Michigan Mirror

(By Gene Alleman)

Lansing—The Michigan state legislature is now entering into the closing days of the regular session—five months of activity.

The past few weeks have been, in the opinion of Representative Elton R. Eaton of Wayne county, editor and publisher of the Plymouth Mail, a "gala season for greedy, selfish, grasping interests and special pressure groups."

Serving his second term in the legislature and experienced in state affairs as secretary to Governor Groesbeck, Representative Eaton is convinced that legislation in Michigan is largely the result of "pressure groups" who go out selfishly to make sure their own interests are cared for, usually at the expense of the public.

While all bills sponsored by these well-organized blocs are not passed, "unfortunately a very large percent of them are," comments Mr. Eaton, who adds, "and that's why the poor overburdened farmer and working man complain so much about taxes and the cost of things they have to buy and the services they have to have." In an illuminating analysis of legislation by pressure groups, the Plymouth editor gives the following picture of how and why many bills are passed at Lansing. We quote leading excerpts:

Candidates Interviewed

How are "special pressure group" bills jammed through the legislature? That's an easy question to answer. The "plotting" takes place months and months before the legislature meets. In fact, it is started before members of the legislature are even nominated or elected.

These "special groups" watch the local newspapers like hawks. Most of them maintain a newspaper clipping service. If they do not maintain a service of this kind, they generally subscribe for the local papers. What for? To find out who the candidates are for the state legislature.

"Executive Secretary"

Always these groups maintain a highly specialized "legislative agent" generally termed an "executive secretary" or some other sort of a misleading title.

The girls hired to read these newspapers discover that John Hiram Promiser of Hickory Corners, has announced that he is going to be a candidate for the state legislature in the forthcoming primary.

Immediately John Hiram Promiser will get a letter from Lansing, Detroit or some other city in Michigan in which he is advised that the announcement of his candidacy for the state legislature has been read with interest.

"We are greatly interested in your campaign. We plan to have before the coming session of the state legislature a bill which will be of wonderful benefit to the voters of your district and the people of Michigan. We would like to know how you stand on it, and if you can give us your support, we will be glad to see to it that all of our members in your district will vote for you," most of these letters read.

"Voters Await Answer"

During the last primary campaign, the writer received twelve letters of this type from various pressure groups sponsoring, in nearly every case, miserable, selfish legislation. Of the twelve letters received there were possibly two or three that were relative to proposed measures worthy of real consideration.

If the candidate does not reply to the first letter, he generally receives another one in a few days, telling him that no reply has been received and "the voters of your district are anxious to know how you stand on these questions."

Some candidates, especially those who are new to the legislative field, "fall" for these letters and become pledged to a legislative bill before they are even nominated or elected to the legislature.

These "executive secretaries" keep a careful card index on each candidate and what he says as to how he will vote on some certain bill if that measure gets before the legislature.

Government by Pressure

Representative Eaton's portrait, as given above, presents a vivid mirroring of the Lansing scene that is all too familiar to members of the legislature.

The system being as it is and legislators being only human—after all, many bills receive official sanction much in proportion to the "build up" that can be effected by the sponsoring group always in the name of the public whose welfare is so zealously espoused.

It has become government by pressure, not only at Lansing, but at Washington.

It is the force that motivates, to a large extent, the recent trend towards more centralized authority by government—more bureaus and commissions—and the inevitable price of all this, larger payrolls to be supported by taxes and fees.

Children In Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Cruelty In Its Worst Form

An illegitimate boy was picked up in a distant city where he had fled to escape the shame that surrounded his birth. He was forced to wear cast-off and made-over clothes, and had to reside with relatives who did not even profess to care for him.

It seemed to this child that everyone did his utmost to make his life miserable. The adults of the community not only prohibited their children from playing with him, but they constantly referred to the stain on his birth.

Consequently, the other children of his own age, taking their cue from their elders, tormented him so persistently that he stole five dollars and ran away. His flight called the case to the attention of the juvenile authorities. After a thorough investigation had been made, the court succeeded in placing the boy with a childless couple for adoption.

