Cooking School Glorifies Art of Home-Making

Going to school in a theater! It sounds a bit strange, doesn't it? But that is what women of the community will be doing when The Chelsea Standard's Free Motion Picture Cooking School comes to town next week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 13, 14 and 15. The show will start each day at 2 o'clock and will last about two hours.

There will be real lessons, too, lessons in measuring, mixing, and blending the ingredients for many recipes in the preparation of such triumphs as a lattice-top fruit pie; in making delicious frozen desserts and salads; in laundering fine fabrics; and in planning healthful meals for growing children.

The camera has assembled all the expert information of trained home economists—not as a routine lecture, not as a formal "highbrow" demonstration, but as a real romance of home-making, full of suspense and charm, and informal chats from one good-cook-to-another.

There will be remarkable close-ups of each process in a series of model, conveniently-equipped kitchens—real, workable kitchens (not the synthetic, false-front variety), where trained home-makers will plan and complete the preparation of several meals so the entire audience can see the process step by step.

The finished dishes, which will be shown in full color, will look as though they could be picked right out of the picture and eaten on the spot.

The class won't be at work. For there is the constant play of sparkling humor, the appeal of tender romance, the suspense of a coherent, intelligently-directed story, which dramatizes everyday happenings—the human sort of things that really do happen.

"They make cooking and housework seem so easy," the audience will say after watching the experienced home-makers in "Star in My Kitchen" instruct the eager, young Deface Abot. And cooking will become easy for every woman who attends the Motion Picture Cooking School, where the lessons will be simple yet remarkably effective.

In addition to the daily recipe sheets, a generous supply of gifts are destined to be carried home by women from the Princess Theatre. Don't miss the 1938-model school, October 13, 14 and 15, in the Princess Theatre.

Author Will Address Kiwanis Convention

Dr. Lloyd C. Douglas, Los Angeles, Calif., famed lecturer and author, will deliver the opening address at the coming Michigan convention, Ann Arbor, Sunday evening, October 9, in Hill Auditorium. Three of Dr. Douglas' books have been made in motion pictures—"Magnificent Obsession," "The Green Light" and "White Banner." The first and second balconies will be open to the public, with no admission charge.

A most unique musical feature of the Michigan Kiwanis convention to be held in Ann Arbor, October 9, 10, 11, will be the appearance of the Ypsilanti High School Girls Drum and Bugle Corps, under the direction of Kiwanian John Barnhill. The girls are on the program for Monday noon, October 10.

Bennett O. Knudson, Albert Lea, Minn., vice-president of Kiwanis International for the United States, will be the international representative at the convention. Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, famed lecturer and traveler, will be the speaker at the Governor's Banquet of the convention, to be held in the Michigan Union on Tuesday evening, Oct. 11.

Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, will appear on the program at the Religious Musicale to be held Sunday evening in Hill Auditorium. Frank P. Price, Dominion Carillonneur of Ottawa, Can., will give a special concert on the Bald Carillon at 7:15 Sunday evening.

Lansing—One of the Republicans' leading handicaps, lack of knowledge as to who would form their state ticket, was removed this week by action at the convention in Grand Rapids.

For months the Murphy administration has had the edge on their opponents. Leaders had agreed that top office-holders would be renominated. The sole uncertainty was the lieutenant governorship—Leo J. Nowicki or George Schroeder—and the primary settled that.

With all the personalities picked and at the barrier, the great race is on.

The only unknown factor in the campaign is the possible development of issues between now and Nov. 8.

What is "McKayism"?

At a recent press dinner here, at which he confided that he had enjoyed "as good a press as any governor," Frank Murphy reiterated such phrases as "good government," "social justice" and "economic progress." These are symbols from the New Deal testament.

As contrast to this, there is every sign that the administration will try to smear Frank McKay, the Grand Rapids republican leader.

Efforts will be made to picture McKay as a vicious Tammany Hall, a greedy tiger at the public tax trough, and so on.

