Symbolic of scenes throughout the nation on Memorial day is this bugler of America's 1941 army. Against a back-drop of the thinned ranks of the Blue and the Gray and the marching feet of the parading veterans of the Spanish-American war and the World war of 1917-18, he sounds "Taps" over the graves of America's war dead. Memorial day is annually the day for decorating the graves of the warrior dead. Established originally in memory of those who lost their lives in the Civil war it has since been made the occasion for recalling those who died in other wars.

Senior Class To Leave On Annual Trip Sunday

The graduating class of Chelsea high school is following the tradition of preceding classes and is taking a trip this year it's by boat to Niagara Falls.

Arrangements for the trip have been made by Youth Travel, an agency that specializes in trips for graduating classes. The class will be transported to and from Detroit by bus. The boat, S. S. South American, will leave Detroit at 2 p. m. on Sunday, June 1, cruise to Niagara Falls where buses will meet the boat to take the "Cruisers" on the tour of the Canadian and American Falls, Horse-shoe Falls, Goat Island, Whirlpool Rapids, Peace Bridge. After the tour lunch will be served on board ship. The boat docks in Detroit at 8:00 a. m. on Tuesday, June 3.

Mrs. L. Palmer, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron will act as chaperones. C. Chandler, who is the Senior class advisor, is not accompanying the class this year—he says that the sponsors chosen couldn't be improved upon.

Deck games, dancing, and a soda-bar will provide entertainment for all the guests. Several other graduating classes from other schools will also be on board, and it is expected that a good time will be had by all.

The Seniors took their examinations on May 27 and 28, and the knowledge of having taken them will add much to their enjoyment of the trip.

The class of '41 has worked hard to earn money for their trip, and they want to express their thanks to everyone for making the trip possible. They have only one more thing to ask: "Buy an Annual".

Helen Miller Awarded U. of M. Scholarship

Helen L. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Miller, of Chelsea, was among one hundred high school seniors in every part of Michigan who were notified this week that they had been awarded Alumni Undergraduate Scholarships to the University of Michigan for the next school year.

Each award covers two semesters' fees in any of the University's undergraduate schools, according to the announcement made by Dean Clarence S. Yoakum, vice-president of the University in charge of educational investigations.

Recipients of the awards are selected on the basis of scholarship, character, and financial need. Most of this year's winners were chosen from recommendations made by local University of Michigan Clubs and alumnae groups. A small number was also selected from those recommended by groups of alumni and alumnae in communities without sufficient alumni to form a University of Michigan Club.

Students who maintain a satisfactorily high standard of scholarship during the term of their awards are eligible for similar awards in their successive years at the University. This year there are 230 scholarship winners of previous years enrolled in the University. More than 700 students have been sponsored by University of Michigan Clubs in the 11 years since the scholarships were founded.

Lansing—Michigan has been chosen by the treasury department at Washington as one of six states where organized volunteer buying of U. S. national defense bonds will be tested on a big scale.

Upon the outcome of a high pressure campaign led by the dynamic Frank Lahey, Detroit appointee of Gov. Frank Murphy as state fair manager in 1937 and 1938, may rest the federal administration's decision whether to expand the plan nationwide or to recommend congressional enactment of compulsory payroll deductions.

"As many leading Detroit business men see it," confided Lahey, "the country has the choice of either assuring the adequate financing of our national defense program through purchase of government bonds as well as taxes or opening the door wide to disastrous inflation signs of which are already at hand."

"If the bonds are not bought voluntarily," the government may be forced to require compulsory savings through payroll deductions."

Cities, Schools

An educational program is being launched through the public schools, local governments, and industrial concerns to acquaint the public with the merit of the new bonds.

Whereas the World War Liberty Bonds were bought at par and often sold at a loss, the 1941 securities are redeemable at any federal reserve bank at not less than par, plus any interest accrued.

School children are being asked to buy savings stamps in denominations of 10 cents and upward, available at local postoffices. Stamp "booklets," when filled, have a cash value of $18.75 good for the purchase of a $25 bond. The bond is redeemable in ten years at the latter amount, a 33 1-3 per cent increase on the original investment.

