State Officials Speak at Kiwanis Meeting

Chelsea was honored on Monday evening by the presence of heads of two of the most important State departments at Lansing, when Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, and George T. Gundry, Auditor General, addressed the Kiwanis club at their meeting in Kolb's hall. More than fifty Kiwanians and their guests were present at the meeting, some of the guests coming from Ann Arbor and Dexter to hear the addresses of these two distinguished gentlemen.

Mr. Gundry gave an interesting talk on the functions of his department and his personal duties as a member of various committees on the Administrative Board. He told of action taken at a meeting on Monday when Harold D. Smith, budget director, was authorized to install a new system whereby the state's antiquated and overgrown accounting system will be greatly simplified. The new system will speed up the entire accounting procedure so that transactions will be recorded more promptly, vouchers go through with less delay, and financial reports be issued more promptly at the end of fiscal periods, according to Mr. Gundry, who also stated that the number of state funds would be reduced from 230 to 78, and that the number of general ledger accounts will be reduced from 2400 to less than 600.

The forthcoming tax sale was touched upon briefly by Mr. Gundry, who stated that he opposed the suggested delay in holding the sale inasmuch as the legislature had authorized him to prepare for and hold the sale and that the state had spent a large sum of money in the preparation of descriptions and advertising the sale. He contends that if relief is necessary for some whose homes are offered for sale that this matter is for the legislature to act upon at its next session, as the statute provides for a two-year redemption period which allows ample time for legislative action in the matter.

Mr. Case spoke concerning duties of the Secretary of State, and presented figures showing how the total amount of funds raised by the state are allocated to the various branches of State and local government. He stated that state expenditures would continue to mount until taxpayers bring pressure to bear on their representatives to economize; that at the present time as in the past there are so many demands from all over the State for appropriations that little thought is given to economy.

Martin J. Lavan, Legal Adviser in the Auditor General's department, also spoke briefly.

BENEDICT-HARGREAVES

The wedding vows of Miss Katherine E. Benedict, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Benedict of Ionia, and Robert Hargreaves of Chelsea, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hargreaves of Grand Rapids, were exchanged Monday afternoon, April 11, at the home of the bride's parents.

Dr. Frederick Goodrich, professor emeritus of Bible of Albion college, performed the ceremony at 4 o'clock in the presence of about 25 friends and relatives.

Miss Virginia Benedict, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the duties of best man were performed by Marvin Pahl, secretary to the president of Albion college.

The bride, who was attired in a white satin gown, carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and forget-me-nots. Her sister's dress, identical in style, was of blue satin and her flowers were tallies and roses and snapdragons. A reception followed the ceremony. Guests were in attendance from Belding, Ionia, Lansing, Albion and Grand Rapids.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Albion college and the former is a teacher in Albion public schools. For two years the groom has been supervisor of music in the Chelsea school.

Mr. and Mrs. Hargreaves left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Rochester and other points in New York.

VISITORS HONORED

Shirley, Mary Alice and Winston Nordman, who spent the Easter vacation with their grandmother, Mrs. Alice Nordman, returned Saturday to their home in Lawton. On Thursday evening the seventh and eighth grades of St. Mary's Parochial school gave a party in their honor at the home of Mrs. Frances Alber. Refreshments were served after an enjoyable evening spent in playing games.

THIEVES BUSY AGAIN

Thieves broke into the office of the Chelsea Lumber, Grain & Coal Co. on North Main St. some time during Friday night and stole the change which had been left in the cash drawer, amounting to about $10.00. Entrance to the building was gained by breaking the glass in the front door. No trace of the robbers has been found.

Michigan Mirror

Lansing—Michigan today is an economic plateau sharply cut by deep valleys.

The valleys are industrial centers where factory machines today are idle and thousands of workers are either on WPA or relief. At Grand Rapids, for example, leading plants are operating only at 20 per cent capacity as compared with capacity production 12 months ago. And this figure goes for metal trades as well as for furniture, for furniture represents only 30 per cent of the west Michigan metropolis' industrial life.

Farms and small cities and towns constitute the plateau. While conditions are far from being rosy, Main Street is well off. Farm income has been relatively stable; Michigan enjoyed the largest percentage increase in 1937 farm income of any state in the Middle West. Ask your country cousins.

Home Building

As business entered its fourth month of the new year with few signs of a trend towards recovery, government economists are reported to be more convinced than ever that the key lies in the field of home building.

