Ransom Armstrong And Fred Bareis Die From Crash Injuries

Fred Bareis and Ransom Armstrong, of Cavanaugh Lake, were fatally injured Sunday afternoon in an automobile accident four miles west of Chelsea at the intersection of U.S. 12 and the Muskegon Road, when their car drove from the Muskegon road onto the highway in front of a westbound automobile driven by Mariano Valenti of 2838 Mt. Elliott St., Detroit. The latter was accompanied by his brother, Thomas.

Bareis suffered a skull fracture and multiple fractures of both legs. Armstrong received a skull fracture, fractures of several ribs and both legs. They were taken to St. Joseph's Memorial hospital, Ann Arbor, where Bareis died at 6:25 and Armstrong at 7:55 Sunday night.

The Valenti brothers were taken to a local hospital, Jackson, where Valenti, 33, 17, was reported in a serious condition with a possible skull fracture, severe bruises the right forehead and a fractured right leg. The Valenti brothers said his condition was improved.

Both machines were demolished. Bareis and Armstrong were lying on their backs, their heads resting on the ground. They were found by a general store for several years.

Ransom Sidney Armstrong was born in Chelsea on April 17, 1873, son of Dr. R. S. Armstrong and Eliza Goodell Armstrong. He was graduated from the Chelsea high school in 1891 and from the University of Michigan in 1898. For several years he was associated with his father in the drug business in Chelsea and later went to Great Falls, Mont., as a pharmacist.

From there he went to California where for two years he was in the U. S. Forestry Service.

When the World War broke out he enlisted in the Medical Corps. He was stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and at the time the Armistice was signed.

Returning home he built a grocery store at Cavanaugh Lake, which he conducted until the last two years. He was one of the founders of the Herbert J. McKinnon Post No. 31 of the American Legion; a member of the Congregational church; of Olive Lodge 156, F. and A. M.; Order of the East.

Ernest R. Dancer of Chelsea; and by two brothers, Howard G. Armstrong of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Arthur G. Armstrong of Roy, Missouri; also by five nieces two nephews, one grand niece, and three grand nephews.

Funeral services were held at 4:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Congregational church, with Rev. R. W. Barber officiating. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery with Masonic rites. Members of the American Legion were pallbearers and the burial service was concluded with firing of the salute and sounding of taps.

Fred Bareis was born July 8, 1872, in Lima township. He was the son of George and Carrie Bareis. He is survived by three brothers, Jacob of Chelsea, Henry of Ann Arbor and Emanuel of Vester, Wis., and four sisters, Mrs. Eva McMahon of Flint, and the Misses Annah, Clara and Carrie Bareis of Detroit.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 1:30 at the Starlin funeral home and at 2 o'clock at St. Paul's Evangelical church. Rev. A. A. Schen officiated and burial was in Bethlehem cemetery, Ann Arbor.

R. B. Dexter Purchases
Adolph Duerr Market
A deal was consummated on Monday of this week whereby R. B. Dexter of Jackson became owner of the Adolph Duerr meat market, located in the A & P store.

Mr. Dexter was formerly owner of this market, operating the business for about four years before selling to Mr. Dexter six years ago. Mr. Dexter, who has been engaged in the meat business in Jackson, took possession of the business on Tuesday.

Mr. Dexter has no plans for the immediate future.

ENNETT DANCER INJURED
Ennet H. Dancer was injured Wednesday forenoon at his farm home on U.S. 12 west of Lima Center. Mr. Dancer was getting out in the barn, had untied a horse and was pulling the sliding back for another lot when the horse broke and he fell to the floor, striking his head on a beam. He was rendered unconscious and was taken to Ann Arbor for an X-ray.

Several Reunions Held By Local Family Groups

Bollinger
The 17th reunion of the Bollinger families was held on Sunday at Lima Center Garage hall and was attended by 60 representatives from Detroit, Whitaker, Ann Arbor, Clinton, Dearborn and Chelsea. A cooperative dinner was served at 1 o'clock and a birthday cake honored the 21st birthday of George Bollinger.

The following officers were chosen to train for the 1940 reunion, which will be held at Portage Lake, Pa.: President—James McQuaid, Detroit; Vice-President—Edwin Koch, Ann Arbor; Secretary—Rudolph Bollinger, Chelsea.

Entertainment Committee—Marian Bolinger, Rosemary Bolinger, James McQuaid, and Shirley Ann. Member present and Shirley Ann. Klumpner, the youngest.

Prizes for the afternoon games were awarded as follows: Ballroom race—Paul Bollinger and Donald Koch. Chess game—Elihu Alter. Banquet game—Irma and Rosemary Bollinger.

Needle Thrashing contest—Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Downer. Bean Guessing contest—Mrs. Emanuel Bollinger.

Parker
Fifty members of the Parker family from Ann Arbor, Detroit, Royal Oak, Dixboro and Chelsea were in attendance at their annual reunion held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Parker in Lima township.

Following the dinner, Edw. J. Parker was elected president; Geo. W. Parker, vice-president; and Miss Grace Parker, secretary. Treasurer, Mrs. Eugene Willis will have charge of the entertainment for next year.

Geo. W. Parker was the oldest member present and Stanley Parker, son of Homer, the youngest.

Buchler
The White Lodge Country club at Cordley Lake was the scene of the Buchler reunion on Sunday. Forty-five members partook of a pot-luck dinner at 1 o'clock and games and swimming furnished amusement for the afternoon. The 1940 reunion will be held at the same place.

Bahnmler
The annual reunion of the Bahnmler family was held Sunday at Emanuel Sott's grove, Pleasant Lake. Fifty members were present and officers elected were:

President—Gottlieb Hornung. Vice-President—Albert Hinderer. Sec'y-Treas.—Mrs. Lettner Breitenwischer.

The 1940 reunion will be held the last Sunday in July at Dexter-Huron park.

Messner-Nugentman
The Messner-Nugentman reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lesser, Island Lake Road, on Sunday, July 30, with 64 present. After a pot-luck dinner officers were elected as follows:

President—Bertha Knapp, Chelsea. Vice-President—Miss Sidney Sterling, Lansing. Sec. and Treas.—Paul Noneman, Marshall.

Entertainment Committee—Mrs. Sidney Sterling, Mrs. Waldo Eisenman, Edna Committee—Mrs. W. G. Neman, Mrs. G. Lesser.

Games were enjoyed by all during the afternoon. Mrs. L. C. Noneman was the oldest member present and Joan Lindemann the youngest. Members were present from Marshall, Barab, the Greek, Mettawan, Lansing, Dexter and Chelsea.

SCORES HIGH IN BABY SHOW
At the Baby Contest, evening, July 26 at Masonic Temple, Jackson, James Franks, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Franks, scored 100 points. In the Beauty Show he won the title of Junior Court. Nearly 500 babies were entered in the contest, and only about 100 were in the finals.

MILLERON-MCDANIELS WEDDING
Miss Nina L. Milleron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of Chubb's Corners, and Charles E. McDaniels, son of Mrs. E. W. McDaniels of Chelsea, were married on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage in Howell, with Rev. Rheinhold Niemann officiating.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL
The Men's Club of the Lutheran Salem church at Scio will hold an ice cream social at the church hall on Wednesday evening, Aug. 9, 1939. Serving beginning at 6:00 o'clock. The Ladies Aid of the church will sponsor a bake sale, same time and place.

NOTICE LEGIONNAIRES
Because of the death of Comrade Ranney Armstrong the regular meeting of the Chelsea, A. B. Clark, team to be selected from the 40th church league teams, will play a Grass Lake softball team in that village next Sunday at 2 o'clock.

Counties Will Be Forced To Aid In Financing Welfare

By Gene Allenman
Lansing—The "home rule" policy of the late Gov. Frank Fitzgerald, which the legislature followed in enactment of the new welfare act, is now coming home to roost.

Counties "must take up the slack" in cost of relief, it is announced by Walter F. Gries, chairman of the state social welfare commission.

With the state "broke" (at least $30,000,000 in the red) and with a re-duced state appropriation available for the present fiscal year, the state commission allocated $500,000 to counties for August relief. Counties had requested a total of $1,207,672. Wayne county alone wanted $489,000.

