Court Action Started To Oust County Clerk

An order was signed Tuesday afternoon by Judge George W. Sample requiring County Clerk Emmet M. Gibb to show cause why he should not be removed from office and a hearing in the case was set for Thursday, May 18.

Signing of this order immediately followed a petition with the court by Prosecutor Albert J. Kapp for a show cause writ, alleging that Gibb had used welfare funds handled through his office for his own use. In pursuance of an order by the Board of Supervisors, an audit was made of the funds in the welfare relief account by J. D. Whitman, an examiner from the office of the auditor general. This audit reveals that there is a net discrepancy in said account in the county clerk's office in the amount of $5,700.86. The audit also shows that the clerk drew a warrant dated Feb. 8, 1939 in the amount of $3,300.08 and another warrant dated Feb. 27, 1939 in the amount of $869.51. These were drawn against the general fund, although no money had been transferred from the welfare fund to cover said checks.

The statute under which the writ was issued provides that after eight days notice, Gibb will be given a formal trial before Judge Sample and two circuit court commissioners. If the charges at the trial are substantiated, the special tribunal has authority to order his removal from office. In the event of removal, the circuit judge has the authority to appoint an acting county clerk.

Lansing—The state legislature is entering the final lap of its five-month session with adjournment due in a week or so and relatively little accomplished to date.

Legislators began the fifth month last week without one of four major problems settled. The House version of a labor relations formula was rushed through under Republican caucus agreement on the very day that former Governor Frank Fitzgerald died. The bill was promptly buried in the Senate labor committee led by Senator Harry Hittie, who has just reported out a modified measure calling for mediation board without a 10-day strike notice, and other drastic provisions. As for civil service, the House and Senate could not agree with the result that separate measures were passed by the House and Senate to be ironed out in a legislative conference committee. It was indicated that thousands of employees, now on state payrolls, could be unclassified and hence subject to political patronage whims of the administration in power. Anticipating that many jobs would soon develop, Senate republicans named a patronage committee, headed by Felix Flynn, president pro tem from Cadillac, to consult with Governor Luren D. Dickenson.

Welfare and Budget

Other major problems awaiting legislative action at this late date were welfare and the budget.

Under provisions of a bill passed by the Senate, welfare administration would be handled locally in each county by a county welfare commission, subject to central supervision by a five-man state commission. The state commission would attempt to coordinate the functions of nearly a dozen semi-independent boards and commissions.

One amendment imposed by the Senate, constituted a home rule victory for county supervisors inasmuch as it provided that the state should match county relief expenditures before considering distribution of welfare funds on the basis of need, the latter being urged by social welfare workers. Another amendment would require the recipient of relief to be (Continued on next page)

Natural Gas for Chelsea Assured

Permission has been granted the Ann Arbor district of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. by the Michigan Public Service Commission to supply the city with natural gas from the Texas panhandle section. The order was issued on Friday, after an informal conference with representatives of the city of Ann Arbor and the gas company and it is expected the change-over will be made within 90 days. The city is favorable to the program and is anxious to get the project under way without further delay. Since the spring of 1937, when the Washtenaw Gas Co. applied for permission to bring Texas gas into Ann Arbor, the question of the Michigan supply has been argued repeatedly. The company is authorized to proceed with its original proposal to bring the gas to Ann Arbor from the Texas fields through the pipeline serving Detroit by tapping the pipeline at a point about 10 miles east of Milan. Construction of this 21-mile connecting pipeline from Milan to Ann Arbor, costing $128,000, will be started immediately and the city is expected to be ready for the change-over from artificial to natural gas during the summer.

The state service commission indicated that a determination of rates will follow the introduction of natural gas to Ann Arbor with the reduced rates proposed by the company in 1937 to be put into effect, which will mean a saving of approximately 15 per cent to gas users.

Chorus Festival At Grass Lake

Last Tuesday evening, May 9th, a very successful chorus festival was held at the Grass Lake High School gymnasium. High school choruses participating in this splendid musical event were Grass Lake, Milan, Manchester, Brooklyn, Saline, and Chelsea. Chelsea entered a group of forty boys' and girls' voices.

