Ladies' Aid Society Honored at Banquet

The annual Mother and Daughter banquet of St. Paul's church was held Saturday evening at the high school gymnasium, with covers for about 200. In celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of its organization, members of the Ladies' Aid Society were honored guests and were seated at a table banded with gold and lighted with gold candles, lavender hydrangeas forming the centerpiece. Bright gold nut cups marked the places for the members. The other tables, similar in decoration, were centered with yellow forsythia. The Women's Union served the banquet, as a courtesy to the Ladies' Aid.

Mrs. Dora Kayser presided at the piano while the guests were being seated and prayer was offered by Rev. P. H. Grabowski. Mrs. Otto Lucht led in the singing of Mother and Daughter songs with Miss Olea Seits at the piano.

Following the banquet, Mrs. E. E. Adam, program chairman, introduced Miss Lillie Wackenhut, who presided as toastmistress. Mrs. Paul F. Niehaus opened the program with a solo, "Mother of My Heart", with Miss Seits as accompanist, after which Mrs. Wilbert Breitenwischer gave a toast to the Mothers, and Mrs. Fred Seits a toast to the Daughters.

Mrs. Herbert Paul, in behalf of the Women's Union, paid tribute to the Ladies' Aid and presented them with a beautiful basket of yellow roses. The gift was accepted by Mrs. John Oesterle, president of the Aid, who expressed the Union for their expression of good will and best wishes for the future.

With Mrs. Kayser at the piano, the Ladies' Aid then staged "A Half Century of Progress", the first part representing a meeting of the organization on May 11, 1887, with Rev. Grabowski taking the part of Rev. G. Robertus, at whose home the society was organized. Mrs. Walter Mohrlock representing Mrs. George Mast, the first president; Mrs. Gurney Hopper as Mrs. Michael Lehman, the first treasurer; and Mrs. Russell Holderman as Mrs. George Wackenhut, the first secretary. The other eight charter members were impersonated by Mesdames Wm. Bahmiller, A. Widmayer, E. M. Elsemann, Fred Seitz, A. Nicolai, C. Schneider, T. Vail and Cora Schmidt. All were dressed in costumes of the 80's.

With the minister at the old organ that was used 50 years ago, the Ladies' Aid sang their favorite song, "Jesu geh voran." The second part represented a Ladies' Aid meeting of today and the following program was rendered:

Opening hymn—Jesu geh voran.

Scripture and prayer—Mrs. Lewis Eppler.

Duet—Mother's Tribute—Mrs. J. Strieter, Mrs. W. Kusterer.

Mother's Day readings—Mesdames John Oesterle, William Schatz, Adolph Duerr, Philip Seitz, August Hisinger and M. Weinmann.

Memorial tribute to departed members of the Ladies' Aid—Mrs. Alvin Vail, Mrs. Kusterer, Mrs. Strieter, Mrs. O. Schneider and Mrs. Oesterle.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wackenhut was presented with an honorary life membership, for having belonged continuously for nearly fifty years.

Mrs. Widmayer, the second in point of continuous membership, was presented with a plant.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Adolph Eisen of Detroit, advised the daughters of today to follow in the footsteps of the mothers and grandmothers, who were such fine examples of Christian homemakers and loyal church workers.

Plants were presented Mrs. E. Wackenhut as the oldest mother at the banquet and to Mrs. Fred Youngs, the youngest mother. Mrs. A. Faist, Mrs. J. Hinderer and Mrs. W. Bahmiller each had three daughters present, but the plant by mutual consent was given to Mrs. Hinderer, the oldest mother.

Singing of "Stand Up, Stand Up for Mothers" closed the program.

500 ATTEND COOKING SCHOOL

About 500 women from Chelsea and vicinity were in attendance at the cooking school held by the Washtenaw Gas Co. on Wednesday and Thursday of last week at the public school auditorium. Very interesting sessions were reported by those who attended. Mrs. Geo. Hafner was awarded the grand prize, a modern Roger gas range, on Thursday. Many other prizes were awarded, through the cooperation of several Chelsea merchants and the Washtenaw Gas Co.

EDWIN GAUNT

Edwin, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin I. Gaunt, died Sunday night, May 9 at Florence Crittenden hospital, Detroit, after three days' illness of pneumonia.

He was born June 1, 1924 in Detroit, and is survived by his parents and a younger brother, James.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the residence, with Rev. Fred D. Mumby officiating. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Payments Being Made for Upkeep of Roads

Landing—Michigan counties this week were vouchered $2,000,000 for the maintenance of former township roads.

The payment represented the first half of a $4,000,000 annual return to the counties under the McNitt law abolishing the old township road system. More than 62,000 miles of roads, which formerly made up that system, have been taken over by the counties since the enactment of the McNitt statute of 1931.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, announced that the current payment increases the total returns to the counties from highway revenues to $13,878,445 to date this year.

Previous returns to the counties were made up of $1,275,000 from gasoline tax revenues and a $10,598,445 first-quarter payment from the weight tax revenues.

