24 YEARS AGO

Thursday, November 14, 1912
Sixty relatives and friends gathered at the farm home on Tuesday to help Mrs. Lucy M. Woods to celebrate her 80th birthday.

Between 40 and 50 members of Chelsea Castle, No. 194, K. of P. were in Detroit on Wednesday evening where they witnessed the initiation of a large class of candidates and attended the banquet that followed the ceremonies.

G. Ahnemann on Tuesday, November 12 gathered in his garden from his strawberry patch a bunch of blossoms and green berries.

P. G. Schaible has sold the house and lot on Garfield street that he purchased of Mrs. Monroe, to Elizabeth Monks, who will make her home in Chelsea.

Mrs. Mary Sage of Ann Arbor has purchased the residence property of Mrs. Graupner on Orchard street, and will make her home here.

Karl Bagge received word on Saturday that he had been awarded the 1913 five-passenger Ford auto, at the K. of C. fair which was held recently in Ann Arbor. K. B. Waltrous has purchased the car of Mr. Bagge.

The Beissel Brothers have turned out from their cooper shop this season 7,000 apple barrels which they have sold to the Chelsea apple buyers. The two brothers have done most of the work and have not been able to supply the demand for the barrels.

PINKNEY—The school board has settled with the contractors of the new Pinkney school addition and the new school will open soon. In the settlement Culbertson & Son gave the board $100 to make up for the difference in the floor levels on the second floor. All the seats for the new rooms have been assembled and put in place and the seats for the gym are expected to arrive this week. The light fixtures have arrived but have not yet been installed. The new heating plant has been in the now for the past month. It may be possible to open the new addition for use next week.—Dispatch.

HOWELL—Opening the 100th anniversary celebration of the Walnut Street M. E. church of this city. Bishop Edgar Blake will preach here Friday evening, Nov. 6 at 7:45 p. m. This evening service of worship will open a ten day celebration of the 100th anniversary of the church that will last through Sunday evening, November 15, when Dean Whitehouse, of Albion College, will bring the closing message of the centennial.—Republican-Press.

BROOKLYN—Brooklyn was treated to the unusual sight of a runaway horse on election day. Howard Owens, who has a horse and cart, drove over from Napoleon on a shopping trip Tuesday. The horse tied to a lamp post and the cart of ancient pattern attracted more attention than all the automobiles on the public square. It was a veritable sensation when the animal broke its tie strap and galloped north towards home, with the cart bounding as often as the horse.—Exponent.

GOTTLUB LUICK

Gottlob Luick, 90 years of age, a former mayor of Ann Arbor, died Thursday night, November 5, at his home in that city. He was a native of Lima township, where he was born March 27, 1846, the son of David and Catherine Luick. His parents came from Germany in 1833.

Mr. Luick attended the rural schools until the age of 13, when he began to learn the carpenter's trade. With his brother Emanuel he formed a contracting and building firm in Lima which later moved to Ann Arbor. Mr. Luick retired in 1925, his son, Oscar, taking over the business. He was alderman of Ann Arbor for four years, president of the city council, and served two years as mayor. A plaque on a boulder at the site of the open air market was placed in recognition of his financial aid in securing the market for the city.

A life-long Democrat, Mr. Luick had voted at every election until the last, even though he had to go to the polls in a wheel chair.

Of a family of 12 children, a sister, Mrs. Christina Schilling of Saginaw, survives. His wife, formerly Miss Julia Rupp, and their son, Oscar, died several years ago.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. E. C. Stettin, were held at 3:30 Sunday afternoon, with interment in Forest Hill cemetery. Relatives from Chelsea who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Luick and Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. D. Edward Beach and sons, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luick, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Luick, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Luick, Mrs. Anna Paul and Mrs. W. G. Lewick.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Will you please settle this argument by answering which is the most powerful beast in the animal kingdom—that is, which is the best qualified to take care of itself in combat?

Ans.—To answer this question it depends largely upon the angle or point of view, nature and peculiarities. The elephant is the strongest in actual tests of strength, but he could be worn down in combat with a lion, tiger, and some others. The lion is powerful, but is cowardly—often skulking away from a foe he could easily conquer. The tiger, while not so strong, is formidable because of its bravery and agility. The porcupine is a defensive fighter only, and in this he is the best in the animal kingdom. When he sets his quills to meet an attack no living thing can touch him without feeling the sting and causing the attacker to retreat. Probably the best balanced animal in offense and defense is the tiger.

Ques.—What are the rings around the planet Saturn made of?

Ans.—Saturn's "rings" are an innumerable number of moons so small that they have the appearance of a cloud encircling the planet.

Ques.—Why doesn't pepper irritate other parts of the body the same as it does the tongue, nose and eyes?

Ans.—Because the membranous tissues of the tongue, nose and eyes have nerves nearer the surface and much more exposed than the nerves of the skin. If you scrape off the skin and then apply pepper to the raw flesh you will find that it will irritate the exposed nerves even more strongly than it does the tongue, nose or eyes.

Ques.—I am told that the century plant was so named because it bloomed only once every hundred years. Is that true?

Ans.—No. It was called the "century plant" because it was found that frequently many years lapsed between blooming seasons—sometimes 25 years. However, it is not often they will go more than four or five years without blooming.

Ques.—I like your question column in your good paper very much. Will you please answer this one for me? What makes the noise of thunder after a flash of lightning? Thank you.

Ans.—Often during storms in hot weather billions of electrons gather in the clouds. Sometimes the crowding is terrific. As a result of this crowding they sometimes jump to other things close. This jumping makes an electric flash which we call "lightning". The flash splits the air so suddenly and swiftly that the air expands. Then just as suddenly and swiftly the air will close. This makes a noise (thunder) in the same manner that an explosion does.