Under terms of the new act, counties are given final authority over relief expenditures. When state funds are exhausted responsibility for financing of welfare—according to the new act—falls back on home governments. Are all counties doing as much as they can for relief of unemployed?

The commissioners think not. Jackson county, for instance, expended $400,000 for a new courthouse in 1938, while the state was giving it $553,000.

Officials of some counties, however, think otherwise. Quoting G. R. Harris, Wayne county welfare superintendent: "Counties are limited by the 15-mill amendment and some of them can't raise enough taxes altogether to meet their relief costs."

Problem of State Aid
The relief problem into which home rule was injected by the 1933 legislature is but an example of how state aid to local governments has mounted in the past few years.

Back in 1933 the total of revenues collected by the state and turned over to counties, townships, cities and school districts did not exceed $40,000,000 a year. Within six years the state's tax load in behalf of local governments only has grown approximately $65,000,000, for a grand total of more than $100,000,000 or half of all the money that the state collects.

The schools obtained more than $25,000,000 more each year. County and township relief commissions last year absorbed nearly $40,000,000.

County road funds received $39,000,000 from the state treasury. And so the story goes. What is the answer? Will "home rule", which taxpayers talk about so much, be the answer?

Musical Revue Will Be
Attraction At Co. Fair
B. Ward Beam's new New York produced Musical Revue extravaganza "Here's To You" is to be the feature night grandstand attraction at the Washington County Fair, Ann Arbor, for five nights starting Monday, August 28.

This year's revue, according to Mr. Beam, is the finest ever put out for any fair, and he says he will stake his reputation on that statement. As the producer puts it, the folk in the rural communities know as much about whether shows are good or bad as their city cousins from New York, and the country folk will have nothing but the best, and this year's musical comedy success will have more extravagant production, scenic and lighting, than any of the producer's shows in the past.

This year's "Here's To You" has a scenic spread of 210 feet, carries 169 one thousand watt lights, 55 people, a band, 199 beautiful costumes, and a crew to handle the show of twelve experienced stage men from New York.

Heydlauff-Winans Store Being Altered
Alterations are being made at the store and Winans jewelry store which will provide additional display space for Mr. Heydlauff's line of merchandise.

The basement is being cemented and the repair shop for major appliances and the display room for used merchandise will be located there. A larger stairway to the basement will be constructed. New plate glass windows and face brick front will add to the exterior attractiveness of the store.

It is expected the improvements will be completed in about two weeks.

ATTEND CONVENTION
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Allhouse and daughters spent several days of the past week in Saginaw, where they attended the annual convention of the Michigan Rural Letter Carriers' Association and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Miss Doris Allhouse won first prize in the essay contest, "Citizenship Under Our Constitution". The essay has been sent to the National meeting to compete with winners in the 47 other states.

Papsdorf Takes Camp by Surprise

The surprise of the month was created by Paul Papsdorf, our vocational principal, by his marriage Friday afternoon at the home of the bride near Toledo. Paul, being a quiet type, sort of held out on us boys, but we know her name was Eris because, as a good lover should do, he so named his new motor boat.

The marriage was performed by his father, Rev. Papsdorf of Piqua, Ohio. The bride and groom left Saturday for northern Michigan on a honeymoon.

Mr. Papsdorf has helped us in radio, photography, as well as directed the instruction of our many trades that he has a real place in our lives. We welcome Mrs. Papsdorf to the camp family with a hearty welcome, wish them the best of luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Papsdorf will be at home at Sugar Loaf Lake after August 1.

Stomach trouble forced Charles Satterlee into the hospital. He is back and feeling fine.

LaRue McMillen is making a rapid recovery from a leg injury. LaRue strained the tendons in his ankle while on project.

The agriculture group attended a horse show in Lansing last Friday.

Alois Cukr is in the hospital with a bad case of poison sumac. He got the infection while in the woods with the forestry group getting sod.

Last Tuesday Mr. Inglis' brother, Commander Thomas B. Inglis, U. S. A. Navy, and his family were guests at the camp. The Galesburg Exchange club held its weekly meeting here the same night. Commander Inglis gave a short and interesting talk on the activities of the Navy throughout the year. Mrs. McKernan, wife of the music instructor, played the piano as the group sang "America", and "America The Beautiful." Rev. Chas. Kent and Mrs. Kent of Dexter, formerly of Galesburg, were guests.

A dancing class has been organized to learn the fundamentals of ballroom dancing. Instructions will be given by Wagar Glas and Charles Van Houten.

Last Friday and Monday evenings the woods rang with echoes of lusty voices. Community sing was introduced with a bang.

Wednesday night the shrill fire whistle pierced the pleasant dreams of the boys. After a great rush and commotion the fellows finally got to the trucks only to find it was a drill. This was a test of our preparedness in case of fire. This hot dry weather is ideal for fires and one can never be too careful.

Five large drafting tables and two secretarial desks were completed in the woodshop. They were taken to the Lansing office where they will be distributed over the state.

The students enrolled in the machine shop classes recently made a tour through the Federal Screw Works in Chelsea. The purpose of the trip was to observe mass shop production.

The tour, which proved to be very interesting to all, was under the supervision of the machine shop instructor, C. S. Waggoner.

The attendance in the educational departments shows a marked improvement since the new study program has been adopted.

The canteen which was formerly in the dining hall has been moved to the new recreation building. The boys are delighted with the service they receive from their store because the management now offers ice cream and soft drinks to chill the palates of overheated lads.

We wonder why a certain fellow from Grand Rapids is so attached to the forest. Obviously we were misinformed—her name is Woods, June.

The mail man thought that a Christmas rush was on, but he learned later that the boys were only corresponding with their guests of July 21. Most of the letters bore the postmarks of Jackson at any rate.

"Sunset Swing Session"

The entertainment committee is busy planning another dance to be held in the new recreation building on August 15. They have engaged the well known LeRoy Smith and his 16-piece all-colored "Majors of Swing." Mr. Smith hails from Detroit and promises Red Hot and Rug Cutting Rhythms. Invitations are extended to our neighboring resorts and the general public as well. A tour of the camp will be made early in the evening for the guests who wish to see the project. Honor guests of the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Papsdorf. Mr. Smith and the orchestra will play at the Mill Lake Minstrel Show on August 16. The Minstrel Show is one of the outstanding summer revelries of this vicinity.

Sports

Saturday, July 22, Cassidy Lake split a double-header with the Marshall N. Y. A. camp. Marshall took the first game twelve to four. Cassidy Lake retaliated in the second game to win seven to four. Kotyuk and Melton worked for Cassidy in the first game. Kotyuk was charged with that defeat. In the second game Teichma was on the mound and won his game. Melton again assisted the pitcher.

Cassidy lost to the Washtenaw Junior Farm Bureau by a score of five to four last Sunday. Brown pitched for Cassidy Tech. with Martell behind the plate. Many of the boys were home over the week-end, leaving the team short of players.

Tuesday evening the boys from Cassidy Lake invaded Farband Camp in an attempt to win a ball game, but the game ended in a 6-6 deadlock. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning because of darkness. Teichma, Cassidy's pitcher, clad as were the other players, in new regulation shirts and caps—held the Farband boys hitless for three innings, allowing but one man to reach first on a walk. Meanwhile his teammates had batted out a 3-0 lead. But in the last half of the fourth inning, the tide changed quickly, too quickly for Cassidy. First an error by Cassidy put a man on second. Then a sacrifice fly, a single, a triple, and another error produced three runs for Farband. In the sixth, Cassidy bats pushed another man across the plate. Farband came back in their half of the inning to again tie the score. In the seventh each team scored two more runs, making the score 6-6. The game was called at this point since it was getting dark rapidly. Farband's cheering section gave considerable support to their team. The entire exhibition was one of excellent sportsmanship and good playing. It was agreed to play again Saturday, July 29. Since Cassidy has lost four of its seven games played, they will be in there Saturday fighting to win this much-needed contest.

MICHIGAN BAKERY INTRODUCES NEW "CREAMO" BREAD

Revising the shorter, more compact type of loaf which harks back to the earlier principles of good bread-making, Michigan Bakeries, Inc., comes forward with its newest product, "Creamo" bread, which is available at independent grocers in Chelsea now.

