JOHN FINKBEINER
Representative

By Gene Alleman

Lansing — What they're saying around the capitol is that Michigan is as likely to have a bridge over the Straits of Mackinac as it is a new state office building here. And this is intended to mean that neither of them is very likely in the immediate future.But if one were to take stock in recent developments, it would appear that the bridge idea has the edge so far as possible early fulfillment is concerned. The least that can be said is that some of the obstacles in the way have been surmounted. Experts now say the span is feasible from an engineering standpoint, and congress only recently passed legislation which virtually authorized the state of Michigan to build such a bridge. Permission of the war department is still needed, but that is regarded by back-ers of the plan as little more than a formality.The big problem now is one of financing. The tremendous bridge would cost something like $26,000,000, which even the most optimistic supporter admits is a lot of money to raise. However, serious study is being given methods of getting that amount together and retiring the debt out of bridge revenue.Responsibility for pursuing the idea is vested in the Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority created by the 1934
Michigan legislature. This authority was directed to investigate the feasibility of a bridge or other means of linking the upper and lower penin-sulas, and it was authorized to issue tax exempt bonds, which, however, must be payable from revenues only.
Hence, if the war department were to approve the plan, and a means of financing it were to be worked out, there apparently would be nothing to prevent the authority from proceeding to build the bridge.There are many arguments pro and con as to whether the span is needed and whether it would be practicable.
Some of the reasons are:

- Arguments for:
1. Idea is sound from engineering standpoint.
 2. Bridge is necessary for economic reasons.
 3. Ferry service is inadequate and certain to become more so as traffic across the straits increases.
 4. Delay necessitated by long lines of cars is detrimental to tourist trade.
 5. Unbridged water gap between two peninsulas has effect of dividing Michigan in two.
 6. Ferries operating across straits at right angles to heavy boat traffic create a constant hazard.

Arguments Against:

1. Bridge not necessary — would serve no economic purpose.

2. It would cost too much money to be practical.

3. Not a sound engineering project.

4. People like a boat trip better than a bridge ride.

So much for the Mackinac straits bridge—an imminent reality to some and just a pipe dream to others.

Controversy

The state's office building problem is just as controversial. It doesn't involve as much money, but it goes back farther into history and generates sparks between the state government and the townspeople of a capital city.

It was a generation or two ago when the problem of crowded state offices began to pinch. Without going into too much detail it may be said to have started not long after the present state capitol, now a time-seasoned mecca for tourists, was erected during the period 1873-1879.

At that time Michigan's state government was a comparatively simple business. There were offices in the capitol for all the elected state officials, and an unpretentious state office building was built nearby to house additional necessary departments. Everything was on a cozy basis. The basement of the capitol, now known to visitors as the place where they may see Civil war relics in the musty rotunda, was nothing but a stable. The elected officers drove their horse-drawn carriages under the steps into the building and left them there during the day.

Cramped Quarters

Before long the state authorities found themselves outgrowing their quarters. One thing led to another and each new service to the public called for more employees, more equipment, and more space. To help take care of the overflow, offices were built into the capitol basement and the horses and stalls were taken elsewhere.

Then in 1917-1922 the state erected an expensive office building two blocks away from the capitol. Many felt this structure, at last, would answer the problem. But still Michigan's government continued to grow, and some of the bureaus hardly had time to get settled in their new quarters before they were hustled out to make room for expanding departments. One of the first to be eased out was the adjutant general's staff, which was moved into a Lansing office building in 1927, and is still there.

One after another, established divisions were moved out or newly created departments or bureaus were given quarters in privately owned office buildings, until today the state is paying out about $200,000 a year in rentals throughout Michigan. About one-half of this sum is paid to Lansing landlords.

But even at this cost there has been no permanent solution. In fact, state authorities contend that today the condition is acute. Space in the office building is so much at a premium that the health department has set up desks in the corridors. A novel device tried last year by the senate to relieve crowding in the capitol was the building of a sort of balcony in one of the high-ceilinged clerk's rooms.

To relieve the situation, the health department is erecting a building outside the city of Lansing near its laboratories which, when completed, next year, will house its offices. The exodus of this one department from the office building will, however, be but a drop in the bucket so far as the entire problem is concerned.

Some idea of the jumbled ramification of the state offices may be gained from the quandary of capitol guides. Sometimes they have been unable to keep track of shifting departmental divisions which are now here, now there, and have been embarrassed by the questions of visitors.

