Children Get Awards For Summer Reading

An assembly was held at the Chelsea public school Monday at 1 o'clock for the purpose of presenting awards to the children who participated in the summer reading program sponsored by the Chelsea Public Library.

The school, the library, and the community can be justly proud of the achievements in this program. Of the 55 record books taken from the library 27 were returned with number of books read varying from five to over 30. Twenty-four children had read more than 10 books and nine had read more than 20.

The High School Band, directed by Mr. Dunstan, opened the assembly with several selections. Mr. Johnson then presented pupils chosen from the various grades who gave brief reviews of books they enjoyed.

Third grade—Nancy White—The Poppy Seed Cakes, by Margery Clark. Fourth grade—Doris Downer—Flight of the Silver Bird, by Ruth Carroll.

Fifth grade—Wilma Paul—White Otter, by David Cory. Sixth grade—Paul G. Schaible—Silver Chief, by Jack O'Brien.

Seventh grade—Barbara Eaton—Dark Conquest, by Wm. Heyliger. Eighth grade—Ruth Ann Schenk—The Singing Tree, by Kate Seredy.

Supt. Johnson introduced Mrs. A. A. Palmer, president of the library board, who presented the awards to the children. Certificates of Summer Reading or Diplomas of Summer Reading were awarded to the 27 children who had fulfilled the requirements of the summer reading program. Nine bookmarks were presented to children who had read 20 or more books.

The following children read books numbering up to 19: Ann Lambertson, Jerry Lehman, Barbara Eaton, Eleanor Embury, Nancy Eisenman, Shirley Kolb, Helen Wellhoff, Dorothy Kaercher, Donald Perkins, Jane Downer, Lloyd Aberle, Raymond Steinbach, Floanne Longworth, Peggy Schaible, Norman Aberle, Paul G. Schaible, Alice Kaercher and Patricia Culhane.

Those who read 20 or more books were: Kathleen Eschelbach, Nancy White, Donna Perkins, Doris Downer, Leon Eisenman, Phyllis Stoll, Wilma Paul, Audrey Perkins, Ruth Ann Schenk.

Not only children of the Chelsea public school had entered upon this summer reading program but also children of St. Mary's school and of rural schools of Freedom, Lyndon and Lima townships.

These children who were not able to attend the assembly may call at the library for their awards.

This is a record of which all may be proud and it is hoped it will stimulate even more children to join in the reading program next summer.

Kiwanians Plan For "Womanless Wedding"

Plans are now well under way and arrangements are rapidly being completed for the presentation of the Kiwanis home talent production "The Womanless Wedding" on Thursday and Friday, October 24 and 25 at the high school gym.

A cast of 75 local business and professional men will take part—not a woman in it—and it promises to be one of the funniest, most entertaining and delightful home talents staged in Chelsea for some time.

The plot of the play centers around a high society wedding where noted celebrities, stage and screen stars, radio personalities and comedy characters gather to celebrate the event. Songs, chorus numbers and comedy skits are introduced during the performance, the evening culminating in a riotous and spectacular wedding procession.

Mary Ashley Law, director of the play, arrived in Chelsea on Monday and is working with the local committee. A rehearsal of the entire cast will be held this (Thursday) evening at the gymnasium at 7:30.

Proceeds from the play will be used by the Chelsea-Kiwanis club for the annual Halloween party for kiddies and young people of the community.

BRIDE-TO-BE HONORED

Mrs. John Wallace entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Monday evening, Oct. 14, honoring Miss Pauline Jones, whose marriage to George W. Thompson of Mt. Pleasant is an event of the near future.

The house was beautifully decorated with garden flowers. The gifts were hidden in different places about the house and the location of the gifts were found in individual balloons hanging from the chandelier.

Bunga furnished the entertainment for the evening, honors going to Mrs. Alfred Weinmann and Mrs. Anna Krumm. Refreshments were served.

Four Proposals To Be Submitted At November Election

By Gene Alteman
Lansing—What is the capacity of an electorate to vote intelligently on complex issues at the polls?

This question is again being weighed by political observers as the November 5 election approaches with a ballot of statewide proposals that hits a new high in "bedsheet" proportions. Capitol authorities here say it is the longest ballot of its kind in Michigan's history. Previous ones have at times carried more individual propositions, but the four proposals on the current offering require more space in print.

Of course the size of a ballot is not in itself the real point. It is the implication—that the long voting sheet with its confusing complexities will overwhelm the voter and result in a small and perhaps uninformed aggregate vote, that invites scrutiny.

It is not denied that the voter who fails to familiarize himself with the issues before entering the polls is lost, so far as voting intelligently on them is concerned. He is left to the choice either of voting by pure guesswork, or balloting "no" on the general principle that he is always safe in defending the status quo, or of not voting at all. And it is open to question which is the least hopeful.

On the ground that it's a good idea to look over all the issues before election day, here are the highlights of the four state proposals:

Proposition No. 1

This is a proposed amendment to the state constitution. It is designed to make it easier for school districts to finance the construction or repairing of buildings, by enabling them to spread their taxes for bonding purposes over a 15-year period instead of a 5-year period. The proposal has the support of the Michigan Education association.

According to many school authorities, it is practically impossible for some districts to enlarge their school plants or even to make necessary repairs because of the bonding restrictions of the 15-mill tax limit in the constitution. At present this allows a district to bond itself and levy taxes aggregating not more than 50 mills (or 5 per cent of the assessed valuation of its property) in any one year. (Continued on next page.)

License Plates for 1941 Now On Sale In State

Auto license plates for 1941 are now on sale in all branch offices of the Secretary of State.

To stimulate the sale of new cars, Harry P. Kelly, Secretary of State, authorized issuance of the new plates to coincide with the display of new models at the Detroit Auto Show.

The plates are the same size as those of 1939 and the uniform letter and numeral system (two letters and four numerals) is retained.

The color scheme for 1941 is white letters and numerals on a maroon background, this combination having been recommended by auto engineers, traffic experts, police, auto club officials, and other interested parties after a series of visibility tests at the General Motors Proving Grounds at Milford.

The new plates were placed on sale eight days earlier than in 1939 to correspond with the earlier date of the auto show this year.

Local Boys Arrested And Confess To Thefts

Six Chelsea boys were taken into custody on Sunday and Monday and confessed to being implicated in a number of break-ins and petty thefts during the past month. Arrests were made by Deputy H. L. Craven, and sheriff's officers.

The boys, ranging in age from 12 to 15 years, confessed to break-ins at several Chelsea business places, at a hardware store in Dexter, also several thefts from cars. They are now at liberty and later will be brought to trial in probate court.

Any people who have lost articles from automobiles may get in touch with Mr. Craven, who has recovered a quantity of the stolen property.