Michigan rated fourth in the nation last year in the number of new homes. Towns like Holland and Muskegon attained remarkable results in the small homes classification.

The newly liberalized FHA provides government backing for 90 per cent of construction cost up to $6,000. Thus for $600 the American worker can have a modern house valued at $6,000, and the obligation is payable over many years at easy terms and at a low rate of interest. Furthermore, the

Cooking School Opens Here Next Wednesday

The Washtenaw Gas Co. is again conducting a two day cooking school at the Chelsea public school auditorium. The school will be held Wednesday and Thursday, April 20 and 21, from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m.

Everyone interested in cooking is invited to attend. There will be oven meals, Electricolux gas refrigerator desserts, modern surface burner cooking, broiler and one dish meals and miscellaneous recipes covering yeast and quick breads, cakes and salads.

The demonstration this year will again be conducted by Mrs. Ruth Bush, Home Service Director of the Gas Company. If anyone has any cooking problems they may take questions to the school, and Mrs. Bush will gladly answer them.

SCOUTS WORK PARTY

The first of a series of Saturday work parties will be held at the Newkirk Scout camp on Saturday, April 16, beginning in the morning and extending to 4:00 in the afternoon. All Scout leaders, committeemen, and older Scouts are invited to participate, bringing with them a shovel or spade, or paint brush. Lunch will be served at 12:00.

It is hoped that the main lodge of the camp will be repainted before summer, that somewhere between 500 and a thousand trees will be transplanted within the next few weeks.

Everything possible is being done to assure the readiness of the camp for the opening of its summer season on June 26. In the meantime, the camp is being used practically every week-end by several groups.

GIVE HOLY WEEK PROGRAM

A Holy Week program was given at the meeting of the S. P. I. which was held on Monday evening at the home of Miss Lillie Wackenhut. Poems pertaining to the Cross were given in response to roll call and a vocal duet, "The Old Rugged Cross" was sung by Mrs. J. N. Strieter and Mrs. W. H. Kusterer. The seven words of the cross were given by the members, also articles on the seven days of Holy Week. A large lighted cross added to the solemnity of the occasion. The surprise package was won by Mrs. O. D. Schneider. Mrs. Schneider will entertain the club at an Easter party Monday evening, April 18.

FIRE DAMAGES RESIDENCE

A fire at the home of James Howlett in Lyndon township extensively damaged the dining room and kitchen about 9:30 Friday evening. The blaze was extinguished by the Chelsea fire department and neighbors who were summoned by Mr. Howlett. It is believed that a burning chimney during the afternoon might have resulted in the fire.

Can Company Official To Address Kiwanians

Carlton F. Sturdy, widely known lecturer and writer on canned food subjects, will be the speaker at the Inter-Club Ladies' Night meeting of the local Kiwanis club to be held at M. E. church parlors on Monday evening, April 18, at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Sturdy is a representative of the American Can Company and devotes his entire time to speaking, on request, before clubs, Chamber of Commerce, adult food classes, high schools, colleges, trade meetings and conventions, buyers, service clubs and other important groups throughout the United States. The story of the great harvest, together with the romantic history and progress of the great food industry, are graphically described in an address which is definitely educational and brightened with interesting fact and humor.

Early Payment of Taxes Asked by Co. Treasurer

Payments of 1935 and prior years taxes made to the County Treasurer for the purpose of preventing sale of the tax at the coming tax sale, should be made before the end of April, according to Charles E. Crittenden, treasurer. In order to have the payment properly posted it must be received early enough to be posted on the tax sale list before May 3. In other words payments cannot be received too late on May 2 to actually get the posting done that night.

The public is urged not to take any chances. The law requires all payments to be posted before the sale starts. On other moratoriums the treasurer's office has written receipts for several weeks after the deadline so long as the cash was paid before the deadline. This time the payment must be made early enough to permit proper posting before the sale starts.

SIXTY ATTEND GRANGE MEET

At the regular meeting of Cavanaugh Lake Grange, held Thursday evening in the basement of Salem Methodist church, about 60 were in attendance. Following the opening exercise the 3rd and 4th degrees were conferred on 10 members by the Ann Arbor degree team. A pot luck lunch was served and toasts were given by the initiatees and by several members of the degree team. A Grange song closed the meeting.