If someone asks for the unemployment compensation department, he is told that's in Detroit because there wasn't room available here. The civil service headquarters is in one Lansing office building. The welfare department is in another. The corporation and securities commission occupies still another. Conservation department divisions are scattered throughout three buildings. And so it goes.

From time to time during recent years someone has proposed that the state erect a new office building or add to the present one. The favorite suggestion is that the two blocks immediately west of the capitol be bought up and a grand new building erected, one that "would do credit" to the state. Such a structure would cost several million dollars.

Landlords Howl

A howl of protest from Lansing landlords and others interested in civic prosperity goes up each time such a proposal is made. The reasons for not putting up a new building for the plan are given up and the talk dies down. It isn't easy to overcome the argument that the people won't vote a bond issue to finance such a project.

In 1934 the electorate overwhelmingly defeated a referendum on a bond issue which would have provided for an addition to the state office building along with other structures. This has discouraged some who favor the idea of a new building here.

Perhaps that shows the difference between the two proposals. Mention the office building scheme and the result is a sigh or two; mention the straits bridge idea and a controversy ensues.

Record Travel Year Is Reported for Michigan

Lansing — Michigan will lead the nation again this year in rate of increase in miles traveled over her highways, it was estimated this week by the planning division of the State Highway Department.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner stated the report just compiled indicated 1940 would see an all-time record of more than 15 billion vehicle-miles of travel on Michigan streets and highways, or nearly double that of 1930.

Popularity of Michigan's highway system was credited by Van Wagoner for at least a major share of the tremendous increase. Said he: "From tourist questionnaires we have learned that 31.4 per cent of out-of-state motorists rate our highways as the principal attraction of Michigan."

Meanwhile, Michigan has again received national recognition for making its roads and roadides attractive. Writing in the current issue of Harper's magazine, author Bernard DeVoto states: "All other highway commissions could learn wisdom from Michigan's. It had much natural beauty to work with of course, but has made the most of it and has produced the pleasantest roadides in the United States."

"It has planted craftily and richly, so that one drives through a continuous parkway. And the parkway becomes a developed park at short intervals; there are picnic grounds, camping areas, thousands of roadside tables, fountains flowing spring water certified by the board of health, and innumerable ingenuities that gratify and refresh the tourist. That is a canny and thrifty way to build roads."

Next to its highways, the state's inland lakes and streams are of prime interest to the majority of tourists, according to answers received to the highway department questionnaire. Of the total, 27.5 per cent listed them on top, while the Great Lakes were listed as first choice by 25 per cent. Woods and forests were favored first by 16.1 per cent.

The replies also indicated that lakes and rivers are far ahead of the field as a function in promoting the enjoyment of the tourists, with 78.8 per cent picking swimming or boating as first choice. Fishing was in second place as the favorite choice of diversion of 32.8 per cent of the tourists.

Michigan Cows Top
United States Average

If production is part of defense, Michigan dairy cows are highly patriotic, for they are far above the average in the United States.

Similarly, says A. C. Baltzer, dairy extension specialist on the staff of Michigan State College, the animals enrolled in cow testing under the 87 dairy herd improvement associations in the state are also far above the average Michigan cow.

Here are some of the most recent figures:

The average cow in dairy herd improvement associations in the state is producing at the annual rate of 8,180 pounds of milk containing 337 pounds of butterfat. The average of all Michigan's 115,000 dairy cows is producing at the annual rate of 5,200 pounds of milk and 198 pounds of butterfat. For the United States—the average cow's yearly output is 4,538 pounds of milk and 179 pounds of fat.

There's economy in this Michigan milk production, too. It is pointed out by Baltzer: "Feed cost for a Michigan D. H. I. A. cow is $57 a year, for the average Michigan cow $45, for the nation's average cow $48."

To project this average picture further, the feed cost is used as 41 per cent of the cost of producing milk. This indicates a Michigan D. H. I. A. can produce milk at a total cost of $1.68 a hundred after including feed, labor, management, buildings and equipment and depreciation. For the average Michigan cow the production cost seems to be $2.00 a hundred and for the average U. S. cow it is $2.60. Consumers can interpret these farm costs by remembering there are about 46 quarts in a hundred pounds of milk.