MEN FROM 21 TO 36 REGISTER

Registering of men between the ages of 21 and 36 for the selective service draft was proceeding at a lively pace all day Wednesday at Sylvan town hall, with a volunteer board of about 15 members aiding in the work. Final figures on the number registered in the township were not available as The Standard went to press.

Several Weddings Take Place During Past Week

Weidman-Taylor

At a ceremony performed Thursday morning, October 10 at St. Joseph's church Dexter, Miss Shirley M. Weidman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Weidman of Dexter, became the bride of Thomas A. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert A. Taylor of Lima township. The nuptial high mass was solemnized at 9 o'clock by Rev. Charles T. Walsh.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Edward Thompson of Ann Arbor, the groom's sister, as maid of honor, while Charles Weidman, Jr., brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man.

Lohengrin's bridal chorus was played by Mrs. John Thompson, and vocal solos were rendered by John Hoey of Dexter and Mauries Lyons of Chelsea. The ushers were Gerald and Philip Gardener of Detroit, uncles of the bride.

For her wedding Miss Weidman wore a dress of duobonnet velvet with matching turban and accessories, and a corsage of pink briar roses and mums. Mrs. Thompson was gowned in black velvet with black accessories. Tallman roses and mums formed her corsage.

A wedding breakfast for relatives and friends was served at St. Joseph's auditorium, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Taylor, a graduate of Dexter high school, class of 1937, and Hamilton's Business College, is bookkeeper for Montgomery Ward & Co., Ann Arbor. Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Chelsea high school, class of 1936, and is connected with the Michigan Chandler Co. They will make their home in Dexter.

Bareis-Heller

At a wedding which took place on Saturday afternoon, October 12, Miss Ella Bareis, daughter of Mrs. George Bareis of Lima township, became the bride of Carl Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Heller of Chelsea. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 at the home of the bride's mother in the presence of the immediate families, with Rev. P. H. Grabowski officiating.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and white chrysanthemums. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ella Bareis, who wore a blue tulle dress trimmed with velvet, and a corsage of yellow mums. The groom was attended by his brother, Leroy Heller. Miss Ruth Bareis played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The couple will make their home in Sylvan township.

Del Prete-Bycraft

Miss Constance Del Prete, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Del Prete of Ann Arbor, and Louis Bernard Bycraft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bycraft of Chelsea, were united in marriage at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Thomas church, Ann Arbor, with Rev. J. M. Lynch performing the ceremony.

A princess dress of white satin was worn by the bride, with lace yoke and full sleeves. A fingertip veil completed her costume and her flowers were orchids. Her sister, Mary Del Prete, as maid of honor, wore a pink beaded sash and Mrs. Helen Westerman, as bridesmaid, wore poudre blue. Both carried roses and sweet peas.

Charles Bycraft assisted his brother as best man and the ushers were Thomas Del Prete, brother of the bride, and Frank Nordlund of Chelsea. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for 35 guests was given at the Michigan League by the bride's mother. The groom's parents gave the rehearsal dinner Friday night.

The bride is a graduate of St. Thomas high school and is a saleslady for Montgomery Ward & Co. The groom, a graduate of Chelsea high school, is assistant manager of the Superior Dairy Co. Mr. and Mrs. Bycraft will reside at 217 S. Ingalls St., Ann Arbor.

Nov. 1 Final Date For Tax Sale Redemption

November 1, 1940 is the final date for redemption of any real estate tax that was sold at the May tax sale in 1939 and bid to the State.

If this tax is not redeemed the State will become absolute owner of the property on November 2. Any property owner whose tax was sold to the State in 1939, if he has not already done so, should not fail to redeem such tax not later than November 1 providing he wishes to retain ownership of the property.

Pedestrians have a definite responsibility for their own safety and the safety of others.

Two of every five persons killed in motor vehicle accidents are pedestrians. In cities, pedestrians have numbered 61 per cent of all persons killed in traffic accidents. I know of one community where only five deaths occurred in the last six years, all five were pedestrians, and all of them were over sixty years of age.

It is not always the automobile driver's fault. Pedestrians sometimes are very careless about crossing the street at intersections and intentionally neglect to carry out their part of the program.

They must be convinced that the program of pedestrian control is for their benefit and protection, and they should co-operate by complying with all the rules and regulations.

Four Proposals To Be Submitted At
November Election

And this increase is allowable for not more than five consecutive years.

The result, according to school men, is that some districts simply cannot afford to build new schools or add extensively to existing buildings. The tax load is too heavy during the five-year period, and they cannot extend the time. There are many districts on the outskirts of large cities where present buildings are so crowded that classes meet only for one-half or one-third of a day.

Genesee county has classes of 60 and 70 students to a teacher, which is considered far too heavy a load. The gymnasium platform in one such school has been turned into a classroom in the emergency. In Alpena the high school students are attending classes in various places because their building burned down and the district finds itself unable to finance a new structure under the present requirements.

These are the arguments advanced in favor of the amendment which was proposed by action of the 1939 legislature. In brief, the measure would allow school districts, for building and repair purposes only, to raise not more than 12 mills (instead of 50 as at present) each year for not more than 15 years. One objection heard is that the interest cost would be greater. That is regarded, however, as a necessary evil, as in the case of the man who buys a house on a long term plan because he would be unable to own one any other way.

Proposition No. 2

This is another proposed amendment to the constitution, placed on the ballot through petitions sponsored by the Michigan Merit System association. Its passage would write civil service into the basic law of the state, strip the legislature of virtually all its traditional powers over state employment, and place this authority in the hands of a four-member non-partisan commission functioning directly under the constitution.

The proposal was treated in detail in last week's column.

Proposition No. 3

This is an act of the 1939 legislature now being brought before the electorate for a referendum vote. It would remove the right of municipalities to operate buses beyond their own limits without being subject to state regulation.

Popularly this measure is known as the D. S. R. (Detroit Street Railways) act because it represents a fight between the city's lines and private bus interests over the suburban Detroit area. The D. S. R. is waging a vigorous campaign to defeat the measure. Bus tops and street cars in Detroit are painted conspicuously with "Vote No on Proposal No. 3" signs. The opposition, meanwhile, is plastering the area with "Vote Yes" placards.

Back of the controversy is the interesting story of a legislative oversight which occurred during the 1939 session of the legislature.

By way of background it should be mentioned that for years the D. S. R. has had the benefit of certain privileges granted in the city charter. One of these permitted it to operate without state control in and for 10 miles outside of Detroit. However, if and when its buses should venture beyond that radius they would come under the jurisdiction of the public service (or utilities) commission.