In addition to the McNitt law payment of $4,000,000 a year from the gas tax, the counties receive all of the weight tax collections, and an additional $2,550,000 from the gasoline levy. The latter was voted by the legislature in 1934 when it reduced the weight tax 35 per cent.

Washtenaw county will receive $33,453.71 of the current payment to counties.

Oyster Does Not Rove; Gets Its Food From Sea

Oysters of some kind grow nearly all over the world in wide variety, but nowhere are they so big and satisfactory as along the northern part of our eastern coast. All these belong to one and the same species, which has among other distinguished features the combination of both sexes in one individual, whereas the European edible species is separately male and female.

In the spring, according to a writer in the Montreal Herald, depending upon the local favorable temperature of the water, there flows from each adult oyster the mingled microscopic spawn in uncounted abundance. The fertilized egg hits against something to which it can cling, and resting there develops into an embryonic form, rapidly matures, and secretes a tiny shell from which spreads the double (bivalved) shell that protects its front and back. In favorable circumstances, this is fairly or typically rounded, but often takes an irregular or even straplike shape. This may take four or five years.

The oyster does not rove, clam-fashion, when in search of food or fun, nor does it skip on a sandy sea-floor as is the light-hearted way of the scallop throughout its frivolous career. On the contrary it stays at home and lets the sea take care of it. This the ocean does by incessantly pouring into its mouth between the narrowly parted shells water loaded with the minute vegetable and animal particles that throng in the surface-layer of the sea, and which constitute this mollusk's sole food.

Washington Irving, Publisher
The Salmagundi was the name of a periodical started by Washington Irving, his brother, and James K. Paulding in 1807. The object of the paper was to correct the town. The publishers became tired of their venture before the subscribers did and only 24 numbers were issued.

Michigan Mirror

By Gene Allen

Michigan Press Association

Lansing — In session now four months, Michigan's legislature faces a heavy program of incomplete business that has prompted a decision by Gov. Frank Murphy, Speaker George A. Schroeder and Lieut. Gov. Nowicki, presiding officer of the senate, to keep legislators on the grind from six to eight more weeks.

The civil service bill, already passed by the senate, was sidetracked in the house by a rebellion among democrats over a dearth of political plums. Patronage "paw" is sought by leaders to sweeten up hostile legislators, many of whom feel that the governor has "neglected" them in preference to the more pleasant duties of speech-making in New York, Washington and elsewhere.

At a party caucus held in the Tally-Ho club, Governor Murphy renewed his insistent demands for enactment of a civil service law. He conceded to house requests that present state employees be given preferential consideration.

Also on the administration legislative program are the following:

Labor relations measure giving the governor powers of a strike dictator. Organized labor is critical of the responsibilities, not found in the federal Wagner act for interstate commerce, which the Murphy bill would impose on employees in intrastate commerce, and strong pressure is being applied to have the bill amended in the house this week when the bill is due to be reported on general orders.

Minimum wage legislation for women and minors. House bill 66 by Rep. Charles Snow Jr. of Jackson, which has passed the house, calls for a 48-hour, six-day week with hour exemption for canning factories and women executives who receive $30 or more a week and with modifications for Christmas and Easter trade seasons. Senator Roosevelt's minimum wage bill, setting up wage boards for each occupation, was favored by both employers and employees at a public hearing.

Occupational disease legislation. Already passed by the senate and house. Teachers' tenure bill.

Hospital building bill to provide needed facilities for insane and mental defectives.

A New Yorker, coming to Lansing on business last week, heard this "gossip" in legislative corridors at the capitol:

Governor Frank Murphy is slated for a cabinet position at Washington, D. C., probably as secretary of labor. An appointment as supreme court justice is also possible. As soon as the social legislation program is enacted by the legislature, Murphy's appointment will be made by the President.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, would be Murphy's choice as a successor, and Lieut. Governor Nowicki, an engineer, would go to the highway department berth.

Purely as gossip, all this is good fuel for the hot stove political league on cool May evenings.

Charges of extravagance and waste in spending of public relief money were made in the house recently by Rep. Elton Eaton, newspaper publisher at Plymouth, following months of careful investigation in gathering evidence. Eaton centered criticism on Dr. William Haber, director of the SERRA, and on Fred E. Levi, $500-a-month director of the Welfare and Relief Study Commission which completed its work last December. Levi has been drawing his monthly check since that time.

While Rep. Vernon Brown of Mason introduced a bill to repeal the 1933 emergency act creating the SERRA, house democrats joined in condemnation of relief spending. Rep. Clyde Stout of Ionia favored return of welfare responsibilities to the counties. Rep. Charles Sundrom of Michigan charged relief inefficiency in the upper peninsula, declaring he had even seen a banker taking home a relief ham.

The governor, praising Dr. Haber, said that the welfare director has asked to be relieved January 1 but had been persuaded to stay on the job.

