Chelsea Champions To Play Here On Friday

By Jim Daniels
Chelsea High meets Manchester on the local gridiron tomorrow in a game which promises to be one of the most dramatic and thrilling of the season. Neither team has been defeated this year, although both have played tie games. Both will be giving every ounce of individual effort and teamwork they possess.

The Chelsea boys, under the leadership of Coach "Charlie" Cameron, have developed into a championship team, winning the Huron League title for the first time since 1931.

Scores of their games in Huron League competition and last Friday's game with the Jackson High Reserve team are as follows:

Belleville	0	Chelsea	7
Clinton	0	Chelsea	8
Dumess	0	Chelsea	0
Tecumseh	0	Chelsea	20
Saline	0	Chelsea	25
Roosevelt	12	Chelsea	12
Milan	0	Chelsea	14
Jackson	7	Chelsea	28

Total 19 Total 118
With such a record it is only fitting that the citizens of Chelsea should show their interest through their whole-hearted support of the team and their attendance at tomorrow's game.

Nine of Chelsea's boys will be wearing the purple and gold for the last time and it's a safe bet that they will make the final score of tomorrow's game a fitting epitaph to their achievements as members of Chelsea's football team.

Those to be lost by graduation are: Captain David Strieter, Charles Bahnmiller, John Fletcher, Howard Haselschwerdt, Duane Rowe, Bud Rabley, Stuart Dingle, Rolly White and Stuart Roy.

In Manchester interest in this game has been running high, and stores will be closed there so that everyone will be able to see the game.

Not to be outdone, petitions have been circulated in Chelsea and the majority of our business men have agreed to close during game time. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Thursday night the students will have a pep meeting and bonfire on the school lawn, and the band is expected to march through town, weather permitting.

But seven more important than pep meetings and closing the stores is your actual attendance—let's give our support to a team that deserves it!

Union Thanksgiving Service Next Wed.

The union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Congregational church next Wednesday evening at 7:30. The choir of the church will offer special music under the direction of Mrs. Fred Hall. Rev. H. Addis Leeson will preach the sermon.

Opening worship will be conducted by Rev. Ray W. Barber. Rev. Henry W. Lenz will read the Scripture lesson; the evening prayer will be offered by Rev. Fred Mumby. In the absence of Rev. P. H. Grabowski, who finds it necessary to be away in service elsewhere, Rev. Fontana of Rogers Corners will represent him and St. Paul's church and will lead the responsive lesson, and pronounce the benediction.

The opportunity is given and the invitation extended to all in the community to participate in the service. Pastors of the churches urge all who can to join in this real Thanksgiving occasion.

CHELSEA POTATOES WIN.
Arthur Young spent several days of last week at the Southwestern Michigan Potato Show in Greenville. Mr. Young exhibited a 50-lb. sample of Irish Cobbler in the special growers' contest for table potatoes. There were 130 entries in this division and the local exhibitor placed first, and also scored the highest point in the cooking test. These potatoes were taken to Grand Rapids to be exhibited this week. This puts Chelsea on the map as a potato growing center. Mr. Young had a yield of 350 bushels per acre this year, being grown from certified seed, producing an excellent seed stock.

CELEBRATE 57TH ANNIVERSARY
Mr. and Mrs. Louis Burg were honored Sunday evening at their home when their children and their families gathered to participate in the celebration of the fifty-seventh wedding anniversary of the couple.

A pot-luck supper was served at 6:30 o'clock, after which the evening was spent in music and visiting. A special feature was a vocal duet by the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Burg. Fifty relatives were present from Detroit, Highland Park, Ann Arbor, Jackson and Chelsea. Mr. and Mrs. Burg were presented a number of lovely gifts.

BAKE SALE
The Ladies' Aid of the Zion Lutheran church of Rogers Corners will hold a bake sale Saturday, November 18, at Chelsea Hardware Co., starting at 2 o'clock.

Murphy's Defeat Was Due To Labor Policy, Says Writer

By Gene Alleman
Lansing—Swinging of the pendulum of public opinion in protest against labor radicalism—the 1937 sit-down strikes in automobile and other manufacturing factories, retail stores and even private utility plants—has returned the Republicans into power and responsibility in Michigan.

It was not so much an affirmative vote of confidence in Frank Fitzgerald and the remainder of the Republican state and legislative ticket. It was a ballot protest.

For many months political observers have been aware of a "jelling" of public opinion against the over-enthusiastic demonstrations in Michigan of the C. I. O. Lewis' defeat in the Detroit municipal election was a fore-runner. Gallup polls have consistently shown that the C. I. O. was in high disfavor with the electorate.

In the judgment of this commentator, the November election afforded the people of Michigan their first opportunity to spank the sit-downers. And in doing so, they had to spank Governor Frank Murphy and his administration. It was just inevitable.

Republicans in Control
The beneficiaries of the ballot protest were the Republicans who return to authority again at Lansing.

Whereas Governor Murphy had an unruly state senate, with the balance of power in the hands of Republicans and a few conservative Democrats, Mr. Fitzgerald will have no legislative allies in 1939.

The senate is under Republican control 23 to 9, while the house is predominantly G. O. P., 74 to 28.

Hunters Take to Woods for Annual Buck Kill

Lansing—Most of the approximately 180,000 deer hunters who are expected to attempt to get their buck this month are now in the woods, especially those who go into the more remote regions of the state, such as in the upper peninsula, and who plan to stay through the entire two weeks' season. These hunters usually prefer to get on the ground early in order to have camp in order, provisions in and wood cut before the opening day of the season. A considerable number of hunters went north across the Straits over the week-end, with others following since that time.

As in past seasons, the conservation department is prepared for the fever of activity which the deer hunt always entails, by the transfer of a number of conservation officers from the southern part of the state for special patrol in northern sections. Checking stations will be established at different points in the deer country and moved from place to place frequently. No law enforcement station will be maintained at the Straits but investigators from the game division will be on hand gathering information from hunters regarding their kill and conditions in the sections where they hunt.

Although last year's number of licensed deer hunters, 157,000, is expected to be exceeded this year and although there are believed to be more deer in Michigan than ever before, game investigators and conservation officers are not ready to predict a larger kill of bucks than in 1937. Such factors as weather conditions and the proficiency of the hunters play a large part in the season regardless of the amount of game. Last year's kill of bucks totaled about 40,000. Warm weather and a lack of snow at the start of the season handicapped the hunters seriously.

