District Will Vote On Extension for Home Economics

At the annual meeting of School District No. 3 Fr., Sylvan and Lima, to be held at the school auditorium next Monday evening, qualified electors will vote on the proposal to transfer funds from the general fund to the building and site fund for the purpose of making alterations to the school building which will provide sufficient space for the addition of a home economics course.

This proposal is being submitted to the district by the Board of Education because of the many requests from residents of the district for the addition of such a course. The Board realizes that there is real need for the course but there is no space in the school building which could be used for this purpose.

A proposal for a bond issue to provide funds for an elaborate expansion program to provide space for both home economics and manual training courses, as well as additional class rooms, was about to be presented to the voters several months ago when it was discovered that state laws limited the period of time for which bonds could be issued to such an extent that it was deemed impractical to even suggest such a proposition.

The plan which will be submitted to the qualified voters next Monday evening calls for no bond issue, but merely a transfer of funds and perhaps a slight increase in the tax rate for next year only, the increase not to exceed one mill.

Funds obtained in this way would be used to enlarge the kitchen to such a size that would provide space for the home economics equipment and one end of the room could still be used as a kitchen. The size of the enlarged room would be 28x51 feet. The estimated cost, based on the architect's figures, using Ann Arbor labor prices, is $6,000.00 for one story or $8,000.00 for a two-story structure. The latter would provide two extra class rooms, which have been urgently recommended by the University of Michigan and North Central Association when inspections of the school were made during the past several years.

The addition of a home economics course would be of great value to the school system, and as can be seen from the above figures can be obtained without obligating the district to any great extent. The teacher for this course would be paid under the same plan as a Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture teacher, with the state and federal departments paying most of the salary after a period of three years.

Only taxpayers of the district may vote on the transfer of money and raising of the tax rate, but other qualified voters of the district may vote on the election of officers and other routine business.

Street Improvements Will Start Next Week

Action was taken by the village council at their regular meeting on Monday evening to start work on improvements to the streets in the village.

The largest job to be undertaken this year will be the re-surfacing of West Middle-street. This street is in bad shape due to many frost-heaves, which have been caused by lack of drainage. New drains will be placed under the roadbed and along the sides where necessary to overcome this condition.

Two inches of the street surface will be taken up and replaced with regular oil mix. The two inches of surface material taken up will be used in the new construction materials which will be placed on the street.

In addition to the West Middle street improvement, a heavy oil seal coat will be placed on practically every street in the village. All streets were sealed two years ago with light penetrating oil to provide dustless streets and form a base for addition of the heavier seal coat which will be put on this year.

Work will start on West Middle street next Monday, and the seal coating of the other streets will start the following week, weather permitting. It is estimated that $4500.00 will be spent on the streets this year.

W. J. Emmons of Ann Arbor, who has supervised work on the streets in previous years, has again been engaged as engineer on the project.

Expect Natural Gas By Middle of August

Plans are being perfected for the construction of the connecting pipeline which is expected to bring natural gas to Ann Arbor, Chelsea and Dexter by the middle of August, and surveying of the properties over which the pipeline will be built will be started this week.

The Michigan Consolidated Gas Company plans to bring natural gas to Ann Arbor, Chelsea and Dexter from the Texas and Kansas fields through the pipeline serving Detroit by tapping the pipeline at a point about 10 miles east of Milan. The line will connect with the pipelines in the city just east of the county farm on the Washtenaw Road.

Between 150 and 175 men will be employed on the project, with Arthur Lerch of Davenport, Iowa, superintendent of construction, and Edward Fischer of Davenport, engineer for the work. The pipe will be laid about four feet deep.

Michigan's Tourist Industry Grows In Scope Each Season

By Gene Allemen

Lansing—Despite the man-made competition of international exhibitions this summer in New York City and San Francisco, Michigan's tourist industry is expected to reap a 1939 harvest of $50 millions.

Such is the estimate of Business Week.

California will be second with 235 millions, Minnesota 205 millions, and Wisconsin 150 millions.

Tourist expenditures have soared in to the "Big Business" category, but it would be a mistake to assume that Michigan's No. 2 industry is dependent solely upon the summer vacation habits of Middle-West residents. It is becoming more and more a year-round business.

Peninsula Playground

Blessed by cooling refreshing winds off Lake Michigan, the lower peninsula of Michigan has long been a favorite haven for sweltering denizens of industrial cities as far as St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Louisville.

Nature also gave the peninsula the blessing of thousands of spring-fed lakes.

What to some might appear to be a curse—sand and sand—more sand—happily made possible many miles of ideal bathing beaches not only along Lake Michigan, Lake Huron and Lake St. Clair but on countless inland lakes.

Add to this combination the recreational advantage of fish and deer in large numbers, and surround it with the fragrance of pines and spruces and evergreens—all of it within a day's drive of millions of Americans—and you have a good idea why Business Week put Michigan at the top of the playground parade for 1939, world fairs notwithstanding.

