WINNING ESSAY

Following is the essay which won fourth prize in the recent contest held by the Kiwanis club:

Some Projects That Would Be Beneficial to Chelsea

By Helen Loefler

There are several improvements that could be made in Chelsea that would make it the perfect small town.

First of all, there should be some recreation for all the people in Chelsea. A building that had game rooms for the young people and club rooms for the older people would be a great help. We have bowling alleys, and a nice theater, but people seek other entertainment, such as getting together and having clubs, parties, and so on. If a Community Center would cost too much, a good skating pond equipped with lights and a stove in a small booth where one could get warm, would help a lot. Some property could be either leased or bought where there is good skiing and sliding. In the summer the situation is pretty well under control because of the summer recreational program, but it would be nice if there were a good tennis court for the older children.

Several towns have installed filtering plants and they have proved very successful. Chelsea could use one because of the excess amount of iron and lime in the water. It's hard to keep things clean because of the iron. Many of the townspeople think this would be a worthwhile project.

Chelsea should have a more modern fire-fighting apparatus. The present truck is hard to start and much valuable time is lost trying to fix it. There should be two good fire trucks, one for Chelsea and one for the country surrounding Chelsea.

Something should be done about the parking situation on Congdon and Summit streets. During church services the streets are parked full on both sides. This holds up traffic, and also is a fire hazard because it would be hard to get through with a fire truck to fight fires in this vicinity.

A trailer park would be suggested because there are several trailers parked in yards. It would make it nice for tourists who are visiting the Waterloo Project, or the various camps and lakes. It would also reduce fire hazards, because if one caught on fire the houses in the vicinity would be in danger.

In the library there should be an Information Bureau. It would be helpful to tourists who want information on how to get to the areas surrounding Chelsea.

If some of these improvements were made, and the people of Chelsea helped keep them up, Chelsea would be a better town.

Smelt go up the streams to spawn in late March and April. With waters and hand-nets, the crowd waits for the night run of fish to begin.

Each spring local girls are chosen to reign as "Queens" of the various Smelt Festivals which take place during April.

Tons of smelt are frozen in huge slabs and stored for use as feed on milk and fox farms in Michigan and neighboring states.

LITTLE FISH MAKE A BIG MICHIGAN INDUSTRY

● SMELT are running! Around Escanaba and Menominee, Beulah, Boyne City and other smelt centers, that means busy days and busy nights. Thousands of people join in the activity, netting tons of fish every night.

The annual catch of smelt in Michigan is over 9,000,000 pounds and growing every year. In the Escanaba area alone, it's a $50,000 industry.

Like all fish, smelt are highly perishable, and handling the catch requires lightning communication between packer, shipper and city market. In locating the places where smelt are in demand, speeding up shipments, routing fast orders, modern telephone service helps get the succulent little fish from river to frying-pan in the shortest possible time.

SHOULD BE LIBERATED FROM THE FURNACE COIL

The hot water coil in your furnace is an altogether bad egg. It can't be depended on to give you enough hot water, or water hot enough, when you want it.

But the surprising thing to most people is to learn that it doesn't supply you with hot water FREE. On the contrary, tests prove that to heat the water, passing through the coil requires up to 20% of all the fuel you burn.

Why not do as so many families are doing — have that wasteful coil removed, and substitute a gas automatic water heater, which will furnish you a constant supply of Instant Hot Water? Free trial from now until after Christmas.

Editorial

Once again Spring has stepped forth with all of her usual splendor but this year she arrived with several uninvited guests. You probably all know who I'm thinking about (since they have been talked about for so long). I mean those dear little friends of ours, the measles, scarlet fever and what-have-you. Personally I think (I'm sure you all agree with me) that these uninvited guests should be chased out of town and put in places suitable for such disturbers of the usual peace and quiet around Chelsea.

Anyway let's hope that everybody will be all better soon and that we may start thinking of more pleasant things such as the arrival of Easter and our much looked-forward-to Spring vacation.

