LEGION CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

The 22nd birthday of Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31, The American Legion, was celebrated Monday night with a dinner at Kolb's hall, with Auxiliary members as guests. The table decorations featuring St. Patrick's day were carried out with potted plants and a three-tiered birthday cake in green and white. Mint cups had the same color motif, as did the St. Patrick hats, which were presented as souvenirs. The cake was cut by Mrs. John Bird, president of the Auxiliary. Bingo furnished diversion for the evening.

YOUTH INJURED

J. C. Geer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Geer of Sylvan township, was injured Friday night while enroute to Chelsea to procure a doctor for his mother. Turning out for a passing motorist, he ran into a tree south of the Keolan hill, suffering severe scalp injuries, a sprained shoulder, and leg injuries. He was taken to St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor.

LENTEN MESSAGE

By Rev. Father L. L. Dorr

The forty days of Lent were instituted by the Church for the purpose of calling all men to penance. Whenever sin has intruded itself into our lives and whenever we have been estranged from God through violation of His laws, then penance is necessary as an antidote and a corrective.

Negation of God and irreligion are chiefly to blame for the momentous events that are shaping the world today. These Lenten days should help us to recognize that a religion and spiritual regeneration of our individual hearts will give a true Christian solution of our problems.

This is the only way lasting peace will be established—not peace at any price or any kind, but a true peace of justice and righteousness. This peace begins in our own hearts and radiates to all the world. It is the peace of Easter.

Officers Elected By Public Library Board

At the first regular meeting of the board of trustees for the Chelsea Public Library the following officers were elected to serve for the year beginning March 17, 1941:

President—Mrs. A. A. Palmer.
Vice President—Mrs. Waldo Kusterer.
Secretary—Mrs. Warren Daniels.
Treasurer—Henry C. Schneider.
The following committees were appointed by the president:

Administration—Walter Harper, Mrs. Warren Daniels.
Public Relations—Henry Schneider, Books—Mrs. P. G. Schaible, Mrs. Waldo Kusterer.
Publicity—Mrs. P. G. Schaible.

In order to meet the demands of the library patrons who are not free during the afternoon period, it was decided to open the library Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings from 7 to 9, beginning Monday, March 24.

Coldest Day of Winter Registered on Monday

Chelsea and vicinity experienced the coldest day of the winter on Monday. Shortly after noon on Sunday the thermometer registered 12 degrees with a southwest wind blowing. By mid-afternoon the wind became a gale and shifted into the northwest with rain, sleet and snow falling. Monday morning the temperature was about five degrees above, with a hard wind blowing which continued throughout the day and night, and gradually diminishing on Tuesday. The highest temperature on Monday was 14.

At seven o'clock on Sunday evening the wind snapped an electric wire on West Middle street and several houses in the vicinity were without electricity throughout the night. Electricians worked all night and Monday locating and repairing the damage.

With a bright sun shining on Tuesday the thermometer reached the low 20s and the temperature was higher on Wednesday. The storm was evidently a farewell party for the winter season as spring begins today at 6:20 p. m.

CRASH CAUSES INJURIES

Stella Tobiezyk and Jeanne Kozek of Detroit and Stanley Adamus of Fort Custer were injured Sunday afternoon when the car driven by Miss Tobiezyk collided with one driven by Herbert Bertrand of Detroit near the Eugene Koch farm, nine miles west of Chelsea on US-12.

State police who investigated the accident reported that Miss Tobiezyk lost control of her car while driving west and struck the left side of the westbound car driven by Bertrand. She received a five-inch laceration on her right shoulder, an abrasion on her left hip and multiple contusions about the left side of her body. Miss Kozek received a mild concussion and Adamus abrasions to the right arm and elbow. All were treated at Foote hospital, Jackson. Both cars, which were extensively damaged, were brought to Hart's garage.

New Ruling By Health Dept. Backs Teachers

Teachers who send home boys or girls appearing with watery eyes, inflamed throats, fever or rash now have the authority of the Michigan Department of Health for their action in protecting the health of their pupils.

Symptoms such as these may mean anything from measles to smallpox, and are sufficient reason for exclusion by the teacher under a new ruling of the State Council of Health.

"Good teachers have always been alert to the early symptoms of communicable disease, and have promptly excluded pupils showing such symptoms," says Dr. H. Allen Meyer, State Health Commissioner. "Now for the first time teachers are given the backing of an official regulation of the Michigan Department of Health. Home and school cooperation in excluding boys and girls with suspicious symptoms of communicable disease may be the means of preventing epidemics."

The new ruling of the State Council of Health puts our Health Department regulations in line with the best school health practice of today. The Department of Public Instruction is in hearty agreement with this policy of teacher responsibility. There are times when boys and girls ought not to be in school, both for their own good and for the protection of their classmates. We have outgrown the idea that a perfect attendance record should be achieved even at a risk to health.

Central Fibre Employees Honor H. C. Schneider

Henry C. Schneider, who served as vice-president of the Central Fibre Products Co. for the past four years, has announced his retirement from active service.

On Thursday evening, employees of the company honored Mr. and Mrs. Schneider with a complimentary party at Kolb's hall. A chicken dinner was served, with places for 64. Mrs. Schneider was presented with a bouquet of roses, and Mr. Schneider with a pen and pencil set.

Garnett Weir, oldest employee in point of service, was master of ceremonies. A talk was given by D. H. Bacon, president of the Central Fibre Products Co., a poem, written by Henry Schneider, an employee, was read by Mrs. Ren Hutzel, and remarks were made by E. W. Eaton, secretary-treasurer of the company.

Evening Ag Class Will Hold Social Meeting

The Chelsea high school agricultural evening class will hold its final meeting tonight (Thursday) in the home economics room. Having held nine instructional meetings, this one will be of a social character for the families of members.

Forty-two farmers have been enrolled in this class during the winter. The course of study has centered around dairy, sheep and poultry management. Although this is the third year Chelsea has had such a school only about eighty such classes are being held throughout the state.

Tonight's meeting will be a potluck supper. A short program will be given. Achievement cards will be awarded those who have attended twenty-five per cent or more of the meetings.

BAUER-KEEZER WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Lillian Bauer, daughter of George Bauer, and Donald Keezer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keezer, both of Lyndon township, took place at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, March 14, at St. Paul's parsonage, with Rev. P. H. Grabowski officiating. The attendants were Mrs. Clarence G. Hinderer of Lima, sister of the bride, and Chester Keezer, brother of the groom.

A wedding supper for the immediate families was served after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hinderer.

On their return from a wedding trip to Rentrow Valley, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Keezer will make their home with the bride's father, George Bauer, in Lyndon township.

LAFAYETTE GRANGE

A meeting of Lafayette Grange was held Thursday evening, opening with the song "He Leadeth Me." Roll call was answered by naming "One thing I don't see how I could live without now." A talk was given by Mr. Chase, an insurance man. A piano solo was rendered by Mrs. Mina Wiseman. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beutler chose slides for a spelling contest, which was won by the ladies. Guests at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell of Pittsfield Union Grange.

By Gene Alleman

State Capitol, Lansing—Typical of a mental confusion which seems to prevail in Michigan, and apparently in the entire country for that matter, during these emotionally exciting days of 1941 is the current controversy over two amendments to Michigan's constitution to be submitted to voters at the April 7 election.

It may be news to you that Michigan, just having amended its constitution in November with regard to civil service, is again busy with new proposals.