All bonds constitute a direct obligation of the United States government itself.

Crawford's Warning

Rep. Fred L. Crawford, Michigan, testified before the house banking committee at Washington that the treasury's quota of a billion-a-month sales of defense bonds was lagging badly.

Declaring that plan of compulsory bond buying had been adopted in both Germany and Britain, Crawford said that such a proposal had been made here by leader Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics. National defense contracts would carry a provision whereby a certain percentage would be automatically deducted from each worker's pay and invested in government saving bonds, redeemable in full at the end of the emergency.

C. I. O. and A. F. L. workers in Detroit were warned by Isbey (state chairman of the saving bond campaign) to "get in step."

The initial success of the pressure drive indicates that Michigan may again lead the way, not only in mass production of vital armament but in mass purchase of government saving bonds. If it succeeds, it will be democracy in action.

Legislative Wind-up

Tuesday night (May 28) found the state legislature in a frantic last-minute rush to clear decks for adjournment.

In session since early January, the legislature may be remembered more for what it did not do than for the new laws it enacted.

This observation contains more significance than appears on the surface, as a primary function of any well functioning legislative body is to serve as a filter in culling out bad bills.

Condemned widely by the press as a dog racing bill, pushed by gambling interests through their lobbyist, Floyd Fitzsimmons of Benton Harbor, the House smothered this measure.

In the Senate a proposal to establish a secret police force for the personal use of Attorney General Herbert K. Rushton was halted by a bipartisan vote.

Rushton was critical of the governor's use of the state police in handling the Ford strike at Dearborn. During the 1940 campaign, Rushton carried a tag of being "anti-labor," placed upon him by union leaders. The proposed "gestapo," so branded by Senator Ernest C. Brooks (D) of Holland, was too much even for the Republican majority in the Senate. Again, the filter typified much of the 1941 legislative record.

"Bewildering Speed"

The traditional habit of legislators of waiting until the last few weeks before they break the legislative jam has again incurred widespread criticism.

C. Milton Kelly, writer for the Associated Press which plays no "politics" and has no axe to grind, observed caustically: "Feeble protests were voiced by a few members as bills were rushed through the hopper at the rate of one each two or three minutes without benefit of debate, explanation or the formality of reading."

He noted that the house even dispensed "with reading the full titles of each bill in some instances, a shortcut the senate refused to take on advice of Fred I. Chase, secretary, who said it would be unconstitutional."

Another capital correspondent, equally independent, observed: "The senate shied through with the flimsiest kind of consideration shoals of minor house bills."

The legislative excuse was the deadline for committee action and the generally conceded fact that most of the 1,200 bills have been of minor concern. The public would probably get along very well if no new laws were enacted for five years.

Middle of the Road

The civil service commission, invested by the constitutional amendment with dictatorial powers, rebuffed zealous reformers when it chose Thomas J. Wilson as director.

"Friends" of civil service had sponsored candidates who were known to be professionally trained as career men, and hence, like social welfare workers, apt to be sticklers for red tape.

Instead of imposing drastic rules that might not work, the commission has proceeded slowly with its authority. Under consideration for the commission's June session are regulations proposed by Commissioner Alex J. Groesbeck to prevent civil service employees from soliciting political funds, belonging to a political party committee, or serving as delegates to a political convention.

Employees would be permitted otherwise to engage in political activity while not on official duty.

Thus the commission has been earning a reputation for middle-of-the-road action, going neither to the right nor the left. It is our observation that the 1939 legislative reaction to civil service, as introduced in 1937 by the Murphy administration, was due chiefly to arbitrary, impractical rulings of the administrator and the commission. The present commission seems determined not to make the same mistake. Hence its slowness in introducing "all-out" merit protection for state employees.

Cassidy Lake News

Marvin Deats, Correspondent

Forty-two members of the Miller Teachers' club of Eastern Michigan were our guests for dinner Friday, May 16. A delicious dinner was served with fish featured on the menu, with choice vegetables. Strawberry shortcake made a tasty dessert.

The club remained at Cassidy Lake for several hours after dinner. They looked at all of our shops, fed the ducks, and amused themselves on our campus.