Jack Rabbits Speedy
Jack rabbits have been known to run at the rate of 35 miles an hour.

Our Neighbors

MANCHESTER—A sinkhole some 100 feet across has developed three and a half miles south of town, a short distance beyond the Fred Schaffer farm. The muck has been pushed up beside the roadway until it makes a curious sight. Although this spot has been low for years no trouble was encountered until the other day after some 500 yards of gravel had been dumped in to bring the road up to grade. Within three hours after the work was completed, the road had sunk some ten feet and is still sinking. Tests made by county engineers show 30 feet of muck on one side and 50 feet on the other so the road crew are going to have a lot of fun filling this sinkhole.—Enterprise.

BROOKLYN—The planting of 100 trees along Brooklyn streets during the past week by the village council should not only be commended but aided. The fine young maples and elms will have better chances for growth if given water during dry periods like the present, so that they can get started. Some of the residents along the street line where the trees are planted are already cooperating in their care, and all are asked to do so. No ceremonies attended the planting of the trees, most of them going in as replacements for trees destroyed by the storm. Many of the trees destroyed were originally planted fifty or more years ago by the town's benefactor, the late Edward Brighton. It has given Brooklyn its fine shaded streets and all take pride in continuing this kind of beauty and benefit.—Exponent.

GRASS LAKE—Coming as a surprise to residents of Grass Lake is the announcement of the retirement of T. B. Jones from the Jones & Ray hardware business. Mr. Jones came here from North Jackson 25 years ago. He purchased the local business from the Shaler Hdw. firm for whom Mr. Ray was then employed. Later a partnership was effected, continuing until this week when because of ill health Mr. Jones disposed of his interest to Mr. Ray, who has taken his grandson, Max Collins, in partnership with him. —News. Max Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Collins, former Chelsea residents, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Collins of this place.

Life in a Stall

Horses are able to go for months without lying down. Nature provides them with a muscular mechanism that allows the animal to rest his legs while remaining on them. —Christian Science Monitor.

One of the most important "E's" in the promotion of a good community safety program is "enforcement."

Most of the driving public believes in education and engineering as important steps in the promotion of a good community program and feels that enforcement is necessary, but that we ought to "go easy." Why go easy? If we have laws on our statute books which call for certain speed limits, and if any city council or village board establishes rules and regulations as law, why not enforce them? If we have a street with a speed limit of 25 miles an hour, then let's have the courage to enforce it at 25, and not 30 or 35. If we want to travel 35, then let's step up the speed limit to 35, if it is safe enough to do so.

Enforcement requires backbone on the part of the enforcement officers.

and even more backbone on the part of the courts.

Hi-Y Activities

"What is Hi-Y?" The question has been asked many times during the school year about the club and the new Hi-Y room in the grade building. A partial answer to this question is summarized in the following:

Name and Origin

The name Hi-Y, represents a movement of high school youth who are members of the Young Men's Christian Association committed to a Christian purpose at work in the high school and in the community.

The first high school Y. M. C. A. of which there is any record was organized in 1870 at Iola, Mich., and disbanded three years later. The oldest Hi-Y Club with a continuous record was organized in 1889 at Chapman, Kas., also as a high school Y. M. C. A. The name, "Hi-Y," came into use in 1911 and was originated by a Pittsfield, Mass., high school boys' club that called itself the "Pi-Hi-Y Club."

At present there are over 6500 Hi-Y Clubs in the United States and Canada with an approximate enrollment of 197,000 members. There are similar clubs of high school youth in 60 countries of the world where Y. M. C. A.'s are located.

The Purpose

To create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character.

The Platform

Clean living—Clean Speech—Clean Athletics—Clean Scholarship.

The Function

To bring together boys who are vitally interested in Christian standards for personal living and for school life.

To provide the channel through which they may explore the problems that face high school youth today.

To mobilize their efforts to put into effect action Christian solutions to these problems.