And, paradoxically enough, the two amendments have to do with how we could amend our constitution in the future, or initiate new legislation and veto or uphold legislation already enacted.

Whereas the civil service amendment was instituted by popular petition, the two amendments for April originated within the 1941 state legislature.

Complications are few, yet interesting.

Petition Frauds
Last year the Michigan State Supreme court ruled that election officials cannot go behind the face of petitions to challenge names and to prosecute persons who affix fraudulent signatures.

As the constitution now reads, any "qualified" voter is eligible to take part in instituting legislation, or asking for a referendum on legislative action, or even proposing an amendment to the constitution itself.

The flexibility of the word "qualified" and the difficulty of ascertaining the genuineness of signatures has led to abuses, particularly in the Detroit area. There a racket has sprung up whereby signatures for petitions are obtained for a price, and only careful and sometimes expensive checking can determine whether the signatures are real or faked.

Secretary of State Harry E. Kelly became convinced that action should be taken to curb this petition fraud. He summoned Oakley Distel, secretary of the Wayne county election commission. The net result was a recommendation to the legislature that petition signatures be limited to "registered" voters.

Interestingly enough, this recommendation was made after the senate judiciary committee had suddenly reported out a resolution containing other drastic restrictions and after the senate had suspended its rules and passed it to the House. Recalled back to the senate (almost an unprecedented accomplishment), the resolution was amended and was again passed by the senate by almost unanimous vote. The house then voted overwhelmingly in favor of it.

There was no trace of partisanship in the legislature's move.

Opposed by Reformers
And here is where the confusion begins. In itself an avowed reform, the amendments have been condemned by the League of Women Voters, at least in hundreds of telegrams dispatched to legislators, and also, strangely too, by several well-known reformers.

One is Professor James K. Pollock of the University of Michigan, so-called father of the 1937 civil service bill in its original form and a political science authority of considerable repute. He has labelled the amendments as being undemocratic in principle and hence not desirable.

John Lovell, long connected with good government movement in Wayne county, has also disapproved of the restrictions proposed.

Furthermore, the Detroit Bureau of Governmental Research recently announced, in an analysis, that "there is no emergency requiring immediate action" and consequently that "minor changes should be deferred for consideration at the constitutional convention" should the voters decide in November, 1942, that such general revision was desirable.

"Resentment"?

The chief criticism against the two amendments centers on the use of one word, "registered," instead of "qualified."

So what? Well, for one thing, admonish the critics: this change would result in disqualification of from 25 to 35 per cent of those persons who are eligible at present to sign petitions.

For example, Senator Earnest C. Brooks (D) of Holland objects on the ground that the constitution reserves to the "people" the right to initiate. As he sees it, a "registered" voter does not fit the definition of being a part of the "people," although as far as elections go in Michigan, certainly popular government today is limited to voters who are properly "registered" by name and address.

Do you find this distinction finely drawn? Well, here is an observation that is easy to follow. It is by William Markland, able Lansing correspondent of the Detroit News.

"From numerous conversations of the last two months, it seems probable that the desire for a curb on the initiation of constitutional amendments arose largely out of resentment and irritation at the passage of the civil service amendment last November."

If the amendments to be submitted in April are approved, it will be more difficult for the people to undo what they have accomplished, but when the right time and the right legislature comes along, the legislators can submit, as easily as ever, the proper proposal to do the job.

Small Loan Companies

One reason why the amendment controversy is marked with confusion has been the interest and activity of small loan companies in zealous support of the proposed changes.

The connection between the two amendments and small loan companies seems strangely far-fetched, at first.

In the past decade the small loan companies have been harried repeatedly by both legislative and petition attempts to regulate the rate of interest to be charged monthly.

These assaults have been of two kinds: (1) Genuinely conceived as a social reform; (2) deliberately conceived for mercenary purposes and flying under false colors of "reform" in the cause of the "people".

As long as petitions can be obtained fraudulently, the small loan group reasons that their defense will continue to cost them many good, hard-earned dollars. They welcome with open arms these amendments because in preventing petition fraud the amendments would also ease their burden of defense.

At the same time it can be truthfully said that the small loan companies' interest in the changes was entirely unknown to Secretary of State Kelly when he studied the problem. It is just one of those coincidences that make the situation at Lansing so unusual.

Amendment Title

The titles to the amendments, as they will appear on separate ballots April 7, are even confusing in themselves.

The wording is lengthy and hazy. Instead of offering a succinct proposition of "preventing petitions fraud," which would automatically create a mental desire to vote affirmatively, the titles wander in loud terminology and leave the reader in the dark as to their real purpose.

The combination of all these factors (a reform being opposed by reformers, for example) has been to cloud the amendments with confusion, indecisiveness and even apparent contradictions—a condition that is surely in keeping with a greatly perplexed world and is perhaps a psychological byproduct of our times.

Elderly Workers May Freeze Their Benefits

Elderly workers who have reached age 65 but who continue in employment covered by the Social Security Act may, in certain cases, increase the amount of monthly checks which they will receive later under old-age and survivors insurance by "freezing" their benefits now, even though they continue to work.

This statement was made by Sidney Laurens, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Jackson. Explaining his statement, Mr. Laurens said:

"Monthly checks which are paid to insured workers who reach age 65 and retire from jobs covered by the Social Security Act are based on the average monthly wages earned in employment of this character. Those workers whose income from jobs is declining will usually find it to their advantage to claim their benefits, thus freezing their average monthly pay, even though they continue at work and can not receive these Federal government checks until they retire from such jobs.

"For example, a man who earned $100 a month, as an average, up to the time he was 65, and who could only work part-time, or had to take a job at a lower salary thereafter, should file his claim now and freeze his benefits. Then he will receive the maximum to which he is entitled under the Social Security Act, when he does retire from covered employment. "Our office will be glad to discuss individual cases of such workers," said Mr. Laurens. "Residents of Chelsea and vicinity may either write our office at 709 Reynolds Building, Jackson, or see our representative any Wednesday at the Council Chambers of the Ann Arbor City Hall between the hours of 2:00 and 3:00 p. m."

DISCUSS CUBBING METHODS

A number of Cub leaders and parents of Cubs and of boys of Cub age (9, 10 and 11 years) met at the Michigan Union on Monday evening, March 17, to participate in a discussion of Cubbing methods and procedures and to see the moving picture "Cubbing at Work" which was secured for the occasion from the National Council office in New York.

The Cubbing program is administered largely by parents and is dependent upon a close working relationship between a Cub and his father and mother. Cub groups are already functioning in Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and Howell. Other groups may be formed in the county from time to time as parents desire.

MILAN—Fire destroyed another of Milan's oldest landmarks Saturday afternoon in the third serious fire in four months. The fire broke out in the paint shop of the Main Service Station shortly after noon Saturday while most of the employees were out to lunch. It started according to those who were on duty at the garage, in the paint shop and spread rapidly throughout the building.—Leader.

SALINE—Clarence Haarer had an experience Monday which he will not soon forget. With Albert and Owen Hoefft he had been fishing through the ice on Wampler's lake and had started back for the shore when the ice began to give way. The lives of all three were endangered as the ice cracked beneath their feet. Suddenly it broke and Mr. Haarer was plunged into the icy water of the lake. Efforts of his companions to rescue him were frustrated by the increasing of the ice cracking. Finally they made their way to shore and secured a boat. Breaking the ice before the boat they proceeded to the rescue cautiously. At last they were able to pull Mr. Haarer into the boat. He had been in the water 45 minutes and it is a marvel how he managed to cling to the ice so long. It took another half-hour to reach the shore. A doctor was summoned and Mr. Haarer was brought to Saline where a doctor worked over him for two hours. He was paralyzed from his icy ducking and long exposure to the cold. He is at home and getting along nicely. We hope to see him back in the market soon. Who wants to be first to ask him to go fishing again?—Observer.