Michigan's deer herd is estimated at more than a million animals. The area favorable to deer in the summer includes about 34,500 square miles. The winter range is only about 1,985 square miles.

Stores Will Close for Football Game Friday
In order that everyone may have the opportunity to witness the football game between Manchester and Chelsea at the local athletic field tomorrow afternoon, practically all business places will be closed from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Christmas Seals Go On Sale Next Week

Meeting the challenge of a slight, but significant, uptrend in Michigan's tuberculosis death rate, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association this week continued preparations to put 60,000,000 tuberculosis Christmas seals into homes of Michigan residents on Thanksgiving Day. Calling attention to the challenge thrown out by the White Plague, Dr. John Alexander, famed chest surgeon of Ann Arbor's University hospital and newly-elected president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, declared that Michigan is now facing an unlooked for obstacle in her fight to control tuberculosis.

"Instead of the expected decrease in the number of tuberculosis deaths in Michigan last year, there was an increase, attributed by some to the rigors of depression," Dr. Alexander said. "The increased tuberculosis death rate for 1937, continuing the upward trend of the rate for 1936, proves better than anything else that while the fight against the White Plague is a winning one, the battle ahead presents a sternly serious problem."

Emphasis was placed on the fact that back of the whole anti-tuberculosis campaign of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated organizations are the pennies that Michigan people contribute when they buy each year the tuberculosis Christmas seals. Briefly outlining the principal points of the campaign to control the White Plague in Michigan, Dr. Alexander pointed out that through health education the Association relays important facts about the disease to people in every corner of the state; that through modern case-finding facilities—the tuberculin test and the chest X-ray—the spread of tuberculosis germs is prevented to a great extent.

"In buying and using penny tuberculosis Christmas seals," said Dr. Alexander, "Michigan residents are providing assurance that their homes will be protected from the menace of tuberculosis."

The sale is being sponsored locally by the Kiwanis club.

HUTZEL-DUNKEL WEDDING

At a quiet ceremony performed at 7:30 on Friday evening at St. Andrew's parsonage, Dexter, Miss Helen Hutzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutzel of Scio township, became the bride of Mahlon C. Dunkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Dunkel of Chelsea. Rev. Albert A. Schoen was the officiating clergyman and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Andres of Ann Arbor.

The bride wore a dress of dahlia wool with dubonnet hat and accessories, while Mrs. Andres was gowned in a rose-colored wool, with accessories of black. Swansonia pink rosebuds and gardenias formed their corsages.

A wedding supper for the immediate families was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Dunkel, a graduate of Hamilton Business College, Ann Arbor, is employed in the office of the Federal Screw Works, while Mr. Dunkel, who graduated from Chelsea high school and from Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., is traveling salesman for the Federal Screw Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunkel, in company with Mr. and Mrs. David Otis, are spending a week in northern Michigan.

For the present, they will make their home at Cavanaugh Lake.

CELEBRATE 56TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Weber were happily surprised on Sunday when their children, with their families, gathered at their home on West Summit street in celebration of their 56th wedding anniversary.

Yellow chrysanthemums centered the table where a bountiful dinner was served, two wedding cakes being special features.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Weber, also Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lammer and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Boland of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Weber and children of Ypsilanti, Mrs. Joseph Seckinger and family of Clark's Lake; Miss Doris Seckinger and William North of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Weber and family and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Weber of Sylvan township; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Weber, Mrs. Leo Forner and children of Chelsea.

GETS BUCK IN CANADA

E. J. Claire returned Friday from Canada with a 10-point buck which he shot the previous Monday at Batchawana Bay on Lake Superior in Ontario, about 25 miles beyond the Soo. This is believed to be the first buck shot by a Washtenaw county man this year. The season in southern Canada opens November 1, 15 days before shooting is legal in Michigan, continuing through November 25. Mr. Claire was accompanied on the hunting trip by his son, O. J. Claire of Pontiac, who shot a 250-pound deer. Mr. Claire's deer weighed 200 pounds.

Michigan Ranks 12th In Poultry Raising

Michigan ranks nationally about 12th in a huge poultry industry, yet too many of the state's 100,000 farms are keeping laying flocks without records and without profit.

To make poultry more efficient and profitable, a new bulletin has been compiled by the farm management department at Michigan State College, "Profitable Poultry Management," Special Bulletin No. 294.

Eighty-three per cent of farms maintain a flock either large or small in this state, according to the last census. Cost figures obtained by K. T. Wright indicate that among co-operators in the cost studies the most efficient poultrymen were able to show a net annual return of 86 cents a hen. The same study for the least efficient showed other poultrymen had an average loss of 21 cents a hen.

Five production factors were considered. These included eggs laid by the average hen in a flock, fall production, feeding efficiency, death loss and culling percentage, and labor efficiency.

Flocks studied were above the average in size and efficiency. Yet in Wright's opinion this only emphasizes the effect of poor management by less efficient and more average poultry keepers. The bulletin offers proof of the effects of watching the most important factors for profitable management.

Fifteen counties in the state are credited with more than a quarter million chickens each. Allegan leads, followed by Ottawa, Lenawee, Saginaw, Huron, Hillsdale, Monroe, Tuscola, Sanilac, Van Buren, St. Clair, Kent, Macomb, Washtenaw and Berrien.

Question And Answer Dept.

Problem—What candidate for President of the United States received more than 250,000 votes than his opponent, but was not seated as President of the United States? (Answer elsewhere in this department.)

Ques.—Will you kindly answer what a four-flusher is?

Ans.—In common parlance a four-flusher is applied to any bluffer. The term comes from the poker-room. If a player holds a hand of five cards all of one suit, he has a flush (a strong hand). If his hand is four of one suit and one of an "off" suit, he has a "four-flush" or "bob-flush" (worthless hand). Sometimes he will bluff with it by betting heavily, pretending to have a flush. If his bluff succeeds he wins the "pot," but if he is called—well, it's just too bad for him.

Answer to problem—Samuel J. Tilden in 1876. A dispute arose over the voting in South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana, and the election was thrown into Congress which body was Republican, appointed a commission of seven Republicans and six Democrats. On a strict party vote they voted to seat Tilden's opponent, Rutherford B. Hayes.