Office News

The seniors who sit in the back seats in the study hall have been carefully taking roll every morning since school started last autumn. We wish to express our appreciation to these monitors for their faithful work and to Lawrence Dietle, who has diligently checked the roll each morning.

Spring vacation will begin Friday, April 4 and school will reopen Monday, April 14.

The vocal music department will present a concert in the gymnasium at 8:00 p. m. on Thursday, April 3 (tonight).

Work on the new Chemistry and Physics laboratory is progressing very nicely.

The Agricultural classes are supervising the care of the lawns and the athletic field. They are putting wire around the school lawns to keep people from cutting across them and they are also pruning the shrubbery. The boys hope that everyone will cooperate with them in this respect.

The Safety class of our school sponsored a safety movie for the pupils in the grade school at 10:30 a. m. on Wednesday, April 2.

D. H. Deyoe of Michigan State College will visit our Agriculture department on Thursday afternoon, April 3 (today). Mr. Deyoe is connected with the service-training of teachers in the Michigan State Agriculture Department.

Student Council

At their meeting of March 24 the Student Council discussed further plans for the Student Council Conference at Dundee on April 30. Rohn Miller was put in charge of the transportation committee.

Further plans for the All-Hi party on April 24 were discussed. It was decided to have each class put on a skit. A worthy prize will be given to the best one.

The Athletic committee had the athletic code read, and suggestions were made. It now is to be referred to the different coaches (boys and girls) before it becomes effective.

It was decided that the girls should be given the privilege of using the ping-pong table in the Hi-Y room on Monday and Tuesday nights (after 8:30).

It is hoped that many girls will take an interest in this.

They also decided to have a spring house cleaning by having everyone clean out his locker. Definite times were set for the different classes.

Assembly

The Senior class put on an assembly Wednesday of last week.

The high school "Swing Band" played three selections—"The Little Man Who Wasn't There," "I Can't Remember To Forget," and "You're The One."

Two selections from the senior play "Who's Crazy Now" were given by Betty Fletcher, Loren Koenigster, Roland Heim, Jeanette Lehmann, Ethel Hale, Bill Rademacher, and Margaret Harper as announcers.

Latin Club

In keeping step with Latin week the Latin classes put their heads together and decided to have a banquet last Monday night. Contrary to the usual custom, they did not eat on floor nor did they wear the traditional togas (sheets). Nevertheless everyone had plenty to eat and spent an enjoyable evening playing games and dancing.

Wednesday afternoon the Freshmen were invited to attend a Latin social hour presented to them for their future benefit, by members from both the present Latin classes.

The first year class gave a Latin play which everyone enjoyed (even if it was all spoken in Latin). From the second year group Jane Schlosser gave a general report on Latin. Several short stories containing Latin words and their derivatives were also read. At the close both classes joined in and sang several groups of Latin songs.

The purpose of the Latin week was to induce more freshmen to take the course next year, not only here but in schools all over the United States.

Senior News

The play during the last few weeks has taken so much of the Seniors' time that there is little news except that of thanking all of you for your fine cooperation in making "Who's Crazy Now" a success.

Elementary News

Sixth Grade

We played the Seventh Grade game of basketball Wednesday morning. It lasted from 10:15 to 10:45. We beat them, 12 to 4. The captain of our team was Ray Knickerbocker. The players on our team were Ray Knickerbocker, Bob Daniels, Charles Poppi, Dale Collins, Henry Merkel, Braden Barlow, Eldean Eisele, Lewis Holbrook and Cameron Colquhoun.

Junior Miller refereed the game. Cameron Colquhoun must have been mixed up in the last half because he ran down the court with the ball and shot for the Seventh Grade's basket. Luckily, it didn't go in.

Seventh Grade

Editors: Doris Nagy and Arthur Paul

"The broadminded see the truth in different religions, the narrow-minded see only the difference."—Chinese proverb.