American Sapphires
While the precious sapphires are found in many sections of the West, only in one place, which consists of a series of gulches along the banks of Rock creek, in Montana, are they found where they are washed in paying quantities. Most of the stones are clear and colorless, and when seen in a heap they appear as very light green. Sometimes blue stones are found, and occasionally a yellow, pink or red one appears. The largest and best stones are sent to the jewelry markets to compete with sapphires imported from Burma.

Island of Tobago
The island of Tobago is probably the least known of all the West Indian islands. It has almost disappeared off the northeast corner of Trinidad. It is the only place in the world where birds of paradise can be seen in their wild state outside New Guinea. They live on a small island called Little Tobago, or Sargam Island, which is their sanctuary, and some birds are known to have been provided for them.

Chemurgic; Chemurgy Meaning
The word Chemurgic was coined recently, and means "of or pertaining to chemurgy," and the latter is "the science and art of preparing chemicals by natural means, as by use of air, sunlight, and moisture supply; hence, the preparation of chemicals from agricultural products."—Literary Digest.

Lock Stitch on Machine
The machine needle, with an eye near the point, and the lock stitch appeared about the middle of the Nineteenth century. Such a needle combined with the lock stitch in a machine was patented in 1846 by Elias Howe of Massachusetts. The needle moved back and forth horizontally instead of vertically, as in our modern machines.

What is the "Low-price Field"?

YOU hear a lot about "the low-price field" these days. A good many cars claim to be in it. So whenever the low-price field is mentioned, remember:

Until Ford came, no average American could own a car.

Today all Ford prices are still low—with the prices of the 60-horsepower Ford V-8 $520 to $60 lower than those of any other car of comparable size.

But with Ford, "low price" doesn't merely mean low figures on the price tag. It means much more than that. It means low prices and low costs all the car's long life. Low prices for service—for parts—and, above all, for operation.

Both Ford V-8 engine sizes are economical to operate. The 85 horsepower gives greater gasoline mileage this year than ever, and the "60" delivers the highest mileage in Ford history.

Private owners, cab companies, fleet operators all report that the "60" averages from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Check and see how much Ford saves you.

Band Goes to Belleville

Last Tuesday, May 4 the Chelsea band went to Belleville to play together with bands from Dundee, Michigan, University High of Ann Arbor, and Belleville.

Leaving Chelsea at 11:30 we arrived in Belleville in time for a one o'clock rehearsal with the other bands.

At 4:00, Mr. Revell, of Ann Arbor, came and directed some numbers.

At 5:30 the bands marched downtown and back again. After that we were served a chicken supper and then had a free period until the concert for the public at 8:00.

The concert lasted until about 9:30 and then everyone went home.

It was a very successful program and we are going to meet next year at Dundee.

See Tigers Play

On Wednesday, May 5 the Chelsea team toured to Detroit to see the Tigers and Yankees engage themselves in a great battle.

The game was enjoyed by all, and the Chelsea team showed that Tiger spirit in their game Friday.

Romans Dine

The Latin club members met on Monday night at 8:00 and, donning togas and wreaths, sauntered to a typical Roman dining room. The tables were arranged in a U shape and a small altar stood at the open end. Places were marked with small scrolls—menus rolled up.

Dining guests were bid to enter "extro peil"—with the right foot.

first to insure good omens. The omens were tested. Everyone had a delightful, typically Roman evening.

Case Sites Gain In Drunk Driving

The number of operators of motor vehicles in Michigan who are being snared annually by the provisions of the state's financial responsibility act has shown a steady increase, since the law became effective October 17, 1933, inspection of Department of State records discloses.

Leon D. Case, Secretary of State points out, however, that while increases in motor vehicle registration are a factor, other considerations enter. In the first place, although the law was drafted to bring to book those who cause damage for which they cannot or will not pay, more than 91 percent of the total persons involved by the act have been convicted of drunk driving, rather than because of unsatisfied judgments arising out of automobile accidents.

Inability to meet damage judgments arising out of crashes constitutes one of the smallest number of causes for ruling drivers off the state's highways, there having been only 247 such instances out of a total of 10,328 from October 17, 1933 to April 29, 1937. The number of operators deprived of the privilege of driving during the same period for drunk driving is 9,872. For the first three months of 1936, a total of 887 drunk drivers were ruled off the road, but for the same period of the current year, drunk drivers trapped by the act totalled 1088, an increase of nearly 23 percent.

Motor vehicle operators are brought under the act for a variety of reasons, most of which were originally regarded as not likely to involve many drivers.

Forty times as many drivers are barred from the highways because of drunk driving than because of failure to pay for damage they cause; a summary of the records discloses.

Origin of Word "Caddy"

The word "caddy" is derived, says the American Art association, from the Malay word "kati" and the Chinese "katty" which were used in the Orient to designate packages of tea in the days of the East India company.

