First-Aid Courses For Defense Started Here

Training of civilian defense volunteers was started in Chelsea on Wednesday night, when the group designated for protective services under the direction of the county sheriff's department started their first-aid course under the supervision of Dr. A. A. Guide. The class met in Room 14 at the Chelsea high school. Each session lasts two hours and there will be ten instructional meetings, after which those who pass the examination will be awarded a Red Cross certificate. It is planned to have the group meet each Wednesday evening. All who are taking this course are requested to have first aid text-books which may be obtained from Red Cross headquarters or from book stores.

Those in the sheriff's group are: Fred G. Broesamle, Wm. Kolb, Vincent Liss, Albert Doli, Albert R. Jones, Dahue A. Riker, Walter Harper, Lawton Schable, John J. Wellnitz, Alvin Schiller, Floyd Rowe, Edwin Gaunt, George McClure, George Zeeb, Harry Prudden, Kenneth Proctor, Elden Weinberg, Henry Heim, Ralph Klingler, Reuben Lesser, Leon Chapman, J. Vincent Burg.

Similar groups are meeting in other townships for their first-aid training. The Chelsea civilian defense protective group, under the direction of the local defense committee, will meet for their first-aid course on Friday nights, starting February 6. They will also meet at the Chelsea high school at 7:30, and this class will be taught by Dr. J. V. Fisher. The details of their training will be the same as the sheriff's group, and they are also required to obtain text-books. This group consists of the following who have volunteered for the work:

Five—Henry Ahnemiller, Warren R. Daniels, Clarence Dietle, Julius Eisele, Norman Eismann, Robert G. Foster, Gale Gilson, Dudley K. Holmes, Frank and S. Holmes, G. G. Hopper, Frank J. Knaiss, George Krumpal, Paul C. Maroney, Alfred D. Mayer, Harvey B. Murphy, Henry C. Schneider, Junior Seitz, Leon Shutes, Tom Smith, George B. Sperling Jr., Martin Steinbach, Richard Urbany, Fred Worden, Haskell Worden Jr., Haskell Worden Sr.

Masons Held Annual Banquet Friday Night

More than two hundred members of local Masonic lodges and their guests attended the annual Masonic banquet held on Friday night at the public school auditorium. The hall was attractively decorated in patriotic colors, with an appropriate display of Masonic emblems. The banquet was served by the senior class of the Chelsea high school, with the aid of their mothers.

M. C. Dunkel, Worshipful Master of Olive Lodge 156, F. & A. M., gave the address of welcome and introduced Paul Belsor, who presided as master of ceremonies. Short talks were given by Mrs. Harold Gracey, Worthy Matron of Olive Chapter 108, O. E. S., Rha Alexander, High Priest of Olive Chapter 140, R. A. M., and James F. Smith of Detroit, editor of Masonic World.

A two-hour program was then presented by Dick Lewis and his Masonic Guest Night Entertainers, from Detroit. The program presented by the 35 members of the group consisted of orchestra music, vocal numbers, tap dancing, instrumental and novelty numbers, comedy skits, and several tricks in magic. It was an outstanding program and one of the best entertainments ever produced on a local stage.

YARN NEEDED FOR AFGHANS

Wool yarn is needed by the local Red Cross to make aquares for Afghan soldiers and sailors in base hospitals. No yarn is issued by the National Red Cross for this purpose and all yarn thus used in the past year has been given by interested women. All donated yarn is used, no matter what size or how little or how much there is of it. If you have any yarn left from personal knitting or would like to purchase some for this cause, you please bring or send it to the Red Cross Room in the Chelsea State Bank on Friday. Anyone wishing to learn to knit may do so at that time, also.

CITIZENSHIP CLASS CONTINUES

The class in citizenship begun last week by Daniel H. Hall of Salina, will continue each Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Room 13 of the high school building. Therefore, it will meet at 7:30 p. m. January 29.