The combined choral groups met at Grass Lake at 4:00 p.m. Tuesday for a strenuous two-hour rehearsal under the excellent direction of Mr. Fred Patton, choral director at Michigan State College. Later every one joined in a very enjoyable pot-luck supper. The program itself began at 8:15 p.m. and included numbers for girls' chorus, boys' chorus and mixed voices, as well as individual solo numbers by each participating school. The combined chorus of 200 voices under the fine direction of Mr. Patton displayed great flexibility of tone and clarity in its singing and was well received by an appreciative audience.

All Chelsea chorus members who entered this year's festival gained both experience and enjoyment from Tuesday evening's performance and are anticipating preparations for next year's program.

a resident of Michigan for at least three years during which time the recipient had not received private or public aid. Labor representatives vigorously opposed the latter restriction. Generally speaking, the senate welfare measure was viewed as a compromise between the supervisors and the welfare workers.

It would replace the state welfare act which was invalidated by referendum last fall.

102 Millions

Despite united pressure from school teachers and other groups, the house ways and means committee recommends that state expenditures for 1939-1940 be limited to $102,000,000.

Revenues are forecast at this amount.

State aid to public schools would be held to $40,000,000 a year including the primary school interest fund estimated at $17,000,000. This is just $5,000,000 less than the total demanded by the schools and also pledged by the late Governor Fitzgerald. In the fiscal year 1937-38 the schools received $41,204,000.

Earl Babcock, Grand Haven, president of the Michigan Education association, said: "The 15-mill limit is a barrier which the average community cannot overcome. Every community would gladly do more if the law would permit. The only alternative is for the state to do more."

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, pleaded for $50,000,000 while other speakers warned direly that four-fifths of the public schools in Michigan would not be able to keep open more than seven months next year.

Old Age Pensions

The legislative budget, however, does make generous allowance for further state assistance to the aged.

Whereas the state allocated $7,385,000 in old age assistance for 1937-38, the new budget would allow $8,432,000. The old age bureau had requested $11,644,000.

Welfare needs are estimated at $9,000,000 a year, as contrasted with the social welfare workers' of $15,000,000. Aid to dependent children and the blind would be limited to $4,000,000; the University of Michigan would get $4,576,000 a year, $43,000 more than it received last year, and Michigan State College would get $2,457,000, an increase of $45,000.

In the senate a deficiency bill for $2,600,000, second for this session, received sanction. Eliminated entirely was a proposed appropriation of $1,250,000 for the crippled children's commission on the suspicion that the act, making the state liable for payment of medical bills ordered by any probate judge, had become a "racket." The sole legislator to oppose the bill was Senator Earl Munshaw, Grand Rapids.

Cause and Effect

The cost of maintaining Michigan's prison system, criminal courts, Michigan state police and the state mental institutions for the fiscal year 1938-39 was approximately $11,000,000. Prisoners total 7,400; mental patients, 15,400. The cost of handling, disposing of and treating 4,000 to 5,000 juvenile delinquents each year runs approximately $1,100,000, making a grand total of $12,100,000 a year, or more than $1,000,000 a month.

In Detroit alone the cost to taxpayers of maintaining the police department approximates $10,000,000 a year.

What price crime? The total cost of crime in Michigan starts at $20,000,000 a year, while top estimates reach $60,000,000, just 4 per cent of J. Edgar Hoover's estimate of $15,000,000,000 annual cost of crime in the United States.

Eighteen of Michigan's largest cities last year reported 52,857 major crimes to the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C.

Aiming at the cause of crime—the child who becomes a criminal delinquent in the eyes of the law—is the Michigan Child Guidance Institute, created two years ago and placed under the University of Michigan board of regents for the purpose of preventing juvenile delinquency. The institute is faced with legislative death in the current economy program.

Milk-Price-Fixing

Price fixing of milk has become a probability for Michigan as a result of action by the House in approving the controversial Welsh bill, backed by an aggressive farmer bloc. Weary at the prospect of further consideration of this bill, representatives eagerly "passed the buck" to the Senate which now holds its fate.