Ques.—Why did the ancient Egyptian artists make all their drawings in profile?

Ans.—This is because they had no knowledge of perspective. Some of the drawings found are more than 50,000 years old, and all in profile, but they represent a high order of art.

Ques.—Recently I read in a magazine that the climate in California was exceedingly moist a thousand years ago. How do they know that?

Ans.—The growth of trees is marked by the annual rings in the trunk, and the width of the rings tells us something about the rainfall. The more rain, the wider the ring growth. Some of the big trees in California have been alive for more than 3,000 years. Their ring growth shows that 2,000 years ago the California climate was much moister than it is today.

Ques.—Can you answer just how small an atom is? And can an atom be seen with the naked eye?

Ans.—An atom is the smallest thing known to science. It cannot be seen with an ordinary microscope, much less the naked eye. It takes an extremely high-powered microscope to see them at all. They are so small that twenty trillions of them can crowd together on the head of an ordinary pin.

Ques.—I would like to know if any of the higher order of apes can laugh?

Ans.—No, not like a human laughs. It is held by some reputable scientists that the playful character of the higher apes is an equivalent of the human laughter. The apes live in a different sphere from the human family, and their chatter (which may be the ape's laugh) is about something funny to them, but not funny to human beings at all.

Largest Canal Locks

The largest locks in the Sault Sainte Marie canal are the third or Davis and the fourth locks, which are 1,350 ft. long, 80 ft. wide and have a minimum depth of 24 to 25 ft. The Davis lock was put in operation in 1914 and the fourth in 1919. The locks of the Panama Canal are 1,000 ft. long, 110 ft. wide, and 45 ft. deep. In the new Welland canal the locks are 800 ft. long, 80 ft. wide and 30 ft. deep. The new canal was opened to traffic in 1932. No locks were necessary in the construction of the Suez canal.

JERUSALEM SCHOOL NEWS

The school month for October ended October 30 for the Jerusalem school. The following were neither absent nor tardy: Dan McLean, Doris Trinkle, Donald McLean, Ronald Gentner, Lois Schlosser, Robert Trinkle, Arlene Koenigster, Jane Schlosser. The percentage of attendance for the month was 92.4.

We have all been saddened by the death of our classmate, Elmer Trinkle. We did not have any school Wednesday. We all went to the funeral. Elmer was the only one in the third grade.

We have learned another new song. We are also working on the folk dances.

We have put up pictures to match the Geography lessons in our books. The children are watching the papers and magazines for any pictures or clippings relating to their Geography work.

We have added another picture to our Picture Study Book. We are studying Indians now. The children have an attractive scene in the sand-box, relating to Indians. The second grade has made some Indian dolls, cradles, canoes and other things. We are going to try to do some Indian rug weaving. We are adding to our Indian scrap-book which we have started and worked on in past years.

In our health work we are studying Safety and First Aid. We are trying to keep a record of all the accidents happening in our county, state, and country. We are finding there are very many. We have been studying teeth and have written up stories, poems and made two posters on teeth. The children are working on various things in art work. They drew pictures and made some greeting cards for Halloween.

The seventh grade have started the Colonial map for their History work, and are looking for pictures for their Colonial Book.

We have our reading booklets on display now.

The children who were able to go to the Halloween party Friday evening at the home of their former classmates, Joyce and Janice Hashley, enjoyed it very much.

We are all selling many chances on the set of dishes which will be given away Nov. 10 at the Annual Fair and Dance at Pleasant Lake.

The Four Estates

The three "estates of the realm" in England—the three separate classes, having different public rights and duties—were the clergy, the nobility and the commons. Edmund Burke is said to have applied the term "fourth estate" to the newspapers.

NOVEMBER

The same old windy November in her rounds is with us again, And if you're watching, my dearie, lie'll rattle at your window pane. After all, tho' his presence is shaggy, And his hand is icy and cold, He has a kind heart filled with gladness, And shares with the needy his gold, Gets together the friends who long parted, He festives with both young and old. He's always on hand at Thanksgiving, No matter how stormy or cold. So now, old icicle veteran, Tho' your coat is shaggy and rough, Your heart is the heart of a shepherd, You're made of the right kind of stuff.

—Arthur Carlton.

Originated the Toddy
Toddy was originally an alcoholic drink made by South Sea Islanders from the buds or flowers of certain trees. Early explorers, Cook, Dampier and Herbert, identify todgy with the fan and date palm trees, and Dampier speaks of the todgy tree, probably also a palm.

Defeat Manchester

On Friday, Chelsea won their last game of the season by defeating Manchester by a score of 14-7. Five seniors played their last game as the 1936 season ended.

Although Chelsea won but three games this year, the season was considered successful by the team. Chelsea lost to Belleville, 18-7; to Dundee, 25-0; to Roosevelt, 18-0; to Milan, 12-7; to Tecumseh, 6-0. We defeated Clinton, 13-0; Saline, 6-0; and Manchester, 14-7. In reviewing Friday's game, we find the records of Bahnmiller and Belser as iron men, still unbroken. These two were the only players to play every second of each game of the season. Also, that a number of bad breaks prevented Chelsea from scoring at least two more touchdowns. Strieter made a run of over thirty yards in the second quarter but was called back due to a penalty caused by an end in the backfield. Also, Prudden was unfortunate in failing to catch a pass while in the end zone, the ball slipping from his fingers. Chelsea passed into the lead in the first quarter by making a safety. A Manchester back fumbled the ball and ran into the endzone to recover it and was tackled by Koebbe. This lead held until the third quarter when Merz, left tackle, ran for a touchdown on the kickoff. Then in the last quarter, Chelsea tallied two scores, making the score 14-7.