Last Thursday evening eight people of the community were present, and it is hoped that many more will desire help in citizenship and in the completion of their papers will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Impressive Program To Honor Federal Screw Works Saturday

PROCLAMATION

In recognition of the splendid service rendered to our country by the Federal Screw Works, a local institution in which we have great pride, and in view of the fact that the United States Navy will present an "E" award to this company at an impressive ceremony to be held here on Saturday, I earnestly request that flags be displayed in the business district on Saturday, the thirty-first day of January, 1942.

Red Cross Dance Will Be Held February 20

The committee in charge of Red Cross activity in Chelsea has announced that it will hold a public dance in the Chelsea public school gymnasium on Friday evening, February 20, from 9:00 to 12:30.

Mrs. Dudley K. Holmes has been selected by the unit to be general chairman of this affair and during the past week she has arranged a fine program which should be one of the highlights of the Chelsea winter season. She has selected Gordon Hardy and his Orchestra of Ann Arbor, currently featured at the Michigan Union, Michigan League and the campus fraternity parties at the University of Michigan, to furnish the music for this dance, and has arranged to have cards and other games for those who do not dance.

All of the proceeds from this dance will go to the Red Cross, so that they may continue to do their fine service to the Nation in these days of crisis. This event will also commemorate the birthday of George Washington and decorations will be patriotic in nature. It is hoped that Chelsea will give its "all out" support to this activity and that a substantial amount of money may be turned over to this very worthwhile charity.

Mrs. Holmes has selected her committee for the dance, as follows: Mrs. A. L. Steger, the local Red Cross chairman, and Mrs. W. R. Daniels, will be in charge of tickets; Mrs. Paul G. Schable and Dudley K. Holmes will have charge of the refreshments; Mrs. Deane L. Rogers and Lowell Davison will arrange for the decorations; Mrs. A. A. Palmer will direct the publicity. Tickets will be on sale within the next week and all residents of this vicinity are urged to give their active support to this community enterprise.

March of Dimes Drive Closes On Saturday

Reports from the committees now working on the "March of Dimes" are very encouraging.

Folders are being passed out by the Boy Scouts and it is hoped that every one will be returned with some offering for this great cause. Please leave folders at Burg's Drug Store or call the local chairman, Mrs. Howard C. Baker, and they will be picked up. Name of all contributing $1.00 or more will be published in The Standard next week.

The activity on Friday and Saturday will be the "March of Dimes", in front of the Chelsea State Bank. A space will be marked off to place dimes on.

Everyone is urged to make an effort to put a dime on this space and in that way you will be doing your bit to help fight "Infantile Paralysis."

NEW SUPPLIES FOR S. D. GROUP

New supplies have been received and the Surgical Dressings Group of the local Red Cross will meet every Monday and Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. in the Home Economics room at the high school.

ATTENDS STATE MEETING

Fred G. Broesamle, chairman of the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors, left Tuesday for Lansing to attend the three-day session of the State Association of Supervisors.

WORKERS' LUNCHEON

Menu for the workers' luncheon at the Methodist church on Wednesday, Feb. 4 will be as follows: Roast beef, mashed potatoes, brown gravy, molded salad, pickles, whole wheat and white rolls, coffee, assorted pies. From 11:30 until all are served. Price 50c. Adv.

DANCE

The Farmers' Guild is sponsoring a public dance at St. Mary's hall on Friday evening, Jan. 30. Adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bertke have purchased a lot on South Main St. from Mrs. John Wallace and will start the construction of a house in the near future.

Navy "E" Pennant Will Be Awarded By High Naval Official

Chelsea's part in the National defense program will receive official recognition at noon Saturday when Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, USN (Retired), of Washington, presents the Federal Screw Works with the Bureau of Navigation Ordnance Flag and "E" award. The program will be held in the Chelsea high school auditorium.

Employees will be released from work shortly before the ceremony begins so that they and their families may attend. The brief but impressive program is open to the public by ticket. Tickets can be procured from the office of the Federal Screw Works.