Photographers from the Detroit Free Press were on hand to record the highlights of the day on film. We expect to see some pictures of our camp in the Free Press soon. A writer came with the photographers to gather material for a story. The pictures and story will appear in the picture section of a Sunday paper. Boys at Cassidy will have some fine material for their scrap books as soon as the article appears.

Cassidy Lake's welding shop, under the able direction of Byron Myers, is one of the camp's most popular shops. A short time ago eighty boys were reporting daily to Mr. Myers, but recent demands of industry have taken half of the boys. Forty youth are enrolled in Mr. Myers' classes at the present time.

The welding shop has thirty-seven oxy-acetylene torches and six electric arc welders. This apparatus enables the boys to make fifteen welding tables a day on production. Plans are being made to produce 2,000 steel chairs and steel tables as soon as production can be gotten under way.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority inspector was at Cassidy Lake on May 22 to inspect some of the more recent work done by Ted Bellak's boys in the aviation construction shop. The inspector ruled that the entire output of the shop met with Federal regulations. An especially fine job was performed on our recently finished glider, the inspector said.

The boys are all elated over the good news and Mr. Bellak said that they were sure to keep up the good work that has come to be a tradition at Cassidy Lake.

Cassidy Lake's athletic director, George Ceithaml, has our sports program booming. Ray Andera topped all competition to carry away the honors in the recent horse-shoe pitching tournament. His prize will be a free ticket to a University of Michigan football game next fall.

Mr. Ceithaml, by the way, is the same man who alternated with Forrest Evashevski at quarterback on the U. of M. football team last fall, and will undoubtedly fall heir to the position next year.

"A" group of cabins leads our intramural softball league after nosing out "C" group Thursday evening in an extra inning game. The "A" groupers already have their eye on the championship, but "C" and "E" promise to give plenty of competition before the season is over.

Five lifeguards have been chosen to superintend our swimming. Meticulous vigilance in the past has prevented any disaster from spoiling our swimming. Swimming classes will begin soon to prepare boys for their Lifesaving certificates.

The National Youth Administration of Michigan is disclosing its scope of activity and plans for the future through a series of radio programs.

A baseball school of the air will be presented over Station WKAR, East Lansing, probably each Saturday morning. Outstanding high school and college coaches and major league ball players will tell of their experiences. The history of the first one hundred years of baseball will be dramatized over the air waves. This program should be very popular with sports fans.

Our State Administrator, Orin W. Kaye, in an interview over WJR, Detroit, pointed out the vital part the NYA is playing in our National Defense Program. He further explained that this work would not only bolster our present resources, but would strengthen our future as well.

Michigan's broad highways call you on to new discoveries. This is Route U. S. 2, on the Lake Michigan shore.

10,000 Miles of Pleasure... IN MICHIGAN

There's more fun in Michigan—more to see and more to do—than in almost any state you could choose for a vacation. Ten thousand miles of fine State highways beckon you, leading away to woodland, lakes and hills.

Michigan has developed its natural resources for the use and pleasure of its people. Its State highways, forests and parks serve more than 11,000,000 visitors each year. There you can find streams for fishing, hunting grounds, dunes and beaches, places of scenic beauty and historic interest—all within easy driving distance. Camps and roadside parks with all conveniences are maintained for tourists by the State.

The telephone will help you plan your trip, map out a route, arrange for accommodations. And on the road, it will give you a constant link with home.