SALVAGE

Millenbach Brothers Company, well established in the State of Michigan for over sixty years, is the original company to pay for dead stock, pioneering this move in January, 1936. Prior to this time, the disposal of dead stock either necessitated the farmer calling a rendering company and paying for the removal of the animal, or burying the animal in a field. This method was later on modified inasmuch as the rendering companies no longer charged for picking up animals, but stressed the point of free service, and consequently less animals were buried.

In January, 1936, Millenbach Bros. Company which had up to this time concentrated its efforts on butcher shop trade, decided to go into the dead animal business. In doing so, they also decided that the farmer was entitled to a salvage value, according to markets, and accordingly offered the farmers $5.00 for horses; $3.00 for cows and other animals proportionally. Since that time, there have been price changes up and down due to market fluctuations on hides, tallow, etc., but at all times they have paid the farmers the highest possible salvage. To prove this point, it is interesting to know Millenbach Bros. Company has paid Michigan farmers over $40,000.00 during the year 1936 for dead and disabled animals.

So when you are in need of this type of service, be sure to call Jackson 2-2177 collect, and receive not only prompt service, but the highest market prices.

Case Moves to End Evasion of Gas Tax

Instances of suspected collusion between retailers and consumers of gasoline for the evasion of the state's gasoline tax have caused Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, to warn against certain practices in the submission of tax refund claims to the Department of State.

The gasoline tax law provides that users of gasoline for other than highway purposes are entitled to gas tax refunds, on written applications by the users themselves, after the fuel has been consumed. Applications must be accompanied by copies of invoices; refunds, when allowed, are sent directly to the retailers for distribution to the consumers entitled to them.

For some time the Department has been receiving refund claims which investigation has shown were signed in blank by the consumer at the time of purchase, the remainder of the affidavit and the submission of the claim being handled directly by the retail dealer. In some cases, refund applications have been made on the date of purchase.

All such claims will be denied entirely, Case has ordered. All claims must be made by the purchaser personally, or under his direction and observation, and then only after the fuel has actually been used, the state law specifically provides, it is pointed out. Retailers are especially warned by gas tax collection officials against securing consumers' signatures in blank on refund applications.

You can't hurt it—it's built rugged and stout as Buick always has been—but still we say, handle with care! For so instant-quick is its lift to your toe-touch, so quietly easy will it outwing the birds, that you never have to force it to make your distance safely with time to spare.

This year say Buick—and whatever you say on the open road will go with the whole parade. Its purchase is as easily managed as its feather-light controls—for today Buick is priced at the lowest figure in history.

Public Telephones— for your convenience

The telephone has a public importance all its own, for nothing else can take its place. That fact puts a special obligation on this Company to see that, so far as possible, telephone service in Michigan is available to anyone, at any time. That accounts for the public telephone. The public telephone serves the traveling public. It serves those who want to place calls when away from home or office. It serves those who have no telephone of their own.

Throughout Michigan... in city, town and country... this Company maintains 19,777 public telephones. They are an important factor in providing telephone service for all.

FARMERS' UNION NEWS

The directors of Sylvan and Lima Locals, 254, met Monday evening at the home of Alfred Lindauer. Due to the continued illness of President Joe Merkel the meeting was called to order by the Vice-Pres., N. C. Peterson. After the usual business procedure was conducted, Herbert Harvey, secretary, read an interesting letter received by N. C. Peterson from Cyril Tuff of Maunabo, Ill., who received some clothing donated to the flood area through the Local last February. The Local is also trying to get better mail service for the rural patrons as since the consolidation of the three routes into two, effective March 16, 1936, the carriers leave the post office in the morning before the morning mail trains arrive, whereby all first class mail and parcel post mail coming on those trains remains in the post office until the next day before it is delivered on the routes.

The State Union has notified all Locals within the State to have a delegation present at the State Capitol on Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock, May 12, at which time a public hearing is to be held on the Milk Control Bill which the State Union is opposing. Several members of the Sylvan and Lima Locals are planning to attend.

The next directors' meeting will be held Monday evening, May 24 at the home of N. C. Peterson.

Source of Rich Black Loam

Rich black loam owes its color to the decaying remains of past generations of vegetation. Such soils are thoroughly permeated with carbon dioxide, and huge amounts of this gas are imperceptibly but steadily seeping from it into the atmosphere. It is not certain whether this decay is due to bacteria, natural ferments, or the direct action of atmospheric oxygen.

They had no acquaintances here and were not considering the entrance of any relative or friend, but because they had read so much about the Home in the Michigan Christian Advocate they had become interested and wanted to see just what it was like. They expressed themselves as greatly pleased and said they hoped to come again. Mr. Jones teaches botany in the University of Michigan and told us the botanical names of some of our rarer flowering plants.

Succulent Sausage Once

Banned as Devil's Agent

In the early days of the Christian church, sausage, because of its popularity at feasts and revels, was banned for a time as an instrument of the devil.

But it was too popular to be banished for long. It is a matter of history that the decree was repealed; and, in the meantime, there must have been non-conformists who were only too ready to slip a slice of sausage inside their boots and step out to make a little extra-leg money, states a writer in the Chicago American.