Knowing Michigan

From your own acquaintances, persons whom you have known most of your life-time, how many of them have never seen the Straits of Mackinac?

Ask the question tonight, but be prepared for a surprise.

Human inertia and a stubborn indifference to what appears to be commonplace, our own state, has made (Continued on next page)

Am. Legion Carnival Opens Here Tonight

The American Legion Carnival will open tonight and continue on Friday and Saturday, and will be located at the corner of West Middle and Wilkinson streets.

A balloon ascension at 6:30 tonight will be one of the big features of the entertainment. There will be rides, shows, concessions, and other interesting entertainment for all.

The outstanding feature of the carnival will be a free act each night by Rita and Dunn, high wire actors, who perform 80 feet above the ground. It is said to be one of the best tight wire performing acts in the country.

Every effort has been made by the Legion to secure good entertainment for this carnival, and it is hoped the event will be as successful as it has been in past years.

BIELECKE-WOOD WEDDING

On July 1, Miss Ann Bielecke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bielecke of Jackson became the bride of Wallace Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wood of Chelsea. The ceremony was performed at the rectory of the St. Stanislaus church, Jackson.

The bride was dressed in white silk crepe, with a corsage of pink roses and silver ribbon. The bridegroom was dressed in white, with black accessories. Miss Sally Podlo of Jackson, maid of honor, wore a dress of rose color lace with a white rose corsage. Clarence Wood, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The couple left on a trip to Niagara Falls and will visit New York and the World's Fair, returning to stop a short time with friends in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood will reside in the Miss Winifred Rank house on US-12.

Mrs. Wood is a graduate of Jackson high school, and Mr. Wood is a graduate of Chelsea high school.

There were 45 guests at the reception which was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The old saying, "He travels fastest who travels alone," does not hold true in the case of the automobile driver. He may be alone as a driver, but he has two invisible companions who are constantly fighting one another for superiority. One is "Lady-Luck" and the other is "Old Man Accident."

When you return from a trip and have obeyed all the safety rules and regulations and brought yourself and your family back home safe and sound, Lady Luck has been the winner. On the other hand, when you have been involved in an accident because of an infraction of the rule or because of someone else's carelessness, Old Man Accident has been the winner.

You can do the right thing by driving the safe way and making Lady Luck the winner each time.

24 Years Ago

Thursday, July 8, 1915

Fire started in the basement of the Freeman block at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday morning. On the second floor the telephone operators were taken to the ground from the windows by means of ladders. The smoke was so dense they were off duty for an hour. The L. T. Freeman Co. suffered the greatest loss, which is covered by insurance.

A. G. Faist has purchased the Elsie-man property on West Middle street and will erect a garage on the property.

Wm. T. Bott has bought 150 acres of land in Lyndon township, of Wirt C. Boyce.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Elsie-man have purchased the Geo. Boyd estate property on East Summit street.

Chelsea was a quiet place Monday, nearly everyone taking in some of the celebrations around us. As a cold fifth of July it was a record breaker, the weather man being able by dint of much search to find in the records but one that approached it in frigid-ity, 1891.

The Alumni Association of Pump-kin College was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Green-ing in Lyndon on Sunday, July 4.

A. C. Turner has purchased the house and lots 7 and 8 in the Grant-wood addition on Washington street.

Miss Marie Ashfal of Grass Lake and J. L. Shaver of Jackson, son of M. A. Shaver of this place, were mar-ried on Sunday, July 4, 1915.

34 Years Ago

Michigan's Tourist Industry Grows In Scope Each Season

Michigan the great unknown for many of its residents. Citizens of Dearborn, for example, are disinterested in one of the world's most remarkable at-tractions at their own door—the world's largest industrial plant, al-gaeared to that ever-astonishing Amer-ican device known as the "assembly line." It is just too close to home.

Greenfield Village, also at Dearborn, attracts more people from other states during vacation months than Michigan residents. Yet, as a tourist attraction, it is without peer in its appeal and type any place in this nation.

Cascades at Jackson

At Jackson is a remarkable scenic lure, the illuminated Cascades, which is visited annually by close to 1,500,000 persons.

The artistic creation of William Sparks, a benevolent industrialist, and his wife, Matilda, the Cascades con-sists of sixteen water falls of which eleven are illuminated in the three primary colors: red, green and blue with all the scientific combinations of a rainbow.

Architecturally, the Cascades is a massive structure of concrete, 550 feet long and 60 feet wide, rising to a height of 85 feet.

Above the top, center and bottom falls are three reflection pools ninety feet by thirty feet, each containing two fountains.

