24 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 16, 1914

Miss Alma Riemenschneider of Sylva and Howard Boyce of Lyndon were married on July 15, 1914.

The crops in the northern part of Lyndon were badly damaged by a severe hail storm Sunday night. It passed through the cyclone district, causing great damage.

John Farrell is entitled to the championship banner as a gardener. On Sunday he had served at his home sweet corn, potatoes, cabbage, cucumbers and tomatoes that he grew and gathered from the garden at his home on West Middle street. That is certainly going some for this year.

Palmer's Garage installed a 1000 gallon gasoline tank last Friday.

Last Sunday Frank Shaver kept an account of the number of autos that passed his residence on West Middle street. Two hundred and three autos passed from 8 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening.

34 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 14, 1904

George E. Davis died on Wednesday, July 13, 1904.

The Cavanaugh Lake club has adopted a new set of by-laws for the governance of members and rents of the cottages on its grounds. The club will also become an incorporated body.

Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Caster gave a reception on Friday evening in honor of their son, Rev. E. Wilbur Caster, and his bride.

at Midland by the Dow Chemical Company to sustain a booming modern city amid rather desolate surroundings.

Mount Pleasant and Gladwin have been made prosperous in recent years because of oil and gas.

And if you don't mind the soot and smoke, you can buy Michigan coal!

For natural resources, Michigan offers copper, iron, salt, oil, gas, and coal. Surely this merits the description "diversified."

Recreation

Michigan offers diversified recreation. If you prefer mountains, you can see them on the shores of Lake Superior.

If you want deep sea fishing, you can derive all the thrills right at Traverse City or Petoskey. A few weeks ago Jake Gallinsky of Petoskey landed a 32-pound Mackinaw trout on deep trolling tackle off Good Hart.

The 32-pounder equals last season's fish taken by Dave Ramsby and Ralph Meyers.

If you want sand beaches for bathing, Michigan offers literally hundreds of miles of the finest beaches in the nation.

If you want lakes, the state possesses 5,000 of 'em—all sizes and shapes.

If you enjoy sail boating, cruising, and riding or any of the sports of the sea shore, Michigan has provided endless variety.

More fishing licenses are issued in the state than in any other state. Our hunting fame is familiar to all.

Scenic Straits

Several weeks ago we were crossing the Straits of Mackinaw in a speed boat, bound for Mackinaw City.

In the speed boat were two elderly couples, both from Kalamazoo. They had never seen the Straits before, although they had lived in Michigan for many years.

One man enthused "Last winter my wife and I spent several weeks at Bermuda. We paid $22 a day, American plan, at a hotel. Other charges were proportionately high. At the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island we enjoyed a better time, and spent less to get it. Except possibly for the color of the sea at Bermuda, Mackinac Island offers the equal of scenery and climate, and the surprising thing to me is that all this has been here all the time, right in Michigan and we didn't appreciate it."

For smart sophisticated atmosphere, including night club entertainment, Stewart Woodfill's Grand Hotel is "tops" in Michigan resort country. Contrasting with Bermuda's $22 a day rate, the Grand Hotel begins at $7 (American plan).

Truly, Mackinac Island is a world of its own, set amid a rare setting between the two peninsulas of Michigan.

Lakes and Streams

For the thousands who enjoy fly casting for trout in a picturesque pine tree banked stream or who prefer to troll for steelheads, wall eyes and bass, or use an old-fashioned pole for bluegills and perch, Michigan has hundreds of streams and inland lakes that are kept carefully stocked by the state conservation department. The recreation industry is second in Michigan.

Again, it offers diversified appeals to fit the purse, taste and the moment's mood.

Michigan is the only state where industry and recreation are equally important. The world's largest industrial plant is located on the River Rouge in Wayne county. Our tourist income exceeds California or Florida. Truly, it is an air-conditioned vacationland, producing a stimulating and healthful climate that contributes to industrial efficiency in winter and to outdoor enjoyment in summer.

Question And Answer Dept.

Problem—What ring is not round, but instead it is square? And what ring is neither round nor square? (Answer elsewhere in this column.)

Ques.—At what period of life do people seem to learn more?

Ans.—Modern psychologists are agreed that a human being learns more the first year of life than at any other time during their natural lives. They not only learn how to move their muscles and how to use their eyes and other senses, and how to make their bodies do what they want them to, but they also learn many mental habits.

Ques.—Was paper-making invented in Europe? If not, when was it introduced into European countries?

Ans.—Paper-making was invented in China, and the art was introduced into Europe in the 8th century A. D.

Answer to problem—The prize-fighting ring is always square, and the ring of a bell of course is neither round nor square.