But sausage had been a food when the town by the Tiber was only a little mud village; or even earlier, Helen of Troy, whose beauty "launched a thousand ships and burned the topless towers of Ilium," probably enjoyed many a dainty bite of sausage.

And Ulysses' wanderers must have found strength in it for the long days spent with their oars. For no less an authority than Homer tells us that sausage was a food of the ancient Greeks.

But it was in the Middle Ages when the guild craftsmen reached their power, that sausage making became an art. How patiently the old Italian butchers must have worked to perfect the blending of meat, wine and strong spices that made the sausage of that romantic land so famous. Here was a beginning of artistry in food, to rival the growth of the other arts.

In Germany, where winters were colder, elaborate preparations for preserving sausage were not necessary.

Largest Dinosaurian Reptile

An Atlantosaurus is the largest dinosaurian reptile of which any remains have been preserved. The femur is more than 8 feet in length. The size of the bone indicates a length for the animal of nearly 100 feet and a height of 30 feet. The remains were obtained in the Jurassic strata of Colorado.

Knocking Wood, Breaking

Mirror, Ancient Beliefs

Knocking on wood is said to be a survival from the old pagan or druidic religions of England and other parts of northern Europe, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. It is an invocation of the protection of the gods, similar to the later practice of crossing the fingers or making the sign of the cross to ward off evil.

The tradition of seven years of bad luck to follow the breaking of a mirror is simply an emphasis of the great value they represented in earlier times. Once as costly as jewels, the destruction of them was not a thing to be taken lightly.

The several superstitions about bad luck and black cats arise from the medieval notion that Satan's favorite guise on earth was that of a black cat. That idea, in turn, probably owes its origin simply to the eerie eyes and generally sinister appearance of such cats.

The number thirteen is sometimes said to owe its unlucky reputation to the thirteen at the Last Supper, but there are pagan ideas about it long antedating Christianity. The spilling of salt was held unlucky even by the early Romans, and here again, as in the case of the broken mirror, it may have been originally due to the value of the article, which until comparatively modern times was always a somewhat expensive necessity.

"America" in Tapestry

The European early eighteenth century conception of that wilderness known vaguely as "America" is illustrated in a tapestry made in Brussels in 1720.

Oh, little man with big, blue eyes
That now are filled with tears,
I wish that you could realize,
Despite your tender years,
That Daddy does not like to cause
Your carefree heart such pain—
And yet, he must enforce those laws
That govern and restrain.

I wish there were some other way
For little boys to live—
That you might go about your play
And never need to give
Consideration to the rights
Of others; I'd be glad
If your instinctive appetites
Could rule, instead of Dad.

But wisdom says that boys must grow
To be so kind and good
That folks will all be glad to know
They're in the neighborhood;
So, that's why Daddy wants to see
His precious little kid
A better citizen than he,
Himself has ever been!

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Has Congress always convened in Washington?
Ans.—No. Congress has convened in Washington continuously since the year A. D. 1800. It convened for the first time under the present Constitution in New York City in 1789. It moved to Philadelphia in 1790, where it remained for ten years. The Continental Congress under the Articles of Confederation (1774 to 1789) shifted about to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, Princeton, Trenton, Lancaster, Lancaster (Pa.) and York (Pa.).

Ques.—I would like to ask you if left-handed soldiers in the army were allowed to handle and shoot with their rifles accordingly?
Ans.—All movements in the army must be uniform. All left-handed soldiers are taught by means of the various drills to handle their weapons right-handed as well as left-handed.

Ques.—Can you tell me when women become of age in the United States?
Ans.—Under the Federal law a woman attains her majority at the age of 21 years. However, the individual State fixes its own age limit for women. About one-third of the States have established 18 as the voting age of women. The other two-thirds are agreed on 21.

Ques.—When the heads of people are the same size does it mean that they have the same amount of brains?
Ans.—Not necessarily. The brain varies one-seventh in heads of the same size externally.

Ques.—Will you please answer that Limerick lace is? And why is it called "Limerick"?
Ans.—Limerick lace is a kind of embroidery made in Ireland, consisting of tambour work in chain stitch on a net foundation. It is called "Limerick" because it was first made in Limerick, Ireland.

Ques.—What is a "muckna"? I don't find anybody that knows, so do I ask in your good paper.
Ans.—Muckna is a male elephant's head tusks or, with only rudimentary tusks. The species is native to India and the name is taken from the Hindi "makna".

Ques.—What does "U. S." stand for? President Grant's name? Al- what was his wife's maiden name?
Ans.—"U. S." are the initials of Grant's given names, Ulysses Simpson. His wife's maiden name was Julia Dent, a daughter of a St. Louis (Mo.) merchant.

Ques.—I was born on Sept. 1, 1877. What day of the week was that?
Ans.—Sept. 1, 1877, was on Saturday.