Picture the constant flow of 360,000 gallons of water and the kaleidoscopic hues of color magnified by 252,000 watts of electricity, and you may gather a mental conception of the grandeur of this Michigan tourist spot. Furthermore, the Cascades are free. Choice seats may be had for a dime. Be there promptly at 9 p. m. any day in the week. The annual fes-tival at which 2,000 persons will sing and a symphony orchestra will play, will be from Aug. 12 to 19.

Sand Dunes, Factories

Within gunshot of the business sec-tion of Grand Haven on the Lake Michigan coast are several unique things: (1) Scores of sand dunes; (2) miles of white dazzling beach; (3) 300 summer cottages in Highland Park and the "North Shore," both within city limits; (4) an almost ice-free harbor, home port of the U. S. coast guard cutter, "Escanaba," and (5) di-versified industries that normally em-ploy 3,000 persons.

Mix with this several beautiful parks and modern municipal buildings and community hospital.

Then you have another example of why Michigan cities, such as Grand Haven, continually attract new indus-trial concerns.

The Oval state park, facing the lake, leads all others in annual at-tendance. It's a dull day when less than 100 trailers are parked there. Nearby is Spring Lake, seven miles long, where the famed Hopkins gardens are always open during the summer months to visitors. A speed boat will take you from the big lake over in-land waters, right to the estate of Mrs. Claude C. Hopkins, widow of the late Claude C. Hopkins, who was dean of modern advertising and president of Lord & Thomas, Chicago, until his death in 1932.

Cherry Capital

As Michigan is the cherry capital of the United States, it was inevitable that a festival would be held in age-old celebration for nature's blessing of a good crop.

July 12, 13 and 14 are the dates an-nounced for the National Cherry Fes-tival at Traverse City. Ships of the Great Lakes Training Fleet will par-ticipate in the program this year. And that distinctive product of Mich-igan's tourist business, the Festival Queen, will be properly enthroned amid parades and whatnot.

An automobile trip into the Leelanau peninsula through Suttons Bay, Leland and Northport, with perhaps a side tour encircling lovely Glenn Lake, will reveal countless cherry trees, reddened with fruit—a sight in itself worth seeing.

Brockway Mountain Drive

Only a day away from the state capital is the historic Copper country and its Keweenaw peninsula jutting out like a small finger into the deep blue waters of Lake Superior.

The shore is rocky as Maine's. Pine and spruce trees grow in pro-fusion. At Copper Harbor, a gem of nature itself, is a modern gold course with a clubhouse and log cabins to cater to your fancy.

The Brockway Mountain drive is breath-taking.

From a high point, if the day is clear, you can easily see Isle Royale.

Highway people say that at least one million people have enjoyed this mountain drive in the past five years.

We cite it as an example of the varied lure that Michigan offers ev-erywhere you go.

Grayling in Winter

Unkissed by all but a few in Michigan is Grayling's winter sport park.

By next winter, and surely within the next five years, this tobogganing and skating spot in the pine woods will receive the tourist recognition that it so fully merits. The United States government through its park service has been lavishing money on the development of ski trails, tobog-gan slides, and better facilities for accommodating the thousands who are expected to enjoy all this.

A civilian conservation camp is sta-tioned there. A comprehensive plan of development has been prepared.

We rode down the slide on "Sulicide Sal" at midnight with Harry Kipke of Ann Arbor, Ink White of Gladwin, the genial mayor of Alpena, and one checkered-suited individual by the salty nickname of "Spike." Bright and gay clothes. A roaring fire in a stove in the cabin. Six degrees below zero and a star-sparkling sky above.

A Texan visitor in our party said it was like a fairy story. But it was just another picture of Michigan's recreational attractions — many of which thousands of Michigan residents have yet to discover.

Our Neighbors

MASON—After six days of search-ing for the body of Robert Ray, 18, drowned in Pleasant Lake last Friday afternoon, it was recovered Thursday forenoon in about 40 feet of water near the island opposite Bartlett's bathing beach. The point where the body was recovered was north and east of the spot where the boy went down. Young Ray of Ferndale and Thomas Baird and William Riley of Detroit were in a rowboat. They had rowed out into the lake toward the island. An oar fell out of the boat. Baird dove in to get the oar and Ray followed him. Ray shouted once for help and then went down. His two companions stood by to aid Ray but he didn't come to the surface. County News.

BRIGHTON—It isn't often that one hears of washing water, but strange as it may seem it is sometimes done, and the firemen cleaned the pond pretty thoroughly Tuesday evening, removing the weeds and debris that had collected and lodged on top. As a pressure of 120 pounds was brought to bear on the surface it did a pretty good job, but according to Fire Chief Hyne, another washing will take place later in the week. Argus.

TECUMSEH—The first class to graduate from Macon high school known as the Stone Pennington school, sponsored by Henry Ford, received their diplomas Thursday evening when commencement exercises were held at the Methodist church in Macon. There were 11 members in the class. Her-ald.