In announcing that the Navy Department had chosen the Federal Screw Works to receive these awards, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said in a letter to company officials, "It gives me pleasure to advise you that your company has been chosen to receive the flag of the Bureau of Ordnance and the Navy 'E' pennant in recognition of your outstanding efforts in the production of ordnance materials vital to our national defense."

The Honorable Judge Frank A. Eclair of the United States District Court, Detroit, will be acting chairman and will introduce the honored guests which will include the Honorable Alfred D. Mayer, Village President; H. D. Witherell, Postmaster; and Paul C. Maroney, Commander of the American Legion.

A special detachment from the noted Detroit Naval Armory Color Guard will hoist the pennants and American flag.

Frank E. Edgar, president of the Federal Screw Works, will accept the awards on behalf of the company and its employees.

Following the acceptance by Mr. Edgar, Lieutenant Arthur Langfield, USN, Ordnance Assistant to Inspector of Naval Material, and well known figure to local employees will present specially designed blue, gold and red label buttons bearing the seal of the Bureau of Ordnance, the Navy "E" and the name of the company.

These buttons, one for each employee, will be accepted by Julius Reule, oldest worker in point of service in Plant Five.

The Navy "E" award gained its significance in the fleet for excellence in ship performance and gunnery but because the present war is being fought in the factories at home as well as on the oceans and battlefields, the custom of awarding highly coveted "E's" has been extended to production of ordnance.

Five Hundred Attend Michigan Bell Show

More than five hundred people attended the Telephone Show, sponsored by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company and held at the public school auditorium on Tuesday night.

A. D. Mayer, village president, opened the program with a few words of appreciation to the Michigan Bell for bringing the show to Chelsea. He introduced N. J. Praken of Ann Arbor, manager for this area, who presented the company representatives in charge of the various phases of the program.

The program opened with a motion picture comedy, "Joe Telephone".

Talks and demonstrations were given on research developments, showing the progress made since invention of the first telephone in 1876. A special feature was the Quiz Show, with Prof. Askem in charge. Those answering questions correctly were awarded free long distance calls after the show, with listeners being permitted to hear the conversations.

A real service was rendered by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company in bringing this show here so that users of their service may better appreciate that which takes place behind the scenes in telephone operations. Chelsea has a fine new telephone system and those who attended certainly have a better understanding of how it functions.

LEGION INVITED TO ANN ARBOR

The Herbert J. McKune Post 31 of the American Legion and the Auxiliary are to be guests of the Erwin Post 46 of the American Legion of Ann Arbor, on Thursday evening, February 5. The invitation is extended to all for dinner and entertainment in the evening. A good time is promised for all.

On account of this invitation, the regular February meeting of the local post will be held at the Legion Home this Thursday evening, January 29, at 8:00 p. m.

Casual Comment

By the Editor

Now that the rationing of sugar by the government is to become a reality, we would guess that many people who have been imbued with the spirit of greediness in hoarding this essential commodity would feel just a little bit ashamed of themselves. However, government officials have stated that the hoarders would not be allowed to enjoy the advantage which they thought they had so cunningly achieved—which we would take to mean that confiscation of oversupplies will be in order. Many may think they can outsmart the government in the matter, but that will be difficult as we are at war and drastic measures will be taken to enforce the co-operation of everyone in the emergency.

Officials and employees of Federal Screw Works are to be congratulated for their splendid achievement record in this war emergency. The fact that an "E" award will be made on Saturday by the United States Navy Department is proof that the company and their 800 employees performed an outstanding service to our country. The event on Saturday will be a colorful and impressive affair which will stand out for many years to come in the memories of those who are to be honored.

The March of Dimes drive which is now in progress deserves the support of everyone. It is true that there are a great many appeals for dimes and dollars but all worthy causes should be supported to the best of our ability. The local committee is under the capable direction of Mrs. Howard Baker, and it is hoped results will come up to last year when the drive was so successful under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Daniels.

