Ceremony at St. Mary's Unites Lyndon Couple

The ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Irene Clark and John H. O'Connor, both of Lyndon township, was solemnized at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, January 28, at St. Mary church, when the nuptial mass was read by Rev. Fr. Richard Cunningham of St. Theresa's parish, Detroit, a cousin of the bride.

Miss Clark wore a dress of Dubonnet crepe with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of gardenias. Miss Bernadine Wheeler, a niece of the groom, served as maid of honor. She was attired in rose beige Russian eroge and her accessories were brown. Tailsman roses and forget-me-nots formed her corsage. The groom was attended by Howard Clark of Jackson, a nephew of the bride.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. C. E. Whitaker, for the members of the bridal party, the out of town guests including Dr. and Mrs. T. I. Clark and son Thomas of Jackson, and Herbert Clark of Chicago, also Rev. Fr. Lawrence Dorr, pastor of the Chelsea parish.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor left on a short wedding trip. They will make their home at 1033 Packard St., Ann Arbor.

A pre-nuptial party and miscellaneous shower was given Tuesday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. Guy Barton. Miss Clark received high honors in cards. Lunch was served, with covers for twelve. Miss Rose McIntee was assisting hostess.

Latest News from the State Capital

Memories of the ill-fated Blue Eagle were revived in the state legislature several days ago when a "Baby NRA" bill, directing the governor to provide codes of fair competition, maximum hours and minimum wages, was introduced by Rep. Frank N. Steele, Muskegon.

In view of proposed legislation at Washington along similar lines and the unsettled labor conditions in Michigan brought out by the "sit down" strike, state legislators noted with interest that the Steele bill would provide for freedom for compulsory membership in company unions, collective bargaining for employees, and the right to organize.

Under the same category of "social legislation" was a bill by Rep. H. O. Clines of Ludington and Rep. J. Philip Rahol of Iron Mountain providing for a one and a half per cent income tax on residents and non-residents. As a medium for further distribution of wealth, the new tax measure would raise, according to Rahol, more than $60,000,000 annually, the entire amount of which would be devoted to welfare and old age pensions.

Thanks to the family gas buggy, county fairs are coming back in a big way, vouchers Chester M. Howell of Chesaning, Secretary of the Michigan Association of Fairs, a group which is looking forward to improved and better attended fairs in 1937.

"Five years ago anyone would have been justified in predicting that the county fair was disappearing," says Howell. "Now we know that the automobile, with its provision of greater mobility, not only has increased attendance at county fairs, but, because it enables visitors to compare the fairs they visit, has helped produce better fairs."

On the program of the state highway department, scheduled for an early start in 1937, is a tourist road construction program that will require an expenditure of $11,000,000 in co-operation with WPA and will greatly improve highways in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula and north of the Straits.

Preliminary work has been started on a bridge between Port Huron, Mich. and Sarnia, Ontario.

At Lansing last Wednesday a conference was held under auspices of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce to push the widely-endorsed plan for a bridge over the straits, linking the two peninsulas.

Union Lenten Services Start Next Wednesday

In keeping with the custom established in former years the Protestant churches of Chelsea will unite in Lenten services each Wednesday evening during the Lenten period for worship. Easter comes early this year and the first service will be held on Wednesday evening, February 10, at 7:30 in St. Paul's church.

Rev. P. H. Grabowski, the pastor, will be in charge of the service, assisted by Dr. H. A. Leeson and Rev. Henry Lenz. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. F. D. Mumby, on "Victorious Faith." The closing service will be held on Good Friday afternoon.

The Congregational, St. Paul's Evangelical and Methodist Episcopal churches invite the people of Chelsea and environs to help make these Union services successful in every way. They call upon the Christian people of the community to unite in a fellowship of prayer and self denial throughout the Lenten period.

No offerings are taken at any of these services. The music will be provided by the choir of the church in which each service is held.

Everyone is urged to be on time for the opening service—St. Paul's church on February 10.

Strike Brings Drop In 1937 Plate Sales

Effects of the "paralysis of business" in Michigan attributed to the automobile strike situation, are strikingly apparent in records of issuance of automobile license plates by the Department of State.

A check some 20 days ago on 1937 plates sold at that time, compared with the number of 1936 plates sold on the corresponding date the year previous, showed 1937 plate sales materially ahead of those for 1936. This was expected because of the increase in registration.

At the first of this week, however, only 280,866 plates for 1937 had been issued, as against 291,537 for 1936 which had been issued at the corresponding date last year. In Genesee county, seat of the current dislocation of economic difficulties, the comparison stood: 1937 plates, 12,129; 1936 plates, 14,848.

Of the difference of some 11,000 plates, more than 2,500 deferred plate purchases are accounted for in one county alone.

To Look for Pests

It might seem a little early to be out in the orchard checking up on 1937 fruit tree pests, but it may save the crop as it may mean less extensive spraying schedules.

Now is the best time of the year to inspect an orchard and look for egg masses of the fruit tree leaf roller. These egg masses stand out in the bare trees, as they are flat masses, light tan to purplish in color and usually are found on the smaller branches and twigs.

If these masses are present, says Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department at Michigan State College, then the next step is to make up the spraying calendar for an application in the late dormant period.