The local club has had a busy and interesting year, as the activities listed below will show. Initiation of new members. Parents' Night. Swims at Y. M. C. A. and Men's Union buildings in Ann Arbor. Leathercraft project for the entire high school. Dedication of the new Hi-Y club room.

Scavenger hunt. Joint meeting of F. F. A. and Hi-Y clubs. Hi-Y assembly, presenting Dr. Samuel Grafflin of White Plains, N. Y. Five delegates to Michigan State Older Boys' conference at Grand Rapids. Six delegates to Regional Conference at Jackson. At this conference Waynard Oesterle was elected delegate to Camp Hayo-Went Ha, on Torch Lake, representing the Jackson-Ann Arbor Area. Assisted in making plans for the Washtenaw County Youth conference.

The club has held weekly discussion meeting in the club room. Some of the topics studied were on "The Effects of Alcohol," "Boy and Girl Friendships," "Earning a Living," "Developing Personality," "Traffic Safety," "Personal Health and Hygiene," and "Vocational Guidance."

As a community service the club assisted with the sale of "Wild Life Conservation Pictures" for the Gun and Rod club. The Hi-Y has also expressed its willingness to assist the local Recreation committee with its work for the summer months.

Throughout its various activities the club has raised money to pay state and national registrations and buy Hi-Y pins; to pay part of the expenses of the representatives to Camp Hayo-Went Ha.

Last Tuesday evening the Hi-Y held a Fellowship meeting in the park on Huron river. After a repast of steak and buns, a campfire was held at which the plans for next year were discussed. The rest of the evening was spent in games and stunts around the fire.

On the evening of Tuesday, June 6, an impressive International Fire of Friendship will be lighted in the Court of Peace at the New York Worlds Fair. A thousand Hi-Y boys will participate in the actual ceremony which will be broadcast over a national hook-up between 8 and 9.

A group of men in Chelsea have invested in this work with young men and have given this organization a fine beginning.

The Bank of England is not a government institution, but a private banking house, the largest in the world, with the British government as its chief customer. It is controlled by a governor, deputy governor and 24 directors. The Bank of England is a joint-stock bank, the first of its kind in Great Britain. It was organized with a capital of 1,200,000 pounds, subscribed by many stockholders, and opened for business January 1, 1695, during the reign of William III.

LIBRARY NEWS

Coming to you this week is Dorothy Canfield's latest book, "Seasoned Timber." It depicts the life of a thrifty and conservative Vermont people who do not carry their hearts on their sleeves. They stand for true Americanism and discard the person who has not the stuff to hold fast in the face of opposition to this principle.

The story is built around the Academy whose principal and head is Timothy Canby—wise and understanding. Offers had been made to take over the institution of learning for its financial betterment but Canby preferred to guide the young people himself. As times became more difficult, it became an issue as to how they were going to carry on. In the face of this question, a bequest was made to the academy which was provisional. First, the academy must admit no Jewish students; Second, the name must be changed to George Wheaton Preparatory School; Third, the tuition must be raised.

The average inhabitant interpreted it as Fascism—a wolf closing in on democracy. This conflict becomes the most vital part of the novel and its conclusion the book's real climax.

Running through the pages is a tender love story which holds Timothy, and has its disillusionment in the end.

Captain Horatio Hornblower

When you hear of a book in three volumes, it sounds big and prohibitive, doesn't it? But here is a Trilogy that will take your eye and fancy.

The first volume introduces us to Captain Hornblower, who is captain of the British frigate, "Tylda," in the time of the Napoleonic wars, at sea in the Pacific and making for the Nicaraguan coast. He has been seven months on the sea with sealed orders. We get to know him well; his shabby uniforms; his struggle to conquer his talkative nature. His attacks on the Natividad, a Spanish man of war is most spectacular. But by now he has a lady passenger on board; the high-born Lady Barbara Welleisle with an aristocratic nose and mocking ways. He gets the better of the Natividad in two terrific battles, but the campaign against Lady Barbara is longer and more difficult.