ATTEND PASSION PLAY

The Dominican Sisters of St. Mary school took the choir girls of St. Mary church to Adrian on Sunday afternoon to attend "Platte The Governor", a passion play, given by the students at St. Joseph's college. A number of the parents and friends of the choir girls accompanied the party to Adrian.

farmer can build a new barn, purchase needed equipment, and otherwise add to his investment under advantageous terms.

The same government that criticized the Michigan automobile industry for easy installment plan financing is offering Michigan the opportunity of a life-time to get a new house.

Monthly Income

Industrial production may be scraping bottom, but the consumer's monthly income has dropped only from around 3,000 million dollars to about 2,400 million dollars.

This is heartening news, for it is buying power that counts.

With adjournment of Congress and removal of fears which produced the recent dictatorship hysteria, America is expected to get a new grip on itself. And when that moment arrives, Michigan will receive the first benefit in the industrial pickup. Watch then for a home building revival. We should be back again in the column of leading states.

Workers' Revolution

The spectacle of utility plants being seized by workers to forestall possibility of a wage cut was presented to the nation last week by the C. I. O. in Michigan.

In Europe it would be a "workers' revolution." The New York Times gave its conservative readers the jitters on Sunday, April 3, when it devoted a front page column to the Michigan property seizure.

The remarkable thing about it, at least to outsiders, is the complacency with which Michigan officialdom accepted the situation. Governor Murphy continued his policy of mediation via the conference table. No one raised the question about sending troops, or law and order, or constitutional rights, and so on. In this modern day, such things have been apparently relegated to the limbo of the "horse-and-buggy."

A circuit court judge added confusion to the picture by announcing that state courts lacked judicial rights to interfere in labor difficulties, now that the National Labor Board has jurisdiction. This was news to many citizens, who had been under the impression that the rights of property could be defended and protected in court.

Jubilantly, the C. I. O. union proclaimed it had triumphed again, forestalling any wage cuts for four months.

"All of which raises a query: What next?"

"Partnership"

Grand Rapids manufacturers are introducing a new program in industrial relationship.

Here is the logic: Many industrial plants in Michigan during depression years benefited the worker more than the stockholder. After the ever-staggering burden of taxes was met, wages of the workers were paid. Then the stockholder got what was left—if anything.

The complication, or "fly in the ointment", has been the neglect or indifference on the part of industrial leaders to acquaint their co-workers with the facts of the business. If the workers' wages must be paid first, why not provide the workers with a statement of operating costs, profit and loss, in an easy-to-understand form?

The manufacturer realizes that the worker is just as human as he is. He has the same appetite for food. He craves a home for his family. He enjoys movies, radio, newspapers. He wants security, but he is willing to SAVE MONEY?

The Standard Ford V-8, with 60-horsepower engine, gives you a lot of car for a little money.

300,000 new owners acclaimed the "thrifty 60" last year. Hundreds a day are buying it in 1938. Why?

Because it is priced low—includes essential equipment without extra charge—and goes farther between filling stations than any Ford car ever built. Owners all over the country report averages of 22 to 27 miles on a single gallon of gasoline.

But economy isn't all the story by any means. The Standard "60" is built with the same precision as the De Luxe "85," and has the same 112-inch wheelbase chassis. It's easy to look at and ride in—as well as easy to buy and run.

CHILDREN IN COURT

Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Too many parents punish symptoms such as wool-gathering and laziness instead of attempting to discover the fundamental causes behind them. This is as unreasonable as whipping a girl because she has the measles.

Judges realize that delinquency frequently starts when parents resort to improper emotional training and give their children the wrong kind of assignments and duties. A personality improperly trained usually gets into mischief. If an ill-trained child can be persuaded to become interested in some worthwhile undertaking, he will usually work at it in all sincerity.

LET'S DRIVE SAFELY

Night driving is safe only when headlights are adjusted to maximum efficiency.

Don't drive 40 miles an hour with 80-mile headlights. The margin of safety is determined by a driver's ability to stop his car within this range of vision.

Average headlights maintain top efficiency for only two to four months after adjustment. Have your headlights checked regularly to eliminate glare caused by lights out of alignment and to eliminate inefficiency caused by corroded contacts, loose connections, tarnished reflectors and faulty bulbs.

Every driver has been blinded by glare caused by another driver's faulty lights and his failure to dim. Don't be an offender. Keep your headlights aligned, and dim when meeting other cars. It insures your own safety and safety of other motorists.