The sheriff's office reports that check forgers have been reaping a harvest throughout the county recently. Several bogus checks have been cashed locally during the past few weeks. Merchants are urged to be on the alert in cashing checks or they may find them bouncing back. One forger has been apprehended but there are others operating—so be careful!

Don't forget the "Victory Book Campaign" which is now being carried on throughout the country. Soldiers and sailors need good reading material and almost everyone has some books which would be appreciated by the men in service. Take your donation of books to the Chelsea Public Library at your earliest convenience.

Charles Collett, an employee of the Chelsea Greenhouses, must carry a horseshoe or a rabbit's foot—anyway he had a lucky experience last week. He purchased a federal car use sticker at the post office on Monday, and took an envelope from the waste basket in the lobby, in which he placed the sticker and card. He filled the card out that day and in the evening stopped at the post office to mail the card in the outside mail box. After mailing the card he crumpled the envelope and threw it on the sidewalk near the mail box. He had completely forgotten the stamp until later in the week, and on Friday stopped at the post office with the intention of purchasing another one. Observing a crumpled piece of paper on the sidewalk in front of the post office, he picked it up—and sure enough it was the envelope which he had thrown away on Monday and the stamp was still there!

We need something to take our minds off the war—so let's start thinking about the annual village election, which will take place on the second Monday in March. The nominating caucuses will be held about the middle of February. Chelsea has been fortunate in having good administrations, so let's hope the coming year will be no exception.

Farmers Will Increase Crops, Conserve Soil

Production goals for 1942 are going to be reached this year according to the plans already made by the nation's farmers in cooperation with Triple-A farmer-committeemen, Harry M. Cole, local AAA secretary, announced this week. "Most important of all," he said, "the record-breaking increases are being planned and at the same time farmers are looking out for the fertility of the land."

Triple-A is providing for soil-conservation in two ways. First, by requiring that any farm, to be eligible for maximum payment under the Triple-A, must have at least 20 per cent of its cropland in soil-conserving land uses; and second, payment under Triple-A for 1942 (exclusive of parity payments and payments on special crops) can be earned only by carrying out soil-building practices.

While Triple-A committeemen were contacting farmers in regard to the increases being asked for in food production, they also reminded them of the importance of conserving the soil and building up its fertility. "Some different than the last war," Mr. Cole said. "We're going to make these increases in food production without letting the soil fertility wash off the hillsides or blow away."

Typical soil-building practices under the Triple-A are application of liming materials, application of potash or phosphate fertilizer to soil-conserving land uses, seedings of legumes or grasses, erosion control practices, reforestation.

Washtenaw county farmers have already started using the most important soil-building practices, the application of liming materials and fertilizer. Last year (1941), Washtenaw county farmers applied a total of 23,460 tons of liming materials, consisting of ground limestone, marl, sugar beet refuse lime; and 420 tons of phosphate fertilizer, consisting of 20 per cent superphosphate.

"For eight years farmers, through the Triple-A have been building up their soil fertility for just such an expansion in production as we are now engaged in," Mr. Cole said. "We built up an ever-normal granary of soil fertility by preventing needless waste of fertility through over-production, and through proper care of the soil by following better farm methods and performing soil-building practices. For eight years also, we were perfecting the democratic administration of our own program, so that when the time came for the stepping up of production, we were ready to meet the call."

This year (1942) it is estimated that Washtenaw county farmers will use more conservation materials than ever before, according to the Washtenaw County Triple-A committee. Preliminary estimates show that 40,000 tons of liming materials, 560 tons of phosphate fertilizer, and 80 tons of a mixed fertilizer (0-20-20) would be used by Washtenaw farmers next year through the Triple-A farm program.

Farmers are aided in the use of these materials through the conservation materials program of the Triple-A. By means of this program, the farmer can get his material any time of the year he wants it, and have the cost of the material deducted from his Triple-A payment without any outlay of cash.