STOCKBRIDGE—Fire on Sunday night at the Edward Parks farm six miles south of here drove occupants of the house from their beds and destroyed the building and contents. The blaze originated in the basement. Loss was estimated at $5,000 and was covered by insurance. The Stockbridge fire department answered the alarm.—Brief-Sun.

HOWELL—A carload of popcorn is being shipped out of Howell this week by the Howell Elevator company, consigned to Chicago. There is about 20 tons in the shipment, shelled and put up in bags. The popcorn was grown by Wayne Latson. In the 24 years he has been with the Howell Elevator, E. J. Carr, the manager, says he does not recall any popcorn shipment approaching this volume. Nor does P. J. Chamberlain, who has worked for the Ann Arbor railway for about 30 years, remember any popcorn shipment of nearly this volume.—County Press.

PINCKNEY—The coyote which has made the section around Silver Lake south of Pinckney its headquarters this winter, was shot and killed by Alfred Drew of North Lake, former Dexter blacksmith, Tuesday on the Ed Carr farm. The animal weighed 33 lbs. and 5 ounces. Drew will collect a $25 bounty from the state. Many hunted the coyote this winter but were unsuccessful.—Dispatch.

WINNING ESSAY

The following essay won second prize in the Kiwanis essay contest conducted in the public school:

Recreation for Chelsea

By Margaret Harper

With the United States' new defense program, many problems have arisen. Industrial snafus have occupied the front pages of newspapers, so likewise they have occupied the minds of the citizens of our town. And yet we in Chelsea have a much more serious and vital problem to remedy. We have additional workers employing many additional workers; numerous young men have come here to work. When they arrived, they found neither sufficient housing or recreational facilities. The housing problem will probably have to be settled by individual interest and capital, but the recreational problem is one for the town and the town alone. These young men certainly do not want to sit in the pool rooms in town or alone in their rooms with nothing to do. They need something to occupy their spare time—something that will give them an opportunity to become better acquainted with one another—and something that will provide an outlet for any spare energy they may possess. Morkel Bros. have taken one step in this direction. They have organized a basketball team for young men, but that is comprised mostly of fellows who have lived here for some time. There are numerous other sports which interest young men: Baseball, football, golf, bowling, tennis, ping-pong, volley-ball, skating, badminton, post swimming, shuffleboard, soccer, boxing.

Increased bowling facilities will soon be available at the local hotel; baseball teams will undoubtedly be organized next spring as they were last year. Many of these sports (volley-ball, badminton, shuffleboard, etc.) require an indoor court, and the school gymnasium is the only place. The gymnasium, however, is so crowded that it is reserved months in advance. The ideal solution seems to be a community building. The present antiquated town hall is totally unfit for general use, and is just another structure that helps to mark our buildings as out-of-date.

If a community building were constructed, it would contain a stage large enough for productions by non-school organizations; it would have an auditorium where town meetings and elections could be held, and the floor could be marked off for soccer, shuffleboard, etc., for everyone's use. The building would provide a pleasant place for council meetings, a village treasurer's office, and a clean location for rest rooms. This is something that the town has needed for a long time. There are, however, some things that a community building cannot provide. Tennis is one. Many local people would like to play tennis, but there isn't a good court in Chelsea. The high school started to fix two courts a few years ago, but for some reason never completed them. Ice skating and roller skating are two other well-liked activities. It is true that the town cleaned up a dump and flooded it for a pond. That was a good idea, but the pond has proved so popular that it is crowded. Many boys like to play hockey. They should be allowed to do this, but they leave no room for other people. I think it would be a very good idea to enlarge our present rink. Roller skating presents a harder problem. There isn't a very suitable place in the village for a roller skating rink. One person said the other day that he thought the town should provide transportation to other places, but I think this is unnecessary. Some people would take unfair advantage of it.

There is just one other activity—swimming. A swimming pool might be installed in the basement of the community building, but this would entail quite a little expense, and with the many lakes surrounding us, I don't think the need for this is vital. The cost of a new building has worried some people. Our taxes are very low, and we could, with comparative ease, stand a slightly higher rate, and the new, modern building would make our town a much more attractive place.

Flight Training Opened For Enlisted Personnel

Proof that the Navy is transferring a large portion of its forces from sea to air is evidenced in information received by Commander Carson R. Miller, Navy Recruiting Officer in charge of this area.

"In keeping with its democratic policies, the Navy is now offering its enlisted personnel the opportunity of becoming pilots," said the Commander, continuing, "the regular enlisted men of the Navy who meet the requirements for pilot training will receive every opportunity to qualify as flying officers of the Navy. Further, the educational requirements are waived in the cases of regular Navy enlisted men."

The Commander pointed out that enlistment in the regular Navy now provides an opportunity for young men who are physically qualified, but who lack the educational qualifications, to receive the regular courses in flight training. Recruits may apply at U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, New Post Office Bldg., Jackson, Mich.

Michigan grows good corn

Sturdy hybrid strains of corn, adapted to local conditions, have been developed by private breeders and by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. Hybrids produce strong stalks, even ears, and a profitable yield.

RARELY thought of as a "corn-belt" state, Michigan nevertheless ranks eleventh in the production of this biggest of American grain crops. The corn grown each year on the farms of Michigan would provide two bushels for every home in the nation.

Whether he has a telephone or not, every farmer who grows or feeds corn benefits from the part modern telephone service plays in reporting up-to-the-minute price quotations, in the prompt delivery of seed, implements and stock, and in the process of marketing that moves his products to the consumer.

All along the line, from plowing to husking, from corn-cob to dinner-table, your Telephone Company helps to carry on the job of production and conservation of food—a vital link in the National Defense.

Much of Michigan's corn goes into the feeding of livestock. The state's farm income from meat animals in 1939 was about $50,000,000. The Michigan housewife buys corn almost every day in the form of steak or pork chops, eggs or milk.

AIR'S FREE so why not use it?

GETTING right down to it, one reason why you get as much as 10% to 15% more miles per gallon from a 1941 FIREBALL Buick with Compound Carburetion is that this engine is supplied with more air.

For it is a mixture of gasoline and air that gives you power.

A single carburetor, no matter how many jets it has, can handle only so much air.

But two carburetors that function as needed, as is the case in Compound Carburetion, can meet any fuel-supply need from low-speed to heavy-power use—and always provide a well-balanced mixture.

They can double the air supply as well as the gasoline feed—and that's something you can't do in any single-carburetor car.

So Compound Carburetion gets as much as 800 miles for the gas-cost of 700 in earlier Buicks of the same size.

It also provides a whopping big bank of reserve power, which means an up-and-at-'em lift and surge that's nothing short of thrilling to experience.

And you can have Compound Carburetion, you know, on any 1941 Buick—it's only a few dollars extra on the well big SPECIAL pictured here, and standard equipment on all other models.

MRS. MICHAEL ZEEB

Mrs. Michael Zeeb of Sylvan township died Saturday, March 15 in Chelsea Private hospital, after several months' illness.

She was born August 30, 1868 in Germany. Coming to America when 17 years of age, she lived in Falls City, Nebi and Chicago before her marriage to Mr. Zeeb on January 11, 1898. After residing in Lima township for one year, they settled on the farm in Sylvan, which has since been their home.