According to Harold P. Stuart, manager of the Jackson unit of the company, the loaf is like the original type developed in the home, a type neglected by most commercial bakers who deviated from the long-favored size and shape which distinguishes the new "Michigan Creamo." The maintained moisture is greater than in most white breads, assuring "Creamo's" freshness to the last slice.

Stuart further pointed out that as the result of an exhaustive survey it is proven that thousands of consumers favor this type loaf. The consumers gave as the reason for their preference the detection of greater flavor in this type of loaf with compact texture. In tests made its toasting qualities and the particularly pleasing flavor were emphasized, and made into sandwiches it appeals particularly to picnickers and holiday makers.

Last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wood entertained the employees of the J. P. Wood Bean Co. at their home. About 100 were present. During the past nine months the Bean Co. have employed 40 bean pickers. The payroll has been from $150 to $175 per week. During this time 50,000 bushels of beans were hand picked. The average price paid for the beans was $1.35 per bushel.

W. R. Lehman has opened a blacksmith shop in Francisco.

Thomas Flemming of Lyndon and Frank McMillen of Lima have each during the past week been supplying the Chelsea market with large quantities of fine home-grown peaches.

Leigh G. Palmer returned from Burdickville on Tuesday. He has been with a party of U. of M. engineers for the past six weeks and during that time has surveyed nearly the entire county of Leelanau.

The Chelsea market report is: Wheat, red or white, 80-85c; oats, 25c; rye, 60c; beans, $1.30; clover seed, $5.00; live beef cattle, 4-5c; veal calves, 3 to 5c; live hogs, $4.65; spring chickens, 10c; fowls, 10c; potatoes, 45c; butter, 14 to 16c; eggs, 15c.

The barn with its contents, on the corner of East and Van Buren street, owned by C. T. Conklin, burned on Monday night.

William J. Denman died on Saturday, July 31, 1915.

Edward Bohne has sold his farm near Clear Lake to Carl Straub.

Lyman Katz has sold his farm one mile north of Francisco to William Wahl.

Joseph T. Baldwin of Waterloo died on Sunday, August 1, 1915.

Many of the farmers of this vicinity worked all day Sunday drawing their wheat from the fields to the barn and stacking it. Some of the wheat growers reported that their wheat had commenced to grow in the shock the rain of almost every day for the last two weeks being the cause.

Geo. T. English made his first shipment of apples for this season on Thursday of last week.

Forty years ago wheat was selling in the Chelsea market for $1.50 per bushel.

NORTHVILLE — The Northville Wayne County Fair and Horse Show this year will present an entirely different program for the many thousands of fair goers who will be in attendance Aug. 16-19.—Record.

MILAN—Announcement was officially made Wednesday morning by F. E. Ross of the American Boiler and Foundry Co. that plans had been completed for the building of a large addition to the plant located on the west side of Milan. The plant has been in full operation for six days a week since the first of the year and prospects are favorable for a continuation of this production schedule for the balance of the year. This is the second year that this schedule has been maintained.—Leader.

DUNDEE—You can blame oats for those little insects which have made life irritating for Monroe county citizens during the past week. The insects are "oat bugs" and probably will disappear with the harvest. Screens prove to be no barrier to the tiny flying bugs and as soon as their human landing fields have brushed them away their places on clothing, hair and skin is taken by dozens more. For the past four or five years Ohioans have been bothered by the insects. The infestation of Monroe county is particularly bad this year. The insects seem to delight in getting into food and one Dundee resident reports that the side of her refrigerator has been covered with them.—Reporter.

MASON—Being cared for at the Hall-Slagh garage is a dog which was found cooped up for two days in a car abandoned on the Game Farm road. The car and dog were abandoned Saturday and it was Monday before the report reached the sheriff's office and orders were given to tow the car to the Mason garage. The dog was almost dead from lack of water. However, he still intended to guard the car. He snarled and snapped at the towing crew. At the garage he was given food and water and quickly recovered. The abandoned car is a 1931 Chevrolet. Officers have not yet been able to trace the ownership.—County News.

SAFETYGRAMS

Today I saw a mother deliberately pull her young daughter, about seven or eight years old, and start across the street in the middle of the block.

How will safety people ever get to these parents to make them realize that this is a very dangerous practice? How can we expect the coming generation to comply with safety regulations and live out a full life?

Communities throughout the country are making a special drive to educate pedestrians. Pedestrians are involved in approximately 40 per cent of all automobile fatalities. Statistics show that in more than two thirds of the fatal pedestrian accidents in 1938, the pedestrian was walking in an unsafe manner, walking across highways, between intersections, and jaywalking at intersections. You parents who read this, please teach your children to walk and drive carefully; and the best way to do this is to set the example yourselves.

HELBOR-ORTBRING WEDDING

The ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Frances Marie Helber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Helber of Dexter Road, and Edgar Orthing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Orthing of Sylvan township, was solemnized at 8 o'clock Saturday evening at St. Andrew's Evangelical church, Dexter, with the pastor, Rev. Albert A. Schoen officiating.

Preceding the ceremony, "O Promise Me" was sung by Paul F. Niehaus, who also sang "I Will Love You Always" at the close. Mrs. Schoen was accompanist and played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin.

A gown of white organza was worn by the bride. It was made bouffant style, with pointed neckline and with applied satin flowers across the back and on the puffed top of the fitted sleeves. Her veil of net and lace was held by bands of pearls and she carried Ophelia roses, swansonia and bouvardia.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Elliott Bjork of Ann Arbor, who was attired in Venetian blue marquisette. Yellow and blue embroidery on the front of the bodice and skirt matched her tiara of yellow daisies and she carried a bouquet of Roosevelt roses, delphinium and daisies. The frocks of the bridesmaids, Miss Helen Schlack of Detroit and Mrs. Howard Miller of Dexter, were similar in style to that of Mrs. Bjork, the former being yellow and the latter, turquoise blue.

Their matching short veils were held by bandeaux trimmed in fabric daisies of the same colors. They carried tulleman roses and gerbera. All wore gold lockets, gifts of the bride.

Ringbearers were Daryl and Robert Satterthwaite, nephews of the groom. Mr. Bjork assisted Mr. Orthing as best man and the ushers were Harold Schlack of Detroit and Robert Niehaus of Chelsea.

Following the ceremony a reception for 120 was held in the parish hall, during which Russell Jetter of Manchester rendered piano selections. Mrs. Alvin Lesser of Dexter and Mrs. Floyd Grubbaugh of Ann Arbor presided at the refreshment table.

The couple left on a motor trip to Wilmington, Del., where they will visit relatives. For traveling the bride wore a frock of peach chiffon with white hat and coat, and other white accessories. They will be at home after Aug. 10 at 5940 Dexter Road. Mr. Orthing has a position with the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

Those from away who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Orthing and Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Niehaus and son, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Niehaus and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fitzmaier, Mrs. Minnie Plowe, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Satterthwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Satterthwaite, Miss Arlene Satterthwaite and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gentner.

New Training Aid In M. S. C. Short Courses

Michigan youths enrolled in short courses at Michigan State College are to have opportunity to obtain specialized aid as they attempt to put into practice on their home farms some of the modern ideas and methods studied in winter terms at the college.

Appointment of Harry S. Wilt as vocational supervisor and assistant to R. W. Tenney, college short course director, is announced.

For several years Director Tenney has kept contact with short course graduates, guiding them in selecting and completing projects in actual practice. One of the stimulations has been an increase in legally devised father and son partnerships as a means of making Michigan agriculture more permanent and attractive.

Mr. Wilt is to assist in some of the winter instruction. Through a co-operative arrangement with the state office of vocational education, the balance of the year he will supervise and counsel more closely more of those who take the winter short courses.

In 1938-39 there were 2,734 regularly enrolled, of which 526 had terms eight weeks or longer. Mr. Wilt at first is to work with a total of nearly a hundred who participate in the two-year 16 weeks winter short courses, with wide opportunity to expand to the shorter short course students if his time permits.

In addition to studies at the college, Mr. Wilt has had experience in farm management, as well as his recent service as instructor in vocational agriculture at McBain, Michigan.

Question And Answer Dept.

Problem—If a match is cut through exactly in the center which will be the lightest end? Answer elsewhere in this department.