Ques.—Is medicine in the form of capsules and ampules more beneficial than when taken otherwise?

Ans.—No. Capsules are used solely to contain any offensive medicine to render such medicine tasteless. An ampule is used to hold a hypodermic solution.

Ques.—How much territory does Antarctica cover?

Ans.—Antarctic region has not been entirely explored, but a close estimate is that it covers 5,000,000 square miles.

Ques.—Will you please tell me how the word "consomme" is pronounced? Thank you.

Ans.—"Consomme" is pronounced as though it was spelled "con-som-may," when referred to as a soup. The word is French and literally means the past participle of "consume" and is rare if not obsolete in the English language.

Ques.—What is meant by the words "legal tender"?

Ans.—Legal tender is money which may be legally offered for payment of debts; it may be in the form of either currency or coin.

Ques.—Can you answer what Paranoia is?

Ans.—Paranoia is a chronic form of insanity impairing the intellect; having delusions of persecution, and has a strong urge to homicidal tendencies.

Ques.—I would like to ask you what causes dew?

Ans.—During the day the ground gets warm, and after nightfall the warm, moist air rising out of the pores of the ground comes in contact with the colder air above the soil surface. This makes the water in the air condense on the ground, grass, plants, etc., near the surface.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please answer in what year was it that Knute Rockne died?

Ans.—Knute Rockne died in 1931.

Ques.—I wish to ask you what are the so-called "precious jewels"?

Ans.—There are four that are known as precious jewels. They are as follows: Diamonds, rubies, emeralds and sapphires.

How long is it since you had the steering mechanism on your car checked? Is your automobile hard to steer?

One of a number of conditions may be responsible. The tires may be soft; the steering gear may need grease; tie-rod bushings may need lubrication. Many other items should be checked, but these are some of the most important.

If, after checking these possibilities, you find the difficulty still there, better consult a mechanic. Very probably some part of the steering mechanism on the front axle is bent.

It is absolutely essential that steering apparatus be in perfect working order at all times.

It's smart to be careful.

Bloodiest Battle in History
 According to ancient records, the battle of Chalons was the bloodiest battle in history. In this battle Attila, the Hun, was met by the Gothic prince, Thorismund, commanding the Visigoths and Roman forces. The dead left upon the field are estimated as between 250,000 and 300,000 men.

Henry Clay Was Known as the "Great Pacificator"

With Webster and Calhoun, Henry Clay formed the great triumvirate of what has been called the golden age of American oratory. His gift for public speaking and debate, combined with his personal magnetism, helped to make him more popular with the people as a whole than any of his contemporaries during his lifetime.

Though born in Virginia, on April 12, 1777, Clay moved to Kentucky when he was twenty-one, and his point of view during his political career was that of the West. An active supporter of protection of home manufactures, writes Leslie Hartley in the Washington Star, his name is inseparably linked with what he made known as the "American system."

Clay entered public life early, was secretary of state under Adams and served for many years in congress. His long service as speaker of the house is a conspicuous part in his career; he was the first to develop the possibilities of that position.

On the question of slavery Clay took the middle ground, pleasing neither side. While he regarded slavery as grievously wrong in principle, he disliked and distrusted the abolitionists and their propaganda. His position between the two extremes, however, enabled him to play a part as mediator and he became known as the "great pacificator."

Though he sought the presidency of his country many times, Clay is remembered not so much for his long and unsuccessful struggle as for his important services in congress. When he died in 1852 his body lay in state in the rotunda of the Capitol building.

Word Eisteddfod Means "Sitting" or "Session"

The eisteddfod, an annual Welsh national festival, is accompanied by competitions in the musical arts most associated with the history of the Welsh people.

The Welsh word means literally "sitting" or "session," notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. It was applied of old to Welsh assemblies of bards, whose meetings traditionally go back to the Fifth and Sixth centuries. The eisteddfods of definite record, however, begin much later than that. The earliest actual account of one of these festivals is of the one held in 1170 by Lord Rhys at his castle in Aber-teifi.

In that century the eisteddfod appears also to have been a regularly constituted court of a sort, its function being to license bards and regulate their privileges. In the time of the Tudors it was still recognized as a tribunal of authority and Queen Elizabeth issued a commission for holding one in 1558.

During the next century the custom seems to have lapsed entirely, but it was revived in the Nineteenth century, and restored to its importance in Welsh life. The eisteddfod is held every year, in North and South Wales alternately.

Music competitions of a similar nature as the eisteddfod and under the same name are also held chiefly among people of Welsh origin or descent, in the United States and some of the British dominions.