Surviving are the husband, two sons, George and Walter, of Sylvan; two daughters, Mrs. Esther Waddell of Springfield, Mo. and Mrs. Phoebe Eismann of Ann Arbor; also a sister in Germany.

Mrs. Zeeb was a member of St. Paul's church and the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Plankell funeral home, with Rev. P. H. Grabowski officiating, assisted by Rev. Henry W. Lenz. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

MRS. FRANCIS MAY

Mrs. Francis May, 40 years old, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon, March 12, at her home on Joslin Lake Rd. near Gregory.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gorton, she was born Dec. 22, 1900, at North Waterloo. She was married to Mr. May on Jan. 1, 1918. Mrs. May was a member of Unadilla Presbyterian church and of the Gregory Circle of King's Daughters, and was serving on the district school board at the time of her death.

Surviving are the husband; a son, Lloyd, at home; her mother, Mrs. Minnie Gorton, of Lakeland, Fla. two sisters, Mrs. Nora Davesy of Lakeland and Mrs. Ada Collyer of Detroit; and a brother, George Gorton, of Jackson.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Burial was in the Unadilla cemetery.

Highway Commissioner Urges Safety Crusade

Lansing—With a sharp upsurge in traffic movement already being felt as a result of the defense industrial boom, State Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy this week urged motorists to join in a crusade against the ever mounting accidental death toll.

"When we stop to realize that Michigan automobile fatalities during 1940 totaled 1,622," Kennedy said, "we can readily see the necessity for an intensified offensive against this traffic scourge."

In addition to the increased use of highways because of the national defense program, Kennedy called attention to the fact that surveys of the 1941 tourist outlook indicate that touring this year will reach record proportions in Michigan.

Said Kennedy: "There is no doubt but that traffic on Michigan highways this year will set an all-time high mark and greatly surpass the 14 billion vehicle miles recorded in 1940. As a result, we must be more careful about our driving than ever if many lives are not to be sacrificed needlessly."

While the state highway department is constantly striving to develop a highway system as nearly trouble-proof as it is possible to build, Kennedy pointed out that it is still up to the individual motorist if the accident toll is to be held to a minimum.

"Although in the past traffic fatalities have climbed as automobile travel increased," Kennedy said, "it is entirely possible to reverse this condition. With safer highways and with motorists realizing the necessity of driving more cautiously because of conditions created by the increased flow of traffic, this death rate can be halted and even reduced."

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Martha Wagner was honored on her 66th birthday, Sunday, by the first family reunion in twenty-seven years. Those present were her sons, daughters and families: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kimbel of South Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth Reed of La Grange, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reed of Chelsea, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Smith of Dexter, and son Ervin, at home; also seven grandchildren. Mrs. Wagner received many beautiful flowers and gifts from children and friends. Dinner was served at 1:30.

CARD OF THANKS

To the friends and neighbors who were so kind and sympathetic in the death of our wife and mother, to Rev. Mrs. Verna Rheingans of Bronson and Rev. Floyd Mixture of Lansing for their comforting words to Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Nicholas of Chelsea for their music; also for the many beautiful flowers and kindness shown by everyone to us, we wish to thank in this small way.

Francis May and son Lloyd.

W. S. C. S. HOLDS MEETING

The Women's Society of Christian Service held their March meeting at the Methodist church on Friday. It was voted at the business meeting to continue the Workers' Luncheon through April. A silver tea was held at the close of a very enjoyable program.

For the adventures of 16 insane people in an insane asylum, see "Who's Crazy Now," by the Seniors on March 28 at 8:00.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians celebrated Founders Day by having a joint meeting with the Dexter Kiwanis club at St. Paul's hall on Monday evening. This was also Ladies' Night so the wives of the Kiwanians attended the meeting and enjoyed the delicious supper and the interesting program which followed. This meeting marked the seventeenth anniversary of the Chelsea Kiwanis club and President Alfred D. Mayer cited with pride the progress and accomplishments of the club throughout this period. Joseph Schnebel of the Dexter club, who was one of the charter members of the Chelsea club when it was organized on March 17, 1924, presented pins to Henry Fenn, James C. Hendley, Carl J. Moyer and Paul F. Niehaus for their fine attendance records. John F. Hoey of the Dexter club entertained the group and commemorated St. Patrick's Day by singing several fine old Irish songs.

The program committee selected Rev. Ray W. Barber as the principal speaker for this occasion. Rev. Barber delivered his excellent address upon the subject, "The Builders". The speaker emphatically stated that the primary function and objective of the Kiwanis club has always been to aid in building and developing the character and institutions of the community. He mentioned that cooperative measures, and enthusiastically declared that the Kiwanis club has always been unwaveringly worthwhile projects. Mr. Barber pointed out that these programs must necessarily include active participation by individuals of all ages, creeds, and denominations in order that the group may successfully complete the ideal of civic betterment. The speaker concluded his impressive message by urging the Kiwanians to utilize their available time and efforts to build their communities upon the sound foundation of civic pride and responsibility.

RODERICK O'HARA WEDDING

Miss Grace Ellen Roderick of Ann Arbor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Roderick, and Robert John O'Hara of Ypsilanti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell O'Hara, were married on Friday evening, March 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sager, Hayes Road, Rev. Fred D. Mumby officiating. Mrs. Bernice Maxwell of Somerset Center and Floyd Roderick, brother of the bride, served as bridesmaid and groomsmen and official witnesses of the ceremony. Members of the families of both bride and groom were also in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara will reside in Ann Arbor.

FARMERS' GUILD MEETS

Sylvan and Lima Local of the Farmers' Guild held their regular meeting at Kolb's hall last Tuesday evening, with a large attendance. Mr. Zinn of Jackson was present and talked on "Feeds and Their Ingredients." Fred Kennedy gave figures on cost of production of milk, obtained from the Dairy Herd Improvement Ass'n. of Lansing, which are $2.56 per cwt. and the Guild's figures which are $2.71 per cwt. S. R. Nixon of Williamston and Don Clifford of Charlotte gave a history of the Massey-Harris Implement Co. and State President H. S. Atchinson gave a very interesting talk in regard to state legislation for the farmer. He stated the Farmers' Guild, Grange and Farm Bureau are all coming nearer and nearer together on this question of "Cost of Production." Refreshments were served.

PRISCILLA CHAPTER MEETS

Priscilla Chapter of the Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church held a bake sale and tea at the home of Mrs. Gail last Thursday. A brief program was presented, including hymns, readings by several of the group from letters in "The Readers Digest" on "Why I Go To Church", a short talk by Mrs. Barber and devotionals by Rev. Ray Barber. The devotional passage was taken from Philippians 2 and had to do with the three disciplines of Lent—self-abnegation, self-denial and self-sacrifice. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. D. A. Riker, Mrs. Norman Perkins and Mrs. Elmer Lindemann.

ENTERTAINS MISSION CLUB

St. Paul's Mission club held their monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Gross in Lima township. Mrs. Louis Eppler conducted the devotionals, after which the following readings were given: German reading—Mrs. A. Widmayer. The Season of Lent—Mrs. Alvin Vail. German reading—Mrs. Eppler. The Old Rocking Chair—Hilda Gross. The Cross Was His Own—Lillie Wackenhut. The afternoon was devoted to mission work. Refreshments were served, with covers for 18.