Dairy farmers are nearly unanimous in approval of the novel principle that the state should regulate the price of milk, declaring that bulk prices are now ruinously low and in many cases below actual cost of production.

Outcome of the Welsh bill is uncertain due to realignment of forces in the Senate, as evidenced by defeat of the anti-Barnard bill and the side-tracking of the anti-Van Wagoner bill. The confusion which prevailed as the result of Fitzgerald's death has not helped matters any. Milk producers hope that their pressure bloc will overcome the handicap, but the prospects for the Welsh bill are none too bright.

"Coolidge" Remark

"I'm making no plans for it," said Governor Dickinson in reply to a query about re-election in 1940.

Coolidge-like in its inference, the governor's remark set politicians guessing anew as to whether Michigan's 80-year old governor would seek another term. Governor Dickinson added slyly: "I've got to have a corner to get out of."

Traditional rivals, Lincoln has always had top-notch teams and was one of the few teams to defeat Chelsea in basketball.

COUNTIES STUDYCHILDREN'S NEEDS

In 19 Michigan counties parents are endeavoring to make problems out of their children, but in a constructive process of attention to physical, mental and moral requirements.

Recent observation of May Day in hundreds of schools in the state focused attention upon child development work carried on by the home economics extension service of Michigan State College.

"The health of the child is the power of the nation" is a slogan being used by Alice Hutchinson, specialist in the extension division. More than 1,200 families were enrolled in group projects in 1938, studying out such phases as the use of money, habit training and problems of the adolescent.

One bit of "sermonizing" that is being stressed is that mental health is of equal importance with a child's physical wellbeing. Parents are being instructed for a better knowledge of today's complex social life in order to promote better relationships with children in the family.

Well planned food, proper clothing and constructive play are other phases designed to permit younger members of Michigan's families to grow up

CHICKS REQUIRE ADDED PROTEINS

Getting young chicks off to a good start is half the battle, says C. G. Card, poultry department head at Michigan State College. If they eat right, a good start generally is assured. One of the biggest question marks in the baby-chick ration is how much and what kind of protein to use.

At the National Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md., different amounts of protein, ranging from 13 to 25 per cent, were fed to growing chicks. The chicks gained more weight per pound of feed as the protein was increased up to 21 per cent. Beyond that point weight gains dropped off again.

Though 21 per cent may be the ideal amount of protein for growth, Mr. Card says it may not be the ideal amount when cost is considered. The federal study indicated that a diet of 17 per cent protein, for example, is about 95 per cent as efficient as that containing 21 per cent protein. If the cost of the 17 per cent diet is low enough, it may be more economical for the poultrymen.

Mr. Card says, however, that it is a good plan to feed a diet containing 20 to 21 per cent protein until the chicks are at least 12 weeks old. Then the amount of protein can be decreased gradually until pullets are receiving 16 to 17 per cent by the time they are ready to lay.

As to what kind of protein to use, further studies have shown that protein from a variety of sources should be used. Mixtures of protein feed-stuffs such as dried skim milk, dried buttermilk, fish meal, meat scrap, soybean oil meal and gluten feed offer this variety.

It will not be an invasion from some foreign country nor bird-men from Mars, but the arrival of the organization known as the Dawn Patrol. Ben Meyer, manager of the local airport expects from 25 to 35 planes, containing 75 to 80 pilots to land here around 8 o'clock. They will come from all directions and the first ones may arrive about 7:45 and the last ones will be here by 8:30. The Dawn Patrol was organized only four weeks ago by the local and Adrian fliers. Their first meeting was Easter Sunday when four planes flew to Coldwater for breakfast. The next Sunday morning they flew to Lansing then Adrian and last week they went to Detroit. Each week more planes join, last week there was 24 the largest number to date. —OBSERVER

Children In Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

CRUELTY IN ITS WORST FORM

An illegitimate boy was picked up in a distant city where he had fled to escape the shame that surrounded his birth. He was forced to wear cast-off and made-over clothes and had to reside with relatives who did not even profess to care for him.

It seemed to this child that every one did his utmost to make his life miserable. The adults of the community not only prohibited their children from playing with him, but they constantly referred to the stain on his birth.