New car headlights in best condition permit a safe night driving speed of 47 miles an hour, all other conditions being favorable. When headlight efficiency drops below new-car standard, speeds in excess of 35 miles an hour are unsafe. If candlepower is as low as Michigan traffic laws permit, speeds above 15 miles an hour at night can be unsafe.

A good polish for tarnished reflectors, often the cause of inefficient headlights, is a paste of lampblack and alcohol, applied and removed with a soft cotton cloth.

Mr. "Watts-His-Name" says"NOW YOU CAN HAVE HOT WATER TO BURN"

No one likes to be in hot water when he wants hot water. And here is all the hot water you'll ever need . . . every time you need it. It's heated by electricity . . . and it's safe and sure.

You simply turn the faucet and a glorious stream of hot water surges forth . . . and keeps on surging until you turn it off.

Costly? Not at all. Heating water electrically is one of those things that sounds as tho' it costs lots more than it does.

You can afford it!

Want us to tell you how much . . . or rather, how little? Glad to!

Question And Answer Dept.

Notice—In a recent issue of The Standard the problem of changing $5 into exactly 250 pieces appeared, and the originator claimed it could not be done. However, an astute subscriber, Roy C. Ives, has proved that it can be done as follows: Eighteen dimes, 22 nickers and 210 pennies—making a total of 250 pieces.

Problem—How can you take sixty-three dollars (United States currency) and change that amount into exactly six bills (currency)? Answer elsewhere in this column.

Ques.—How are cotton hose and other articles made to resemble silk?
Ans.—The cotton yarn is treated to a strong caustic alkali, known as "mercerizing". This process produces a gloss resembling silk. However, this gloss is not permanent. After a few washings the silky effect disappears.

Ques.—Is there such a plant known as "fly-catchers"? If so, why do they catch flies?

Ans.—Yes. In the tropics of the world there is a large group of plants known as Nepenthes. These plants produce huge pitcher-shaped flowers that contain a quantity of fluid that lures flies and other insects. In fact, mice and large bugs have been caught in them. The rim of the pitcher is fringed, and has needle-like teeth pointing downward on the inside. It is easy for the victims to descend to the fluid, but once inside, escape is impossible because of these teeth. There they die, and the decaying bodies furnish rich food material for the growing plants.

Answer to problem—One $50 bill, two 5's and three 1's, making the six bills.

Ques.—How long does the average elephant live?
Ans.—The average elephants that die a natural death is approximately 300 years.

Ques.—How did the Jews come to be known as a "people without a country"?
Ans.—In 63 B. C., Pompey took Jerusalem after a siege of three months. From this time the Jewish state was virtually subject to Rome.

The turbulence under Rome rule is well known. Finally Jewish rebellion ended in A. D. 70, in bloodshed and misery by Titus, the merciless Roman.
The history of the Hebrews thus ended with the dispersion of their remains over the face of the civilized world.

Ques.—What was the first city in the United States to use electricity for lighting purposes?
Ans.—This distinction belongs to Los Angeles, Calif., despite the fact that many erroneously believe that New York was the first. Los Angeles began with electric lighting in 1879, but the system was then in a crude state.

Ques.—Recently a lady wrote to me and said I was non-compos-mentis.
Can you tell me what she meant by that term?
Ans.—Yes. That is a Latin term, and literally means "Of not a sane mind."

Ques.—Who was the first writer of fiction?
Ans.—In 1740 Henry Fielding began writing fiction. Some of his novels included "Tom Jones", "Jonathan Wild", "Amelia", and others. He was the first great realistic writer of novels.

Ques.—What is the principal religion in Japan?
Ans.—Buddhism is the prevailing religion of Japan. However, Shintoism is widely practiced by the Japanese. Buddhism was introduced from China in A. D. 552.

Ques.—I was born June 3, 1882.
What day of the week was that?
Ans.—June 3, 1882, occurred on Saturday.

Safetygrams
BY
FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

The Augusta, Wisconsin, Union writes this about children on tricycles in the streets: "Children, my hasty friend, were here long before you or your automobiles on earth are not worth the life of one little boy on a tricycle. Any competent garage mechanic can put a car together, however badly it is smashed, but nobody on earth can put a child together once its life has been crushed out. We don't know what that child may some day be, but we know what you are, and it's unimportant. We could get along without you, but we can't spare a single little boy on this street."