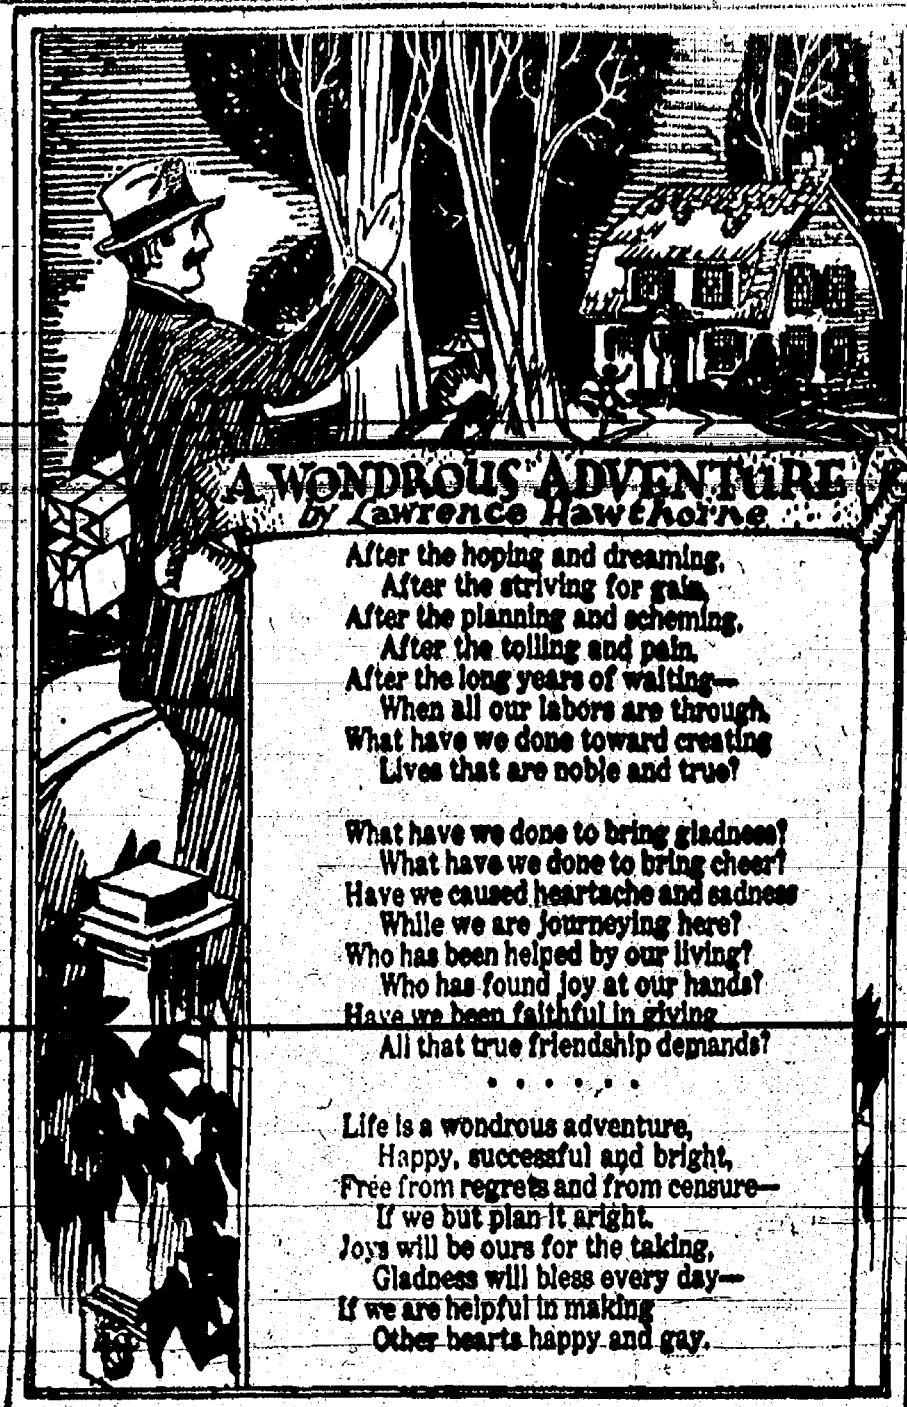

A six per cent oil emulsion is recommended for control. The time to spray depends upon the location in the state, and ranges from the middle of April to the middle of May. The infestation is not apparent in all orchards, so that if the egg masses are not found, this leaf roller need not be considered in the spraying schedule.

A WONDROUS ADVENTURE

by Lawrence Lawrence

After the hoping and dreaming,
After the striving for gain,
After the toiling and pain,
After the long years of waiting—
When all our labors are through,
What have we done toward creating
Lives that are noble and true?

What have we done to bring gladness?
What have we done to bring cheer?
Have we caused heartache and sadness?
While we are journeying here?
Who has been helped by our living?
Who has found joy at our hands?
Have we been faithful in giving,
All that true friendship demands?

Life is a wondrous adventure,
Happy, successful and bright,
Free from regrets and from censure—
If we but plan it aright.
Joys will be ours for the taking,
Gladness will bless every day—
If we are helpful in making
Other hearts happy and gay.

GRASS LAKE—Mrs. Horace McColligan and four children, her mother, Mrs. Eugene Carter, and Frederick, were driven from their home in Covington, Ky., Sunday, and arrived at the B. C. Carter home at midnight. When the water reached the McColligan home, blocks from the Licking river Sunday morning, putting out the furnace fire then while getting dinner the gas meter was disconnected, the family with the exception of Mr. McColligan, decided to return here. Mrs. Carter and son were visiting the McColligans, who moved there last September.—News.