"The fact that farmers are making their increases in a planned, organized manner consistent with good farming practices is a guarantee that the nation's soil resources will not be exploited during this war," Mr. Cole said. "We farmers are going to make the necessary increases, and we're going to see that more than enough of all kinds of food is produced, but at the same time we're going to profit by our last war experience, and make sure that our soil fertility is not wasted."

SO WAR NEEDS MAY BE MET

IN 1941, about $300,000,000 was spent by defense industries in Michigan for new plants, new machinery and equipment, in preparation for war materials production. That is a big sum of money.

Nearly 10 per cent as large, the $28,250,000 spent by Michigan Bell for new construction was a record figure because of the same urgent defense needs. When industry expands for rearmament, it reaches for the telephone.

To meet the greatest demand for service in history, new telephone buildings, cables, and central office equipment were rushed into operation.

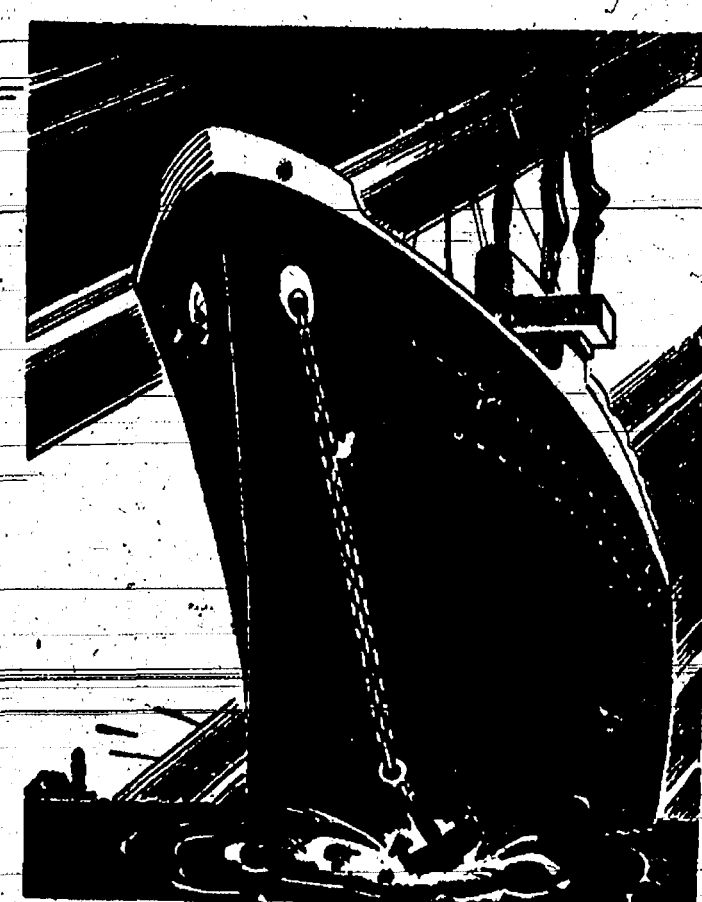

Telephone people had a big job in 1941, but surmounting that problem only served to condition them better to face the more difficult task in 1942. Increasing shortage of materials is hampering their efforts to meet civilian requests as readily as in the past, but they are confidently determined that every war need will be met.

IT WILL NEVER FLOAT

Once upon a time men insisted that iron ships would not float, that they would damage more easily than wooden ships when grounding, that it would be difficult to preserve the iron bottoms from rusting, and that iron would deflect the compass.

Another mistaken notion that prevails even today is that hot water is supplied free through the coil in the furnace. As a matter of fact, tests prove that up to 20% of all fuel burned is required to heat the water passing through the coil.

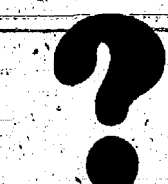

Not only is the coil a fuel waster, but it can never be depended on to produce enough hot water, or water hot enough.