WILL RAISE FUNDS FOR SCOUTS

Each year, during the first 10 days in November, the various communities of Washenaw and Livingston counties raise funds to carry on the work of the Boy Scout Council, which serves the communities of this territory. A large bulk of the funds are raised through the Community Fund in Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and Milan, but in each of the other towns a group of public-spirited men solicit their neighbors and in this way each community strives to pay its fair share of the cost of operation of the Council.

ENTERTAIN AT SHOWER

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schneider entertained at a miscellaneous shower last Wednesday evening at the home of Jacob Schneider, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schneider. Progressive pedro furnished entertainment for the evening, high honors going to Hilda Eisenman and Harold Buss, and low to Doris Schneider and Carl Burkhardt. Refreshments were served. The honored guests received many beautiful gifts.

"MICHIGAN IS SAFE WITH HIM"

To the People of the 2nd Congressional District:---

The American people do not want this country to get into any European or Asiatic war. They want an impregnable national defense. They are looking to their elected representatives in Washington to keep them out of war and to provide that defense.

To this end the Congress has been in almost continuous session during the last year. This has made it impossible for me to be in the district as much as is my custom. It is very difficult to be on the job in Washington while a political campaign is progressing in the district. I have felt, however, that my duty was in Washington, regardless of my political fortunes in the campaign.

I appreciate the confidence my constituents have reposed in me. It is my ambition to merit that confidence. I have no political platform other than my record and my promise to do at all times, that which I conscientiously believe to be for the best interests of my constituents and my country.

Sincerely,

EARL C. MICHENER

PINCKNEY—George Long of Pinckney township has purchased a Taylor airplane. These planes are made in Saginaw. He is receiving instruction from a Plymouth aviation teacher and so far has had ten hours in the air. When he has had 60 hours aloft he can make flights alone and with passengers.

MILAN—The Milan Fire Department was called out at about 7:00 last Saturday evening to fight one of the most stubborn blazes in this vicinity in quite some time. A passing motorist noticed the beginning of the blaze at the corner of a straw stack on the deserted Jorgenson farm three miles north of town on US-23. Before the fire equipment got to the scene a bucket brigade had extinguished flames that had caught on the barn against which the straw was piled. With the aid of a west wind the fire department was able to keep the flames from the barn. The fire, which started at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, was still smoldering Wednesday morning after destroying the 70-ton stack of straw and part of the surrounding fence. The fire department was held at the scene of the blaze until almost 6 o'clock Sunday morning in order to keep the barn from catching. State police were working on a theory this week that a firebug was operating in the neighborhood and had set two or three farm fires lately.—Leader.

MASON—Deficits may be counted in Washington and in Lansing yet in Ingham county black ink is still used for fund balances. In the annual report by County Treasurer Lyle R. Austin to the board of supervisors Tuesday a credit balance of $375,372.58 was shown as of September 30, the close of the county's fiscal year.—County News.

In spite of all the safety activities throughout the country, in spite of excellent engineering and well-trained traffic police, and in spite of all the educational work that is being done in our schools, we cannot have safe highways without good courts.

All of the safety work that is being done, such as erecting warning signs, carefully issuing licenses, building smooth road surfaces, and passing smooth laws, is ineffective if willful violators know they can get away with it.

Good laws become useless when the courts fail to back them.

There is a tendency in every community to have some influential people with the police department or the courts to try to "fix" tickets. This nullifies all the good work the police are doing, and breaks down the morale in the department. The justice of the peace, or even the judge in the court room, instead of helping a community and protecting its citizens, is doing just the opposite.

Citizens in every community should demand that this practice be stopped.

In making decisions Governor Dickinson seriously and earnestly considers every side of every problem with a single thought—"

"What is best for the people." Having made up his mind he drives a straight, clean furrow to his goal. No politeness, no influence, can shunt him off the course.

"Without fanfare or hullabaloo Governor Dickinson has put every state department to work. He has ordered expenditures cut, and they are being cut. He is boring steadily into the towering deficit left by the previous New Deal administration.

"A governor, to deserve the office, must appreciate that 'all' the people are a part of Michigan. Some of the governors of the past seemed to think that certain groups were the whole state. Governor Dickinson has the fine faculty of recognizing his responsibility to every man, woman and child.

"No man ever had greater sympathy for labor. He wants workingmen and women to have jobs, at good pay and with decent hours. He wants them to have good homes, and good living. He has worked hard to keep men employed, and to smooth out disputes. Honest labor will get fat pay envelopes as long as Governor Dickinson has anything to say about it.