HOSTESS TO S. A. CLUB

Mrs. Paul Eisele was hostess to the S. A. club on Friday evening, with Mrs. Theodore Stimpson of Saline and Mrs. Clyde Thrasher of Ann Arbor as out-of-town guests. Mrs. Stimpson held high score in bridge, and Mrs. Thrasher second. A two-course lunch was served.

The Hi-Light

Edited By The PUPILS OF THE CHELSEA PUBLIC SCHOOL

Editorial

Every school system has a set of rules which its students are expected to follow. Sometimes the students become weary of trying to obey these rules, and sometimes the teachers become weary of trying to enforce them. Sometimes the thought comes into our minds that we would be better off without all these rules. Before arriving at this conclusion, let us stop and think. Who made these rules? Why were they made, and would we actually be better off without them?

Many of them are made by the students themselves, through the student council. Others are made by the teachers and school authorities after careful consultation. The reason for making a rule can always, in some way, be traced back to a desire, on someone's part, for a more efficient and smooth-running system. Obviously, this answers the third question to the effect that we would certainly not be better off without rules.

If we are to get the greatest possible benefit from our school, each and every one of us must hold himself responsible for knowing the rules and making a sincere effort to live up to them. If all of us would be just a little more considerate of the rights of others, the reward for so doing is bound to be shared by all.

"The Time of Your Life"

By William Rademacher

If someone were to offer you the "time of your life," you wouldn't quibble over a few pennies—it might cost you and you surely would not look upon it as an inconvenience. On the contrary your pulse would quicken, your surroundings would take on a rosy hue, and you would look forward to that time of all times.

Do you know that on March 28 at 8:00 p. m. the Seniors are offering you just such a thrill? Nine beautiful girls and three males have collaborated under the expert hand of Carl Chandler to depict the adventures that occur in an insane asylum for "wacky" teachers. You're missing something (off hand, we don't know what it is) if you ain't settin' in the gymnasium on March 28 at 8:00 p. m. to see Miss "Gret" Miller learnin' her invisible and invincible pupils the kee-rect use of slang.

For a small admission price you'll thrill when Miss Lois Palmer, "the Senior Siren," shows her curves with paper and pencil on the new window shades. The Misses Arlene Hanley, Doris Schneider, Ruth Vetter, and Janette Lehman, will have you laying in the aisles with the manner in which they handle plenty of snappy dialogue. Miss Grace Riemeneschneider, wacky as a bedbug, is the principal, while Miss Smith, the very sane and equally beautiful secretary and office girl, is played by Miss Mary May.

The love interest, and there is plenty, occurs when dashing Loren "Lover" Koenigster meets glamorous and debonaire Miss Betty Fletcher-Roland Heim, who made herself quite a name in last year's play, will portray Miss Fletcher's uncle.

Has your pulse quickened while reading this little preview? We know it has. To satisfy a burning desire and to help these hard-working and deserving Seniors be on hand at 8:00 p. m. March 28 in the high school gym for the annual Senior production, "Who's Crazy Now."

B. B. Tournaments

Boys' Tournament—March 12

The first games of the tournaments were started when the Sophomores drew last year's champs, the Seniors. It was a very good game, throughout with one side taking the lead, and then the other. This was not quite true of the first quarter when the Seniors started off with a bang, but after that it was a very close game as the Sophomores gradually crept up on the Seniors. The final score was 30 to 28 in favor of the Seniors.

The second game was between the Juniors and Freshmen and proved to be about as exciting as the first game was. The Juniors held quite an edge in height but the Freshmen made up for that with a better scoring punch. It was another close game throughout with Juniors finally taking it. The final score stood 24 to 18.

Friday, March 14

The finals were played between the Seniors and the Juniors in the first game and the Sophomores and Freshmen in the second game.

The Juniors gave the Seniors a better fight than was expected but were finally overcome. The teams were about even in height but the Junior team lacked the experience and scoring punch which the Seniors had. The score stood very close until the last of the fourth quarter but there the Seniors slammed home with their expected power and took the championship again by the score of 26 to 18.

We salute the champs of '41!

In the second game the Freshmen gave the Sophomores a good fight but the Sophomores' experience and scoring punch soon told. The Sophomores used their substitutes freely during the last half of the game and still kept a good lead until the middle of the last quarter. There the Freshmen got hot suddenly and came within two points of the Sophomores. The first Sophomore team came back in then and easily put the kids to the Freshmen. The final score stood 27 to 20.

Girls' Tournaments

The most exciting basketball game of the year was played last Wednesday noon, when the Senior girls battled their way to stardom by defeating their Junior opponents. While both teams were fighting their way up and down the court some mighty "trough" and "tumbling" playing spirit was shown. Most of the Seniors had the advantage of being on the "regular" team, but their high spirited opponents, the Juniors, put up a struggle that kept the opposing team on their toes. The game moved on with baskets being made by Capt. Fletcher, Palmer and Schweinfurth for the victors and by Meservy and Almond for the defeated.

In the end, experience won out and the Seniors emerged victorious with a score of 12-2, but never let it be said that the Juniors didn't give them a fight for their money.

Assembly

On Thursday, March 13, the Napoleon band presented a very enjoyable program to the Chelsea high school students. This band was organized six years ago under the leadership of Mr. Bearss, present superintendent of the Saline high school. The new leader is Marshall Richards, principal of Napoleon high school. The band started with a small number of players and has increased its members to eighty-five at the present time.

The members are very proud of their Band Mothers' Association, which has helped in many ways to organize and maintain the band. Band practice is held in the summer as well as winter.

The band has been on many tours and took part in a contest held at Michigan State College on Saturday, March 15.

The program opened with the playing of the "Comrades' March." Another number on the program was "Crusaders' March" which ended with some of the members singing the well known hymn, "Beautiful Saviour." Included in the program was a girls' cornet quartet and two vocal selections rendered by four girls. The program came to its conclusion with the band playing and singing the Napoleon school song, "Hail to the Varsity."

A week ago last Monday afternoon, during activity period, Mr. Halstead from Detroit came to show us some moving pictures on baseball, which were loaned by the Lane and Campbell Company. Mr. Hale from our own city assisted him.

Mr. Halstead supervises and is umpire of the Morality American League.

Activities of this kind are enjoyed by all the girls as well as the boys.

The Hi-Y club will hold a swim at the Intramural pool in Ann Arbor on Friday, March 21. The boys will also have the use of the gymnasium at this time.

Just as a reminder, we wish to announce that spring begins on Thursday, March 20 (today) and that Monday, March 17, was St. Patrick's Day.

The Hi-Y club will entertain the local Kiwanis club in the gymnasium at 6:15 on Monday, March 24. The dinner will be cooked by the mothers of the Hi-Y boys. Mr. Merrill Emvart, State Y. M. C. A. Boys' Secretary of Detroit will give the address. John Hale, president of the local Hi-Y club will be the master of ceremonies. Members of the Kiwanis club may bring guests.

The Hi-Y Cabinet held its monthly meeting in the club room on Tuesday, March 18. At this time they made plans for the election of officers.

The regional F. F. A. public speaking contest will be held at our school on Wednesday, April 2.

The vocal music department will give a concert in the gymnasium on Thursday evening, April 3.

The Triple Trio presented a program of vocal music at the Methodist Old People's Home on Wednesday, March 19.

A large number of requests for the records of those people who have attended our school in the past, have been received. Some of these records date as far back as thirty years ago. These requests come from various companies who are working on national defense orders and who are considering the employment of these former students of our school.

What Would Happen If

Virginia Barr and Edward weren't in the show Sunday night.