Following is the lineup and substitutions of both teams:

Chelsea	Manchester
Bycraft	LE Durfee
Bahnmiller	LT Merz
Belser	LG Days
Prinzling, C	C Bair
Brueckner	RG Procter
Niehaus	RT Motluck
Koebbe	RE K. Way
Spaulding	QB Cushman, C
Prudden	LH Wallace
Strieter	BH Middlemiss
Grove	FB B. Way

Subs: Bleecker, RE. Stantz, Golos, and Jenter.

Take Over Study Hall

Who said that the Seniors weren't the "big shots" in high school? Well, just wait until you know what has happened.

Beginning November 9, the Seniors are actually taking over study hall. Every student in the senior class will have a chance to take study hall for a week. They will check on the pupils that are absent or tardy and make announcements. In other words, they will carry on the regular duties of a study teacher.

Card Party

Friends—I'm going to let you in on a secret—the Senior class is staging a card party in the gymnasium on Friday, November 13, at 8:00. We are serving refreshments, and we guarantee that everyone will have the proverbial "time of his life." There will be monopoly, ping pong, checkers, cribbage, buncie, dice, and cards; so everyone ought to be satisfied. Soon the fact will be a secret no longer, the whole town will be talking about it and will hasten to the gym on Friday evening we hope, we hope.

Terminate Campaign

The weeks of work connected with the political campaign in school terminated last Tuesday, when the election was held. The campaign and election was sponsored by the senior American Government class under the able direction of Miss Fauver.

Duplicates of real ballots were secured by Mr. Bleecker for the voting. The ballots were cast early and the returns were announced at 3:30. The presidential candidates, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Wm. Lemke and Alfred M. Landon, received 128, 10, and 82 votes respectively. Fitzgerald received 118 votes for the governorship while Murphy was given 102. The senatorship was given to Brown with 135 votes to Brucker's 85. Tisch, Democratic candidate for sheriff, defeated Andres, 132 to 76.

Glee Club

On Monday, the Girls' Glee club met and decided upon the following officers for the coming year: Miss Ellean Adams, president; Miss Muriel Martin, secretary; treasurer; and Misses Joan Walworth and Eunice Hart, Librarians.

A Girls' Quintet composed of Peggy Bleecker, Muriel Hart, Jeanne Luck, Barbara Schenk and Joan Walworth, was organized. This group worked together in the highly popular opera "In Arady" and are preparing for participation in the Christmas music program, which is already under way.

The boys' quartet: Harrie Bleecker, Theodore Brueckner, John Fletcher, Jr., and Harley Prudden, is beginning preparation for the Christmas program. The idea principally in mind in the formation of the quartet and quintet is to have available, at all times, groups to contribute selections for entertainment at local meetings, etc.

The entire group is under the capable leadership of Miss Lucille Boongaard, director of music at Chelsea high school.

Off the Record

Two men met in a north woods. 1st man: "What are you doing up here?" 2nd man: "I'm here for treason." 1st man: "Oh! trees and holly and stuff for Christmas."

Ted R.: I'm going to the Northwest mounted. Joan W.: Well I'm going home stuffed myself.

Smart guy? Who do you think will get elected, Roosevelt or Landon? Dumb Guy: I don't know, what's the matter with the guy in there now?

Mr. Hargreaves: Duane, when you folks hear you play that song they'll hear something they never heard before. Duane W.: Yeh, the protests of the neighbors.

Your son has a wonderful voice. I suppose you'll have it trained? Yes Sir! I'm going to build the best bathroom money can buy.

Most men get into a stew when they start cooking up excuses for their wives.

"Well," boasted the cow puncher, "I broke another horse this morning." And the city girl scolded: "Tsh, tsh! How careless of you."

A little boy asked his father: "What keeps the stars in place?" To which his father answered absently: "Their salary, son."

"Jigger"

The man I'm about to describe is probably around twenty-four years of age. His face looks as though it were chiseled out of bronze. His hair is blond and his eyes blue. He has very white, even teeth and together it all forms a very striking appearance. I can usually tell when I've given the wrong answer, or when he is thinking, because he has an unusual habit of rolling his tongue around on the inside of his mouth. Also, he strikes me as being rather shy, but very intelligent. He dresses very attractively and neatly. He drives a Chevrolet car. I'm not making a guess when I say he has many friends who admire him and respect him, and I, for one, regard him as an all American man.

Elementary News

First Grade
We voted last Thursday. We used the 5th grade voting booth. Roosevelt won, leading 24 to 7. We have two new children in our grade. They are Robert Frislinger and Opal O'Dell. They moved to Chelsea from the country.

Has anyone seen Tiger—our cat? He left us six days ago. Please return him if you find him.

We have another new book. It is "More Dick and Jane Stories." We like it.

David Longworth brought us the "Raggy Animals" book. We are enjoying the stories Miss Bollore has read to us from it.

Our rabbit will be comfortable this winter. We have gathered many bags of leaves for his bedding.

Third Grade

This week we have been working on subtracting, borrowing, and checking problems in Arithmetic. The following people can work these problems without a mistake: Robert Faber, Anne, Thora, Charles, Jane, Edward, Barbara, Myra, Joan, Clara, Doris, Audrey, Bobby Robbins, June, George and Phyllis.

The perfect spellers are: Doris, Myra, Phyllis, June, Edward, Thora, Robert F., Audrey and Jane.