Ques.—Why is a certain kind of beverage called "Budweiser"?
Ans.—"Budweiser" was so named because the formula for making it originated from Budweis, Bohemia.

Ques.—Why are Free Methodists called "free"?
Ans.—Free Methodists is a sect which is the outgrowth of the Methodist Episcopal church. They agree on points of doctrine, but do not recognize the office of bishop. Instead, they have an elective superintendent who serves four years. They approve and practice freedom of prayer and testimonial meetings, and the seats in the church are free. Thus they are known as Free Methodists.

Ques.—When a person says that a certain action is not ethical what does he mean?
Ans.—Ethics is the science which relates to human duty and social behavior. It investigates the nature and the right of conduct, actions and aims, embracing the supreme good and the ultimate ground of obligation. If one violates these unwritten laws it is termed unethical.

Ques.—Why are eggplants so named when they have no connection with eggs?

Home of England's Kings
Only 21 miles from London stands the royal borough of Windsor with its historic and architectural treasures.

Any automobile driver who will take his car out knowing that the brakes are not in the best of condition, ought not to be privileged to drive an automobile.

The ability to stop when it is absolutely necessary is very important. Can you stop? It is too late after the accident. It is, therefore, very necessary that this part of your automobile be given regular and periodic inspections.

It is better to spend money for checking up brakes and having them adjusted than to have years of regret because of an automobile accident that you know full well could have been avoided had your brakes been in proper working condition.

After the accident has happened, many people know what should have been done or could have been done to have eliminated that accident, but how many think of these things while they are driving before the accident? Think!

Legends About Salt Are Traced to the Ancients

There are almost as many salt superstitions and legends as there are stories of bread, says the Montreal Herald.

It is a common thing to say that a person is not worth his salt and that it is bad luck to spill salt, but where did these ideas originate? In India people do gather the sea water and from it evaporate their own salt, and by their ability to prepare the salt their value as salt workers is determined. Our counterpart of this expression is "He isn't worth his keep."

The spilling superstition may have come to us from the Arabs or from the Hebrews, although they hold somewhat divergent views as to what causes the bad luck. In the Hebrew language, "salty" is synonymous with "barren," and in the ancient biblical times it was customary to spill salt over the site of a destroyed city because it would render the ground barren and the city, therefore, unfit for rebuilding. Consequently, the idea developed that to spill salt was bad and from that has come the modern superstition.

On the other hand, among the Far Eastern nations salt is recognized as an emblem of friendship, and so it is easy to understand how the spilling of salt would be construed as an unfriendly gesture and would lead to the superstition that such an accident would foretell a quarrel.

Fire, Air, Earth, Water, the Elements of Climate
Aristotle, one of the wisest men who ever lived, believed that matter was made up of four elements—fire, air, earth, and water. These four entities no longer are the exclusive components of matter. They are, however, the elements of climate, writes Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune.

By fire is meant the sun, of course. Without the sun the earth would have no climate or life. Everything, including the gases of the atmosphere, would be frozen into a lifeless, motionless, solid mass. The sun is continually giving off a tremendous amount of energy, of which the earth receives roughly two-billionths. Yet in spite of this dilution the amount of solar energy received when the sun is directly overhead amounts to about a dozen calories a minute for every square inch exposed. This rate of heating is sufficient to melt a one-inch layer of ice in less than two hours if completely absorbed.

If the earth were a one-sided disk perpendicular to the sun's rays every part of it always would be exposed to sunlight of this intensity. There would be no climatic differences, for everything would be heated to the same temperature, which would be somewhat above that of boiling water. The fact that the earth is almost spherical in shape tempers such heat. At any given instant the sun is directly overhead at only one spot on the globe, that closest to the sun, and half of the earth's surface is completely shielded from the direct effects of solar radiation.

Mystery Epidemic Often Wipes Out Arctic Dogs

One of the strange, unaccountable happenings of the North is the dog disease which sweeps across the entire Arctic and sub-Arctic every few years, wiping out hundreds of dogs. These epidemics leave natives and whites in a precarious position, for without dogs hunting and traveling in the Arctic are impossible. When the dog disease sweeps the Arctic the natives die in large numbers from starvation.

The causes of this strange malady are unknown, though research scientists have been working on it for some years, states a writer in Pearson's London Weekly. How the epidemic starts or where it comes from is a mystery. The first symptoms are always the same. First the animals have a heavy discharge from eyes and nostrils. This is followed after a few days by loss of appetite. Another few days brings paralysis of the hind quarters, and then death. In some cases the dog yelps for a day or two and furiously bites at its stomach as though it suffers pain or irritation there. Some dogs will snap at other dogs. In 90 per cent of the cases the sickness proves fatal, not even "sickroom" care bringing them through.

If this sickness comes while a traveler is on the trail his dogs will die before he can reach his destination, and he stands every chance of perishing from starvation.