"Dick Kinsey didn't ask 'Min' to dance.

All of Miss McDonald's classes arrived on time.

The Seniors didn't have a money-making scheme.

"Rosie" B. couldn't have the car.

Sis Palmer wasn't "wishing" about a certain Freshman boy.

Bob Perkins was seen without Marg F.

Martha and Rowena didn't receive their "fan mail" every noon.

Lil A. wasn't sporting a different car every time she's seen.

Ruth Collins was heard in a class.

Mr. Chandler gave someone an A.

Andy P. didn't start his notes out by saying "Lamb-pie."

Wesley McAttee attended school regularly.

We would have some spring weather.

The 7th hour chemistry class couldn't have a birthday party.

Everyone got who they went after in dancing class.

Incidentally

Both the Senior girls and boys are champions in inter-class basketball.

Senior play tickets for "Who's Crazy Now" are on sale. Buy yours from any Senior, and do your part to help the Class of '41 take the Georgian Bay trip.

The Annual staff is hard at work getting advertising "ads." As an added attraction they are giving those merchants who take a half or whole page a chance to put a snapshot of their place of business in the Annual.

The Seniors have been having a streak of illness and now Leroy Love-land has the measles. We all hope he gets well soon.

Again as a gentle reminder—the Class of '41 is collecting old newspapers Friday and will gratefully accept any you care to give.

F. F. A. News

The F. F. A. boys are planning their projects which they are supposed to carry out in connection with their agriculture course taken in high school.

Thirty boys will carry out the following projects: 9 acres of potatoes, 1 acre of wheat, 12 dairy calves, 50 ducks, 8 hogs, 39 sheep, 7 acres of alfalfa, 14 acres of corn, 4 steers, 10 horses, 150 hens, 13 acres of oats, 20 acres mixed hay, 1 acre of watermelons, 4 acres of muskmelons.

N. H. Miles and Donald Cook are candidates for State Farmer degree in Future Farmer work.

F. F. A. is looking at purebred gilts for the F. F. A. cooperative projects. Four pigs from the first litter of this gilt will go out on other projects.

Class News

The Juniors had a class party on March 14 in the high school gymnasium from 8:00 to 10:00 o'clock.

The refreshments consisted of chocolate milk and cookies. Miss Lefler and Miss Muzzall chaperoned the party.

Flashlight pictures were taken of some of the guests.

The Sophomore play was presented at Napoleon as a "return entertainment" last Thursday. The Napoleon band gave a concert here the week before.

The Sophomores chose class rings at their regular class meeting on Wednesday of last week.

Commencement Speaker

J. L. Brumm, a noted speaker and a gentleman very much in demand as a toastmaster at various banquets, will give the address at the Commencement exercises to be held at our school on Thursday, June 12. His talk is entitled "Youth and the Future."

Student Council

At their last meeting the Student Council arranged the schedules of the class tournaments.

Both the Senior boys and Senior girls won the tournaments.

Fifth Grade

This week in Spelling we finished the spelling bee. The girls won. Betty Marshall was the last girl standing. The girls were so happy because the boys won the last two times.

Douglas Vogel was the last boy standing. He did very well, but he missed on the word received.

In Geography we had a test locating the forty-eight states on blank maps. Wilma, Richard, Vernon, Pat, and Ruth had them all right the first time. We are studying the Western States. They are very interesting. Today we learned about Lassen Volcano, and the big trees in California.

This week in the library, Robert Freyinger and Minnie May Platt are learning to run it. It is much fun.

In Science we are studying about birds. The boys saw some mourning doves on February 11. On March 13 Richard Carlson saw a killdeer.

In our Weekly Reader we had a story about Kit Carson, the grizzly bear. It was very exciting. Kit saved his friend, "Old Timer, the Dog," from a lynx.

Leroy May, our newly elected president, has been absent under quarantine for scarlet fever. We hope he will be back soon.

We had tests in history, arithmetic, spelling. We also had a spelling bee which was won by June Vail, with Donna Perkins and Robert Breitenwischer giving good account of themselves.

Seventh grade boys and girls are now playing basketball.

We now have over two dollars in our treasury.

We appreciated being allowed to attend the assemblies showing baseball movies and the Napoleon band.

Our quotation for the week was from La Rochefoucauld: "We are never so happy or unhappy as we imagine." It was well chosen for the week before report cards.

Eighth Grade

The Home Ec. girls started cooking Wednesday. Last Friday they cleaned the drawers and cupboards. The Home Ec. club has fulfilled their promise and have our basement all fixed.

The Napoleon school band was here last Thursday. We thought they were very good. Mr. Dunstan, our band leader, said that we were very fortunate in being honored by their visit.

We hope that our class will patronize the Seniors by going to the Senior play. It will be given the 28th of March.

We had tests in the following: Arithmetic, History, English, and Home Ec. for the girls and Science for the boys.

Monday, March 17 was so cold that even the boys on patrol couldn't stay on duty.

Catherine Fauser won the spelling bee and Eva Geddes was runner-up, but Catherine had won three dictionaries already and Eva had won one so the next in line was Helen Loeffler and she got the dictionary. The girls were very nice about it.

Children In Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Is Probation a Form of Leniency?

A few years ago the erroneous idea prevailed that probation was merely a form of leniency; that certain types of offenders should not be incarcerated in a correctional institution because their slight offenses did not deserve severe forms of punishment. Present day methods of probation take into consideration the fact that criminals are maladjusted individuals. Hence, when a court imposes a sentence, it should pay less attention to the crime itself, being more concerned with readjusting such maladjusted individuals, and making them into useful members of society.

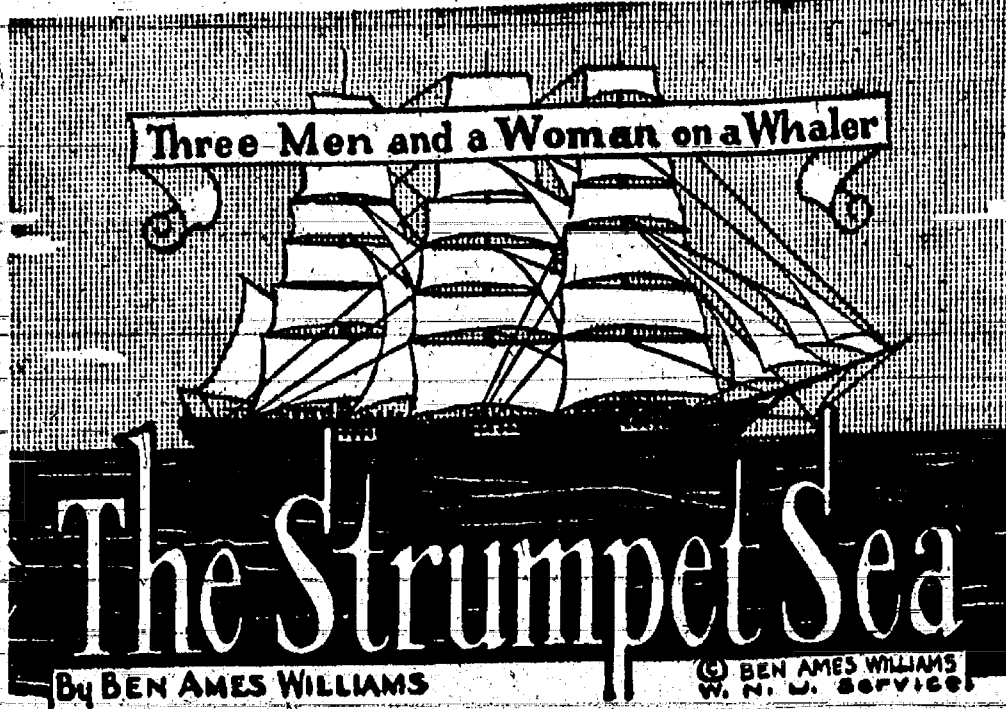

While this theory was being put into practice it was found that many individuals can more readily be reclaimed outside than inside the penitentiary. It was further discovered that prison life frequently does more harm than good. It has been noted that penitentiaries often mold the habits of prisoners to such an extent that it is difficult to readjust their lives after they have been discharged.