"In Governor Dickinson's administration there has been none of the fantastic experiments which discouraged business and industry and decreased employment. He wants labor to work, and prosper.

"The incumbent governor is a farmer, and he knows the problems of the farmer. He is the kind of a farmer who gets in the fields and works, and who earns a living from the land.

"He is a taxpayer, and he wants taxes reduced wherever possible. We don't have to worry about taxes being increased under Governor Dickinson. His philosophy of government is to eliminate extravagances so we may have ample funds to care for the needy and the aged, and still give those who must pay the bill a chance to keep their heads above water.

"The biggest items in Governor Dickinson's program for the conduct of state government are honesty and uprightness. They cover a lot of ground. They just about sum up everything that is necessary to good government. As I see it, we can feel very safe with the steady hand of a man like that at the helm.

"Let's finish the job on Nov. 5!"

Approve New Plan for Telephone Construction

Lansing—The Public Service Commission this week extended the installment payment plan to the financing of rural telephone construction throughout the territory of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

That was accomplished through the issuance of an order approving a new rural telephone construction plan recommended by farm leaders and described by the Michigan Bell Company as the most liberal in the history of communications in this state.

The plan will permit applicants for rural service to pay for line extensions, beyond an initial non-chargeable allowance, in monthly installments over a 5-year period. Always in the past, these charges had to be paid in a lump sum in advance of construction.

Friends of the plan cited other advantages. For one thing, the maximum construction charge, beyond the initial allowance, is scaled down from $300 to $279 a mile under the new plan. No charge will be made for wire connecting the main line to the house up to 500 feet from the highway with a charge of 5 cents a foot beyond that distance. New construction will be located on private right-of-way supplied by the applicants, a provision which will tend to eliminate the hazard of tree interference that is sometimes met along lines that follow the highway.

Under the plan, no construction charge will be made if the number of applicants averages one per 3-10 mile of rural line extension. If the number does not reach that average, the cost will be met by a charge of 45 cents a month per 1-10 mile in excess of this initial allowance, and will be prorated among applicants served by the extension. Payments will extend over a 5-year period. The plan also provides that the monthly installments will be reduced as additional applicants are served along a particular line extension.

Company officials will place the plan into effect as early as possible. An informational program will be conducted among rural residents to acquaint them with its provisions.

The plan originally was recommended by farm leaders comprising the Michigan Rural Communications Committee. They are: Clark L. Brady, Lansing, executive secretary of the Michigan State Farm Bureau; W. G. Armstrong, Niles, master of the Michigan State Grange; Burt Wennuth, Detroit, manager of the Michigan Farmers' E. B. Ungren, Lansing, and Stanley M. Powell, Lonia, both of the Farm Bureau; and R. E. Decker, assistant state county agent leader; and D. G. Rhinberg, rural electrification specialist, both of Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Bloodstone's Composition

The bloodstone is a species of chalcedony and is a green siliceous stone flecked with red jasper as if with blood, hence the name. The stone is also known as heliotrope, which word comes from Greek words meaning the sun, and to turn.

Iodine a By-Product

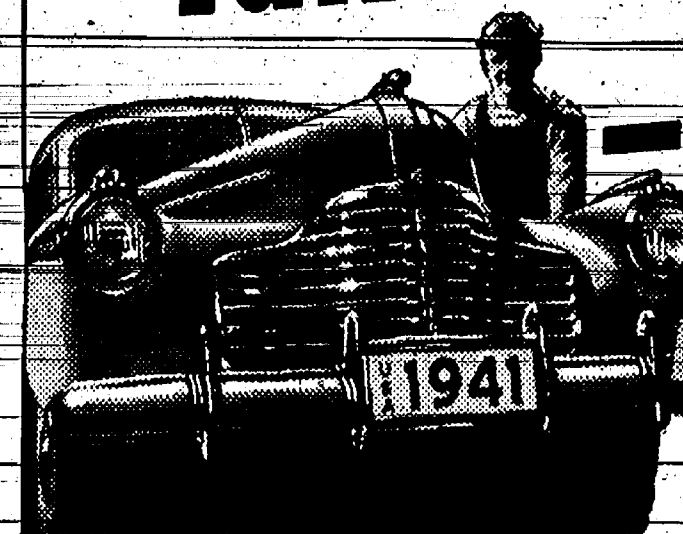

About 90 per cent of the world's supply of iodine is a by-product of Chilean nitrate.

Greenland the Largest

"Take it away, mister — it's the best yet!"

