Highlights Of State's Uniform Traffic Laws

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of ten articles, prepared by the Michigan State Police, high-spotting Michigan's new traffic law which becomes effective Sept. 29. Important changes have been made in customary driving habits. Greater safety—and fewer traffic arrests—will result from a close study of these articles.

Speed Limits

The legal speed limit under Michigan's new traffic law is 25 miles per hour in both business and residential districts. It was formerly 15 miles per hour in business districts and 20 miles per hour in the residential districts.

Local authorities may establish higher speed limits in either business or residential districts. In no case may such limits be less than 25 miles per hour.

All highways on which the limit is set in excess of 25 miles an hour must be designated as through highways and adequate signs posted informing the motorist of the permissible speed.

Entrances to such highways, the Michigan State Police point out, must be posted with stop signs.

Within cities and villages the state highway commissioner may increase speed limits on state highways outside of business districts. Adequate signs will inform motorists of such limits in excess of 25 miles per hour.

Signs are not necessary in business or residential districts except where the limit is in excess of 25 miles per hour. Motorists driving on unmarked streets in either business or residential districts are subject to the 25 mile per hour limitation.

On the open road outside the limits of cities and villages, a safe and prudent speed is lawful. The new law, however, in the case of vehicles towing other vehicles or trailers, set a definite speed limit of 50 miles per hour. This applies especially to towed trailers.

Speed regulations of this act are based on recommendations of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, and puts Michigan in step with other states in a uniform traffic code.

Next week: "Traffic Control Signals."

Act for Prevention of Labor Day Accidents

Anticipating record traffic volumes over the Labor Day week-end, state police and state highway officials are planning concerted action to prevent accidents during the holiday period.

Commissioner Oscar G. Olander of the state police canceled leaves for all troopers from September 1 to 4 and ordered officers concentrated in heavy traffic areas and at important intersections. State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner ordered construction halted on all highways where traffic was continuing to move over roads under repair or replacement. District engineers were directed to inspect all highways for hazards which might be eliminated. All gravel highways will be dust-proofed before the holiday.

Olander asked all motorists to begin observance of regulations which will become law September 29. This law makes it a misdemeanor to cross the centerline on a four-lane pavement or cross into the center lane of a three-lane highway except when passing.

This joint state police-highway department safety program was put into action over the July 4 week-end. Over the four-day holiday period, 12 persons were injured fatally. The toll for the same days of the previous year was 31.

SCHROEN-HART WEDDING

At a quiet wedding solemnized at four o'clock Saturday afternoon at Zion Lutheran church house, Ann Arbor, Miss Claribel Schroen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schroen of that city, became the bride of Olin Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Watson Hart of Chelsea. Rev. E. C. Stellanor was the officiating clergyman.

The bride was gown in Royal blue crepe, while Miss Eunice Hart, sister of the groom, who attended as bridesmaid, wore a dress of wine colored crepe. Both wore corsages of gardenias. Robert Schroen, brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was served to the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart will make their home at 419 Madison St.

ALL STARS WILL PLAY HERE

On Sunday, September 3 at 2:00 o'clock the Chelsea All Stars will play a softball game at the local athletic field, with the Jones school team of Ann Arbor as their opponents. Boys of both teams are of high school age.

The Ann Arbor team defeated the local boys in a game played in Ann Arbor last week, the score being 4 to 2. There is no admission charge to the game on Sunday, and the public is invited to attend.

Blacktop Surfacing of Cav. Lake Road Starts

Hauling of gravel to the Cavanaugh Lake road, preparatory to the work of blacktop surfacing this highway was started last week by the County Road Commission. Placing of the gravel was started at the Michigan Central tracks just west of Chelsea, and was scraped to the center of the road as it was dumped. The original preparation for the work of surfacing was made early last spring when the road was covered with gravel to be packed by traffic during the summer to form a proper base for the surfacing materials.

On Tuesday of this week the work of mixing the blacktop materials was started, and if weather conditions are favorable it is expected that the road will be surfaced from Chelsea to the Jackson county line in about three weeks, according to the Road Commission. The oil aggregate surfacing will be three inches in thickness and 20 feet in width.

Improvement of the Cavanaugh Lake road has been urged by local citizens for many years as traffic on this highway is particularly heavy during the summer months, and the blacktop surfacing will provide a highway which should be satisfactory for many years.

Another highway of local interest which is on the program of the County Road Commission for improvement within the next few years is the Chelsea-Dexter road, which also carries heavy traffic. A WPA crew is now working along the highway, digging ditches, clearing away brush and setting fences back. It is hoped the commission will speed the surfacing of this road—and to make the road system in the Chelsea area more or less complete it would be appreciated by motorists in this vicinity if the commission would include the Chelsea-Manchester road on their blacktop surfacing program, as would an improved highway to the north.

Michigan State Fair Is Primarily Agricultural

The 1939 Michigan State Fair will firmly establish in the minds of everyone that this fair is primarily an agricultural fair. Entries are of record proportions. Applications for stalls for horses and cattle have run far ahead of all previous years. The same is true regarding pens for swine, sheep and poultry.

It is evident that the promises made by Dr. Linwood W. Snow, general manager, that this year's fair would be a real agricultural fair has had its effect, not only outstate but throughout the nation. A report handed to Dr. Snow early this week by Harry Kelley, director of live stock, showed that in every department, the entries far exceeded those of last year.

The entry coming the greatest distance is that of the Russell Farms at Lake Charles, La., which is sending 11 head of shorthorn beef cattle. Mrs. Victoria Dreyfus of Brewster, N. Y. is bringing 11 head of Percheron horses of her own and one belonging to Elizabeth Douglas of Tilly Foster, N. Y.

This indicates that from the Atlantic to the Gulf at least the Michigan State Fair has been established in the minds of the breeders as an outstanding live stock fair of the nation.

In the other departments, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture and women's arts the same story is apparent. Record entries have been made in the women's department alone. Needlework and cooking, baking as well as dress designing are all drawing their full share of entries. The women's speed crocheting contest, which was inaugurated at the fair last year, has been adopted nationally so that those who will compete this year will be sharing in national prizes.

However, none of the other features of the fair that have found favor in the past will not be curtailed.

There will be farm machinery exhibits, harness racing, a rodeo, and a grand array of famous stars of the radio and screen present daily. The Coliseum will be turned over to the judging of the live stock on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Wednesday will be the day when the annual auction of the prize winning stock will be held.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The music class of St. Mary School of Music will be resumed Sept. 6.

Forty-five minute class lessons in groups of four will be conducted once a week at a minimum price of thirty-five cents per period. Beginners' classes will be held on Monday and Tuesday at 4 p. m. for pupils attending public school.

Those interested may make arrangements at the convent, 416 Congdon street, on or before Sept. 6.

We shall be happy to accommodate those wishing to take private lessons outside of school periods.

Sisters of St. Dominic.

Health Unit Meeting Will Be Held Today

There is a movement on foot to inform the people of Washtenaw county of the need in this county for the establishment of a health unit, and the cost, benefits, and results of such a unit.

On Thursday, August 31 (today), at 3:00 o'clock in Chelsea high school building there will be a meeting to which everyone interested in public health is invited. There will be a speaker from Ann Arbor who will present the problem and who will answer all questions in regard to the establishment of this unit.

Washtenaw county, which is one of the wealthiest counties of the state, is one of the 22 which has no health unit, while 60 counties already have the benefits from such an organization.

A citizens' committee is being organized throughout the entire county, and educational and informative meetings are being held in every district.

The Chelsea meeting is especially for the benefit of Lyndon, Lima and Sylvan townships, although anyone is welcome.

FEDERAL SCREW WORKS PICNIC

The second annual picnic of the employees of the Federal Screw Works, with their families, was held on Sunday at Dexter Huron Park, with about 215 partaking of a picnic dinner at 1 o'clock. A ball game between the day and night shifts was a feature of the afternoon sports, which was won by the day shift by a score of 9 to 7.

A social time was enjoyed and games were played by the children. The officers of the Insurance Club were in charge of the picnic.

IMPROVING BUILDING

A real improvement to the appearance of Main street is being made by the remodeling of the Merkel building, formerly occupied by the Princess Theatre. A new floor has been constructed, the walls are being refinished, and a face brick and plate glass front will complete the reconstruction of the building into a modern structure.

Mackinac Island, Mich. — What's "wrong" with Mackinac Island?

Here is an enchantingly lovely isle in the Straits between the lower and upper peninsulas, proclaimed by the Daughters of the American Revolution to be "Michigan's most historic spot."