Weather Signs

The sky is an excellent weather prophet, and seldom errs. This will be proved, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, if the following signs are watched closely:—A red eastern sky in the morning means rain and high wind to follow, but a red western sky in the morning is a sign of fine weather. An evening red sky in the east invariably means fine weather, but evening red in the west is usually followed by fog and frost. A ring around the moon is almost a sure sign of a storm, and a ring round a weak sun generally precedes a downfall of snow.

Making Parmesan Cheese

The actual making of Parmesan cheese is a short process but its curing long. After the cheese has been formed it is put in a brine bath for 15 days, next sweetened and then stored away for about eight months. At the end of this time it is painted with special vegetable oils, which give it a glossy black coating, and then stored with hundreds of others to complete its ripening. No Parmesan cheese is ready for the table in less than two years, and it may be safely aged up to four. Its special flavor is supposed to come from the grass.

The "Island of Gold"

For centuries the world has known there was gold in plenty in the mountains of New Guinea. De Saavedra, the Spanish navigator, found it there as early as 1528, and named the place the "Island of Gold." The Germans knew where the metal could be found and were trying to take it out of the ground in worthwhile quantities when the war began and they lost their colonies.

Flower Capital of World

Ghent, Belgium, where the world's first hothouse was built over 800 years ago, is called by its residents the flower capital of the world. Its suburbs have miles of hothouses, in which orchids, begonias, lilies and carnations are grown for all Europe, and in summer acres of other flowers are grown in the country surrounding it.

Meeting Daily Needs

EVERYONE has daily needs, and in many cases they are numerous. Thus, everywhere people are engaged in devising ways and means of meeting these needs.

Food, clothing, and shelter are generally considered to be the most important daily necessities. Throughout the ages, humanity has worked to cultivate the soil for crops, to weave material for clothing, to build houses for shelter and repose, and ships for transportation. These and other methods of supplying the needs of mankind are constantly being increased in scope. In their turn the world's busy workers receive payment with which to buy these necessities, so that the so-called law of demand and supply may be carried out.

But sometimes this so-called law does not seem to be working properly. On the one hand, there appears to be unemployment, stagnation of trade, poverty; and on the other, such a surplus of food that there is no longer any demand and little return for it. Then, too, a sudden decrease in value of stocks and shares, or rents from houses or lands, may bring a sense of insecurity and, even at times, lack to the one who has relied on a settled income for the supply with which to meet his needs. In this maelstrom of material things everyone needs to find a reliable source of supply, one which cannot possibly fail, because its basis is neither material nor limited.

In that most wonderful of all sermons, the Sermon on the Mount, our Way-shower, Christ Jesus, said (Matthew 6:24): "No man can serve two masters; clearly showing that we cannot put our reliance on matter and material methods and still avail ourselves of the true and enduring substance which does not fail. Illustrating the need for simple trust in God, he said (Matthew 6:26): "Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them." Evidently the Master discerned humanity's fear of limitation and the consequent anxious hording of material things. He continued, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

The kingdom of heaven, the reign of harmony for each one, is ever at hand, because our Father-Mother, God, the only source of real supply, is omnipotent and omnipresent. No longer, then, need anxiety or fear assail us regarding the necessity of meeting today's or tomorrow's needs. When we turn wholeheartedly to God, and desire His innermost oneness with Him, with all good, we can be certain that our need will be supplied. We shall begin to see that our real need is to know and demonstrate more and more of our God-given freedom, health, and happiness. Encouraging us along this pathway of right thinking, Mary Baker Eddy says in "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellaneous" (p. 185), "Rest assured that He in whom dwelleth all life, health, and holiness, will supply all your needs according to His riches in glory."

What unspeakable comfort, what a loosening of heavy burdens, for all those whose family, business, or career needs daily care! When one seeks first the constant supply of spiritual ideas, of wisdom, intelligence, loving-kindness, co-operation, and purity, through quiet, unselfed contemplation of the spiritual nature of man as the child of God, every right endeavor will be abundantly blessed for the benefit of all. To such one there is no insurmountable barrier of lack, unemployment, or stagnation; for he is proving the truth that each idea of divine Mind is ever engaged in true activity, where the enduring qualities of Mind are being joyously expressed.

Then thought on the side of good, of abundance, and not waste time thinking or talking of evil, since it has neither place nor opportunity for expression in God's harmonious plan for each of His children. No one is left out of the Father's loving care. With joy and gratitude we can prove the truth of Mrs. Eddy's tender words on page 187 of "Miscellaneous Writings": "God gives you His spiritual ideas, and return, they give you daily supplies. Never ask for to-morrow! It is enough that divine Love is an ever-present help; and if you wait, never doubting, you will have all you need every moment."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Turtle Market, Ancient Industry in New Orleans

Probably one of the most curious sights in New Orleans, La., is the turtle shops in the Old French market, notes a New Orleans United Press correspondent in the Chicago Daily News.

Every night, approximately 1,000 pounds of snapping turtles are thrown upon the chopping block to be cut and sold for making stew or soup. This scene has been going on since the market was established nearly 100 years ago.