Well said, Mr. Editor, and congratu-

Taylor Asserted He Was Not Fit to Be President

James H. Beard, the Ohio-bred artist, who devoted more than 60 years to wielding the palette and brush, once while painting a portrait of Gen. Zachary Taylor told the militarist that he was very much opposed to his nomination to the presidency. Although born in Buffalo in 1814, Beard spent his boyhood in Painesville and a number of years in his studio in Cincinnati.

While on a journey down the Mississippi to New Orleans, relates a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, he stopped at Baton Rouge, La., to paint a large, almost life-size portrait of General Taylor, who was at the time foremost among the Whig possibilities for nomination to the presidency.

While at work on the portrait one day, Beard said to the man who had distinguished himself in the Black Hawk war, the Seminole campaign, and the Mexican war: "General, I will vote for you, but under protest. I never knew you as a statesman, and I am not certain that a military man is qualified for the office."

Without wincing, General Taylor smiled and replied: "You are right, I am no more fit to be President than you are. Don't vote for me."

Disease Fatal to Civil Warriors
In the Civil war, disease killed more soldiers than did war wounds, says the Standard American Encyclopedia. According to a statement prepared by the adjutant general's office, 67,058 were killed in battle, 43,012 died of wounds, and 100,720 died of disease.

"Kitchen Cabinet" Made Up of Jackson's Friends

The name "kitchen cabinet" was applied by John Randolph, of Kentucky, to a small group of intimate friends of President Jackson. Although these men held no important offices at the time, notes a writer in the Indianapolis News, they seemed to influence the President's political actions more than did his official cabinet.

The moving spirit of the "kitchen cabinet" was Amos Kendall of Kentucky, who was fourth auditor of the treasury, although he later became postmaster general. Other members of this coterie were Gen.
Duff Green, editor of the United States Telegraph, the administration organ at Washington; Maj. William B. Lewis of Tennessee, second auditor of the treasury; Isaac Hill, editor of the New Hampshire
Patriot, and later Francis P. Blair, Sr., who was editor of the Globe, which in 1831 superseded the United States Telegraph as the administration organ at the capital.

It is said that when these men visited President Jackson they went through the back or kitchen door in order to avoid public notice. Randolph declared that this little coterie of intimate friends of the President decided the great affairs of state while the members of the official cabinet were asleep.

Posting of Soc. Security Wages Now Under Way

Posting of wages to workers' social security accounts is now under way and is progressing rapidly.

This statement was made last week by Richard H. Hendrick, manager of the Jackson field office of the Social Security Board. This office serves Chelsea and vicinity.

"Recently workers have shown much interest in the manner in which their individual accounts are being kept in our Records Division in Baltimore," Hendrick said.

"Our office has just received a specimen ledger sheet showing just how these records are kept. The sheet may be seen at our office and is readily understood. It carries a cumulative total of taxable wages of the holder of each account number. It is a simple matter to figure from this record what a wage earner would receive in lump-sum benefits which are now due certain individuals or what he would be entitled to receive after working for the period which is prescribed in order to receive monthly benefits beginning in 1942," Hendrick added.

Posting of these records is the second step in the federal old-age insurance program. The first was the setting up of more than 37,000,000 individually numbered social security accounts, using for this purpose information contained in applications for social security account numbers. Setting up of the accounts is now practically complete.

Wage reports are received by the Board from the Bureau of Internal Revenue which receives all federal contributions under the Social Security Act.

A RECIPE FOR A DAY

Take a little dash of water cold
And a little leaven of prayer,
And a little bit of morning gold Dissolved in the morning air.

Add to your meal some merriment
And a thought for kith and kin
And then, as your prime ingredient A plenty of work thrown in.

But spice it all with the essence of love,
And a little whiff of play;
Let a wise old book and a glance above
Complete the well-made day.

(A special selection)
—Arthur Carlton.

Township Officers' Guide Coming Out

The Department of State will shortly start distribution of an 800 page publication to every township officer in the state, in accordance with an act of the 1937 legislature.

The book was prepared for the guidance of all township officers, in the performance of their official duties. It contains excerpts from all laws bearing on townships and township officials, the last previous compilation was issued in 1926, since when many changes have been made.