This week we told stories about animals. Some were about pets, others were about animals we had seen in the woods, circus, or zoo. We also wrote riddles about some animals. We read them for the other children to guess. We liked one of Barbara's riddles. Can you guess what it is?

I am wide and fat,
I am red - brown,
I eat trees,
I cut down trees with my long, sharp teeth,
I have a claw that helps me,
I run it through my fur.

Fourth Grade

We are now working on a play called "Soldier of Peace." We want to have it ready this week because Armistice Day is Wednesday, November 11.

These pupils had a perfect record on our health chart: Norman A., Rosalie B., Donna B., Jimmy G., Marjorie G., Phyllis H., Leon L., Ruth P., Ruth Ann S., and Marjorie U.

In art class we made turkeys which we are going to stuff for Thanksgiving. Only 100 per cent papers will be used for stuffing.

In geography we are going to make small booklets about the Eskimos.

We have a new pupil, Walter Freysinger, making our number 36.

Fifth Grade

Reporter—Marian Elisele
Assistant—Leonard Spiegelberg
November 3rd, Mrs. Steiner had us over to her room and we voted for President. The returns for our room were: Roosevelt 14, Landon 6.

Leonard S., Richard S., Jeanne M., and Virginia B. got ambitious and cleaned the room cupboards under the direction of Miss Hannigan.

We expect to receive our Current Event Topics soon, which we will use for current events in History.

We are sorry that last Friday was the last school football game, because we play a game in Arithmetic which we call football. We feel that it will be out of season now. As the basketball games will soon be in progress. Also, as we will not have short hours in school on Friday any more.

One of our old school mates came to visit us Monday, Nov. 2. His name is Robert Fisher. He came from Ft. Huron.

We have just finished the first part of our third History chapter.

Next week we will begin to take our six week tests again.

We have some new maps to use in connection with our Geography and History.

Sixth Grade

Reporter—Winno Spiegelberg
Assistant—Rowena F.
We received a desert plant to keep in our room, from Mr. Polimer. Thank you, Mr. Polimer.

We are writing Thanksgiving songs: Dick Schenk and Betty Rudd, so far, have the best songs.

We held an election Tuesday, for the president of the U. S. Roosevelt beat by a majority, the final vote being Roosevelt 21, Landon 8. The committees were as follows: Ballot committee, Dick Schenk, chairman, Dick K. and Hobby S.; booth committee: Helen G., chairman, Janet M., Stanley P.; campaign committee, Luther for Landon and Knox, Bud for Roosevelt and Garner.

The election was carried on as real as possible.

We have outlined some maps of the British Isles. We have to color the surface.

We didn't get our news in last week so we are getting this week's news as short as possible.

Margaret Knapp is getting better and she will be back soon.

Friday, Nov. 6 was the last day to get out of school at 2:30 this year.

We have some nice pink flowers on a plant, brought by Margaret Knapp. They are very pretty.

Growth of Trees

A tree grows only at its surface, with the inner bark depositing the lifeless woody matter beneath it. During the spring and early summer this process takes place much more rapidly than in the late summer and autumn, when the wood is deposited in a relatively thin, compact layer. There is, of course, no growth during the winter. The result is that the wood is deposited in the concentric rings that no one can help noticing. The growth of a tree in a particular year depends on a number of things, such as soil, temperature, and rainfall. Of these the amount of rain is the greatest variable.

Norway, Sweden Difficulty
In the latter part of the Nineteenth century serious difficulty arose between Norway and Sweden, owing to the desire of the former for a consular service of her own. In 1905 the two nations separated.

Many Turkeys To Get Reprieves for Month

Many a Michigan turkey is going to get a reprieve of a month or so from the traditional Thanksgiving ax, says C. G. Card, poultry husbandman at Michigan State College. He makes the prophecy because the birds in general in this state are grown on good mash and grains and are too often forced to compete in the November holiday markets against range reared stock carrying a poorer quality finish.
"Those who wish to purchase well finished Michigan turkeys often are willing to pay good premiums for the better meat," says Card. "If producers in this state can get in touch with dealers, restaurants, hotels, or individuals where such quality premiums will be paid, the producer will obtain better returns than in ordinary markets."
"This fall, especially, it is going to pay dividends to producers who are more careful in their marketing. Perhaps many turkey flocks will obtain greater returns if birds are sold with quality finish and if more home dressing is done before marketing."
To return to the question of whether turkeys should be marketed for Thanksgiving or held for the Christmas trade, Card indicates this may be a problem to be decided individually by turkey producers. It may depend upon the size and the finish of the birds. The time of marketing may be decided on the basis of feed supply and cost of raising for another month on farms where turkeys are being fed.
Card estimates that this year in Michigan there is a greater number of turkeys than ever before, especially in the Thumb area of the state. It will be good business for producers to market only those birds in good finish and the lightweight unfinished turkeys should be held for the higher quality finish they will show for Christmas.

Safetygrams
When you drive your car out of your garage are you sure that it is in A-1 shape?
"Four wheels and no brakes" applies to many individual vehicles. Brakes should be adjusted periodically. Your lighting apparatus should meet these requirements: Good headlights, properly adjusted so as to give the greatest convenience in driving, and a well charged battery that will make these lights function as they should. Rear view mirrors are a necessity and should be properly directed. The steering gear should operate easily. Keep it adjusted so that your car responds as you want it to.
In general, be ever on the alert for minor evidences of faulty equipment, and when discovered have it adjusted promptly.