Its past parallels the founding of the United States. In 1671 Father Marquette established a Catholic mission of St. Ignace at what is now

St. Ignace. Long before 1700 the French built frontier forts at St. Ignace and Mackinaw City, retaining control there until their disastrous defeat at Quebec in 1759 at the hands of the British. In 1763 the Ojibway Indians, inspired by crafty Pontiac, massacred the inhabitants of Fort Michilimackinaw through a ruse of playing a ball game.

In 1780 the British moved Fort Michilimackinaw from Mackinaw City to Mackinac Island, and Canadian border disputes kept the island under the British flag until October, 1796, when Fort Mackinac was turned over to the first American commander. This transfer was the final incident of the Revolutionary war. For nearly 100 years, up to 1895, the fort was manned by regular army troops of the United States.

Talk about history! Such, in a nutshell, is a glimpse of the glorious and stirring background of Mackinac Island. Yet for a decade the island has been declining as a place for summer residence. Only a few weeks ago Gov. Luren D. Dickinson suggested that the governor's cottage there be closed permanently.

With all this rugged history behind it, why should Mackinac Island have fewer summer residents than it had ten or twenty years ago? Intent on fathoming the reasons, we spent a week-end recently at the Fort as a guest of the state park commission, following a tourist conference at the Grand Hotel. Here is what we observed.

Facts About the Island

But first, a picture of the island itself.

In March, 1895, Michigan's senator James McMillan put through Congress an act authorizing the secretary of war, upon application of the governor of Michigan, to turn over to the state "for use as a state park, and for no other purpose," the military reservation and buildings and the national park lands.

The legislature created a commission, consisting of five members, who serve without pay, to administer the park.

The park contains 1,041 acres, of which 500 are covered with hardwood and 400 with spruce, hemlock, cedar and other soft woods. There are 40 miles of roads, 60 miles of trails and paths, and a boulevard which follows the encircling shore line for a distance of nearly nine miles.

On a rocky hill, reaching an elevation of 200 feet above the Straits, is Fort Mackinac (original) and Fort Holmes (a reconstruction).

Isolation, Pro and Con

Consider the geographic factor of isolation. The results are both good and bad.

Because the island is constantly "air-conditioned" by breezes coming over the waters of the Great Lakes, Mackinac Island has long been a summer haven for hay fever sufferers and a refuge from excessive heat. However, these virtues cannot be claimed exclusively by Mackinac Island; many other spots in Michigan possess climatic benefits of equal degree.

Then there is the little matter of mosquitoes. The island boasts, apparently without contradiction, that it is devoid entirely of the insect pest. Before the advent of the automobile and hard-roads, transportation to northern Michigan and Mackinac Island was mostly by lake boats. Travelers from the East came by way of Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo or Detroit; from the Middle-West via Chicago.

Tourist travel then was not mobile. The family stayed for the summer, or at least for the whole vacation period. Today, the average tourist travels in his own car. He parks his machine at either Mackinaw City or St. Ignace or puts it in a garage; he boards a steamer or a speedboat, 75 cents round-trip; on the island he hires a horse-drawn carriage to get his party and their baggage to a hotel or their cottage. This takes both time and money.

What Can You Do?

Consider next the island's recreational facilities.

If you can afford a sailboat or a horse, the island would probably keep you contented as a well-filled kitten for weeks on end. The waters of the Straits are ideal for sailing; a yacht club offers every desired service. Like Bermuda, Mackinac Island excludes automobiles, and 40 miles of roads await the equestrian—no honking of horns, screeching of brakes, and carbon monoxide fumes. But yachting and horse-back riding costs money, too.

If you like to golf, the island has a scenic course at the Grand Hotel. The grounds fee is $1.65.

Because the water at the Straits is uniformly cool (remember the big ice jam there last winter?) outdoor bathing is limited to a hotel pool, the waters of which were being warmed artificially early in August. Lacking is the familiar sand beach at most Michigan resorts where youngsters and oldsters alike may relax, sunbathe, or swim at their heart's content and usually without cost.

If you are content to don a pair of boots, swing a staff, and hike over miles of shaded woodland trails, Mackinac Island is superb.

A motion picture house in the town offers current cinemas for 40 cents. For fishing, you must travel elsewhere. Dancing and entertainment are available at the smart Grand Hotel for a cover charge. Prices are comparable with those in the best night clubs, and the entertainment is astonishingly excellent (and also clean) when you consider the distance from Chicago or Detroit. (This is not press-agency; we paid our own bill).

Automobile-Age

In this speed-craze of automobile, Mackinac Island is one place in Michigan that has defied mechanical modernization.

No automobiles!

Such is the restriction imposed by the town council with the moral support of island summer residents and the state park commission. The chief source of livelihood for year-round residents comes from carriage-fares. Proprietors of most business shops, and we presume all hotels, live elsewhere except during the summer season.

A carriage ride for any minimum distance costs 50 cents.

Except for bicycles, horses provide the only means of transportation.

Harvey Campbell, Detroit Board of Commerce, thinks the island is destined to have a continued decline in tourist trade largely because, as he colorfully phrased it, "the island rests on a manure-dump." He deplores the Detroit-made sightseeing bus, used at the New York and San Francisco world's fairs, with fares at popular prices.

Sentimental lovers of Mackinac Island rise in wrath at the idea. A chugging, noisy bus would ruin the island's tranquility. It would create hazards. Preposterous!

"Why put scores of townspeople on relief?" countered a member of the state commission. "Carriages provide their only means of earning a living. And what's the hurry, anyway?"

We present the situation as it is, without personal bias. Certainly, this island paradise for horses is unique today in the United States. And in all places—Michigan, home of motor transportation!

F. A. Hammond and family, who have been residents of Chelsea for a number of years, are making arrangements to move to Chelsea in the near future.

A. W. Wilkinson, after serving for eight years as deputy state oil inspector has again been tendered an unsolicited appointment for another term.

Here is a question to test your night-driving sense.

How fast can you drive at night and still see as far as it takes you to stop?

A—20 miles an hour.
B—35 miles an hour.
C—50 miles an hour.

The average headlights show clearly for 100 feet. You cannot drive faster than 35 miles an hour if you want to stop in that distance. At 40 miles an hour you are overdriving your light or continuously driving blind 15 feet.

It's Smart to Drive Carefully!

NORTHVILLE—Joe Louis begins his exhibition bouts in the newly constructed ring at the fairgrounds at 2 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 26, preparing for the world champion match with Bob Pastor, Sept. 20, in Detroit. Joe has been at the Joseph Schlacks estate, Newburg and Eight Mile roads, since the first of the week, where he has been doing road work routine. All floor work, punching, sparring and rope jumping will be done at the fairgrounds ring. Exhibition bouts will take place from 2 to 5 p. m. each Saturday, Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday until the day of the battle with Pastor. Some 3500 persons may be seated in the grandstand for these exhibitions. Four bus loads of fans are expected for the first Saturday bout from Chicago.—Record.

MASON—The millennium has arrived—watermelons are being given away, starting Sunday afternoon and continuing every evening until the melons are gone—at the Favorite melon ranch, six miles east of Mason on the Dansville road. The official notice of Ranches W. Favorite follows: "Watermelon-hungry people—especially you young people—are welcome to all the melon you can eat. We will give away free all you can eat provided you deposit the seeds in our tank. Ten cents will be charged for iced melon and service. Watermelon parties will be held Sunday afternoon and every evening. Please call at the house, as trespassing in the field will not be permitted." Yes, the Favorites are raising melons for the seeds and are giving the luscious innards away.—County News.

TECUMSEH—Richard LeRoy Hintz the seven months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hintz, who reside in the Brown apartments, 210 South Oneida street, was fatally injured Tuesday night in a fall from his crib. The child, whose neck was broken, died instantly.—Herald.

Cassidy Lake Events

Six Cassidy boys went to the Frankfort Glider meet, where they will act as guides. The following fellows made the trip: Ellsworth Harwood, Thaddeus Grudzion, Oscar De Meyers, Gilbert Baker, Alex Duraskavitch, and Chester Wolf.

Keith Willard, from Luther, Mich., has joined the camp. He is in cabin 2-C.

Dine and relax at Cassidy Lake. Dinner-music is played by Wayne Jackson, violinist, and George Booth, pianist.

Last Tuesday after dinner we had a short program of swing music played by Wagar Glas, Mr. McKernan, Robert Platt, and Orlo Fredericks.

We are glad to see Charles Van Houten back in camp. He reports his mother is recovering rapidly.

Eugene Rathbone went to Grand Rapids to attend his father's funeral. We extend our sincere sympathies to him.

The machine shop students went through the Hoover Steel Ball plant at Ann Arbor last Wednesday.

Charles Satterlee's brother, Ben, visited him a few days last week.

We welcome Miss Erma Theurer to the camp staff. Miss Theurer will have charge of the hospital.