Ques.—Can you tell me if the taking of so much coal and other minerals from the earth is making it lighter?

Ans.—The taking of coal and other minerals from the ground does not change the weight of the earth as a whole. The component parts of coal and other consumable minerals after they are converted into ashes and gases are still just as much a part of the earth as they were before.

Ques.—What is the proper thing to be done with an old, worn-out United States flag?

Ans.—If the flag is so worn that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, it should be destroyed as a whole, privately, by burning or by some other method in keeping with the reverence and respect due to the flag as the emblem of our country.

Ques.—What is the meaning of "Fascist"? Mussolini's Italian organization? And how is the word pronounced?

Ans.—"Fascist," commonly spelled "Fascist" in this country, signifies a bandage or something which binds together. The word comes from "facia" or "fascies," which came from the ancient Romans. The word is correctly pronounced "Fa-shis-tee," with accent on the second syllable.

Ques.—I wish to ask you why fish is not flesh meat?

Ans.—The distinction is determined by the blood. All warm-blooded animals, birds, etc., are classed as flesh meat. All cold-blooded creatures, such as fish, frogs, mollusks, crabs, turtles, snakes, etc., are classed as fish meat.

Ques.—Can you tell me what Henry Ford's nationality is? Also what was his father's name?

Ans.—Henry Ford is of English descent, although his father, William Ford was born in Ireland and immigrated to Michigan when he was 20 years old and where Henry was born.

Ques.—What becomes of the money paid to the courts in fines?

Ans.—As a general rule the money collected by the courts in fines goes into the regular public treasury—local, state or federal, depending upon the court. However, there is a legal provision in some states for putting money collected in fines to certain designated purposes.

Murphy's Defeat Was Due To Labor Policy, Says Writer

Charlotte, a man of remarkable mental power who returns to Lansing for his eighth term as lieutenant governor. Dickinson's popularity is an in-direct compliment to the "oldsters" in Michigan, many of whom favor the Townsend Plan. Fitzgerald catered to Townsend support with a promise to ask the legislature to pass a resolution urging Congress to consider the $200-a-month pension scheme.

Case and Brown Country editors fared well in the Michigan election.

Within a few thousand votes of Murphy was Leon D. Case, secretary of state, who publishes a weekly paper at Watervliet. Case led Nowicki, Starr, Fry and Gundry in popular support.

Next to Dickinson and heading other Republican nominees for state office was Vernon J. Brown, aspirant for auditor general. Brown is editor-publisher of the Ingham County News at Mason and is completing his tenth year of service in the legislature. Significant also is the fact that Case and Brown consider their newspapers to be "independent" in politics.

Van Wagoner in Power The No. 1 man of the Michigan Democratic party today is Murray D. Van Wagoner, commissioner of the state highway department.

Two weeks before the balloting his department conducted a secret "straw vote" throughout the state. It showed Fitzgerald to be a sure winner and estimated the plurality at 45,000.

Van Wagoner, a practical politician, had foreseen the election result last summer when he weighed the advisability of becoming a candidate for governor in open opposition to Murphy. Reviewing summer political events, you will recall that Leo J. Nowicki, who opposed Murphy's labor policies and served sit-downers with a snappy ultimatum while the governor was away on a speaking tour, was also in a willing mood to sidetrack Murphy in the primary, if he could. Furthermore, Edward Fry, state chairman, had openly spanked the governor at Mackinac Island in a caustic statement that was almost unprecedented. His brother, Theodore Fry, had made no secret of his dislikes of Murphy's policies and was quite reluctant to become a candidate for a fourth term.

All this is political history. Like a jig-saw puzzle, it assumes a definite pattern in the light of November 8.

Campaign Financing The attitude of so-called "Big Business" in the recent campaign was unexpected.

Whereas you might have thought that industrial plutocrats would rush into the Republican state central committee's arms with open checkbooks—considering the labor grief which they have experienced and the possibility of a baby Wagner act and a wage-hour act in 1939—they actually did nothing of the kind.

In fact, the state committee was secretly disappointed.

Automobile manufacturers were as cool as proverbial cucumbers. James Thomson, the Jackson chairman of the Republican state committee, spent fully half of his time trying to scrape together enough money to meet each week's payroll. Officers of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and other companies were adamant to pressure.

With no campaign gift strings of this kind attached to him, Fitzgerald may surprise legislators with a liberal labor program. It is possible.

One Amendment Wins

Only one amendment, the "Good Roads" prohibition of gas tax and vehicle license diversion, survived the general protest vote Nov. 8.

This amendment was backed by the Good Roads Federation who utilized every media to publicize it. Newspaper advertising was employed on a state-wide scale to present arguments for adoption.

Weight of the Brain The brain is 2.16 per cent of the body weight in men, and 2.24 per cent in women.

Chelsea Trounces Jackson Reserves

Chelsea High kept its record clean Friday by defeating a strong team from Jackson.

Paul Schneider, our triple-threat halfback figured in all the scoring. Early in second quarter Chelsea had advanced the pigskin to Jackson's two-yard stripe. Schneider went over from this point on the next play. He also added the extra point. Jackson's score came late in the same quarter after they blocked and recovered a Chelsea punt. Chelsea held for three downs, but on the fourth down Jackson's fullback threw a pass to a waiting receiver in the end-zone. The score at the end of the half was 7-7.

During the half Chelsea High's 45-piece band kept the spectators' attention.

Chelsea received the kick-off after the half and completely outplayed the Jackson boys for the remainder of the game. Schneider placed-kicked a field goal from Jackson's 20 yard line, the ball traveling in all about 40 yards. Chelsea had the ball during most of the third quarter, which was featured by Andy Policht's pass catching.

On the first play in the final period Schneider ran 9 yards for the second touchdown. He added the extra point. Later Schneider threw a touch-down pass to Andy Policht, the pass traveling about 35 yards. The final score was, Chelsea 23, Jackson Reserves 7.

Tomorrow afternoon Chelsea enters the undefeated Manchester eleven at the home field. Chelsea has defeated the Manchester teams for eight years and the lads are keyed up to make it nine.

Manchester has always been Chelsea's keenest rival and this should be the best game of the season. The Senior stand will have enough "hot-dogs" this time.