Dr. Hammel has in the past seen service as a National Guardsman during the strike riot at Calumet in 1913; he served one year with the Regular Army in Mexico and Texas in 1915-1916, and two years in France, attached to the British Expeditionary Forces. He now holds the rank of Colonel and is on the staff of the regular Army district commander at Detroit. He anticipates his tour of duty will last possibly as long as three or four weeks.—Herald.

HOWELL—A Milford woman heard a terrible commotion in the living room of her home one day recently and upon investigation found a black squirrel just about as frightened as she and wildly circling the room in an effort to find a way out. The animal, normally a gray brown color, was covered with a generous coating of soot, which in his dash about the room he had promiscuously deposited on curtains, rugs and furniture. The woman hastily retreated into the kitchen and out around the house, opening the front door through which her visitor made a hurried exit to freedom. It is thought that in climb-

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—What was the date and the day of the week that the great Chicago fire started which practically wiped out the city?

Ans.—The great Chicago fire started about 5 o'clock on Sunday morning, Oct. 9, 1871.

Ques.—Are there any birds which have wings but cannot fly at all?

Ans.—Yes. The cassowary, emu, ostrich and rhea have stunted wings, but they cannot fly. They are known as "running birds."

Ques.—I want to ask in your valuable paper whether the Eskimos belong to any of the Asiatic races of people?

Ans.—No. There are seventy tribes of Eskimos scattered throughout the Arctic regions, and they belong to the general family of American Indians. Originally the Indians are supposed to have migrated from Asia by way of the strait between Alaska and Siberia.

Ques.—Why are some of the wars in ancient history called "Punic" wars?

Ans.—"Punic" is from the Latin word "Punicus," which is the equivalent of Phoenician, and which in a limited sense means "Carthaginian."

Ques.—On what day of the week did Gen. Jackson fight the battle of New Orleans? What was the result?

Ans.—The battle of New Orleans was fought on Sunday, Jan. 8, 1815. The Americans were victors over the British. (Owing to slowness of communication Gen. Jackson fought this battle after peace had been made).

Ques.—What is the rule for using commas in writing?

Ans.—There is no fixed rule. Common sense must prevail to see that the sense of the subject is not perverted. Consider the following sentence punctuated thus: "By Cowley, the philosopher, Hobbes is compared to Columbus." Again, the same sentence punctuated differently: "By Cowley, the philosopher, Hobbes is compared to Columbus." One added comma makes Cowley the philosopher, but if omitted, it makes Hobbes the philosopher.

Ques.—Was the umbrella invented by an American?

Ans.—No. The inventor of the umbrella was Jonas Hanway, an Englishman.

Ques.—Did the word "pedestrian" originally have a different meaning?

Ans.—Well, recognized authority says that a "pedestrian" is one who walks; some say that because of the automobile age it now means "one who jumps."

Ques.—Why is a horseshoe the symbol of good luck?

Ans.—Explanations differ as to the origin of this superstition, but one of the common ones is that the horseshoe is supposed to owe its protective powers to its fancied resemblance to the halo we see pictured about the heads of saints.

Ques.—Is Siam a part of China or is it an independent monarchy? Who is ruler and what is his title?

Ans.—Siam is a limited monarchy, ruled by a king. The king's title is "Ebb and Flow of Tides, Brother of the Moon, the Possessor of the Twenty-Four Umbrellas, King." That's all.

Ques.—How loud is a noise?

Ans.—That all depends upon one's ability to hear sound. For instance a blast of dynamite may not be a loud noise at all with a deaf person. On the other hand, Dr. E. E. Fess, a noted scientist, has developed a machine that magnifies noises many billion times and makes the silent tread of a mouse scampering across the floor sound as though it were the tread of an elephant running with iron shoes on its feet.

Ques.—Are the people in Portugal anything like the people of Spain? Are they sympathetic with the loyalists of Spain?

Ans.—The Portuguese people differ widely from their Spanish brethren, whom they regard with inveterate hatred and jealousy, mainly on account of Spain's attempts to subvert the independence of Portugal.

F. F. A. Show Success

A total of about fifteen hundred people attended the WLS-Prairie Farmer home talent show sponsored by the Future Farmers Chapter, under the direction of Roy Wallis, last Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

The club wishes to express its appreciation for the splendid cooperation of the people taking part in the show, the merchants and people attending.

We have been informed by the director, Miss Jones, of Prairie Farmer, Chicago, that three groups in the show will be invited to broadcast over WLS, Chicago. Rankin Patterson, Manchester, George Atkinson, Chelsea, and Florence Norton, Edith Mettelos, Jeanette Brown and Carole Campbell, Plymouth were among those receiving this honor.

After the Saturday night performance the cast enjoyed dancing and refreshments.

The club played Dundee Chapter of F. F. A. in basketball on Wednesday, February 3, at 5:00 p. m. in Chelsea. Following the game they served cocoa and sandwiches.

2nd Team B. B. Game

The second team quintet suffered their first league loss of the season when they were beaten by the Milan five by a score of 14-12. Fletcher and Daniels shared the scoring honors, with 6 points apiece. At the half the score stood 11-2 in favor of Milan. The second half the Chelsea team came back with more aggressiveness than they have shown in quite a few games. Due to this fighting spirit and morale of the team they came back and suffered loss by only a few points. Novess was fouled out of this game.

