIONWIDE SURVEY

American and State Banking Associations Collaborate in Investigation

LOAN SERVICES STUDIED

Activities of the Government in the Banking Field Are Reviewed and Position of Banks Analyzed

NEW YORK.—Detailed bank researches, covering all phases of practical operating and economic facts and conditions related to banking, are being made by the American Bankers Association. The resulting material is being placed at the disposal of all state banking associations, which in many instances are extending the researches of the national association in their own states. These activities are said to be a part of the general program of banking development which is being carried on by the organized banking bodies.

Among the most extensive researches being conducted by the American Bankers Association is that of its Committee on Banking Studies, which is making a detailed survey of Federal Government lending agencies and policies. The basic material, which is kept up to date by continuing studies, shows where the Government agencies get the money they lend, what liability the Government assumes, what subsidy it extends, what return it gets, for what and to whom the money goes and on what terms it is loaned.

The Government in Banking

"It is not the intention of the committee to express its viewpoint about any agency," says the foreword to this material. "Its intention is only to determine the facts. These facts properly assembled and presented should help banks to meet Government competition if and where it exists. The committee believes the Government entered the lending field at a critical period in order to aid banks and financial institutions. If the time has come for the Government to withdraw, it is the duty of bankers to demonstrate their readiness to take care of all sound credit needs."

It adds that the banks must be equipped with full factual material as to the Government's emergency lending activities and practices, and that full cooperation has been given the committee by Government agencies in obtaining facts. Binders of the material gathered have been placed by the committee in the hands of state associations.

Investigation of Postal Savings

The Committee on Banking Studies has also made a survey of the Postal Savings System throughout the United States to ascertain to what extent it is competing with chartered banks. Questionnaires were sent to banks in all places where Postal Savings depositories are operated and their answers will be analyzed as a basis for the committee's findings.

The Bank Management Commission of the American Bankers Association has made a nation-wide survey covering the movement among banks to increase their earning abilities "through fair and legitimate rates for services they render, their depositors." It has developed a plan of account analysis as a basis of fair charges.

"All business in order to justify its existence is founded on the economic principle that a reasonable return should be expected from services rendered," the commission says.

Personal Income Loans

The Bank Management Commission has also formulated methods for installing and operating personal income loan departments in banks. "This plan contemplates making loans primarily to individuals and small business concerns, based upon the character and assured incomes of the borrowers, as distinguished from the usual basis for commercial loans," the commission says.

It points out that a large part of the population is not now making use of available bank credit and that "to these people the personal loan department extends a valuable service which at the same time is profitable to the bank." It adds that it is "the duty of the banks to educate the public to come to the bank for all financial services. Small borrowers should be informed that the local bank is willing to care for their demands."

Other Researches

Other researches are being made by the Economic Policy Commission of the association dealing with shrinkages in liquid commercial loans caused by economic changes in the nation's business methods while the National Bank Division is made studies of the lending and investment powers of this class of bank, the present status of the real estate investment field and of detailed data by states on earnings and expenses.

The Savings Division has gathered the facts showing savings in banks of all types, the number of savings depositors, the per capita savings for the country as a whole and the effects of current economic and social changes upon the savings habits of the American people.

The association's State Bank Division has issued the most recent figures available as to the detailed conditions of state banks, showing steady improvement in the position of the state banks, with marked expansion in their aggregate resources, while the Trust Division has compiled a guide to fees with a recommended most accounting system.

Treatment of Pearls

The Bureau of Fisheries says that strings of pearls should never be dipped into water or solutions of any kind, because the string which passes through them is likely to absorb and to draw the liquid into the pearl, and as the pearl is made up of many concentric layers, it is quite possible that through capillary action some liquid, either pure or stained with a foreign substance, might be brought into the pearl, which would in this way eventually become discolored, says Pathfinder. Rings and brooches containing half pearls frequently change color from this cause; but contact with the skin, or with lace, or with fabrics which are not stained with certain chemical solutions, seems to have no injurious effects upon pearls.

Meaning of "Yankee"

A Yankee is properly a New Englander or one of New England stock. By extension it meant, first, an inhabitant of the northern as distinguished from the southern United States. Now it comprises all United States citizens. The story is that in 1713 one Jonathan Hastings, a farmer of Cambridge, Mass., used the word as a pulling epithet, meaning genuine, or something that cannot be surpassed, as a "Yankee" good horse, or "Yankee" good cider, etc. The students at Harvard, catching up the term, called Hastings "Yankee Jonathan." It soon spread and became the nickname of the New Englander.