Ques.—How large is the Universe? Ans.—This is a mooted question. There is supposed to be no end to space. Hence scientists can only measure to the extent of their most powerful telescopes. Therefore, the latest and best estimates is that of Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard College. He says the group of all the stars which we can see through the best and largest telescope, and which astronomers call the "galaxy", is about four quintillion seven hundred sixty-four quadrillion miles (4,764,000,000,000,000) in diameter—"some" size, if you can grasp it. Believe it or not.

Ques.—Will you please answer when and where Whittier, the poet, died, his age and religion, if any?

Ans.—John Greenleaf Whittier was born on a farm near Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 17, 1807, and died at Hampton Falls, N. H., Sept. 7, 1892, aged 85 years. His parents were Quakers, and while he had deep religious convictions, some writers doubt that he embraced the Quaker sect.

Ques.—What is meant by the terms "short ton" and "long ton"? Ans.—A short ton is 2,000 pounds, and is the standard ton in the United States. The long ton is 2,240 pounds, and is the standard ton in Great Britain.

Ques.—I would like to know what Westminster Abbey is, if it isn't a church?

Ans.—Westminster Abbey was founded in the 7th century as the burial place for England's kings, queens, peers, eminent, etc. The structure was remodeled in the 13th century by Edward the Confessor, and its present form dates from that time.

Answer to problem—The end which has the head, because that is the "light" end, of course.

Ques.—Why do vacuum bottles keep things hot or cold?

Ans.—A vacuum is the poorest conductor of heat known to science. The only heat that will pass through it is radiant heat, such as that received from the sun. Vacuum bottles are double—one bottle inside the other. The space between them is a vacuum. Since heat will not pass through this vacuum space, things inside the bottle do not get warmed up by outside heat, nor do things inside lose what heat they have.

Ques.—Why does air in an auto tire get so hot that it will sometimes blow out?

Ans.—Air compressed into a tire will begin to heat when the motion of the atoms begin to vibrate back and forth. When you compress the air you push the atoms closer together. This makes them hit against each other more often and makes them vibrate faster, and this increases heat. On hot days particularly the development of heat is about 50 to 75 per cent more rapidly.

Ques.—May I ask you if a pound of water is frozen will it make a pound of ice?

Ans.—Yes, but it will be larger in volume.

WILBUR McLAREN

Wilbur McLaren, lifelong resident of Washtenaw county, died Monday night at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, after several months' illness.

The son of James and Virginia Duncan McLaren, he was born Oct. 1, 1869, in Lima township, on the farm which his grandfather, Daniel McLaren, purchased from the government in 1830.

Mr. McLaren moved to Ann Arbor in 1919, where he was associated with Whaley-Clapp, real estate denters.

Feb. 10, 1887 he married Emma Schenk of Sylvan township, and they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1937.

Mr. McLaren is survived by the widow; a daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Fuente of Buffalo, N. Y.; two sons, Duncan D. McLaren of Detroit and Myron McLaren of New York City; a sister, Miss Nell McLaren of Los Angeles, Calif.; three grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the residence, 1015 Packard St., Ann Arbor, and interment was in Oak Grove cemetery, Chelsea.

It's the Cat's Whiskers

That Let It Judge Space

There is an old belief that a cat uses its whiskers to determine whether it can squeeze through a small hole or opening. According to this notion, the whiskers are exactly the same width as the animal's body, and if they touch the sides of the hole the cat will not attempt to enter, writes a correspondent to the Indianapolis News.

Although not strictly true, there is a grain of truth in the belief. The large facial hairs, known scientifically as "vibrissae," serve as feelers or organs of touch and contribute materially to the cat's ability to move about in the dark. These hairs themselves, of course, are not sensitive nerve endings. Facial hairs of this type are particularly well developed both in number and size, in those predatory species which hunt chiefly in jungles and other thick undergrowth.

There may be a relationship between the cat's whiskers and its sense of sight. A naturalist found that cats with their whiskers cut short were unable to judge distances accurately. In experiments, cats without whiskers would repeatedly miss their prey when springing for it. The investigator concluded that the facial hairs aid the animal to fix its eyes on its prey and that it is undoubtedly injurious to remove the whiskers from a cat which must hunt for a living.

Early New York Silver Is Distinctive, Plentiful

The silver made by New York silversmiths of the late Seventeenth and first half of the Eighteenth centuries is distinctive and plentiful. Therefore, it is surprising that it has not attracted the intensive study and books of description long given to the work of the Boston craftsmen of the same period, says "American Collector."

Enough specimens of the work of fully a half hundred New Yorkers for this span of three-quarters of a century are available to illustrate not one but several books, and there must be a wealth of biographical material concerning these craftsmen hidden in old records and contemporary writings just waiting to be mined.

Just as it is always impressive to consider the quantities of fine silver made in Boston during the first period of its history, that produced by the New York silversmiths is equally impressive. But much of that made by the Bostonians either immediately or within a generation was duly presented to some one of the Massachusetts churches and became part of its communion plate.

The New Yorkers, on the other hand, chiefly made pieces for family use and these were steadfastly kept. In fact, to find a piece of early New York silver with an inscription showing it was set aside for church use is as rare as it is common with that of Boston origin.

Both communities began early to have their silversmiths and in each the number of pieces made, judging by what has survived, must have been large indeed. Both New York and Boston had many merchants whose shipping and trading interests brought them ample means, so that they could indulge in the luxury of household silver, particularly that concerned with eating and drinking. In Boston, of course, the silversmiths followed the English tradition in design and ornamentation. It was different with New York.

PATENTS ALL WAY MIRROR

Miss Edna Ritterskamp of Sylvan township has patented a collapsible and adjustable "All Way Mirror," which is finding favor with merchandising houses in the middle west. The mirror packs away in an 18-inch case, and is set on a standard which is adjustable from three to six feet. It includes a tray for toilet articles. The pivoting, removable mirror is 3x12 inches and weighs one and one-half pounds. The mirrors are on display in Chelsea at the E. E. Winans store. Miss Ritterskamp formerly was in charge of the millinery department of William Goodyear and Co., Ann Arbor. She recently returned from a business trip in the east.

CAMP CLOSES NEXT WEEK

August 6 to 12 marks the last week of the camp for Scouts at the Newkirk Reservation near Dexter. This Scout week will be followed by a week for Cubs, August 13-19, which brings to a close the 1939 summer season.

All Chelsea Scouts are invited to enroll for the week of August 6 to 12, either for the entire week or "short camp" which opens Sunday and closes Thursday evening. The cost of the "short" camp is $5.00 and of the longer camp, $7.50. The camp is limited to an attendance of 50 Scouts. Applications should be made in advance by writing 324 E. Huron St., Ann Arbor, or Camp Newkirk, Dexter, Mich.

Oxen-Powered Boats

Flatboats manned by an Indian crew were used for freight and passenger service in Oregon until after 1850. During the sixties and seventies when river transportation was at its height on the Willamette river an experiment was tried in which oxen on a treadmill powered the boat. It worked well enough downstream but the oxen could not furnish motive power enough to return the craft. It is recorded that the river boat captains had to pay the Indians, in cash, because they considered valueless the gold dust offered them. One of the first captains operating flatboats on the Willamette and Yamhill rivers had a long tin horn which was blown by a leather-lunged member of the crew to announce arrivals.

For Rough Roads

A new piece of equipment has been added to the log spotlights, two-way radios, altitude finders and other devices with which motorists are modernizing their cars, asserts Country Home Magazine. The new gadget, patented in Washington recently, is a running-board washing machine for tourists who want to launder as they drive. Simply by throwing a fistful of soap, a few gallons of water and some dirty linen into the contrivance, the driver can have a snow-white shirt at journey's end. Suds are churned up by the bounding motion of the car.

Greatest Woman?

The following have been suggested as the greatest women of all time: Mary Queen of Scots, Queen Elizabeth of England, Joan of Arc, Mme. de Stael, George Sand, Catherine II of Russia, Mme. de Sevigne, Mme. de Maintenon, Maria Theresa, Queen of Hungary and Bohemia, Josephine, Marie Antoinette, Christina of Sweden, Cleopatra, Catherine de Medici, and Queen Anne of England.

Summary Shows That Fishing Is Satisfactory

Lansing—All species of fish are biting satisfactorily in most sections of northern Michigan, and fair results are being obtained in the majority of counties south of the Grand Traverse region, according to a summary prepared by the state department of conservation.