The boys in the auto shop went to Lansing and visited the Ethyl Corporation Clinic.

Last Tuesday Robert Platt went to Chicago for an audition on the Morris B. Sachs Sunday afternoon amateur program. He will appear on that program in about three weeks.

Cassidy Lake defeated Farband 10-5. After striking out twelve men, Kotyuk began to tire and Farband scored their five runs.

The staff again beat the camp team. Fisher again pitched, with Alway behind the plate. Kotyuk pitched for the camp team. Erskine was behind the plate.

(Last week's items)

Cassidy Lake held its second dance in the Recreation hall Monday night, August 14. LeRoy Smith and his Masters of Rhythm furnished the music. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Papsdorf were presented with a gift from the boys. Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Miller were also honored for their sixth wedding anniversary, which was the previous Saturday. Children In Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Stock Market Speculator

A young man's parents had filled him with a desire for riches. During his entire life, from the time he completed high school until he graduated from the university, this youth was motivated by a strong desire to become immensely wealthy.

When they set up this goal for their son, these parents did not take into consideration that there are other things in life which are more worth while and desirable. They were so engrossed in pushing him forward to the goal of position and power that they had little time left to develop his character.

By the time this youth finally reached manhood he began to realize that the task of acquiring money was a slow and tedious process. He wanted to get rich without any delay but realized that he needed capital to accomplish his purpose. He began to reason that with his bank clerk salary of forty dollars a week it would require years of pinching and saving to acquire enough money to undertake the business venture he had in mind.

With no character training to chart his course, he decided that by using a portion of the bank's funds, he could make a fortune on the stock market. Since he had overheard some confidential information to the effect that certain stocks were going to rise, he was successful in his speculation. But before he could take his profits and replace the funds he had illegally appropriated, a state banking examiner discovered the misappropriation.

Hatchery Fish Will Be Distributed In State

With only 4 days remaining before anglers abandon most Michigan trout waters for the season, the fish division of the Michigan Department of Conservation is preparing for the annual distribution of hatchery raised fish, starting soon after Labor Day.

All available equipment is being put in readiness for the race against the weather man. Trucks fitted with tanks and pickup trucks for hauling cans of fish will be employed in getting the plantings transferred from hatcheries and rearing ponds to lakes and streams before cold weather and freeze-overs move in.

Usual procedure is to begin plantings of trout and "pan" fish in the Upper Peninsula earlier than below the Straits because unfavorable weather and road conditions come earlier in the northern sections. Planting is carried on simultaneously, however, above and below the Straits.

Transporting black bass and bluegills from the lower peninsula to northern waters presents a problem in truck and boat schedules. Crews frequently work in day-and-night shifts to meet the Lake Michigan ferry arrival and departure schedules.

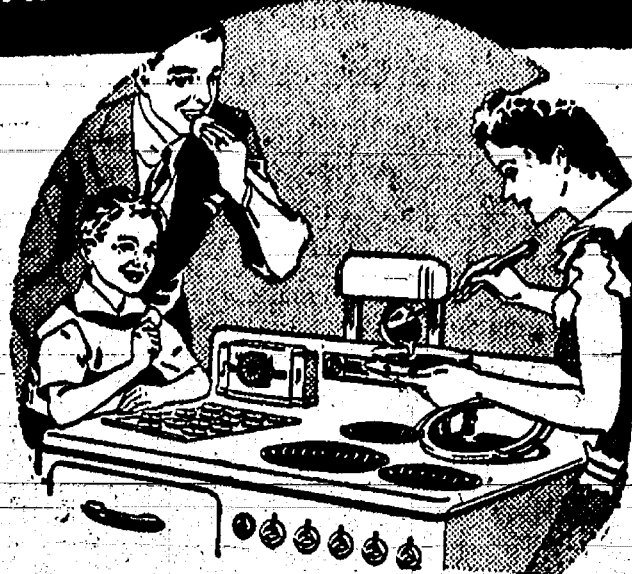

All workers in the fish division field force, and available members of conservation law enforcement and fire fighting agencies are called into service. They have the aid of CCC enrollees and federal forestry service men, to keep up the pace.

Trucking crews work on a schedule calling for clearing, one at a time, each rearing station and hatchery of all its stock, so that it can be closed up for the winter and maintenance crews disbanded. In a few stations some stock is carried through the winter for rearing purposes.

Millions of trout and "pan" fish will be distributed when the job is completed, but the total number will not be known until all the planting of hatchery-raised fish is completed.

Electricity
Sets the Pace
In Modern Home Cooking

The happy experience of over 2,200,000 electric range users proves that when you get a modern Westinghouse Range you, too, can enjoy all these — and many other — electric cooking advantages:

1. Better cooking results.
2. Less work — more leisure.
3. A kitchen that's always cool and comfortable.
4. Matchless safety.
5. Amazing economy.
6. Glorious cleanliness!

NO OTHER COOKING METHOD CAN GIVE YOU SUCH CLEANLINESS!

Electric heat is clean heat. Pots and pans stay clean, bright; kitchens keep clean longer, with less work. Just look at a Westinghouse Range! Notice its rounded corners and its Solid-Top Corox Units. Then you'll see why a rub with a damp cloth keeps it spotless. Come in. Let's talk it over.

Balloon Altitude Record
The altitude record for balloons was made by Capt. Albert W. Stevens and Orvil A. Anderson in the Explorer II, a specially constructed balloon inflated with helium, when they rose to a height of 72,394.8 feet in November, 1935.

Farmers' Cooperatives Govern Hunting Lands

A 25 per cent increase in game management farm cooperatives in Michigan this fall is forecast by R. G. Hill, game management specialist with Michigan State College, as work of 1939 shows that on 6,000 farms there were approximately 400,000 acres of hunting lands governed by community cooperatives.

Hill announces applications should be sent in before September 20 to enable proper posting and the printing of permit cards.

In the meantime, through county agricultural agents, the services and counsel of representatives of the game division of the state department of conservation and of the extension service of Michigan State College can be obtained for community organization meetings.

Already 26 applications have been received for cooperatives in 1939 and new groups and renewals will be accepted until the September 20 date.

Michigan was first in the nation with a unique plan of farmer organization of hunting areas. The Williamston group began operation in 1929. Since then other communities and counties have taken up the idea and similar groups have been organized in other states.

First to get cooperation of the state department of conservation was the cooperative at Kingston in Tuscola county in 1936. Seventy-five farmers with about 15,000 acres were involved.

In 1937 there were 34 cooperatives formed. Last year hunting areas in 20 southern Michigan counties were supervised by 66 organized groups. Some purposes are to control trespass, avoid over-hunting and to aid wildlife.

Charles X Responsible For Racing in France

Racing is supposed to have come into France from across the channel, and most sources credit its introduction into the country to the efforts of the Comte d'Artois, brother of Louis XVI and later Charles X of France, and it is supposed to have been on November 10, 1776, that the first event of this sort took place in this country. The race was run at Versailles, near the Chateau de Clagny. The French became so enthusiastic over this new sport that money was recklessly, and the sage Louis XVI tried, but in vain, to curb the betting.

Today there are race courses in the Paris region alone at Longchamp and Auteuil in the Bois de Boulogne, at Vincennes, Chantilly, Maisons-Laffitte, La Tremblay and several important resorts have an excellent race track, a long racing season, and a Grand Prix, the biggest purse of which is the Vichy Grand Prix for 300,000 francs on the first Sunday in August.

To the Duc de Morny, half-brother of Napoleon III, credit must be given for choosing Longchamp as the site of a new racetrack in 1856. He meant it to outclass all other tracks in beauty and style. The empress herself came to the first race, over 700 carriages and 300 horseback riders caused such a crush at the opening that the first race had to be postponed for a half hour. In 1863 the Grand Prix de Paris was established.

Natural Gas Not as Toxic As Manufactured Gases

Natural gas in general is not considered as toxic as the manufactured gas, which has a higher percentage of carbon monoxide. The American Cyclopedia tabulates the constituents of various natural gases and compares them with coal gas. It shows from 80 to 98 per cent marsh gas (methane) up to 14 per cent other hydrocarbons, 0.4 to 4.6 per cent nitrogen, up to 0.2 per cent carbon dioxide, up to 1.5 per cent hydrogen. Coal gas is given an average of 40 per cent marsh gas, 4 per cent hydrocarbons, 2 per cent nitrogen, 0.4 per cent carbon dioxide, 6 per cent carbon monoxide, 46 per cent hydrogen.

"The first gas company in this country was the Gas Light company of Baltimore, incorporated February 5, 1817; it made and distributed coal gas and the first street in Baltimore was lighted with the gas on February 17. The first natural gas company was the Fredonia Gas Light & Water Works company, organized in Fredonia, N. Y., in 1865. Natural gas had, however, been used as an illuminant in Fredonia as early as 1824, a pipeline being led from a well to the hall where the great Lafayette was given a reception. A few years later natural gas was being used for fuel and light in Findlay, Ohio.