Cut Flowers

Cut flowers will always last if they are taken care of properly. An inch should be cut off their stems each day, the stale water thrown out and fresh put in. Leaves should be stripped from the flowers if they are low enough to be under the water. The vase should be sufficiently large to allow the stems to breathe and gather in the water. Any strings and wires should be removed before arranging flowers. When the flowers begin to show signs of fading an aspirin placed in that day's fresh water will frequently prolong their lives.

Navigation on Volga

The great Volga river, longest waterway of Europe, known to most Americans through the popular "Volga Boat Song," is navigable to within 65 miles of its source, 2,325 miles distant from its 200 mouths emptying into the Caspian sea, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. In the Volga hills of Tver, where it rises, it is only 695 feet above sea level, while 1,500 miles from its entrance to the Caspian sea it is only 100 feet above the ocean level and 880 feet above the Caspian's surface.

Show Rural Driver Victim of a Libel

The farmer and resident of the smaller community will have the Michigan State Police on their side in any attempt to settle the perennial debate on which drives with greater safety—the city or rural motorist.

Statistics of the safety and traffic division of the state police do not bear out the standing charge of many motorist groups that "hayrack" turns by rural drivers and the failure of farmers to stop, look and listen when entering a through highway are important contributing factors in the state's high accident toll.

In a traffic accident summary announced last week, out of 17,861 accidents, 13,708 occurred when drivers were going straight ahead. Of the 17,861 cases, but 285 were due to overtaking another car, less than two thousand occurred in turning and less than three thousand involved failure to yield the right of way.

It is not uncommon to hear the charge that the ruralist's car lacks proper brakes or is mechanically out of line and therefore constantly becoming involved in accidents. The summary covering the 17,861 accidents showed 17,287 of the cars involved were without vehicular defects.

Study of location of accidents showed 3,617 rural accidents out of a total of 11,002 reported in the tabulation. These resulted in 340 of the 861 fatalities involved.

The Red Dress

By FREDERICK LAING

WNU Service.

MOLLY O'HARA was singing and whirling a brush over her short brown hair as she dived into the water. For wasn't it the most beautiful and hadn't Timothy McBride invited her to the Murphy chain store employees' mutual benefit dance, and wouldn't she simply knock them all dead in her new red dress?

She couldn't help noticing that her peaches and cream complexion had come back again.

When he'd asked her to the dance, he hadn't been impudent like most men. He'd told her about how they were all Irish in the Murphy company—the whole two thousand of them! No, he hadn't been impudent, but he hadn't been shy, either. He'd looked her right in the eye and her heart had gone faster and faster.

From that first day when she'd entered his store she'd known she would fall in love with him. And she'd come back that same afternoon for something else and she couldn't remember what it was and he'd smiled. He must have noticed her blushing, but he'd let her shop to his store for three weeks until they were practically old friends before he'd said a word about seeing her some time of an evening.

Yesterday she'd arrived at his store as he was about to close. He'd broken a rule to let her in and had pulled down the shades so every one else in the world could see he was close for the day. It was then that he'd asked her to the dance.

And she'd bought that red dress she'd been saving for, even though money was a bit scarce now that she'd brought her sister over from Ireland, but she'd wanted so terribly to have "Timothy" proud of her, and Catherine would find work soon, she was sure. So she'd had it charged against her salary with 10 per cent off for employee's and she'd brought it home and there it was on the bed.

Three weeks ago there'd been only one person she'd loved in the world. That was Catherine, her sister, just two years younger than she, soft and sweet and a little selfish. Timothy had said, "Sure, bring your sister to the dance," and had laughed when she'd wanted to pay the extra dollar. Timothy would be proud when he saw the two sisters, she in her red dress and Catherine in . . .

What would Catherine wear to the dance? There were two suitable dresses, a red one and a white. And Catherine hated white dresses.

Let me have the red dress this one night, then I'll give it to you forever, Catherine, you can't have it tonight. It's mine. I worked long hours for it. It's mine. I told you mine for tonight, at least, then I'll give it to you forever if you want it, truly I will. You're spoiled, Catherine. It isn't good for you to have your way all the time.

And now Catherine is coming up the stairs. I know her tread, soft and dear, like a white kitten come to pounce on my red silk dress which she shan't have because I'm going to wear it for Timothy's sake.

"Hello, Catherine. (Cheerfulness, singing above suspense.) What luck?"