Music

Ha! What's this? Hum-m. A note has just been passed to me informing myself of the fact that officers have been elected and installed in the G. G. C. (figure that out. I'm tired of writing it every time I have to, so please excuse short-cuts. Thank you). The bearers of the titles are: Geraldine Carr, president; Mary Jane Bahmiller, vice-president; Margaret Harper, secretary; and Virginia Bari, librarian. Good luck! Hope you enjoy the jobs.

The girls have been rehearsing in shifts. The altos get together a certain hour and use their lungs on their particular part. That goes for second and first sopranos also. Although some of the girls can't get to these important rehearsals, the songs are sounding better than ever.

F. F. A. News

The Chelsea F. F. A. held a meeting Thursday, November 10. L. D. West, the club's president, called the meeting to order and appointed Leon Marsh to the place of the secretary, who was absent. The roll was called, with only two members absent. This is quite an improvement over some of our previous meetings.

Mr. Wallis read the names of ten candidates who have expressed their desire to enter the club. Plans were discussed for the initiation of these new members, which is to take place November 29.

Boners from Classes

"Be careful what you say or write in class. Your best friend may be on the lookout for boners to publish in this column. All boners and bits of humor should be handed to the editor or any of the members of the Journalism Club. Here are just a few for a start:

Character Study of a House

(By Jim Daniels, Eng. Lit.)

The old house did not present a very homely appearance, in fact there was a certain coldness about it, an air of defiance, defiance toward the new and the modern. It was distinctly a part of the past and by some crook of fate had lived through the years from an era of usefulness combined with a certain degree of elegance, into an era of speed and bustle, to look down with scorn upon the scurrying people who passed along the street in front of it.

Two tall pines guarded either side of the front walk which was cracked and distorted with age. Its square front showed the effect of the elements; wind and rain had scrubbed there until rust-red bricks shone through the paint which had acquired a color like that of an old newspaper. Its high, old-fashioned windows were spaced evenly across the front in two rows. It was a rather square house and the military precision with which these windows had been placed gave the observer the feeling that it had been built more for utility than for outward appearance, but this was not done at a complete sacrifice of style. In fact, the old house, seemed almost human as at eventide its shadow reached out onto Main Street, installing in the passerby a feeling that it would live on through the years ignoring man's progress, firm in the belief that its age was the best.

Fate

(By Betty Marie Seitz)

Fall again appears. You can feel it in every breath. Leaves have turned yellow, red, brown, and finally have fallen to the ground. The grass is no longer green and a keen chill wind can be felt every day.

On October fifteenth the hunting season for rabbits and pheasants opened and was greeted by a large group of men. As usual "Old John" was out with "Chief", his dog, to get the limit in birds, he hopes. It was a beautiful day for hunting. The ground was damp, giving the dog a good scent, and the weather was cool, crisp and windy. Old John and Chief started at the first crack of dawn to hunt the beautifully colored pheasants. They could be seen walking over hill and dale, field and marsh. At first the dog ran and John walked spryly on behind, but as the sun rose and no shot of the gun could be heard, it was a much different scene.

John slowly plodded on while Chief trudged ahead, panting, head stiff to the ground and covered with burdocks. It was a most disappointing time for all. Finally at nightfall they both returned home, tired, disgusted and slightly ashamed at their ill-fate.

After putting away his gun, and a quiet dinner, John performed his usual task of getting the cows. As he walked down the lane and through the grape-harbor, a surprising thing happened. There was a rustle, then silence. Then as if he owned the world, out stroled a giant cock pheasant. John stood there, his eyes popping and his mouth open. But no gun! In absolute disgust and anger he threw the stick that was in his hand and from his mouth came some of John's own private pet words. Anger is not the word to use. It was just too much for John. After the air and John again cooled off, he returned, twice as disgusted and twice as tired. Wouldn't you have been?

An Autumn Day

(By Henrietta Beach)

"Oh-hum, is it really this late?" This was the first thing I thought of, when I woke from my comfortable slumber. As I opened my eyes still further, I could see it was a perfect autumn day. To my ears came a peep-peep and a twit-twit. What could it be? On looking out the window there was a flock of wild canaries. They glistened in the sunlight and the black set off the beautiful canary yellow of their bodies.

I realized it was too wonderful a day to stay in bed. Jumping out of bed, a happy thought came to me. Why not take a walk. Finishing my usual work, I resumed my conquest of God's wonderful world.

Walking cross-country is much different from walking on the hard cement walks. Going across the fields, the changes in nature's ways are surprising. The grass-green of the wheat fields is quite a contrast to the tall golden-brown corn shocks with bright orange pumpkins scattered here and there. In other fields are the remains of the summer crops, which are mostly the brown stubbles of oats, barley and hay.

I stopped and glanced towards the sky. The clear bright blue astounded me, yet the soft downy clouds reminded me of "Jason's Floccs".

Resuming my walk, I came close to the woods that were filled with the brilliant colored maples and the deeper colored oaks, all woven together to form a colorful view. Something scuttled past me into the brush pile, it was a grayish-tan bunny with a nice fluffy white powder-puff on behind. As I drew near the swamp, there before my eyes stood a black and white bird dog, pointing. Close behind him was a hunter, dressed up in his brown hunting outfit. The action came, when an exquisite colored pheasant rose from the tall dead grass and soared high, but it was his last flight for he went home with the proud hunter.

Stories 'Great-Grandmother Tells

(By Carole Solt)

"Grandma, tell us a story." How often my little great-grandmother must have heard this plea from the lips of her grandchildren. We all loved her dearly and would listen by the hour to her many stories of by-gone years.

"Draw up your chairs closer to the fire. It is cold out tonight. Makes one think of winter! The crops are all gathered in. Halloween will soon be here with its Jack-o-lanterns and goblins. How well I remember one Halloween when I was a girl!"

"My twin sister and I had gathered several choice pumpkins intending to cut faces in their fat, yellow sides but our mother had made them into delicious pies while we were busy elsewhere. She placed them carefully on a wide shelf outside the kitchen window to cool and forgot all about them.

Late in the afternoon some friendly Indians came to call, bringing a gift of several wild ducks. They expected something to eat in return so my mother thought of the pies on the shelf.

"Go and bring me a pie," she said. "I hurried to the window but the luscious pies were gone. Two big black bears stood there licking the last of them."

