H. S. Vocal Department Will Present Concert

On Thursday evening, April 8, at 8:00 o'clock, the Chelsea High School Vocal Department will present its first concert of the year, in the school auditorium.

After extensive preparation the groups participating are ready to present what they hope will be an enjoyable and interesting program for the community.

As an opening group, the mixed chorus will sing: "Climb Up, Ye Children, Climb", a negro spiritual; "Listen to the Lambs", Nathaniel Dett; "All In An April Evening", Robertson.

The third number is of especial interest as it is the required number of the State Vocal Music Contest, in which the chorus plans to participate.

The second group will feature Frank Blanning, baritone soloist with the Olivet College Choir. Mr. Blanning will sing two well-known songs: "On the Road to Mandalay", Kipling; "Kashmiri Song", Woodford-Finden.

The Girls' Chorus follows with an English Madrigal, "Now Is the Month of Maying", by Morley; and the ever popular "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair", by Steven Foster.

A group of nine girls known as the Triple Trio will present the fourth group of numbers, singing first a musical setting of James Whitcomb Riley's "Little Orphan Annie", Clayton Thomas, and second, "Tom Thumb's Drum", by Leslie Sarony.

Mr. Blanning then returns to sing: "Singin' A Song", by Brown; "Give Me a Horse He Can Ride", O'Hara. To conclude the program the mixed chorus sings three numbers. First, the beautiful melody of the "London, Every Air", arranged by Walter Goodell; "Villagers from the 'Merry Widow'", by Franz Lehár; and to leave the audience in just the right frame of mind, "The Pilgrim's Chorus", from Tannhauser by Wagner.

Inasmuch as this is the only concert given by the Vocal Music Department, it is hoped that a capacity audience will attend to hear and see what the department is doing.

Tickets may be secured from any chorus member on or after Friday, March 28.

Miss Josephine Linde, daughter of Mrs. Fred Linde of Ann Arbor and the late Fred Linde, was united in marriage to Raymond Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Koch of Chelsea, at the Zion Lutheran church, Ann Arbor, at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, March 26 (the birthday of the bride's father). Rev. E. C. Steinhorn officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a street length dress of navy blue with white trim. Her accessories were navy and white, and gardenias and sweet peas formed her corsage. Mrs. Philip Novess, who attended her sister, wore a light beige suit. Mr. Novess was best man.

The bride is a graduate of Ann Arbor Senior high school and of the Ann Arbor School of Cosmetology. The groom is employed with his father as a carpenter.

After a short wedding trip they will reside at 61 N. Lima Center Rd., Lima township.

LENTE MESSAGE

LENTE THOUGHTS

By Rev. J. Fontana

What then shall I do unto Jesus, who is called Christ?—Matt. 27:22.

As we have again, during this Lenten Season, followed the story of Christ's Passion and come nearer to the end of that story, a question arises in our hearts and minds, the same question which Pilate asked when the Jews demanded the freedom of Barabbas from him and left him with Jesus on his hands. What then, he asks, shall I do unto Jesus who is called the Christ? This is the question which Pilate should have decided himself without asking the people. He represented the Roman law, and not the people; he was the judge and guardian of the law, not the people; he was supposed to make a decision, not the people; he was to see that justice was done but he declined to do so, and submitted to the will of an unfurl mob.

Now then after we have heard the case and have seen the man, the question is up to us to answer, to decide. "What, think ye of Christ?" "What shall we do unto Jesus?" These questions must be answered by us and must be answered now. Shall we stand with the mob asking Him to be crucified? Shall we submit to the will of the wicked and crucify Him? Shall we thrust the thorns and nails and spears of our sins into His flesh with the intent to do away with Him, to kill Him again? Let us not do these things, let us make another decision. Let us decide justly and lawfully, let us make a right and just decision.

Yes we have heard His case and seen the man who is the Christ, the Anointed of God, God's Son, decide that He shall live in us whom He has bought with a price and redeemed, purchased and delivered us, that we might be His own and live under Him in righteousness and blessedness forever. Yes let us live under Him and for Him now and forever.

BAXTER-WISEMAN WEDDING

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Wacker, 143 Dewey St., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon when her sister, Miss Helen P. Baxter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Baxter of Chelsea, became the bride of Wayne F. Wiseman of Detroit, son of Mrs. Mina Wiseman of Lima township.

Daffodils, snapdragons and floor candles bearing white tapers were arranged about the fireplace, before which the double ring ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by Rev. Ray W. Barber.