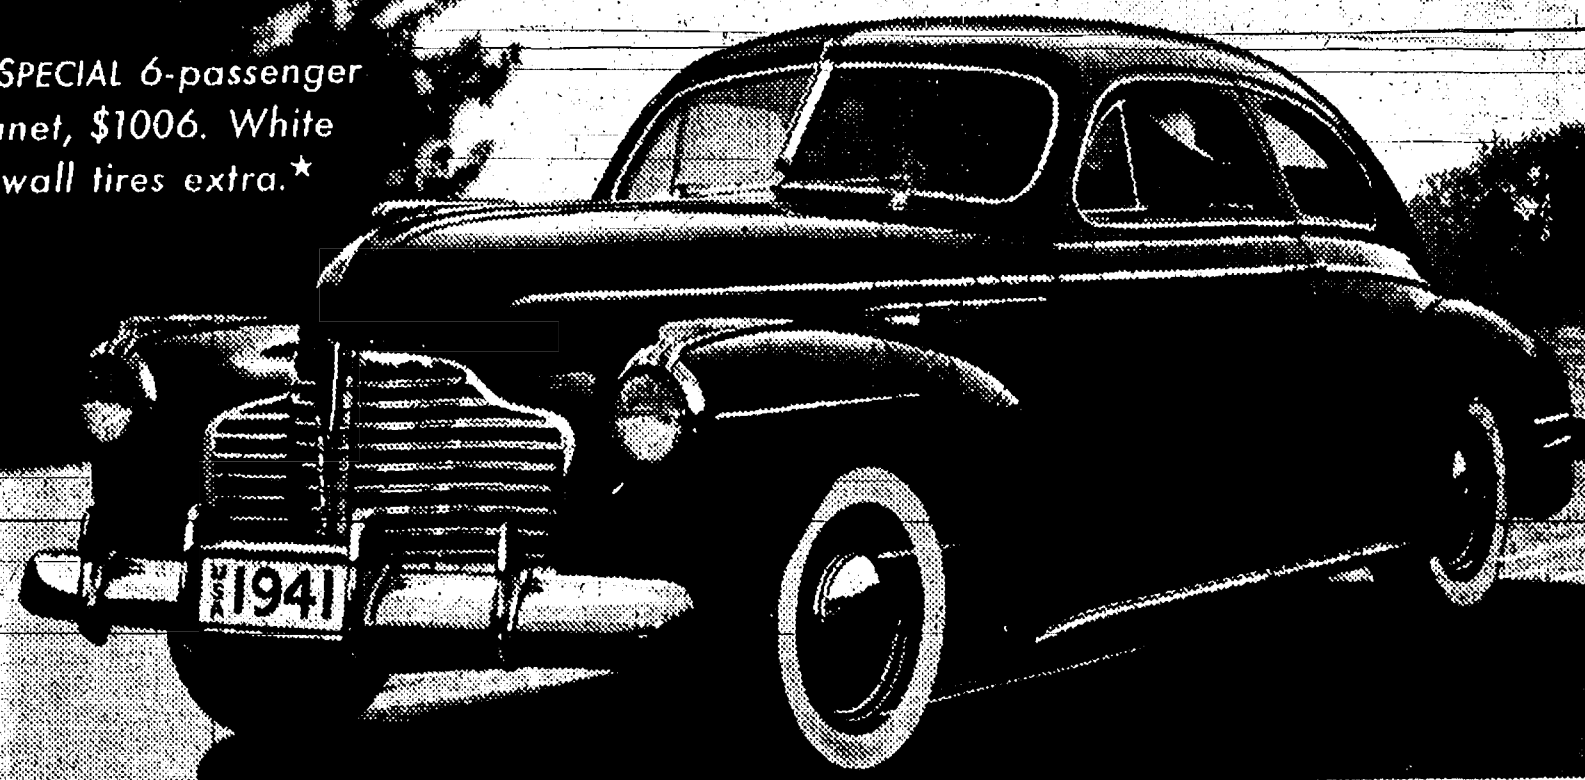

State Park camping grounds like this one in Grand Traverse County provide vacationists with water, tables, stoves and toilet facilities.

Buick SPECIAL 6-passenger Sedanet, $1006. White sidewall tires extra.*

You slip into this trim Buick's seat—and right off the bat you know you've found something.

The cushions fit—the wheel nestles in your hand—the whole blessed beauty seems to say, "Welcome, friend! Where've you been?"

Then you seek out an open road where you can really try Compound Carburetion†—and press down your right toe!

Instantly there's a rush of power, as if an extra engine had gone to work.

Fact is—one has.

Under your bonnet a special, second carburetor has cut in, opening up a fresh reservoir of power not to be found in any other engine.

Most of the time that extra carburetor is idle. Your car operates solely on the small, frugal forward carburetor.