Good fishing prevails in the upper peninsula. Bass, bluegills and walleyed pike were among the leaders in the area north of the Wisconsin line. Trolling for trout on Lake Superior at the western end was reported as excellent.

The heat wave produced "spotty" trout angling. Trout streams in the western Upper Peninsula district were receding, and fishing had steadily improved. In Menominee and Delta counties a number of small streams were down to a low water level which adversely affected fish life. The best trout fishing in the locality was in large rivers carrying cooler water. Good trout catches were general in eastern sections.

Below the Straits, northern counties found fishing "settling down to its mid-summer average," one official reported, indicating the effect of warm weather in slowing up fishing. Trout streams also were low, and the scarcity of flies made grasshoppers and artificial flies tempting trout bait.

Fair fishing marked the Alpena district, with pike biting faster than the previous week. In the Huron national forest region all species showed up in excellent fashion. Near Kosconong fishing divided between "fair and poor." Northwest of Grand Rapids there had been no rain in two weeks, causing less favorable lake fishing. Counties surrounding Midland saw slow fishing but better than the week before.

Larger bluegills were being taken than in several years, said the Kalamazoo district summary. Catfish in the area were doing a normal amount of biting. Elsewhere in the southern counties fishing was "spotty" and prospects were better.

PATENTS ALL WAY MIRROR

Miss Edna Ritterskamp of Sylvan township has patented a collapsible and adjustable "All Way Mirror," which is finding favor with merchandising houses in the middle west. The mirror packs away in an 18-inch case, and is set on a standard which is adjustable from three to six feet. It includes a tray for toilet articles. The pivoting, removable mirror is 3x12 inches and weighs one and one-half pounds. The mirrors are on display in Chelsea at the E. E. Winans store. Miss Ritterskamp formerly was in charge of the millinery department of William Goodyear and Co., Ann Arbor. She recently returned from a business trip in the east.

CHAPTER I—Beautiful, young Kay Forrest had been employed by Christine Maynard, photographer, to pose for a series of pictures, the location of which would be the exclusive Cathedral Gardens, famous Southern resort. Unknown to them, one Jeff Butler, mean, unscrupulous, "camp" angel, had secured a friend to spy on the two women. Kay, of necessity, is scantily clad while posing for the camera studies.

CHAPTER II—Kay frequently stays with Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, her son Barney, a woman who is very fond of her daughter. Mrs. Hamilton, a remarkable woman, conceived the idea of the gardens following the death of her husband. One night, after a local dance, Kirk Reynolds, a well-known gambler and dancer, a resort town, and Kay, go for a ride. Kirk's car collides with that of Harvey Jackson, and during the ensuing argument Kirk winds out a gun and kills the young, popular engineer.

CHAPTER III—Kay is completely stunned by the tragedy. Kirk threatens to drag her into the thing if she tells even her father. However, the next time she goes out with Barney, he realizes something is wrong. She tries to reassure him, but tells him nothing.

CHAPTER IV—Mrs. Emma, Justice Kay's mother, looks upon herself as being completely righteous. She is firm, businesslike and demanding. Her father is exactly the opposite, kindly and unassuming. While at home Kirk Reynolds calls for her, and she is forced to go with him despite her protests. He tells her the circumstances make it necessary for her to marry him, and she cannot be forced to marry him. She is accused of Jackson's murder.

CHAPTER V—The next time they are together Kay tells Barney she loves him, and he is married to Reynolds. She returns to tell him why she married him, and that she has promised to try to understand. Meanwhile, Miss Sonia (Babe) Henkel, Beverly beauty operator of questionable morals, and intimate friend of Kirk Reynolds, berates him for marrying Kay, feeling that he has overlooked a responsibility to her.

CHAPTER VI—Jim Owenby, landscape engineer in town, is forced to help Jeff Butler, discharged from the Gardens for drinking. He is warned that the unscrupulous Jeff will look for a way to even the score, but is not worried over the possibility.

CHAPTER VII

Beverly buzzed with excitement. Good ladies abandoned housewifely duties or reduced them to a minimum, and gathered to discuss this latest and most sensational outgrowth of what they were pleased to call Kay Forrest's carryings-on.

The general meeting place for those who could afford the time and money was the Woman's Exchange and Tea Room, an eminently respectable place on Monument Square, facing the White Star Hotel and operated by that elderly and unmistakably maiden lady, Miss Deborah Barton.

Miss Deborah was, at this moment, engaged in vigorously defending Kay Forrest for no particular reason except that she did not like some of the ladies who were sipping tea, munching pop-overs and enjoying themselves by ripping Kay's character to shreds.

"They said, 'Disgraceful—that's what it is! Running around the country naked!'" They said, "I know, no good would come of all this. Murders and immorality and drinking and debauchery."

They would have said a good deal more had it not been for Miss Deborah, who had been hovering over the table like a dragon. Miss Deborah said, "Commyrot and rub-bish! It's just a lot of lies."

"But Miss Deborah: we know it's true that Kay was posing without any clothes on. Mrs. Hamilton admitted it was true. She said—and the speaker sniffed virtuously—that it was artistic."

"Hmph! You all wouldn't ever understand anything beautiful. It seems to me that the fact that Ruth Hamilton knew about it all the time would settle everything."

"Well, she never said a word to anybody until after the news got out through that Butler person. Not a single, solitary word."

"Why should she? It wasn't anybody's business."

Doc Morrison was consulted by several gossiping persons, but with none-too-satisfactory results. Doc was a venerable old man, gentle and kindly, a person who was—at one and the same time—both pious and unregenerate.

Doc had obtained his M.D. many, many years before when medical schools demanded little preliminary education of their matriculating students, and not too much of those who graduated. For thirty years he had practiced in Beverly with great moral success and small financial returns. He lavishly dispensed his cure-alls, Calomel and quinine. He owned a battered, asthmatic old car in which he bumped over bad roads day and night, bringing cheer and solace and some degree of skill-borne of long practice—to those who were ill and poor. Not alone in Beverly, but all through Beauregard County, he was known and loved. Even those townsfolk who scoffed at his ability held him in high personal esteem. Men and women and chilren loved his kindly, quizzical good nature, his serene philosophy, his broad charity.

Doc Morrison had been startled, rather than shocked, by the revelation of Kay Forrest's photographic nudity. He gave ear to gossip for the sole purpose of chiding those who played the glib. And it was Doc Morrison who sternly advised Miss Trelane—the angular owner of Beverly's native beauty parlor—that it behooved only those who were without sin to cast stones. . . . where, upon Miss Trelane, being unmistakably without sin, indulged in an orgy of stone-throwing and declared that she was doing it with Doc's approval.

He gave ear to gossip for the sole purpose of chiding those who played the glib.

At the lavish home of Jonathan Guinn, Mrs. Guinn was entertaining the Literary Circle. The good ladies had abandoned their fervid pursuit of culture in favor of a discussion of the previous night's affair.

Diana Guinn was an authoritative person, and—as the wife of the town's foremost industrialist, a prominent one. It was she who pronounced the question, "I wonder what that awful Henkel woman is thinking." And who then elicited applause by declaring the meeting adjourned and stating that, in spite of the lateness of the hour, she was on her way to the White Star Hotel to get a finger-ways from Sonia Henkel and at the same time to make sure that the imported beautician knew all about the goings-on of Kirk Reynolds' bride.

Diana moved through the gathering dusk with firm, positive strides. She persuaded Miss Henkel to remain open just a little while longer. She delivered herself over to Sonia's deft ministrations, and she commenced to talk.

Her voice was sharp, her ideas definite and her choice of words excellent. To be sure there-be no misunderstanding she started at the beginning. She authenticated her statements by saying that they must be true because no less a person than Ruth Hamilton herself had spent that morning on the telephone explaining to her friends that the whole Hamilton family knew what Kay had been doing, that Miss Maynard was an artist—not merely a photographer—and that she considered the gossip unwarranted.

Through all of this recital, Miss Henkel was silent save for an occasional "Yes" or "Is that so?" But inwardly the tall, sleek brunette was smiling.

She was humming lightly as she left the beauty shop and approached Kirk's door. Somehow, this latest development seemed to bring Kirk closer to her. She knocked once, lightly, and responded to his "Come in" by pushing through the door and closing it behind her.