This was the situation up to 1939, when the newly elected Republican legislature followed the dictates of the late Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald and abolished the public utilities commission in order to remove some recalcitrant Democrats from office. The act which accomplished this purpose set up a brand new public service commission that was supposed to inherit all the important privileges and authority of the old P. U. C. There was one slip in the procedure, however. The legislators neglected to give the new commission the right to regulate municipal buses outside of city areas.

After the law took effect the howl went up from private bus lines who visualized the D. S. R. as being now in a position to spread out over all of eastern Michigan. And so the legislature passed an amendatory act to correct the situation.

It is this measure that appears on the referendum ballot.

Briefly, it amends the state motor carrier act, which was originally designed to regulate privately owned lines, so as to include municipal buses. This would prevent the D. S. R. from operating more than two miles beyond the city limits of Detroit without a permit from the public service commission. In other words, the D. S. R. would be obliged to haul in some of its suburban lines or submit to state regulation.

According to the private bus firms the act would equalize competition by causing the D. S. R. and any other city lines operating outside their boundaries to pay equal taxes and meet comparable safety requirements. From the Detroit city viewpoint, however, the act is an attack upon home rule and an attempt to penalize suburbanites who now share in lower fares the D. S. R. has made possible.

Proposition No. 4

This is also an act of the 1939 legislature put on the ballot by petitions calling for a referendum.

It would provide for regulation of the practice of dentistry in Michigan.

The act was sponsored by the Michigan State Dental society and is similar to laws in effect in some other states. The aim of the measure is to raise the standards of dental practice, but some of its provisions, particularly those which deal with the right of a dentist to advertise as he pleases, have met opposition from newspapers and advertising dentists on the ground that the law would abridge individual rights.

The society claims it has found upon investigation that so-called "bargain" prices offered by some dentists have the sole purpose of luring patrons to "cut-rate" offices where they are then victimized into paying more than the prices of ordinary practitioners. The society contends the act is necessary to correct such abuses. It would prohibit dentists from advertising by means of large display signs and would outlaw, in newspaper advertising and on professional cards, all matter except such information as the dentist's name, degree, address, and office hours.

PINCKNEY—The hard surfacing of the entire 23.9 miles of M-36 from the Ingham county line, north of Plainfield to US-23, near Whitmore Lake was completed early Thursday afternoon of last week by the Detroit Asphalt Co. of Detroit, who had the contract to do the work for $54,000. The job was completed in 26 days. Now a new paved road is available from Lansing to Detroit which is only two miles longer than the Grand River highway and enables motorists to make the trip and avoid heavy traffic.—Dispatch.

WILLIAMSTON—A light delivery Dodge truck was burned up in the street here yesterday morning, when the occupant of the car struck a match with gasoline fumes in the car. The driver is an employee of the Detroit Asphalt Co., who are preparing to do some repair work on M-47 here. He had gassed up his car near the railroad, and in filling the tank which is located under the driver's seat, some gasoline had been spilled on the floor mat. The car burst into flames and almost at once the gas tank exploded, setting the whole car afire. The driver escaped from the car before the explosion, however, and was unhurt. The cab, upholstery and rear tires were all destroyed.—Enterprise.

MASON—Postmaster Ernest B. Kelly announced Thursday that beginning November 1 Mason will receive complete city postal service with deliveries twice a day. Ever since 1929 when city mail delivery was inaugurated in Mason the patrons have had what is known as village delivery with one carrier covering one side of the city in the morning and the other side in the afternoon. Village postal delivery, with only one delivery a day, will be superseded with twice-a-day delivery in both the residential and business sections beginning November 1.—News.

October 31 Is Last Day
For Farm Tenant Loans

Washtenaw county tenant farmers or farm laborers who wish to make application for loans under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act should do so before the application period for this year expires on Oct. 31, 1940, Donald Kline, County Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration warned this week.

Under the FSA Tenant Purchase program, a limited number of loans will be made in the county this year so that selected tenants or farm laborers may purchase their own farms. The loans are made for a period of 40 years at three per cent interest.

Washtenaw county was recently designated by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard for inclusion in the Tenant Purchase program during 1940.

Only definitely qualified applicants are eligible to receive loans. A high standard of farming ability is a basic requirement. Preference will be given to family men under middle age who possess sufficient debt-free, or nearly debt-free, equipment and livestock for operation of a family sized farm.

Persons interested in filing applications may obtain complete details at the Farm Security Administration office at 343 South Main street, Ann Arbor.

A county advisory committee of well-known local citizens, consisting of Chas. McCalla, C. A. Carr, and Wm. Austin will be available for consultation with successful applicants relative to farms to be purchased, and the borrower is expected to recommend to the committee the particular farm he would like to buy.

MECHANIZED PREPAREDNESS

Mechanized and motorized forces are essential to telephone preparedness. In Michigan there are 1,275 telephone trucks and cars—most of them equipped with tools, power units and material. Their day-by-day work may not seem dramatic. But in time of emergency—flood, tornado, sleet storm—these mechanized forces can be mobilized like an army. For instance, following the 1938 hurricane in New England, Michigan's trucks and trained crews worked side-by-side in the storm area with others from as far west as Nebraska. Mechanized preparedness is but one of many reasons why this Company is ready to do its part in the program of national defense.

No, it wasn't SPEED we were after

THE mighty straight-eight that propels the 1941 Buick Century, Roadmaster and Limited is, we believe, America's most powerful standard-production automobile engine.

That suggests immediately that here is the instrument of great speed—but the fact is it wasn't speed we were after when we built it.

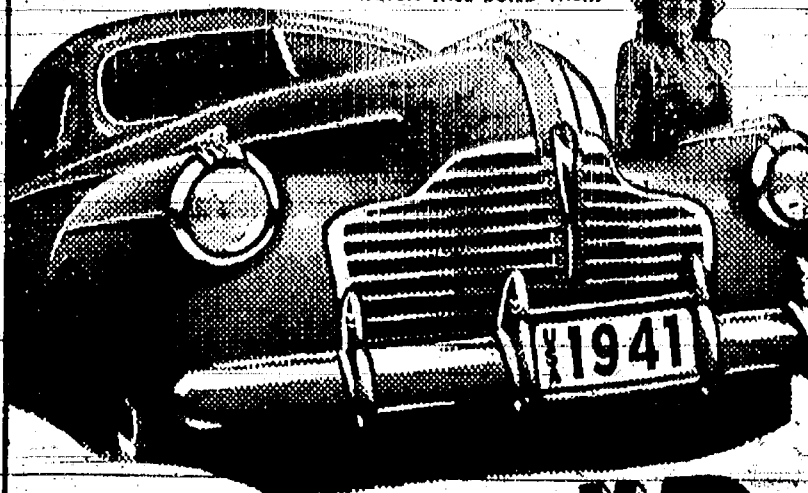

We were shooting for more efficient use of the fuel you burn—more economy, more power, more pick-up—yes, even easier car handling through less frequent need for shifting.