The smear-McKay move, however, has interesting possibilities, some of which might be at the expense of Murphy's own party. If Lansing rumors are to be believed, McKay and State Treasurer Theodore Fry have been close friends for many years. It is no secret that the Fry brothers and the governor have been on "outs" for many months and that Theodore, state treasurer, was on the verge of not running again because of these personal differences.

Proof Is Needed

Capitol observers doubt that McKay can be turned into a political bogeyman by mere talk.

In other words, the administration will have to deliver the goods in the form of grand jury evidence before the average voter will get excited.

It is known that a group of influential men confronted Frank Fitzgerald, prior to the primary, with an ultimatum somewhat as follows: We will support you if, according to your knowledge and testimonial, the McKay case is clean.

New Style of License Plates Approved for '40

Larger and more legible license plates are to be made for the year 1940, according to Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, who has recently approved of the new design. The 1940 plates are to be wider and the length varying with the size of the numbers stamped on it. The style of the numerals will also be changed, making the plate more readable. This has been advocated by the State Police and the Police and Sheriff's departments for several years.

The new plates will be so punched that when affixed to the license bracket of a car, there will be a more firm contact and eliminate rattles and the number of lost plates.

The old dies, for stamping out license plates now nearly worn out, have been in service for eight years and have stamped nearly 18 million pairs of license plates. The new dies will also allow a different spacing of the numerals.

The auto license plant of the Michigan State Industries is able to turn out 18,000 complete sets of license plates every eight hour working day.

OUR NEIGHBORS

NORTHVILLE—A profit of $1,300, in addition to $2,500 spent for improvements to buildings and grounds, was realized from the 1938 Northville Wayne County Fair, according to President Elmer L. Smith.—Record

PINKNEY—Eight business places were entered here Monday night and money, probably totalling less than $100 taken. The places entered were Gulf Gas Station, Seamon Grocery, Teeple Hardware, Dixie Oil Station, Shirley Oil Station, White Star Oil Station, Read's Elevator and Grand Trunk depot. The garage at the C. J. Clinton place was also entered and an attempt apparently was made to steal the auto belonging to the tenant Arthur Dahlstrom. Here they failed.—Dispatch

BRIGHTON—The people of Brighton, interested in selecting a flower to be used extensively as a "City Flower" next summer, are being given a chance this week to vote for their choice. The flowers to be voted on are annuals, phlox, petunias, zinnias, marigolds, and verbenas.—Argus event was one of the turning points in the Toy-Fitzgerald primary feud.

Outlook Bright
Despite the European war storm, the outlook for business continues to look bright in the judgment of Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors Corp.

Resumption of the assembly line in automobile factories has injected new optimism throughout the state.

From the Social Security board office in Washington comes heartening news that Michigan leads all other industrial states in the decline of the number of persons receiving general relief. Flint led all industrial cities with a decline of 82 per cent.

Flaming Forests
Our grandfathers never heard of such things as "color tours," and yet this wrinkle in the Michigan tourist business is beginning to take on promising proportions.

It was 12 years ago that Fred Rogers, then state highway commissioner, conceived the idea while on a trip through Newaygo county.

This Saturday, Oct. 8, the 1938 tours through the "flaming forests" will begin in nearly a score of West Michigan counties.

Brownrigg Secure
At Lansing amid the civil service controversy there is one man whose job is apparently secure, regardless of the outcome of qualifying examinations, commission decisions and so forth.

William Brownrigg, state personnel director, has managed to steer a careful path. Recently he received the blessing of Republican Nominee Fitzgerald under whose auspices the civil service study commission was created. Brownrigg has been staunchly defended by Governor Murphy, even in the face of reversed decisions.

Action of the legislature to create a state pension system for superannuated employees is recommended by Brownrigg who would make it retroactive to cover workers who failed to pass qualifying examinations. It is estimated that 100 or 200 of such cases exist among the 16,000 employees who have taken the tests.