Mrs. Wacker played the wedding march and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of white satin extended into a train; she wore a shoulder-length veil and her bouquet was of white roses and white sweet peas. Mrs. Julius Miller of Jackson, as matron of honor, was gowned in turquoise silk marquisette and carried tallman roses and blue sweet peas. Mr. Miller performed the duties of best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Baxter chose a dress of navy blue crepe with a corsage of tallman roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Wiseman's dress was of a similar material and roses and sweet peas formed her corsage.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surmounted by a miniature bride and groom, and was decorated with bouquets of daffodils and snapdragons in yellow and white.

The couple left on a wedding trip, the bride wearing an aqua dress, beige coat and saddle tan accessories. An orchid boutonniere completed her costume.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Chelsea high school. Mr. Wiseman has a position in the office of the Packard Motor Car Co., Detroit. Mrs. Wiseman, a graduate of St. Joseph's Training School for Nurses, has been employed at St. Joseph's hospital, Ann Arbor, since her graduation. The couple will reside on East Grand Boulevard, Detroit.

Registration Necessary For Spring Election

Many new residents of Chelsea who have been accustomed to voting in city elections are confused by the system of registering which is necessary here. Some people have experienced difficulty in voting at the general elections because they had registered only with the village clerk, believing that to be all that was required for voting at any election.

With the spring election coming on April 7, Robert G. Foster, Sylvan township clerk, warns those who wish to vote on that date to have their names properly registered by Saturday of this week, which will be the last day for general registration prior to the election. Anyone who fails to register will find it difficult to vote on April 7 unless they can furnish proof that they were ill or out of town during the registration period.

Voters who wish to vote at all elections must be registered with both the village clerk and the township clerk. By so doing much embarrassment will be eliminated at the elections.

BRIGHTON—The Pickett school house, on Hickory Ridge Road, near the General Motors Proving Grounds, was discovered to be on fire last Thursday evening at 10:30, by Fred Lawrence of Flint, a foreman of the Buick division at the Proving Grounds as he was driving by. The flames were quickly placed under control by members of the Division, without much damage done to the building.

Crude oil mixed with waste basket paper presented evidence that the building had been set on fire. The state police are making an investigation.—Argus.

DUNDEE—In the seven months since the opening of the Dundee Recreation Center in the Pettit Bldg. there has been a steady growing interest and participation in activities carried on. Special programs have included the Opening Tea on August 30, Halloween party, Thanksgiving party and observance Christmas tree trimming, Christmas parties, Community Carolling and Christmas stories, Jr. and Sr. Hobby Club, Valentine party and box, exhibit at Montee county fair and at Congregational church hobby show, St. Patrick's party and 2nd annual Handicraft exhibit on March 21. Permanent programs include handicraft work of all kinds, ping-pong, puzzles, games, model airplane construction, group singing, story hours. Additional activities include hikes, nature study, first aid, study aid, picnics, game construction.—Reporter.

PLYMOUTH—Such excellent progress has been made in the construction of the war munitions plant of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company located a mile east of Plymouth along the Pere Marquette railway, that the company has been able to begin the placing of machinery. While it is not expected that the building will be completed before the first of April, its big power plant has been finished and is already in operation. The structure is entirely closed and the vast concrete floor has been almost finished, with the cressote block covering completed as far as possible. There is little doubt but what more than a thousand men will be working in the plant before another 30 days is over, if the present rate of machinery installation can be maintained. Construction work has been so arranged that workmen have been able to start the installation of machinery without in any way causing delay on the part of either group of workers.—Mail.

Michigan Boys and Girls Can Win Dairy Calves

Open to any rural Michigan boy or girl between the ages of 13 and 20, inclusive, is the essay contest sponsored by the five major dairy breed associations in cooperation with the Michigan Farmer, Detroit publication serving Michigan agriculture.

Purebred dairy bull calves are offered as prizes in each of the five breeds. Those youths who enter can select any of the five breeds including Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein or Jersey, and write on the subject "Why Dad Should Keep Purebreds and Why He Should Keep..." naming the breed.

Entries must be in the hands of the editor of the Michigan Farmer by May 31. Essays are not to be more than 1,000 words, typed if possible, or at least written carefully in ink on one side of the paper.

The contest will attract many of the state's 65,000 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H club work. These entries will have a head start with their knowledge of dairying, but others can obtain information from any of the national dairy breed association offices.

There is no competition between breeds. Sponsors hope to stimulate greater appreciation of the value of higher quality animals in dairying. After state winners are selected, a national winner is to be named.

Judges include E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture at Michigan State College; Earl Weaver, head of the college dairy husbandry department; A. G. Kettunen, state leader of 4-H club work in Michigan; A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at the college; and George H. Fern, director of the state board of control for vocational education.

WINNING ESSAY

Following is the third-prize winner in the Kiwanis essay contest on suggestions for community betterment: Recreational Improvements

By Jeanne Messers

The population of Chelsea has increased greatly in the last couple of years, due no doubt to the factories and industries. Consequently, we are not able to meet the recreational demands of the people.