Consider, for example, just one quality of this great power plant—the tremendous reserve of power it puts at your command.

At 20 miles an hour this Buick uses only 7.4% of its available power—at 30 only 9.7%—at 50, less than one-sixth, and so on.

You can see for yourself how this tremendous reserve, instantly available, eliminates much of your need for shifting to lower gears.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

OLD BILL says "Here's what I think—"

"I see by the papers that the Gallup poll shows one out of every three persons hasn't made up his mind whether to vote four years for Willie or nine, ten, eleven and twelve years for Roosevelt.

"Well, if I were a veteran, I'd remember that Willie volunteered within 24 hours after we got into the last war. He won his captaincy by overseas service on the front line, not by White House pull. He didn't warm a swivel seat at Washington, either.

"If I were a rooster, I'd surely want to know how far the Brain Trust has involved us down a costly and bloody road to war. Who and where are those 2,000,000 American boys going to fight, anyway—in France again, or Japan?

"If I were a laboring man, I'd want a steady job with good pay and reasonable hours. I can trust a man like Willie, who rose humbly as a worker himself to responsibility as an employer of thousands of folks. He served even as legal counsel for labor unions, wants to preserve and extend our social security laws, and otherwise give the worker a real deal. I'd believe in a man who proved during the depression that it could be done—lowering consumer costs and putting more men to work, both at the same time! After all, you've got to have a job first before you can bargain with anyone.

"If I were a business man, I'd certainly remember the staggering debt of 60 billions spent in the past seven and a half years; the mounting burden of taxes, and the un-American ineffectiveness of class against class. Let's give business a chance!

"If I were a farmer, I'd think twice about today's low farm prices, our threatening national bankruptcy, and I'd support this next-door Hoosier just because it makes good horse sense. Here's a man who owns his own farms. You can't go wrong with Willie.

"It was Churchill, a few years ago, who said Roosevelt had failed to solve the depression here and was hurting world recovery. What did the British do when Chamberlain got them into the middle of the stream, even after the war was declared? Why, they turned to this man Churchill!

"I feel we're in the same fix now. It's high time we turned to our American Churchill, Mr. Wendell L. Willkie, while there is still time for us to keep out of war.

"Yes, they threw rotten eggs at him in some of the automobile towns. Well, some radical agitators threw more than that at the good name of Michigan in 1937, and you remember what we folks did in November, two years ago? We made no mistake then.

"Let's finish the job on Nov. 5!"

SPEAKS ON TRANSPORTATION
C. L. Athanson, transportation expert and lawyer, spoke before the Chelsea Kiwanis club on Monday evening. Mr. Athanson practices before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He told of the rapid advance in transportation during the last century, dwelling particularly upon the railroads. Not only have the roads made great progress in mileage but also in equipment. At the beginning of the present century nearly all track was 40-pound material, and all box cars were limited to 28 tons of freight. Now all the main line track is 80-pound material and cars are built and equipped to carry from 40 to 50 tons of freight.

Railroads play a tremendous part in national defense, and lessons learned from their experiences in the first World War have resulted in the organization of the roads under private management for instant action in case of a national emergency.

Mr. Athanson was introduced by Paul Holmes, chairman of the committee on business standards, under whose auspices the program was presented.

P. T. A. ELECTIONS OFFICERS

A meeting of the Jewett school P. T. A. was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eschelbach. Officers elected at the business session are:

President—Miss Frances Milbauer.
Vice-Pres.—Leon Chapman.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. Wilbur Hatt.

It was voted to have a program at the next meeting to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the school. Mesdames Leon Chapman, Fred Gentner, Walter Eschelbach, and Miss Bertha Spaulding were chosen as program committee.

A committee to arrange the yearly program will consist of Mrs. George Erke, Mrs. Clarence Bristle and Mrs. George Chapman.

Progressive euchre furnished the evening's diversion. Miss Milbauer and Wilbur Hatt holding high scores. Mrs. Elmer Bristle and Robert Steele, low.

A pot-luck supper was served, with places for 36. A wedding gift was presented Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bristle.

ENTERTAINS PRIMARY DEPT.

The children and teachers of the Primary department of the Congregational Sunday school were entertained at the home of Miss Bertha Spaulding on Saturday afternoon. Highlights of the afternoon's activities were a hay ride, a watermelon feed, and watching the milking of a milking machine.

A delicious supper was served. Mrs. Robert Winans of Lambertville was presented with a gift in appreciation of her work as a teacher in the department. The 26 guests who were present were given a favor and a watermelon.

Ladies' Groups of St. Paul's Church Meet

The Ladies' Aid Society and the Women's Guild of St. Paul's church held a joint meeting at the church on Friday afternoon to celebrate the anniversary season of the German church organization.

Singing "Faith of Our Fathers" opened the program, followed by Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. J. Fontana of Rogers Corners; song, "Living With Jesus," by Mesdames W. Kusterer, J. Oesterle, C. Mayer, O. Lucht, P. Niehaus, J. Strieter and O. Lindauer; report of Michigan Indiana convention, by Mrs. Lucht; song, "We Would Be Building," by the assembly, and an address on "Pioneers of Our Church," by Rev. H. S. von Rague of Manchester.

Members brought a shower of kitchen utensils and plans were made for the purchase of equipment for the new kitchen.

The Women's Guild then adjourned to the home of Mrs. H. L. Paul for a short business session and the following nominating committee was appointed by the president, Mrs. C. F. Dietle: Miss Cora Feldkamp, Mrs. W. J. Beutler, Mrs. Ernest Guenther, Mrs. Elmer Pierce, Mrs. John Metzger, Mrs. Charles Mohrlock.

Nominating committee appointed by the Ladies' Aid Society is: Mrs. Geo. Mayer, Mrs. August Hilsinger, Mrs. John Oesterle.

Sportmen's League To Hear Expert On Deer

I. H. Bartlett, of the Michigan Department of Conservation, whose chief work is deer investigations, will talk on general deer herd conditions at the regular October meeting of the Tri-County Sportmen's League. The meeting will be held at 8:00 p. m. on Friday, October 16 at the York town hall in Milan. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. Bartlett's lecture will be accompanied by a complete set of colored slides illustrating the welfare of the herd, what happens in the winter when the food gets short and the snow deep, different trends in the winter's food supply, causes and results of starvation, etc. This topic is one about which the average hunter knows but little, and therefore the talk should prove very interesting.