In volume two, we find Hornblower helping to blockade the coast of Spain. Handicapped by lack of money he has had to man the clumsy old "Sutherland" with gangs shanghaied from slums and jails. With the crew of toughs he is helping the Spanish Loyalists of those days, when Napoleon was bringing in the Fascists of his time.

In the third volume Hornblower faces a threatened trial for piracy.

He has caused Napoleon to lose face, and he knows that if he is brought to trial as a pirate he will be executed. Just how the good chance happens, and how everything he needs happens to be waiting for him—even the re-appearance of Lady Barbara—and the trip down-river in a home-made boat—well, only the reading of this Trilogy can satisfy your curiosity. All the satisfactions of suspense are rewarded. If you enjoy an exciting sea novel with a historical background, you will clamor for "Captain Horatio Hornblower."

One of the distinctions which visitors find in the churches of Holland pertains to their names. When the country was mostly Catholic they were named after saints. Since the days of the Reformation they are called either Groote, Oude, or Nieuwe: Great, Old or New.

Honor To Our Heroes

ONCE EACH YEAR, at the end of May, the American people turn from their workaday concerns to pay loving tribute to those gallant men who held their Country dearer than even life itself.

With flowers and banners and patriotic services, the nation commemorates their heroic deeds.

It is a beautiful custom, this observance of Memorial Day.

It never fails to call forth a re-dedication of us all to the ideals that made our Country great. It is also a day partly and properly given over to pleasant reunions of families and friends, to refreshing little excursions into the blossoming countryside, to quiet, healthful recreation.

In the spirit of a company which for fifty years, through war and peace, has observed the true significance of this patriotic day, Pfeiffer joins with all good citizens in the observance of Memorial Day, 1939.

A Michigan Institution For Fifty Years

Roadside Tables and Parks Ready for Season

Lansing—The welcome sign to Michigan's summer tourists was up this week along the roadides of the state's highway system. Approximately 3,000 picnic tables, an increase of 500 over last year, have been set out along the trunkline highways. Maintenance workers also checked over the 161 roadside parks to place them in condition for tourist use.

Based upon their use in the past, these facilities might well give the appearance of a dining room table some 9,000 miles long most any noon during the summer season.

The expense of developing and operating this unique roadside service is relatively inexpensive, says Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner. Roadside parks are generally developed on donated land or on excess property not used for construction. Picnic tables are made by maintenance workers with the material costing about $12 per table.

"As against this nominal expense," the rich dividends that this roadside service pays to the people of Michigan are now generally recognized. At first, some people regarded these tables and roadside parks as mere frills but they are now convinced that these services represent a happy investment for the state, not only in dividends from the tourist trade but also in the recreational opportunities afforded Michigan motorists.

M. S. C. Feeders' Day Will Be Held June 9

Annual Feeders' Day at Michigan State College will attract livestock men from all sections of the state to the farms and college campus Friday, June 9, at East Lansing.

Visitors will see samples of feed and feeding, stressing differences found in experiments with silage and hay.

On the morning program will be Professor George A. Brown, head of the department, and George Brannaman, George J. Propp, C. L. Cole, V. A. Freeman and E. L. Benton, members of the department.

Results of feeding molasses alfalfa silage will be compared with alfalfa hay and corn silage. One project involved wintering beef cows and another was in fattening yearling steers. Another year's work on the cost of maintaining the beef breeding herd and producing fat yearling cattle will be reported as the group meets at the experimental barn.

Afternoon information is to be dispensed in a program at the Union Building.

Howard Rather will offer hints on pasture problems. Emory Townsend of Ionia is slated to discuss use of corn silage; Foster Oswald of Vicksburg is to talk about raising beef cattle in Michigan.

E. A. Beamer, commissioner of agriculture, is to describe livestock regulations. H. J. Gramlich, Chicago, secretary of the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, will offer a program for stabilizing the cattle industry, and Robert Greiser of the Chicago Producers' Commission will describe the outlook for feeders and fat cattle.