We are studying about the Revolutionary war in History. In Arithmetic we were studying overhead, profit, and primary cost.

We made chorus posters and we did pretty well. Mr. Johnson, Miss Fox, and Miss McNeil liked them. Some children are making poppy posters.

The boys and girls have started to play baseball.

The seventh grade boys played the sixth grade boys in basketball. The sixth grade won.

The whole seventh grade wrote letters to Clifford Myers. We each wrote about a different topic.

Eighth Grade

Reporter: Willetta Lantis

The teachers now have the authority to send any pupils home who have been affected with colds because the teachers are afraid that the pupils might be coming down with measles. Approximately eight pupils from our class were dismissed from school.

We had tests in Arithmetic and History.

The theme for this week is: "Let's Have Cooperation." By Eva Geddes.

Our school is less attractive than could be desired. The only reason for this is that each individual pupil does not do his part toward keeping it neatly arranged. Many pupils, instead of putting forth a little effort in tidying it, go out of their way in doing all they can to destroy it. With this kind of citizenship among the student body, we can never hope for a more pleasant place in which to study.

Don't throw paper wads and spit balls and don't fill the desks with paper, but rather do all you can to keep our school looking well groomed.

Another need of cooperation deals with the subject of politeness. As all of us know, this contribution is becoming scarcer every day. In helping to abolish this weakness, we should listen attentively when the teacher is talking instead of acting rude and trying to compete with her.

At the drinking fountain a very bad case of impoliteness is often found. Wait your turn so everyone can get a drink.

Evidently cooperation is badly needed, so everyone of us should do our share to welcome it.

ters on the office of state highway commissioner.

G. Donald Kennedy, Democratic nominee, has enjoyed an advantage over the Republican nominee, Leroy C. Smith, in time for campaigning. Kennedy knew many months prior to the convention that he would be the nominee. Smith did not.

Consequently the Smith campaign was slow to get started. Republicans have been raising an issue of politics in the highway department and emphasizing Smith's 32 years' experience as a highway engineer, while Democrats have plugged consistently and vigorously on a pledge to continue the Van Wagoner policies and on Kennedy's personal knowledge of the job.

The contest has been enlivened somewhat by activity of county road commissioners against Kennedy and in behalf of Smith. County road men have felt for years that the state department was taking over too many roads and spending too much money.

Whoever is your choice, and we heartily support a non-partisan line, be sure to vote TWICE—once for the short term, and again for the long term, when you cast your ballot for state highway commissioner.

Control of Board

In order to obtain control of the state administrative board, Democrats would have to get over both Kennedy and Edward McFarland, nominee for state superintendent of public instruction.

Eugene B. Elliott, Republican incumbent, possesses a state-wide reputation as an educator. McFarland, a professor at Wayne university, was chairman of the liquor control commission during the Murphy administration.

Other party nominees are for the state board of agriculture, two to be elected; University of Michigan regents; two to be chosen, and the state board of education, one to be picked.

Forgotten Amendments

In the neglected class are two amendments which will appear on a separate ballot.

The amendments, in brief, are designed to prevent fraud in petitions for referendum and initiative. They would require a person to be a "registered voter" before he could sign a petition, and the secretary of state would be authorized to determine the validity of all signatures.

Judicial Ballot

A separate ballot will also be provided for supreme court judges.

While nominees were selected at party conventions, no party affiliations will appear on the non-partisan ballot. The theory has been that this difference will divorce the supreme court from politics. It also will put another responsibility upon the voter, already burdened by lengthy ballots.

Strike Reaction

Although many labor bills have been introduced by legislators and the administration itself is sponsoring quite a few, little likelihood exists today that any marked changes will be made in our state labor laws during this session.

A bad reaction has set in because of the current wave of industrial strikes, many of which are inter-labor controversies that do not involve hours or wages at all.

Then, too, the workers are enjoying fat pay checks.