Many judges know that the law presupposes that are endowed with certain God-given intellectual powers which will enable them to determine which one of the numerous criminals appearing before them can be rehabilitated by probation. Undoubtedly the law assumes that the court will take the individual's previous record into consideration before reaching a final decision. In most cases the entire record is not available for use by the court, because many districts do not possess a centralized bureau for compiling such information. This type of procedure is wholly inadequate, since many judges lack the experience which qualifies them to comprehend the full significance of the incomplete case histories presented to them. The average judge does not possess sufficient time to devote to a detailed study of such case histories, and must be forced to pass sentence after having made only a cursory examination of the available report.

A Nation of Wire Pullers

Children have begun to realize that a peculiar psychology has gradually gained ground in the United States which makes it possible to "fix" almost any sort of case. They note that as soon as any person gets into difficulty, his first thought is to work behind the scenes so that he may be exonerated without paying for his sins. It is commonly supposed that all you have to do when you get into difficulty is to go to the right party, who will bring all the pressure necessary to take care of the arresting officer and the judge who is to try the case. Many lobbies which operate in Washington and the various state capitals are mute examples of organized "wire pulling."

When such a pernicious psychology prevails, it is no wonder that children gain the wrong impression of our entire governmental structure. A child can hardly be blamed for "stealing" when he is firmly convinced that in the event he is caught, he need only feed the palm of someone behind the scenes who will pull the proper wires to free him.

He said in sudden sullen wrath: "You're not fooling me, you know! You've always been crazy about Dick! You never would look at me!"

She took a quick step toward him, so angry that he recoiled, and he opened, behind him, the cabin door. She said: "If you ever come in here again, I'll—"

He exclaimed in quick alarm: "Sh-h! Don't yell, Mary. George will hear."

He turned and ran up the companionway to the deck. After that while which Richard killed had been tried out, and the decks scoured clean again, there were long lazy days when the ship and those aboard her seemed asleep. Sometimes Mary, looking up at the men on watch at the cross-trees, saw them nodding on their lofty perch. When the Venturer was on whaling ground, she carried at night only enough sail to make her handy; but now Richard was making a passage, counting on picking up enough oil to fill their casks off the coast of South America.

Richard for the sake of warm weather did not yet turn southward and the sun shone fair and fine, and the winds were favoring. The watch on deck might be busy with scrimshaw, listening perhaps to one of Corkran's yarns; and the squawk of the parrot sometimes came at Richard, standing with Mary one day, watching Corkran and his listeners, said:

"He's a good man, a good sailor; and a story-teller in the fore-castle helps keep the men contented. Some- one to tell 'em stories keeps 'em amused."

Mary reflected thoughtfully: "You know, Corkran's really fond of George. That's why he deserted the Sunset at Gilead; in case George needed him."

"George is a fine fellow, Mary. I like him too."

"The queer part is, he likes Corkran," she said. "Corkran lived with the natives on the island and George knows it, and yet he doesn't seem to blame him."

Richard looked at her. "You know, you may not understand George yourself," he said. "He's about the bravest man I ever saw. He's pretty small and frail; but he's never afraid." He added: "He wants to go in one of the boats next time we strike whales."

She was astonished. "Honestly? After seeing that fight the other day? He said then he'd stick to being a preacher, don't you remember?"

He chuckled. "That was partly to make me feel good, and partly because he saw how impressed you were, and he was trying to please you by agreeing with you, George is a grown man, Mary, small as he is."

"Will you let him go in a boat?"

"Maybe."

George had long since made his peace with Mary after that ugly hour in her cabin when by defending Richard she roused his anger. He was humble and contrite and ashamed of his harsh word. Peter too came to her with apologies, and Mary guardedly forgave him, as a woman can always forgive a man for loving her; but sometimes when she looked at him suddenly she surprised a sultry hunger in his eyes that made her wary. She tried not to be left alone with him again.

There were other reasons too why her nerves drew tight and tighter. She saw much low-pitched conversation among the men forward.

Even Corkran was changed. Mary, when he had the wheel, sometimes talked with him, puzzled by the difference in his bearing. She and George discussed it too.

Mary asked Corkran straightforwardly one day why he had changed. He was confessed, uneasy. "I don't like the looks of things forward," he said. "Nor the talk I hear."

"What talk?"

"They're saying there's a packet of pearls aboard this ship that's worth a fortune." His eyes touched hers. "You mind, pearls make trouble enough back there at the island, for himself and you. I don't like the pretty little things."

Mary felt herself tighten warily. "Pearls? Who says so?"

"I'm naming no names, ma'am. I have to sleep amongst 'em. A man has to sleep sometime, and it's easy to slide a knife into a man asleep."

She protested: "You're trying to scare me!"

"I'm scared myself, ma'am," he insisted. "I was in a ship once that came near mutiny and you could smell it coming days before. It was waiting to get ashore to the gold fields that was the trouble then, and it's pearls they're talking now. Pearls as big as chestnuts. And they're saying that barrel of ambergris would make the man rich that had it safe ashore."

"But I don't believe a word of all that about pearls, Corkran," she declared. "If Cap'n Corr had any pearls aboard, I guess I'd know it. And nobody with any sense would want that bad-smelling stuff in the barrel; so if that's all you're worrying about—"

He looked at her briefly. He said in a flat tone, grave again: "It's no all, if you want the rest of it. Ma'am, I've served many's the year at sea and I never did see a mate playing lickspittle and 'polish your boots mister' with his men that harr didn't come of it in the end."

Mary's pulse leaped. She knew suddenly that she had thought this same thing, without knowing her own thought, as she watched Peter day after day about the ship.

She tried to persuade herself thereafter that Corkran was afraid of shadows, but she could not forget his uneasiness, and a day or two later she repeated part of what he had said to Richard. She did not quote Corkran's criticism of Peter, but she told Richard about the pearls.

He was interested in the pearls, but he did not ask where she had hidden them; and he made light of Corkran's fears. "Men are bound to talk when they've nothing else to do," he said.

Since the day he killed the whale, he and Mary had drawn happily together, finding pleasure in this new companionship, each at ease with the other. His confident dismissal of her fears reassured her; and their talk turned at random now, turned back to the years in New Bedford. Mary laughed at a sudden memory and said:

"You know, Richard, I really hated you for a while when we were children."

"Met?"

"Yes. When Peter gave you my letter."

He looked at her in a puzzled way. "What letter, Mary?"

"Forgotten, have you?" She smiled.

He shook his head. "I guess I'm dumb. What was in the letter? Who was it to?"

She looked away from him, absently hurt and unhappy because he had forgotten; but then she remembered that Peter said Richard kept her letter, that he even read it aloud to people, and laughed at it with them. She turned away from him, her eyes suddenly hot with tears; and he saw them and caught her arm and protested:

"Here, wait a minute, Mary. Listen."