The first team, on the other hand, were beaten badly. Although this was only one of their long string of unnecessary defeats, they put up a good scrap. The starting line-up: Koebbe, Wheeler, Niehaus, Ather and Tisch, played practically the whole game. Tisch, temporarily disabled, was removed from the game. His loss greatly affected the scoring combination and the morale of the team. Bahnmler replaced him and made one of the two scoring baskets, the other being made by Koebbe. The game, rapidly drawing to a close, provided much excitement. The excitement proved fatal to our blonde junior center, Niehaus, and he was fouled out of the game. The closing score was Milan 20, Chelsea 4.

This Friday, Feb. 5, Chelsea enters into Lincoln at our local gymnasium. We hope for many local supporters to spur our team on.

Debate Team Wins

The question, Resolved: That All Electric Utilities Should be Governmentally Owned and Operated, was debated here last Thursday by Chelsea's affirmative team composed of Stuart Dingle, Harrie Blecker and Eileen Adam. The negative was upheld by North Adams' team: Reginald Jones, Donna Lewis and Jim Reynolds. Chelsea won the debate by the decision of Critic Judge, Raymond V. Schoberg of the U. of M. men's debate team. Mr. Johnson acted as chairman.

Chelsea's team has now won three out of four preliminary debates and is now in the elimination series. Every school that participates in the series is presented with a plaque and each debater participating in one elimination debate is presented with a pin that is a small replica of the plaque.

We are very glad that our team has gone this far, since they have been working very hard, and we hope to see them go much further. Support them!

Civics Class Debates

On Monday and Wednesday mornings the Freshman Civics classes met in the gymnasium for a debate. The question was, Resolved: That Primitive Man Deserves as Much Credit for his Economic Progress as Modern Man. The affirmative side was represented on Monday by Audrey Kent, Gerald Huerlon, and Valerie Lehman. The negative was upheld by Donald Cook, Joan Walworth, and Gertrude Koch. Mr. Hargreaves was Judge.

On Monday the negative won. On Wednesday, the affirmative was represented by Lorraine Weatherwax, Arlene Martin, and Jane Wilkinson. The negative team was Carmen Slocum, Maynard Oesterle and Mary Sullivan. The affirmative team won on Wednesday.

Just Here and There

Just why did "One" Niehaus put that perfectly beautiful wave in his hair? There must be a motive for his madness.

Mr. Wallis: Bob, what is the hide of a cow used for?
Bob Gilbert: To hold the cow together.

"Fat" Bycraft seems to have a mania for collecting souvenirs. If you are anxious to know the inside story just ask him what he collected at the Milan game Friday night. Maybe it was revenge for the loss of the game.

Miss Gibson: Name an uncommon noun.

Did you notice how the boys' quartet's eyes bulged when those three girls from Plymouth sang at the amateur hour Thursday night?
—"Whosit"

"Hands Off"

First, I will explain the meaning of the term "Hands Off." In good plain English, I mean taking possession of other people's belongings. Certainly, most of us are not in such restricted straits that we cannot afford to purchase our own materials for school.

Or if we are, I am sure that most people would prefer to lend their things to these individuals instead of having them taken without permission. We hesitate to designate any one individual but there are some such characters in school. This may not apply to you, but if the shoe doesn't fit, don't wear it. We hope that each student will take for his motto the old proverb: "Honesty is the best policy."

Girls' Basketball

The girls won their second game with Manchester on Tuesday night, the score being 9 to 12. The game was three court and the starting line-up was: Forwards, Adam, Schenk, guards, Runciman, Ashful, centers, Howe and Boyce. Subs: McGaffigan, Palmer, Slane, Lehman. It was a close and exciting game and the time went fast for everyone. The girls were either scrambling for the ball or the ball went out of bounds. There was a grand crowd of supporters from Chelsea which made the girls more determined to win. Their next game is Friday, February 5th at Clinton.

Assembly

The familiar sound of three bells—a stampede for the study hall. After every one is seated, sheets of paper are passed down the aisle. No one knows what it's all about but we finally come to the conclusion that it's a school group sing of old popular songs.

Mr. Hargreaves leads the sing while Miss Boongaard accompanies at the piano.

The boys' quartet sang their WLS number and as an encore gave their version of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

We all hope to have these often because it puts us in good spirits for the rest of the day.

Elementary News

Kindergarten

We have two guests in our room. They are the first grade's pet rabbits, Flopsy and Mopsy. We enjoy feeding them and they are growing rapidly. We have learned several new songs. A few people have returned from long absences. We are glad to have them back.

We have two new pupils, Ruth Foster, who was transferred from Greenville, and Helen Weithoff, who just started in school.

First Grade

Every one brought their pennies and we took up a collection which amounted to a dollar for the flood relief. We found out we were the only grade in this community which had donated to the flood relief. Mr. Blecker got us each a subscription of "My Weekly Reader", which we all enjoy very much. In it we found out about the President's Birthday and also that people are going to California and Florida for the winter.

Junior Niehaus is going to loan us his alligator.

We are looking forward to Valentine Day which is coming soon.

Second Grade

Mrs. Daniels spent Monday afternoon with us. We were glad to have her here and hope she wants to come again. Murray Merrill has been out of school taking care of a hard cold. We certainly do miss him.

First group is reading another new book. They are just fine—such nice illustrations and different stories. Some of our winter pictures are pretty good. We've lots of snow in them, and sleds and skates.