If any bills are enacted, the chances are that the occupational disease law will be liberalized and that hours will be reduced for women workers in interstate commerce. Nothing of an extreme nature is in sight. If what we hear is correct, federal restrictions of wages and hours will not be imposed on retail stores, for example, as an administration bill proposes to do.

Furthermore, it is very probable that the labor mediation act will not be touched. The 30-day "waiting period" continues to receive favorable public opinion, largely because of the public's mounting impatience over delays in national defense production due to labor tie-ups.

Tourist Dollars

Michigan's nearly 800 millions in arms awards are expected to stimulate the tourist industry next summer in northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

The state itself will spend more money to advertise Michigan's recreational attractions through the four tourist associations.

A legislative enabling act is to be introduced at Lansing this week giving sanction to a $225,000 bond issue, voted last month by Mackinac Island residents, for the purpose of preserving such shrines as the John Jacob Astor house, restoring colonial atmosphere to the business section, and creating new parks and bathing beaches.

Citizens of Michigan:

Today's critical times demand the highest qualified public servants.

In state convention, 2106 Republican delegates chose unanimously for state offices men of outstanding ability and experience.

You have an unusual opportunity Monday, April 7. You will decide by your vote whether YOU want politics in your schools and your highways.

Elect LEROY C. SMITH state highway commissioner. He served NINE YEARS as deputy commissioner and engineer; TWENTY-THREE YEARS as Wayne county road engineer. Here is a nationally-known road builder. He pioneered the first national defense type roads in Michigan. He originated the idea of tourist park facilities in Michigan.

A native of Mecosta county and former resident of Benzie county, Smith knows the needs of local government—he's tops in his field!

Re-elect EUGENE B. ELLIOTT state superintendent of public instruction. He will continue to keep schools out of politics. Here is an able public servant who knows Michigan's educational problems. He, also, is tops in his field!

Other Republican nominees, whose names and pictures appear below, join in this appeal: "For Good Government in Michigan, Vote Republican on Monday, April 7."

State Capitol, Lansing—As leading politicians see it, Michigan citizens are concentrating too much attention on Hitler's threatened "blitz" party in England and our entry as a belligerent into the war.

It so happens that an important election is to be held next Monday, April 7.

But to judge from conversation to be heard at dinner tables and in places of business, the Michigan election hasn't been getting the attention it deserves.

Not only that, the international situation and our domestic boom have combined to put legislative problems into temporary eclipse. James Haswell, liberal correspondent for the Detroit Free Press, phrased it this way: "Michigan's legislature always is conservative, but this year the radicals are exceptionally small. Advancing prosperity and public preoccupation with war and defense contribute to this state of mind."

Army Sports Revived At Training Centers

Fort Custer—Army sports, which spanned dozens of great athletes during the World War era, have made a come-back with the national defense program and Selective Service.

That became apparent recently when it was announced that baseball games had been scheduled between the Fort Custer Recruit Reception Center and three of the state's major college teams—Wayne, Michigan State and Western State.

In announcing the institution of baseball rivalry, Capt. George D. Ziegler, former Wayne University athlete who is serving as Reception Center athletic, welfare, and recreation officer, said that it was hoped that athletic relations could be carried over into other sports.

"It is only natural that Army and college teams should meet," he said. "Our men are learning how to defend their country just as college students are learning various skills. The two groups have much in common—both are a picked lot, physically fit, and mentally alert. These contests should be of great value to both the Army and the colleges."

Wayne will play at Fort Custer on May 2. Western State will meet the soldiers on a home-and-home basis, playing at Kalamazoo on May 17, and at Fort Custer on May 27. A home-and-home series may be held with Michigan State. Ralph H. Young, athletic director, notified Capt. Ziegler that approval of the rivalry with the Reception Center had been given by the Athletic Council but it has not yet been decided whether one or two games will be played.