Then he stopped, for George was just emerging from the cabin companion close beside them, seeing her crimson, with tears in her eyes and Richard's hand restrainingly upon her arm.

If George was disturbed by what he had seen he did not show it. He kept them together in talk with him a while. When Richard presently left them, Mary tried to make some explanation, but George stopped her.

"You don't need to explain to me, Mary," he said, gently and honestly. "I'm beginning to get hold of myself. There's a jealous devil in me. I hate to have any man look at you. I've made you unhappy because of it more than once; but I'm whipping it. I know you and Cap'n Corr are old friends; but I know there's nothing else."

She was so grateful to him that thereafter she loved him more and more.

Richard told them one morning at breakfast his plan to cruise a while on the right whale grounds among the islands off the South American coast, and perhaps fill their casks before refitting to round Cape Horn homeward bound.

Peter was eating slowly, sawing at the tough salt beef, not raising his eyes. He said resentfully: "This salt horse's tough as witchet, Dick. It's about time we put in somewhere for fresh stores."

"We'll refit before we make up for Cape Stiff," Richard retorted. "But we've got business to attend to around here first." Mat Forbes went on deck. "It won't take more than a couple of these fat old bulls to fill us bung up," Richard said; and then Mat spoke softly through the open skylight above them.

"Whales close aboard, Cap'n Corr."

Richard leaped toward the companionway. He called back to Tommy: "Tell the harpooners to grab a bite. I'll have cook pass along the mess kid forrad. Sharp." He scrambled for the deck, and Peter more slowly followed him.

Mary and George went on deck together. The day was fair, and for the season—early spring in these latitudes—mild enough; the wind light. Mary saw broad streaks of yellowish red upon the water to starboard where the great schools of brit were near the surface; and a moment later a black back showed and twin spouts rose straight as fountains. Richard himself was in the main-rigging, watching the whales now so near the ship that voices aboard were hushed and whispering.

It's a far cry to Opening Day, April 15, at St. Louis. Many a disappointed fan will be seen by that date among the young hopefuls on the Tiger squad. Competition is set at a very severe angle in the closing two days of spring training. Ball players going good now will slip and slide with worry and fret, lest that steep angle be too difficult to climb. But there are those who will take it with ease and who have climbed it before. You remember, and a few youngsters who are now ready, will find it simple. Who are they? Better still, what will their opening line-up be? Can you take a guess now? Write your selections on a paper, and bring it out April 15. See how close it is to the real thing. Sure it's early, and anything can happen, but it's fun. Here's mine. Exactly the same as last year: Newsum, Sullivan or Tebbets, York, Gehring, Ball, Higgins, Greenberg, McCoskey, Campbell.

We couldn't help noticing, at the first workout of the young pitcher, how thorough and patient Del Baker is with these youngsters. He and Mervyn Shea spent hours the first day coaching them on the use of the change of pace. This very deceptive pitch must be a part of every successful hurler's bag of tricks. There was Trout, Manders, Smith, Trucks and others who came in for the intensive instruction. Del stood by watchingly every throw and he was quick to catch any let-up or nonchalance. He was particularly pleased at Trout, who with a little more experience, was getting it a little faster. These little details, like shading the ball, letting the arm go through ahead of the throw are the stepping stones for a regular job. Glebel, young as he is, combines his sinker with a brilliant let-up pitch, and that is why he is such a good prospect. In that Cleveland Tiger game last fall, which decided the pennant, Billy Sullivan said at the time, that no two pitches were the same speed. Ben Chapman would be the best witness to that.

Some ball-players are real fuss-buckets about their roommates. When Bartlett went room with Whatiss, because he smokes, or because he rises so early, or maybe because he reads so much, So as a rule, players with the same temperament, usually find each other, for the general peace of the entire family. But here's an unusual pair, who seem so far to be hitting it off, although as I write this, it's on the second night. Charles Leonaard Gehring is rooming with Richman Bartlett. Says Mr. Gehring: "Everybody thinks I am quiet, and won't talk. Now that I'm ready to open up, Mr. Bartlett draws me as a roomy. They get a word in edgewise with him." Says Mr. Bartlett: "If he stays rooming with me, he'll talk." In all 25 years of baseball, your writer only asked waivers on one roommate. That was a fellow outfielder, very saving in money matters, and if he threw any money away he didn't throw it far. He carried a small washboard with him on the road, and would slide back and forth, and little things, and washers, and socks, and nightgowns, and so on. But it was a bad day, if he would wait until I'd had a good day, and then decide to do the family wash. Well at night, groping around for the light switch, nearly always these wet shirts and things would swish you in the face, as they would on lines that he would stretch from the windows to the door. Electric washers were unknown then, else it could have been worse. Fancy coming in your sleeping room and seeing the latest washer in motion, humming

The Safety Man
Public opinion is a strong factor in making a safety program for community. Any honest and sincere police department would do this. The first thing in protecting the public is frequently prevented from doing so by influential citizens or politicians. This practice is the part of our evil will ruin any safety program. Public education is necessary to correct such conditions. Fearless leadership on the part of honest officials is especially, must predominate to help people who want to live in a safe community.

We urge every citizen to investigate conditions in his own community, to courts and police departments and operating as they should but are not giving protection to a few to the disadvantage of the majority, then that should be publicly aired and corrected.

It's Smart to 'Drive Carefully!'

That's Gratitude in Reverse

There is a limit to the Good Samaritan act. A man in St. Joseph standing near a fire box turned a warning alarm at the request of a trolley motorman who had just been robbed for $20. Police, arriving with the driver, arrested him.

Stream of Gold

Gold has been found in a little stream back of the college gymnasium of Bethany college in Bethany, Va. But the catch is in accordance with Prof. J. S. Allen is that the gold is in such minute quantities that its recovery would be impracticable.

ORDER APPOINTING TIME FOR HEARING CLAIMS
No. 31645
State of Michigan, the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, in the said County, on the 17th day of March, A. D. 1941.

Present, Honorable Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Oscar D. Schneider, deceased.

It appearing to the Court that the time for presentation of claims against said estate should be limited, and that a time and place be appointed to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against said deceased by and before said Court:

It is Ordered, That creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Court at said Probate Office on or before the 2nd day of June, A. D. 1941, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, said time and place being hereby appointed for the examination and adjustment of all claims and demands against said deceased.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.

Mar 20-Apr 3
Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION
Sale of Land Contract
No. 29567

State of Michigan, the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor in said County, on the 17th day of March, A. D. 1941.

Present, Hon. Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Victoria V. Palmer, deceased.

Parvula C. Hartwell, Administrator of said estate, having filed in said Court his petition, praying for license to sell the interest of said estate in a certain land contract therein described, for the purpose of distributing the proceeds of such sale among the persons entitled thereto.

It is Ordered, That the 15th day of April, A. D. 1941, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Probate Office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate appear before said Court, at said time and place, to show cause why a license to sell the interest of said estate in said land contract should not be granted.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order for three successive weeks, previous to said day of hearing, in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.

Mar 20-Apr 3
Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.
Nora O. Borgert, Register of Probate.

Design Older
The seal on the face of our currency has the inscription (in Latin) "Seal of the Treasury of North America" instead of United States because the design of the seal of the treasury department was devised in 1776 before there was a United States of America.

Used as Substitute
A substitute for egg whites is a protein powder extracted from whey, by-product of the cheese industry. It can be whipped with salt and used as the substitute, according to Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.