"Not long after this my father was hunting in the forest. He found a beautiful fawn which had broken one of its slim legs. My father brought it home, put on some splints and soon the little thing was following us all over the place. It loved to hunt in our pockets for bits of bread and maple sugar. All winter it lived in the stable with the cattle and the next summer was our constant playmate."

"Toward fall it wandered away into the woods and one night it did not return. We mourned for our playmate for several days and then forgot all about him. Toward spring there came a time when food was scarce and some of the wild animals nearly starved to death. One morning when we went to the barn to feed the horses and cows, there was our pet deer. At first he was a little shy but when we gave him some hay, he ate it gladly."

"He stayed with us until the grass was green. Once more he answered some call which we could not understand and we never saw our pet again."

"Thank you, Grandma, we loved it," the children said.

Elementary News

Eighth Grade

Last week after news was handed in we had an experience regarding History questions and thought you might be interested in it. It is as follows:

Mr. Dunstan: What are our new neighbors across the ocean?

Janet May: China, Japan and Asia.

Mr. Dunstan: What country is Asia in?

Janet May: In Europe. Pretty good, don't you think, or don't you?

We don't write very much because we don't think it is necessary for it doesn't get in the paper often.

How are your brakes? If you were to drive an unfamiliar car you would probably immediately ask about the condition of the brakes. Yet we often step into our own cars knowing that the brakes are not up to standard, and we drive at unusual speeds.

Where standards have been set the results of investigations are usually surprising. Often 50 per cent of the vehicles are not able to make a stop from 20 miles per hour in 37 feet.

Greases on brake drums, delayed action on all brakes, and other causes are responsible for poor brake action.

Have your brakes checked regularly. They should be up to standard at all times. When an emergency arises you want to be prepared, and you cannot be prepared with poor brakes.

Origin of Name Terence
Terence (sometimes spelled with two r's) is usually considered an Irish name but it has a Latin origin as well as a Celtic one. The Latin meaning is "tender" and the Celtic "like a tall tower." The Roman Terence (Publius Terentius Afer) lived in the Second century before Christ. He was brought to Rome from Carthage as a slave, educated, and freed by his patron, whose name, Terentius, he took. He wrote six brilliant comedies before dying at twenty-five.

CHILDREN IN COURT

Judge Malcolm Hatfield

The Ever-Present Moron

Considering the fact that thousands of mentally defective persons are at large throughout the nation, it is unwise for parents to permit their daughters to dress in a manner that will expose any part of their anatomy. The public is frequently made aware of this problem by reading press descriptions of the attack of some moron or sex pervert on an innocent child. Young men and women must also be made to realize the danger of parking their automobiles along country roads or in non-residential sections of the city. There is need for parents to take greater precaution in educating their children to shun the approaches of adult men who profess to take a fatherly interest in them.

BOOK WEEK

November 13 to 20 is Book Week and people in general are decidedly "Book Conscious".

It is wonderful to have your own book shelf where you may go for your choice browsing. But why not mingle with the crowd and turn your eye and step toward the Public Library where the list is fairly oozing with books old and new.

Let me tell you about a few for which you wee folks will clamor—There's the "Story about Ping", that gay old Peking duckling that lives on a houseboat on the Yangtze River. Sometimes when he is a bit slow in getting up the gang plank he feels the tap of a little switch that tells him to hurry on. Now you never could guess just how smart "Ping" is until you read about him and see those ducky pictures that Kurt Wiese has put in to help with the story.

Then the funny "Adventures of Ray Coon" will make you chuckle, especially when he rides a bicycle and gets himself into no end of trouble. He's the most fun.

I could tell you all of these stories but my sakes it would spoil the tale for you. But there are more like these:

Children of China—Rudy.
Wee Gillis—Leaf.
Henry and The Garden—Tippett.
Wild Animals—King.
Little Brown Bear—Gage.
Summer on the Farm—Sutton.
And don't forget Rachel Field's "Hitty". You'll love the little doll in a gingham dress and flowered bonnet and listen to the sweet story of her travels that she tells about all by herself.

Then you Juniors who enjoyed "Little Women" will live with a New England family with all its simplicity and charm when you read Christine Parmenter's story of her own life in "I was Christabel".

Learn about the boy William Penn, who, in growing up, knew victory and defeat, failure and success, great happiness and great sorrow. "Penn", by Elizabeth Gray, is most outstanding.

"Towpath Andy" is a canal boy on the old Wabash and Erie Canal. He lives in a historical novel dealing with life in Indiana in 1849. A very informative and living book.

Wouldn't you love to follow the dog team in Alaska with "Chee-Cha-Ko", Gertrude Mallette tells you all about it.

Oh so many more such as:

The Tapes Seal—E. Hall.
Midshipman Davy Jones—Toner.
"Map Makers", the story of 18 great discoverers and explorers, by Cottler.

"Sandy", by Alice Hegan Rice, who gave us Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.

The adult list is growing fast. Come in and look over these and many others:

Rediscovery of Man—J. H. K.
Lonely Road—Farrell.
And Tell of Time—Key.
Clay Acres—Fischer.
America Now—Stearns.
Dynasty of Death—Taylor.
West—Seltzer.

F. O. B. Detroit—Smither.
Now, you do remember that we talked of Hobbies, and everybody is doing it. Let me tell you a few of the references that you will find in the Library:

Working with Tools—Hobbs.
How to Design Your Own Clothes—Shelton.
Discover the Stars—Johnson.
Photography for Fun—Strong.
Tropical Fish—Mann.

Then there is a little book called "A Garden in Your House", out of which was constructed an artistic Terrarium that is on exhibit in the Library this week. Do you suppose you could make one? This book will tell you how.

Oh yes, "Tin Can Projects" comes in for its share too. You will find a delightful lighthouse and an ash-tray designed from its pages. There is a leather pocket for a Boy Scout knife designed from instructions in a book called "Leather-making".

Let's go in for Hobbies in a big way and you will surely find lots of material in the Library.

Why not make the Library circulation for this week exceed any other that has passed?

Publicity Chairman.

RECREATION NEWS

Isn't it grand when we all work together? Things are accomplished that we usually talk about and yet never get done.

If you are wondering if this is a worthwhile endeavor ask one of the many boys who meet every Thursday evening for an hour of good wholesome fun. Or better yet, go over some time and watch the boys at their play.

