Oven Canning Is Easy With My New Gas Range

Oven-canning is growing in popularity because it requires no watching, no lifting of heavy kettles of boiling water, and does not steam up kitchen.

The essential is a fixed oven temperature of 275 degrees, which is assured by the modern gas range.

Oven-canning is not successful on other types of so-called modern ranges which heat their ovens by the on-and-off method so that the temperature cannot be held at a given point. Boilovers are inevitable, with loss of syrup.

Lansing—Headlines of Michigan newspapers continue to reflect the crazy-quilt pattern of 1941 history. We are truly living in a fast-moving, almost unpredictable year.

Away in Canada for a week (equivalent to a month in any normal year) returned home to find a stack of newspapers a foot high in the library. Armed with scissors, we buried ourselves for an evening and finally emerged with clippings about Michigan events which, six months ago, would have been regarded as near impossibilities. Here are a few of them:

Ford Motor Company, arch foe of the C. I. O. and famed independent among Michigan automobile manufacturers, outdoes all rivals with an "all-out" contract providing for automatic deduction of C. I. O. dues from Ford company employees and a closed shop. Here was an event that merited the word "impossibility." If any one event ever could. Furthermore, Harry Bennett, who hailed the C. I. O. election as a victory for communists and Governor Van Wagoner, sat down with labor chiefs as meek as a well-fed lamb. Talk about news!

Arbitration

Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner proposes arbitration of deadlocked industrial disputes and also advocates a 30-day "cooling off" period for application of mediation.

"I think the overwhelming majority of workers and employers realize today the need for halting defense strikes, and will support some workable method of cooperation that calls for equal sacrifices, and that will not make the state supreme over both management and labor."

The governor declared that management and labor must make the choice between the alternatives of "cooperation with the government for defense" and "domination by government for defense."

As this column pointed out on June 5, "Michigan's own arsenal of democracy faces the choice of solving its own problems by voluntary cooperation or of being conscripted by a government that has become temporarily totalitarian in its methods. Either we will volunteer to sacrifice our own liberties, or we will be conscripted by the government to do so."

Right to Strike

This sacrifice of the right to strike in national defense industries, as proposed by Governor Van Wagoner, is a significant turn in Michigan labor relations. If the Michigan governor had intimated his four-point plan to legislators during the 1941 session, labor leaders would have condemned it with righteous indignation as a "betrayal of labor" and other stereotyped phrases.

Yet this idea of having industrial disputes submitted to arbitration, and a 30-day period established for reaching the arbitration verdict, is accepted by the man on the street as being good common sense in view of the national emergency. We doubt that labor leaders will halt it enthusiastically.

It is another illustration of how fast we are moving in 1941. National defense efforts are mostly in the blueprint stage; the much-needed airplanes and tanks and guns are not rolling off the production line in any sizeable quantities. We face an extreme emergency if the "shooting war," as proposed by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, is to start tomorrow or the day after.

State Deficit

The 1941 business boom in Michigan has come to the rescue of the state treasury's bookkeeping deficit, incurred during the Murphy administration to finance welfare payments.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, whose traditional pessimism about fiscal affairs is well known, announced happily that the deficit of close to 30 millions has been cut in half.

As spending mounts, sales taxes accumulate. Consumption of liquor and beer is bringing additional hundreds of thousands in revenue to the state coffers.

Why? All because of business conditions, inflated by national defense contracts. Between July 1, 1940 and May 31, 1941, Michigan industrial firms were allocated $45,000,000 in defense contracts—a total equal to more than 27 per cent of Michigan's entire income in 1940! Since May 31 the awarding of additional contracts has swelled the grand total to the billion dollar mark. More pieces for the 1941 crazy-quilt.

Salary Increases

It was not so long ago that a Michigan governor opposed salary increases for state employees.

Now the minimum monthly wage for state employees has been fixed by the civil service commission at $100 for an additional cost of $2,500.00 a year.

The "impossibility" of a state official opposing payment of a salary increase to himself is also on the 1941 record. Auditor General Brown has declined to approve vouchers which would have added $2,500 a year to his salary and the salaries of other administrative state officials. Why? The state constitution clearly says that salaries of incumbents cannot be increased during their terms, the auditor general holds.