Conestoga Wagon Named For Pennsylvania Town

The conestoga wagon or wain was so named because it was manufac-tured at Conestoga, Lancaster coun-ty, Pennsylvania. This wagon, re-lates a writer in the Indianapolis News, had a high, boat-shaped body with curved canoe-shaped bottom, which fitted it especially for moun-tain travel. The advantage of this feature was that freight remained firmly in place at whatever angle the body might tilt. The body was usually painted a blue or slate color, and the sideboards vermillion. The rear end could be lifted from its sockets. The wheels had broad tires, sometimes almost a foot broad. Six or eight bows were arched over the body, the middle ones lower than those at the ends, and over these was spread stout white hem-pen cloth, strongly corded down at the sides and ends.

The vehicle could be loaded to the top of the bows and could carry from four to six tons. Six or more horses were attached in teams. The top of the front hoop was 11 feet from the ground; the white cover was 24 feet long. The top ends of the wagon beds were 18 feet apart and the rear wheels five or six feet high. When the six-horse team was pulling, team and wagon stretched to 60 feet. The heavy, broad har-ness was made of good leather and trimmed with brass plates. Bell-teams were common; a metal arch was attached to the harness and bells fastened thereto.

Scapanus Largest Mole On American Continent

Scapanus is the largest mole on the American continent. He is blood brother to the lesser moles of the eastern states and of Europe. His fine bluish fur is the equal of that of his European relatives, but he dif-fers widely from moles of the East and of Europe in his feeding habits, according to an authority in the Portland Oregonian.

Their food consists entirely of angleworms, adult burrowing in-sects and their larvae. Scapanus eats all of these greedily. When they are scarce he turns vegetarian and eats oats, wheat, corn, beans, peas, vetch, carrots, potatoes, par-snips, bulbous iris, tulips and ti-gridias.

He spends his entire life under-ground in a marvelously excavated system of burrows known as "runs." He is, therefore, in darkness. Con-sequently all his experiences come to him through his sense of touch, his acute hearing and his highly developed sense of smell. He will have nothing whatever to do with any object the least bit unfamiliar or that is out of place.

Scapanus' time is divided between roaming existing runs in search of food and in digging new runs to greener pastures. All this digging gives him his tremendous power. His strength is so great that he al-most literally "swims" through the earth, using a modified breast stroke.

Mahogany Richer With Age
One of the outstanding qualities of mahogany is that the wood gradu-ally becomes deeper and richer with age. If one were satisfied to let time effect this change, there would be no need for stains. However, in this age of haste we cannot wait for time to develop the rich, soft patina that is the earmark of the antique. The fresh cut surfaces of most woods are fairly light in color. Mahogany may be a light salmon pink or sometimes a creamy yellowish brown. Lumber cut from dif-ferent trees of the same variety and of the same cargo may vary some-what in color. Staining therefore not only tends to give the desired color but also tends to equalize vari-ations in different boards or dif-ferences between boards and ve-neers. One of the essentials of good cabinet making is the selection of wood of the same kind that matches the color, thus facilitating uniform staining. Thus we see that staining brings out the natural beauty of the wood. It imparts to the wood the rich mellow color that would other-wise come with years of exposure to light. It makes uniform the vari-ous parts of a piece of furniture.

Cassidy Lake Events

We wish to welcome to the Cassidy Lake staff, Lawrence Peck of Mason, Michigan, who will be the new time-keeper.

Robert Rogers, head of the vocational department, has been appointed the director of the Cheboygan Resident Work Project. Mr. Rogers has performed his duties well here and has been a friend to all us boys, who will miss him. However we wish him the best of luck in his new position.

The Upper Peninsula boys had their picture taken as a group. The Counselors, not to be outdone, had individual pictures snapped. It is, however, for a very good reason.

Last Monday evening the musical minded boys got together and formed a music club. The next meeting will be Monday, July 10. We would like to see more faces in the group.

Over one hundred and twenty-five boys went home for the Fourth of July, leaving the project pretty quiet.

If a decrease in the number of boys coming to Chelsea on town nights is noticed, think nothing of it. It isn't quarantine, it's pay-day once a month instead of twice a month as formerly, and the boys will be budgeting their money more closely.

We wish to thank the management of the Sylvan Theater for the free show given to the Cassidy Lake boys. It was appreciated very much.

Sunday, June 25, the fishing season opened. By the number of hopeful Isaac Waltons seen on the lake, it is evident that fish suppers will soon be a common thing here. Our Director, D. L. Miller, caught his limit before 7 a. m.

Eddie Tolon, one of the greatest track stars in the United States, was the guest of the Cassidy Lake Project last Tuesday.

Our small ducks are now tame enough so that they will eat out of your hand. At meal time it is quite a sight to see them coming for their meal when they are called.

The Aviation Club's long awaited units have finally arrived. The club can now get to work in earnest. It is the chance for which they have waited and the best of use will be made of it.