Or peek in on one of the sewing groups and see some of the fine things the busy fingers are doing. In fact, there have been so many applications that it will be necessary to organize another group if a leader can be found. Anyone interested in helping a sewing group please report to Mrs. McClure.

Many of us wish we were high school girls again. They are going to have an opportunity to make clever dress accessories as well as learn something about dress design and color harmony in dress. Miss Janette Cook, who has just completed this course at Michigan State Normal College, has offered her services every Thursday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Arrangements have been completed for the wood-working class. All boys interested report with Mr. Wellnitz on Friday evening, November 18, at 7:30, at the Sea Scout room in the rear of Dr. Brook's office.

Because the gymnasium is being put in condition for the winter program of athletics, there will be no Thursday evening gymnasium classes for two weeks. The next gym classes will meet Dec. 1.

The committee wishes to thank all those organizations who so willingly gave the $2.00 contribution to help defray the expenses of the committee.

Too bad each individual member of each participating organization can't have an active hand in this leisure time fun and work, but you can help through your club and maybe some time we can call on you for special help.

—Publicity Chairman.

THANKSGIVING

● America discards her old customs but reveres the nation's richest tradition each November.

Like the early Puritan (typified above), modern Americans still keep in spirit the Thanksgiving observance started by Pilgrim fathers and made official by President Abraham Lincoln. The occasion is still a time to count our blessings.

Likewise, King Turkey still reigns supreme on Thanksgiving day, a domesticated descendant of the wild turkey that offered a piece of resistance for the first Thanksgiving.

And, pitying the less fortunate, we provide bounteous Thanksgiving dinners for them. But where the olden Thanksgiving was a strictly "home" observance featured by a huge dinner, modern celebrants have smaller appetites and wider interests.

In 1938, Thanksgiving day football games are a major attraction. Some schools, like Pennsylvania and Cornell, have played their traditional Thanksgiving day game for years.

In New York, as in other large cities, the day marks a start of the Christmas shopping season. One Manhattan department store annually sponsors a parade featuring helium-inflated balloons.

Insects Outdo Wonders

Considered Ideas of Man

Combs, brushes, oars, hooks, nutcrackers, spinning machines, hypodermic syringes, saws, gimlets, even wireless serials—these are not man's inventions. Insects grow them more efficiently than science can make them.

For instance, notes a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, the homely garden spider is nothing more or less than a walking dressing-table—his hind legs having a brush and two combs surprisingly like those we use. Then again, when he wants to eat, he fires a sticky web through these combs, and winds it round his victim. As he wraps his prey in its winding sheet (which will, incidentally, preserve it until the spider is hungry) he does the work of a wire-making machine. The web is drawn through spinnerets that shape it as the steel eyelet of the wire-mill spaces the wire. The insect revolves like the take-up spool of the mill, and the motor is the spider's front legs.

Another example of insects that rival man's scientific wonders is the fly—which can walk upside down on the ceiling. This is possible because each of the fly's feet has a sucker, covered with a sticky fluid, which adheres to any surface by forming a partial vacuum.

But even more amazing is the bee, which has hooks as well as suckers on its legs, and can thus perform all sorts of acrobatics. These hooks, by the way, are made on the same principle as boat-hooks—but they can clench and unclench, unlike boat-hooks.

Neanderthal Man Homely

From Modern Viewpoint

The Neanderthal man was a repulsive creature from the modern viewpoint, writes John A. Menaugh in the Chicago Tribune. He was short in stature (about 5 feet 4 inches tall), but rugged and muscular. He had huge eyebrow ridges, and his head was set almost directly upon heavy shoulders. He was so ugly and ferocious in appearance that it is believed the European legends of the ogres arose from his early presence on the continent. The Neanderthal men are thought to have entered Europe from the east or southeast some time before the third and last stage of the last great ice age. They had flint instruments, knew the use of fire, and buried their dead with a display of respect, but they painted or carved no pictures upon the walls of the caves in which they dwelt.

First of the true men (men of the same species as those who inhabit the world today) to enter Europe are known as Cro-Magnons, after the Cro-Magnon cave of Dordogne, France. Earliest of this type were the Aurignacians (named after the Aurignac cave, Haute-Garonne, France). They filtered into Europe from Asia about 30,000 to 35,000 years ago. They employed bone and flint instruments, burned crude lamps, drew pictures upon the walls of caves, wore jewelry made of shells, and buried their dead with offerings.

Strange Birds in Siam

Bird migration in Siam is of three kinds instead of the usual one kind known to temperate zones, according to a Smithsonian institution authority who reports that besides the usual north-and-south seasonal movement there are also a water migration and a food migration. The water migration takes place with the coming of the rainy season when birds move from rising water levels in swamps and shallow lakes towards higher land areas. Food migrations, indulged in only by birds of the pigeon and parrot families, may simply result from scouting activities in which certain individual birds discover places where wild figs, mangoes and other fruits are ripe and are then followed by millions of members of the main flocks.

Was Soldier of Three Wars

Winfield Scott was born in Virginia, June 13, 1786. As a lieutenant colonel during the War of 1812 he was taken prisoner in the battle of Queenstown Heights; in a few months he was exchanged. In 1814, a brigadier general, he defeated the British in the battles of Chippewa and Lundy's Lane. He commanded the army which invaded Mexico in 1847 and fought its way into the capital. Though a Southerner by birth, he remained at the head of the United States army as commander in chief at the outbreak of the Civil war, serving until November 1, 1861, when he retired at the age of seventy-five.

Cacomixle Has Many Names

Big-eyed, the cacomixle is no great catch for fur or food, says the Washington Post. It tames easily, is a good mouser. But it also kills squirrels and birds, loses caste for this reason. Native to Southwestern United States and Mexico, the cacomixle has many names—bassatisk, raccoon-fox, mountain-cat, ring-tailed cat, coon-cat, and American civet-cat. The last is a misnomer, because it yields neither civet nor musk. But no one can deny the cuteness of the cacomixle (Mexican translation of its Indian name). Perky, it's only 18 inches long, lives in caves and crevices, and likes rocky slopes.