Thus the civil service plan, newly born at Lansing, is having expected "growing pains." Despite all the talk and fuss, Michigan is sure to retain civil service for state employees.

Municipal Problem
Exponents of home rule are praising the state welfare reorganization act on which Michigan voters will make a decision Nov. 8.

Kenneth J. McCarren, Detroit city assessor and president of the Michigan Municipal League, declares that public aid is largely a municipal problem and for that reason "municipalities endorse the economies the new program will provide."

In McCarren's judgment the choice is local control or state control. So far, the welfare act has not become a campaign issue. Because of its non-partisan history, chances are slight that it will be involved in the gubernatorial race.

Once upon a time the telephone switchboards of Michigan were like sleepy country crossroads. . . Today's switchboards are like the busy, well-regulated intersections of the most crowded motor highways, thronged with hurrying traffic day and night.

Chelsea High Scores
Second League Victory

Long Live Chelsea!

Chelsea, with one Huron League victory under its belt, took the field last Friday against a much heavier and more experienced Clinton high school team, but defeated them the hard way to the tune of 6-0.

Chelsea outplayed Clinton throughout the entire game, scoring seven first downs to Clinton's three. In a final effort to down Chelsea, Clinton took to the air but had no success as their passes failed to gain any yardage.

Chelsea scored her lone touchdown in the second quarter when on a third down the boys faked a punt with Bahmiller passing to Strieter who ran fifty yards for the lone tally under fine blocking by the Chelsea team. The line failed on the point after the touchdown, letting the whole Clinton forward waltz through to block Schneider's kick from placement.

The remainder of the game saw Chelsea threaten the Clinton goal line twice but after being penalized once and checked the second time they failed to score again.

Tomorrow Chelsea continues on its quest for the League championship by tussling with a highly-regarded Dundee eleven which boasts of the fact that they haven't been beaten in two years. Let's see you all over at Dundee to help the aggregation from Chelsea defeat this team of Samson's! Is it a date?

Girls' Glee Club

"La-la-la-a-a! Nice, clear head-tones, girls! Open your mouth and relax your throats!" It's Miss Sprague urging along the Girls' Glee Club, which, under her excellent leadership and in spite of all obstacles is progressing slowly but surely. And there are plenty of obstacles! Practice is held three times a week during activity period—but so are club meetings, which means that we literally do "part singing", i. e., part of us at one time and part at another. Nevertheless, we all love the work, especially when it is sugar-coated in the form of new songs. We hope to burst forth this year with something really good.

F. F. A. News

"I move that the nominations be closed," and with the raising of hands J. D. West was elected president of the Future Farmers of America, Chelsea Chapter, while Martin Merkel was elected vice-president and John Stoffer, treasurer. Duane Rowe, as secretary, recorded the meeting.

Plans were discussed for the Community Fair and the sending of a delegate to the F. F. A. convention to be held at Kansas City, Mo., this month.

Senior Stand

A stand for the sale of candy, gum, beverages and hot dogs has been constructed recently by some of the Senior boys.

Although it was used last Friday at the Clinton football game it is not yet complete. A roof will be added and the stand painted.

This project is under the personal supervision of David Eaton.

Fire Drill

A fire drill was given twice Friday in the Chelsea high school. On the first drill the count was one minute and four seconds. On the second drill the count was 59½ seconds.

Last year the lowest count was 55 seconds. One of the teachers stated that they thought the difference was because some of the students in study hall took a lot more time than is necessary.

The average time that they should be able to do it in should be forty-five seconds—no more and no less!

Many students take the fire drill as a time to cut-up. This last drill did not promise a lot of survivors in the event of a future fire.