Consequently, the other children of his own age, taking their cue from their elders, tormented him so persistently that he stole five dollars and ran away. His flight called the case to the attention of the juvenile authorities. After a thorough investigation had been made, the court succeeded in placing the boy with a childless couple for adoption.

First Mediums

The modern spiritualistic movement began in this country in 1848, when members of a family named Fox in Hydesville, N. Y., reported that they heard in their house mysterious knocks which conveyed messages through an alphabet system. Kate Fox and her sister Margaret at once began interpreting messages from the spirit world and became the first mediums.

Question and Answer Dept.

PROBLEM

A father brought home a small sack of marbles for his three small sons and said he wanted Johnnie, the eldest, to have one-half of them; Jimmie, next eldest, one-third, and Tommie, youngest, one-ninth. When the marbles were counted, there were 68. How was the division made which carried out the father's intentions? Answer elsewhere in this department.

Ques.—Who is Saint Olga?
Ans.—St. Olga was a native Russian who lived in the 10th century, and is now one of the saints of the Greek Catholic Church. Her husband was slain in an expedition against Constantinople. After this, she became converted to Christianity. Her festival date is July 11.

Ques.—What World's Fair holds the record for the greatest number of attendance in a single day?

Ans.—On October 9, 1893, the attendance at the Chicago World's Fair was 763,000 paid admissions. This is claimed as a record to date. It is confidently expected that it will be broken by the New York World's Fair this year.

Answer to problem: While 68 marbles could be divided in half all right, it could not be divided by 3 or 9 equal parts without a remainder. So he borrowed four marbles from a little bystander, added them to the 68, making a total of 72 marbles, and then proceeded as follows: Johnnie, one-half, 36; Jimmie, one-third, 24; Tommie, one-ninth, 8—total 68. Having 4 marbles left over, he gave them back to the little bystander. And thus the division was made: one-half, one-third and one-ninth.

Ques.—If dreams were believed in during ancient times, why don't people believe in them now?

Ans.—It is said that people in ancient times were more superstitious than they are now because of our more enlightened age. There is no evidence that any dreams have come true, except as a matter of coincidence. Sometimes they are indications of the forgotten and unsuspected past, but never of the future.

Ques.—What is the difference between positive and negative electricity?

Ans.—The idea that there are two kinds of electricity is not held any more. It is now known that all electricity is made up of electrons. Electrons are negative. What used to be called a negative charge is now an excess of electrons. A positive charge, on the other hand is merely a place where there are too few electrons.

Ques.—What is the strongest poison known to man?

Ans.—The strongest poison known to man is a toxin produced by the germ which causes botulism, a spoonful of which could kill all the people on earth. But fortunately this poison is not purchasable, nor could it be kept active very long even if it could be secured.

Ques.—On what day of the week was Nero born?

Ans.—Nero was born Dec. 1, B. C. 37. According to the Julian calendar this was on Wednesday. If you reckon it back from the Gregorian calendar the day would be Saturday.

Ques.—Is it true that Franklin Roosevelt and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt are related?

Ans.—Yes, but not closely. Both are branches of the same family tree as Theodore Roosevelt.

Payne's Paris Apartment

Attracts Many Tourists

Although "Home, Sweet Home," one of humanity's immortal songs, was first sung at the Covent Garden theater in London more than 100 years ago, every year sees Americans seeking out the apartment in Paris where John Howard Payne composed it, writes Edwin Robert Petre in the Detroit News.

Payne, author, poet, actor, theatrical manager and American consul, has several shrines in that gay city for he lived there many years, but the "Home, Sweet Home" shrine which attracts so many tourists annually is at 156 Galerie des Bonshommes, in the Palais Royale. The "pleasures and palaces" of which the songs were all real to him. He was living in a palace, the Palais Royal, enjoying the delights and pleasures of the great city with congenial friends, among whom were Mary Shelley, the wife of the poet, and Washington Irving, then at the height of his popularity.

Payne, in his loneliness, which he continued to endure years after his famous song was written, fell in love with Shelley's widow, who, at the time the song was produced, was only 26 years old. They met that year at the Nelson hotel in Paris, but she was more interested in Washington Irving, and Payne disinterestedly tried to arrange a match between them, but Irving left the country.