MISSION SOCIETY MEETS

St. Paul's Mission society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Breitenwischer. The time was spent in trying a comforter. The hostess served refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alvin Yail.

Junior News

Because they had to play a sales tax on their rings the Junior class met last week and decided that they would increase their class dues 25¢. This will make the class dues $1.50.

Girls' Sports

All the girls that play softball met last Tuesday and formed teams at the athletic field. For the third time the Freshmen and Sophomores opposed the Juniors and Seniors. It was a very good game with W. Schweinfurth pitching for the Freshmen and Sophomores and E. Schweinfurth for the Juniors and Seniors. The game was very close but the Juniors and Seniors won.

When the girls met again Thursday evening quite a few were absent and the teams were unable to play as they usually had to the Freshmen and Seniors were teamed up against the Sophomores and Juniors.

The two Schweinfurth girls again pitched for the two teams. In the first few innings the Sophomores succeeded in having a five run margin over the Freshmen and Seniors but in the last inning the Seniors managed to tie the score and get one extra run to win the game.

Senior News

The Seniors will take orders for doughnuts made by the Chelsea Bakery and not by the Michigan Bread Co. as before stated. They will be sold for 15¢ a dozen, the delivery to be made Oct. 23. Order yours now!

The Seniors decided to put the money given them for a weiner roast into the treasury.

Romulus Defeated

Chester completely surpassed Romulus in speed and maneuvering in the game last Friday, coming out at the end of the game with a score of 20 to 0. The opposing team was slightly heavier than were the home boys. The first period was a nip and tuck affair but with evidence that Chelsea was about to cut loose any moment, although the Romulus team had a reverse which kept them guessing quite a bit. A few little drawbacks kept them from getting a marker then.

The second period was different when Novess passed to Policht who crossed the goal line standing up with Novess converting the extra point. The boys should have done better for the half and Coach Cameron really told them plenty at half-time.

The third period found the Chelsea boys determined to do or die. The third quarter was very young yet when Policht crossed on an end run, Novess again converted the extra point.

Library News

The Library of Chelsea public high school is indebted to Miss Nellie Hall and H. D. Witherell for their gifts to the library.

Miss Hall presented the library with books of literature, including ten volumes of Cooper's Works.

Mr. Witherell's presentation consisted of science books.

We are deeply grateful to Miss Hall and Mr. Witherell.

Pep Meeting

The pep meeting which was held in study hall last Friday morning was sponsored by the Freshmen and in their effort to be original they were most successful.

The first number on their program was a presentation given by a group of band members and it was very well done. This was followed by several rousing cheers led by our new cheer leaders, Madeline Rowe, a Sophomore, Ruth Gracey, a Freshman, and Irma Brueckner, also a Freshman.

After that cries from the student body brought Mr. Cameron to the front of the room where he complimented the Freshmen on their giving a very unusual performance and the pep meeting ended with the singing of the Chelsea school song.

Small vs. Large H. S.

There are advantages in being a pupil (teacher, too) in a large high school but it seems to me that there are many more points in favor of the smaller school. A few of these points are:

First, the school spirit is much more real in a group where the total enrollment is not large—everyone knows everyone else and there is a more pleasant, sympathetic atmosphere.

Second, the community understands better the problems of the school because it is more closely and vitally connected with it. Consequently, the public patronizes better the various school programs, entertainments, athletic games, etc.

Third, last but not least, the instruction in a smaller high school should be better, and the resulting benefit to the pupil should be greater, because the classes are smaller and the teacher can give more time to the individual pupil.

Gaddin' 'Round With Gadd

With another victory under their belts the Chelsea eleven returned home after trouncing Romulus to the tune of 20-0 in a game which was fairly well played.

The home (Chelsea) team did not look too good in the first half but after some expert advice ?? from Coach Cameron they went out in the second half and scored two touchdowns which really clinched the game.

Romulus got away with some real gains by means of a tricky reverse but only once got within scoring distance when they got the ball on Chelsea's 15 yard line.

Tomorrow we play Roosevelt at Ypsilanti. It isn't far away and we expect to see a record crowd from Chelsea there.

Latin Club

On Monday afternoon, October 7 the members of the Latin Club held their first official meeting of the school year in the room of their sponsor, Miss McDonald. At this meeting they elected the following officers for the coming year:

President—Marian Masele.
Secretary—Marilyn Lyons.
Treasurer—Jane Schusser.

On Monday evening, October 7 about fifteen members of the Latin Club held their first informal get-together of the year. This get-together was in the form of a weiner roast held at Cavanaugh Lake. One of the main purposes of the weiner roast was to invite the students taking their first year of Latin to remain as members of the Latin club.

About seven-thirty the crowd broke up (after an hour and one-half of eating) and started home "chucked full" of weiners, buns, and Green Spot.

Teachers' Institute

The teachers of the Chelsea public school will be in Detroit today and tomorrow attending the Teachers' Institute for the teachers in Region Six. This is the annual meeting of the Michigan Education Association.

This (Thursday) morning and tomorrow afternoon they will attend the general programs given in the auditorium of Cass Technical high school.

This morning the principal speaker is Preston Bradley, who is minister of the People's Church of Chicago. His talk is entitled "What Are We Facing?" Tomorrow afternoon the principal speaker will be Channing Pollock, a famous lecturer and playwright. He will lecture on "Wake Up America." Musical numbers will also be included in the programs.

This afternoon and tomorrow morning sectional and divisional programs will be held. The teachers will attend those in which they are the most interested.

All of the teachers in Michigan are expected to attend these meetings of the Michigan Education Association and on these two days school is closed so they may do so.

Elementary News

Second Grade

We now have every seat in our room filled.

Delores Marshall came to us from the Collins Plains school.

David Crocker won first prize on his stamp collection at the Community Fair. He has some very exceptional stamps.

Raymond Steinbach won second prize on his collection of bugs and flies. For a second grader his work is quite exceptional.

Our display of shells proved larger and more interesting than we anticipated. There are many different kinds and many sizes.

Paul Downing took 1st and 3rd prizes on his entry of rabbits. They are fine pets and very nice looking.

We now are thinking about how we get from place to place and looking for pictures that tell about transportation. These we want for our scrap books.

Seventh Grade

Reporters: Donna P. and Audrey W.

Ann Lamberton went to New York with her aunt. She left Oct. 3 and came back Oct. 10.

The boys had a baseball game with the sixth grade. They played 5 1/2 innings, when they discovered no official score had been kept.

Barbara Eaton is going to give a report in the auditorium on Monday, Oct. 14.

These pupils won awards at the Community Fair on Oct. 4 and 5: John Wellnitz, Audrey White, Doris Nagy, Thomas Smith.