The first half of the Cassidy Lake softball games have been played and it produced many surprises. The first of the season looked as though a walk away for the A group, but after getting off to a flying start they went into a bad slump and D group came through with a surprisingly good team, winning five straight before dropping one to the B group who had a bad start. After getting warmed up as the season progressed, the B group played bang up ball and took second place in the league. C group went good for awhile but went into a bad slump, losing seven in a row to finish in third place.

Outstanding players in the league were Teichma, pitcher for D group with plenty of speed and control, worrying opposing batters to a frazzle. Joe Papes, also of D group, is a first class first sacker and his power at the bat was a great help to his team which came home with the bacon in the league.

C group had two boys who were outstanding in Satterly, left fielder, and Louch, third. Both were excellent fielders and, though not sluggers, were consistent hitters. The B group relied on their pitcher, Hackenberg, whose portside slants were a bother to every batter in the league. The A group has "Lefty" Purkiss, a great first baseman and hitter. A rookie fielder by the name of Geiger, who starred in the field, and a good catcher in "Moon" Mullins.

We held the first baseball practice Monday evening. Approximately sixty boys reported. The practice consisted of infield and outfield workouts.

Tuesday evening there was practice consisting of batting. The boys took turns of getting their eyes on the ball while standing at the plate.

Thursday evening there was a scrimmage between two picked teams. It looks as though Cassidy should have a very fine team to put in the field this season. They will look very well as 40 new uniforms have just arrived and the boys are working hard to get to wear them.

Question And Answer Dept.

Problem—How would you punctuate the following sentence: "I saw good bonafide Bank of England currency being blown down the street." (Answer elsewhere in this department.)

Ques—What is spontaneous combustion?

Ans—Spontaneous combustion is something catching fire by itself without being set on fire by anything. For instance, oily rags piled too closely together may get hot because of a slow chemical reaction between the oxygen of the air and the oily rags. They may even get hot enough to catch on fire.

Ques—What is in the spinal cord, and what does it do?

Ans—The spinal cord is a storage house for a bunch of nerves that serve as a sort of a substitute for the brain. It is so much faster. For instance, in a danger incident to say your finger you will jerk it away without waiting for the general manager of the brain to warn you. This will happen before you have time to think at all.

Ques—Why are so many proposals for marriage made in the moonlight?

Ans—This seems to be a subconscious memory. In cave-man times courting had to be done out of doors; the huts or caves were far too crowded; dark nights were unsafe because of wild beasts, and so for thousands of years most of the love-making had to be done on moonlight nights. Our subconscious mind still remembers this age-old association of amorous intentions with the moon.

Ques—I am told that all animals originally lived in the ocean. If that is true, what was the first animal to live on dry land?

Ans—Scientists are generally agreed that the scorpion was the first animal to live on land. In the silurian period (about 500,000,000 years ago) there were a lot of sea-scorpions living on land.

Ques—Was Johann Mozart a Lutheran minister in Germany? In what period of time did he live? And what was his greatest musical achievement?

Ans—Johann Mozart was not a minister. He was born in Germany, and his father was a director in the Lutheran archiepiscopal chapel. At a very early age he left Germany and located in Vienna to study and develop his musical talents. Outstanding among his works are: "The Marriage of Figaro," "Seduction of the Serail," "The Twelfth Mass" and "The Requiem." He was born in 1756 and died in 1791.

Ques—I am curious to know what is the oldest daily newspaper in the world which is still in existence?

Ques—Who is "Bes"? Or what does it mean?

Ans—Bes is the name of an animal of the cat kind. In Egyptian mythology Bes is the god of varied attributes, particularly the god of pleasure.

Children In Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Little Brother

A small boy was seriously injured in a traffic accident while trying to cross the street behind his older brother and his friends. The youngster was in the habit of following these older boys; in this instance, they were trying to lose him. The parents made the mistake of blaming the older brother for the accident.

Many parents make a practice of compelling older children to take care of the babies of the family. This is unfair to all concerned, as it forces the younger children into awkward situations, and interferes with the activities of the older children. If there are no small children in the neighborhood, the mother should make an effort to find amusement for the little ones without permitting them to tag after brothers and sisters who do not want to play with them.

Character Training

The child's character is first shaped in the home because it is there that he makes his first contacts with life. Therefore, parents should strive to develop those ideals which he will meet later in his contact with society. Correct and effective parental example is the best method of impressing such ideals on a child.

A prominent educator suggests that ambitious parents encourage minor achievements, because disappointments frequently follow when a child is goaded into reaching goals beyond his capacity. Even though a child fails to attain a smaller goal, parents should not let him see their disappointment, for the youngster is likely to become discouraged. Parents must always remember that a child's abilities are limited. To illustrate this point it is only necessary to mention that a young man left home simply because he could not please his parents with anything he tried to do.

While children appear to imitate their parents and are influenced by their emotional reactions, the older children in the family or in the neighborhood are frequently able to stimulate a desired reaction in a younger child which the parents themselves could not accomplish.