AROUND 'N' ABOUT THE SCHOOL

Dear Folks:

Listen to this: "A brilliantly-lighted gymnasium Friday evening revealed an All-High Party in full swing. Each guest with a colored football pinned to his shoulder was engaged in a contest of something or other—skill or brains. (I think it was mostly skill; one so rarely sees much of the other.) There, how's that for a beginning? It's the result of four weeks in the English department this year. They tell us we must get more color in our writing—more umph! But wait! I finish about Friday night. My dears, I've just been too rushed to get it all down on paper. But this is what I saw when I looked in at 8:00 p. m.:

Potatoes were being tossed in the air and speared with a fork as they fell—maybe. Try it, it's not easy. Paper plates were hurled through the air—discus-fashion toward a large table. Milk caps were tossed toward highly-numbered floor circles, ping pong balls bounced into egg cartons, or marbles tossed into a megaphone.

It was all too tantalizing and too exasperating! How simple it looked—but how deceiving are appearances. And then in the heat of the fray, the cave-voice of the master of ceremonies cut through the garble of voices.

"Ladies and gentlemen," it was the clear accents of program chairman Maynard Costello (Junior class president to you) calling for attention. "Ladies and gentlemen, please be seated for a short while and permit us to offer a bit of theatrical entertainment."

This, in effect, was the signal given for class stunts. The ninth grade was on hand with a side-show—side-splitting it was, too. The tenth grade offered "food for thought," with the high school "brain trust" giving a resume of the European crisis! Oh, my, one doesn't realize how serious things are over there until one sees so vivid, vivifying, vivacious and vitrolic (fancy it!) a presentation as this was.

And then, as if to cap a fine, high-brow program, members of the Junior class presented their version of that rare old singing drama: "No, No, a Thousand Times No!" Feminine members of the audience paled at the electrifying appearance of the villain (Garner Steum; my dears, you wouldn't have known him), while male members drew back abashed at the transcendent loveliness of Paul Schneider—our heroine in a sheath-like gown of delicate yellow. And then, well, actually, the state militia had to help the hero (Wayne Van Orman) in his plight—feminine autograph seekers were that thick! It's a good thing that trio of lovely voices—Barbara Schenk, Janis Dancer and Joan Walworth, had a previous soothing effect on the crowd with a few renditions of popular numbers, or there's no telling where we might have ended.

Almost before we had recovered from our amazement at the new "find" in operatic stars, Mr. Dunstan favored us with a clarinet solo. Seriously, it was so well-done. We wish he hadn't been so modest about giving us more. He'd better watch out, though, he'll be swamped with requests soon—now that everybody knows about him.

Following that, the Seniors grew expansive and gave us caramel apples. After we had worked off our excitement in the chewing of them, we began to dance to the tune of brand new dance records. Gee, it was swell. If only they hadn't felt duty-bound to turn us out at 11:30.

Well, it was a real start toward the school year—here's hoping there'll be more of the same thing in the same class.

Love—Anony. Mous.

One of our classmates, Earl Van Riper, is ill in the University hospital. Ruth Paul and Marjorie Gilson have written to him. Last week James Gaunt brought the class some gladioli to send to Earl. Mrs. Eise-man took the bouquet to the hospital for us.

We have had two mourning doves for nearly a week. They appear well enough to set free soon. Anne Lamberton and Patricia Hopper brought us the young one. It was just out of the nest and had to be fed with a medicine dropper. Ruth Paul later brought us an adult dove. Her left wing was slightly injured. Mrs. Dancer's room furnished a cage and food for them.

The Chinese li, a measure of length, is the equivalent of one one-hundredth of a day's walk; on the level, this slightly exceeds one-third of an English mile, but in hilly country it might be as little as one-eighth of a mile.

At Amiens, France, a museum is dedicated to the memory of Jules Verne. It graphically reveals how many of his "wild imaginings" such as "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" actually became realities in such devices as the submarine.

How Cormorants Are Trained

Young cormorants have a ring placed around the neck to prevent their swallowing fish, and they soon learn to bring all captures to their masters. A well trained male cormorant will continue to catch fish for about five years. Fishing with cormorants is an important industry in China and Japan.