Subways for Imperial Rome

ROME.—Italy's plans for extending the city limits of Rome to Ostia, 30 miles away, include the construction of a subway system which will pass under the heart of Imperial Rome. The subway will be completed in time to serve visitors to the Rome 1942 World's fair, the site of which is midway between Rome and Ostia, ancient seaport. The buildings on the site of the fair will be part of the permanent city now rising on the site. Hourly capacity of 82,000 persons will be possible in the new subway.

Koch Descendants' Reunion

The descendants of the late Martin and Kathryn Koch, with their families, gathered Sunday at Pleasant Lake, Freedom township, for their sixth annual reunion. Mrs. Emanuel Sodi serving the dinner, with covers for 65. In the absence of the president and vice-president, Alvin Vail, the secretary-treasurer, called the business meeting to order and officers elected are: President, E. J. Sodi; vice-president, Waldo Eismann; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Albert Schiller; refreshment committee, Mrs. Fred Koch, Mrs. William Frey, Mrs. Albert Schiller; entertainment committee, Mrs. Carl Stierle, Mrs. Christ Koch, Mrs. E. J. Sodi.

The program of sports, the balloon contests were won by Donald Koch and Dolores Eismann, the ball throwing contest by June Marie Vail. In the early evening, hymns were sung, including "The End of a Perfect Day" and "God Be With You." Miss Jean Sodi presided at the piano.

The 7th annual reunion will be held at the same place on the last Sunday in August.

Millions of Trees May Be Obtained from State

Fourteen million trees will be added to Michigan forest resources in plantings to be made by public agencies, civic groups and individuals next fall and spring.

Using state-grown stock, the forestry division of the Michigan Department of Conservation will set out 12,000,000 trees in seven forest areas. These include the Lake Superior Highlands, Mackinac, Black Lake, Hardwood, Houghton Lake and Au Sable state forests. CCC enrollees at camps on the forests will be used on the projects.

Schools, civic organizations and private property owners will be allotted approximately 2,000,000 trees from the 1939-1940 consignment. Forestry officials said schools had been most active in reforestation projects, such as community forests. They estimated that, since 1931, about a million trees a year had been furnished by the state for community forest work. State law prohibits the use of these trees for landscaping or ornamental purposes.

A forestry division inventory recently showed the Higgins Lake state nursery had 28,700,000 trees in production. Plantings in the next year will be taken from this stock.

Old Volumes Yield Data On Ritchie's Expulsion

More information concerning the circumstances of the expulsion of George Gavin Ritchie from Madison university, now Colgate, in 1847, for editing a paper favoring abolition and equal suffrage, has been obtained through research in dusty old volumes. It supplements information turned up last January, according to the New York Times.

This student martyr, fighting for freedom of the press and the right to print his own opinions against slavery, left the university in disgrace and died six years later.

But there were those who fought for him. Howard Williams, instructor in history, has discovered minutes of a students' association meeting on February 5, 1847, at which the question of backing or repudiating Ritchie was brought up. These minutes record the proposition that was put before the association.

"Whereas, the faculty have permitted a paper called 'The Hamilton Student' to be started at the university and which has gone forth to the public bearing the name of the university and purporting to be conducted by its members,

Explosive Manufacturers Exercise Great Caution

Some of the most interesting regulations concerning footware apply in explosive works. The danger areas of explosive factories are separated from the rest of the plant by white lines, and workers are not permitted to tread inside the line without first putting on a pair of rubbers. No compulsion is needed to see that this regulation is observed, for every dynamite worker has a healthy respect for a product that might blow him sky high should it encounter a spark caused by a shoe nail.

Many workers in explosive factories even go so far as to provide themselves with nothing but stitched or cemented footwear in which not a nail is used.

Other fashion conventions observed by dynamite plant workers call for pocketless overalls which eliminate the danger of stray matches or foreign materials being carried into the plant, a very necessary precaution in an industry where wooden tools are the vogue and much of the machinery is driven by compressed air.—C-I-L Oval.

County Farmers Are Insuring Wheat Crops

Insurance on the 1940 Michigan wheat crop is now being offered to all farmers in the state. Representatives of the Washtenaw County Agricultural Conservation Committee are now calling on all wheat growers, discussing with them their 1940 wheat acreage allotments and offering them the opportunity to insure their next year's wheat.

Farmers in Washtenaw county can be guaranteed 75 per cent of their normal yields by taking out insurance, according to Harry M. Cole, secretary of the Washtenaw Triple A committee. Premiums run as low as 5-10 bushels per acre. Farmers who have cooperated with the farm program this year may pay for their insurance by simply having their premiums deducted from their Triple A payments.

Through this insurance program, Mr. Cole says, the Triple A is helping farmers get a more uniform income from year to year. Even in years when wheat crops are seriously damaged or totally destroyed, farmers will have at least 75 per cent of their normal yields on which they can depend. A new regulation permits the insured farmers to assign their crop insurance policies as security for loans, the proceeds of which may be used without restrictions.

About one out of every ten Michigan farmers who took out crop insurance on their wheat last fall will receive at least partial indemnity this year, Mr. Cole says. Although weather conditions have been generally good in Michigan this year, rust, winterkill, fall and spring droughts, hail, and insects have taken their toll of wheat.

Last year 5,077 Michigan wheat growers took out insurance policies with the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. These policies insured 54,492 acres, guaranteeing a minimum yield of 205,662 bushels of wheat. The total amount of wheat paid into the Crop Insurance Corporation for premiums was 31,979 bushels.

Faded Cartagena Still Bears Imprint of Past

The scrawl of history—written in stone and metal—is still spread across the worn facades of Cartagena, Santa Marta and Puerto Colombia, picturesque cities of Colombia, northernmost country of South America and colorful link in the cruise chain of the Great White Fleet.

Cartagena, especially, bears the imprint of other centuries, the patina of antiquity giving a hint of the atmosphere that was Cartagena's before Columbus sailed for the Indies.

To the pleasure-traveler to the tropics, the city is an unending source of wonder; a city-whispering of Spanish dons and the swash-buckling days of Henry Morgan and Sir Francis Drake.

Seventy million dollars was spent to fortify Cartagena against marauders. Today, her 40-foot seawall still encircles the city, its lichen-clad, mosque-like turrets speaking of the days of ball and grape. Once in the day, when Colombia's life was a turbulent one of clash and change, the stone cubicles were prison cells.

Vestiges of Cartagena's fortifications are flung all over the city. For miles along the waterfront are ramparts, varying in width from 40 to 100 feet. Besides them are moats, now overgrown with weeds. Strwn here and there on the matted brush are fragments fallen from sentry boxes.

Inside the city, history still intrudes into the present. Ancient cathedrals, shaded patios and crumbling dwellings tell stories of thequisition, of the slashing invasions of Drake and Morgan, and of the years when gold flowed from the New world to the Spain of yesterday.

Golden Dolphins Guard Japanese Feudal Castle

Two golden dolphins, together worth more than a million dollars in bullion alone, adorn the great feudal castle that watches over Nagoya, Japanese city of modern bustle and ancient charm. One of the talismanic fishes stands on the topmost roof of the castle and throws its sparkling beams for miles around, so that tourists passing Nagoya even by railway cannot miss the sight.

The castle, built in Japan's feudal days for defense and war, was adorned with the golden dolphins by one Kato Kiyomasa, one of the nation's historic heroes, because of their legendary virtue in warding off fires. And while one or two mishaps have happened to the dolphins themselves, the castle has remained unharmed by fire or war.

American visitors to Nagoya visit the castle first. To walk on the clean-swept, spacious gravel paths between the outer and the inner moats is an inspiration; it conjures up a charmed sphere of romance and heroism. The "donjon," soaring high, fresh, and majestic in its sweeping outline, stands just as it did three centuries ago, and in its grand, mysterious way evokes the storied past.

Gross Negligence

Not long ago, says Collier's, in a California court of law, a new trial was requested in a $10,500 damage suit because one of the jurors happened to admit that he had consulted a dictionary, instead of the judge, for a definition of "gross negligence."

MAY REUNION

The annual May reunion was held Sunday, August 20 at the Huron River Park near Dexter, with 60 representatives of the family present. A sumptuous picnic dinner was served at one o'clock and ice cream later in the day.

The oldest member present was George R. May of Detroit, 74, and the youngest, Marilyn Liebeck, 8 months old, of Pinckney. Those coming the greatest distance were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eaton (Fannie May), of Williamsburg, Grand Traverse County.