He was standing at the window, looking down on the Square, his back to her. She said, brightly, "Deep thinking, eh, Kirk?"

He turned. And then a look of astonishment passed over her face. She stared incredulously, then found herself overcome by merriment.

He smiled thinly. "What's so funny?"

She pointed and said, through bursts of laughter, "Those glasses! Gee, they make you look goofy."

"Haven't you ever seen eye-glasses before?"

"Yeh! But not on you." She gazed again on the horn-rimmed goggles and appeared to find them irresistibly funny. She said, "What's the matter? Can't you read the spots on the dice any more?"

"You knew I saw an oculist this other day in the Capital. And they just got here by special delivery. So why should you be surprised?"

"I'm not surprised at the glasses. Only at how you look in them."

He glanced at himself in the mirror. "Have your laugh, Kid. Maybe you're right, at that. They do change me a lot."

"Wait 'til the others see you . . ."

"I'm waiting. And I'm glad you're in a good humor."

"Can you take it?"

"I've done pretty well so far, haven't I?"

He nodded. "Things are getting pretty hot. That scrap at Mac's Bar-B-Q last night didn't help any."

"What do you mean?"

"It's given people something more to talk about—and they were talking too much to start with." His voice became flat. "I'm on the spot."

"I know . . ." The laughter was gone from her eyes. She took this hand and pressed it. "Let's get out of this burg."

He shook his head. "No can do, Babe. But I've decided to do something else."

"What?"

"His cold eyes held hers. 'You ain't gonna like it. Not a bit.' He paused for an instant. Then, 'I'm bringing Kay Forrest into town.'

"You're what?"

"I'm bringing Kay into town. That room-yonder," he jerked his head toward a door, "opens into mine. She's moving in there."

Babe's lips were dry. "I—I don't exactly get it, Kirk."

"It's simple enough. I made a dumb play at the beginning—marrying the girl and letting her go back to the Gardens. That invited talk and the people in this town ain't as sappy as I thought they were. They doped it out plenty quick."

"And so . . ."

"So I'm going out to the Gardens tonight and fetch Kay. That's all."

Babe walked to the window. She didn't want Kirk to see her face at that moment. A few minutes since she had been so gay—so confident that her jealousy of Kay was groundless. Now everything was different. She was afraid to speak—fearful that she might say too much. Her hands were behind her back when she turned, and Kirk could not see the long pointed, crimson nails biting into the flesh.

She said, "I figure you better look out for trouble."

He reached for his hat. His eyes were the color of ice.

He said, "Remember this, Babe. I'm always ready for trouble."

They sat on the veranda. Barney and Margaret and Mrs. Hamilton and Jim Owenby, forcing conversation because they wished to be quite sure that Kay would not think they were listening. This was difficult, of course, because Kay had been called to the telephone several minutes since and her voice—low and insistent—came down to them from the landing and, try as they might, they could not avoid hearing occasional remarks. "But why . . ."

"Yes, I know . . . but I can't. Fragments of conversation, bits of protest in a voice which was freighted with worry."

"They heard Kay say, 'Well, if I must . . . and they heard her descending the stairway. Slowly. Only Barney looked at her directly and he saw that she was nervous and worried. But before he could make up his mind whether to question her, she spoke."

"Let's take a little walk, Barney."

He rose with alacrity. "Surest thing you know. Need a wrap?"

"Never mind."

"What now, Princess?"

She traced hieroglyphics on the lawn with the toe of one tiny foot. She said, "I want you to promise me something, Barney."

"Consider it promised."

"This is serious."

"I'll put it in writing."

She placed her hand over his. "You're pretty fine—do you realize that?"

"Of course I do. I've spent my entire life being noble, virtuous and dependable. In fact, I might state that I'm a perfect example of what the well-dressed young man should be."

She shook her head. "I wish things were as simple as that."

"As me? Simple? My dear young lady."

"Listen, Barney." Her voice was tight. "I want you to give me your word."

"So you said. And I assured you . . ."

"I know. But this . . ."

"It's different. It's serious. I remember. Now, let's have it. What's eating on you?"

"Before I explain, I want you to promise that you won't do anything about it."

He grinned ruefully. "I'm becoming expert at doing nothing about things."

She looked thoughtfully at the black waters of the lagoon.

"That telephone call was from Kirk Reynolds."

"Hm-mm-mm!"

"You don't seem surprised."

"Should I be?"

She was silent for a moment. Then, "You're not going to like this, Barney."

"If by 'this' you mean Kirk, you're right."

"You must promise."

"Listen, honey . . ." He dropped his arm from her shoulder and imprisoned one of her infinitesimal hands. "You're talking in circles. I've promised everything I can promise. You're worried about something. Suppose you tell Papa all about it."

"All right." She groped for words which would not cut too deeply. "Kirk Reynolds is coming here tonight. I want you to promise that you won't be at the house when he comes."

"So? Why?"

"Because I'm afraid there might be trouble."

"Not in my own home."

"Even here."

"Nix, honey—nix. I don't play the hero and host at the same time, much as I dislike this Reynolds gent."

She said, "You might. Tonight."

"How come?"

"Because . . ." She moistened dry lips. "Because he's coming to take me back to Beverly with him."

She couldn't see Barney's face for which fact the young man was grateful. It was dark under the trees, dark and still. Barney tried to speak lightly. "Am I supposed to ask questions?"

"It doesn't matter. You see, he's reserved a room at the White Star Hotel for me. A room next to his."

She felt Barney's fingers tighten over hers. He said, "I don't get it, honey."

"Kirk didn't do much explaining. He said he'd be out within an hour and told me to get ready."

"But this hotel business . . ."

"Can't you understand? He thinks that folks have been talking."

"And that this will stop their gossip? I'm afraid your friend Mr. Reynolds isn't quite bright."

"He—he wants the town to believe I really am his wife."

"I see . . . and I'm to sit back and let you go with him?"

"Yes."

There was no mirth in Barney's laugh. It was short and harsh. He said, "I'll have to ask a few questions. First, must you do whatever Kirk orders?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"We've talked about that so many times. You know I can't explain."

"I see . . . Second question, do you want to go with him?"

Her answer came sharply. "No!"

"Then," he said quietly, "you're not going."

"But you still don't understand. I've got to go."

"Like hell you do. Now you listen to me a few minutes, young lady. I've been playing the sappy plenty long enough. I don't like it. And most particularly I don't like the idea of you living with Kirk Reynolds and what's more! I'm not going to stand for it."

"Please . . . You promised."

"I don't care what I promised. That bird has been pushing you around long enough."

"But there's nothing you can do."

"No! Well damn soon find out about that." His eyes were hot. "I'm going to have a talk with this lad. A nice, pleasant chat. I'm going to ask a few questions and tell him a few things."

"You mustn't!"

"Why not?"

"Because you promised. And because I'm asking you."

"Two lousy reasons."

"And also because I'm afraid. He's dangerous."

Barney made an impatient gesture. "Bad, hold guy, isn't he? Murdered Harvey Jackson without giving him a chance. Runs around playing big by frightening girls. Oh! he's tough, all right, but somehow, honey, I don't seem to be so terribly scared of him."

"Barney, listen. Believe me when I say that anything you do will only make things worse."

"Oh, yeah? And how could they be worse?"

"If anything happened to you . . ."

"I'm able to take care of myself."

She smiled bravely. "Barney . . . won't you do what I ask? Just this once."

He kissed her. "I'd better stay away from the house until after you've gone."

He turned and walked away. She gazed after his tall, slender figure with tear-dimmed eyes. Then she moved toward the house, trembling and frightened.

"If anything happened to you."

Barney walked along the edge of the lagoon. He was more disturbed than he cared to confess, even to himself. He kicked viciously at a small stone and heard it plop into the black water. He stood staring at nothing at all. He lighted a cigarette with fingers which trembled . . . and then he heard a voice at his shoulder, a pleasant, genial voice.

Jim Owenby said, "Saw your face in the matchlight, Barney. Who busted you up your playhouse?"

Barney inhaled deeply, then spun his cigarette out over the water. It struck the ebon surface, spluttered hopelessly and went out. He asked, sharply, "Will you kindly put into plain English, Jim, your opinion of what sort of a prime sap I really am?"