Our motto for the week is: "It's hard for an empty bag to stand upright."—By Ben Franklin.

Fish With Mousetrap

Mrs. W. O. Boland, Potaluma, Calif., made the catch of her life with a mousetrap when it snapped on a string attached to one of the weather bureau's small balloons which are sent up with delicate instruments attached for registering the temperature in higher altitudes.

SAVAGE SCHOOL NEWS

Enrollment 19. Those neither absent nor tardy for the first six weeks of school are as follows: Jack Lowe, Tommy Franklin, Maxine Ingram, Paul and Oscar Bollinger, F. Richard Schneider, Virginia Young.

The first teachers' meeting of the Chelsea group was held at our school on Sept. 26. At this time Miss Smith gave a demonstration in the use of the new Gates, Huber, and Pearson Readers. There were 14 teachers in attendance.

We exhibited at the Chelsea Community Fair and were placed second. This was an exhibit of our first six weeks' work.

Allen Geer is the leading reader. Wilma Franklin and Catherine Geer are next in number of books read.

The 5th grade has developed some new fine science notebooks. At present the whole school is working to develop their October Indian project.

Visitors for the month were Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Schneider, Miss Bollinger.

Catherine Geer, Reporter.

JERUSALEM SCHOOL NEWS

The first period of school for the year 1940-41 closed for the Jerusalem school Friday, Oct. 11. The following were neither absent nor tardy during this time: Alton, Roy, Ralph, Ruth, Earl and Dean Guenther, Joyce Hoffman, Lottie Valant, Donald Barth, Donald Koch, Robert, Norman and Carl Koch, Arlene, Haist, Loren Trinkle, Joan Koenigster.

We are enjoying our music work. The upper grades have learned three songs and one dance. The lower grades have learned four songs and one dance. We enjoyed listening to the Rural School Music programs broadcast from Lansing on Friday mornings from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock. We were especially interested in the broadcast on Friday, Oct. 11, because our school was represented by Joyce Hoffman who was one of the 50 children of Washtenaw to sing in the broadcast. We enjoyed singing in our school with the children at Lansing. We are ready to start one of our music projects for the year now.

Most of us are doing quite a bit of reading. We are anxious to improve in reading and get a certificate. The ones who have read the most books so far are Joan Koenigster, Arlene Haist, Ruth and Dean Guenther, and Carl Koch.

We are anxious to see our arithmetic graphs improve each week. Some of us find we need to try a little harder.

Most of us have kept our language scores up. We are working to get rid of "Aim" now. We will work on a new word next week.

We are working on our "October Book" in which we write about the famous birthdays or happenings of the month. Everyone in the school contributes something.

We are working on "Teeth" in our health now.

The sixth grade finished a good product map of the British Isles last week. They are now working on France. They have enjoyed their outside reading in the other text books.

The 5th grade are making a product map of "The West" which they are now studying.

We are all working hard to get a flag for good spelling. Our average must be 95%. Some of us have a hard time to reach that.

The 8th grade have carried out several experiments in their natural study. They have discovered many interesting things by these and also by reading in several outside books.

We have several pictures around our room appropriate for the season. We are all working to get "A" on our written work so we can hang it up for all to see.

In Art we have made flower pots and decorated flower pots. We have made button pictures. We have drawn some free hand pictures. We have also collected pictures for study of color harmony.

The visitors during the period were Mrs. Mildred Robinson and Miss Ida Detling and Shirley Barth.

We are now planning for our Annual Fair and Dance which will be held Nov. 8.

Doris Trinkle, Norman Koch, News Committee.

(Election Law, Revision of 1939) (415) Section 1. On the day of any election the polls shall be opened at seven o'clock in the forenoon, and shall be continued open until six o'clock in the afternoon and no longer.

Provided, That in townships the board of inspectors of election may, in its discretion, adjourn the polls at twelve o'clock noon, for one hour, and that the township board in townships and the legislative body in cities and villages may, by resolution, provide that the polls shall be opened at six o'clock in the forenoon and may also provide that the polls shall be kept open not later than eight o'clock in the evening of the same day. Every qualified elector present and in line at the polls at the hour prescribed for the closing thereof shall be allowed to vote.

The polls of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until 6 o'clock p. m. of said day of election.

REGISTRATION NOTICE

For General Election

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1940

To the Qualified Electors of the Township of Sylvan, Precincts No. 1 and 2, State of Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I, the undersigned Township Clerk, will, upon any day, except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said Township not already registered who may apply to me personally for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Second Saturday before any regular, special or official primary election and the day of such election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law.

Notice is hereby given that I will be at the Sylvan Town Hall,

Wednesday, October 16, 1940

the twentieth day preceding said election, as provided by Sec. 3, Chapter 3, Part II, P. A. 306, 1929, and Sec. 1, Chapter 3, Part II, P. A. 1939.

I will also be at the Vogel & Wurster Store, October 16 to 26, from 7:30 a. m. to 6:00 p. m., and on from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on each said day for the purpose of reviewing the registration and registering such of the qualified electors in said township as shall properly apply therefor.

The name of no person but an actual resident of the precinct at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election, shall be entered in the registration book.

Registration of Absentee by Oath

If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election or primary election, and shall, under oath, state that he is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the township twenty days next preceding such election designating particularly the place of his residence, and that he possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution, and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or of some member of his family, or owing to his absence from the township on "public business" or his own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his registration, he was unable to make application for registration on the last two days provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election or primary election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he shall then be permitted to vote at such election or primary election. If such applicant shall, in said matter, willfully make any false statement, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

Provision in Case of Removal to Another Precinct

Any registered and qualified voter who has removed from one election precinct of a township to another election precinct of the same township, shall have the right, on any registration day, as in this act provided, on application to Township Clerk, as the case may be, to have his name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he has removed to the registration book of the precinct in which he then resides. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made on any election or primary election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of such election or primary election of the precinct from which he has removed, a certificate of transfer, and presenting the said certificate to the board of election inspectors of the precinct in which he then resides.

Child Meningitis Deaths
Are Cut by New Drug

Deaths caused by meningitis resulting from common influenza have been reduced 20 per cent since the use of sulfanilamide and sulfa pyridine for treatment.

"Sulfapyridine promises to reduce this figure to a still lower level," according to Dr. Javier W. Linds and Dr. Clarence Rice, of Children's hospital, Washington, D. C.

These doctors point out that meningitis resulting from common influenza was the most common disease—excepting tuberculosis—found in children under two.

Dr. Sara E. Branham, senior bacteriologist of the National Institute of Health, reports that the two drugs had been valuable also in treating meningococcus meningitis in cranial spinal meningitis—in mice.

"Lack of security breeds fear. When you are obliged to consider the possible result of every move you make, you are cautious."