But any time you need or want power—press down your toe and away you go, with two fuel mixers working!

Thrilling? You bet. But by actual test and experience, also more thrifty—as much as 10% to 15% more thrifty than previous Buicks of like size.

Only Buick can give you Compound Carburetion—and even that is only one of Buick's many desirabilities.

There's great size—lush comfort—the smartest of style—solid Buick goodness—all at prices that spell an unmistakable bargain. Why not ask your Buick dealer, "How much?"

KEEP OFF THE MEMORIAL DAY CASUALTY LIST!

By Fred W. Braun, The Safety Man

There'll be no cannon's roar; there'll be no rifle cracks; there'll be no machine gun fire, but there'll be casualties—just the same—casualties of war, but casualties of peace—the Memorial Day Automobile Accident Toll!

The papers the day after will carry the lists of the injured and dead—how horrible to anticipate!

Memorial Day has become a holiday for our people. Originally set aside as a day to honor those who died for our country, now because of the automobile, it is a day for a trip or an outing, and again, because of the automobile, it is turned into a day of sorrow for many. The cause is the automobile accident. But, there is no need for this sorrow. No need for a single person to be killed or injured. Safe driving will prevent it.

What can be done, what can be said to impress our people sufficiently with the fact that only through care and caution can lives be saved and suffering prevented on Memorial Day?

Thousands of cars will be on the road—thousands of others like yourself will be anxious to get to their destinations. Why permit an accident to prevent your arrival? The return home will be just as hazardous. Anxiety to get back as quickly as possible tempts one to take chances, and taking chances is risky.

This much can be said. Drive carefully or take the consequences.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians and their guests celebrated both Ladies' Night and Memorial Day at their regular weekly meeting on Monday evening.

The ladies of the Congregational church prepared and served a delicious dinner, and the Kiwanis Sextet afterwards obligingly sang a few songs for the group. The program chairman selected Rev. Thomas A. Anderson of Detroit to address the group upon the subject, "Memorial Day 1941."

Mr. Anderson enthusiastically stated that this country at present has its greatest opportunity to achieve a peace objective if it will act in this hour of crisis. He promulgated a plan which in essence demanded the nations to confer about and adjust the causes of war. The speaker maintained that our country is able to bring about peace if it is willing to pay the price in terms of money and a certain surrendering of its national honor.

He further maintained that our nation must realize its interrelation with the rest of the world and that it must bear certain responsibilities in seeking a solution to the maelstrom sweeping and swirling over the world. Mr. Anderson concluded his excellent discussion by urging the assemblage to take a part in assisting such a peace front by writing to their representatives and demanding them to formulate legislation to that end.

The program chairman announced that the Kiwanians would meet at the Congregational church for their next weekly meeting and that he had engaged another interesting speaker for that occasion.

FARMERS ATTENTION!

Do you know what you are voting for in your vote for the wheat marketing quota?

Can it be fair? Has it been fair? Can our Government pay this and other debts without ruining our country with taxes?

Is it fair for one farmer with 160 acres of land to be allowed to raise 19 acres of wheat and 21 acres of corn, when a farmer with 215 acres of land can only have 11 acres of corn and 8 acres of wheat?

Can our Government force us into the same class as the European farmer?

Do you want to be in that class? If so, watch your vote June 1.

SHOULD I HAVE MY EYES EXAMINED?

"Somehow I just can't get going any more—something's holding me back—can't concentrate—nerves unstrung—make silly mistakes—even the boss has been checking up on me lately. I wonder if it could be my eyes?"

Too often eyestrain is the last to be blamed for many of our ills—yet it is the primary cause of them. Your eyes bear the brunt of the strain of modern living—in use every waking second—exposed to all varieties of artificial light, closely printed books and newspapers—late hours—driving at high speed under distressing conditions—working under pressure at home, shop or office.

The only defense against these hazards is the safe, sure hand of optical science—highly specialized experience and extensive research—conceived for you—to make life healthier and happier.