Our greatest necessity is a community house, a building large enough to have several rooms. In this building there would be an auditorium on the ground floor, complete with a stage. Here plays would be given by dramatic clubs. It would also be used for speakers, educational movies, etc. This auditorium could be easily converted into a gymnasium where independent men and women's teams could play basketball, volleyball, and badminton. Also on this ground floor would be several small rooms comfortably furnished for clubs, meetings, and other community enterprises. A large room with smaller ones on each side would provide a library which would be open several nights a week. This would give people who work an opportunity to read and select their books. Also it would be a fine place for young people to study. School activities demand most of our time every night after school, therefore we are not able to use reference material which our fine library offers. In the basement of this building there would be two rooms and a kitchen. One large room as a dining room and a smaller one equipped with ping-pong tables. On the floor of the dining room would be shuffleboard courts. Then many could play at once and tournaments could be held.

Another essential recreation for young people as well as the old is a place to dance, where liquor is not sold or in any way contacted. One room or a part of the community house could be used for such a purpose. A nickelodeon or record player would provide the music.

Skating has not been good the last year. I believe it is because the skating pond is not in condition for good skating. It should be cleaned out and then in winter frozen several times. A small building like a garage, would be helpful. There would be a place to put your skates on and perhaps later a loud speaker system could be used and we could have music.

Recreation which we do not have and which would be healthful and entertaining is tennis. The so-called court at school is in bad condition. Even when it was all right for tennis, one court was not adequate. We are not asking for cement courts, we will be satisfied with sand courts if they are numerous and kept in playing condition.

Swimming is a sport which all people in this vicinity should participate in because we are so near lakes. However our lakes now seem overrun with undesirable campers and tourists. Last year even an eye disease was prevalent as an outcome of bathing in a nearby lake. Therefore a swimming pool would be appreciated. We realize this probably cannot be done, but it is a goal at which we can aim.

If, at least, a few of these things are done, community spirit, cooperation, health and citizenship will reach a new high.

Defense Program Will Stimulate Road Building

Lansing—State Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy this week spiked rumors that work of bringing Michigan's military network up to War Department requirements would halt construction of secondary or "farm-to-market" roads.

"In fact," Kennedy declared, "the national defense program as it relates to highways is likely to result in a stimulated construction program for both our primary and secondary systems."

The commissioner added it was significant to note that, with certain exceptions, the military network includes most of the principal mileage on the primary system. "Due to this fact," he said, "contemplated improvements to the military network will also benefit our regular trucking routes, and will include projects that would eventually be demanded by the constantly increasing traffic over these highways."

With Congress expected to appropriate funds in the near future for improvement of the military network, Kennedy said it was quite likely this would leave more funds available for the construction of secondary highways.

"Our 'farm-to-market' roads," Kennedy declared, "are equally important to a large percentage of the people of Michigan as our main primary system, and we will plan our program accordingly."

In addition, Kennedy called attention to the fact that because Michigan's southern farming region has many lakes and because there is some agriculture in northerly recreational areas, these roads are frequently of equal value to farmers and tourists.

"And we must never for a moment forget," he added, "that a large part of Michigan's population is dependent upon our $400,000,000 tourist-business and this industry in turn is dependent upon good highways and attractive highways."

A REPORT to America

The Ford Motor Company's business has always been to serve the needs of the American people. In providing them with low-cost transportation for the past 38 years, we have developed one of the country's largest and most useful industrial units. During a national emergency, we feel that these facilities should be devoted without reserve to our country's needs. Toward that end we started rolling months ago, with these results:

1 A $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine factory, started only 6 months ago, is nearly completed. Production will start with an initial order for 4,286 eighteen cylinder, air-cooled, double-row, radial engines.

2 We are building a new $800,000 Ford magnesium alloy foundry, one of the few in the country. It is already producing lightweight airplane engine castings.

3 Army reconnaissance cars—military vehicles of an entirely new type—are rolling off special Ford assembly lines at the rate of more than 600 a month. We have produced Army staff cars and bomber service trucks.

4 The government has given the "go-ahead" and work is now under way for the fast construction of an $11,000,000 Ford plant to produce bomber airplane assemblies by mass production methods.

5 Several months ago work was started on our own initiative, on an entirely new 1500 horsepower airplane engine especially designed for mass production. This engine is now in the test stage and plans are being developed for producing it in large quantities when and if needed.

6 A Ford aircraft apprentice school has been established, to train 2000 students at a time.

That is a report of progress to date.

The experience and facilities of this company can be used to do much of the job which America now needs to get done in a hurry.

