DEXTER—Some time ago when William Hainsworth, Jr., was swimming in the lake at Loch Alpine his willow, was taken from his clothes. Not having heard from it for some time it was given up as lost. However, recently it was returned to him by Jackson police, containing everything but the money that had been in it. The money had been removed and it had been thrown on the street in front of the home of James L. Lewis.

MIDLOTHIAN—Because it is rather br the beaten track, few people realize the extent of business that is transacted at the pickle station, maintained here by the Harbauer Co. of Toledo. The Harbauer Co. had 108 acres of pickles contracted in this community. Gerald Dunn, who lives near Waldrum, has six acres, which is the largest acreage under contract. An acre of pickles has yielded "farmers as much as $176 in good years. The dry weather this year, however, has shortened the crop very much so far. The pickles are sorted into six different sizes. The first three smallest sizes bring the farmer $2.00 per hundred pounds and the next two sizes pay 70¢ per hundred pounds. — Observer.

against our government, persons trained in the art of espionage, sabotage, riot and military tactics who are impatiently awaiting the call to bear arms against the United States in a bloody revolution.

In other words—a communist or a fascist—if you please.

It is common knowledge at state police headquarters that Communists played an important part in the 1937 sit-down strikes by organized labor.

Furthermore, these anti-American forces penetrate all recognized institutions such as colleges, churches and public schools to further a spread of their ideologies. Quoting from "War Propaganda and the United States" by Harold Lavinge and James Wechsler: "The propagandist has allies—the disgruntled, the discontented. In the democracies, they may be the Communists, the Left-wing Socialists, the Leftists, the Fascists, the defeatists." These groups provide a fertile soil for the seeds of foreign espionage.

Crippling Defense

One way to hinder American military defense preparations is to spread the doctrine of pacifism.

Lieut. Mulbar charges that Communists, engaged in this activity, are utilizing churches and schools to further their objectives. He backs up his statement by displaying a number of pieces of printed literature which he says were distributed by Communists among school students in one Michigan city this year. Dr. Alexander Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, became so disturbed over these disclosures and others that he declared—Communist students should be denied admission at Ann Arbor this fall.

"Facts in Review", the official German propaganda organ in the United States, has a reported mailing list up into the hundreds of thousands. Hundreds of professional people including college faculty members are on the list in Michigan.

Following a pattern set in the last World War, all out-in-the-open propaganda is aimed at upper class America. In April, 1917, when Congress declared war upon Germany and assured the sending of American troops overseas to Europe, the masses were quite indifferent to the Allied cause. Official propagandists centered attention on the public leaders, while their hidden agents spread jems among the workers.

This combination is at work today in Michigan.

War Talk Risks

With the rise of war talk by interventionists who believe sincerely that the United States is headed for a head-on collision with Fascism, Michigan is bound to experience an intensification of fifth column activity.

The centering of huge armament contracts in this state will contribute much to make Michigan a battleground for espionage, in the judgment of state police officials.

Previous to the fall of France, Jay Franklin wrote in Washington: "Irrespective of which party wins the election it is the view of American military experts that this country will enter the war within the year."

The United States News also observed: "Chance of United States' staying out of Europe's war is reduced. Nothing imminent; not this year; but Hitler is adding group after group in U. S. who will have a strong personal and sentimental stake in Allied victory. Result: every increase in prospect of British-French defeat adds to pressure for action."

This sentimental interest in the outcome of England's present do-or-die fight is increased in Michigan by our nearness to Canada and the residence here of many former Canadians. Counter to this pro-British wave are the Volkshunds which are numerous in our state and which hold frequent meetings—even rifle practice!—as their contribution to the Nazi cause.

Sabotage

Scores of Michigan plants have received important orders for armament supplies from British and American governments.

As long as the tempo of war action continues to mount, state police detectives are apprehensive agents will attempt to sabotage production.

"Thanks to the foresight of Commissioner Oscar P. Olander," noted Lieut. Mulbar, "the Michigan state police through the limited facilities of its 41 posts is keeping a watchful eye, as much as possible, on the activities of the fifth column throughout the state."

It is emphasized that the state police are co-operating with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the G-men unit.

They are ready for any emergency.

Candidate for State Senator, Twelfth District, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES, SEPTEMBER 10, 1940

Since 1907, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties have comprised the Twelfth Senatorial District. Oakland's population is now approximately 250,000. Washtenaw's population is approximately 80,000.

Despite this great difference in population, it has been customary to alternate the Senate terms equally between the two Counties, each County having the choice of Senator alternately for 2 terms, or 4 years.

For the past 4 years the Senator has been from Washtenaw County. It is now Oakland County's turn.

Ralph T. Keeling, of Oakland County, an attorney with 30 years' experience, is a candidate for the office, and would greatly appreciate your support.