OUT in the vast Buick plants you'll find men who were building motor cars when many of us were looking forward to our first long pants.

So when these veterans talk about 1941 models, you're listening to Old Man Experience himself.

And straight from the shoulder these old-timers will tell you that the Buicks now coming off the assembly lines top anything produced since the first "one-lunger" chugged its way down the street.

They're handsomer carriages — bigger, roomier, steadier.

Their new FIREBALL* engines, micropoise-balanced to vibrationless ease, carry Buick's exclusive Dynaflex principle to new heights of brilliance while actually getting 10% to 15% more miles per gallon.

They ride easier, handle more nimbly, surround you with new travel-luxury — but this modelwise fellow means more than that when he says "the best yet" is waiting for you.

He means that we have never before built automobiles so good as these — never before have we so successfully contrived to give you maximum contentment with your automobile.

Heart and soul he believes in this new Buick — the best Buick yet.

So do we. And before very long, we think, so will you.

CLINIC AT PUBLIC SCHOOL

Dear Parents:

Are your children protected against diphtheria, should a case develop in your community? Reports from the State Health Department tell that there are a number of cases of diphtheria in Jackson which is not far from our county line.

In order to prevent such a thing from happening in your community, the doctors in Chelsea will sponsor a clinic at the public school gymnasium on Friday, Oct. 25 at 9:30 a. m.

Toxoid to prevent diphtheria will be given to children as young as six months and not older than twelve.

Schick tests will be given to those who have previously had Toxoid. A Schick test should be repeated every five years.

Vaccination to prevent smallpox will also be given to babies as young as six months and all ages of school children. A vaccination should also be repeated every five years.

The fee for this immunization is 25c per treatment as has been the custom in previous years. Those children who do not have the quarter will be treated anyway. No child should stay away because of the fee.

After six months of age children become susceptible to communicable diseases, so we are especially anxious to have the little ones come to clinic.

Chelsea and surrounding territory will be under the supervision of a group of local women who will call on all families who do not have children in school. All school children will receive Permission Blanks from the teachers.

F. F. A. News

The F. F. A. held its annual initiation a week ago Monday night, where the following boys joined the club: Ray McBaid, Carl Sanderson, Dick Umstead, Joe Merkel, Glen Hatley and Charles Downer.

The committee for the initiation was headed by Roy Brosamle. The program for the year was also made out.

Girls' Athletics

The Girls' Athletic Association held their first business meeting last week. The following people were elected to office for the year:

President—Helen Miller.
Vice-President—Margaret Harper.
Secretary—Betty Fletcher.

A committee was appointed by the president to draw up a constitution for the club. The committee consists of Margaret Harper, Helen Miller, Lois Palmer and Peggy Almond.

Office News

Miss Vosbrink of Michigan State College, East Lansing, was much impressed when she visited the Home Economics Department.

All teachers attended the M. E. A. Regional Conference, Thursday and Friday of last week.

Look for the men teachers in the "Womanless Wedding", sponsored by the Kiwanis club, October 24 and 25.

Court of Honor for the Boy Scouts of the Copeland District was held last week.

Home Economics

On Monday, October 14 the Home Ec. Club held a meeting. The aims of the club are to do something for the school, the club, and the community. Some of our plans for the future are to have a gift shop at Christmas time. The girls are divided into two teams to see which can make the most gifts. The teams are under the leadership of June Crawford and Nancy Fleming.

The club is also planning to dress dolls to be given to unfortunate children. Do your part by contributing your old dolls now!

Sophomores

Tickets are now ready for distribution and sale. What tickets? Those for the Amateur Show! Any day now you may expect Luther Kusterer and his sophomore committee of high-pressure salesmen to descend upon you.

Reservations for spots on the program and requests for out-of-town ticket sales have begun to come in. Reservations from Chelsea have been a little slow, but are commencing too.

Paul Niehaus will again act as master of ceremonies. All who attended will remember his capable handling of the post last year.

The Speech class is busy preparing a one act play, "Who Gets the Car Tonight?" which will be presented Saturday, November 9. While the judges are making their decision.

Gaddin' Round With Gadd

Although the opponents' score was largest last Friday, the home team came away with a moral victory.

"We will miss the loss of our swell center, Bob Strieter, though, who as most of you know by now, suffered a fractured collar bone in the second play of the game, but who continued playing eight minutes longer until finally the pain got the best of him and he had to leave the game." The necessary shifting left guard Knickerbocker to center and putting Schmidt in at left guard. Knickerbocker played a good game at a comparatively strange position.