Editorial

Chelsea is alive today. It throbs to the beat of National Defense. Every industry, business, and profession has responded to the call of activity. The increased population has brought with it problems of housing, transportation, employment, and new human relationships. This tremendous rise in industry means more opportunity for employment, more money, and greater buying power. We all like the feel of this throb, but the causes which prompt it are not pleasant to our thoughts. When the war comes to an end it is sure to bring a vast amount of unemployment. It is no longer possible to maintain that those who are prepared through education or knowledge of a trade will be the ones who hold their jobs. It seems only right to say however, that those who are a little prepared will be the ones who will find themselves on the preferred list when employers reduce their forces.

The National program is using the adult population for defense industries, and the no-less important mental tasks of business in town is in need of men and women. Since the available workers are already employed, the call is reflected to the boys and girls in high school. It should be kept in mind that these students too are already employed for a full day with their studies and extra-curricular activities. A National Defense worker, being an adult, finds it possible to work overtime and still do no harm, but a high school student finds it a difficult task to fulfill the requirements of two jobs. That is what many of our students are trying to do today. The result shows that poor work is done, especially in school.

The student, parents, school, and employers need to understand each other's problems and their relation to the student. At present the question centers around a fair distribution of time. It is right that the student work, he needs the experience and the employer needs his help. In the interest of the student, his lessons should come first, then extra time spent at work with a reasonable amount of time for recreation. This policy however makes it hard for the business man whose place must have its tasks done. A pupil should consider with his employer, parents, and the school authorities the possibilities for doing outside work and also get his lessons efficiently. The student should not expect to get good marks for unprepared lessons, any more than he expects to get paid for slushy work at a place of business.

In these times it may be wise for a student to do part-time school work and hold a job. In the end it may take a year longer to graduate, but there is no great rush for the act of graduation from high school, when the student is earning his own way. To graduate with his classmates should not be held up to a student as a threat. Many schools are now adding one year more to the school life of the student, and it is no stigma to remain in high school for five years. If tradition books with disfavor on five years in school it may be well to break with tradition in the interest of the student. If old methods are no longer adequate let's find new ones. The present war is certainly a new forcing of the basis of the world. By increasing cooperation of all concerned in the best interest of the education of our boys and girls, a satisfactory program for work and school may be arranged. The student must also realize that he would have to give up some of his leisure time to employment. He would have to become accustomed to a new way of life in a democracy tuned to a program of National Defense.

"Lest We Forget" the welfare of our high school students, shall we put first their opportunity for an education, and put second their out-of-school work with an adequate distribution of time for each of these factors where both are necessary.

End Baseball Season

By George Knickerbocker
It was a sorry day for Chelsea after the game last Friday at Milan. Milan had won the game by a score of 7-20. The main fault was errors. "Andy" pitched only three hits to the Milan boys, and only walked four men. Two of these were in the one inning in which Milan scored five runs. In all Chelsea made eight errors.

Chelsea's one outstanding boy, who did a fine job fielding and at bat, was Stanley Koneski. He collected a single and a home run in three times at bat. It is Stanley's first home run in high school baseball.

Dwight (Speed) Gadd ended the season by getting two more stolen bases to raise his record to 13 stolen bases for the year. Dwight has been remarkably lucky because he has made every attempted steal he has tried. You'll want to be on hand next year when baseball season starts and see this boy run the bases.

Andy Policht ended his high school career with a very good batting average. This season he got 10 hits in 25 trips to the plate to give him an average of .400 which is very good on anybody's ball club.

Bob Stricker, through an error of the score keeper (yours truly) is the leading hitter of the team, with an average of .409, nine hits out of twenty-two times at bat. Luther Kusterer is next in line with an average of .348, eight hits out of twenty-three times at bat.

By looking over the team and the averages of the fellows, we believe that Chelsea will have an outstanding team next year. The only loss the team will suffer will be "Andy" Policht.

Here we must pause and give thought to Andy. He has played in all three major sports of high school, and has been an outstanding player of every game of football, basketball, and baseball. He was captain of the football team and captain of the basketball team this year. I think we can say Andy has been the most valuable player of the Chelsea squads.