Attorney General Herbert K. Rush-ton, also a beneficiary, rivalled Solomon with an opinion that since Brown wouldn't honor the vouchers until the state supreme court ordered him to do so, any opinion from him would be futile. The governor cracked to the effect that there was always some guy like Brown in every crowd. We hope so.

Corrections

Hot weather errors are hereby corrected:

Our reference to oil production in Michigan should have been in millions, not billions. We, too, are getting dizzy from Washington's spending.

The French population in Canada is three millions out of eleven millions, although the French form three-fourths of the population of the province of Quebec.

It's there with an Extra Wallop in reserve

SOMETIMES in your automobile you want zip and ginger, sometimes thrift.

Just name your choice. In this high-stepping Buick straight-eight with Compound Carburetion you can have either, each in its proper place.

You can go about your business in easy, ordinary, everyday travel—and this frugal, two-carburetor system will keep you rolling smoothly with only the forward, thrift-size mixer on the job.

Yet any time you want life, lift, super-power it's there with an extra wallop in reserve—just step down on the treadle and you've got it.

That simple move sends the second carburetor into action; steps up not only fuel supply but the air supply as well.

Thus you have your fun—and frugality too. Owners report mileage figures as much as 10% to 15% higher than on previous Buicks of the same size.

Which means, better go look at the engine that's both thrills-packed and thrifty too. You'll find it in a bigger, roomier, smarter-looking automobile that gives you more value per dollar than anything else you can buy.

For Health and Fun—Swim!

This picture might have been taken at any one of a hundred attractive Michigan resorts. North or South, East or West, you'll find a welcome everywhere in Michigan.

Every boy and girl in Michigan should learn to swim. With thousands of lakes and hundreds of miles of sandy beaches, Michigan offers a matchless opportunity to swim and grow strong.

When you start on your vacation this summer, take along the bathing suits. Almost anywhere you go in Michigan there'll be a chance to swim in clear, cool water, and tan in the friendly sun.

You may have acquaintances near the place where you're going. They'll be glad to hear your voice on the telephone. You can call up, as so many people do, to find out the water temperature at the beach. And even when you're hundreds of miles away, you can keep in touch with home. It's only minutes away by telephone.

State Parks along the shores of the Great Lakes offer the bathers smooth, firm beaches, many of them patrolled by life guards.

What Is National Unity?

By Ruth Taylor

One of the leading commentators recently said over the air that there ought to be a new dictionary to express the unusual interpretations put upon phrases in common usage. But perhaps what we need more than a new dictionary is to consult the ones we already possess in order to find out if we are expressing exactly what we do mean.

Now that we are being admonished to close ranks, and the need for national unity is stressed in every speech and editorial, it is well to consider just what "unity" really is.

The dictionary gives several definitions. First is "the state of being indivisibly one." It was for this ideal of unity the Civil War was fought—that this nation might stretch from ocean to ocean without barrier.

We ought not be hypercritical, or over-censorious of that mad checkerboard we call Europe when we think of the great advantage that is ours in our physical and lingual unity.

The second definition is "Union, as of constituent parts or elements; harmony, concord." These United States of ours have that type of unity—its people drawn from all races, nationalities and religions, joining in one common nation—retaining the best of their own background and yet giving allegiance to this country where all are individuals, yet part of one.

The third definition is "the number one; the ratio of two equal quantities." The American ideal of unity is definitely one of equal rights for all citizens alike and of equal responsibilities on the part of all citizens to loyalty and wholehearted support of the government which they have elected. It is not a unity of force—but a unity of choice.

The fourth and last definition is "Combination into a homogeneous whole, exhibiting oneness of purpose." National unity must be based on the firm foundation of common ideals and purpose, and of fair dealing for all regardless of race or creed or color.

National unity calls for an equal opportunity for each individual citizen to develop according to the best of his ability. Above all, it demands that we pass on to each succeeding generation a better, more prosperous, and more truly democratic America.

This is the unity we are asked to bring about—this is the national unity which is our aim. Is there any American worthy of the name who does not desire this unity—today and forever—and who is not willing to work and sacrifice to make it a living reality?