The Fort Custer Reception Center

nine has a pitching star in Eugene Stack, a private from Saginaw who was held as a promising Chicago White Sox prospect before he was called to service. Private Truman Connell, a Detroit who saw five years of professional ball as a minor leaguer and was owned by the St. Louis Cardinals and Cleveland Indians, is serving as coach.

In addition to the baseball program, emphasis is being laid on softball at the Reception Center. An inter-company tournament in which several hundred men will compete has been planned.

"Recreation plays a big part in keeping up morale," Capt. Ziegler said. "We try to provide every sort of recreation for the boys, and since baseball is the most important American sport, we're making sure that everyone who wants to will have a chance to play ball."

Tested Seeds Prove Safest for Farmers

Farmers who receive advertisements from other states offering seeds of new and often unknown varieties of crops such as corn, oats, or beans will do well if they consult their county agents before buying. H. C. Rather, head of the farm-crops department at Michigan State College, advises:

Every year about this time farmers are flooded with offers of seeds promising to give increased returns. Some such seeds offered are good while others are untried and untested. Some of them are good in other states, but not adapted to Michigan climate and to Michigan soils. Rather points out. Some others, he reports, are out-and-out fakes.

One firm in Ohio recently has been offering a new variety of soybean seed of which retails at $12 a bushel. A Michigan farmer consulted his county agent before buying, and the county agent in turn wrote to the Ohio experiment station for information. The soybean advertised, the experiment station reported, had been on test for three years, and in each of the tests produced lower yields than the common soybeans selling at normal prices.

An Iowa seed company sold in Michigan a carload of seed oats of a variety not recommended even for Iowa, where it originated. The price obtained was more than $2 a bushel.

Standard practice of the Michigan experiment station has been to test varieties for adaptation to Michigan condition, and this information is always available to farmers and to seed dealers alike. It is to the credit of reputable Michigan seed dealers that they recommend only varieties that have been tested and approved.

In nearly all instances county agricultural agents have information on varieties of seed, and if they have not, they can easily obtain such information from the college. Thus, the farmer may be saved a headache, and crop loss.

Progress Made In Drive To Register Workers

Satisfactory progress in the drive to register workers in Michigan was reported this week by M. C. Pierce, manager of the Ann Arbor office of the Michigan State Employment Service, co-operating in a nation-wide campaign to recruit workers for National Defense jobs.

"Reports coming in from local offices," Employment Service representatives declared, "indicate that literally thousands of workers are becoming aware of recording their abilities and training with the Michigan State Employment Service."

"Many workers registering with us, despite the fact that they are now employed; are doing their country a good turn by reporting previous training and abilities in industrial work."

"Many of the workers now registering used to be skilled workers who, during depression years, got into other work not utilizing their skills. As a result, their industrial skill became rusty from disuse."

"Anxious to return to work in their old occupations, many of these workers are now registering with us and indicating a desire to take government re-training, or re-fresher courses to qualify them to work on National Defense projects."

Throughout the state every effort is being made by the Employment Service to have workers register with the nearest of the 50 offices operated by this free, public employment service.

Likewise, elsewhere in the country, other State Employment Service agencies are cooperating in the nation-wide "Worker Recruitment" campaign.

Launched several weeks ago by the Social Security Board, the United States Employment Service, and representatives of the Office of Production Management.

Increasing the supply of available, qualified workers to meet the expansion of industrial facilities made necessary by billions of dollars of National Defense orders is vital "if our defense program is to succeed as planned."

The office in Ann Arbor is located at 201 E. Liberty St. It is open every day from 8 to 5 and on Saturday from 8 to 12.

"You must think I'm an idiot!" She was at once hurt and angry. "Sure you didn't?"

"Of course I'm sure," he decided. He frowned. "Now, I'm wondering if that barrel of ambergris is still in the cabin stores. I'll have a look and see."