Dog-Owned Island

Juan de Nova is in the Mozambique channel, nearly a hundred miles from the coast. Four hundred years ago it was an Isle of Birds at which Portuguese ships called for water, turtles and fruit. Many a brave ship was wrecked on its lonely shores, and marooned cats and rats found a happy hunting-ground. Then the dogs came, in the same way, and from that time Juan de Nova has been a kingdom of dogs, says London's The Big Magazine. Large and dangerous packs of them roam the island, hunt in the thick bush, and prey along the beaches. Well-nigh every known breed is represented. It is stated that the different packs claim their own territory, and woe betide a dog which dares pass the unseen borders. The dogs, whose tails droop like those of wolves, resent the presence of men, and often a ship's watering company will be attacked.

Origin of the National Grange

On January 18, 1888, Oliver H. Kelley started on a trip through the South during which he conceived the idea of a fraternity of farmers to restore agriculture and unite North and South. The first meeting of the founders was held on November 15, 1887, for the purpose of organizing an order of agriculture in the United States. On December 4, 1887, a formal session was held at Washington and the National Grange was organized and officers elected.

Profitable World War Deal
 A most profitable transaction in the World war was the purchase of a German register by the British Secret Service in Belgium in 1917. It contained far more information about the German military forces than had been secured in the previous three years from an army of spies. The seller, says Collier's Weekly, accepted $500 for it when he could have successfully demanded several hundred times as much money.

OUR NEIGHBORS

MILAN—A new post office for Milan was included in the list of new buildings and additions selected late last week by Postmaster General James A. Farley and the Secretary of the Treasury, Henry M. Morgenthau. The new building in Milan was among the fourteen to be erected in Michigan, which included a new addition to the post office in Detroit.—Leader.

MORENCI—Morenci was not entirely without a celebration on the Fourth. Although it was of short duration, it was potent while it lasted. Citizens who had planned a quiet day at home were aroused from their lazy lethargy at seven o'clock in the evening by a noise familiar only to World War veterans. Some people ran from their homes thinking a tornado was swooping down on the city. Others thought a large plane was about to crash. It was none of these—the fireworks stand, located on the state line south of the city, had exploded. It all came about when Lloyd Jones of near Clayton lighted a firecracker and tossed the match on the counter of the stand. Firecrackers, pin-wheels, Roman candles, bombs, sky rockets, torpedoes and the whole repertoire began banging away. A reserve supply of fireworks were stored in a wooden box on a truck near-by. The box ignited and more dirt was added to the confusion. It is estimated that $100 worth of fireworks were destroyed.—Observer.

HOWELL—Caterpillars swarming over the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks stalled the second section of Number Three express between Pearl and Loon stations at Fort Williams, Ontario. The rails were made so slimy with the bodies of the insects that the drivers spun without taking hold. A freight train engine gave the stalled train a boost after a 20-minute delay.—County Press.

CHILDREN IN COURT

Judge Malcolm Hatfield

To Fore-Warn Is To Fore-Arm
 A juvenile court judge assigned to a trained social worker the task of educating the parents of a sixteen year old girl before she could again be placed in their custody.

In his instructions the judge said: "These parents have six younger daughters at home and they must be taught never to evade any of their children's questions. Take great pains to impress on them that it is far more satisfactory to candidly discuss with an inquisitive girl all problems which perplex her, than to put her off with generalities, as they did in the case of their elder daughter. Explain to these parents that to fore-warn an adolescent girl is to fore-arm her against future situations over which they themselves have no control."

Iron Important Nutrient
 Nutritionists have known for a long time that one of the most important of all nutrients is iron. Iron is needed in every cell in the body and is particularly important in the blood stream. It is an essential part of hemoglobin, the substance that makes red blood cells.

ORDER TOLL RATES REDUCED

On June 27, 1938, the Michigan Public Utilities Commission ordered the Michigan Bell Telephone Company to reduce its intrastate toll message rates to the same rate level charged and established for interstate telephone calls.

Up to the present time this Company and the Public Utilities Commission have proceeded upon the theory that the rate schedules for the two types of services should be separately determined from the circumstances and costs relating to each. Apparently the Commission now proposes to abolish this distinction. The principle involved is one of fundamental importance to the Company, and in the long run to its subscribers. The Company feels that the Commission's view is incorrect and should be submitted to judicial examination. Accordingly, it will be appealed to the Ingham County Circuit Court.

Diesel Principal Old

Hundreds of years ago the savages in Burma and Samoa used the basic principle of the Diesel or compression-ignition engine. They used it in their fire lighters, which were like nothing so much as a bicycle pump with the hose crimped so that the air can't get out, says Power. They put a little dried moss or other combustible on the end of the plunger, entered the plunger in the barrel and snapped it down with a sudden, hard blow. The resulting air compression inside the barrel raised the temperature of the moss sufficiently to ignite the combustible, so when the plunger was withdrawn it was glowing and had only to be fanned into flame.