At the regular business meeting it was voted to hold the next meeting at the original May homestead, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Francis May, near Unadilla, on the 3rd Sunday in August. George E. May of Stockbridge was re-elected president, Geo. R. May of Detroit, vice-president, and Mrs. Francis May, secretary-treasurer.

Sulphur From Salt Domes

Only 11 of the more than 300 "salt domes" located in Texas and Louisiana have proved commercially useful as sulphur producers, but of these the seven now operating account for nearly one-third of the world's sulphur output, according to Freeport Sulphur company.

CHILD OF EVIL

by Octavus Roy Cohen

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Beautiful, young Kay Forrester has been employed by Christine Maynard, photographer, to pose for a series of pictures. The background of which will be exquisite Calhoun Gardens, famous Southern resort. Unknown to them, one Jeff Butler, mean, unscrupulous "swamp" angel, has led a friend to spy on the two women. Kay, of necessity, is scantily clad while posing for the camera sessions.

CHAPTER II—Kay frequently stays with Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, her father's friend. Mrs. Hamilton, a remarkable woman, conceived the idea of the garden following the death of her husband. One night, after a local dance, Kirk Reynolds, a former gambler of Beverly, a small town, and Kay go for a ride. Kirk's car collides with that of Harvey Jackson, and the ensuing argument ends with a gun and kills the young, popular engineer.

CHAPTER III—Kay is completely stunned by the tragedy. Kirk threatens to drag her into the thing if she tells even her father. Terror-stricken, she agrees to remain silent. However, the next time she goes out with Barney, he realizes something is wrong. He tries to reassure her, but tells her nothing.

CHAPTER IV—Mrs. Emma Forrest, Kay's mother, looks upon herself as being completely righteous. She is firm, positive and demanding. Her father is exactly the opposite. Kind and unassuming. While at home Kirk Reynolds calls for her, and she is forced to go with him despite her family protests. He tells her the circumstances make it necessary for her to marry him, but she cannot be forced to testify against him if he is accused of Jackson's murder.

CHAPTER V—The next time they are together Kay tells Barney she loves him, but is married to Reynolds. She refuses to tell him why she married a gambler, but he promises to try to understand. Meanwhile, Miss Sonia (Babe) Henkel, Beverly beauty operator of questionable morals, and intimate friend of Kirk Reynolds, berates him for marrying Kay, feeling that he has overlooked a responsibility to her.

CHAPTER VI—Jim Owenby, landscape engineer in love with Margaret Hamilton, discusses the affair with her. He is sure Kirk has married Kay so she cannot be brought into the case. But he is afraid of what might happen if he and Barney confront Reynolds.

CHAPTER VII—Barney is forced to whip Jeff Butler, discharged from the Gardens for drinking. He is warned that the unscrupulous Jeff will look for a way to even the score, but is not worried over the possibility.

CHAPTER VIII—Sonia Henkel is angered when Kirk tells her he intends to bring Kay to live at the hotel. He thinks this will keep people from talking about the murder of Jackson. He has been indirectly suggested in the crime. Reynolds calls Kay, who, despite Barney's protests, can do nothing but agree to accompany him.

CHAPTER IX—When Kay has finished packing, her father and brother Andy call at the Gardens to talk to her. They do not know she is going with Kirk. They leave and Reynolds calls to show up the next morning. His body is found in a nearby lagoon. Kay is frightened by the possibility that Barney Owenby, her father or brother may have killed Kirk.

It was Andy who dominated the scene. He moved closer to Mr. Watts. He said, "Was it you who put that picture on the window?"

"Yes, it was. An' what are you goin' to do about it?"

"If you walk outside with me, I'll show you."

Ernie Watts was a good tactician. Without warning he leaped forward and struck. The blow caught Andy high up on the forehead and spun him around. And Ernie came in behind it. His second punch landed squarely on Andy's jaw and Andy went down.

He was dazed. For just an instant he sprawled, then clambered to hands and knees—shaking his head. He staggered to his feet . . . but before Ernie could attack again, something happened.

Barney and Jim Owenby leaped forward. The former pounced on Ernie Watts' arms, the latter grabbed Andy. Andy said, "I'm all right. Let me go."

Ernie Watts struggled with Barney. Sensing an easy victory, he fought to free himself from Barney's amazingly efficient grip. He yelled to his friends, "Make him leave got! They're gangin' me!"

Somebody took the cue. "Leave him go!"

The noise sifted through to the street. It came to the ears of an elderly man: a tall, quiet old man who had driven his ramshackle car up to one of the gas-pumps.

Doc Morrison got out of his car and looked inside. He saw a crowd of men, punching, kicking, cursing. He recognized Barney Hamilton and Jim Owenby and a half-dozen of the disreputable gang that made the Bon Ton Pool Room its headquarters. More important, he saw two girls at the far end of the garage, crouching against the wall, hands pressed against white lips, eyes wide and staring.

Doc Morrison said, "Hey! Quit!"

No one heard. Or, if they did, they paid no heed. Barney and Jim and Andy were struggling valiantly, with fine—but futile—effect. They fought silently. Grimly. They wasted no breath in words. Barney was bleeding. There was a lump under Jim Owenby's left eye. He swung at the man who had inflicted that lump, mashing his lips. The man howled with pain and insensate fury. He backed away and picked up a tire-tool from the floor. Kay screamed, "Look out!" as the man with the crushed lips threw the tire-tool.

Jim Owenby ducked. The steel imploded. . . new through the air. There was the sickening sound of its impact upon human flesh. There was a brief groan and the thud of a collapsing body. There was blood, trickling sluggishly from the face of an old man.

A voice was raised above the melee. The voice said, "Good God, Fellers—you've kilt Doc Morrison!"

There was a momentary cessation of fighting. Then, before it could be resumed—the sturdy figure of Sheriff Floyd Griffin came in through the door. Margaret said something to him and he whipped out a gun.

"Git back! Ev'v dammed one of you!"

The Sheriff's eyes were blazing. He meant business, and they knew it. They backed against the wall. Barney and Jim and Andy stood in the center of the floor, battered and bruised and bleeding. One of the pool-room gang lay unconscious.

Kay ran forward and dropped to her knees beside the bleeding form of the old man—dabbing at the ugly wound with a pitifully inadequate handkerchief.

The Sheriff looked down at the figure of Doc Morrison. He asked, "Who done this?"

There was no answer. Sheriff Griffin glared at the others. "I know ev'v last one of you. And somebody's goin' to pay for this!"

He bent over Doc Morrison. He placed the gun beside him on the concrete floor.

"He's bad hurt," announced the Sheriff in a solemn voice. "I'm holdin' all of you. An' if he dies . . ."

The hoodlums had lost their belligerence. Even these young men had known and loved Doc Morrison. They were from households in which the venerable Doc had done his greatest charity. Somebody said, in a hushed voice, "God! I wouldn't have hurt Doc for nothin'!"

The Sheriff said, "This town has stood for a lot. But this is somethin' it won't stand for."

In the days which followed, the citizens of Beverly did not gossip. They talked soberly and sanely. Murder and violence and drinking and gambling had not done this, but a serious injury to Doc Morrison was more than enough.

Contributing causes were forgotten in the actuality of Doc's injury. For the first time in a month Kay Forrester was not the chief subject of conversation. They talked about Doc and of the fight in which he had been injured. The night of the third day the citizens held a mass-meeting. There was little oratory. Men of substance spoke gravely, quietly and seriously. The spirit of the town had changed. This impending tragedy stripped the town of civic pretense and made it acutely aware of certain internal problems.

On the morning of the fourth day the physician in charge announced publicly that Doc Morrison had regained consciousness and would recover. That morning the sun shone. That morning citizens of Beverly smiled again, and today they dared talk of what they would have done had Doc died. They had been afraid to speak of that before, lest as some of them expressed it—lest they put bad mouth on him.

A new wave of protest and indignation swept the more distant sections of Beauregard County, penetrating deep into Big and Little Moccasin Swamps. Well-meaning but definitely illiterate preachers once again impressed upon their tiny congregations that this was the work of the Devil; that the injury to Doc had been the final warning of a Providence roused to wrath. They yelled hellfire and damnation. And in Beverly itself, the same sentiments were expressed, though in different and perhaps less violent language.

Resolutions were passed. Petitions were circulated. A special meeting of the Town Council was called, after which Mayor Alec Roberts held a long and earnest discussion with Solicitor Gabe Dixon and Sheriff Floyd Griffin. The Sheriff found himself fighting for right and justice: first, because that promised the greatest number of votes in the not-too-distant primary; and, secondly, because he, too, had been deeply fond of Doc Morrison.

The Sheriff lumbered upstairs to the corner suite which had been occupied by Kirk Reynolds, the suit in the living-room of which Dan Creedon still operated the dice-game.