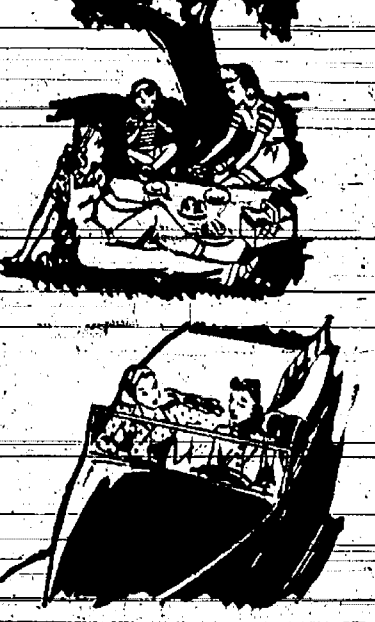

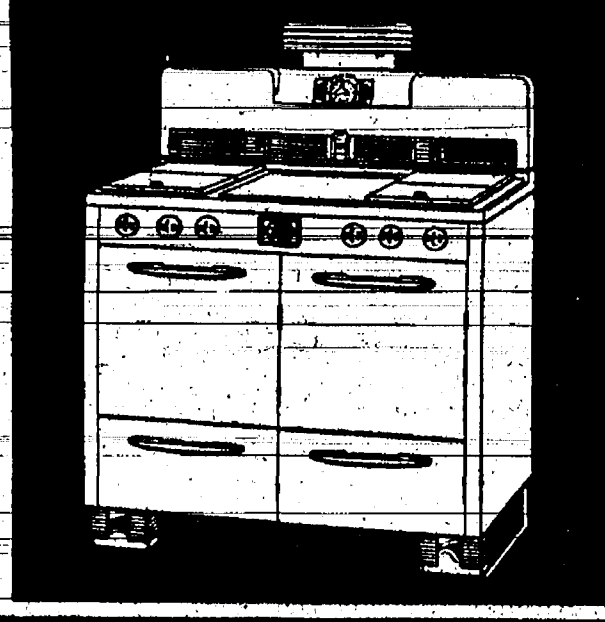

Our way of working, which avoids all possible red tape, enables us to get results and get them fast. This benefits users of our products and workers who produce them.

We are ready to make anything we know how to make, to make it to the limit of our capacity if need be, to make it as fast as we can go, and to start the next job whenever our country asks us to. And to this end, we know we have the full confidence and loyal support of the workmen throughout our plants.

The Hi-Light

Edited By The PUPILS OF THE CHELSEA PUBLIC SCHOOL

Hit and Miss by Mac

This is the time of the year when most of the high school people, for some reason or another, begin to think of what they're going to take up in school next year. When one looks at the array of subjects offered to high school students here in our own school, as compared to those of just a few years ago, he begins to think. Take for example, when the present Seniors were Freshmen. One had no choice as far as Algebra was concerned, one just took it or else. There was no Home Ec. offered.

In their Sophomore year they were asked whether they cared to take Geometry or Mathematics, they just took Geometry and said nothing about it. In their Junior year many of them struggled through Chemistry (the very hard, College kind). Today they can take a "college" course in Chemistry or none at all if they prefer. Next year or within the next few years, Manual Arts will be offered in this school. Each year the classrooms are improved so that the lot of the student is made easier. Yes, the people considering their future subjects in school today face a whole lot better set-up than they would have four years ago. This progress speaks well for the school, and also for the administration, faculty, and the very able school board who have helped to make it possible.

Perhaps another seasonal thought is that of the senior play in this school. A great deal of talent had been unearthed in this school through this medium, and undoubtedly will continue to do so. Why not support these people? They deserve it. The senior class of '41 have made perhaps less demands on the people of this village than all the previous classes rolled into one. They've proved that a senior class could raise sufficient funds without having to exhaust the time and pocketbooks of their parents, and at the same time disregard their subjects in school (a great cause for teacher complaint).

Future senior classes might profit by their example.

Office News

Charles Walker, a student in our school, has put up and taken down the flag, which we have at the school, for some time now. He has not missed a day in three weeks. We wish to thank him for doing such a fine job.

The reports of the students who were former students of our school, and who are now Freshmen in various colleges, have been very gratifying. The class of 1940 can be complimented on their fine work as Freshmen.

The faculty beat the Seniors on Friday, March 14, when they were opponents in a basketball game. The Hi-Y club of our school has subscribed to The Chelsea Standard. The Hi-Light will be posted on the bulletin board each Thursday afternoon, so all of us will have a chance to read it.

The Journalism Club is keeping a scrapbook. They are pasting every copy of the Hi-Light in so they can keep a record of their past work. The Student Council is sponsoring a "Spring Cleaning" on the lockers in the school. The cooperation of all the students will be appreciated. The vocal music department will present a concert in the gymnasium at 8:00 p. m. on Thursday, April 3. Spring vacation will begin April 4 and school will re-open on Monday, April 14.