Shrine Founded in 710

Entering the deer park of Nara, you pass through a great torii, or front gate, of red wood and stroll past many stone lanterns and wisteria-festooned trees. Finally you reach the vermilion-painted Kasuga-no-Miya, a Shinto shrine which Fujiwara Fuhito founded in 710. It is dedicated to the original ancestor of the Fujiwara family, who was not far removed from the sun goddess, and is one of Japan's most ancient, venerated sanctuaries. A good example of primitive Japanese architecture, the Kasuga shrine has often been rebuilt like most Shinto temples.

Don't tell me of Blue Mondays, Nor days you're out of luck, Nor, if disheartened spirit says You don't amount to much. A great big heart experience Has witnessed this to me, My alphabet is known to God, Clear through from A to Z.

A knowledge of the sciences Are hard to understand, But somehow there's a mighty-power That grips and holds my hand. There comes a whisper o'er and o'er That keeps me heart aglow, And as I read St. John, Seventeen, I find it reads just so.

I never have Blue Mondays now, And luck—there's no such thing; Since I am guarded day by day Beneath an Angel's wing. A great big heart experience Has witnessed this to me, My alphabet is known to God, Clear through from A to Z.

College Scans Certified Seed Crops In State

Amounts of seed required each year to sow Michigan's field crop acreage represents an amazing volume according to figures obtained from the farm crops extension service of Michigan State College.

Taking five major field crops in the state the acreage harvested each year has averaged during the last ten years, 1,434,000 acres of corn, 1,382,900 acres of oats, 278,000 acres of potatoes, 576,700 acres of beans and approximately 784,300 acres of wheat.

Using the average rates of seeding it would require to seed the above acres, 205,000 bushels of corn, 2,765,800 bushels of oats, 3,053,000 bushels of potatoes, 384,400 bushels of beans and 1,176,450 bushels of wheat.

With the exception of alfalfa seed many farmers plan on using some of their own crop for seeding purposes. However, there are many farmers who buy seed each year.

With the idea of affording a source of high quality seed of known varieties to these farmers, crop improvement associations have been organized in over thirty states. The Michigan Crop Improvement association was organized in 1917 and has functioned since that time under the direction of the farm crops department of Michigan State College.

Membership in the association is open to all farmers who desire to join, but the majority of those who are members are growing some crop for certification under the inspection system of the association.

Crops which are grown for certification must pass field inspection. Another inspection is made of the seed before marketing.

Maguay Plant Source of Powerful Alcoholic Sap

Siphoning out the sap of the maguay plant is one of the first steps in the making of pulque—that potent drink which puts pep into native fiestas in South America. The maguay plant is a form of cactus and when full grown is an upside-down-looking affair with ten-foot leaves massed in artichoke formation near the ground, giving rise to a flower stalk which often grows to a height of 25 feet and bears thousands of flowers. Plants such as this are among the strange sights in Mexico City, writes a correspondent in the New York World-Telegram.

When the plant is ready for harvesting—just before the flowers are born—the tlachiqueros cut off the newly formed flower stalk and dig out the heart. In the hollow pocket thus formed the sap gathers, which in the normal course of events would rise in the flower stalk and feed the flowers. As this honey water collects in the hollow the tlachiqueros make the rounds, two or three times a day, and siphon out the fluid. The siphons, or acocotes, as they are called, are in the form of long gourds with a small pipe at each end. One end is placed in the sap pocket, the other in the mouth of the tlachiquero, and the sap drawn by suction into the gourd and from there emptied into the keg. These kegs are then taken to the hacienda, and the honey water is placed in large vats to ferment. The resulting pulque has a 6 per cent alcohol content and is very powerful.

Name Honor Means "Honor"

Honor, Honora and Honoria, feminine forms of this Latin name mean "honor," while Honorate and Honorine, also feminine, mean "honored," as do the masculine forms, Honorius and Honore, the latter a French form pronounced in three syllables, writes Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. St. Honora of the Sixth century was the daughter of a British king and there was also a St. Honoria in early days. Honore, Comte de Mirabeau (d. 1791), was a French statesman. Honore de Balzac (d. 1850), French novelist, viewed his own works as part of one great human comedy. Honore Daumier (d. 1879) was a French caricaturist, painter and sculptor.

Bananas were first brought to the Western hemisphere in 1518 by the monk, Fra Tomas de Berlanga. However, it was not until 1880 that bananas were shipped to the American market by steamship.