Catherine threw her head disconsolately on the bed. "No luck at all. I'm so discouraged. Why is everyone so mean to a girl looking for work?"

Molly's eyes followed the hat in its arched course to the bed. There it lay, brown and limp. If she stopped looking at it she would have to look at the red dress.

She raised her head and then glanced met, the one eager, the other nervous.

"A red dress?" with a rising lilt.

An anguish of dismay and devotion. "Of course, a red dress. Aren't we going to the dance tonight? I bought it for you to wear!"

Swiftly out into the hallway. (Ym try on the red dress while I run down and get some condensed milk for dinner.) Swiftly up the stairs to the friend's room where she could cry her heart out to the sky with no one to see and no one to hear. . . . No one to hear.

Catherine looked so dazzling in the red dress it made Molly's eyes blink to see her. At least that was the excuse Molly gave when Catherine, who wasn't usually very observant, said Molly looked as if she had something in her eye.

They were to meet Timothy in the dance hall. He couldn't call for them because he was on the committee. He said he would meet them at the door watching for them at eight o'clock. They arrived at ten minutes to eight, and there he was, curly haired and straight and fine, and oh Lordy, wearing a red ribboned badge on his coat lapel.

He came hurrying in their direction, pulling the tickets out of his pocket on his way. Molly watched his eyes nervously as she introduced Catherine. "We'll find a place so Catherine can sit down," he said, "and then we'll find her a partner." And that was all.

As he led them eagerly into the dance hall Molly gasped. There was hardly a girl in the place who wasn't dressed in red!

"You're a perfect angel in white," Timothy whispered. "Indeed you are. Thank the Lord there's one girl here this evening who didn't decide to wear a red dress!"

Scriptures Translated

In Anglo-Saxon in 900

Translations of the Scriptures into Anglo-Saxon were made as early as the eighth century, though no complete Anglo-Saxon Bible existed, according to an article in the Detroit Free Press. In the fourteenth century John Wycliffe translated the Latin Vulgate of St. Jerome into a complete English Bible, a version eagerly read by the people. But printing was not invented until 1450.

Thereafter printed Bibles in the common language of France, Spain, Italy, Bohemia and Holland appeared. Not before 1525, however, was even a part of the Bible printed in English. This was the New Testament translated by William Tyndale from the Greek and Hebrew originals and published out of England, at Worms. There was a demand for an English Bible, but Tyndale was out of favor with the authorities. Consequently, in November, 1534, Miles Coverdale, a clergyman of standing and character, began his translation, strongly influenced by Tyndale and Martin Luther's German version.

Dedicated to Henry VIII, and including the Apocrypha, the "Coverdale Bible" was published late in 1535, the year in which Tyndale was arrested in the Low Countries, charged with heresy, and the following year strangled at the stake before his body was burned.

Scotsman First Coined

Nickname "John Bull"

Englishmen have to thank a Scotsman for their national nickname. "This Scotsman was Dr. John Arbuthnot, whose satire "The History of John Bull" (originally published as "Law is a Bottomless Pit") first appeared in 1712. In this book, which dealt with the political intrigues of the time, the Englishman is termed Lewis Baboon, the Dutchman is Nicholas Frog and so on, while England is represented as the bluff kind-hearted farmer, John Bull. The book "caught on," and soon John Bull was the name for a typical Englishman the world over. The popular picture of John Bull in the old-fashioned gentleman-farmer's dress came much later, appearing frequently in the pages of Punch, in the drawings by Sir Francis Carruthers Gould ("F. C. G."), the famous cartoonist.

Unusual Monuments

The marlinite cities of Halifax and St. Johns have taken on a certain commercial atmosphere—such as identifies our larger centers in the States but English history in the guise of monuments, public buildings and museums still holds their. Acadia and Grand Pre, called the Evangeline country and immortalized by Longfellow, are not mere names. A cross constructed of foundation stones marks the site of the old church and cemetery. Evangeline's wall still remains. Of the priest's garden nothing is left save the willows planted in an orderly row by the early settlers. The Memorial chapel is a stone replica of the old frame building and was erected with contributions from Acadians scattered all over the continent.

Ancient Engineering Feats

A single stone for the colossus of Ramesses II was 30 feet high and weighed 887 tons. One has been found weighing 1,200 tons. No one knows how they manipulated their vast weights. Engineering opinion is divided between levers, rocking cradles and inclined planes. If weighted levels were employed they were probably placed on either side of a stone. Laborers in great numbers pressed down the levers and raised the stone, and while it hung suspended other workers rapidly piled earth beneath it.