Responsibility Act Gets Mostly Drunks

The recent expiration of the first three years operation of the Financial Responsibility Act has revealed several interesting developments, according to records in the Department of State. In the first place, while the act was framed to curb the driving of those who failed to satisfy damage judgments returned against them, others involved for a considerable list of other reasons—all violations of the motor vehicle act—are barred for three year periods, unless they meet rigid requirements. Less than 15 per cent of all drivers involved have been able to meet these conditions.
The 1935 legislature amended the Financial Responsibility Act, removing 1,652 drivers from the barred group, leaving 8,874 barred by the act. Of these, 8,162, or nearly 91 per cent were barred from driving on conviction of drunk driving charges.
The three year suspension period for those first under the act, convicted for motor vehicle violations, expired October 17, third anniversary of its effective date.
SYLVAN CENTER SCHOOL NEWS
Our school is getting smaller. We have only 25 pupils.
We were sorry to lose first, George Freysinger, who had to go to the hospital.
Bertha, Walter and Buddy Freysinger have moved to Chelsea. We were sorry to see them go.
Eleanor and Erma Elsiele also moved away. We miss them.
We have one new scholar, Robert Teachout, a sixth grader.
The sixth grade are beginning German in Geography.
The second grade are studying Indians. They have made Indian suits, bows and arrows, and are now making their wigwam.
Nature Study is very interesting. Many have brought in birds' nests, some of which we have not been able to identify.
The Science class has a large collection of seeds, vines, leaves, branches and some butterflies.
Robert Brackney brought in a very large wasp's nest.
Richard Weaver brought in the smallest nest, a humming bird's nest.

Queen for Ten Days
Queen Maud was the daughter of Henry I and the rightful queen. She was set aside by Stephen, the king's nephew. Later she claimed the throne and was actually crowned, but relinquished her right on the condition that her son should follow Stephen.
Queen Jane was the ill-fated Lady Jane Grey. She was proclaimed, not knowing that the deed appointing her to succeed Edward VI was a forgery. She reigned only for ten days, when the rightful queen—Mary—succeeded to the throne. Jane was afterwards beheaded.—Pearson's Weekly.
Sausage, Favorite of Romans
Sausage manufacture really dates from Roman practice. Even during the time of Augustus Caesar a large number of varieties were prepared. There were large sausages that were served sliced, and there were small sausages that were served whole. There were both fresh and cured sausages, although the fresh sausages were practically restricted to home manufacture and consumption. Romans were particularly fond of a sausage composed of pork and white pine nuts, chopped fine, seasoned with pepper, bay leaves, herbs and cumin seed.
Outer Mongolia
The so-called People's Republic of Outer Mongolia came into existence in 1921, when Russian red army troops entered this vast, sparsely populated territory in pursuit of the forces of the white leader, General Ungern von Sternberg. Its international status has been highly anomalous. Theoretically it is still part of China, but no Chinese official may set foot there. The country in the last few years has been barred against all foreigners except Russians.
Faith That Is in Us
Every act of ours is a venture on faith. After the shades of night rout the last sentinels of day, we retire to slumber, in perfect faith that on the morrow the sun will smile its usual greeting on an awakening world. We ride to business in train, trolley or subway. Because of our faith in the unknown hand that holds the throttle, we ride unafraid, secure in the confidence that all is well.

WHEN MARRIAGE IS A CASE OF OCTOBER AND JUNE

Jimmy, wild with jealousy and anger, left home; Lee asked his wife for a divorce, and Sarah collapsed under the shock and has not recovered health or spirits since.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SARAH BROWN, a handsome, successful woman of forty, married seven years ago to Lee Brown, a fascinating, ardent fellow of twenty-seven. At that time Lee seemed old for his age, developed and responsible, and Sarah was a radiant creature of no age at all. She had been widowed for little more than a year, several men wanted her, and it was a foregone conclusion that before she re-married she would have her choice.

Jimmy, the son of her first marriage, was fourteen when she married Lee; the next year another boy was born, and for several years the Brown marriage, with the young stepfather as much a chum as a parent to the older boy, and the young-seeming mother rejoicing in a new baby, seemed ideal.

Then a strange twist came into it. Jimmy fell in love with a music teacher five years older than he. Madeleine was twenty-four then, and only kind and amused at the passion of a young boy still in his Sophomore year. But she did come to the Brown house to play with little David, chat with Sarah, and incidentally as it developed later, lose her heart to Lee. Lee, still in his early thirties, was just about the right age for Madeleine; Jimmy, wild with jealousy and anger, left home; Lee asked his wife for a divorce, and Sarah collapsed under the shock, and has not recovered health or spirits since.

This was a year ago. Losing husband and older son in one terrible week Sarah took her smaller boy and went away for a while, presently agreeing to a divorce. Her life she felt was ended, and heartbroken she retired to the small California town from which she had originally come, and took upon herself the old duties of librarian, given up twenty-two years earlier, when she first had married.

Now comes another development. Free to marry Madeleine, Lee discovers that he doesn't really love her. She has another admirer who, according to Lee, "can give her much more the sort of life she really wants."

He wants to come back to Sarah, or rather he wants her to come back to him. Sarah sends me his letter.

"I look back on our years of happiness together, Sally," Lee writes, "and the fun we had with the kids, and the books you used to read me while I was designing the bridge, and damn it, that was the real thing; and all this talk about falling in love is just rot. Give me another chance. I'll wait Jimmy. I'll get hold of him, and we'll start all over. I've been a fool."

And so on, and so on—pages of it. Sarah adds her own despairing letter to this letter.

"I'm forty-eight now," she writes. "and he's not yet thirty-five. These last years have shown up the difference in our ages. I've lost my prime. Lee hasn't even reached his yet. I've been too young, too things worry me—that didn't worry me ten years ago; it's a time in my life when I feel terribly the loss of youth and charm and confidence and happiness. I feel that I never can quite recover from the shock of the past months."