There are some 190 forms used by township officers included in the book, together with a copy of the state constitution. Distribution will be made by Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, through county clerks. Copies will be furnished to township clerks, treasurers, supervisors and qualified justices of the peace. There are 1,266 townships in Michigan, and as many as four justices of the peace in each township. This requirement, together with those for members of the legislature, state officials, the state law library and other official needs, will mean printing of about 8,000 copies of the guide.

Orders for the book have accumulated from attorneys and other public sources. The book will sell for $1.50 to the public, on written application accompanied by remittance. First copies will come from the press late this week. General distribution will take place as rapidly as possible.

WE were pretty sure we had a great car when some months ago we checked the final blueprints on the 1938 Buick.

It had the new and mighty DYNAFLEX engine for sparkling action—the sensational desirable TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING for a lullaby of a ride.

Looking ahead in that promising day, we figured we had every chance of getting our sales share by reason of what this car gave the buyer for his money.

Now, when times are sterner, it appears we built better than we knew—we've got a car folks just won't do without!

This great new Buick was first introduced to the public last fall. Through September, October, November, it sold in steadily increasing volume.

In a period when sales of other cars were sliding off it went ahead, in one month actually outselling one of the Big Three of the lowest-priced field.

It's still going ahead—not car Number Seven or Eight, as one might expect by its price-class, but one of the season's Four Best Sellers!

There is only one explanation of such a record when made by a car in the thousand-dollar bracket.

Such a car is so good—has so much of value in it—people just won't do without it!

They buy it not only in preference to other cars—they buy in preference to waiting for easier times and readier money-to-spend!

That's the convincing sort of car you're about to drive when you first take the wheel of a 1938 Buick.

If you haven't yet handled a new Buick, you ought to—just to see what such a car is like!

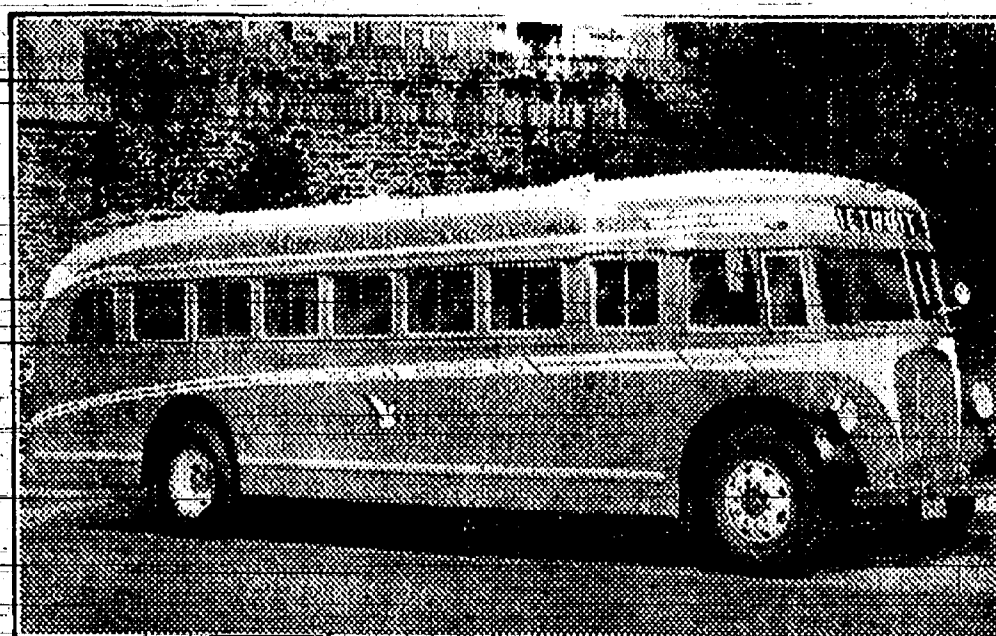

"Better buy Buick!"

SHINING PALACE

BY CHRISTINE WHITING PARMENTER

COPYRIGHT BY CHRISTINE WHITING PARMENTER

"That's what Mrs. Whitney said; but she's one who makes the most of a good story. Dad, so don't let that worry you. What riled me was that she told Corinne she thought we ought to do something about it. She implied, as politely as possible, that we'd treated Nora outrageously. Corinne was so mad she didn't have sense enough to ask the name of the town; but I'll call Mrs. Whitney on the telephone and find out. Even Corinne thinks that something should be done—that is" (a cynical smile curved Ned's lips) "she's afraid there'll be talk unless we do it!"