Blasts Old Belief

That a hair is a long hollow tube is a common belief in many quarters. If you look at one under a magnifying glass you will be of the same opinion. This is why men for generations have had the ends of their hair singed after a haircut to prevent "bleeding." And since women have been patronizing barber shops they too have come to believe that they ought to have a singe after each bob. But the truth is that a hair is perfectly solid and cannot bleed. Thus singeing is neither beneficial nor harmful.

Meaning of Ophiuchus

Ophiuchus occupies a large area of the night sky. The Greek name, Ophiuchus means Serpent Holder, and he is always represented as wrestling with a great snake much larger than himself. This constitutes the constellation of Serpens. He is also shown as treading underfoot Scorpius, the Scorpion; thus, Ophiuchus is regarded as symbolizing man's contest with the powers of evil.

Extent of Roman Empire

The Roman empire at its greatest extent under the Emperor Hadrian, about 117 A. D., stretched from Scotland in the northwest to the Red sea and the Persian gulf in the southeast, and from the Caspian sea, the Black sea, and the Danube river in the north-east to the Atlas mountains in the southwest.

How Committees Are Chosen

The national committee of both major parties are authorized by rules adopted at the national conventions to name substitutes for the nominees should either die or be incapacitated prior to the general election.

Revive Superstition as to Magnetism of Body

The number of psychiatrists doing a thriving business may owe their good fortune to the carelessness of modern housewives, for less than 100 years ago the following thought was in vogue: "The earth is a magnet with magnetic currents constantly playing around it. The human body is also a magnet, and when the body is placed by certain relations to the earth these currents harmonize, when in any other position they conflict. When one position is to be maintained for some time a position should be chosen in which the magnet currents of the earth and the body will not conflict. This position, as indicated by theory, and known by experiment, is to lie with the head toward the North pole.

"Persons who sleep with their heads in the opposite direction, or lying crosswise, are liable to fall into various disorders. When they go back to the right position, these disorders, if not too deeply impressed upon the constitution, soon vanish. Sensitive persons are always more refreshed by sleep when their heads point due north."

The Deadly Black Widow

Spider an Enemy of All

The female black widow, which is so much more deadly than the male that little attention is given the latter, is characterized chiefly by the glossy blackness of her shoe-button-like body which is about half an inch long; her long legs that sprawl over approximately two inches of space; and, of course, the distinguishing marking on the underside of her body. Though this is generally confined to the red hourglass figure, it sometimes varies both in color and shape. If not red the marking is yellow.

Since she has decidedly cannibalistic tendencies this spider is generally seen alone, for she rarely desists her unte along with the other insects upon which she feeds and her young, which burst from the egg sac in early summer 50 to 100 strong, soon scatter to avoid being eaten by their mother. Her natural habitat is out of doors on the under side of rocks; but her coarse, sticky web is also to be found in dark corners of attics, basements and barns.

Tall Tales

As told to FRANK E. HAGAN
ILLUSTRATED BY ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Goat That Sang Tenor

WHEN William McClellan, newspaper correspondent of Port Deposit, Md., first heard about it, he didn't believe it. A farmer, so the neighborhood gossip said, had a goat that sang in a beautiful tenor voice. How did it happen?

Well, it seems that some member of the farmer's family had been careless and left a phonograph record of "Mother o' Mine" by John McCormack out in the yard. At least, that's the way Mr. McClellan's story, which appeared in the Baltimore Sun, accounted for it.

The farmer and his singing goat became famous. People came to see it and paid for the privilege of hearing it sing. Then bad luck overtook the farmer. The goat stopped singing as suddenly as it had begun. So the farmer bought an expensive record by a famous grand opera star—"O Sole Mio." It was—and fed that to the goat.

The result was fatal. The goat began to sing but suddenly dropped dead. An autopsy revealed the fact that its throat was clogged up with what the veterinarian called "some foreign substance." They were Italian wools and phrases. The goat sung 100 new tenor American, so of course, he choked to death.

THE original home of the Bigelow family was in the county of Chester, England. It was there that the family lived and flourished for many generations. The name was first spelled Baguley, and by some curious process it finally became Bigelow as it is spelled today.