"And besides that, there's pride. This girl and Lee didn't stop short of finalities in their love affair; and they never told me; they let me find it out through my son's despair. Now that they've changed their minds am I meekly to forgive and forget, to strain myself to re-adjustment, to return home and begin ordering meals and playing bridge again?"

"On the other hand, what is my life here? This is an apple town; prosperous, pretty and duller than death. All my friends are in the city, my house, with the china and books and tables and chairs that have said home for twenty years. It's rented now, but if Lee and I start over again I'll not rent it again, but move back.

And if I do, what guarantee will I ever have that he won't repeat the whole thing in a year or two? He is charming, he is handsome, and he can't help being popular. I feel such a dull, elderly creature now, beside him, although when we were married I was quite sure that years didn't matter.

"I'm so depressed, anxious, puzzled, despairing over the whole matter that I don't know what to do. The blow of Jimmy's misery, followed by the terrible discovery that it was Lee to whom she had given her affections seemed to do something final and fatal to me. Lee seems all penitence and devotion now; how long will this mood last? If I could be sure of him I think I'd be very happy. Not being sure of him is there any happiness in it for me at all? I'm certainly unhappy enough now."

It seems strange to me, in considering this situation, that a woman can grow to be almost fifty years of age and still retain so childish a delusion as to the proportion of life that we may normally expect to be "happy." That weak and unthinking word "happy" rings through the letters of hundreds and hundreds of apparently sensible women, who don't seem to realize that all human states of happiness are transient, that the joy of a love affair, a honeymoon, young motherhood, the delight of children's companionship, the excitement of travel, the satisfaction of a professional triumph—all are PASSING things. We all have our great moments, our hours of complacency and self-satisfaction, and we all pay for them with other hours of bitterness and change and disappointment.

What does Sarah think this life is, one long party? She was an adored only daughter, she inherited a nice little fortune, she had beauty and charm and fifteen years of a happy first marriage; she had a second girlhood of popularity in her widowhood, she made another good marriage; and in each marriage knew the joy of bearing a son.

Had she married an older admirer in 1928 things still might have gone along serenely enough. But she chose a young husband, hardly out of boyhood; at forty Sarah felt young and beautiful enough to carry off this always perilous situation. Now, because the son has grown up and fallen in love, because the handsome husband's charms have attracted another woman as they did her, and because she has reached that time of life when a woman—and a man, too, for that matter—must replace the natural charms of the body with these higher attributes, that belong to the mind and soul, Sarah is whining. For almost half a century everything has come her way; she has had more living and loving, more flattery and laughter, more kisses and congratulations and frocks and smart motor cars, and more theater seats and festive meals than ninety-nine out of every hundred women in the entire world, but that's all forgotten now. She describes herself as depressed, anxious, puzzled and despairing.

It seems to me, since she still obviously loves the graceless and unimpressive Lee, that she ought to go back to him, and rebuild her life carefully with as little dependence upon him as she can. He may fail her again, of course.

But if she can recapture some of the confidence in herself that was hers a few years ago, if she can make his home happy, develop the relationship between him and his son, show him that she is still a personality, and that no action of his can wreck her life, then that is the way out.

No woman is successful when she puts her happiness into the hands of another person, fluctuating between ecstasy and despair just as that person chooses to decree.

Forget Lee for a while, Sarah. Think of yourself, of whatever will interest you, amuse you, make you attractive to everyone who knows you, not just to Lee. Read books and go to lectures, see your friends, especially devote yourself to the small boy, and—above all—let bygones be bygones, and the tide will begin to come back, and Lee discovered that a fascinating, cultured, sweet-mannered woman of fifty has a charm of her own.

One of the incomprehensible things about men is that, having won a man's heart by one course of conduct—by companionship, affection, independence, spirit—upon marrying him they immediately go feminine, and become nervous, sensitive, jealous, unable to take a step without help from "Precious," and resenting every instant. There would be fewer marital smashes if wives retained some of the qualities they possess as sweethearts.

Courage

EVERYONE is agreed that courage is a quality which is essential to his well-being. The term "courage" is considered everywhere to be an opprobrious one, and few are anxious to be considered lacking in bravery. Yet even the bravest men will admit that there have been occasions when courage has well-nigh deserted them.

Christian Science teaches that courage is an essential of Christian warfare; but it also teaches men to place their reliance on something deeper than mere personal bravery, since it is recognized that this can draw a clear distinction between mere animal courage and the moral courage which brings peace and calm to the most disturbed situation.

It is a custom, among those about to engage in human warfare, to have recourse to intoxicants in order to stimulate themselves to face their horrors. Criminals cultivate in like manner a spurious courage for their unlawful actions, thereby frequently reducing themselves to a pitiable state, mentally and physically. The courage thus induced is, of course, ephemeral, and leads to the commission of crimes, terrible in their effects on humanity.

Such courage has to do with true Christian courage. Mary Baker Eddy puts the matter clearly when she says (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, pp. 23, 24): "There is too much animal courage in society and not sufficient moral courage. Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep the faith, they will have the crown of rejoicing."

Some people may think that the substituting of moral courage for animal courage is very easy. They may think that it is easier to be morally courageous than physically so. Yet if they will consider the facts of history they will find that much of the suffering and human warfare of the ages has been brought about because men have not had the moral courage to defend their inmost convictions as to right and wrong. Nations have been forever fighting and warring before the world, when moral courage would have shown a far more satisfactory way of meeting the situation.