Celebration of Columbus Day Recalls Three Famed Replicas

Each year, as America observes Columbus day, attention is focused on Jackson park in Chicago, where stands the sole survivor of three caravels—exact replicas of Columbus' Pinta, Nina and Santa Maria—which were constructed in Spain for the Columbian exposition. The Pinta and Nina were destroyed by fire in 1919 but the Santa Maria (in the background) is still afloat. The boats in which Columbus made his pioneering voyage are dwarfed by modern ocean liners. For comparison, note the rowboats in foreground.

According to the Bureau of Public Health service, babies will react to light the first day after birth. Indicating that they are not entirely blind when born. On about the sixth day their eyes will follow a light. Clear perception of objects comes during the fifth month, according to an American article on infancy, which states that hearing is in abeyance for several days, a baby at birth being practically deaf. After a week or 10 days this function begins and later hearing becomes very acute, the infant being able to recognize the mother's voice or a foot step at about three months.

CHILDREN IN COURT

Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Types of Parents
Three boys recently stood in court and illustrated the point that perfectly normal children can become delinquent even though they come from widely divergent types of homes. The first youngster came from a splendid home, and became delinquent because of a brief laxity of supervision on the part of his parents. The child was permitted to return to his home, however, after his father and mother were made to realize that they were really capable of correcting the situation without outside support.

The second boy also came from a good home environment. His parents, however, were unable to control his child's conduct because "outside" influences interfered with their home discipline. In this instance it was necessary for the court to assist the parents by calling in the local police to remove the unwelcome influences that existed outside the home.

The third offender was a product not only of poor parentage, but also of a vicious environment. Therefore the court was compelled to remove this youngster from his environment and place him in an adequate boarding home. Even this procedure would not have corrected the symptoms of delinquency in the child if he had possessed a low intelligence quotient which would have prohibited him from expressing an earnest desire to reform.

Now that schools are again in session, a few words of warning to parents are timely.

Teach your children to be extremely careful on their way to school, teach them to cross streets only at intersections, and then only after they have looked to left and right. If it is necessary for your children to walk on the highways, instruct them to walk on the left-hand side and to step off the road if necessary. Remind them daily!

School patrols stationed at busy intersections near schools have made crossing streets easier and safer for our children. Yet accidents happen not only where traffic is heavy, but also where traffic is light.

Urge your children to use good judgment on their trips to and from school.

Gundry Is Preparing for Tax Sale in 1939

George T. Gundry, Auditor General, announced this week from his State Capitol office in Lansing, that all delinquent property for 1938 and prior years will be placed on sale in the various 83 County Treasurer's offices throughout the State on May 2, 1939. Mr. Gundry further added that the sale will be held in compliance with the laws set up by the 1937 Legislature.

Preparation for the huge task of posting descriptions and the compilation of the tax records has already begun. Although the sale will not be as large in magnitude as compared to the tax sale of 1938, it is estimated that approximately 600,000 descriptions will be offered for sale. These descriptions will include all property for which the 1938 taxes have not been paid in full, or the second installment (under the Moratorium plan) on the 1938, 1934, and 1934 taxes and the fourth installment on the 1932 and prior year's taxes.

Auditor General Gundry has organized a force of experienced employees that are now working on this tremendous clerical job and it is believed that it will not be necessary to hire any additional help outside of the regular staff. Tax sale lists will be completed for all of the 83 counties by March 1, 1939, although some of the counties will have their lists completed and ready for publication in November 1938, depending on the opening date of Circuit Court in the respective counties. The local newspapers must publish five publications of the tax sale list prior to the opening of Circuit Court.

After successfully completing the tax sale of May, 1938, Mr. Gundry was sincerely complimented by many business leaders and county authorities throughout the State on his efficient handling of what at first appeared to be an impossible task. As previously published, the 1938 tax sale was the largest ever held in the history of Michigan—involving the posting and compilation of some 1,300,000 descriptions.