LIBRARY NEWS

Last week you young people were told about the fun you were going to have in earning a "Vacation Reading Club" diploma. Of course by this time you have been to the library to learn all about it.

Now let me first tell you youngest readers about "Ju-Ju". From the moment he poked his warm little brown donkey nose into Onnette's hand to say "Hello", right up to the last excitement, Anri and Anri and Annette didn't have a dull moment. There were Anri's troubles with the wasps, when Ju-Ju went to school, and the adventure with the puppet people and the circus when Anri and Annette were frightened, and there was Father's big surprise for them. What a good time they all had! And what a good time you will have, too, as you read this exciting story of "Ju-Ju and His Friends".

Let's skip along now to boys and girls a little older and just chat a bit about a story that Marjorie Medary wrote about "Joan and the Three Deers".

Can you imagine what it would be like to have three half-tame deer for pets, and to give them a little house all their own to live in? Joan couldn't, when she first saw the three little deer with the talking tails, Buck, Bramble and Babo. Each of the three deer was as different as could be from his brothers. And one of them seemed so nearly able to talk to Joan that she was sure he was enchanted, like people in a fairy-tale, and that, any moment, the spell might be broken.

How Joan and Aunt Sue did worry when the three deer mysteriously disappeared! And how completely relieved they were when the mystery was solved! You will be, too, as you read this delightful story of Buck and his brothers, Bramble and Babo.

Now for you older Juniors. "River Rising", by Hubert Skidmore brings you much of interest.

Unexpected danger, an emergency when he must pit his strength against a crowd of bullies, a secret plot of lumbermen—little did York Allen think that teaching school would hold such adventure for him.

Yet even had he known, York would have gone courageously from his mountain home to the work that was waiting. For he was determined to be a doctor, and he must earn money for the course at medical school.

You will like York Allen, and you will admire him more and more as you read this exciting and dramatic story of his year at a lumber camp.

Here is another alluring tale by Edith Tallant, "The Girl who was Marge".

Harbor Dark! The very name was menacing, gloomy. But no amount of warning could make Marge and Polly Lovell turn back from their fine plans for the summer, helping the fisherfolk of Newfoundland under the guidance of Dr. Grenfell.

A stowaway, a fire, a near tragedy which was due to Polly's stubbornness, the episode with the squid, the troubles with the "fidgety fourteen"—adventures gay and sad and funny came to the Lovell girls during that eventful summer.

But best of all was Kiah, the splendid friend they made at Harbor Dark! Kiah, the gallant trader who taught them so much of courage and service, who came to mean so much to Marge.

You will find romance, mystery and bravery in this inspiring story of a summer spent "down North".

Scamper along and find these Junior Literary Guild selections, and when you have finished reading them, get out your little record book that you were given at the Library and jot down just the things that it asks for. I know you are reading this "Vacation Reading Club" lots of fun.

Priests as Firemen
In 1705, King Louis XIV of France founded the Paris fire brigade. Forty firemen formed the first brigade, and they were recruited from workmen used to doing their jobs high above the ground. A number of years later, an auxiliary fire brigade was formed for the guarding of Paris. This was composed of four companies of priests. The great bell of the cathedral of Notre Dame was used as a fire warning. On one occasion, when there was a big fire at the famous hospital of the Hotel-Dieu (which adjoins Notre Dame), 20 of these firemen-priests were burned to death in trying to rescue the patients.

Moles Do Much Damage

Farmers and gardeners generally consider the mole a pest of the first order. Its disturbance of plant growth oftentimes results in great losses in farms, fields and in vegetable and flower gardens. The tunnels it makes are also harmful to lawns. Undoubtedly the species is responsible for losses of these kinds totaling thousands of dollars each year. As the experienced well know, the mole is a difficult pest to contend with because of its small ability to evade capture. Although the almost insignificant eyes help it none in escaping capture, the concealed ears probably are very helpful, as is also the keen sense of touch. Even gentle footsteps on the ground where the animal is working usually convey sufficient warning, after which a retreat is made down its tunnel, and then all evidence of the quarry is lost. The mole is said to be able to crawl backwards with incredible speed.

Phosphorus Accidentally Discovered
Phosphorus was accidentally discovered by an alchemist seeking a means to transmute base metals into gold.

The Garden of Eden
On the supposition that the Garden of Eden narrative in Genesis describes a real country, any number of efforts have been made to establish its location, and many books have been written on the subject, often widely disagreeing. Some have located Eden near the town of Kormah, in southern Babylonia, not far from the Persian gulf. This is at the junction of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, in what is now the British mandatory kingdom of Iraq. Others have placed the Garden in Armenia, near the sources of these rivers. The region near Damascus, in Syria, has also been suggested; and some extremists have argued that it was in America, or Australia, or at the North Pole. The general opinion is that the description in the second chapter of Genesis refers to southern Babylonia.