We had a good crowd for an away game but there could have been more seeing it was a game when there was no school.

We have a home game Friday afternoon tomorrow night at home and let's have everybody out to support the team and give a cheer now and then.

Hi-Y News

A delegation of five boys went to Ann Arbor last Thursday to attend the Fall District Conference of the Hi-Y.

John Hale, who is president of the local club, and who is also District Committeeman, presided over the meeting there. At the evening session, held at the Y. M. C. A. (the afternoon at the new Methodist church) John gave a very interesting talk on his trip to Oberlin, Ohio, where the National Hi-Y Conference was held last summer.

During the regular meeting on Thursday the formal initiation of the new members was held. Those who were initiated are: Norman Niehaus, Stanley Koneski, Gerald Hoover, Bob Fitzsimmons, Charles Lane, and Dick Schmidt.

The Hi-Y boys are selling pins again this year. This time they are football pins and really are nice. They also have begun their Christmas card sale. Any one of the boys will be glad to take your order.

The Amateur Hour

The Sophomore class of Chelsea high school is sponsoring a series of "Amateur Performances" on November 7, 8 and 9, 1940, because they believe that a wealth of talent and entertainment ability exists in the Chelsea area. Any honest-to-goodness amateur may participate in these programs. Registration blanks should be obtained from Bob Strieter or Miss Fox, co-chairmen of the committee, as this will enable her and other committee members to arrange the programs so they will be more interesting. Up to this date reservations have been slow. Elimination programs will be held on November 7 and 8. On November 9 the final judging will be held.

The following prizes will be awarded Saturday evening: First prize is $5; second is $3; third is $2; and other cash awards will be given for each act appearing on the program.

On Saturday evening, November 9, during the intermission while the judges are making their decisions, the Dramatics class will present a short comic skit entitled "Who Gets the Car Tonight?" by Christopher Sergil. This play centers around an evening in the Jones' home. Mrs. Jones wants to go to a party. Mr. Jones wants to stay home. Mary, aged 18, wants the car for her date and Paul, aged 17, wants to have it for his. The scramble situation is not improved any when Dad suddenly goes old-time parent on them and tells Mary and Paul that they have been staying out too late, driving too far and too fast, and that they cannot have the car! Tonight—Dad drives the car. Though Mary wheedles and Paul bribes, Dad sticks to his ruling, up to the funny surprise ending.

The 2,000 tickets for the Amateur Hour have arrived and will go on sale as soon as possible. Either single or series tickets may be bought. Any person selling these tickets will receive a commission—one free ticket for every ten sold.

Jane Schlusser, Ruth Collins.

Football

Chelsea High has passed the half-way mark in its 1940 schedule only to find itself in the 500 class. Of course there have been mistakes, lots of them, but after all the boys have profited from them and are able to look back and say "We've had a hard pull and some tough breaks, but we're here and not so bad off either."

The going from now on is not going to be easy. There will be hard spots and any glory will be the result of cooperation on the part of every member of the team.

Last Friday Roosevelt proved to be tough in more ways than one and for some reason Chelsea was never given a single break. The final result was Roosevelt 13, Chelsea 7.

This rather even thing since Chelsea beat them last year.

Roosevelt made their first 6 points by the T. D. route on a 65 yard run of a punt. They lost their chance for placement on a penalty. Their second score was a result of a 10 yard run around end.

Chelsea made their lone touchdown on a pass from Policht to Novess who caught it in the midst of the Roosevelt backs but got away for a 75 yard touchdown run. Novess added the extra point.

Chelsea suffered its first serious injury on the second play of the game when Bob Strieter, our dependable center, received a fracture of the collar bone. His grit and determination carried him for most of the first period but the pain became too great to bear and stay in the game.

Shifting Knickerbocker to center weakened the left side of the line and proved advantageous for Roosevelt.

In the first of the third quarter Dwight Gadd, trying to recover a Chelsea fumble, got several vertebrae misplaced when the Roosevelt center fell on his back but will be alright by the middle of the week. Again school spirit kept an injured player in until the end of the game. This injury, however, was slight compared with Bob Strieter's.

Next week the game will be at home, when Milan comes to Chelsea. The local boys are confident of giving their roots a chance to see them "pull some chestnuts from the fire." Come on out and show your home team that you are pulling for them.