In the contest between David and Goliath, the giant Philistine showed animal courage, while the courage of David, though expressed in physical courage of the highest kind, found its basis in the understanding whereby he denied the dictatorship of the human mind. "Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied."

Samuel 17:45. Armed with this moral courage, his reliance on the power of God, David was able to destroy the domination of the Philistine army by slaying their champion by means of his shepherd's sling and Goliath's own sword.

The writer of the book of Proverbs saw something of this need of developing right qualities of thought when he said (14:12): "Every wise woman buildeth her house; but the foolish plucketh it down with her hands."

Courage, then, in the true sense of the word, consists in learning to do right, to love good, and then to take one's stand for the right and good and true, even in the face of persecution and hatred.

Our great Master knew this when he said lovingly to his trembling disciples, about to face the opposition of the heathen world in all its so-called power and splendor (Luke 12:32): "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."—The Christian Science Monitor.

THE name of Howard is of Saxon origin and is one of the most ancient of all surnames. There was one Howard, or Hereward, who was living in England in the reign of King Edward, 904-924.

Sir John Howard was the grandfather of Sir Robert Howard, who made the name of Howard illustrious by his marriage to Lady Margaret Mowbray, whose line of descent was claimed from King Edward I, and through him to Philip the Hardy, one time King of France.

Whereas Henry I. Glazier and Doris Glazier, husband and wife, of the City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, made and executed a certain mortgage, bearing date the fourth day of October, A. D. 1924, to the Farmers and Merchants Bank, now the Chelsea State Bank, a Michigan Corporation, of the Village of Chelsea in said County and State, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw County on the seventh day of October, A. D. 1924, in Liber 187 of Mortgages on page 179.

And Whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is for principal, the sum of $1132.01, for interest, the sum of $39.62, and the further sum of $35.00, as a reasonable attorney fee as provided by statute, and the whole amount claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $1206.63, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

And Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that, by virtue of said power of sale, and in pursuance thereof, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the south outer door of the Court House at Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court within said county, on the 3rd day of February, A. D. 1937, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; the description of said premises contained in said mortgage is as follows:

"Lot number six (6) of H. M. Glazier Subdivision of Sylvan-Township, Washtenaw County, Michigan. Also granting the free unrestricted use of all that part of Caymanough Lake which lies in the southeast quarter of section number five (5) and the northeast quarter of section number eight (8) and adjoining and abutting on lots number one to forty-four inclusive in said subdivision for the joint users of all owners of said lots."

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of money secured by a mortgage dated the 12th day of November, A. D. 1935, executed by Florence M. Sprental to the Ann Arbor Savings Bank, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, on the 18th day of November, A. D. 1935, at 2:45 o'clock, P. M. and recorded in Liber 199 of Mortgages on Page 544.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned by the Ann Arbor Savings Bank to The Ann Arbor Savings and Commercial Bank, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, by assignment of mortgage, dated the 15th day of February, 1936, and recorded on the 24th day of February, A. D. 1936, in Liber 225 of Assignments of Mortgages on Page 433, in the office of the Register of Deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan.

And Whereas, by the terms of said mortgage, it is provided that in case default be made in the payment of any installment of principal or of the interest, taxes, assessments, or insurance, or any part thereof on any day whereon the same is made payable, and should the same remain due and unpaid for the space of thirty days, thenceforth, the principal sum of said mortgage, together with all interest, taxes, assessments and insurance paid, shall at the option of the mortgagee, become due and be due and payable forthwith, and default having been made in the payment of the interest and taxes provided in said mortgage, which default has continued for more than thirty days, the said mortgagee doth hereby exercise its option to declare the principal sum of said mortgage and all arrearages of interest and taxes due and payable.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage is the sum of $3,000.00 principal, and interest of $898.33, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars, as a reasonable attorney fee, as provided in said mortgage, and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $3,008.33, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder, at the south front door of the court house in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, on the 11th day of December, A. D. 1936, at 10:00 in the forenoon of said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situate and being in the City of Ann Arbor, in the county of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit:

Commencing at a point on the northeasterly line of Packard Street at the southerly corner of a lot owned by Vaughn's Addition to the City of Ann Arbor, thence northeasterly on the northeasterly line of said lot four, one hundred thirty two feet to the northeasterly corner of said lot; thence southeasterly along the northeasterly line of said lot, thirty seven feet and one-half feet; thence southeasterly parallel with the southeasterly line of said lot, sixteen and one-half feet; thence southeasterly parallel with the northeasterly line of said lot, twelve feet to the southeasterly line of said lot; thence southeasterly along the southeasterly line of said lot, one hundred fifteen feet and one-half feet to the southeasterly corner of said lot on Packard Street, thence northeasterly along the northeasterly line of Packard Street, forty-nine and one-half feet to the place of beginning, being a part of lot four according to the recorded plat of Vaughn's Addition to the City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan.

PA WAS, "not and determined" to go fishing. Ma was equally bent on house cleaning. Lu's desires were a minor consideration to both parents when their opposing minds met on this old and familiar ground of contention. Lu had consulted hesitantly to her mother that she was expecting company from the city on the first of May and would like to have things looking "kinda nice." Her mother had snorted, "Fisluw! He might not come. There's no use my puttin' off my house cleanin' just because you're lookin' for a beau. Beaus never goes where cobwebs grows anyhow!"

Lu gave up. It was no use to tell Ma that Gordon Lane was not just beau—Ma was the contrarist woman alive. Once she thought Pa or Lu really didn't want her to do a thing there would be no stopping her.