Payne and Mrs. Shelley, who never remarried, continued close friends for years, and in one of her letters to him, written in 1836, she expresses her pleasure at seeing him, and says that the years (she was then 39) had not improved her looks as they seem always to improve the looks of a man.

Yard Lumber Is in the General Purpose Class

Yard lumber is largely general purpose lumber. The Southern Pine association defines it as lumber that is manufactured and classified into those shapes, sizes and grades required for ordinary construction and general purpose uses. Heavy timbers for structural purposes, softwood factory lumber, and other special use materials are not considered as yard lumber.

The association divides yard lumber into two main divisions (a) select and (b) common. These again are divided into two classes. Select lumber (1) that suitable for natural finishes and (2) that suitable for paint finishes. Common lumber (1) that which can be used without waste and (2) that which permits some waste.

The various types are graded A, B or C. A has a minimum of defects or blemishes; B is permitted a greater number of defects and blemishes and C an even greater number.

An important factor is the moisture content which is permitted in the various grades and classifications. The greater the moisture content the more difficult it is to utilize or to control the lumber after it is in use.

Marco Polo's Book

John Masefield's introduction to "The Travels of Marco Polo the Venetian" says: "Marco Polo's book was not received with faith by his contemporaries. Travelers who see marvelous things, even in our own day, are seldom believed by those who, having stayed at home, have all the consequences of their virtue. When Marco Polo came back from the East, a misty unknown country, full of splendor and horrors, he could not tell the whole truth. He had to leave his tale half told lest he lack believers. How little Marco Polo was credited may be judged from the fact that the map of Asia was not modified by his discoveries till 50 years after his death. His book is one of the great books of travel. Even now, after the lapse of six centuries, it remains the chief authority for parts of Central Asia, and of the vast Chinese empire."