Dan was seated by the window, in his shirt-sleeves. He was a tall, stony individual with sad, steady eyes and a laconic manner.

He said, "Howdy, Sheriff," and Floyd Griffin said, "Howdy, Creedon." Then he saw the other occupant of the room; the vivid brunette who stood near the window looking down upon Monument Square. The

Sheriff said, "Mayn'n, Miss Henkel."

Her voice was flat and tired. She said, "Good morning."

Floyd Griffin returned his attention to Dan Creedon.

"Doc Morrison is purty popular heahabouts."

"That's all I been hearing for three days."

"There's been meetin's an' things. The whole town is sad."

"Yeah? So what?"

The Sheriff gestured toward the adjoining room.

"That's through."

"The dice game?"

"Uh-huh."

Creedon shrugged. "They'll get over it."

"Nope. Folks mean business this time." The guardian of law and order adged. "Nor neither that ain't all, Creedon."

"What do you mean, that ain't all?"

"You got to get out of town."

"So? And suppose I don't?"

Floyd Griffin's eyes narrowed. "I know you ain't plumb foolish, Creedon. When they say to git out—why I reckon you got sense enough to do it."

"Sure . . . but listen: if I close up the dice game—"

"That ain't enough. Not wantin' to hurt yo' feelin's, Creedon—the town's kind of fed up with you. An' I tellin' you, man to man an' friendly-like, that it wouldn't be awful healthy for you to stay heah."

"I get you. How much time have I got?"

"Oh! th'ee-to' days. So long as folks know you're really fixin' to go, why I can keep 'em satisfied."

A faint smile flickered across Creedon's thin lips. He said, "Four days then, and I'll scram. Anything else?"

"Yeh . . ." The Sheriff looked more uncomfortable. He said, "It's about you, Miss Henkel."

Big black eyes flashed up to his. The little figure stiffened. She asked, "What about me?"

"You got to git out, too."

CHAPTER XIV

For perhaps five minutes after the departure of Sheriff Griffin, Babe Henkel said nothing more. Dan Creedon watched her—sympathetically. Eventually he spoke, and his voice was kindly. He said, "Snap out of it, Babe."

She turned smouldering eyes upon him. "The louse!" she snapped.

"Griffin? You're crazy. He can't protect us any more because they won't let him."

"I ain't thinking about that, Dan. I'm talking about running us out of town."

"Well . . ." He shrugged. "There's nothing to do but scram."

She came closer and leaned over the table, her eyes boring into his. She said, "That's what you think."

"Sure I do."

"Well, you're wrong."

"Now listen, Babe . . ."

"You listen to me. This town ain't gone suddenly moral. Things don't happen that way. It's a cover-up."

"For what?"

"For Barney Hamilton. They don't want to do anything to him, so they're getting rid of us."

Dan said, "Maybe. And what can we do about it?"

"Plenty."

"What, for instance?"

Babe was tense. She said, "Dan—you ain't gonna take this sittin' down, are you? You ain't willing to blow without anybody even having been punished for killing Kirk?"

He shook his head. "I don't like to, if that's what you mean. But listen, Babe—me and you, we can't buck a whole town."

She said, "Barney Hamilton killed Kirk."

"I suppose he did. But everybody in town thinks he had good cause."

"Well, I don't. You see, I wasn't hard-bitten with Kirk. I was pretty crazy about him."

"Sure you were."

"If I had been bumped off, Kirk wouldn't have checked out without doing something about it, would he?"

"That's different."

"How?"

"You're a dame."

She placed her hands palms down on the table-top. The long, slender fingers with their crimson nails were trembling.

"Before I leave this burg," she announced, "the guy that killed Kirk is gonna get his."

Dan Creedon was worried. "Don't go getting yourself all worked up. The cards are stacked against you, Babe."

"Going yellow on me?"

"Answer that for yourself."

"You're fixin' to run out."

"I know when I'm beat."

"Well, I don't!" Her voice was hard. "You can blow whenever you get good and ready. Me—I'm gonna do something."

Creedon shrugged. "If that's the way you feel about it, cut me in."

Suddenly her eyes were filled with tears. "Gee, Dan! That's swell. But I don't want to get you in no jam."

"I can take it."

"You mean you'll stick?"

"If you can sell me on an idea, yes. And get this straight, it ain't that I think you're smart. You're crazy to step into any more trouble. But I never have run out on anybody and I don't figure to start now."

Soliloquy

● A small boy's impressions of a bleak, sad world as he prepares for one of life's biggest adventures, the first day of school.

"Shucks, Mother, I look awright. Weren't you there when I washed behind my ears? Besides, goin' to school for the first time ain't like goin' to Sunday school. Anyway, I don't want to look like a sissy. What'd Butch and Skinny say then?"

"Well, goo'-by, Mother, an' I promise I won't be late if Flash can walk part way with me. He doesn't want to stay in that hot ol' doghouse all day, and you and Dad don't pay no attention to him."

"C'mon, Flash, you don't have to hurry so much. It's me that gotta stay in school all day, but you don't care. Just remember you won't be havin' a gay ol' time, either. You go walkin' alone and go swimmin' alone, an' see how you like that. Then you won't be in such a hurry."

"Gee, Flash, why do boys have to go to school? There's a lotta things more important than readin' and all that stuff. Anyway, ol' pal, you'll miss me. Specially when there's no one to throw sticks for you. But you be sure to be here when school's out. Then we kin go for a walk, and I'll bet Ma will be plenty sorry she made me go to school."

Swedish Mile

The Swedish mile is equivalent to six American miles.

Largest Woolen Mill
The largest homespun woolen industry in the world—the Biltmore Homespun shop—is located in Asheville, N. C. Originated in 1901 by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt to furnish employment for a few mountaineers in her neighborhood, it has grown steadily ever since, employing at present around 60 people. After the industry became well-established, Mrs. Vanderbilt sold it and the shops were moved to the Grove Park Inn estate on the outskirts of Asheville.

Most of the raw wool used comes from Australia, Wales, Scotland, and the Shetland islands. It is first dyed, then dried by natural air, no artificial heat being used. The colors are mixed, fibers broken up, wool re-rolled and then run through carding machines onto spinning frames. Power-driven machines are used for these processes and for setting up the warp on the loom, but the actual weaving is done entirely by hand on hand looms. Two types of weaving are done, plain and diagonal. Weavers are paid by the yard, the average individual being able to weave from 12 to 15 yards a day. The material, which is sold retail, is obtainable only at the plant.

Byrd Diary Illust.

Of Virginia Colonial L.
For more than three years, from February, 1709, to September, 1712, Col. William Byrd jotted down in shorthand notes on the day's routine on his extensive plantation. When he was elected to a seat on the Virginia council of state, he recorded in his diary that he drank too much wine, played cards late, lost 20 shillings and forgot to say his prayers before going to bed, writes a correspondent to the Kansas City Star. Subsequently he began to worry about his diet, deciding that only one item of food should be eaten at a meal. Byrd wrote for his own diversion, unaware that some two centuries later his diary would fall into the hands of an expert on archaic shorthand.

Byrd's diary, hitherto unknown, was discovered by accident in the Huntington Library, San Marino, Calif. Dr. Louis B. Wright, of the library's research staff, was examining documents in search of material for a book on the social and intellectual history of early Virginia. He came across some manuscripts by William Byrd, whose "History of the Dividing Line" is one of the bright items of our colonial literature. A small volume written in shorthand was scrutinized. A few passages in longhand, obviously in Byrd's handwriting, aroused interest and the book was turned over to Mrs. Marion Tinsling, who recognized the shorthand system as that of William Mason, a shorthand writer of note of the Seventeenth century. Mrs. Tinsling identified the shorthand notes as the work of Byrd and promptly set about transcribing the daily entries.

Pulse as a Time-Keeper
You carry a fair-to-middling time-keeper, right on your wrist. It is an individual time-piece and before you can use it, you have to test it against a good watch which indicates seconds. The average pulse beats about 36 times to the half minute, while the person is still. Try out your own and see what your figure is. The pulse is a useful timer—it was used quite extensively before watches came out. Galileo used it in his discovery of the principle of the pendulum—one of the first and basic discoveries in science. But with the advent of watches with second hands, this method went out. Today, few people ever look at second hand on their watches from year's end to year's end.

Boasts White Rhinos
The white rhinoceros, almost as rare as a pink elephant, is on the increase in the game reserves of Zululand, says Rudolf Frei, Luxor, Egypt, manager of the American Express travel service, who reports that there are at least 30 in the Hluhluwe reserve alone.