This and That

By Gerald K. Miller

Perhaps 50,000,000 people will go to the polls this November to vote for our next President of the United States. Until then we will be forced to listen to a lot of oratory that will do little to influence our vote either way. Unless something spectacular occurs to swing the 10 per cent of those who have not yet made up their minds, they will vote in the same proportion as the rest of the voters.

There are so many issues being brought to our attention that many of us will vote without knowing exactly what we are voting for. We will simply put the X in the Democratic or Republican column and feel we have completed our duty.

Mr. Roosevelt made the assumption in 1936 when he won so overwhelmingly that it was a mandate from the people to do anything he wanted to. Nothing could be further from the truth. Mr. Roosevelt has accomplished many worthwhile social gains. Some were far overdue, others the country was not yet ready for. The result was misunderstanding, bitter wrangling, and a feeling by many that Roosevelt was actually under the influence of Communists.

On the other hand there have been many things that the people could not condone, even by those who had been ardent supporters of Roosevelt's administration. His conniving with the worst of political machines, his recklessness, extravagance, his attempted purge of faithful Democrats whose faults was they did not support him in his foolish and dangerous whims, his attack on the Supreme Court, and his attempted blocking of a free press are a few of the "experiments" that caused the whole nation to rise up against him.

The people of the United States who voted for Roosevelt this year are not voting for him because of his mistakes and because he has attempted many times to secure dangerous power; that in the wrong hands would wreck our Democracy. They are voting for him because of the many social gains made under his administration and not because of his mistakes.

Those who vote for Mr. Willkie have the same type of problem. Just as those who vote for Mr. Roosevelt do not vote for him for many mistakes, those who vote for Mr. Willkie are not voting for him because they are against the social gains attained by Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Willkie has made an enviable reputation in the utility field. He has accomplished as much in his field as Roosevelt has in his, without the costly mistakes. He lowered the cost of electricity over 60 per cent, and increased the consumption manifold, with a profit to the company. The government, taking over his company, as been unable to operate at a profit since they have taken charge.

Mr. Willkie's acceptance speech at Elwood seemed weak to many political observers. His foreign policy is practically the same as Mr. Roosevelt; he freely admitted the social gains made in the last eight years and pledged his administration to keep them in effect. He promised the farmers to keep the farm program until something better could be worked out. He was frank in every way, and spoke as honest and sincere man would speak to another intelligent person. His record as a man of his word and work, his efficiency, his ability as an executive and leader show that Mr. Willkie could and would be a president that the nation could be proud of and depend upon.

On the surface there seems little to choose from in the two men. They both express similar views on many of the outstanding problems of the day. However, studying further, we find that there is one outstanding difference in the philosophy of the two men, a difference that means much to coming generations.

In 1932 Mr. Roosevelt spoke bitterly about the concentration of power in the hands of industry, and said this was the major cause of the depression. The wrongs that accrued under this arrangement were not in the public interests and he spoke heatedly about how the concentration of power with any group led to many evils. However, since Mr. Roosevelt has had the Presidency he has spent much of his time securing more power until he controls the lives of every one of us. Our wealth, our everyday living, our homes, our babies, everything we possess can be controlled by the President. Mr. Willkie says that the power the industrialists held before the '30's was wrong, but it is equally wrong to give this power to the President. A concentration of power to one man, or a group of men will always lead to great corruption and breakdown of Democracy. History is on the side of Mr. Willkie.

How you vote in November will determine whether you feel the President and his advisers should have this power or it should be transferred back to the people as it was meant to be when the constitution was written.

Twilight Ball League

(By Rolland Spaulding)

Playoff Results

The final playoff games of the Twilight League got under way last Thursday evening with a double game.

On the north diamond Hi-Speed and Spaulding Chevrolet played a hard, tight game that looked like anybody's game until, with two already out, Spaulding's boys started a slugging spree in the fourth and picked up ten runs before Hi-Speed was able to retire the final man. This set up a lead that Hi-Speed was unable to overcome and the game ended in favor of Spaulding Chevrolet.

On the south diamond the big turnaround of the season was taking place. Cassidy Lake Tech, the 5 to 1 favorite, was behind. Federal Screw was in there with the best ball they had played all year and were leading by 1 to 0 score. Cassidy Lake had their first team string in the game, with Johnson pitching, but it seemed that the Screw boys, behind the brilliant pitching of Jim Allen, couldn't be defeated. Federal Screw picked up another run in the fifth and the game ended with Federal Screw on top.

Tuesday night, Federal Screw and Spaulding Chevrolet met for the final game to decide the championship of the League. Federal Screw crossed the plate for the first tally of the game and took the lead 1 to 0. It looked for awhile as if the Screw boys would repeat the upset of last Thursday, but Spaulding's boys came through, with smooth Chevrolet performance (had to get it in somewhere) and piled up a lead which they held throughout the rest of the game to win by the score of 9 to 1.

Thus the season ends with the championship of the League going to Spaulding Chevrolet and Federal Screw coming next with a close second place.