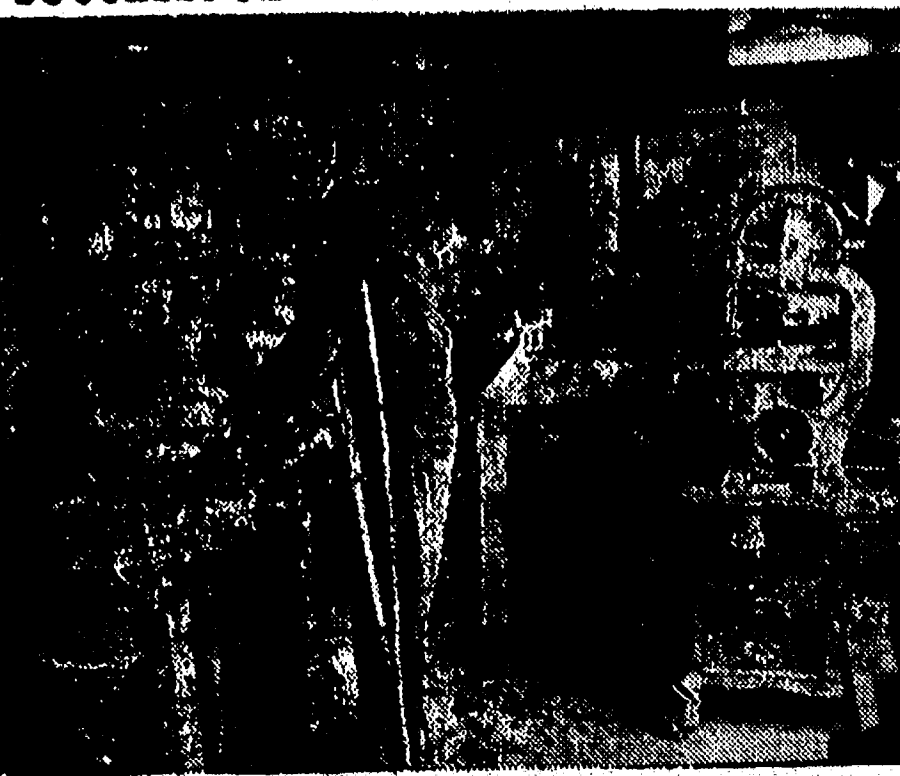

Chesapeake Bay Retriever

Natural history says: "The generally accepted theory as to the origin of the Chesapeake bay retriever is that he is descended from two dogs from Newfoundland rescued with the crew of an English brig, wrecked off the Maryland coast. The American ship Canton made the rescue in 1807 and landed the English crew and the dogs on the shores of the Chesapeake bay. The dogs were given to two gentlemen of that region in return for kindnesses to the crew. The two dogs, a male and a female, named Sailor and Canton, made such a great reputation as water dogs and duck retrievers that they were mated with nondescript dogs of the neighborhood, which were used for the same work."

Name Leander From Greek

The name Leander is from the Greek and means "lion-man" or "courageous." The Leander of Greek legend, recalls Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, swam the Hellespont every night to see Hero, a priestess of Aphrodite whom he loved, guided by a lamp on her tower. One night the lamp went out, Leander was drowned and Hero threw herself into the sea and perished. St. Leander, sixth century, was bishop of Seville, Spain.

SUCCESSFUL DESPITE TRIPLE HANDICAP

Here's an object lesson for young America!

The three-fold handicap of homelessness, poverty and paralysis has failed to stop 23-year-old Wayne Hendrickson, of Marshall, shown here at work with a circular saw in his excellently equipped woodcraft shop.

Three years ago, young Hendrickson, motherless since infancy and able to walk only with great difficulty, obtained a job with the National Youth Administration on a wildlife sanctuary project near Marshall. At first, a hammer and saw were his only tools, a drygoods box his only work bench; but through constant practice, diligent study and odd jobs that supplemented his NYA pay-checks, he was able to purchase additional equipment. In this way he has steadily expanded his shop from the original hammer and saw and drygoods box to a well-furnished workshop that today includes a blast furnace and foundry for casting aluminum and bronze.

Universal Brotherhood

THE opening stanza of a well-known hymn (Christian Science Hymnal, No. 105), typifies the prayer of all earnest Christians today:

"Help us to help each other, Lord,
Each other's cross to bear;
Let each his friendly aid afford,
And feel his brother's care."

Modern invention has reduced, measurably, the limitations of time and distance. Today the so-called foreign country is our next-door neighbor. Through the medium of the radio, we are informed of current events as they occur. As a result, the problems arising across the miles of ocean, which demand attention, immediately become a part of our thought. It is, therefore, that the only right-thinking people should develop and maintain an attitude of universal brotherhood.

The Golden Rule still remains the highest standard for the expression of this brotherhood. It applies both in the simplest dealings with our immediate neighbor and in the most complex diplomatic and other relationships with our fellow men at large. We do not hesitate to share our garden tools with the man next door. How much more, then, should we be willing to share our spiritual benefits with a group of individuals called a nation!

However, should the borrower next door misuse that which we have lent him, we may justly refuse to be allied with such a practice. In other words, the mere preaching of peace and brotherly kindness is insufficient. The essential part is the practicing of our highest concept of good. In his parable of the good Samaritan, Jesus not only rebuked hypocrisy, but also indicated the practical nature of true religion.

Paul wrote to the workers in the church at Rome (Romans 13:10): "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law." The love which does no harm to one's fellow man is that expression of the Christ-spirit which was so perfectly exemplified by Jesus during his ministry. He was often wrongly accused, yet he retaliated in no way, but healed and blessed. . . . All forms of aggression, greed, hatred, desire for war, and the like, arise primarily from a wrong concept of God, with its attendant fear. Belief in evil or the power of evil is disbelieved in God. This naturally breeds fear for vengeance is the very foundation of such a state of thought. John wrote (1 John 4:14, 15): "He that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. . . . There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear. . . . Thus, we see, the solution to our problem of overcoming fear or distrust of neighbor, and the nation, will be accomplished as we gain the right understanding of God and His perfect government of His creation, and as we express the love which 'dwelleth in God.' The acceptance and realization of the fact that, since there is one God, there is but one creation—spiritual and unified—enables one actually to apply this understanding for the alleviation of human suffering.