Mr. Cameron and Mr. Johnson took some of the boys to the finals of the State Basketball Tournament which were held in East Lansing on Saturday evening, March 22.

Student Council

At the meeting of the Student Council on March 17 they decided to have a joint conference of the boys and girls of the grades nine through twelve, in study hall, Thursday morning, March 20.

Under the auspices of the Student Council, Rev. Barber spoke at an assembly of the high school students on March 18.

Plans were discussed for the coming of the Student Council elections on April 29.

We are to have two candidates from each class—the ninth, tenth, and eleventh—one for president and one for vice-president, and a campaign manager for each.

We are having to have the election early, in order for the president and vice-president elect will be able to attend the Student Council Conference at Dundee.

On April 24 we are planning an All-Hi party, which will be the best of the year. We hope there will be a large attendance.

There will be all types of dancing (round and square) and much entertainment.

Latin Week

The Midwest and Western Classical Association has designated the week of March 31 to April 4 as Latin Week in Michigan. Since Latin is a course whose practical results cannot be immediately or accurately measured, its popularity had decreased in the years preceding 1930 and 1940. However, the present year shows a small increase in the number of students who are taking Latin.

The Latin students of Chelsea high school are planning two different programs for that week. On Monday, March 31 a supper for all of the students enrolled in Latin will be given in the Home Economics room. This will be followed by a Latin program. On some day of that week the students of first and second year Latin classes will present a Latin program for all Freshmen.

Guest Soloist

The Chelsea High School Chorus announces that it has secured Frank Blanning of Olivet College as guest soloist for their concert on April 3. Mr. Blanning, a senior student in the Music Department of Olivet, has been soloist with the College Choir for the past three years and has secured a scholarship for further study in New York next year.

Other numbers on the program will be presented by the Mixed Chorus, the Girls' Chorus, and the Triple Trio. All three organizations have been rehearsing diligently the past few weeks to prepare an outstanding program for the evening.

Swing Band

If you had been walking by the school on any of the previous Monday nights and heard beautiful dance music issuing forth from the windows you immediately knew that it was the Swing Band getting ready for the assembly which they helped put on at Napoleon a week ago today.

The Swing Band has received a large group of new numbers and they have been working diligently on them. They hope to have enough numbers learned to be able to play at least some of the new ones at the Assembly

On Thursday, March 20 at 8:30 the entire high school body met in the study hall for a general student conference. Previously a conference had been held for the boys and girls separately. At these separate conferences problems that were considered important to the school were discussed. Then these problems were brought before the entire group. The leaders of this joint conference were Helen Miller and Bill Rademacher.

Sophomore Class

Last week the entire cast of the play "Buddy Answers An Ad" was well received in Napoleon.

This one-act play was put on by the Sophomore class and had formerly been given in the study hall as an assembly. It was taken to Napoleon last week as a return assembly and was also accompanied by the Swing Band. The cast was as follows:

Buddy—Bob Strieter.
Alfred Ray (his father)—Luther Kusterer.
Mary Ray (his mother)—Margaret Knapp.
Myrna (his sister)—Evelyn Lehnman.
Eloise (his girlfriend)—Madelyn Rowe.
Ted (his boyfriend)—Tom Lyons.
The Postman—Bob Perkins.
The Demonstrator—Helen Grabowski.

What Would Happen If

Senior play.
Bob R. didn't go up to the library every 6th hour?

Alda R. didn't receive at least two letters a week from Bruce?

This Grass Lake fan wasn't to be seen courtin' Ruth B. around?

Barbara W. didn't write a letter every day during 6th hour to Ralph K.?

D. Le Van ever had an assignment finished?

D. Foor and P. Vogel didn't find something wrong with everything.

Girls' Athletics

On Thursday, March 20 the Freshmen and the Sophomore girls played a consolation game which ended in a tie, 4-4.

The Freshmen girls were unable to score from the floor but were very efficient when shooting foul shots which accounted for their score. The Sophomores made their points by field goals made by Evelyn Lehnman.

A three-minute overtime period was to no avail so they will play again Tuesday night.

F. F. A. News

Now that spring is here, the boys plan to get started fixing the school grounds. They will re-seed the lawn and trim the bushes.

On Friday, March 21, the high school had as their guests some teachers from Ida. They visited various classes and exchanged ideas with the teachers.

We were very happy to welcome these visitors.

Home Ec.

The Home Economics class is busy making nightgowns for the Red Cross. They were asked to do this and the cost is all being taken from the Home Economics club fund.

Plans are being made for an "April Fool's Party" which is to be held the first day of that month.

It was decided that each girl may bring a friend to add additional merriment.