Derived From Archery
The term "God save the mark" is derived from archery, and is an expression to avert evil. When a man hit the mark he prayed that another archer might not hit it and thus disturb his arrow.

Primary Elections
Primaries were first employed in this country in local elections in certain parts of Pennsylvania. Minnesota provided primaries for Hennepin county in 1899. The first state to adopt them for all elections was Wisconsin, in 1904. Ohio established primary elections in 1909.

Art of Glassmaking Has Long Survived in Venice

Glassmaking has been associated with the Venetians for more than 700 years. In the city of Venice since about the year 1000 glassmakers have expressed in their designs something of the splendor of the city, its gaiety and sparkling color. The guild of glassmakers was established on the Island of Murano in the Adriatic during the 1200s. The furnaces have never been transferred from that little hidden spot and the industry has had a continuous history that is full of interest both on the artistic and human side. Glassmaking reached a high development in Venice during the Crusades and continued all through the days of Venetian power and glory. Through days of misfortune in the history of this city, notes Alice R. Rollins in the Los Angeles Times, the furnaces at one time were almost extinguished, but in the nineteenth century the craft was revived and many of the early traditions which had been preserved were followed.

More than any other of the arts that were brought to such high development in Venice, glassmaking seems to have been a peculiar product of her environment. It is characterized by gracefulness in form and an especial ethereal quality in color and texture. It seems to take on something of the charm of the sea and the softly sparkling atmosphere.

The President's Flag
The President's flag consists of the President's seal in bronze, upon a blue background with a large white star in each corner. The seal consists of an eagle, holding arrows, symbolic of war, in one claw and an olive branch, symbolic of peace, in the other. The design of this seal is on the floor of the entrance to the White House. When the President visits a vessel of the United States, the President's flag is broken at the main, the moment he reaches the deck and is kept flying as long as he is on board. When the President is embarked on a boat he usually directs that his flag be displayed from the staff in the bow of his barge. When he passes in a "boat" flying his flag, vessels of the navy parade the full guard, four ruffles are given on the drum, bugle, the national anthem is played by the band, and officers and men salute.

JERUSALEM SCHOOL NEWS

The Jerusalem school opened Tuesday, Sept. 6 with an enrollment of 20. There are 4 beginners, 3 second grade, 4 fourth grade, 4 sixth grade and 5 seventh grade.

The following have not been absent nor tardy during the month: Lois Schlosser, Robert Trinkle, Junior Barth, Zella Forshee, Joyce Hoffman, Donald Koch, Joyce Eisenman, Norman and Robert and Carl Koch, Loren Trinkle.

During the summer the teacher varnished our large bookcase, her desk, our reading table and chairs and also painted our work table and chairs and the swing boards.

We have a very nice new radio which we bought with the money we earned from our exhibits at the Washtenaw County Fair. We also have another dictionary and a ball.

The first week of school the teacher took our pictures by grades and also a group picture.

We have had our eyes tested and been weighed and had height taken.

We have an interesting inspection chart. We try each morning to pass the inspection. Our Health Club president for September was Lois Schlosser and the secretary was Robert Trinkle. Our Health Club committees are working well.

We each made a chart upon which to record our weekly average in arithmetic. Most of us have made some gains.

We also made a booklet to graph our Word Study marks each day. We find these interesting.

We hang up all our 100 per cent papers for a month. Several of us didn't get any up this month but we hope to do better next month.

We have started reading books again and some have finished two. We have them recorded on the book chart.

The beginners and second grade have been illustrating Mother Goose stories and poems. The second grade have started our Picture Study Book.

They have three pictures studied and stories written.

The fourth grade have made a scene of Bagdad in the sandbox in connection with their geography. They have their picture and clipping collection for geography started.

The sixth grade made an interesting booklet on the Development in Transportation, which contains pictures, stories, clippings and drawings.

They also made their History Cycles. They also made a large one for the room. They also made a poster on Modern Methods of Farming and also Old Methods of Farming.