"Sure. If it'll help." Owenby had moved closer. He was as tall as Barney, but broader—and heavier. He said, "Want to talk?"

"Hell—yes."

"Shoot."

"It's this Beverly mess. That telephone call Kay got was from Kirk Reynolds. He's on his way out here to take her back to town with him."

Jim whistled expressively. "And so . . ."

"He's taking her to the hotel. Wants the town to believe she's really his wife."

"And she's willing to go?"

Barney tried to be fair. "Not willing. But she says she must."

His voice was edgy. "She wants me to play the innocent bystander, Jim. Made me promise blind that I'd stay away from the house while Kirk was here."

"Will you?"

"I don't know. Gosh! I'd like to have it out with that bird . . . just once."

Jim said, grimly, "So would I. The man he killed was the best friend I had." He paused briefly. "Suppose I have a little talk with him, Barney."

"None. If somebody's got to meet that guy, it'll be me."

"What's Kay got against it?"

"He's got her scared pink. She seems to think he's dynamite."

Jim shook his head. "No matter what else that guy can do, he's a bear-cat-on-scaring women. Margaret has talked my ear off for the past two weeks begging me to keep out of it."

"I know. And look what I'm up against. Good Lord! Jim . . . suppose it was Margaret instead of Kay . . . and that she was going into town tonight with Kirk—against her wishes . . . what would you do?"

"I don't know."

"Yes you do. You'd meet him when he got here. Man! A fellow's got to do something."

"I know how you feel. But suppose Kay's right? Suppose there—"

Genius of Composers

According to a study by Prof. Harvey C. Lehman and Prof. De Forest W. Ingerham reported in the Scientific Monthly, the genius of composers appears to reach its greatest heights in the span of years between 35 and 39. The conclusion is based on a statistical analysis of the age of composition of the grand operas, musical comedies, symphonies, chamber music, and vocal pieces which have survived and are most appreciated by music lovers. In nearly every class of composition the creation of the enduring work falls within the same age range.

First Newsboys

When the first English newspaper, the Weekly News, appeared in London on May 14, 1622, boys were hired to "hawk" or sell the papers in the streets. The first boys to sell or deliver newspapers in America were those engaged by the early weeklies published in the New England colony about 1754. It is probable that the New York Weekly Mercury was the first American newspaper to advertise for boys to deliver papers. Such an advertisement was carried on September 14, 1761.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

The Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, In Chancery.

Schlegel and Meta Schlegel, Defendants.

At a session of said Court held at the Courthouse in the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, Michigan, this 20th day of July, 1939.

Present: Hon. George W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing by a Bill of Complaint duly verified, presented and filed and to the satisfaction of the Court, that the above named defendants, their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns are necessary and proper parties to the above entitled cause, and are interested in the subject matter thereof, and whose names appear in the office of the

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Frank P. Seabury and Donald D. James, of the City of DeWitt, Wayne County, Michigan, to Leonard Embury, of the Township of Lyndon, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, dated the 16th day of June, 1924, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, on the 8th day of September, A. D. 1924, in Liber 187 of mortgages, page 171.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned by Leonard Embury to the Farmers and Merchants Bank, a Michigan Banking Corporation, of Chelsea, Michigan, by assignment of mortgage dated the first day of July, 1925, and recorded on the second day of July, 1925, in Liber 21 of assignments of mortgages on page 558 in the office of the register of deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned by the Farmers and Merchants Bank, a Michigan Banking Corporation, of Chelsea, Michigan, to Leonard Embury, of Lyndon Township, Washtenaw County, Michigan, by assignment of mortgage dated the 19th day of July, 1929, and recorded on the 19th day of June, 1930, in Liber 27 of assignments, on page 155, in the office of the Register of Deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan.

And Whereas, by the terms of said mortgage, it is provided that in case default be made in the payment of the principal or of the interest, taxes, assessments, or insurance, or any part thereof on any day upon the same is made payable, it should the same remain due and unpaid for the space of thirty days, thereafter, the principal sum of said mortgage, together with all interest, taxes, assessments and insurance paid, shall at the option of the mortgagee, be due and be due and payable forthwith, and default having been made in the payment of the interest, taxes provided in said mortgage, which default has continued for more than thirty days, the said mortgagee hereby exercises his option to declare the principal sum of said mortgage and all arrears of interest and taxes due and payable.

And Whereas, the amount claimed due on said mortgage at the date of this notice for principal and interest is the sum of One Thousand Sixty Dollars and eight cents, and the sum of Thirty-five dollars as reasonable attorney fee, as provided in said mortgage, and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of One Thousand and Ninety Dollars and eight cents ($1,098.08), and no suit or proceedings having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the south front door of the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, on the 25th day of September, A. D. 1939, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon on said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situated being in the Township of Lyndon, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit:

The east half of the northwest quarter of section fifteen, and a small parcel in the southwest corner containing eight acres, more or less, owned by L. Drew.

Also all lands bounded by a line commencing at the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of section sixteen and running east on section line thirty-two rods; thence south parallel to section line one hundred and thirty-two rods; thence west parallel to section line one hundred and thirty-two rods; thence north parallel to section line one hundred and thirty-two rods to the place of beginning, enclosing a rectangular strip containing eight acres.

Leonard Embury, Assignee of Mortgagee, Dated: June 21, 1939.

MRS. C. HENDLEY, Attorney for Assignee of Mortgagee, Business Address: Chelsea, Michigan, June 22-Sept 14

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of money secured by a mortgage dated the 3rd day of March, D. 1930, executed by John Seischewitz and Elizabeth Haesler, his wife, of the Township of Sharon, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, to The Prudential Insurance Company of America, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw County, Michigan, in Liber 133 of Mortgages, on Page 609 at 10 o'clock A. M. on March 8, 1930.

And Whereas, by the terms of said mortgage, it is provided that in case default be made in the payment of the principal or of the interest, taxes, assessments or insurance on any part thereof on any day where the same is made payable, and should the same remain due and unpaid for the space of 30 days, thenceforth, the principal sum of said mortgage, together with all interest, taxes, assessments and insurance paid, shall, at the option of the mortgagee, be due and be due and payable forthwith, and default having been made in the payment of the interest and taxes provided in said mortgage, which default has continued for more than thirty days, the said mortgagee hereby exercises its option to declare the principal sum of said mortgage and all arrears of interest and taxes due and payable.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage is the sum of $4500 principal and interest of $245.13 to July 20, 1939, and the sum of $58.07 taxes and $85.00 as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage, and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $4808.20, and no suit or proceedings having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the south front door of the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, on the 20th day of October, A. D. 1939, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day; which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situated and being in the Township of Sharon, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, to-wit:

The west sixty (60) acres of the Southeast quarter of Section nine (9) and the East half of the East half of the Southwest quarter of Section nine (9); also, the Northwest quarter of the Northeast quarter of Section sixteen (16), and the East half of the Northeast quarter of Section sixteen (16), all in Township three (3) South of Range three (3) East of the Principal Meridian, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, more or less.

Farm Land Losses Feared

More than 54,700,000 tons of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash—the three major plant foods which make the production of crops possible—are removed from the soil of American farms every year by erosion, harvested crops, leaching, burning and other causes. Commercial fertilizers and manures are believed to restore only 18 per cent of the nitrogen loss, 44 per cent of the phosphorus loss and about 8 per cent of the potash loss. While programs to promote soil conservation are being effectively supported by the U. S. department of agriculture, soil scientists, teachers, agricultural colleges and county agents, the need for a more universal use of fertilizer is shown by the fact that the consumption of fertilizers in the United States annually is at the rate of a little more than a ton per farm.

Nine Lives of a Cat The idea that a cat has nine lives is traceable to the ancient superstition that evil spirits were able to assume the form of black animals, particularly black cats, and that a witch could take on the body of a cat nine times. Among the ancient Egyptians, the cat-headed goddess Pasht, the mother cat of the witches, was said to have nine lives.

Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate. A true copy. July 27-Aug 10 Nora O. Borgert, Register of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN In the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, In Chancery.

William Anton Teufel, Plaintiff, vs.

Christian Teufel, Emma Teufel, Robert Teufel, Lillian Teufel, Carl Hintz, Selma Frost, Walter Teufel, Clarence Teufel, and Mary Mortenson, Defendants.