Unity of thought regarding God and His creation engenders brotherly love, which precludes the possibility of inhuman warfare. Mary Baker Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 346): "One infinite God, good, unifies man and nations; substitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfills the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.' . . . And on page 467 she further states: 'It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one mind, one God and Father, one life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent. . . . war will cease and the brotherhood of man will be established.'—The Christian Science Monitor.

Preserve Old Homes

The charm of the ancient homes of Hildesheim in Germany can never be destroyed for tourists by any modernizing, since no property owner is permitted to alter his house without good cause, and any change must harmonize with the architecture of the past.

Natural Gas Was Known

And Worshipped in Asia

"Natural gas was known in Asia ages before it was put to practical purposes in this country. It appeared as leakage from gas-bearing strata through crevices in the ground, and when lighted, usually by accident, was often worshipped as a manifestation of a fire god. It was thus known in India, in China and in Persia.

In the United States, relates Flora MacFarland in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the first discovery of natural gas by drilling was in Ohio and West Virginia in the early Nineteenth century when surprised salt makers struck gas while sinking shallow wells for salt.

Rufus Stone, one of the first operators in the salt-making business at McConnellsville, while drilling for salt, struck a reservoir of natural gas strongly impregnated with sulphur, which caused the driller to exclaim they had "drilled through to hell." At first the well was considered a failure, but the gas was later put to work to boil the water for the salt making. This use of it is said to have continued for 40 years.

Other such accidental discoveries of natural gas were occasional, and in 1825 the first use of it for light was made at Fredonia, N. Y. A hundred street lights were fed there by gas which had been discovered by seepage through a mill stream. The first place to be piped for the use of natural gas for domestic purposes was Titusville, Pa., in 1872.

Endowments an Aid to

The Church of England

The greatest source of income of the Church of England is its endowments. Many of these are very old, often antedating the Reformation, and some are very large. They are of all descriptions. Colleges and individual parishes have been left properties in London and other cities which have grown to be of great value.

In other cases, old families have given their churches or church institutions perpetual rights to certain of their income, and numerous other old tithes and voluntary rents, of great or little importance, survive. Many congregations, by reason of their endowments, are wholly or partially free from the necessity of contributing to the support of their clergy, and are thus more free to give to other ecclesiastical purposes.

There are also numerous old endowments the objects of which have become defunct. A Church Estates commission, created by parliament in 1836, has charge of these, and a board of ecclesiastical commissioners is empowered to assign the income from these sources to current uses.

Aside from the endowments, the English church derives its income in the same manner as churches in this country—by general appeal.

West Highland White Terrier

One of the most satisfactory of all the terrier breeds, if not of all breeds, is the West Highland White Terrier, writes P. Hamilton Goodsell in the Detroit News. Like all the terriers from the land of Hebrides and bagpipes, Scotties, Cairns, Dandies, Dalmatians, etc., this breed probably is descended from a common stock, all being branches of the same tree. It originated at Poltalloch, the family home of the Malcolms, and is said to have been bred there for more than 100 years before it made its appearance at dog shows as a recognized breed. The lineage of these terriers of the Malcolms possibly dates back to the time of King James I, who asked for some "earth-diggers" out of Argyleshire. For a long time the breed was named the Roseneath terrier, after the duke of Argyle's seat in Dumfriesshire, and also the Poltalloch terrier.

Physician's Oath Is One Of Great Many Promises

The Physician's Oath by Hippocrates is as follows:

"I swear by Apollo Physician, by Asclepius, by Health, by Panacea, and by all the gods and goddesses, making them my witnesses, that I will carry out, according to my ability and judgment, this oath and this indenture. To hold my teacher in this art equal to my own parents; to make him partner in my livelihood; when he is in need of money, to share mine with him; to consider his family as my own brothers, and to teach them this art, if they want to learn it, without fee or indenture. I will use treatment to help the sick according to my ability and judgment, but never with a view to injury and wrong doing. I will keep pure and holy both my life and my art. In whatsoever houses I enter, I will enter to help the sick, and I will abstain from all intentional wrong doing and harm. And whatsoever I shall see or hear in the course of my profession in my intercourse with men, if it be what should not be published abroad, I will never divulge, holding such things to be holy secrets. Now if I carry out this oath, and break it not, may I gain forever reputation among all men for my life and for my art; but if I transgress it and forswear myself, may the opposite befall me."