Bad News for "Doc"

FAVORABLE WEATHER at harvest time has made it possible for Michigan apple growers to offer a crop of unusually fine quality as they prepare to celebrate National Apple Week which begins Oct. 31 this year. Here Ruth Taylor, Michigan State College co-ed, looks over a shipment of Golden Delicious as they leave her father's orchard near Albion. These will join a market parade of McIntosh Red, Jonathan, Greenings and Northern Spies, all varieties for which Michigan is famous. The year's crop total in the state is estimated at 644 million bushels, less than half of the 1937 record production. However, growers are still at it with their Michigan Apple Institute, a cooperative advertising movement, to tell the housewife that home-grown apples excel in economy, flavor and health-giving qualities.

Foundation of Realm of

Swedes Laid A. D. 700

It was about 700 A. D. that the foundation of the kingdom of the Swedes was laid by one Ingeld. For more than 800 years, until 1050, the ancient dynasty, seated at the historic city of Upsala, ruled the country. This included a time known as the Viking period, celebrated in history for famous expeditions to the New World. Christianity was introduced into Sweden in 829, but did not gain a foothold until about 200 years later. In 1397, states a writer in the Chicago Tribune, the royal line became extinct and the right of succession to the throne of Sweden, as well as those of Denmark and Norway, fell to Queen Margaret of Denmark. Thereafter until 1523 Sweden was dominated by Denmark through an alliance known as the Union of Kalmar.

When Gustavus Vasa in that year was proclaimed king of Sweden the union was dissolved and the Swedes began playing an increasingly important part in the affairs of Europe. Since then three royal lines have ruled over Sweden: The Vasa line, founded by Gustavus I, the Holstein-Gottorp line, of which Adolphus Frederick was the first; and the Bernadotte line, founded by Charles XIV, better known as Marshal Bernadotte of France. In all there were 12 sovereigns in the Vasa line, covering six generations; there were four in the Holstein-Gottorp line, covering three generations; and there have been five, of four generations, of the Bernadotte line, beginning with the French marshal, who was adopted as a successor by Charles XIII, and coming down to the present monarch, eighty-year-old Gustav V.

It was the Vasa line that produced the great warrior kings, Gustavus Adolphus and the Charleses from ninth to twelfth.

Chihuahua May Be White,

Black, Tan, Other Colors

No one knows the exact origin of the Chihuahua, a graceful, swift-moving little dog that may weigh from one to six pounds. It is quite possible that the early inhabitants of Mexico crossed their native dog known as the techichi (which was indigenous to Central America) with a small smooth-haired breed brought from Asia. No one, however, knows for sure about this cross breeding. But this much is certain, according to Bob Becker in the Chicago Tribune, students of dog history are not in doubt about the native dog known to the old inhabitants of Mexico. They have a pretty good idea what it looked like.

Archeology tells us about the techichi. Carved stones showing pictures of the breed, the ancestral stock from which the Chihuahua has come, are found. The carvings show a dog that closely approximates the Chihuahua.

There are a long-haired and a short-haired or "smooth" variety of Chihuahua. It is very likely the short-haired dog is the original true Chihuahua. The breed has an excellent disposition, is intelligent and alert and comes in many colors. In fact, Chihuahuas may be snow white, coal black, black with tan or other mixed colors. It's rather interesting, as far as the history of the breed is concerned, that hundreds of years ago the early inhabitants of Mexico liked dogs that had a definite bluish color. These were held sacred.

Lapps Are Content With

Own Religious Services

The Lapps derive solace and happiness from attending their own church services. They get to church as often as they can—four or five times a year. They go to the Swedish State church, too; they never miss Christmas and Easter services. They are baptized, confirmed, married, and buried in the state church. However, they are given spiritual exaltation in their own church services, by their own preachers, the stern and severe followers of Lars Levi Laestadius. They attain a sublimation of the soul they seem unable to get elsewhere, writes Mason Warner, following an interview with an authority at Abisko, Lapland, Sweden, and published in the Chicago Tribune.

The services are always the same. The sermons are in the Finnish language. The preacher begins by telling the congregation how weak they are, how sinful, how utterly lost—their souls are past redemption. Rebuke and condemnation are piled on criticism of their actions and lives. To these are added promises or threats of terrible punishment.

This continues until the people are subdued, cowed, low in spirit—are so beaten down by the pastor's oratory that they are in a semi-swoon of doubt, terror, and fear. The almost trance-like state of consciousness of their unworthiness is known as Likikutus. Then comes the great moment. Absolution for sins is given by the preacher.

Great rejoicing ensues. They remain seated, but sway from side to side or throw their bodies forward and backward in an ecstasy of happiness. They do not dance—nor do they sing. They jolka.

Either Laestadius or his immediate successors abolished singing. "Jolka" is the Lapp's substitute for singing. It is not sustained melody, but it is musical, with intervals and disconnected notes.

Royal Family's Name

The family name of England's royal family prior to the name of Windsor was Wettin, and this was changed in 1917 to Windsor. Queen Victoria's consort was Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and the family name of Albert was Wettin. Edward VII was related to the famous Wettin family of Europe through both his mother, Queen Victoria, and his father, Prince Albert. Victoria was a Guelph, and by her marriage to Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha she changed the family name to Wettin. But neither of these names has been recognized by the British government as the official name of the royal family, house or dynasty.

INVENTOR RAN BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP

THE seed of success is ambition, and Orville Wright was ambitious from early boyhood. He was born in Dayton, Ohio, in 1871, the youngest of five children, and as they grew up Orville and one of his older brothers, Wilbur, became inseparable. A highly respectable mid-western family, the father was a bishop of the United Brethren church and later publisher of a religious newspaper; but the family never had a lot of money. Orville Wright started to make money early in life, going about the neighborhood and collecting old bones to sell to a fertilizing plant. When he was fourteen, he published a school paper with a toy printing press. Later he made a press of his own and Wilbur improved it. Next he invented a paper folding machine for his father's print shop. He quit school in the third year of high school and, with Wilbur, started a weekly newspaper which lasted only three months. They then turned to job printing and later started a bicycle repair shop.

At about this time, they became interested in aviation and proceeded to construct the first heavier than air machine large enough to carry a man. As in their previous activities, Orville was the creative genius, Wilbur the perfecter. Their first successful flight was at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903, and the success of aviation was assured when Orville made a flight lasting 62 minutes and 15 seconds, in 1908.