"You're afraid, too," she said barely audibly, as though the words had been forced through her lips. "You don't trust me."

He turned to look at her miserably.

"You needn't tell me. I know. Her voice steadied. "The things I have been thinking are true, the things I thought tonight while I was waiting here for you."

"What things, Gay?"

"That it isn't possible. We know each other. Love isn't enough!"

"Oh, Gay! I do love you!"

His arms reached for her. Passion flamed through the dark misery of his eyes. "I adore you. Since the first met you, when you were a teen years old, I've worshipped you."

"No! Don't touch me!"

She slipped away from the sofa, went to stand, leaning against the wall, her chair beside the hearth. He rose to follow her, dropped back at sight of her shoulders drooping, hands swinging between his knees.

"It's just biology, isn't it?" he asked with a little brittle laugh. "I hoped there was more than that. I had the naive notion that biology was only a part of it, that there could be companionship, too, faith and security."

"Gay!" He groaned.

"I'm beginning to understand. I wouldn't admit I've known but that. I guess it does you remember Christmas Eve in New York when Suki announced callers?"

He asked me what you should do to them. I think I asked you what you said to me. You said, 'I tell you, I love you. That's the only way we can say to each other without quarreling. What will we talk about when?'"

"But it—when we're together, we won't be here or in New York. There won't be people getting in our way, your family, mine—"

"I've told myself that, but it isn't true. We can't escape our environments. We'll take them with wherever we go. We'll quarrel, make up and quarrel again, but the quarrel will leave a scar. Let's spoil it, John."

He started up from the sofa.

"Gay? Do you mean?" he asked hoarsely.

She held him off with an instinctive gesture. "Uncle John may not know," she said steadily, her hands grasping the back of the chair— "he was dying. We must live, John and I. We can't let something that was beautiful become tarnished and scarred. Let's stop hurting each other. Let's end it now, neatly, definitely."

He stood beside her, at a little distance, his lips moving, his hands searching her face. She glared away.

"Do you want to do that?" he asked quietly.

"Yes—" Her reply was as controlled as his question had been. "I want to go home tomorrow and to forget you. It will be difficult, but I'll manage it. You forget everything, don't you, in time?"

"Do you mean that? Look at me, Gay."

Her head turned. She looked at him through a film of tears.

"I mean it—" Her voice faltered. Clinging to the back of the chair, she swayed as though her strength was gone.

He caught her, held her. For an instant they clung together, forgotten, despairingly, then she broke away.

"That doesn't change anything, John."

"Doesn't it? Oh, can't we, Gay? I love you so."

His arms held her again. Her face streaming with tears, lifted to his face. "When I'm with you I know—"

"Darling! How can we? I don't know."

CHAPTER XV

Kate sat up straight in the chair beside the long triple window in the Cameron's drawing-room, and closed the book she had been reading as Gay and Todd came into the room.

"Hello," she said, removing her reading glasses.

"Hello," Gay returned her greeting cheerfully.

"Hello, Kate," Todd said smiling. "Kate's keen eyes regarded him speculatively. "Where have you been?" she asked.

"Driving in Connecticut," he dropped into the chair opposite Kate's. "It's a heavenly day."

"Grand, Summer at last," Todd said beside Gay's chair. Look-especially handsome, Kate thought a kick out of telling people in a light flannel suit and a gingham shirt with a darker green tie. He accented the lights in his hazel eyes as well. But riding in Connecticut, Kate's eyebrow lifted. "Aren't you working these days?"

"This was business," Todd grinned at Kate with a light-headed air which raised the eyebrow higher. "An estate the bank may have a mortgage on. We were looking over."

"Gay must have been a good help," Kate said dryly.

"Moral support," Gay said, smiling.

"I've got to run along," Todd said.

"Will might be too early, Gay?"

"Just about right, I should say," Gay smiled lazily up at Todd.

"Your Dad I think it's a safe exception that the well-sweep of the picturesque, is a fake."

"I'll remember that," Todd said toward the door.

"Bye, Kate. Good-by, Gay. See you at eight."

"You should learn to control your voice, Todd."

"What big ears you have, Kate. Bye. Eight o'clock, Gay. I think you look too comfortable to move. I can find my way out."

His footsteps sounded along the hall. The grill of the lift shut and clicked. Kate looked at the leaning back in the chair beside the windows.

"Hate are getting crazier and crazier," she said.

"Yes, aren't they?" Gay poked the scrap of straw to which he referred.

"That one looks like a fez with the tassels. Are you a Shriner?"

"No, I'm an elk. Didn't know?" Gay spun the hat on his forefinger. "Any word from Mr.?"

"None. You're going out for a net?"

"Yes. And dancing afterward."

"Well, thanks for this glimpse of you."

"Do you mind? I won't go in to do. I know I haven't been in with you much and it was nice you to come in and stay with while Kitty and Robert are away."

"Go on. I don't mind. I'll Anthony here for company. Quite a lad, too. I've gathered from the fact I've read thus far."

"Do you mind, really?" said—

"Oh, go on," Kate regarded in silence for a moment. Then she supposed you know what you're doing?" she said.

"What do you mean?"

Glaunce turned to the window through which showed a glimpse of blue sky and early June sunlight.

"You know what I mean. I pretend that you don't."

"Todd understands."

"If he does, it's more than you break your engagement, the entire family, and then you need to spend a part of every with him."

"Don't scold me when I'm curious. Todd and I are just very friends."

"Which, I suppose, is the reason he comes in here fairly dripping moonlight and roses. There's nothing like a good friend to put a in the voice and a shine in the eyes."

"There's no pleasing you," Kate laughed. "When I stayed at I urged me to go out. Now I'm following your advice, you me."

"You have no sense of proportion. You either act like a hibernian ground-hog or a slightly intoxicated moth. You're going to hate Kate's brows drew together. frown. "You're so thin you scarcely cast a shadow and your eyes are big for your face."

"It makes me interesting."

"Oh, nonsense! I don't like you're doing to Todd."

"That should be Todd's concern shouldn't it?"

"I know. You needn't tell me None of my business."

"I'm sorry, Kate. It's all I. Todd has gotten all over being love with me."

Kate looked at her with an expression of studied derision which did not conceal the concern in her eyes. "I suppose you think charming modesty to pretend he isn't more in love with you than ever." Kate waited, then burst out: "What has happened? What John?"

"Nothing." Gay's eyes fell.

Kate's anxious face to the hat in lap.

"Excuse me. I've wondered, you've been so stately that I had dared to ask questions. "you—"

"Nothing," really. I hear from He's well and busy. There's chance of his getting the so work he wants in Boston. He particularly interested in ge practice and the doctor for who has been substituting has returned. I ought to start to dress if I'm going out. We're having dinner at Heron Club. The food isn't but the music is good. Denny O'connor is there again. I adore songs."