For a moment or two James Lambert did not respond. Then he arose and unlocked a beautiful cabinet of Chinese lacquer. As the doors swung open Ned saw that it contained letters—neat piles of letters held together with elastic bands, and a somewhat surprising pair of silver slippers, tarnished now—from being laid away. "Nora's!" he thought; and then his father turned, extending the postal written so long ago.

"I got this in the early summer, three years back. I guess she was poking a little fun at me. I'd told her you see, that to survive a house must be founded on a rock. She says:

"Safe upon the solid rock the ugly houses stand; Come and see my shining palace built upon the sand!"

"Except for a hint the first time they went to Capri, it's the nearest thing to an invitation she ever gave me. I wish—The old man purred, then finished thoughtfully, in all reverence: "I wish—to God—I'd gone."

Ned was studying the postal—its quotation—instructions, and the small red map.

"A shining palace," he observed, "what's not the idea Mrs. Whitney gathered—not at all. Corinne said that she appeared quite horrified. Well, Dad, these directions are plain enough. I'll go to Maine tomorrow."

But James, who had resumed his seat before the fire, shook his head.

"No, son, I'm going myself. I dare say I'm the stubborn old man that Martha showed me this evening; but I'm not too stubborn to ask forgiveness of the only daughter I ever had, nor too old to take a journey of a few hours. If they turn me out—and I can't imagine Nora turning her father out, Ned—I can come away again; but I want to see the situation with my own eyes."

He arose, moving briskly, alertly (as if, Ned told himself, there were something to move for), rummaged in his desk for a few minutes, and then said: "I thought there was a timetable around here, but evidently Martha's been cleaning house. Will you call up for me, Ned, and engage a Pullman chair on the first train? I want to get off early. And before you leave ask John to have the car here at the proper time."

"That won't be necessary, Dad. I'll run you down to the station myself. I'd like to."

"That'll be fine!" ("How bright his eyes are!" Ned was thinking.) "I'm going to turn in now, if you don't mind. Good-night, son."

"Good-night, Father."

As Ned stood for a moment watching the old man go upstairs, he realized that the vibrancy, long absent from his father's voice, was back again. His face too, looked different than it had an hour ago, extraordinarily different. His apathy had given way to hope. His harassed lines seemed to be resting. It was, for the first time in years, a peaceful face.

"He looks," thought Ned in a moment of rare intuition, "he looks like a man who has fought a good fight and come out victorious."

It was well past the middle of the next afternoon when James Lambert found himself trudging along a highway in the state of Maine, with Nora's postcard in his pocket, and something akin to misgiving in his heart. For how would she receive her father after his long silence—his long neglect? James wondered, and wondering, his subtle fear increased.

As her card had hinted might be the case, he found the Port's one taxi out of commission, and following those three-year-old instructions, had taken a joggling, one-man trolley to the end of the route. After a couple of giggling schoolgirls left the car he was its only passenger; and despite the familiar warning, "Don't talk to the motorman,"

James went forward and spoke through the little window.

"Do you know a Mrs. Donald Mason who lives somewhere around here?"

The man's face brightened.

"Sure! I do! Hold my car five minutes for her every Saturday night when she goes down to rehearse the choir, and ten every Sunday morning when she goes to church. As I says to her: 'The Shore Line Electric Railway company won't never be any wiser, Miss' Mason, and it don't need the extra time so much as you do.' That's what I said; and if the president of the company was to call me down for runnin' off schedule, I'd keep right on doin' it because the year my wife died Miss' Mason made a birthday cake for my little girl. It had fancy pink frosting on it same as the high-priced ones she makes for the summer folks, and five pink candles all ready to light up. I don't how she knew when the kid's birthday was, but that's what she done and I'd hold my car a good half hour if she was to ask me."

"So would I," said James. "And you mean she plays the organ at some church?"

"The Methodist Episcopal at the Port. Goshr that woman can play to beat the band. Folks that never get foot inside a church before, are regular attendants since she took over the music. Yes sir, she plays like a breeze. She gives piano lessons too; and makes bakery stuff to sell durin' the season. She's a smart woman, Miss' Mason. You can tell to hear her talk that she's got a real good education; but she's common as own folks for all that—don't high-hat no one. Here's the end of the line now. You just keep goin' till you see their mail box. Name's right on it. It ain't only a short half mile and you can't miss it. Yes, ocean side, only the house don't show from the road. It's way in, close to the dunes—made out of an old barn they bought cheap. Terrible cold place to live come winter, seems though."