The seventh grade are adding pictures to the Colonial History Book. The rest of the grades are helping.

The seventh grade also made a history map of early explorations.

For Art we made a large envelope in which we keep our papers. This helps to keep our desk neater. We have been drawing some good fall pictures. The sixth grade drew some good pictures on correct use of eyes in connection with their health.

We have had our room decorated with flowers brought by the children, and also some plants.

Ronald and Duane Gentner have left our school and are now attending school at Chelsea. We were all sorry to have them leave.

We have had several callers and visitors during the month: Mrs. Floyd Gentner, Mrs. Milton Hoffman, Mrs. Erwin Haist, Mrs. Arthur Barth, Mrs. Stanley Valant, Mrs. Inez Rank, Mrs. Mildred Robinson and T. J. Dalberg.

'Oz' for Ounces, a Symbol
The "oz" for ounce is a symbol, rather than a true abbreviation. The word is derived from the French "once," which in turn comes from the Latin "uncia," meaning twelfth part. According to the Oxford dictionary it is a Fifteenth century abbreviation of "Fonza," Italian for "ounce," the abbreviation being retained in English. Other authorities, however, state that the "z" was used by early printers for the arbitrary mark of terminal contraction. During the middle ages a character similar to "z" was used at the ends of abbreviated words, and the early printers not having type for the symbol used the "z," which was the nearest to it in the printer's case.

The Laurentian Mountains
The Laurentian mountains constitute a crescent-shaped plateau-like height of land in British North America, extending for over 3,000 miles from Labrador to the Arctic ocean, surrounding Hudson bay, forming the watershed between Hudson bay, the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes, and dividing the same bay from the sources of the Mackenzie river. The average elevation of this range is about 1,500 feet, although some of the peaks attain an altitude of 3,000 feet.

Naming New York's Bowery
The Bowery, famous New York street, got its name from the Great Bowrie (farm) of Governor Peter Stuyvesant.

Use of 'Doggy' Expressions
Most of us don't realize how often we use "doggy" expressions in our everyday speech. Jenny Teeter, writing in Dog News magazine, lists these expressions in an interesting way. "He dogged my footsteps" indicates too much attention from an acquaintance, but probably originated from the habit of devoted dogs of following their masters. "Being hounded" is not quite the same thing, because it connotes nagging and probably sprang from the traits of hounds which follow their quarry until their job is completed. Other expressions which have their origin in the habits of dogs include "barking up the wrong tree," "his bark is worse than his bite," "baying the moon," "crooked as a dog's hind leg," "dog tired," "working like a dog," "leading a dog's life," and "let every dog have his day."

Service for Broken Dolls
Every year priests of the Tokoku temple in Sugamo, Tokyo, hold services for the broken dolls of the children of Japan. The ceremonies are solemnly attended by the "parents" of the shattered toys. Another unique service is that held for broken needles.

Birds That Fly High
Storks and cranes have been seen flying 20,000 feet above sea level over the Himalayas in India. A vulture has been seen 25,000 feet above sea level around Mt. Everest, which is in the Himalayas.

Termites Use Caterpillars
A naturalist describes the occurrence of the larvae of a Tineid moth in the nests of a New Zealand termite. The larvae depend upon the material of the nest for their food, and they may be seen moving along in file, at regular intervals, as if in a procession, each escorted by a few soldier and worker termites. It appears that the larvae exude a strong odor which is attractive to the termites. Just as one may have flowers in his room for the sake of their perfume, so the termites have caterpillars.

Pilot Fish Friend of Shark
The pilot fish is the one and only faithful friend of the shark, most feared monster of the deep. The pilot fish, a handsome little fellow of blue and gold, swims in perfect safety in front of the shark's terrible snout and guides the killer to its prey. As a reward he obtains scraps of food and is said to feed also on parasites which infest the shark's skin.

The Word 'Intelligence'
The word "intelligence" originated from a Latin word meaning to understand, literally to choose between.

Belief of the Hindoos