More and more families are having the coils removed from their furnaces, and installing gas automatic water heaters to furnish them a dependable supply of Instant Hot Water.

We invite you to learn the convenience of instant hot water by having a gas automatic water heater installed on 60 days trial.

Trustee Under Will

A valid Will may provide for the transfer of the property of a deceased person to a Trustee, who, following the instructions in the Will, will take possession of the property, manage it and pay the income or principal to those named by the Will to receive it. A Trust institution acting in this capacity is called "Trustee under Will", or, sometimes "Testamentary Trustee."

When the Executor has performed all duties required by the Will or the Law, and paid the debts and taxes of the deceased and the expenses of administration, the balance of the property is turned over to the Trustee, and the Trust comes into being.

The instructions in the Will must be followed by the Trustee without deviation, respecting how the property is to be managed, what investments may be made, who is to receive the income, and when and to whom the property must eventually be distributed, free from trust.

Every well planned Estate requires a Will. In many instances, a Trust created by the Will may result in distinct advantages to the surviving family, both in greater protection for their inheritance and in tax savings.

There are additional advantages in naming a modern Trust institution like Ann Arbor Trust Company as Executor and Trustee. You are invited to discuss this subject with one of our officers.

Regulations Are Issued For All Enemy Aliens

Washington, D. C.—Attorney General Francis Biddle has announced new regulations affecting the conduct of German, Italian and Japanese nationals throughout continental United States.

The new regulations, issued under authority of the Presidential proclamation of January 14, 1942, relating to alien enemies, require all German, Italian and Japanese aliens to apply at the nearest first or second class, or county seat, post office for a Certificate of Identification. The requirement applies to all enemy nationals 14 years of age or over who have not yet taken the oath of allegiance before a Federal Judge, the final step in acquiring American citizenship.

The identification program, which will affect approximately 1,100,000 German, Italian and Japanese non-citizens, will be directed by Earl G. Harrison, former Director of Alien Registration and now a Special Assistant to the Attorney General, advising on alien problems.

The regulations provide for two separate periods for the submitting of applications for identity certificates, as follows:

1. All German, Italian and Japanese nationals residing in the states of California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Arizona, Montana, Utah and Idaho are required to file applications at the nearest first or second class, or county seat, post office between February 2 and February 7, 1942, inclusive.

2. All German, Italian and Japanese nationals residing elsewhere in continental United States are required to file applications at the nearest first or second class, or county seat, post office between February 9 and February 28, 1942, inclusive.

Failure to comply with the new regulations may be punished by severe penalties, including possible internment of the enemy alien for the duration of the war.

The regulations require enemy aliens, in applying for identification certificates, to provide a photograph of themselves (to be attached to the certificate) and to answer a number of questions concerning their current activities. Printed directions for the filing of applications will shortly be available at post offices.

The regulations provide that after a careful check has been made of each application, the applicant will be provided with a Certificate of Identification bearing his photograph, index fingerprint and signature. He will thereafter be required to carry the certificate with him at all times.

In announcing the new regulations, the Attorney General said:

"The objective of the Department of Justice in issuing identification certificates to aliens of enemy nationalities is the dual one of strengthening our internal safety and protecting the loyal alien, even if he has become technically an alien enemy. The plan for issuing these certificates was worked out after consultation with Lieut. General J. L. DeWitt, Commander of the Ninth Corps Area.

"I want to make it clear that in no sense will our issuance of identification certificates be a re-registration of a portion of the alien population. We are entirely satisfied with the results of the 1940 national registration of aliens, and this new procedure will not duplicate it. We deem it essential, however, for the protection of loyal alien enemies as well as for our own national safety, to obtain supplementary information of all German, Italian and Japanese non-citizens and provide them with identification certificates bearing their photographs."