Qualia, Old British Festival

Qualia, is seldom heard of in England, but is one of the oldest English festivals. It is observed in parts of the Isle of Man, where customs similar to "first-shooting" in Scotland are kept up. Men go from house to house singing special festival songs and are invited in for a bite and a drink. Always, dark men go first. But there are one or two customs in connection with Qualia which are observed nowhere else. Before midnight the floor of the kitchen is swept, always starting at the door and sweeping to the hearth, otherwise good luck will be swept out. Before retiring, the ashes are taken from the fire and smoothed over the hearth with a pair of tongs; and in the morning the housewife looks eagerly at the ashes for tracks of a human foot. If there is one and the toes point to the door, it means death for one in the house; if the footprint is reversed, it means the birth of a child.

Self

It is not by applause, it is not by any help, really that I or anyone else can give you; that you may become great. It is in yourself that the power lies, and it is by your life by your industry and by the fullness and completeness of your experience and your sympathy that you will be able to get hold of that power.—Benson.

Fragile Look Fostered by New Coiffure

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

ARTISTS and poets have raved about the lovely nape of a woman's neck since time began. It is supposed to be one of our most alluring feminine charms! And because fashion repeats itself, napes of necks are bare again, as those new and exciting, brush-the-hair-high coiffures are here for a long stay!

Such a hair-do is gloriously feminine. It has a way of making a woman or a girl more fragile. You know—looking as if she might not be able to take a severe scolding! And that's always a help!

Dame Fashion has a way of keeping us on our toes. We can never quite sit back and say, "I'm all settled for the next year!" For instance, two things will concern the woman who decides to make this change in her hair style—How to keep the back hair-line trim and appealing, and how to make her hair stay up just after she has trained it into a long page-boy bob!

Take an honest look at that back hairline of yours after you have combed and brushed your hair high on your head. Not very beautiful, is it? What can you expect if you have allowed hair-dressers or barbers to hack away at it for years? But you've got to groom it into a smooth even line and train the hair to grow softly and naturally upward. For a time you may use a tiny barrette or small hairpin to keep it up, but by late fall it should stay of its own accord.

How to Train Straggly Hairs

Each day brush those harsh straggly hairs upward by letting your head hang down and brush toward the crown of your head. If you are not going to business, knot it high in a roll, pin up the ends, and tie a bandanna around it. That holds it in place.

Each night before going to bed apply a scalp pomade or a good hair tonic along the hairline. Gently massage it. The rich lubricant will not only feed the starving tissue but the rubbing will stimulate growth.

Don't have your hair cut again—just let it grow. Later on you may have it shaped, once you determine which high style you will wear. Or you may just twist your long hair into becoming puffs on top of your head. Many girls are letting their hair grow long.

As your hairline grows, attempt to keep it curled for gala nights with very small curlers, the

The winners are as follows:

5th Grade—Charles Slane
6th Grade—Walter Osterle
7th Grade—Robert Bycraft
8th Grade—Joe Steele

Grand Champion—Walter Osterle.

The committee wishes to thank Wm. Birch for his work in supervising the tournament the business men were generous in their gifts for prizes. Thank you business men.

Sewing—Did you see the sewing exhibit in the Kindergarten Room last week? This was made possible through the fine cooperation of a group of women under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ray Krontz. Surely we all appreciate the advantages of this sewing to the girls, and much praise should go to the helpers in this project.

Supervise play—The committee has been working on the possibility of having a play ground supervisor for at least part of the summer. With the co-operation of all of the clubs sponsoring this recreation program, we feel sure this can be carried out. The committee has been assured by the Physical Education Department at the University that a part-time supervisor would be available from the summer school student group. About one hundred dollars would be sufficient to put over a program of half-day supervised play for children for at least six or eight weeks.

The committee is hoping that each club will do its part in helping to pay for this summer program.