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, in Chancery, made and entered on the 10th day of July, 1939, in the above entitled cause, I, the subscriber a Circuit Court Commissioner of the County of Washtenaw, shall sell at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder, at the southerly or Huron Street entrance to the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw is held, on Tuesday, the 5th day of September, 1939, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard time, of that day, all those certain pieces or parcels of land situated in the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, Michigan, described as:

Lot number one and all of lot number two in William A. Benedict's plat, as recorded in Liber 44 of deeds on page 748, in the Register's office in the County of Washtenaw, excepting the south forty eight feet heretofore deeded to Emma Teufel, and recorded in Liber 181 of deeds at page 113 in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan. Dated: July 18, 1939.

ALBERT W. HOOPER, Circuit Court Commissioner, Washtenaw County, Michigan. JACOB F. FAHRNER, Attorney for Plaintiff, Ann Arbor, Mich. July 20-Aug 31

Beauty Aids

Not Intended

For Children

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

MANY mothers write asking such questions as these: "Do you believe in permanent waves for young children?" "My child has a very pale face. When she goes to parties should I rouge her cheeks?" "My young daughter likes colored nail polish. She is only nine. Should I let her wear it?"

And once in a while I get a question which makes me gasp—"I want my child, who is now five years old, to have a perfect complexion when she grows up. Should I give her a facial once a week at a beauty parlor?"

Of course, my answer to all of those questions is "No—Definitely no!"

A child should be allowed to grow into an adult, unhampered. Her tender hair can be ruined with intense heat and harmful lotions; her skin can be marred for life by creams which were made for aging beauty, not virgin beauty; and how horrible to look at a young child with lacquered nails or rouged cheeks!

If you wish your child to grow into a beauty be watchful over the fundamentals of a healthy body and mind. See that she is fed the foods that will nourish her. Foods that will strengthen her tiny bones and teeth. Foods that will keep her skin fresh as a dew-kissed petal.

Brush the darling's hair regularly, away from the scalp with a brush that is kept sterilized and used for her very own. Keep her scalp clean, free from rashes and dandruff. Try to discover a natural wave in her hair, and press it between your fingers while it is damp to encourage its curl.

Self Neglect

Never Justified

What mother failed to do was this: She neglected herself in order to shower daughter with much—much she didn't need. When daughter was at the going-out age, she saw other mothers who were attractive, who could speak on current topics and books, who were more or less companionable to their own daughters. By comparison her mother fell short. Didn't she? Yes, the doting mother failed to keep modern. Her offspring outshines her.

What these disappointed mothers should do, now that their daughters have grown, is to spend much more time

Counties Will Be Forced To Aid In Financing Welfare

tendly, stop the apparently ever-increasing trend toward more spending of money for governmental public services? Here is a neat question. The property owner and consumer, who together constitute Mr. Taxpayer, must provide the answer. After all, he is the fellow who foots the bill.

Vulnerable G. O. P. Spots?
Conferences between Murray D. Van Wagoner and Frank Murphy at Washington over 1940 politics are said to have elicited a comment by the former governor that the Michigan Republican administration has two vulnerable spots in its armor at present:

1. Revision of civil service by the legislature. Murphy's belief is that civil service is now largely a figure of speech, instead of safeguard for good government. Kenneth C. Pennebaker, whom Governor Dickinson appointed to succeed Brownrigg as civil service director, apparently shares Murphy's ideas, for he recently declared that the administrative board's action in refusing an additional $101,500 had assured that the law "from now on, is a gesture". And he added: "We might as well close shop."

Facts are that civil service costs money. The department spent $250,000 last year; the legislature cut its request for $300,000 down to $75,000. Of this amount, $15,000 goes for salaries of the five civil service commissioners.

2. Non-partisan public health department. On August 1 Dr. H. A. Moyer, personal physician for Governor Dickinson, succeeded Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, who is a Republican, was appointed by Murphy on recommendation of the American Public Health association.

A report just released by the association, after a 11-month survey of Michigan's health facilities, recommends a non-partisan appointment of the commissioner by the state council of health. A sentence says: "The fact that the commissioner of health is appointed directly by the governor and may be removed by the succeeding administration, without any consideration other than that there has been a political change, makes for a lack of efficiency and results in a periodic lowering of the morale of the entire personnel."

Dickinson's Crusade
City slickers can laugh all they want to about Governor Dickinson's crusade against "high life", but a lot of folks respect him for it just the same.

Gov. Earl Long, brother-of-famed Huey, has decided that a governor should set an example. Hence the Louisiana governor's mansion no longer will serve liquors of any kind.

We inquired of an upstate newspaper editor about how people there had reacted to the Dickinson drive on sin. He said: "It has been popular with most people. I would judge that he has made votes."

Of course, the governor's attitude on drinking and gambling and immorality in general is very much a personal matter. It is not a political issue. James Thomson, state republican chairman, has made that clear.

The governor's famous expression, "pipeline to God" elicited this explanation the other day: "It's simple enough you have electric and gas lines passing your houses, bearing comforts you can only get by making a connection. There is not a place on God's earth without one of those spiritual lines. It's near you and it's up to you to make the connection."

Medics to Serve
Appropos to the home rule situation in which the welfare problem finds itself is that resulting from the current curtailment of state aid for care of crippled and afflicted children.

The legislature, economy-bent, limited such state aid to $800,000 for the entire state. This sum was only $100,000 more than the 1938 quota for Wayne county alone. If any county feels that the state aid quota is insufficient, it may supplement the amount.

When the cut was applied, criticism was voiced that the administration was neglecting the welfare of children. The Detroit Medical Journal, publication of the Wayne County Medical Society, took a middle-road position to the effect that doctors could not afford to quarrel with the legislature in the latter's effort for economy. This stand was applauded widely by the press.

The Michigan Medical society has taken a fairly liberal attitude on the subject of public health. Physicians and hospitals say they will willingly do their part not to deny medical aid to anyone in an emergency. Furthermore, the society took the leadership this year to pioneer a new field of group health insurance. Incorporation papers have been filed, and the program will get under way shortly after Sept. 13, when the society holds its annual meeting.

No other state has a comparable health insurance program.

More Liquor Stores
Whereas the late Governor Fitzgerald advocated that the state get out of the liquor business entirely, the opposite is about due to take place.

Additional liquor retail stores are to be opened soon by the state liquor commission in the hope of increasing the state's revenue to the treasury, the latter being sorely in need of money. Studies have disclosed that private retailers netted substantial profits from liquor sales, and the state commission believes this profit could well be utilized at Lansing.

Michigan, one of 10 states with state stores, enjoyed a net revenue profit last year of $19,210,827. Of this license fees produced nearly $3,000,000; state liquor taxes, $4,800,000; miscellaneous income, $330,000; and the balance in retail sales profit.

Gross receipts were $45,000,000. Administrative and collection costs, plus cost of goods and selling cost, amounted to $25,800,000. Michigan's "take" out of the liquor business thus was more than $19,000,000. Nationally, the net revenue of state and local governments from alcoholic beverages reached a staggering total of $318,000,000.

Children In Court
By Judge Malcolm Hatfield
The Snare of the Movie

Following several months of sneaking into movie houses, a boy was finally seized and arraigned in court. He admitted that he knew several methods of entering the various theaters in town and that he had achieved a reputation among his schoolmates for this ability. Fortunately, his parents, when advised of his misdeeds, were able to correct this youngster.

The movies exercise an irresistible attraction on most children. It is doubtful whether many boys would refuse to enter a theater without paying the price of admission if they could escape detection. Regular days set apart for attending motion picture theaters, and a stipulated allowance for this purpose, will eliminate temptations.

Loaded Guns
It is quite common to read of a boy accidentally shooting a member of his family while playing with his father's gun. Such an instance resulted in the death of a younger brother, when a thirteen year old boy pointed a rifle at him in play.

An unloaded gun is dangerous to keep within the reach of the youngster, because it creates a false sense of power and excitement and spells death in small but highly imaginative minds. Having a loaded gun in the house should constitute a criminal offense. Much heartache would be eliminated if a gun is examined after use and locked away where small hands cannot reach it. In this case, the boy must carry the burden of his brother's death for the rest of his life.