Antelope Beautiful, Graceful

The antelope is one of the most beautiful and graceful big-game animals in America and in the open country of the West it stands picturesque with horns curving above its head like parentheses. If alarmed, notes a writer in the Los Angeles Times, it will raise the white hairs on its rump and as it disappears these hairs form a dazzling white rosette that stands out in the sunlight long after the animal's rich tan has merged with the colors of the landscape. The name "antelope" is firmly fixed in our usage; however, "pronghorn" is nearer the true name of this fleet animal for it combines the peculiarities of the giraffe, goat, antelope and deer. As a matter of fact, there is only one species or family of pronghorn antelope and that is found only on this continent.

Youths At Cassidy Are Aided By NYA

Concentrating on a problem in the forge shop at the National Youth Administration Resident Work Project at Cassidy Lake, this young man is one of 1,321 unemployed out-of-school Michigan youth gaining practical work experience in seven resident training projects and 45 work centers maintained by the NYA throughout the state.

At this particular project, the largest in the state and one of the most interesting in the country, there are 170 jobless youth fitting themselves for a place in private industry. Practical work experience, correlated with related study, is the basis of the NYA program for increasing the employability of youth. With a background of actual application on the job, these youth, when they leave the project, not only have a better chance to secure profitable employment, but are also better equipped to hold their place in the highly competitive race that industry demands.

Youth at the Cassidy project and the other resident projects and work centers have an opportunity to familiarize themselves with various occupations. Besides this, they build up a correlated academic background through correspondence courses from the University of Michigan.

Travel Helps

A man is the happier for life for having once made an agreeable tour.—Sydney Smith.

Meaning of 'Rien', French Word
'Rien', a French word, means nothing, nought, not anything, anything, mere nothing, trifle, mere trifle. Following are some idiomatic phrases using 'rien': 'Rien rien' for nothing, or for a song; 'rien de plus beau', nothing finer; 'rien autre chose', nothing else; 'on ne fait rien de rien', nothing can be made out of nothing; 'je n'en ferai rien', I shall do nothing of the sort; 'je ne pense a rien', I am not thinking of anything; 'de rien', don't mention it!

Persian and Angora Cats
Persian and Angora cats are usually regarded as one species; all long-haired cats being considered persians. The Angora, supposed to have originated in Angora in Turkey, is described in the New International Encyclopedia as having a small head and rather large tufted ears, also long silk hair hanging in tufts or clusters, shortening toward the end of the tail. The Persian, larger in body, with slightly coarser hair, has the hair increasing toward the end of the tail.

First Gem Lovers
So far as is known, the Sumerians, earliest inhabitants of Mesopotamia, were the first nation in history to recognize the ornamental value of semi-precious stones, and to understand and practice the art of stone-cutting for the purpose of making cylinder seals, signet rings, beads and other jewelry. Great quantities of beads of agate, carnelian and lapis lazuli were excavated years ago from the ruins of the ancient Sumerian city of Kish by the Field Museum-Oxford university joint expedition to Mesopotamia.

Honor Guard Keeps Watch Over Shrine

ONCE a year—on Memorial Day—eyes of the nation focus on a tomb in Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D. C., on which is inscribed: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God." That those soldiers who died in service of their country shall be constantly remembered, the United States Army maintains a perpetual vigil over the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

1 On guard at all times is one soldier. The sentry detail includes three shifts of four men each. Each shift is on duty 12 hours, then is off duty 24. This sentry marches 30 paces a minute, keeps the post for two hours, then is relieved for four.

2 While waiting to go on duty, this private answers the questions of two sightseers. He and the 11 others of his detail will serve for 15 days, then be replaced by new sentries.

3 During bad weather, guards use the sentry box instead of marching back and forth before the tomb. At all other times regulations provide that sentries shall stand guard outside.

4 Placing a floral wreath on the tomb is a time-honored gesture of reverence and commemoration. Each year, in this way, many visiting dignitaries pay their grateful respects to America's heroic Unknown Soldiers.