Citizens Respond To Red Cross Fund Drive

When Donald Haynes, Ann Arbor kindergarten student, turned over to the Red Cross five dollars in dimes saved in a toy bank, he typified the response of Washtenaw county residents in their unqualified support of the current American Red Cross War Fund Drive. A total of $24,818.08 has already been received at the county headquarters, which is well over its $19,000 quota.

In addition to financial contributions, local citizens now have an opportunity to offer blood for our armed forces. Appointments are now being made for February 10, 17 and 19 at the new chapter offices in the Chamber of Commerce building, 200 North Fourth avenue, Ann Arbor. On these days a mobile unit from Detroit will be stationed at the University of Michigan Women's Athletic Association building on South Forest avenue. There a specialist physician and nurses will take a pint of blood from each volunteer.

Aside from the prick of a needle, there is no pain involved in the process. The blood will be used in liquid form, but the plasma will be separated and dried for use at the battle front where it will be mixed with distilled water. Orange juice will be furnished volunteers before the blood donation, and soft for testing, in addition to beverages and cakes, will be supplied afterward.

Expansion of Red Cross defense activities is continuing with the organization of 60 new classes in first aid, home nursing, and food nutrition. Many more classes will be opened, according to local Red Cross officials. In addition, a Camp and Hospital Council has been organized to assist military and Red Cross authorities at Camp Custer. Its purpose is in meeting recreational needs and the necessity for new equipment for able-bodied and hospitalized service men within the military reservation.

Various business and professional organizations are aiding collections for the War Fund Drive. The Eatmore Restaurant in Ann Arbor, for example, after receiving donations for foodstuffs, turned over a day's receipts amounting to $73.11. Pupils of the Fritz rural school contributed $3.00 by selling old newspapers. The Ann Arbor Junior Chamber of Commerce has turned over more than $250 through its paper drive.

The county branches have turned in over seven thousand dollars. Following is a list of individual branch receipts thus far: Chelsea, $1,392.50; Dexter, $535.85; Manchester, $186.47; Milan, $721.55; Saline, $137.78; and Ypsilanti, $4,149.68.

Hospital Briefs

Essentials of a Registered Hospital (Prepared by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association)

General Statement

Hospitals should be organized and conducted primarily for the purpose of providing facilities where the sick and the injured of the community may be given scientific and ethical medical care.

Registration is a basic distinction between all recognized hospitals and those that are refused recognition. It is a prerequisite to the consideration of a hospital for approval for intern training or for residencies in specialties.

The registration of hospitals, the approval of hospitals for intern training, approval for residencies in specialties, and all other service of the Association regarding hospitals is carried on by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals. Separate essentials have been adopted for each of these types of approval.

It is the desire of the Council to cooperate in every way for the improvement of hospital service, where by the sick and injured may be provided with scientific and ethical medical care.

The Council does not have nor does it assume legal authority over any hospital. It recognizes clearly that the officers in charge of such institutions have the unquestioned right to conduct the hospitals in any way they may deem wise. If a hospital desires to have its name appear on the American Medical Association Hospital Register and thus have the recognition of that Association, it should be willing to comply with the principles which the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals considers necessary.

THE Groundhog Sees a Shadow

Chelsea B. B. League

In the 8:00 o'clock game last Wednesday, Chelsea Spring moved out of the cellar and into a tie with Federal Screw for fourth spot in the league.

The Spring boys put together their finest offensive of the season as they ran up 13 field goals to 6 for Federal Screw. Visel and Marsh paced Spring's attack with 8 points each.

W. Beaman led Federal with 2 field goals and a foul shot. The score stood at 11-11 at the half but Federal Screw could not keep up the pace as the game ended 28-14.

The All-Stars moved into first place undisputed as they edged out Kimbly in the finest game of the year.