Many generations later there lived

Danish Farmer Government

The farmers in Denmark are considered among the very best and most efficient in the world, and the Farmer party is in majority in the government, so whenever anything is found to be harmful to agriculture, the government immediately goes after that something, until it is fully destroyed or eliminated, according to a writer in the Washington Star. Now, over there the starting is considered a very useful bird by all farmers and by everybody else, and is a commonly loved bird, and in all gardens are hung bird-houses for the starlings, to attract them to the farms and gardens. The starling lives mainly on bugs, larvae, and all harmful insects, and destroys yearly billions of these. When cattle are stung by the gadfly, who deposit their eggs under the hide of the cattle, one may see the starlings sitting on the backs of the cattle, pulling out the harmful larvae. The starling does not eat grain or seed, as does the sparrow.

Commencement

The word commencement, denoting the celebration of the completion of an academic course by graduates, when degrees or diplomas are publicly conferred and the students have qualified to commence the higher studies or business to which they have been advanced, has been in use for more than five centuries.

In 1397, John de Trevisa, in his translation of the earlier works of Raulph Higden, wrote: "By a statute of the university of Oxford when any man is licensed (licensed) there to commence in any faculty he shall not spend at his commencement passages three thousand of groats turbanes." The value of the Tournay groat of that period was less than that of the English groat of the same period, or less than fourpence—Literary Digest.

Claim First Typewriter

A document purporting to prove that an Italian rather than an American invented the typewriter has been brought to light at Turin, Italy.

The newly found document is a report published in 1834 by a weekly magazine of Turin called the Universal Theater which relates how Prof. Celestino Gaili, a professor of languages in London at the time, invented the first typewriter during the year.

Spanish Horses First

Fossil finds which have been unearthed on the plateau of Bogota, in Colombia, S. A., furnish new proof that while the modern horse was brought to American shores by the Spanish conquistadors, it had inhabited the Western Hemisphere for thousands of years previous to the Spanish conquest and become extinct.

Tailor Ants Use Living Spools in Nest Building
The tailor ants and a few other ants are unique among the earth's creatures, so far as we know, in that they use their young as tools in nest construction.

Few adult insects spin silk, but the larvae of many have this ability to enclose themselves in silken cocoons, from which they will later emerge as fully formed adults. The tailor ant utilizes this accomplishment of its young in making its nests.

Scientists have often torn one of the leaves that formed its box-shaped nest and then watched the proceedings. At first there is a wild scuffle on the part of the ants, all in fighting mood. They cannot sting, but they bite annoyingly.

After they have given up trying to find and destroy the intruder, worker ants seize larvae in their mandibles and bring them to the damaged portions. Other workers seize the edges of the leaves and pull them together, while those with the larvae pass them back and forth, stimulating the grub to exude silk, which sticks and holds the pieces of the leaves together.

After their silk has been used for the common good, the luckless larvae have to sleep naked.

The tailor ant lives throughout the Old World tropics and is one of the few ants that are greenish in color, though some of its varieties are red and one, in West Africa, is brown almost to black.—National Geographical Magazine.

Bugs Are Now Running Over Old Desert Trails
For the first time in history, bugs are running between Baghdad and Mecca. Southward over the Arabian desert which the old-fashioned caravan took a month to cross, the faithful are now whirled in three days' time with their beards and keffiyehs flying in the wind. For 600 miles the big six-wheeled desert omnibuses follow the ancient track across the high steppes where nothing exists but space, time and the Bedouins.

This is one of the oldest desert tracks in the world. Centuries ago it was used by Chinese, Indian and Persian as well as Baghdad caravans, swelling before they reached Mecca into huge companies numbering many thousands of worn camels and parched veiled men, with a few big camels and pattering little donkeys in the lead and all the miles of winding length behind obscured by the slow clouds of rising dust.

Virgin Islanders Speak English
Although Denmark owned the Virgin Islands for two and a half centuries, from 1666 to 1917, Danish was never spoken at a language. English has always been used by the natives.

500 Viking Graves Yield Relics
Thirty of the some 500 Viking graves in Wisklaeten, near the popular Baltic sea, resort Cranz, were opened by the authorities of the Brassa museum of Konigsberg and yielded historically valuable finds. Among these are scales and weights, indicating that the Swedish Viking settlement included merchants. The graves date from the Ninth and Tenth centuries.

Giant Water Bug
The giant water bug is rapacious, feeding greedily on other insects and small fish. Like other water bugs, they fly readily from pond to pond, and are frequently attracted to light. This is especially the case where electric lights are used. With many of them the female fastens her eggs on the top of the back of the male with a thin layer of waterproof glue, which she secretes for this purpose.