Incidentally

The Seniors are producing "Who's Crazy Now" in the gym tomorrow night (March 28). Come early and get a good seat.

The Senior boys lost the basketball game to the Faculty, 30-28.

Taking this opportunity, the Class of '41 wishes to thank all of you for your cooperation in their paper and magazine collecting scheme.

Class colors for the Seniors are blue and silver.

Germany got one up on us and say we are in the war with Great Britain.

We must, after the war is over, make Great Britain pay us back. Say we give her five thousand guns. We must make her pay for them or give us five thousand guns back. I don't see where we lose anything on a deal like that. That is how I look at the lend-lease bill.

We have finished our posters. Miss McNeill asked us to make posters for the spring concert on April 8.

Eldore Carlson celebrated his birthday on the first day of spring.

KIWANIS NEWS
The Kiwanians had a joint dinner and meeting with the Hi-Y club of the Chelsea high school on Monday evening. The mothers of the Hi-Y boys prepared a delicious meal and the officers of the organization conducted an interesting program for the group.

The local organization, which is under the capable direction of Vernon Downing, informed the Kiwanians of their many worthwhile activities and community projects which improved both the Chelsea high school and the locality.

Officers of the group secured Merrill Enevart, who is the present secretary of the State Y. M. C. A., as the principal speaker for this occasion. Mr. Enevart enthusiastically commended his fine address by stating that the Hi-Y club, like the Kiwanis club, is essentially a service organization and its primary function is to create, maintain and extend Christian living and leadership in the community. He mentioned that the Hi-Y organization has consistently attempted to adapt young people to their environment by intelligent discussion and solution of the various problems which confront young people today.

He declared that the teaching of cooperativeness in everyday living, and a greater tolerance and understanding of the point of view of other persons is the ideal toward which all persons should strive to attain. The speaker further stated that the creation of a correct attitude in young people in relation to their school, work, and family affairs is the most important element in any program of successful living. He concluded his excellent discussion by urging the Kiwanians and the Hi-Y club to cooperate more and more on beneficial projects for the community.

State Capitol, Lansing. — Winning by losing!

That's the result-getting story of the Townsend movement in Michigan. Townsend clubs are maintained by devoutly, zealous crusaders who believe that America's economic salvation lies in an enforced spending of generous old-age pensions and the replacement of jobs, which these oldsters now retain, by younger men and women.

For any minority cause, legislative appeasement is often granted in proportion to the degree of political pressure that can be applied at the right time on the right persons.

Today, old age assistance is a $450,000,000 annual activity of federal, state and local governments. Beneficiaries number nearly two million persons.

Nine Votes

This month at Lansing the House of Representatives came within nine votes of adopting a bill to raise monthly pensions from $30 to $40. Everyone over 65 years of age whose property holdings are valued at not more than $3,500 would be eligible.

The issue for legislators was ticklish.

Rep. Ate Dykstra (R) of Grand Rapids, eight-term veteran who recently announced his intention not to run for re-election, proposed it.

In August, 1939, the federal act was amended by Congress to permit federal matching on a 50 per cent basis up to $40 per month per eligible recipient.

In June, 1940, only two states — California and Colorado — had an average monthly payment per person in excess of $30.

The effect of the federal revision was to place responsibility for the higher monthly payment squarely upon the availability of state and local funds, together with the willingness of legislators to give preference to old age assistance over other deserving causes espoused by other voting constituents.

Dykstra's proposal for $40 monthly pensions lacked only nine votes of adoption. The final vote was 42 to 44; needed majority was 51.

Van Wagoner

One of Governor Van Wagoner's first acts in January was to recommend to the state welfare commission that 10,000 persons be added to the old age assistance rolls by July 1, 1941.

A decision was made whereby 2,000 persons would be added monthly. The March 18 case load in Michigan was $1,340.

Although the maximum payment is $30, most of the recipients get far less than that. The average is $18—not $30, not even $40!

Although more than 81,000 persons are receiving pensions, the welfare board in January had 30,000 applications which it could not fill!

The total expenditure of state funds is about eight and a half million dollars per year. The United States matches this money on a 50-50 basis.

Complications

And so when the House of Representatives considered the $40 monthly pension plan, complications were numerous.

First, the increase would virtually double the state's annual expenditure. Instead of $8,500,000, the state's cost would run close to $17,000,000.

Second, this increase would mean a denial by the legislature of state aid sought by other groups. For example, the school lobby seeks a $5,000,000 increase in state aid to schools.

A survey made by Dr. George E. Carothers of the University of Michigan recently revealed that Michigan's high schools are badly overcrowded; teachers are poorly paid.

Third, there is that annoying $27,000,000 deficit on the state books whereby the state has borrowed from certain funds to pay current needs.