Fourth Grade

In nature study we have been learning about our seashore neighbors.

the starfish, jellyfish, barnacles, sand worms, and tubeworms. Marjorie Gilson, Ruth Ann Schenk, Phyllis Hopper and Robert Novess brought some seashore animals for us to study.

We have a poem chart. Each one who can say the entire poem of Our Health House or The Land of Story Books gets a gold star. Eva Geddes and Phyllis Hopper are the first two to receive a gold star.

We're proud of our new Nature and Science Readers. Thank you, Mr. Blecker.

Our Class Conduct chart has only one star. We must work a little harder.

Fifth Grade

We thank Mr. Weber for the pictures of "The Midsummer Night's Dream" which he sent to us. Every one enjoyed the play very much.

Our Arithmetic hockey game was won this week by Ruth Oesterle's team.

Some of the people have forgotten how to add fractions. Better know how before next week's game.

Sixth Grade

Our hawk ate some meat which was pinned down by a thumb tack. He ate the meat and the tack. Two boys got some mice for him. The thumb tack came up with the pellet the next day. We are glad he did not die.

Our bat was killed by a boy in the gym.

We are going to have a class meeting and name our hawk.

The seventh grade gave us a sledding party last Saturday. We went to Gates hill and coasted and then we came back to the gym and had cocoa, cookies, and sandwiches. We thank Miss Hannigan, the seventh grade, and Miss Boongaard, for a nice time.

We hope we will soon have nine boys in the High School Band.

JERUSALEM SCHOOL NEWS

The school month of January closed for the Jerusalem school on Friday, January 29. Those neither absent nor tardy during January were Jane Schlosser, Arlene Koengeter, Stella and Genevieve Valant. The percentage of attendance was 91.

We have all been working on music quite hard this month. The 4th, 5th, and 7th grades have finished learning the folk dance. They have learned the 8 songs to be sung in the festival. The beginners and second grade have learned 4 songs and the 2 dances. We are studying the lives of composers and some of their compositions. We have studied the instruments of the symphony orchestra. We are now assembling our scrapbook.

In Art work we have been studying shapes of trees and drawing trees. We have also made a room with paper cutting work. We have made January scenes on some of our spelling and seatwork books. The second grade collected pictures for rooms for a home and arranged them in a booklet and we have studied the coloring in the rooms. Some of us have practiced making designs which we are going to put on boxes. The beginners and second grade have also drawn some animals free hand.

We have assembled our Health scrapbook. We have a good collection of material and are adding to it all the time. The second grade have added some pictures and stories about Health to their notebook. Our health unit we are now studying is alcohol.

The president of our Civic Health club for February is Arlene Koengeter; secretary is Lois Schlosser. When we had our club meeting on Friday, Jan. 15 the program committee for January, Jane Schlosser and Stella Valant, prepared an extra program, which was interesting and educating with regard to the flag and its display as Dr. Brock asked us to do some time, when he brought us the new flag. The program opened with the singing of "America" by all the pupils. Then Stella Valant read "The Flag Goes By", Jane Schlosser read "Respect the Flag." Then Miss Schanz gave a talk and demonstration on displaying the flag. We then gave the flag salute, Stella read "To the Flag." We closed the program by singing "Star Spangled Banner."

The second grade have made a seatwork book in which they put interesting pictures cut from magazines and wrote something about the picture below it.

They keep all their seatwork in a booklet.

The fourth and fifth grades have been working together a few days on dictionary practice and in looking up topics in the Book of Knowledge. Some have written some interesting reports.

The following have read the most books so far this year in their grades: Jane Schlosser, 7th grade, 11 books; Lois Schlosser, 5th grade, 9 books; Junior Barth, 4th grade, 7 books; Doris Trinkle, 2nd grade, 9 books.

The fourth grade geography have started the Mediterranean Lands. They have been drawing pictures suggesting the Congo Region. They have had a test on that region.

The fifth grade are finishing up the Southeastern U. S. They are adding more clippings to their notebook. They have made a poster on the cotton industry.

The seventh grade have finished studying Latin America. They are now on Egypt. They also are trying to find clippings of present interest to add to their notebook.

We have added another picture to our Picture-Story book.

The seventh grade have been working on how to make good outlines.

We have all been reading and studying about Benjamin Franklin. The 2nd, 4th, and 5th grades wrote stories about his life.

The girls in the 2nd, 4th, 5th and 7th grades each received a letter from their former schoolmate, Clara Trinkle. We will try to answer them soon.

We have been trying to study the footprints of animals for nature study. We have added a few clippings and pictures to our Nature Study book.

Contributed by 4th, 5th, 7th grades.

Nick in Coat Lapel One of Oldest Clothes Fashions

How many people realize that many little curiosities of the male attire are relics of styles from the past? asks a writer in Pearson's Weekly.

For example, the nick in the coat lapel originated some 150 years ago. It enabled the collar to be turned up without disturbing the lapel. (This was in the days of enormous collars.)

The waistcoat was first worn in the reign of Charles II, and was knee length. For convenience in walking, it was later shortened to the waistcoat style we know today.

In order to allow the Beau Brummell of Edwardian days to show off his fancy socks, and to prevent the bottoms of the trouser legs from getting muddy, the tailors hit on the idea of the turned-up trousers, which nowadays is such a handy resting place for a lost gem, and lost three-penny bit.