"That's right. Change the subject. Has something happened was afraid—"

"You were right. It isn't, it's worked out." Gay lifted shaded eyes dark with pain which contradicted the half-smile tremor across her lips. "East is east, west is west," as Mr. Kilpling put it out. What's that about the young man and the came—your needle's eye? You, with your training, should understand applies to young ladies who've too much money, as well as sagged down in the chair, her hair falling in a feature of hopelessness.

"I'm so tired. Kate—"

"Don't go out. Go to bed. Bring you something on a tray?" She sat erect, forcing animosity into her gestures, her voice a smile.

"I want to go. When I'm done where there are people—"

"Spring up from the chair, hold! I hate good times!"

"Gay! Kate rose and went to know. "There's no sense in this. Go to bed. You're as as chalk."

"Gay stood by the windows, looking out into the clear atmosphere still bright with the after-glow of the sun."

"Jun," she said, barely now. "It's lovely get the cabin now. There are strawberries in the me across the road and the ferns uncurling along the lane."

"I wish you'd never seen the in!"

"Do you? I don't. I wouldn't missed it. I'm grateful—"

"You're half sick, Gay," cried desperately. "Please bed."

"I'm going out to dance." She turned from the windows, notling at Kate.

"If it takes the rain to the pretty flowers," she sang at off-key. "Have you heard—O'Connor? He's marvelous."

"Well, if that's a sample—"

"Are you criticizing my voice?" She swayed toward Kate, draping her head against Kate's shoulder. "It just takes time, doesn't it? how much time does it take?"

The music stopped. Todd led to the seat against the wall, stered in peacock-blue leather.

"Are you having fun?" He himself beside her. "Hasn't happened since this afternoon."

"I am." She turned to smile him brightly. "No, nothing happened. Why do you ask?"

"You're so quiet. I thought enjoyed this afternoon."

"I did." She raised her head. "Did you tell your Dad that thought the property was a good risk?"

"You're unhappy, Gay."

"That's very ungrateful of me. When a gentleman takes a dancing the least she can do is bright and merry."

"I don't care about that." She face above the conventional and white of his dinner clothes very grave. "Is there anything can do?"

She was silent for a moment. Then, "I must do it myself, said, slowly, listlessly. "I have made it a clean break months ago. I've always done loose ends."

"Gay—" He bent toward her, you think of what I told you what I've been telling you spring?"

"Very often." Her glance then fell to the table. Her twisted the slender stem of the.

"Will you?" he asked very.

Her eyes lifted again, met his eyes steadily. "I couldn't do you, Todd."

"But if I'm willing to to chance—"

"We'll neither of us have peace," she said thoughtfully til—He, John— She, p—him to go.

"You know that you can't to me."

"Yes, I know. You've been Her voice faltered. "I can't you."

"You do—like me, Gay?"

"You are my best and my d friend."

"Then why not? You say that that John half expects it. We could be the most simple solution could go away, how, tonight, into Maryland. You can't like this. You're making you ill. I know you love him. you love me, too, in a different And if he's—"

"It would be a simple solution him, for me, too, perhaps. But Todd? You're too fine to have thing but the best. You'd be facing yourself—"

"To have you, even, the p you that has always belonged That's not a sacrifice. It's selfishness, Gay. I'm cor enough to think that in time—"

"And you're probably right don't know—"

CARD OF THANKS
Words cannot express our appreciation of the many kindnesses of our relatives, friends and neighbors shown us during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father, those who contributed flowers, and to Rev. P. H. Grabowski for his words of comfort; the songs rendered by Paul Niehaus. These acts of kindness will never be forgotten.

Mrs. G. Fred Gross and Family.

Children in Court
By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Public Opinion
Whenever one Judge observed that certain factors in the community were contributing to juvenile crime, he immediately requested all social and character building groups to bring pressure to bear on public officials to eliminate such unsavory conditions.

No mayor, alderman, sheriff, or prosecuting attorney would dare disregard the wishes of groups which represent the ministerial association, Parent-Teacher Association, Rotary, Kiwanis, Federated Women's Clubs, Chambers of Commerce, etc. To do so would not only cause an investigation by the attorney general's department and the federal authorities, but it would mean defeat in the next election, since such groups usually control public opinion.

No Single Program Superior To Another
Judges know that manifold forms of delinquency prevention programs now in vogue have not been sufficient to demonstrate to the community which plan is preferable to another. They realize that delinquency is frequently a symptom of social maladjustment and that it can best be eliminated by bringing about an improvement in the individual's school, home and neighborhood environments.

Many experienced judges agree, however, that the methods of attacking such problems are not as important as are the innate qualifications of the workers who attempt to cure the individual delinquent.

The curriculum in any delinquency prevention movement should include educational programs for all persons such as parents, teachers and ministers, who are responsible for character training of children. To accomplish this end, schools must be freed from the limitations set by state legislatures and be authorized to introduce the subjects of eugenics and economics into the school courses, and also to teach civic responsibility.

Practical instances of harmonious family lives should be illustrated to students; discussions on recreation, child care and budget should be held.

Plans for the individual development of each child must also be considered. To be specific, each community must so organize itself that it can provide the needs of the individual. These intrinsic needs can be classified as physical, emotional, and individual. In other words, the physical withholds a child the necessities of life, the emotional will cause him to have a feeling of security, while the individual will enable him to acquire certain well defined skills which he can utilize to his advantage.

Great Grandmother, 109, Decides to Settle Down
Senora Placidas Martinez Amarillas, aged 109, has decided to settle down in Mountain View, Calif., and begin the enjoyment of life.

She chose that particular city after a life of wandering because her youngest son lives here and there are enough children and grandchildren to keep her busy for a long time.

Senora Amarillas was born in the state of Sonora, Mexico, in 1830. She was one of many children, but as her father had plenty of land there was ample space for all to play without cluttering things up too much.

In 1865, when she was 35, she came to the United States with her husband and settled at Phoenix, Ariz.

Sixty years later, when the senora was 95, she heard of Los Angeles and came west to live with a son. There she enjoyed everything Los Angeles had to offer—from the Santa Anita race track to the Santa Anita picture studios. She admitted at the time she liked to be around where things were happening.

In 1935, however, at the more mature age of 104, she felt the urge of wanderlust, as well as a desire to see another one of her sons, so she took a bus and came to Mountain View, a mere jaunt of 420 miles.

When she discovered so many children—grandchildren and great grandchildren—at Mountain View, she knew she had found her place and at once took over life she had at 35 and became "boss" of the house.