Parisian Barnyards

Predict Better Fishing As Season Progresses

With the 1939 lake fishing season off to a good start in the past week in terms of catch as well as number of anglers, the department of conservation fish division advances the opinion that each passing day would bring reports of even better fishing.

They issued their opinion after reviewing the reports from all sections of the state, including a general report that bass fishing was as good or even better than last season.

Bass drew a big turnout on the opening day. Reports ranged from one who took his limit by 2 a. m. Sunday to "fair" bass biting. The consensus was that the 1939 opening was very good.

Bluegills had much the same reports as did bass, but creel census takers, interviewing fishermen on eight selected lakes in representative areas of the state turned in statements that the bass had drawn a bigger following the first few days.

Interest in bluegill fishing can be expected to increase as the season progresses, according to fishing authorities. Limit catches of pan fish were brought to conservation headquarters, but the bass apparently got most of the attention the first few days and consequently a larger number of favorable comments.

Bass in most lakes had been reported off their spawning beds for two weeks prior to the June 25 opening. Bluegills are known to continue spawning as late as August, but these are the exceptions rather than the general rule.

The continuous high temperatures and the wide-open sunny skies worked together against a record bluegill catch in the initial week. The bluegill anglers who did their fishing in the early morning and late afternoon periods reported very good luck.

Rattlesnake's Bluff

The rattlesnake has a strictly limited supply of venom and seems to know this, for it will use it only as a last resource, declares a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine. Once the snake has bitten its prey, or enemy, the whole of the poison supply is exhausted and it is quite harmless, but the rattlesnake relies upon his likeness to more dangerous rivals and continues to attack after the poison is spent, usually with success. There are two main fangs on the upper jaw, and when these are not in use they can be tucked out of sight under a fleshy covering.

A Custom of the Lapps

Marry in haste and repent at leisure may be an axiom in some parts of the world, but not in Finnmark, northernmost district of Norway. The Lapps of this district have plenty of time to think things over before "making the leap." As a matter of fact, their wedding ceremonies are performed only once a year, during their markets. Market time to the Lapps is, therefore, marriage time, and as a result love-sick youths ordinarily have many months of waiting before they can take the fateful step.

Winter Does Not Check Activity of Ground Mole
One animal rarely seen, yet hardly to be considered uninteresting, is the common mole. Its habit of living a secluded underground life, together with a natural shyness when it is aware of human presence, makes this creature one of the more mysterious animals of the state, writes Clarence Taube in the Detroit News.

But the animal makes up for its infrequent appearance by leaving behind numerous and plainly evident signs of having been about. The lines of upheaved dirt above underground tunnels and the circular mole hills are common sights in summer and sometimes are also evident in winter.

The mole is content to burrow for subterranean worms and insects upon which it feeds. Its pointed snout and the two hand-like paws serve as excellent tools for digging. Occasionally the animal works its way to the earth's surface, after which it may crawl above ground for a short distance before "digging in" again. Usually these sojourns in the outer world are quite brief, for the mole out of ground acts much like a fish out of water, and it invariably hurries to return to its underground abode where it lives in greater safety.

Observers have noted that for some unknown reason the mole is more likely to be seen above ground during the noon hour than at any other time of day. Although the small mammal generally does its burrowing deep down during the winter months, it's at this season when it is more frequently seen out of the ground. This may be due to animals' rather frequent striking frozen earth, the impenetrable obstacle causing it to dig to the surface, or then again it may be due to the fact that the bluish gray furred animal is much more easily discerned on snow, thus causing its out-of-ground excursions to be noticed more often in winter than in summer.

Hair Is a Form of Skin

Tissue; Three Features

The hair is a form of skin tissue. Every hair, no matter where on the body it is located, consists of the hair shaft, the hair follicle, and the papilla. The follicle is slightly below the scalp, is a hole-like formation, and is set into the scalp at an angle. The follicle is surrounded by two layers of tissue, the inner layer of which develops into a small conical projection which is the papilla, or the hair bulb. It is the papilla that contains the blood vessels and the nerve connections that make the hair grow, declares a writer in the Philadelphia Record.

The hair shaft consists of several layers of cells. One contains the pigment that determines the color of your hair. The outside of the hair consists of cells that overlap each other like the skin of a crocodile. It is this outer layer that contains the horny substance, similar to that in the finger nails, which gives resistance, strength and elasticity to the hair.

Attached to each hair is a cluster of glands that supply the natural oils to the hair and the skin. It is when these glands are overactive that the hair and skin become too oily. When they are underactive, the hair and skin are too dry.

Each hair has its own erector muscle. Friction makes this muscle contract and causes the hair to stand erect. Cold will produce goose pimples.