The ambergris was safe, and nothing new happened to alarm them, but there was after that day an added vigilance in Richard's manner. He kept a more watchful eye upon the men, and went out of his way and outside any real need to keep them busy. He was forever shifting sails, trying this way and that to get greater speed out of the Ventura.

In the end it became necessary to tell George about the pearls. Mary and Richard and Peter were apt to discuss the pearls whenever two or all three of them were together and out of reach of other ears; and a man less sensitive than George must have seen that he was excluded from some secret which they shared. He was for a while too proud to confess that he saw this.

But in the end he questioned Peter. "I've had an idea you, Mary and Richard have a secret between you."

Peter laughed. "Secret? You can't keep a secret aboardship. No. Don't you worry, George!" he urged. "Richard's all right, and so's Mary. Of course, it would go to any man's head the way she looks at him; but they'll be all right once we're ashore."

George said after a moment: "I trust Mary, and Richard too, of course. Only I've wondered, sometimes."

"Here, I'll show you you're wrong," Peter spoke easily; he took George by the arm, led him across to the other side of the deck and

He sat down, shaken by what he heard, fumbling for solid ground again. "Our islanders slaughtered those men?"

"Yes!" She said. "But they did it because they loved you, George."

After a moment he cried in a sudden strength: "Mary, I'm glad they did! The world's better without them."

"Yes."

"Does anyone else aboard know?"

"Corkran knew, of course. He's probably told everyone. And they all saw the smoke from the burning schooner before they reached the island."

He nodded briefly, said in a slow scorn of himself: "Everyone knew but me, but no one told me."

"I knew how unhappy it would make you."

Went toward him, forced herself to speak casually. "Well, they're gone, almost out of sight now."

George nodded. "I think I'll go below." He seemed hoarse. "I'll try to take a nap."

He turned away. Mary, after a moment's doubt, went with him. He did not protest when she followed him; but neither did he look around. He walked rapidly aft to the companion, descended before she overtook him. At the foot of the companionway she found that he had stopped to wait for her; and when she faced him he asked a flat question.

"Mary, what were you and Richard talking about?"

He cried, wretchedly: "Oh, I'm sorry, Mary! I don't want to be this way! But I've seen you so often lately talking to him, and if I come near you, you stop. I try not to notice. I try as hard as I can. But I can't help it, Mary."

Desperate to reassure him, and to stop his questions, she remembered the pearls. "Richard's worried," she said. "There were some pearls in a packet in his desk, and they've been stolen."

"Pearls? Where did Richard get them?"

"They were mine." Once begun, she must tell him everything; but at her word, his hand tightened on her arm.

"Where did you get them, Mary?"

"Jarambo gave them to me the day we left Gilead."

"Jarambo?" His eyes cleared with relief. "I suppose he'd had them for years. Probably dove for them himself. Was that it?"

"No," she said. "I think I know what happened." She told him the truth, or her best guess at what the truth might be; she related now at last the massacre at the island, and the burning of the ship.

"They had killed Augur, you know," she reminded him. "I suppose these were his pearls, and they got them, and Jarambo found them on their schooner."

He sat down, shaken by what he heard, fumbling for solid ground again. "Our islanders slaughtered those men?"

"Yes!" She said. "But they did it because they loved you, George."

After a moment he cried in a sudden strength: "Mary, I'm glad they did! The world's better without them."

"Yes."

"Does anyone else aboard know?"

Most of the conditions that cause accidents on our highways are created by us. We, the drivers, are responsible for most of the trouble and the steadily mounting national traffic toll. Many times, in some of our rural sections, you will find "visiting" cars on and two cars parked directly opposite each other headed in opposite directions. One may be on the shoulder and the other in the traffic lane. Just about this time two cars going in opposite directions are about to meet at this point, and because these "gab fests" are frequently over the brow of a hill, it is too late to stop. The result is a smash-up involving four cars.
Why do people do this? The answer is that they just do not use their thinking powers.
Let's use our heads.