But, politically speaking, old age pensions are old age pensions, and they all spell one word: Votes. Consequently, many a legislator nervously saw his shadow when he voted against Dykstra's $40 pension plan.

Although the vote was non-partisan, here was a Republican-sponsored cause that would outdo Governor Van Wagoner's 40,000-increase-by-July-1 program for pensions. Even this lure failed to attract a majority.

Economic Security

When the Social Security Act was created, an insurance system was established so that wage-earners during their years of financial productivity could build up protection for the future.

But this insurance plan could not afford immediate protection for old people. Some other plan had to be provided.

Thus old age assistance was authorized, and today approximately one-fourth of the population 65 years of age and over are receiving some kind of monthly pension. Of this group a substantial portion comprise persons not previously recognized as public dependents.

Thousands of aged persons, who previously had to rely on irregular and inadequate support, either through their own efforts or by sharing the income of children, relatives, or friends, have been able to maintain their own homes and otherwise to live their own lives.

Social workers believe generally that old age assistance should provide for persons in need and do so without forcing their relatives to deprive their children, for example, of opportunity for education or otherwise having to maintain a sub-standard level of life. This is especially true in families of small income.

Federal F. Fauri, state social security director, this month said: "If the legislature grants our request for a $9,500,000 appropriation for old age assistance during the next fiscal year and $10,500,000 for the following fiscal year, we will be able to take on eligibles as soon as they apply."

At present the waiting list is nearly one year behind authorization of payments. April's new recipients will be those who applied in March, April and May of 1940—one year ago.

Considering that the average payment is $18 a month and that the House of Representatives came within nine votes of authorizing up to $40 monthly payments, one might logically forecast that such an appropriation may be made by the present legislature.

It is by concessions of this kind that special groups win by losing.

Three Men and a Woman on a Whaler

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

W. N. L. SERVICE

Isaiah cackled in a sort of gleeful wonder: "Got him first jab! Say, that Corkran won't ever go ashore 'till we 'ard'!"

Then the whale dove away on the surface, thrashing flukes, breaching half out of water, its spoutholes streaming blood like a crimson banner. Mary watched the men in the water. Mat's boat reached them and began to pick them up, pulling man after man over the side. All of them. Saved! A great relief swept her; and she held hard to Isaiah's arm.

Isaiah said disgustedly: "Blasphemers! That whale's sunk."

Her eye swept the water in all directions and saw nowhere a spout, no glistening back, nothing but Mat's boat yonder, now full of men, and Peter's bobbing in an empty sea.

"Corkran went in too high with that lance," Isaiah said, and spat. "Can't blame him. He had to work fast. But he went in over the shoulder blade. Right whale's got an air bladder same as a fish. You let the air out and down it goes."

He looked at her sideways. "There's times I talk more'n I'd ought to," he admitted awkwardly. "Like telling you about the mate not being Cap'n Ira's son. Richard told me not to, and he'd give me fits if he found out I did; but it's so. Cap'n Ira married a widow woman, and the mate was her young'un. She wouldn't marry him only if he'd tell folks Pete was his. They kept anybody from knowing, somehow. He added: "But I'd oughtn't to've told you. I was kind of worked up at Pete for trying to get out of lowering."

She said reassuringly: "I won't tell anyone. It's not our business, is it. Does Peter know?"

"He ain't supposed to." He cackled with a relish. "It's going to be some surprise to that young smelt when he hears the will read out, I'd admire to be there to see."

The boats were near; and they moved to the rail. Mat was ahead, Peter some distance behind, towing the stove-boat, and Peter was standing up, using the long steering oar instead of the tiller which he might sensibly have preferred for this peaceful return to the ship. Richard faced forward, and he seemed to drop in a discouraged, broken fashion. Mary lifted her hand and called to them, a greeting without words. The boat came alongside, and she called: "Was it fun, George? Are you hurt, Richard?"

George grinned happily, and Richard shook his head. "I'm all right. Sassalet's ankle's twisted. The flukes just ticked me on the arm. But if it hadn't been for Peter it would have been bad. The whale was ugly."

Yet she saw then that he was more seriously hurt than he had said. He was needing help to reach the deck. His left arm appeared to be of little use to him; and he was white with pain.

Mat said: "You'd best get into some dry clothes and see how bad that arm is."

Richard nodded and went aft, and Mary looked after him, wishing to follow him but George was beside her, flushed, full of talk, trembling with the excitement of the past few minutes. She heard him telling her what he had seen, and tried to listen, and caught broken phrases. "One so near we could have hit him with our oars. . . . Peter didn't hesitate this time. . . . And then he heard him say: "Losing his boat will make Richard a little more human. Not quite so sure of himself."

She wished to say loyally that an accident might happen to anyone; but instead she spoke of Peter. "I'm glad Peter killed the whale. He's been feeling so badly about Uncle Tom."