Pa tried to slip out early but Ma put her foot down hard. He had to "git the rugs out" first. So Pa compromised. If they'd let him git the front room rug out right off he'd give it a few ticks before he started. But he was going a-fishing on the first day of the season—so there!

With the tears dried by anger on her hot cheeks, Lu helped Pa yank out the living room rug and swing it over the line. Pa gave it the few protesting ticks he had promised and then he departed for the cool trout stream in the depths of the woods.

Along about noon Ma was washing the front-room windows, with her head tilted up in a towel, when she saw a roadster snicken outside the gate. The driver took Ma in and—his mind grasped the signaling rug on the clothes line. With foot spurred by anger he stepped on the gas! The roadster flew off down the road.

"Another one of those playboy fishermen after Pa," thought Ma. And then she exactly remembered that Lu was expectin' company. A wise head keeps a close mouth. Lu might be twenty-one and have a mind of her own, too, but Ma didn't want no city cobwebs in the family yet awhile.

A little later Pa looked up from the rubbing pool he was wading and gave a young fellow sitting on the bank a sociable halt. Seeing that the chap was not fishing, Pa called out as a joke: "Got no license?"

"You said it," replied the young fellow disconsolately. "And that's what I came for, too."

"Come out here to git a license!" cried Pa in astonishment. "Why you got to git in 'em in to the county seat. You don't pick licenses up along the creek, young feller." Pa relished the joke.

"No-o. Well, you see, they was housecleanin' and it sort of got my goat! Who wants to get mixed up in a thing like that?" The young man was evidently pursuing the tenor of his own thoughts more than answering Pa's with-ness.

"That's what dray me out too," concluded Pa, perceiving a kindred spirit. My daughter Lu she wanted to go somewheres today with a young man from town and Ma she just started house cleanin' to make her stay hum!"

"You mean to say your daughter's name is Lu? And Lu didn't ald, abel, devise and encourage with mulice aforethought and all the rest of it, this house cleaning attack which drove us both forth into the wilderness to-day?"

"Well, no, not exactly," Lu didn't," answered Pa, chuckling as he thought of Lu's angry face. "Lu don't egg-crit-y approve of these all-day skrimishes with imaginary dirt. But then Lu's young. She might develop one of them here complexes yit!"

"I guess Lu go back and get that license," the young chap on the bank exclaimed somewhat abruptly.

It was nearly six as Pa approached his silent home whose very exterior bespoke its spark-and-spinnace. But in the kitchen Ma still polished furiously.

"Where's Lu?" Pa asked his silent partner.

"Gone with that feller to git a license," Ma answered bitterly.

"I wonder if you mean that fellow saw in the woods today. Good looking young chap. Glib tongue, loose at both ends and waggin' from the middle. Come out fishin' without no license!"

"He said he was 'gin' back after one. But what in heck would he want of Lu to git a fishin' license?"

"Fishing license? Are you clear gone batty, Pa? There are other things in this world besides fishin', though it don't seem like as if you was ever goin' to find it out! They went to get a marriage license."

"Wh-h?" cried Pa. "Was that Lu's send?"

Pa stood quietly awhile, leaning against the door frame still damp from his recent cleansing. Suddenly Pa chuckled aloud.

"It almost worked, Ma," he said. "You almost cleared him out!"

Threads in Paper Currency

According to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, paper currency has red and blue silk threads in it, but they are scattered over the entire note instead of being located in rows as the light and test lines as in the old larger sized notes.

Musical

"Is Jones musical?"

"I should say he is. When he's out he blows his own trumpet and at home he plays second fiddle."—Stray Stories Magazine

This image shows a single page of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. A vertical margin line is present on the left side, creating a narrow left margin. The paper appears slightly aged or off-white. There are some faint smudges and marks on the surface, particularly near the top and bottom edges. The overall appearance is that of a clean but used piece of stationery.

Uniform Curing of Meat
Has Long Been a Problem Different kinds of wood have been found to contribute more palatable flavors in the meat smoking process than others. Hickory and oak have long been favorites in North America, but certain types of nut shells and various aromatic seeds have been used by primitive tribes.
Some of the plains Indians liked the smoked flavor which developed from seminary grass, something of the "bonfire" smell we welcome in the fall. The smell of smoke from a sage smudge was quite desirable to some of the West Coast Indians, and green sprigs from the sage plant were thrown on the fire in the tepee. Most of the sage flavor, as we recognize it, however, was destroyed by the burning, states an expert.

The companion of salt in meat curing, saltpeter, was perhaps discovered through its being an impurity in the salt that was used.
On the other hand there is also possibility that some of the early meat curers did not distinguish too well between the salty flavor of common salt and the bitter-salt flavor of the saltpeter. In any event, the discovery that saltpeter preserved the reddish color of meat led to its combination with salt centuries ago. Early curing and salting did not always provide for uniform penetration of the meat by the cure, so that the unsalted spots, uncolored spots, and sour spots with which meat curers still contend, have been problems of the centuries.

Face Veils for Brides
As the tradition of the face veil is that a maiden is too shy to face the world unveiled before she is a married woman, it is at the conclusion of the wedding ceremony that it is removed or rearranged. This is done by the maid of honor when she gives her bouquet back to the bride.

The Hottentots
The Smithsonian Institution says that the life of the Hottentot tribes in South Africa is centered on the raising of cattle. The wealth of the members of these tribes is estimated in terms of cattle, and their existence is directly connected with their herds.

Welding Methods
Welding methods are classified into two groups, "cohesion" caused by pressing and hammering metals while in a plastic or fusion state, and "cohesion of metals in a fusion state." Forge welding is a fusion welding in the former and oxyacety-lene and electric arc welding in the latter.