Sweeter Profit In Sweet Cream

Keep cream cold and it will keep from souring is the theory the dairy extension department of Michigan State College is using as a base for building a quality improvement program.

Studies on the rates of growth reveal that milk destroying bacteria grow in relation to temperature. At body temperature, which is 98 degrees Fahrenheit, these bacteria multiply every half hour. At this rate one bacterium would increase to one and a half million in 10 hours. At lower storing temperatures the multiplication decreases.

Storing at 80 degrees for 24 hours causes (1) bacterium to increase to 3000 and at 70 degrees to 750. At 60 degrees one will multiply but 15 times, while at 50 degrees only one time. Bacteria found in sour milk cease to grow at 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

Producers of fluid milk take advantage of low temperatures to insure milk of good keeping quality. Most producers for the Detroit market have insulated tanks for cooling, the temperatures of which are further protected by use of insulated covers. Since power lines have been made available many producers have installed mechanical refrigerating units that cool the milk to 34 degrees.

The dairy extension specialists are advocating the use of a well built water cooling tank as a storage place for cream. Such a tank would only borrow the coolness of the water that passes through the cooling tank on its way to the stock tank. They explain that only four gallons of cold well water are needed to cool one gallon of cream to below 60 degrees.

Cream will keep sweet longer than milk if taken care of in the same manner. It must have good care if the best butter is to be made from it.

Descendants of Viking

At Visby, picturesque capital of the island of Gotland, there is presented an historical pageant, which is a popular feature of the Scandinavian season.

Over this lovely Baltic island flies the flag of Sweden and over its turreted walls and vaulted roofs there is peace—a peace shot through with dreams of long-gone grandeur, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Here roses bloom in profusion where once bearded Goths prostrated themselves in worship of the sun—where later Viking chiefs sought safe harbor for their seaway ships and where, during the Middle Ages, the all-powerful Hanseatic league established its trading center.

Here, long ago, sea-laring Gotlanders lived amid wealth and refinement, their ships the rulers of the northern seas. But their very wealth brought about their decline. Seemingly secure behind its mighty city walls, Visby allowed the tales of its great wealth to spread beyond the seas. They were minting their own gold coins, those Gotlanders—even their pigs ate from troughs of hammered silver.

Old Viking Port of Bergen

Situated at the head of the Bergensfjord and pierced by its three branches, the old Viking port of Bergen, Norway, lies wedged in between its quays and its mountains, with Floifjellet, over 1,000 feet high, rising at its back door. Tile-roofed houses in white and yellow stick to the mountain's sheer slopes like pins on a map, and a cable-car takes travelers up to Floien on its crest, where they can look down on the city and the fjord spread out below.

On the old German quay is Nordnes, the oldest part of the city, where tiny houses, jammed one against another, cling precariously to the slopes of a steep hill and narrow streets climb a zig-zag course to the top. These houses are ancient, and Bergen, in spite of its jumble of traffic, the life and color of its fish market, is an ancient city. It was founded in 1070 by King Olav Kyrre, the Peaceful, and during the Middle Ages was a great port of the Hanseatic league.

Fort Garry Became Winnipeg

Of the original Fort Garry, built about a century ago at the juncture of the Assiniboine and Red rivers in western Canada, only the gate itself remains. Fort Garry became today's Winnipeg. It was the scene of the "provisional government" which Louis Riel, the half-breed rebel, established in 1869. The Chateau de Ramezay was built in 1704 by Claude de Ramezay, eleventh governor of Montreal. It was the headquarters of Montgomery during the American occupation of the city in 1776, and in its vaults a printing press was set up by Benjamin Franklin. Benedict Arnold once lived there. Today it is a portrait gallery and museum.

United States Owns Many Islands

The number of islands owned by the United States outside the boundaries of the United States proper is estimated at more than 9,000. "Island" is not easy to define as frequently the larger oceanic islands are surrounded by innumerable islets. There are about 7,000 in the Philippines archipelago alone which have an area of one-tenth of a square mile or more each.

Used Pens for Slaves

In the eighteenth century, slave traders had their strongholds along that part of the West African coast now called French Guinea. Many a barracoon, or slave pen, was built there, with cannon for defense. And the European traders avoided the section because it was hard to navigate.

Farm Women's Week At M. S. C. on July 24

More than 800 farm women in Michigan have indicated they are going to take a week off and go to college to attend the annual Farm Women's week program at Michigan State College, July 24-29.

Study, hobbies, entertainment and recreation all are on the events scheduled for the visitors. R. W. Tenny, short course director, is planner of the program in cooperation with the home economics and home economics extension staffs.

Hobbies available for each afternoon include art, poultry, swimming, tap dancing, chorus, nature study and conservation.