"It was Corkran who killed it," he reminded her.

Peter's boat in fact drew near; and when he saw them watching, Peter called: "Well, Mary, you saw something today!"

She felt suddenly pity for him, thinking how crushed he would be when he knew the truth about his fatherhood, knew himself disowned by Captain Ira Corr.

"That was fine," she told him. "Wonderful!"

"You have to know how to handle 'em," he said complacently. "There's more to whaling than bull luck. Dick isn't the only man aboard can kill a whale. Where is he?"

"Gone to change his clothes," Mary said; and as the boat came alongside George added:

"His arm's bruised. The flukes hit him."

Peter laughed. "Probably rubbing liniment on it," he said. He swung up to the deck. George called to Corkran: "Great job you did!"

Isaiah shook his head. "Well, a fine lot of use I'll be around here for a while," he said. "Peter, you're going to have to handle things."

Peter nodded carelessly. "Sure," he agreed. "I'll look out for you. Before noon they sighted whales again; and Peter lowered, and Corkran got two irons home handsomely. Peter himself lanced this whale as easily as killing a chicken, and he came back to the ship drunk with swaggering with a new sense of power."

Question And Answer Dept.

Problem—Two brothers were walking along together on a street and talking confidentially. One of them stopped in front of a house rather suddenly and said to the other: "Wait here a moment, please; I want to go in here and see a charming young lady who is my niece, but she is not your niece. How come? (Answer elsewhere in this department).
Ques.—Do all female honey bees lay eggs, and do all the bees help make honey?
Ans.—No. The queen bee of the hive is the only one that lays eggs. She is the sovereign, and the thousands of other bees—the workers—submissively obey her. The drones all die within three months after the queen begins laying eggs, averaging about 200 a day. The workers are all females, and they attack the drones which has no stinging for defense. The queen's eggs are hatched in about seven days after the eggs are laid, and the female workers feed and care for the young until they mature.
Ques.—Do the people of Bulgaria belong to the White race?
Ans.—The people of Bulgaria sprang from the Mongolian (yellow) race during the second century, but linguistically they have adopted a Slavic speech of the Slavic population. They lost not only their ancient language, but also their physical type, and have become Europeanized in character. While they seem to feel that they do not belong to European civilization, the people are white-skinned and the women are beautiful and with refined appearance. After 1,800 years as Europeans, their adopted home, they may be justly classed as belonging to the White race.
Ques.—If I hung out a lot of spaghetti on the antenna of my radio, do you think I could get Italy?
Ans.—I dunno. However, we hung out a wee frying pan and got grease all right.
Ques.—What was the middle name of William M. Thackeray, the novelist and humorist? Was he a German?
Ans.—William Makepeace Thackeray was the full name of the famous novelist and humorist. He was an Englishman by blood, but was born in India July 18, 1811. He studied at the University of Weimar in Germany, where he became associated with Goethe. It was because of this association that many thought Thackeray was a German. He died Dec. 24, 1863, and was entombed in Westminster Abbey in London.
Answer to problem—The niece of the speaker was his brother's daughter.

Efficient Homemaking
Depends on Equipment
Efficient homemaking depends on the efficiency of the equipment used. Since appliances will not give the best service unless they are in good working order, Thelma Beall, home management specialist, Ohio State university, advises women to operate appliances as instructed, keep them clean, and oil as required and to watch electric cords and repair or replace them when worn.
The real cause for the failure of many electric appliances lies in the cord, appliance plug, or outlet plug. In handling the appliance cord, always grasp it by the plug and not by the cord itself. Rough handling is hard on the fine wires inside the cord and will eventually cause them to break and cut through the protective covering.
Electric washers give the best service when not overloaded with either clothes or water. In starting the machine, first start the motor and then throw the machine into gear. In stopping, throw the machine out of gear before turning off the motor. Keep the washer in a dry, clean place.
Best results with an electric iron come from keeping its sole or bottom surface clean and being careful not to scratch it. If the iron has a temperature regulator, current and time are saved by getting it at the proper point for the fabric to be ironed.
The vacuum cleaner is one of the most neglected pieces of equipment. Housewives too often pick up bits of glass, pins, or metal objects with the sweeper, which may clip the fan blades or make holes in the dust bag. Women are reminded that the dust bag is not a storage place for dirt. The bag should be cleaned regularly but never washed, as washing removes the "filter" which helps to make the bag dustproof.
The enameled parts of a range may be washed with soap and water or a mild abrasive when the range is cold. The metal may be polished with whiting or metal polish. Food spilled on electric cooking units is burned off and any particles left in the grooves can be brushed out. Electric refrigerators require little attention, although the food compartment needs cleaning at regular intervals.