The turtles of two distinct varieties, the Cowan and the Loggerhead, are caught in fresh water marshes north of Baton Rouge.

Fishermen patiently wade through marshes and wherever they see bubbles coming to the surface, they probe with long rods until they hook the struggling turtle. Some of them weigh as much as 300 pounds. Then begins the job of pulling them out of their holes of the mud where they have burrowed.

Once they are caught, most of the turtles are penned, frequently on shallow barges filled with water and mud. In this way they are kept alive until they can be delivered to the market in the winter, when prices are nearly double what they are in summer.

It is just a short journey for the turtle from life in the swamps to the stew pots of New Orleans.

Tall Tales

As told to FRANK E. HAGAN and SCOTT WATSON

Sagacious Serpent
"YES," said Madam Zulawa, the snake-charmer with the old Robeson circus. "Blindly was by far the most intelligent and most versatile serpent I ever had. He was a blacksnake—six feet of patience, pliability and perspicacity. I could call out any number and instantly he'd arrange himself in the form of that figure. His figure-eight was a model of rounded symmetry. But all of this was before one horrible night."

Madame Zulawa covered her eyes as though to shut out some terrible sight. There was a tremor in her voice as she went bravely on.

"Our circus train was crossing the high Sierras. Just as it was approaching the summit, Elmer slid out of his cage and started back over the tops of the cars. He was coming back to lay car for his cup of warm coconut milk to help him get to sleep."

"Just as he stretched over the gap between two cars, there was the sound of iron snapping. The coupling between the two cars had broken under the strain of pulling the heavy cars up that steep grade. In another moment the rear half of the train would be speeding down the incline, gathering momentum until it jumped the rails at the first curve."

"Elmer knew that everything depended upon him. Quick as a flash he sank his teeth in the wooden top of the car ahead. At the same moment he wrapped his tail around an iron rail on the car behind. The strain on him was fearful, but he hung on, grimly."

"Well, there isn't much more to tell. The whole train passed safely over the summit. But Elmer's days as a performing blacksnake were over. He to the Cincinnati zoo today and you'll find him there in a cage labeled 'The Only Black Python in captivity'—42 feet, 6 1/2 inches long."

Irregular Spelling
Centuries ago countless books, manuscripts and personal letters, owing to irregular spelling, almost required an expert to decipher them, states a writer in Collier's Weekly. Sometimes a single word would be spelled differently several times on a single page. Even families could not agree on their names. From recorded documents, it has been found that the members of one famous family spelled their surnames in 131 different ways.

The American Trotter
The American Trotter is also called the STANDARDBRED because its foundation was laid in a standard of performance. Its ability to trot a mile in 2:30 or to pace a mile in 2:25, says Hoard's Dairyman. Any color is permissible, with bays and browns the most popular. It is a descendant of the English thoroughbred. A century of selection lowered the race record for the mile from three minutes to 1:55 as in the case of Dan Patch.

The Oboe
The oboe is a conical section of wood, usually ebony, pierced with holes and fitted with a system of keys. It is played with a double reed. Breath control is important in playing the oboe in order to produce an even, sustained tone. It is capable of an agile, vocal tone and is often called the lyric soprano of the woodwinds.

Angina Pectoris
Angina pectoris is one of the most painful diseases known to medicine. In common parlance it is known as "breast pang." This is its literal meaning. "Angina" means pain, "pectoris" breast, or chest. Angina pectoris is the direct result of poor nutrition to the heart muscle, the body's strongest muscle. It may be brought about from poisons, long continued fevers, alcohol, any one of scores of other sicknesses or diseases. The particular villain in the case are the coronary vessels. Through these vessels the all important heart muscle, with its millions of fibers, receives its nourishment from the blood. When the coronary vessels fail to feed sufficient blood to the muscle, spasms of pain result.

Origin of Term "Colophon"
"Colophon" is an inscription at the end of a book giving the printer's name, the date and place of printing. It has been superadded by the title page. Colophon was an ancient Greek city. The name came to mean "the finishing stroke" because of the many successes of the city's cavalry and was incorporated into the Latin tongue.

Al Pearce 'Find' Gets New Violin

BECAUSE he displayed exceptional talent when he appeared on Al Pearce's "Stars at Home" show, Kenneth Whitington, 14, of Battle Creek, (at right) now has a new full size violin, a gift of Ralph Holmes, also of Battle Creek, who is seen presenting the instrument.

The gift resulted from an appeal made by Al Pearce when he presented the boy on his Thursday night "Stars at Home" broadcast over the Michigan Radio Network. Pearce explained that the boy, who showed unusual talent, was obliged to play a three-quarter size instrument because he lacked funds with which to buy a new one. By the time Kenneth had finished playing his selection, Pearce was able to announce that Mr. Holmes, a Battle Creek Ford dealer, would present the boy a new violin.

The young violinist was given an opportunity to select the violin from a line of high quality instruments made in Battle Creek. Practicing four hours a day, he is looking forward to a musical career.