Senior News

Last week it was stated that Lois Palmer would attend the University of Minnesota; however, it has been learned that she is going to Michigan State. Wilgus Osborne has also decided that he will attend the University of Michigan.

Sunday, June 1, the Class of '41 leaves for Niagara Falls, and as every Senior has been busy studying for examinations there is very little other news.

Office News

The Huron League Field Day is being held today (Thursday, May 29) at Belleville.

The seniors are scheduled to leave for their cruise to Niagara Falls on Sunday afternoon, June 1 at 2:00 o'clock from the Woodward Ave. dock in Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron and Mrs. Leigh Palmer are the chaperones.

A committee of teachers consisting of Miss Fox, chairman, Miss McDonald, Miss Brown, and Mr. Chandler, have been making a study of the language courses of the school in grades three to twelve inclusive.

School will be closed on Memorial Day. The American Legion will hold the annual Memorial Day program in the gymnasium at 10:00 in the morning.

"Hit and Miss by Mae"

The high school years of one's life are the formative years. Churches recognize the fact that if they can keep a young person in the church until that time, he will remain in the church the rest of his life. Even as a young person can form long-lasting good habits during this period, so can he also form bad habits. However, if young people are subjected to the influence of an older person whose character is worthy of being imitated, they may be guided in the right channels.

Teachers seldom realize, I think, how much some of their students really think of them. The teachers' association with the students during the daytime covers a greater period of time than the student spends with his parents in the remaining part of the day. The loss of a teacher sometimes means the loss of a good friend and adviser on the part of the student, and he feels just as he might at the loss of any other friend.

Three years ago a man came to Chelsea to teach. Now, as he is about to leave it, there remains a school which none could deny has been greatly bettered by his presence.

Mr. Downing will be missed in Chelsea more than he will ever realize, for he leaves behind him the impressions he has made on high school students, the formative impressions already mentioned. In his organization of the Hi-Y Club he set a new standard for boys in this community. No longer are the conditions as they once were in this school. Instead there is a group of representative boys who have been influenced by this man (and in turn have influenced).

He set up a system of student government (to return to the practical side) which takes its place among the others in this district. He has made friends among the student body such as few teachers do. (If you don't believe the students' loyalty to him, try slighting him in front of one of them.)

Mr. Downing has, and I quote him, not been dealing with "students" but "lives." What better attitude could a teacher have? Perhaps this is the reason he has been so successful among the young people, and in return has received their full support? I myself am not qualified to answer that. Nevertheless, all teachers should be challenged to live up to Mr. Downing's high ideals.

Mr. Downing leaves behind him in Chelsea a better school, a better group of young people, and an impression which won't be soon forgotten.

Band and Orchestra

On Thursday, May 22 the Band and Orchestra held their Annual Spring Concert.

During the intermission between the appearance of the orchestra and the band, George Knickerbocker played a concert solo and Earl Holbrook introduced the popular music portion of the program by playing "Stardust," "Preense," and "Perfidia."

A prize was again given for the member selling the most tickets. It was won again this year by Junior Niehaus who sold between 20 and 25 tickets; the exact number is not yet known.

On Memorial Day the band will march in the parade and taps will be given by Lawrence Dietle and George Knickerbocker.

Numbers for Class Night and Commencement are being arranged, also.

Home Economics Trip

On Monday, May 19, the Home Economics Club went to Ann Arbor for their annual dinner. They had dinner at the Woman's League and later enjoyed the theatre.

A three-course meal was served at 7:30. The main dish was chicken ala-king.

Seats were reserved at the Michigan Theatre for the group to see "Ziegfeld Girl."

The group was very sorry that Miss Muzzall was unable to attend with them.

Safetygrams

By the end of May or the first week in June, practically all schools in the country will have closed for summer. Then we shall have an additional traffic problem to contend with—millions of children playing in the streets.

The sentence "Let them arrive alive" has appeared in this column often. All of the many sayings regarding the prevention of automobile accidents to children have been repeated and repeated—they are old to us, but they bear repeating because children are the most valuable asset in the country today. Every time a child is hurt, the nation suffers.