For more serious study the week's program offers each morning an opportunity to indulge in newswriting, landscaping, literature, vegetable or flower gardening, modern history, dairying, home care of the sick, recreation or parliamentary usage.

Evenings are to be spent in entertainment and recreation. Those who come to the campus on Sunday, July 24 will register in campus dormitories. Rooms have been assigned to those sending in early registrations from nearly every county in the state. Some county groups requested accommodations months ago. Latecomers will register in the home economics building.

As a finale to the week, those on the campus will participate in the annual Farmers' Day program, Friday, July 29, when the agricultural staff of the college offers what is new in scientific agriculture.

Only A BRAINLESS EGOTIST

Thinks HIS Car Must Pass All Others

Of the thousands and thousands of people who read this ad, not one will agree that this might apply to him personally. We all have an idea that we are careful drivers. But unless we concentrate—unless we are always conscious of the fact that we must drive carefully—there will come a time when we will step out of line at just the wrong moment and thus take our lives into our hands and endanger the lives of others. You've often been out on an open road and seen a car race madly past you. You've seen that car dodge in and out of its lane of traffic and narrowly escape collision in an attempt to pass everything in front of it. To you that driver is a brainless egotist who thinks his car must pass all the others. That man himself is perfectly confident that all he is doing is a right smart job of getting some place in a hurry. And he's right—he is driving madly and furiously straight into oblivion—straight into the arms of death!

For fire is built at one end of each hut for cooking and the heat is carried under the house through a system of pipes and flues to the log chimney at the opposite end.

N. F. L. A. Will Hold Annual Meet Tonight

Plans have been completed for the annual meeting of the Washtenaw County National Farm Loan Association which is called for 7:30 p. m. on Thursday, July 14, at the Masonic Temple in Ann Arbor, according to R. A. Pence, secretary-treasurer.

It is believed this meeting will bring together the largest percentage of members that have met for several years. The program is expected to be the most informative and to provide for the most complete answer to all questions of any such meeting previously held.

"I know the members will be interested in the facts that have been listed on large charts, including the financial report," says Mr. Pence. "It is going to be easy for every member to learn just where our association stands. We are going to invite questions from the membership and try to make this meeting the most useful one ever held."

"One thing I would like to emphasize—this is our own meeting. The association belongs to the farmers who are members of it, and it's going to be a family affair. In the past we have sometimes had a representative of the federal land bank present to discuss questions, but this time we are going to have it all to ourselves. The bank was unable to send fully informed speakers to all meetings (so many are being held about this time) so we will try to make the best of it and maybe the members will feel freer to express their views than if someone else was there."

Mr. Pence called attention to the fact that there will be only one vote for each member this time, no matter how large a loan or how many shares any member has; and also pointed out that the election will be the most important one ever held, since two directors are to be chosen for three-year terms, and two for two-year terms.

The fifth director will be elected for one year, the same as in the past. In the past all were elected for one year.

... Proposed New Deal Party Purge Hits Some Snags

Here is the new Peace Memorial in the Gettysburg National Military park which was dedicated by President Roosevelt during the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, in which veterans of the Northern and Southern armies participated. DR. ARTHUR E. MORGAN has started a court fight to regain the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley authority from which he was ousted by President Roosevelt for what the latter termed "contumacy."

In chancery court at Knoxville, Tenn., he filed a mandamus suit asking that he be recognized as a member and chairman of the board of directors of the authority.

A. E. Morgan In the bill, which named the TVA and Directors H. A. Morgan and David E. Lillenthal as defendants, the former chairman asked for payment of back salary since his dismissal. He also asked for a declaratory judgment voiding the President's removal order and forcing the other two directors to recognize him as their chairman.

Doctor Morgan never has recognized the President's right to remove him. After starting the court action, he said he would carry his fight for reinstatement to the Supreme court if necessary.

The justice department in Washington withheld comment on the suit, but it was a foregone conclusion that the government would contest it. Before the President removed Doctor Morgan he asked the justice department whether this was within his power. Robert H. Jackson, now solicitor general, but then acting attorney general, advised "there would appear to be no question that the power of removal is in fact vested in the President."

Tells Cities to Hurry

CITIES of the nation were urged by Secretary Ickes to make haste to submit projects for PWA approval and thus play "a dominating part in bringing about recovery."

At the same time he asked business to co-operate with the government in the $1,600,000,000 building program, and warned contractors and private industry not to pay "graft" to corrupt officials in an attempt to curry political favors in the form of benefits from PWA construction.

"The success of this recovery program will depend upon the speed with which our municipalities move," he said. "They will have to produce faster than before. They will have to draw their plans more rapidly, make decisions more quickly and file their applications with alacrity."