The conductor, his garrulous conversation and his trolley car, joggled out of sight, and feeling somewhat lonesome, James started forward. The ocean was not visible from here, but the salt of it was in the air, and he heard the distant roar of waves breaking against rocks. As the sun disappeared behind a cloud the old man stopped, laid down his bag and buttoned his coat higher about the throat, shivering a little. In summer this road would be alive with tourists, he supposed. It was deserted now—a man-made strip of macadam that seemed curiously out of place between the rocky pastures which bordered it on either side.

Strange, James Lambert mused as he started on again, that 24 hours ago he hadn't dreamed of being here. Strange too, that despite the uneasiness he felt at seeing Nora, he was happier than he'd been for years and years. After a time he found himself hurrying a little. That "short half mile" which the conductor promised, seemed very long. Yet he couldn't have missed the place. This was a lonely stretch of road with no houses leading seaward. He stopped again, drew Nora's postcard from his pocket and was studying it minutely when a voice startled him.

"Say, Mister, have you seen the R. F. D. man?"

Moving a step or two forward James saw that the voice belonged to a small boy who had, apparently, been swinging on a rustic gate, half hidden from view by a clump of fir trees. There was a mail box too. This must be the place! The old man's heart-beats quickened as he responded. "I haven't seen anybody since I left the trolley. Are you—"

Then, all because a sudden breeze had blown the boy's hair away from his forehead, the question died on James' lips. Where had he seen a forehead and hair like that? He asked himself, some half-forgotten memory stirring to life. Ah! now he recalled it! The door to his own library—a tall young man standing upon the threshold, youth incarnate.

"You're kind of out of breath, aren't you?" the boy was saying. "I guess you've been hurrying. If you're tired why don't you sit down on that rock? It's a good smooth one. Mother sits there when she's waiting for the postman. I hope he'll bring the money this afternoon. She'll be pretty discouraged if he doesn't, believe me."

James asked, as he availed himself of the proffered resting place: "So your mother expects the postman to bring some money?"

The youngster nodded, his blue eyes very serious.

First Sunday After 'Paschal' Moon
Is Astronomical Date for Easter

Astronomically speaking, Easter falls on the Sunday following the first Paschal full moon after March 21. But the date was originally set to help pilgrims who needed moonlight during their annual journey to Resurrection festivities.
Traveling day and night to reach the sacred shrines in time for this observance, the pilgrims decided to make the Easter date flexible for the sake of convenience. Therefore it may vary over a period of 35 days from March 22 to April 25.
A coincidence accounts for the popular association of Easter Sunday with the arrival of spring. The day occurs almost simultaneously with the ancient heathen Roman celebration of the vernal equinox. So popular has this association become that spring clothing and spring flowers are used extensively as symbols of Easter. The Easter Sunday fashion parade down New York's Fifth Avenue has become a recognized American institution.
Each nation has its own unique Easter Sunday customs. American children celebrate the day with Easter eggs and bunnies. In Germany spring lambs are sold for the feast.

Light, Sound and Bullet
Light travels very much faster than either sound or a bullet. The relation between the speed of light and sound is illustrated by the length of time which elapses between the flash of lightning and the thunder that follows. The speed of light is 186,324 miles per second through the air, while the speed of sound, through the air at ordinary temperatures, is about 1,120 feet per second. The speed of a bullet is measured at the point of leaving the muzzle and is called muzzle velocity. As soon as it meets the resistance of the air and the pull of gravity its speed begins to slacken. The muzzle velocity of the regular army rifle is 2,700 feet per second, and a sports rifle has a muzzle velocity of 3,900 feet per second.

Making Adobe Houses
Adobe houses are constructed of sun-dried bricks made from any native clay. The bricks are molded and their sides turned alternately to the sun day by day for a week or longer, as may be necessary. They are usually made of two sizes—18 x 9 x 3 and 18 x 12 x 4. The larger ones are used as headers, the others as stretchers.

Apologue, a Story
An apologue is a story or relation of fictitious events intended to convey some useful truth. It differs from a parable in that the latter is drawn from events that pass among mankind, whereas the apologue may be founded on supposed actions of brutes or inanimate things. Aesop's Fables furnish excellent examples of apologues.