The stripe down the side of evening dress trousers originated in the side buttons of Victorian skin-tight trousers. The stripe began as a strip of cloth to hide the buttons.

Indian Adding Machine

Odd String Arrangement

When an Inca king of ancient Peru wanted to announce a law, count his army, send a message, record a battle, or issue an edict, he sent for his quipu maker.

Unlike the Mayas and the Aztecs to the north the Incas had no written language, and so the quipu took its place. It was made of a number of strings all tied at one end to a main string, relates a writer in Pathfinder Magazine. At first it was used only to count and was quite simple, knots being tied to represent tens, hundreds, and thousands. Later, however, as the makers gained in skill, the quipu became more complicated. Strings of different colors were used, and instead of simply tying knots in the individual strings they were knotted together to convey messages. At the height of the empire quipu makers and translators were stationed in every important town—and quipus circulated widely.

A few of these relics are still in existence although their stories remain mostly untold because the art of translation was destroyed with the rest of the Indian culture by the Spaniards. The Field Museum, in Chicago, recently ended a ten-year search when a surprised official discovered one where it had been lying unnoticed among other articles in the museum.

Egyptians Used Asparagus Ancient Egyptians served asparagus but it was called "Niacose."

The Martyred Lincoln

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Lincoln as the Loneliest Man

"I AM the loneliest man in America." These words, dropped from the lips of Abraham Lincoln one evening in 1863, that period which was so dark and unpromising for the cause of the Union.

In March, 1863, writes W. H. Smith in the Washington Post, I heard the incident related to a small group of distinguished men by Bishop Ames of the Methodist church. I do not know if it has ever appeared in print, but if it has, it is worth retelling. The narration took place in the National Hotel, in Washington, in a suite of rooms then occupied by John Evans, territorial governor of Colorado, and father of Evanston, Chicago's beautiful suburb. My presence is accounted for by the fact that Governor Evans was a relative and I had called to pay my respects.

In the group were two or three Methodist bishops, a member of the senate and two of the house. I am sure no one who heard it related ever forgot it, or the impressive manner of the bishop. President Lincoln and the bishop were warm personal friends, and the President had employed the bishop on some delicate mission connected with the war. The bishop said that one evening in June, 1863, he went to the White House to call on the President. The President was in a very despondent mood. Hooker had just suffered his defeat at Chancellorsville. The conversation lasted until a late hour of the night.

The President reviewed the situation at length. The war had been going on for two years, and the North had made little material progress. The bishop asked if he despaired of a final victory. His response was made with great earnestness:

"No, I dare not despair when I know there is a God who controls

"I Dare Not Despair When I Know There is a God."

the affairs of nations as he does those of individuals, but the thought of the thousands who must yet be slain is appalling."

It was then he uttered the words with which this article begins. He said: "I am the loneliest man in America. There is no one to whom I can go and unload my troubles, assured of sympathy and help."

He spoke of the quibbling, complaining and fault finding in congress, and the harsh and unjust criticisms heaped upon him. He spoke with extreme heat of what he

LINCOLN

Wise with the wisdom of ages,
Shrewd as the man of trade,
Grim as the prophets and seers,
Keen as a diamond blade;

Firm as a granite-slabbed mountain,
Tender as woman's song,
Gay as a scintillant fountain—
Yet was he oaken-strong.

Here, the wonder of constancy
Born into pain and strife;
Dead, with a thousand poems
Deathless, he enters life.

—Thomas Curtis Clarke,
in Rural New-Yorker.

termed "that meddling body," the committee on the conduct of war.

The President rapidly reviewed Grant's record since he joined the army. He was at Cairo with a small force. He urgently asked permission to move, saying he would win a victory. The consent was long delayed, but it came at last. Within two or three hours his men were on the steamers, and the brilliant victory of Belmont followed.

"Grant," He Said, "Fights, and That is What I Want."

It was not a great victory, for the forces engaged were not large, but it was a beginning and showed the mettle of Grant.

Back to Cairo, with a larger force he again and again urged for permission to move, and when the permission came he rushed his men to the steamers, and three days later he captured Fort Henry. Not delaying an hour he pushed his small force across the country to Fort Donelson. He was not dismayed by the fact that the force in the fort was larger than his own, but immediately locked the doors on that force. When the rest of his men reached him, by a series of brilliant assaults, he captured, not alone the fort, but an army almost equal in number to his own.

At Shiloh, unlike any other general, he remained to fight after his disaster on the first day, he made no effort to get the remains of his army across the river, but at daylight the next morning became the attacking party, winning a victory. He was now at Vicksburg, and complaints of his delay were many. Only that day two senators had urged Lincoln to displace Grant, but he would not do it. "Grant," he said, "fights, and that is what I want." He said Grant had promised him he would capture Vicksburg by the fourth of July, and he intended to give him the opportunity.

The President, with deep earnestness, then declared: "When he captures Vicksburg, I will find some way to boost him over the heads of all others, and give him command of all the armies. With Grant in command, by Jinks!" (his favorite expletive) "the armies will move and move to some purpose. He fights."

What do you do for frost bites? What are the symptoms of frost bite? The affected part of the body becomes painfully cold and then suddenly the sense of feeling in that part is gone. The affected part becomes white or grayish white in color.

Keep the patient away from fire or warmly heated room.

Massage the parts very gently, then apply cold water.

Apply ointment as you would to a burn because frost bite is the same in effect.