"Involved are jobs for workmen, the creation of new business for industrial and commercial concerns, the expansion of factory payrolls, the rejuvenation of transportation systems, the spread of purchasing power, the expansion of credit, the stimulation of our securities and our banks."

'Purge' Is Hard Hit

TWO long distance messages came from Manila, from Paul V. McNutt, governor general of the Philippines and reputed boss of the Democrats of Indiana. Thereupon the New Dealers of the Hoosier state decided they could not win in November unless they renominated a Federalist Van Nuys for the senate. That gentleman had been marked for elimination by Tommy Corcoran and his fellow managers of the proposed "purge" of those who had opposed any major New Deal policies and Governor Townsend had publicly announced Van Nuys could not be renominated. The senator was planning to run as an independent. After hearing from McNutt, the governor invited the senator to present his candidacy to the state convention, and Van Nuys accepted in the interests of party harmony.

Corcoran's purge appears to have bogged down elsewhere, too. Senator George of Georgia and Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina seem likely to win renomination. In New York city Tammany decided to support Congressman John J. O'Connor, who led the fight against the reorganization bill, and several other New York members of the lower house whom Corcoran had listed for defeat.

Insists on Reorganization

IN HIS last press conference before starting on his transcontinental and Pacific ocean trip, President Roosevelt revealed that he was still determined to have Congress pass a reorganization bill, seemingly not at all discouraged by the defeat of the measure in the last congress, he said he was confident the next session would realize that the country wants such a law and would enact it. The congressmen who voted to recommit the measure favored at least 80 per cent of the bill, he said, and opposed only 10 per cent of it.

Trial Fare Raise

REVERSING a previous ruling, the interstate commerce commission in a ten-to-one decision authorized eastern railroads to increase basic passenger coach fares from 2 to 2½ cents a mile for a trial period of 18 months. Commissioner Claude R. Porter cast the only dissenting vote. Railroads estimate that the increase will mean $40,000,000 in added revenue a year. Action was taken on an appeal by the carriers for reconsideration of the commission's initial decision on March 6, when their original plea was turned down on a six to five vote. In seeking a review, the roads contended the commission had entered too greatly into the field of management. This view was concurred in by several of the commissioners, who dissented from the original majority opinion.

Want to Quit Austria

ARTHUR ROSENBERG, representing the Federation of Austrian Exiles, told a conference of 32 nations at Evian-les-Bains, France, that four and a half million Austrians will flee Nazi rule in their country if a new homeland can be found for them and they are allowed to take a substantial part of their property with them. The conference, officially the Intergovernmental Committee on Political Refugees, was instigated by President Roosevelt.

The American delegation was headed by Myron C. Taylor, former head of the United States Steel corporation, and he took the lead in the preliminaries for settling the problem of German Jews and other refugees from the Reich.

The Americans made it plain, however, that the United States attitude was one of helpfulness rather than direction. Officials said they were trying to help shape plans, but "we do not intend to be the final judges of whatever may be done."

Mr. Taylor was unanimously elected president of the conference. The Zionist Organization of America closed its forty-first convention in Detroit with an attack on what it termed Nazi violence and brutality toward Jews in Austria and Germany. Dr. Solomon Goldman of Chicago was elected president.

Use of Charcoal in Great Britain

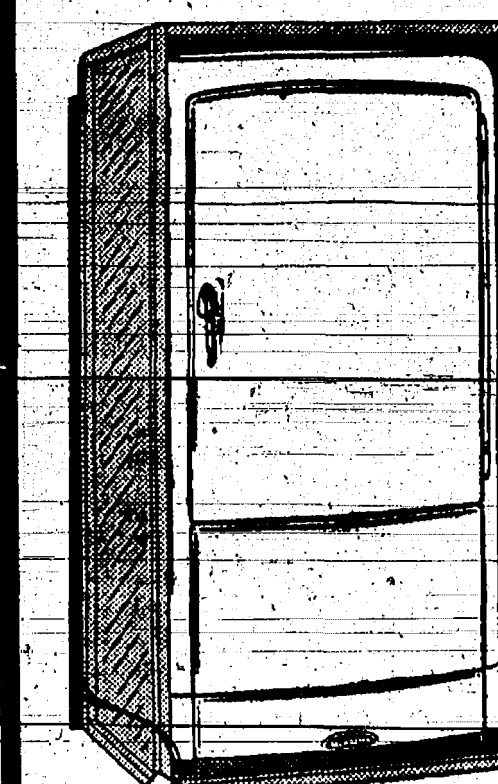

When charcoal was used in Great Britain toward the end of the Sixteenth century, the timber supply was depleted so rapidly that the government restricted the cutting of timber—and the decline of the wrought iron industry followed at once. With the introduction of coke, a product of coal, the industry revived immediately.