'Hadrian's Wall' Built by Ruler as Defense Line

Hadrian's wall, one of the tourist wonders of northeast England, located near Carlisle, was built early in the second century under the direction of the emperor Hadrian, and was intended as the first line of defense against the wild tribes of Picts and later of Scots who migrated from Ireland to north Britain. The structure was about 15 feet high and eight wide, with a five-foot parapet on top of the north side to protect the patrol. It was made of rubble, faced with cut stone.

About every four miles was a walled fort covering several acres, built to accommodate from 500 to 1,000 soldiers. At intervals of a mile between the forts were smaller posts, called milecastles. In addition there were two turrets, 14 feet square, between the milecastles, where sentries were maintained. Many of the garrisons were permanently stationed on the wall. The soldiers, who might have been recruited in any part of the empire, from North Africa and Spain to Syria, Central Europe, France and Germany, often married British women who lived in the towns that grew up around each fort. The sons of such marriages usually joined the army.

They Picnic in the Ford Garden

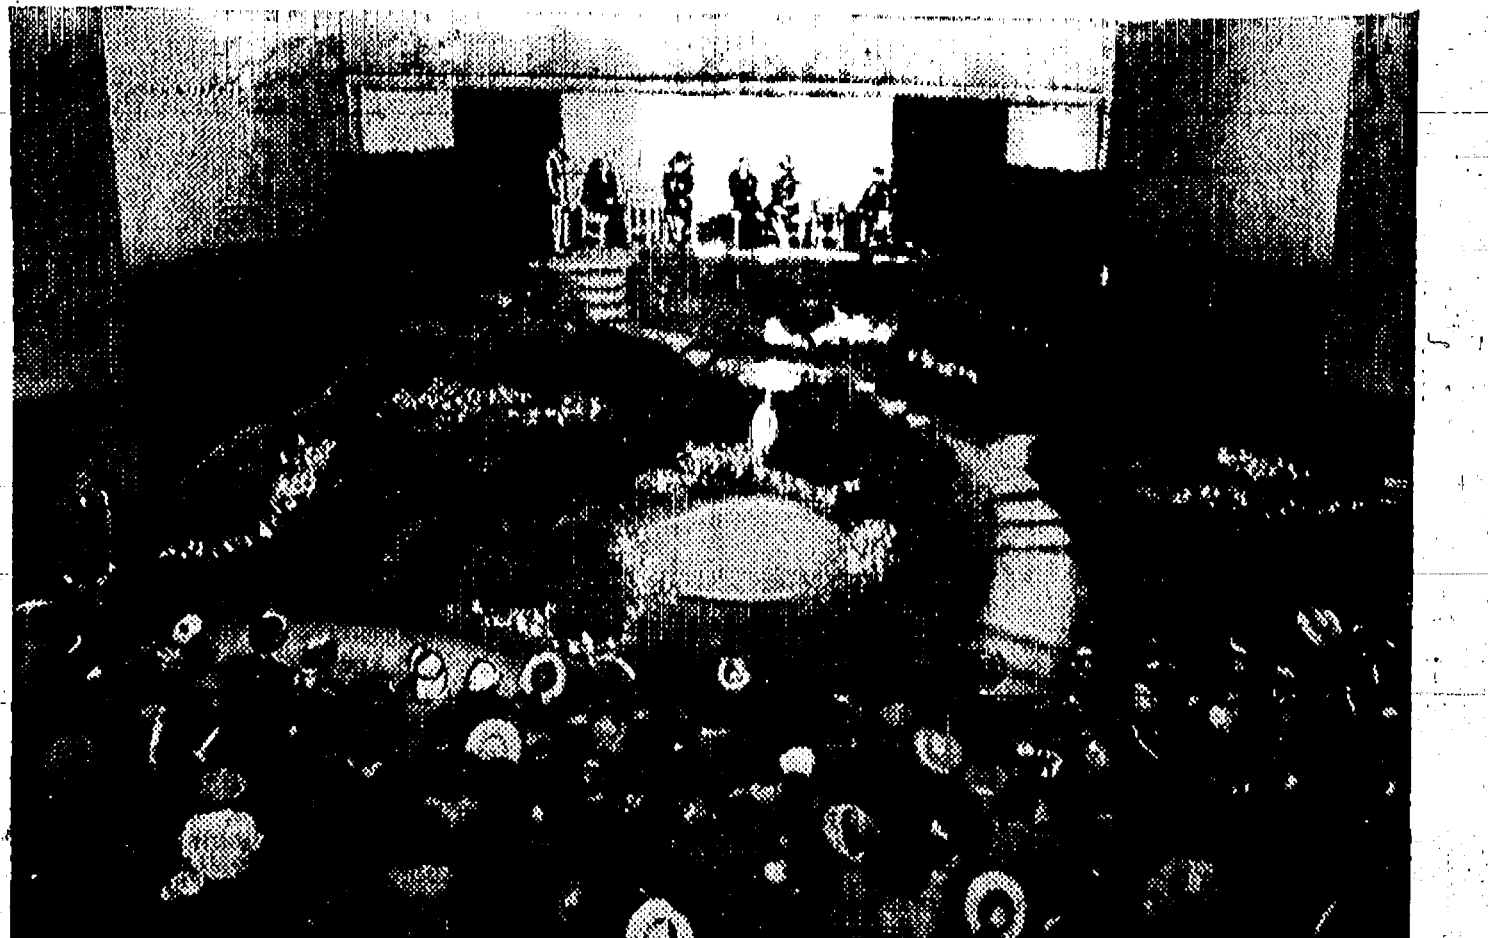

WHO says the New York World's Fair is expensive? The average food check on the Fair Grounds, computed after examining a day's business at 70 different restaurants, is 43¢. Fat, juicy frankfurters sell at the standard price of 10¢ and complete meals are served for as little as 40¢.

People who bring their own box lunches, of course, can cut their costs to almost nothing. The Ford Exposition's Garden Court is a Mecca for such as these. Here are comfortable beach tables and chairs, shaded by spreading elms and by spacious blue beach umbrellas. Ample patches of green lawn, splashing fountains, and occasional puffs of breeze help the Fairgoer keep cool.

Each afternoon and evening the Garden Court comfortably accommodates 800 at a time—may listen to free concerts by Ferde Grofé, eminent modern composer whose "Grand Canyon Suite" is known to everyone, and his New World Ensemble. They play popular tunes, music beloved by everyone. Here's a typical family group, enjoying themselves while Grofé's orchestra plays in the background. At the right is Joseph Gilbert, with his daughter Laurice on his lap. From left to right are Diana Gilbert, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Mary Garlazzo, a neighbor, and Mrs. Cloe Frey, Gilbert's sister.

The Gilbert family comes from New Jersey. Their lunch basket, in case you're interested, contained steamed, delicious Italian ham, hard-boiled eggs and big red peaches. Gilbert, who has been looking for work since his employer's company folded up last March, said he appreciated the many comforts, and the glorious concerts the Ford Exposition offers without any charge. And Mrs. Garlazzo echoed: "I could stay here always."

Visitors to the Fair may use rooms in private homes for as little as $1 a day. Lists of these rooms, compiled by Mayor LaGuardia, are free for the asking. And the Federation of Greater New York Churches has established five centers where children may be "checked" during daytime hours. For $1 a day they are cared for, entertained and fed.

ANOTHER audience participation feature showing visitors in audition demonstration at Bell Telephone Exhibit, New York World's Fair. Following interview with interlocutor the group retires to foot of land-into place. Audience and participants hear conversation repeated syllable for syllable over sound-reproducing apparatus.

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Frank P. Seabury and Donald D. James, of the City of Detroit, Wayne County, Michigan, to Leonard Embury, of the Township of Lyndon, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, dated the 16th day of June, 1924, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, on the 8th day of September, A. D. 1924, in liber 187 of mortgages, page 171.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned by Leonard Embury to the Farmers and Merchants Bank, a Michigan Banking Corporation, of Chelsea, Michigan, by assignment of mortgage dated the 1st day of July, 1925, and recorded on the second day of July, 1925, in liber 21 of assignments of mortgages on page 558 in the office of the register of deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan.

And Whereas, said mortgage was assigned by the Farmers and Merchants Bank, a Michigan Banking Corporation, of Chelsea, Michigan, to Leonard Embury, of Lyndon Township, Washtenaw County, Michigan, by assignment of mortgage dated the 2nd day of July, 1929, and recorded on the 19th day of June, 1929, in liber 27 of assignments, on page 155, in the office of the Register of Deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan.