MRS. JESSIE BROWN

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Belle Ware of Kirkland, Wash., and a brother, James Birnie of Rose Hearty, Scotland. Henry Gilbert of North lake is a nephew of Mrs. Brown.

Schedule

Thursday, July 10—Spaulding, Chgo. vs. Kimunity.

Monday, July 14—Central Fibre vs. CCC.

Tuesday, July 15—Chelsea Spring vs. Kimunity; Cass. Lake Fac. vs. Spaulding Chevrolet.

Standings

	W	L	Pct.
Chelsea Spring	7	2	.777
Hankerd Hi-Speed	5	2	.714
Spaulding Chevrolet	5	3	.625
Federal Screw	4	3	.571
CCC	5	4	.555
Cassidy Lake Fac.	3	5	.375
Kimunity	2	5	.286
Central Fibre	2	7	.222

Last Thursday's game being rained out, the first game of this playing week took place Monday night when Hankerd's Hi-Speed hammered out a 10 to 4 victory over CCC to step up into second place in the league.

Tuesday night Central Fibre started out to defeat Chelsea Spring but at the last minute of the game Chelsea Spring knocked in runs enough to win the game by one run. Chelsea Spring seems to have what it takes.

While this game was going on Federal Screw was taking it on the chin from Cassidy Lake Faculty who evened scores with the Screw plant by defeating them 14 to 7.

The game to watch, as far as league standing is concerned this coming week will be played on Tuesday night between Cassidy Lake Fac. and Spaulding Chevrolet.

Also Central Fibre and CCC may turn out to be quite an upset. Central Fibre has shown indications of almost championship material but seem to have lost more games through bad breaks than any team in the league. They have a game in the bag and then the bag rips in the last of the game and they lose by one run or so—this can't go on all season!

Fumigate Bins Before Threshing, Is Advice

"Here comes the new grain" the weevils are chattering, if weevils can talk and haven't been swept, burned and scrubbed out of the storage bins where the 1941 harvest of Michigan grains will go this summer.

Weevil control must be complete and no half measures will do, warns Ray Hutson of the Michigan State College entomology department.

While the bins are empty, a thorough cleaning job is in order. Next step is one that can be more permanently effective and that is to line the bins. Hutson cites the use of metal, plywood or paper pasted in with the edges overlapping to make a tight seal.

Not only does this lining job help keep out infestations of weevils, but if the pests do begin to work on a bin of grain, the lined bin is far easier to fumigate because it holds in the gas while the material does its work.

Dusting, cleaning and scrubbing always are in order before threshing. Holes should be patched and all old grain should be removed before any of the new crop goes in.

So, if there's any noise from the weevils, here's the annual reminder from the man who knows how to curtail the destruction—Mr. Hutson.

Comfortable Pig Makes More Pork and Profits

Making a pig comfortable will make more pork—a result that in 1941 means better profits, it is pointed out by V. A. Freeman, animal husbandryman at Michigan State College. He sees especial value in good practices this summer because of the upturn in market values of hogs and the obvious need for increased production for home and British consumption. Here are his views:

Pigs should be vaccinated against the cholera in any community where the disease has been present during the last year and in every community where large numbers of pigs are fed.

Where any garbage is fed to hogs, it is economical insurance against heavy loss. Even in counties with small population of swine, the health and appetite of every pig should be observed at each feeding time. Calling a veterinarian when the first pig shows such early symptoms as soreness in action, loss of appetite and desire to be left alone may reduce the loss to a single pig rather than the whole herd after waiting two or three days.

Lice and mange produce intense itching. Scratching pigs gain slower and consume more grain per pound gain than pigs free of parasites. Apply oil (paraffin, crude petroleum or used motor oil) liberally to all parts of the animal's body by dipping, spraying, sprinkling in a small pen, or by hand. Repeat in 10 to 14 days for mange or in 20 to 28 days for lice.

Mixing a fourth pound of dry lime and sulphur with each three gallons of oil helps destroy the mange.

Pigs require large amounts of drinking water in hot weather. Shade