The object of the treatment is to bring the frozen part of the body back to a normal temperature gradually and to restore circulation.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA: MORE POWER TO THEM

The girl—she weighed perhaps a hundred pounds, and was as pretty as a Shasta daisy—on that same afternoon had led a thousand-pound steer into the ring.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS
THE other night I sat at dinner between a girl of fourteen and a boy perhaps three years older. It was a large dinner; it was served in a magnificent club dining room, and attended by perhaps eight hundred; it had speeches and music and flowers and fine food to make it formal. Yet four-fifths of the guests were country-bred youngsters who had not yet reached their eighteenth year, and some were real little rustics. For example, the group that went up in the elevator with me had never been in an elevator before, and were in a great state of laughing excitement over it.

They came from several western states to California for an annual meeting; these eager, brown, unsophisticated happy children were appointed delegates to a serious convention. Just what that convention was anyone in the neighborhood of my little girl on the left and my tall boy on the right could not have been long in doubt.

They were cattle raisers; they were experienced stock hands; at fourteen and seventeen. They leaned across me to discuss food and weight, and what steers lost in railway handling, and where they were going to get their calves or lambs or hogs to raise as possible prize-winners next year. The girl—she weighed perhaps a hundred pounds, and was as pretty as a Shasta daisy—on that same afternoon had led a thousand-pound steer into the ring, a magnificent prize-winning animal she had raised from a feeble little calf. The boy had reared the finest animal in all the show; a great Hereford whose horns had been hung with ribbons and whose mighty neck had been wreathed with roses. Bought for sixty dollars as a calf, groomed and fed and exercised by his owner, taken hot food on cold winter nights and guided to shady creek-side meadows in the hot Yolo Valley summer, this tremendous brute had become as gentle as a kitten, and followed his owner into the prize ring without a halter—a halter, by the way, these infants professionally allude as a "huckamore."

And who are they and what do they do and what is it all about? Well, these were questions I had to ask myself on the occasion of my being their guest, and the answers are fresh in my mind. They are all members—indeed, they are only the delegates that represent unseen hundreds of members of an organization that calls itself "The Future Farmers of America." They have an emblem, a creed, a constitution; their purpose is the study of agriculture. Affiliated with it, or a part of it in this part of the world at least, is a society called the "Four H Club." The four branches of it are health, head, hand and heart, and these more than six hundred children certainly brought glowing, brown-checked, bright-eyed health to this dinner, and brought their hands, heads and hearts as well.

Each of them had in some manner procured a young animal about a year, or ten months ago; a calf, a lamb, a suckling pig. Each had then assumed the responsibility of raising this animal for the meat market. Sometimes it was on Dad's stock farm; sometimes on a ranch given over entirely to fruit or wheat, sometimes on a three-acre place on the borders of a country town. Each studied government bulletins, wrote to authorities, watched carefully for symptoms of sickness, estimated carefully the values of weight, measurements, quality of coat and hoofs, the placement of flesh.

"There's where you want the weight," an eager girl of fifteen said to me, showing me a photograph of herself and her "pen" of three ribbon-winning yearling porkers. "I'm lucky with stock," a shy, red-headed boy admitted. "I was offered a job tonight by Burgenmaster!" he added proudly. Burgenmaster's the biggest stock man up our way and he says he'll pay me a hundred a month to run his sheep business."

Two of the prize entries were made by orphan boys whose only home is the Salvation Army Shelter. This place is up in a particularly beautiful California valley, and I am shortly going to accept an invitation to visit it, because it sounds like a real home. Indeed, in many a home with a real mother and father, in it these freckled, proud little stock-raisers wouldn't have found the freedom, the fresh air, the responsibility, the delight in having and raising their own fine farmyard animals. So score one more credit up for the wonderful old Army, that keeps its feet so close to the good sound earth even while walking with its straw-bonneted heads in Heaven.

We have a good many magnificent movements for child-saving and child-development in America; we have more of this sort of thing than has any other nation in the world. Our children are our wealth, and we know it, and from top-nick and scraped carrots, all the long way through struggles with tonsils, adenoids, teeth-straightening, posture, skin, hair we do our best for them. They have plunges and gyms and sport fields at school, they have folk dancing to hammer them up, harmonics and dramatics and drawing classes; they have clinics and libraries, Scout and Campfire clubs, outings and swims and picnics—unnumerable. Parents and teachers lie awake at night planning fresh advantages for the children.

But this junior livestock exhibition association is new to me. I wish it had been in existence when the many boys I have raised were small. For, while the boy thinks he is raising a steer, the steer is really raising the boy. The little animal, dependent upon the child for care and food, grows strong and straight; but the boy gains the more important lesson of kindness, learns to accept responsibility, learns to remember feeding hours and stable regulations. In short, at an age when most children are unthinkingly taking everything and giving nothing to the world in return, these youngsters have already enrolled themselves among the producers of the great agricultural country that is farming America. With dignity, with enthusiasm, with intelligence and with real ideals of service this young army is growing in our midst—it has 85,000 members now, and branches in forty-seven states, beside Hawaii and Porto Rico. Which state isn't in, by the way?

And in these days when we hear so much half-baked un-American doctrine, when infants in High School babble admiringly of Russia and girls in their teens murmur that India and China, as older civilizations, have the real secret of philosophy—it is as refreshing as a breeze right off the Rockies to meet these sun-burned, absorbed, loyal sons and daughters.