And Whereas, by the terms of said mortgage, it is provided that in case default is made in the payment of any installment of principal or of the interest, taxes, assessments, or insurance, or any part thereof on any day whereon the same is made payable, and should the same remain due and unpaid for the space of thirty days, then, and thereupon, the principal sum of said mortgage, together with all interest, taxes, assessments and insurance paid, shall at the option of the mortgagee, become due and be due and payable forthwith, and default having been made in the payment of the interest and taxes provided in said mortgage, which default has continued for more than thirty days, the said mortgagee doth hereby exercise his option to declare the principal sum of said mortgage and all arrearages of interest and taxes due and payable.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice for principal and interest is the sum of One Thousand Sixty-Six Dollars and eight cents, and the further sum of Thirty-five dollars as a reasonable attorney fee, as provided for in said mortgage, and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of One Thousand and Eight cents ($1101.08), and no suit or proceedings having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder, at the south front door of the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, on the 2nd day of August, 1939.

Present: Honorable Geo. W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

On reading and filing the bill of complaint in said cause and the affidavit of Albert E. Blashfield attached thereto, from which it satisfactorily appears to the Court that the defendants above named, or their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, are proper and necessary parties defendant in the above entitled cause; and

It further appearing that after diligent search and inquiry it cannot be ascertained, and it is not known whether or not said defendants are living or dead, or where any of them may reside if living, and if dead, whether they have personal representatives or heirs living or where they or some of them may reside, and further that the present whereabouts of the defendants are unknown, and that the names of the persons who are included therein without being named, but who are embraced therein under the title of unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, cannot be ascertained after diligent search and inquiry;

On motion of Albert E. Blashfield, attorney for plaintiffs, It is Ordered: that the said defendants and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, cause their appearance to be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order, and in default thereof that said bill of complaint be taken as confessed by the said defendants, their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns.

It is Further Ordered, that within forty days plaintiffs cause a copy of this order to be published in The Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said County, such publication to be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession.

Geo. W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

Sparsely Settled Norway Has Influenced World

Norway is a rugged, sparsely inhabited land whose effect on the rest of the world has been out of all proportion. In ancient times and in the modern world, a vitality has gone out from its savage mountains and fertile glens which few countries, sleeping in the sun, have been able to equal.

The Norse people, 1,000 years ago, bestowed their enduring blood on neighboring regions over an arc of thousands of miles. England in particular, but also Scotland, Ireland and northern France, are partly Norse. This infusion, to be sure, was not by choice of the peoples infused but was the consequence of red raids performed by the dreaded

JACOB F. FAHRNER, Attorney for Plaintiff, Ann Arbor, Mich. July20-Aug31

Vikings over two centuries. The Vikings were not called benefactors by their contemporary victims but such centuries have proved them to be, for the Viking drops in the native streams have certainly had a quickening and strengthening effect.

Nowadays the Vikings sail no more, but the curious, vital principle which made them take to the lonely seas courses around the world in freshets of printer's ink. In the past half-century tremendous figures have arisen along Norway's stony coast; figures whose shadows stretch in all directions from the tropics to the ice. Ibsen is first of these; the passionate playwright whose genius struck shackles from the wrists of all who write for the theater, brought realism to the modern stage and proved that the playhouse might also be a social laboratory.

Genius of a gentler sort was Bjornson, less stern but also of enduring vigor. Most recently was Hamsun. Sigrid Undset is read everywhere on earth.

Durham Cathedral Owes

Site to Vagrant Dun Cow

Durham cathedral, one of the oldest in Britain, owes its site to the wanderings of a lost dun cow. A mild, plump beast, she still looks on from a sculptured panel outside the Nine Altars chapel, commemorating the divine incident that told a group of bewildered monks where to build their church.

The legend goes that the monks, carrying the body of St. Cuthbert, came to a place where the body stuck fast and resisted all efforts to budge it. It was as though some magnetic force had clamped it to the ground. "Which strange and unforeseen accident produced great astonishment in the hearts of the monks," says an old chronicler, "whereupon they fasted and prayed three days with great devotion, to know by revelation from God what to do with the holy body."

The revelation came. It happened that a woman passed in search of her lost cow and they heard another woman shout to her that it was "In Dunholme." So the monks went there and set up "a little Church of Wands and Branches." Such was the founding of Durham cathedral in A. D. 997.

The Simplon tunnel in the Alps, 12 1/4 miles long, is the longest railway tunnel in the world. It was built between 1898 and 1905 and cost nearly $16,000,000.

Will Labor Day Be A 'Memorial Day' For You?

Will You Come Back - - Alive?

By Fred W. Braun, The Safety Man

Labor Day will mark the closing of the outing season and everybody will take advantage of the opportunity afforded to enjoy the final holiday of the summer. You are planning a trip; of course, perhaps only a picnic—but whatever you do, wherever you go, you and your family will be exposed to the danger of accidents. It's fine to plan such a trip, to arrange the details, to contemplate the fun. Why not plan on coming back safely—alive and well; Determined caution and carefulness should be contemplated as well as the trip itself.

Your best insurance for safety is "Drive slowly—carefully". Don't be in too great a hurry to get there. What's a few moments or even an hour's time when it may mean a life or death or worse—perhaps serious, painful, lingering, expensive injury.

Think of it. Last Memorial Day—376 people didn't come back. Fourth of July 450 failed to return. What will be the score for Labor Day? It will be exactly what you make it. Only care and caution will keep the score down!

'Pop' Statistics

Americans are now drinking 15,000,000 bottles of carbonated beverages daily, according to a large manufacturer. This is equal to 5,475,000 bottles a year, or 42 bottles for each man, woman and child in the country.

Maltese Cross

The Maltese cross on German aircraft was changed to the beam-type around 1916 because from a great distance the former could hardly be distinguished from the insignia of the allied aircraft.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—What is the population of Tientsin, China? And also Fuchow, China?

Ans.—According to the 1930 census the population of Tientsin was 1,388,747; that of Fuchow was 1,491,143. The census was taken in 1929, but published in 1930. Both cities are now estimated to be over a million and a half.

Ques.—Why is it that bodies of prehistoric monarchs are still found to be in a state of preservation?

Ans.—This was done by mummification, an art of preservation known then only by the ancient Egyptians. Mummies so treated more than 5000 years ago have been found, and which were in a perfect state of preservation.

Ques.—With you please answer what is the meaning of the letters "D. F." after the name of the City of Mexico—for example: "Mexico, D. F."?

Ans.—"D. F." is the Mexican abbreviation for Federal District. It is a district carved out of the State of Mexico and made a territory, within which is the City of Mexico. Similar to our Washington, D. C., the citizens of the territorial district have no vote in national affairs.

Ques.—Why does asbestos not burn?

Ans.—Because it is an incombustible mineral.

Ques.—What is the meaning of the word "nemesis"?

Ans.—Nemesis is the name of the goddess of retribution, who brings down all immoderate good fortune. In our time the term is applied to those who continue consistently to defeat their foes.

Ques.—Is there any way secretly in which I can stop my husband from scratching matches on the furniture?

Ans.—You might try dipping a piece of flannel in liquid vaseline and rub the furniture—particularly where he has been in the habit of scratching matches. Then rub off with a dry flannel. The match will not strike, and it will not mar the woodwork.

Ques.—Do "prices" and "values" mean the same?

Ans.—No. The price of a thing means its exchangeability for money. The value of a thing is its proportion to anything that supplies man's needs.

Ques.—If a child is born on Friday what does it symbolize?

Ans.—A child born on Friday will be loving and charitable.

Ques.—Is it known when the last survivor of the American Revolution?

Ans.—Yes. The last survivor of the Revolutionary War died on Dec. 27, 1860. Incidentally he fought with the Patriots at the Battle of Bunker Hill before the war was declared.

Ques.—Did William Penn come to America with the first landing of the Mayflower?

Ans.—No. The Mayflower arrived on American shores in 1620, and William Penn arrived here in 1682.

A Tale About Cats
Everyone has heard the story of the two Kilkenny cats who fought until there was nothing left but their tails. The background of the story is that during the 1803 rebellion in Ireland, soldiers amused themselves by tying cats by the tails and tossing them over a clothesline. The commandant threatened punishment to any caught enjoying this "sport." Upon the approach of a guard, one night, a soldier took his sword and freed the cats by slashing through their tails. When the guard arrived, he was told the two bleeding tails were all that was left of a pair of fighting Kilkenny cats.

Miracle Numbers
While experimenting, a Greek mathematician found one number which behaves very strangely when it is multiplied. It is the six-figure number, 142,857. When it is multiplied by 2, the result is 285,714. Those very figures, differently arranged! The same phenomenon is repeated when it is multiplied by 3. The result is 428,571. Multiplying it by 4 we find, 571,428. Multiplying it by 5 we have, 714,285. When it is multiplied by 6 the two groups of figures in the basic number merely change places, 857,142. We continue this multiplication and a great surprise awaits us, for 7 times the number suddenly equals 999,999.—From La Pratikko.
