CHAPTER II .- Kay trequently stays with CHAPTER 11.—Kay trequently stays. With Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, her son Barbey, of whom Kay is very fond, and her daughter Kargaret. Mrs. Hamilton, a remarkable woman, conceived the Idea of the Gardens following the death of her husband. One night, after a local dance, Kirk Reynolds, a ne er-do-well gambler of Beverly, a resort town, and Kay go for a ride. Kirk's car collides with that of Harvey Jackson, and during the ensuing argument Kirk withs out a gun and kills the young, popular engineer. a gun and kills the young, popular engineer.

CHAPTER III—Kay is completely stunned by the tragedy. Kirk threatens to drag her into the thing if she tells even her father. Terror-stricken, she agrees to remain silent. However, the next time she goes out with Barney, he realizes something is wrong. She tries to reassure him, but tells him nothing.

CHAPTER IV—Mrs. Emma forrest, Kay's mother, looks upon herselt as being completely righteous. She is firm, positive and demanding. Her father is exactly the opposite, kindly and unassuming. While at home Kirk Reynolds calls for her, and she is forced to go with him despite her family's protests. He fells her the circumstances make it necessary for her to marry him so she cannot be forced to testify against him if he is accused of Jackson's murder.

"But suppose she knew that she was going to be protected?" 'She couldn't know that. She'd only know that you'd be willing to do your best."

He said gravely, "In this State a woman may testify against her hus- thur? band. The law merely says that she cannot be compelled to. 'You mustn't. Jim.'

"You know he's dangerous." "What of it?"

"This. Jim . know Dad—so you can't understand what his death really meant. Then the financial collapse and the sympathy of our friends—which was the wrong kind of sympathy. And Mother's worry over Barney which led to our coming down here so he could get away from wealthy friends who were too kind.

She paused and he touched ner hand reassuringly.

"I knowe Plenty tough sledding "It is. Beverly has done a lot for all of us. I've been happy-maybe because I found you. But whatever the cause, I'm jealous of my happiness. I don't want it destroyed."

CHAPTER VII

Barney said "I'm proud of you, Kay. My mother is proud of you. Margaret is proud of you. The cook is proud of you."

Kay laughed in spite of herself "The third waffle?" she inquired: "Plus grits and shrimp and what have you.

had been insulted, degraded and otherwise rendered more than slightly ridiculous. His resentment mounted as he traversed the miles-into Beverly. It became deep and bitter after he had borrowed a ride from a colored man who was driving a battered old flivver and who was afraid to refuse Jeff's request.

Arriving in Beverly, Jeff Butler let himself down without a thankyou at the depot. There he encountered a friend of his, a gentleman of similar ilk, to whom he related his troubles. It appeared, according to Jeff, that he had personally built Cathedral Gardens, and that he had been pitched out without rhyme or reason. Two other denizens of Big Moccasin-Swamp-joined the group, ostensibly to sympathize with Jeff's woes, said this so frequently and so ear-(though not immediately) believed. U. S. Divorces on Increase As World War Aftermath

Divorces in the United States showed a heavy increase as an aftermath of the World war, maintained a high level during the prosperous years following 1922 and, for some unexplained reason, took a sharp turn upward to unprecedented heights beginning with 1934, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company have discov-

They base their conclusions on a study of the divorce trend in New England, the only section of the country for which data covering a long period are available. In these states, the ratio of divorces in 1937 to the annual average of marriages for the preceding decade was 168 per cent greater than the corresponding ratio for 1890.

Many of the post-war divorces probably resulted from disillusionment after hasty marriages with statisticians point out, while others were the result of opportunity presented by prevailing high wages and war profits, which furnished the necessary funds that would otherwise have been lacking.

The increase in divorces occurring in the prosperous period after 1922 ran true to form, it is explained, because it is well known that the incidence of divorces usually follows the business cycle closely. The record rise that started in 1934. however, is not so easily explained. as "no data are at present available which offer an authoritative in terpretation of this remarkable development."

The statisticians suggest, however, that many of these recent divorces may have been "poor men's divorces," instituted on the grounds of nonsupport and abandonment, in this connection it is significant that the chief statutory cause of the recent rise was "cruelty," a convenriety of actual causes.

On Criminal Punishment

Pardon and parole should be abolished and persons convicted of crimes should serve their full sentences except where injustice is revealed by new evidence, in the opinion of 83 per cent of the men and 88 per cent of the women covered in a survey of 25,000 Northwestern National life insurance policyholders. Death penalty for murder was approved by 86 per cent of the men and 75 per cent of the women; 88 per cent of the men criminals. Many expressed alarm "cracking down" on tender treatment of criminals. The first aim of penal and legal forces should be to protect the law-abiding by making crime dangerous and its rewards unpleasant, thought 81 per of the men, with rehabilitation of questioned included separation of first offenders from "repeaters" in prisons; closing of loopheles in procedure through which "smart" lawyers can free criminals at a profit; placing of more police powers in federal hands; and use of criminals sentenced to execution for purposes of scientific research, the latter suggestion proceeding from a

Nearly One Million

Would you know how many coyotes, badgers, muskrats or bobcats or other fur bearing animals were caught in season by Michigan trappers in the last 12 months?

That was one of the phases which interested R. G. Hill, extension specialist in game at Michigan State College when he surveyed 1938-89 tranpers' reports submitted to the Michi-Sunday school at 11:15 with classes gan State Department of Conserva-or all ages. In Choir practice this week on Friday all counties nearly a million animals were taken for fur or bounty, with fur worth about $1,250,000.

Of 11 kinds, wolves were least numerous and numbered but 59. Muskrats were most numerous, as trappers sent in reports indicating the season's catch was approximately 782,924. Skunks took second place with an apparently low annual trapping of 34,-

Other unionals cought in traps have been estimated at 32,550 weasels, 18,-634 opossuns, 17,546 mink, 6,501 raccoons, 3,159 fones, 2,098 coyotes, 532 bobeats and 50% badgers. Approximutely three-fourths of the entire fur take came from farm lands in the state's 44 southern counties.

More than curiosity is represented in Hill's tabulation and estimates garnered from totals in all the counties. The figures serve as a guide in computing animal population, the trends thus aiding in establishing seasons way the child will not lose his per-

Skunks, for instance, are more val vable than the average person suspects. Although the odor may be offensive, says Hill, the skunk has value for fur and pats large numbers of grubs and other insects detrimental to farm crops. The state conservation Our Conference Lay Delegate, Mrs. Commission recently ruled that in 1939 the skunk trapping season is to be age him to accomplish a certain task open only from Nov. I to Jan. 31. In is futile, for then money becomes the previous years no closed seasons pre- goal of the child's ambition. It is vailed for skunks.