Stock raising has its tragedies, for these animals are raised for beef, for mutton, for pork, and they no sooner reach a point of perfection than they are killed. A one-ton steer, a two-hundred pound hog, will never make ideal house-hold pets. Yet naturally the owners do make them pets, and even prizes, and cheers don't immediately cure the heartache these owners feel when the big brutes are led trustfully away to the slaughter. Local butchers bid for the prime meat; the thousand-pound yearling steer brought his owner $750.

But the tall boy was very serious, as he accepted prizes, blue ribbons, silver cups. "They could have 'em all back again," he muttered to a fellow-farmer of seventeen; "it'd put Buckle back in his shed to night! I keep feeling as if I'd thrown him down."

However, by this time all the young stock-raisers are probably over the pangs of parting, and busily at work on new lambs, new hogs, new calves again. And my advice to all mothers of restless farm and small-town boys is to get them into this movement. No boy in the world would be hurt by adopting the slogan of the Future Farmers of America:

"Learning to do,
Doing to learn,
Earning to live,
Living to serve."

Two of the prize entries were made by orphan boys whose only

"IF YOU was a printer an' stood on your dogs all day," said Jimmy Quin disgustedly, with a frown upon his brow, "you wouldn't care nothin' about golf neither."

"Jeanne Pinet swung the shiny driver in a graceful arc, grazing the carpet and then the chandelier overhead. "Oscar says my follow through is bad," said Jeanne, twisted as a pretzel, with the driver hovering around the chandelier. Slowly she unwound, teetered back and forth with feet apart, shuffled, shifted, hesitated then gazed out of the bay window to an imaginary fairway which in reality blurred into a cinder alley."

Jimmy said: "You remind me of an old hen scratchin' in the weeds. Do you have to wiggle, an' what're you lookin' at?"

"The other settled back on her heels and gave him a disdainful stare. "You wouldn't understand," she said. "You couldn't expect a dumb printer to understand such things!" She propped herself against the club with a casual air. "Golf does something to you. It gives you a sense of elation to watch the ball sail for miles an' miles down the fairway. Why, Oscar can—"

Jimmy interrupted with disgust in his voice. "Oscar can drive two hundred an' fifty yards without battin' an eye. That's all I've heard since you took up the game. Oscar can do this—an' that: 'Anyhow he gets in my hair. Bein' we're engaged you might just forget to mention that guy!'"

Obedience

PERHAPS there is no mental quality more necessary to the happiness, health, prosperity, peace of mind, and success of the human race than obedience. Harmony is the proof of obedience to God's law, while discord is the result of disobedience to His law. The happiest homes are those wherein the golden rule is obeyed, where the children are taught to be obedient through love, and where the elders set an example of obedience to divine principles, God, good.

A little child who has been rightly taught to obey God, will obey his parents and his school teachers, and will have little trouble later in life in observing the rules or regulations of his college or university. This habit of obedience will be of inestimable value to him in his business career, and he will seldom be found disregarding the traffic laws or the civil laws of his city, state, or country.

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy writes (p. 183): "Divine Mind rightly demands man's entire obedience, affection, and strength. No reservation is made for the lesser loyalty. Obedience to Truth gives man power and strength." If we observe closely, we shall find that the great and good characters in history, and all who have achieved true success, have been obedient to their highest sense of good, and have prospered; for, as the Bible declares (Isaiah 1:19), "If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land."

Humility and obedience go hand in hand. The latter often serves as a protection from subtle evils. An example of this is shown in the following incident. A little girl who from the cradle had been taught, through love, to obey her parents instantly, was romping with a dog in a field through which ran the main line of one of the transcontinental railroads. The father who was on the opposite side of the track, called to her to come to him, which she started to do. Just as she was reaching the track, he suddenly discovered the fast approaching limited, which was hidden from her view by a building. There was no time for words, so he raised his right hand in a gesture to stop, which she obeyed instantly, without knowing the reason for the signal. The child's obedience saved her from being struck by the train. Her father was so witness the incident, gave thanks to the Father of us all for His law of love.

The Scriptures are rich in promises of blessings to those obedient to the voice of God. Jeremiah records God as saying (7:23), "This thing commanded I them, saying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people, and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you."

Habit tends to govern our acts. If we have formed habits of obedience to God's laws they lead us aright, while lawlessness leads to trouble. In Miscellaneous Writings, Mrs. Eddy tells (p. 115): "God is the fountain of light, and it illumines one's way when one is obedient."

Christ Jesus, our Way-shower, has set us an infallible example in his unswerving obedience to the Father's laws, and his positive refusal to accept as law that which enslaves men, namely, sin, sickness, and death. His obedience to God's law was also manifested in obedience to civil law, as, for instance, when he paid the tax or tribute money found in the fish's mouth. Realizing the need of being both humanly and spiritually law-abiding, he said (Mark 12:17), "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

It is vastly important for us to know what are the laws to which we are yielding obedience, for as Paul says, "Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?" The children of Israel were commanded to partake of the manna which fell daily for their use, but when in disobedience they tried to store some. It spoiled. Many lessons are given to us in the Scriptures of the results of God's protection of the obedient, and also of the dire results which befall the disobedient. In "No and Yes" (p. 39) Mrs. Eddy writes, "God's law is in three words, 'I am All'; and this perfect law is ever present to rebuke any claim of another law."—The Christian Science Monitor.