All hair growth comes from the papilla. The hair moves forward in the follicle. The portion between the bulb and skin is the root of the hair. The hair shaft then emerges through the skin. The hair itself consists of tiny horny cells, and there are three layers of the hair cells. Upon their shape depends whether the hair is naturally curly or straight. Straight hair is circular, curly hair is oval.

A normal head of hair contains 100,000 individual hairs. Hair grows at an average rate of half an inch a month or six inches a year.

Flower Garden Under Sea
Produces All Year Round
The strangest flower garden in the world is about 500 feet below the floor of the Atlantic ocean!

You must go down 750 feet from the land surface and then travel miles to reach it. Its flowers bloom all the year round, and there are no weeds.

Many years ago, notes a writer in London Answers Magazine, when electricity was first introduced to the colliers at Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, the engineers at the huge underground generating system, which supplies an entire mine, decided that they would like a garden.

To see it you go down to the 750-foot level and take an electric train which runs three miles out under the ocean.

There is a passage 75 feet long and 12 feet wide leading to a general storehouse. Through it runs a three-foot path of crushed dolomite, a silvery-gray color. On either side are flower beds.

The earth, brought down from the surface over a period of years, is 12 inches deep. It is moist and cool with temperature always at 60 degrees. The beds are constantly flooded with rays from powerful arc lights.

Name Sylvester of Latin
Origin; Authority Says
The name Sylvester, sometimes spelled with an i for the second letter, is of Latin origin and means "forest dweller," "of the woods," or, in a general sense, "country bred."

This name has been borne by two popes, in the Fourth and Tenth centuries, and by two anti-popes (elected in opposition to those regularly chosen) in the Eleventh and Twelfth centuries, according to Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dr. Sylvester Gardiner (1707-88) helped to colonize a part of Maine and the city of Gardiner, Maine, is named for him. He was a loyalist during the Revolutionary war and removed to Halifax and later to England, being one of those who were proscribed in 1778. But he returned to America about a year before his death. To him goes credit for introducing inoculation for smallpox.

Sylvester Graham (1794-1861) was a New England Presbyterian minister, a temperance lecturer and an advocate of vegetarianism. His theory was that a diet of vegetables prevented a craving for liquor, and he recommended using an unbolted wheat flour for bread. Graham flour and bread perpetuate his name.

'Morris Folly'
"American Nicknames" says: "In 1795 Robert Morris bought an entire block of land in Philadelphia, Pa., lying between Seventh and Eighth and Chestnut and Walnut streets. Having been considered the richest man in America, he proposed to erect for himself a magnificent residential mansion. Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, the famous French architect, had charge of the designing and building of this marble palace. Owing to the enormous amount of money spent on materials, labor, and changed plans, and to financial reverses on the part of Morris, he and his family were never able to live in the partly finished house, consequently it was called Morris' Folly."

Use of Charcoal in Great Britain
When charcoal was used in Great Britain toward the end of the Sixteenth century, the timber supply was depleted so rapidly that the government restricted the cutting of timber, and the decline of the wrought-iron industry followed at once. With the introduction of coke, a product of coal, the industry revived immediately.

Advice on Nose Blowing
Vigorous nose blowing is all wrong. The nose should be blown gently at all times, regardless of desire or provocation, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association. It is immaterial, it declared, whether one nostril is held open at a time. The operation should be gentle, the Journal said, because if too much pressure is used the secretions carrying germs may be forced into the sinuses and establish sites of infection.

Early Chinaware Popular

With Lovers of Antiques

The great reputation which old English china gained for itself in Europe and America in the late Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries is due largely to the charm of its useful wares. By useful wares we mean the services of china made for table use, states Alice R. Rollins in the Los Angeles Times. Entire services, with all the pieces decorated to match, were not common until well after the middle of the Eighteenth century. Many of the factories producing them have long since passed out of existence. Such examples as have survived add pleasure or regret to the collector, according to his ability to classify or obtain them.

Other services were the productions of famous potters whose names have been associated with them by reason of some special form of decoration which is unique. This, together with an original limited production, has made them rare and desired by those collectors who like something out of the ordinary. In this connection we mention the unusual "Mocha" ware, first produced by the English potter, William Adams of Tunstall.

One of the best-known names among English potters is that of Adams. The family had long been engaged in the pottery industry and had made many notable improvements in the manufacture of such wares. William Adams (1745-1805) was considered the most important member of this talented family. He was a close friend of Josiah Wedgwood and worked for him as pupil and associate. He began potting for himself about 1787 at Greengates, in Tunstall.

Deep and Shallow Water
Provided there is sufficient water to float the body, the depth of water makes no difference to the swimmer, its buoyancy being the same in both cases. The popular belief that swimming is easier in deep water is incorrect, though perhaps the mental effect has some influence. A person swimming in shallow water knows that on the least fatigue he may stop swimming and stand on the bottom; in deep water he knows he cannot do this but must exert himself to swim well and under these circumstances it may seem easier to him.