Elephant Popular in Denmark

In Denmark you may see "the wisest of animals" the elephant, carved in stone and wood and in strange places. Two of them stand at the gate of a large brewery in Copenhagen, and in one of the finest churches in that beautiful city, the organ is supported on the backs of huge life-sized "jumbos." If you go into Rosenberg castle you will see the king's golden chain of the Royal Order with a diamond-studded elephant pendant thereon. The order is usually given only to royalty.

Nutria Supplies Valuable Fur
As the nutria is brother to the water-loving beaver, he delights to swim in his native South American streams. He is an amusing little fellow, inquisitive, lively and quick, but his greatest contribution to the world is his downy, lustrous pelt. Nutria is a beautifully toned, luxurious fur.

"Cross View of Life"

That's what some critics say of a new book which exploits one or two unusual characters. But the real cross-section of life is found among the ad pages of this newspaper.

Here are folks who are building, furnishing and keeping homes. They are feeding, clothing and training children. Homes, homefolks and home children give us the true picture. The folks who read our ads are planning for a better tomorrow. A better tomorrow for them means a better tomorrow for our advertisers... and they will be alive when a new book is displaced by some other sensation.

Popular "Irish Potato"

Traced to 15th Century

Why is it that the potato invariably is associated with Ireland? Is it native to the country; and, if not, where did it come from? These questions are discussed in the Dublin journal of the department of agriculture.

The potato is well known in most countries of the world, and yet when there is occasion to mention it in print it is commonly referred to as the "Irish potato," and in conversation on the subject the invariable tendency is to associate Ireland with it. This is probably because Ireland was the first country to make any considerable use of the potato as food.

As to origin of the tuber, the fact appears to be that it came originally from North or South America, Peru and Chile are mentioned as the source from which Ireland derived it.

The potato is known to have reached Europe in 1589, but when and how it reached Ireland is not known. The theory had long been accepted in Dublin that it was brought from Virginia by Sir Walter Raleigh and first planted in County Waterford.

Records show that the potato was grown there earlier than elsewhere, but investigators have failed to identify Raleigh with introduction of it from Virginia. They say there is no evidence that Raleigh ever was in Virginia.

From whatever source the potato was derived or by what means, there is no doubt, it is asserted, that Ireland was the first country to develop it and make use of it as food for human beings. The climate and the soil of Ireland favored production, and soon it became the staple food.

Letter B Second in the Alphabet Through Ages

The letter B, representing the voiced labial stop, has had second place in the alphabet since ancient times. The Phoenicians, credited by many scientists with inventing the group of letter-sound symbols from which our modern alphabet is derived, had a symbol for the letter B as early as the year 1200 B. C.

There also is a scientific contention that an earlier alphabet, Sinal script, was the forerunner of our alphabet. There is an interesting resemblance between the symbols for the letter B of Sinal script and some of the early Phoenician and Greek alphabet symbols. Even the ancient Egyptians, whose hieroglyphic writings were made up of a combination of letter symbols and pictures, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, had a definite symbol for the sound represented by our letter B. It was a picture of a crane.

The Roman letter B has come down to us unchanged, although it was a refinement of the Greek beta. The Roman B dates

Farmers Saved Millions

By Insect-Eating Birds

The fantastic theory that insects might some day dominate the world, sometimes advanced by imaginative scientists, would become a reality if it were not for birds, according to the American Wildlife Institute. "Birds constitute the main check against the reproduction of insects," points out C. M. Palmer Jr., assistant secretary of the institute. "If that check were removed, insects would multiply so rapidly that they would clean the world of all vegetation, leaving man to starve in a barren, deserted waste."
Birds usually concentrate in areas threatened by unusual outbreaks of pests, Palmer points out. An example occurred during outbreaks of the Rocky mountain locusts between 1865 and 1877. These voracious pests denuded many places they visited of every green thing.
According to Dr. W. L. McAtee, technical advisor to the chief of the bureau of biological survey, a thorough investigation of the relation of birds to the outbreak showed that the feathered tribe was, in many instances, the means of saving crops from destruction.
"Conspicuous and important as are the activities of birds in gathering at the scene and taking part in the suppression of insect outbreaks, probably their every-day services in consuming insects of all kinds, thus holding down the whole tide of insect life, are of greater significance," the survey expert says.
The American Wildlife Institute points out that the value of insect-eating birds to the nation's farmers is more than $350,000,000 a year.

All Indians Clever at Chipping Their Flints
Though some Indians were more proficient at it than others, and the methods of some tribes were more advanced than those of others, there was very little secret about the making of flint arrow heads, and probably all the Indians knew how, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.
Flint and similar stones were used not so much because of their hardness as for the reason they could be flaked off and fashioned into the desired shapes as arrow, lance, spear or harpoon heads, knives, saws or scrapers. The flint was to be found in open fields, boulder beds and elsewhere, and the tribes camped occasionally near the larger supplies to break off with rocks or hammers the quantities and sizes of flint chips needed. These were carried home, to be flaked off and worked into shapes with the aid of sharp-pointed implements of bone. The waste and refuse of the process, as well as the tools employed in it, have often been found on the sites of early Indian dwellings.
The products of the primitive industry range in size from tiny arrow tips to ceremonial spear heads more than a foot long.

Bread Is Bread—by Any Name the World Calls It
Most of us take bread for granted. Toasted in the morning, made into a sandwich for lunch or picnic use, cut round as a base for hors d'oeuvres, probably in the form of rolls at dinner time. We eat it without giving it a thought.
Yet bread is as varied as the peoples who eat it, observes Martha Harmon in the Philadelphia Record. Europe, the long, six to seven-foot long, white twist is typical of Paris; Mexicans use their tortillas as spoons to lift their other food before consuming the tortillas themselves; the hoe cake cooked in ashes may be the food of the very poor in the South, but it is both nutritious and delicious—and the stuff of life.
In the Holy Land, bread is kneaded by slapping it against the stone walls in pieces three feet long and on holy days every loaf is stamped with a design of a saint. In Hungary the people in some small towns bring their first loaves when the new harvest has been garnered and pile these high in the church for the priest to bless.
Egyptian women bake their bread by putting it on the houseposts for the hot sun to bake, while in lower Egypt many desert wives bake their bread over fires in special containers carried along on camelback so they will have fresh bread for the family when the night stop is made and tents put up for the overnight homes.
In the far northern part of Norway, the women make bread as thin as wafers and several feet in diameter and hang it to season and ripen for a couple of months before serving.