Cast Masters
Bronze-founding is one of the most difficult crafts on earth. A century and a half ago bronze castings were all done on the Continent; in Italy especially, where the craft has been practiced since the days of Collina. Those who wanted commissions executed usually placed them out of Britain to save the expense of sending fragile plaster casts abroad, and then, paying for them to be brought back again. About a hundred years ago, notes a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine, John Webb Singer, of Frome, travelling on the Continent, discovered the secrets that had been handed down to families through generations and returned to Britain to cast the first important group by a British bronze founder, that of Boadicea on the Embankment. His successors have continued his tradition.

Lafayette's Seventy-Mile Ride
On August 28, 1778, the youthful Marquis de Lafayette rode from Providence to Boston, a distance of nearly seventy miles, in what was then the remarkable time of several hours. His speed was justified by the urgency of his errand. Count D'Estaing had withdrawn the French fleet from co-operation with the American land forces in Rhode Island, under General Sullivan, which were seriously hampered, is not endangered, by this sudden departure of their allies. Lafayette's purpose was to urge the return of the French vessels to Narragansett bay. D'Estaing convinced him of the inadequacy of his naval forces, but offered to lead his troops by land to co-operate with the Americans.

seen beyond its confines. It is of no interest to the farmer as an insect pest of crops, for its work is confined to the dense timber stands and it is recognized by foresters for digging out destructive tree insect larvae. It is able with its strong, chisel-like bill, to penetrate the hardest woods. There are many legends woven around the pileated woodpecker. It was one of the guardian birds of the Chippewas. The Mesquimies looked upon this personification of the woods as a guide to deer hunters. Believed that where this bird worked the hardest in searching out forest insects, there would he find good deer hunting.

As our virgin timber disappears, so does the cock-of-the-woods. The two go hand in hand and there is no separating them.

Name Owen Has Two Origins
The name Owen has two origins and two meanings. Its Celtic meaning is "young warrior" and the Latin one, "well born." The name is a favorite with the Welsh. Owen Glendower (d. about 1416) was the last independent prince of Wales, before England subdued and absorbed that little country, a consummation against which he fought. He is a legendary national hero in Wales.

Now Head, You Are Tactful
If your head is narrow, measuring between the tops of the ears, you are suave, tactful, and pleasant mannered. Most people would say you have a charming personality.
The weakest point in your makeup is carelessness, particularly where money matters are concerned, says a psychologist in Pearson's London Weekly. Any work which requires idealism, patience or service to others would be suitable for example, scientific research, social service, education or the church, according to your bent. You should practice thrift, and guard against getting into financial difficulties; don't borrow or lend money, because you do not possess a "head for finance." Cultivate the friendship of people who possess a business and "money" sense, because contact with them will teach you to be more careful.

"Boring Sponges"
There are "boring sponges" which drive their way into the heart of coral and shells.

Heraclitus taught that the only stable thing in the universe is change.

Is Sunburn Dangerous?

(By G. Robert Mowerson, Director of Life Saving and Water Safety, Washtenaw County Chapter, American Red Cross).

Many a vacation has been spoiled by assuming that sunburn is not dangerous. Many a week-end at the beach has resulted in several weeks suffering and hospitalization with resultant time and income loss to people who could ill afford it.

Every bather should start out with the assumption that sunburn is dangerous. It is like any other burn, except for the fact that it is not localized; unhampered by the wispy, modern bathing suit it may affect two thirds of the body surface, bringing pain, sleeplessness, fever and even infection in its wake.

Most bathers attempt to get a coat of tan as soon as possible, and this too often results unfortunately. If one gets a little too much burn on the shoulder and uncovers the next day, that sunburn will become a blister.

Repeated the next day and sun bites deeper into the tissue. Soon we have several deep burns aggravated by files, sand, friction of shoulder straps and clothing that may lay up the bather for a week or more. Such burns should receive medical attention; they are always attended by shock.

Fifteen or twenty minutes exposure
the first day at the beach is enough, especially before three o'clock in the afternoon. The morning sun is very strong, especially toward noon. The late afternoon is usually not quite so bad. But if one covers up and protects any surface which becomes very hot and reddened by applying soothing lotion or unguent, the effects of the first burn can be cleared up before any more sun further damages the skin. The hot wind off the water is also potent and some protection from it may be necessary for already reddened skin.

Life guards are warned to wear head protection lest the direct sun rays slow up their reactions, and bathers should be warned by this and refrain from exposing their heads for too long intervals to sun's heat.