Schools have done a splendid piece of work in educating children in the prevention of automobile accidents, the proper methods a pedestrian should pursue, and all other safety precepts that children should know and observe. The automobile driver should do his part and co-operate with the schools and the children in the prevention of automobile accidents to this very fine and valuable group of young people.

In building a rock garden, use rocks large enough so that you can bury them partly underground so the roots of the plants will follow the stones down into the soil for moisture, where they won't dry out in hot weather or heave out in cold weather.

JERUSALEM SCHOOL NEWS

The Jerusalem school closed its last term of school for the year 1940-41 on Friday, May 23 with a picnic at the school. The mothers of the 8th grade gave us an extra treat at the picnic by furnishing weiners, buns, strawberry soda, cookies and candy, which along with the rest of the picnic lunch was a real banquet. After the dinner, the teacher, who has taught in the Jerusalem school for sixteen years, was presented, in behalf of all her pupils, with a lovely silk house coat, slippers and stockings.

We all feel we have had a very successful year. Everyone passed their grade and much has been accomplished. The eighth graders, Joyce Hoffman, Junior Barth, and Lottie Valant, passed their county tests in good standing. They exchanged gifts and were also given a gift by their teacher. Donald Koch and Carl Koch were neither absent nor tardy during the year. They were given a gift for this completion.

The following were neither absent nor tardy during the last term: Leona Hart, Joan Koenigter, Carl, Robert and Norman Koch, Wilma Koenigter, Donald Koch, Donald Barth, Joyce Hoffman.

The following had the best record in inspection, having had their names in the box the least number of times: Joyce Hoffman, Junior Barth, Lottie Valant, Wilma Koenigter, Doris Trinkle, Donald Barth, Donald Koch, Joyce Elsemann, Norman Koch, Arlene Haist, Joan Koenigter.

It was interesting to study our Arithmetic graphs for the year and also our Language graphs.

The following children took part in the Rural Music Festival at the Hill Auditorium on May 14: Joyce Hoffman, Lottie Valant, Wilma Koenigter, Doris Trinkle, Joan Koenigter, and Arlene Haist. We submitted three music scrapbooks for exhibit at this time and we were awarded second place.

We have been busy finishing our work and preparing our exhibit for the Washtenaw County Fair.

We were very happy to receive our set of Britannica Junior encyclopedia for being among the leading rural schools of the county for progress made during this past school year in promoting Health, Citizenship and all around school improvement. We submitted our school history in the contest which proved to be very worthwhile piece of work.

All the people who contributed any information or gave any help on this project were awarded a certificate by the state, in recognition of the cooperation and active assistance given.

They Learn to Produce
Two years ago, Henry Ford originated "Camp Legion," near Dearborn, Mich., a place where a boy, wanting something more than a place to eat and sleep and play, wanted the satisfaction of working with his hands. In the spring of 1938, 65 boys pitched a row of army tents at the edge of the woods and went to work. By the end of the summer they had grown husky, tanned, self-reliant and had earned their keep and a bit over. The next year, Mr. Ford started "Camp Willow Run."

The boys govern themselves on these camps. They live in tents and eat in a mess hall where they are given plenty of good food. They learn how to plant with tractors and other implements supplied by Ford. What they produce is sold, with each boy receiving a daily wage, in addition to sharing alike the remaining profits at the end of the season. After the work-day they have time for recreation such as baseball and swimming.

Indian Statue Vanishes
Harry Ketcheson of Bellview, Ontario, wants his statue of an Indian back again, and provincial police are hunting all over the lot for it in one of the strangest assignments they have had in a long time. Some one took a fancy to it and now it's gone. For years the statue stood in front of a hot dog stand owned by Mr. Ketcheson and to residents it was as familiar as their own watch. It is six feet tall, weighs 450 pounds. There are supposed to be two Indian statues similar to the missing one. One is overseas with the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment and the other is owned by a large manufacturing firm in the United States. The owner values the statue at $450. Every year tourists have stopped at the hot dog stand and made all kinds of offers for it, but Mr. Ketcheson turned them down.

Never Missed
Col. Matt J. Winn of Kentucky Derby fame has never missed a running of that famous race. He saw the first one ever run, in 1875, when he was 13.