20-25 while the Central Fibre-Cassidy Tech game was moved up to a future date. Appearance of Johnny Alber just at the half sparked an All-Star attack that was down by 8 points at the half. Bob Foster landed the high-scoring honors with 10 points.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanis club held another interesting meeting on Monday evening of this week. Dr. E. J. Quirk discussed the various aspects and benefits of a municipally operated public hospital in Chelsea. He stated that the doctors in Chelsea are all solidly behind this enterprise and he enthusiastically enumerated the ways in which this venture will aid the community. The speaker concluded his brief talk by urging the Kiwanians to support this worthwhile project which he feels will operate successfully in Chelsea.

President Russell A. McLaughlin announced that the Kiwanians will again sponsor an essay contest for the school children in Chelsea. This event is open to the high school, public and parochial school students here and the subject this year involves the question of the need and practicability of a municipally owned hospital in Chelsea. The papers will again be graded by impartial judges and they will give the greatest amount of credit to papers which are neat, show good organization, and have good material relating to this subject. All papers must be submitted to Supt. Albert C. Johnson by February 16, and the judges will award prizes for the three best papers at one of their meetings in March.

CHILD STUDY CLUB

The Child Study club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Hinderer. After a short business meeting, a paper prepared by Mrs. Donald Miller on the subject, "Resources and Trade of South America" was read by Mrs. Philip Olin in Mrs. Miller's absence. John Gunther's book, "Inside Life of America" and The Britannica home study course provided the source material. After the reading of the paper, a general discussion followed, in which all members took part.

Jungle Warfare; '42 Style

BRITISH BREN GUN CARRIERS already famous for their effective work in the Allied Libyan and Middle Eastern campaigns, are now fighting hard in the dense jungles of Malaya to halt the advance of the better-armed Japanese invaders. These carriers are used as hit and run weapons to delay the Japanese infantry until heavier equipment and reinforcements have reached the front North of Singapore.

WUERTH-BIRCH WEDDING

At a ceremony performed Saturday in the rectory of St. Thomas Catholic church, Ann Arbor, Miss Harriet Ann Wuert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd V. Wuert of Ann Arbor, repeated her nuptial vows to James B. Birch, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Birch of Chelsea. The service was read by Rev. John M. Lynch in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride wore a white chiffon dress with a fitted lame jacket in a peplum style and a veil of white illusion worn by her mother at her own wedding 22 years ago. She carried Johanna Hill roses and white snapdragons.

Cecelia Birch, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, was attired in a blue taffeta frock with matching velvet bodice and her flowers were Briarcliff roses and white snapdragons. Henry Aquino of Ann Arbor was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. White candles in crystal candleabra lighted the dining table, which was centered with the wedding cake. White snapdragons formed the house decorations.

Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. William Murray of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Ernest F. Potter of Niagara Falls, N. Y., aunts of the bride, who poured, and Leta Schmidt, who had charge of the guest book, also Mrs. Thomas Murray, Patricia and Mary Schmidt and Mary Birch, a sister of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Ann Arbor high school and of Cleary Business College, Ypsilanti, and is employed by Associated Motor Services, Inc. Mr. Birch is employed in the office of the Chelsea Spring Co.

On their return from a short motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Birch will reside at 608 Swift St., Ann Arbor.

For going away, Mrs. Birch wore a cadet-blue crepe dress with a short black fur jacket and a corsage of roses and sweet peas.

Among the parties given for Mrs. Birch was a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. William Birch and Mrs. Frank Visel at the home of the former. Fourteen guests were present, and games were played. Refreshments were served. The guest of honor received many lovely gifts.

SCOUT TROOPS FACE BUSY

DAYS IN MONTHS-AHEAD

Numerous requests for emergency service require each troop at full strength and efficiency.

"The Boy Scout Council is doing everything it can to encourage troops throughout the two counties to operate on their fullest and most efficient basis," Ira M. Smith, president of the Washtenaw-Livingston Boy Scout Council said this week. "With numerous calls coming in each community to assist in poster distribution, gathering of waste materials, and to aid in various ways in civilian defense every patrol and every troop needs to be alert and ready for service," he said.

Scout troops will assist on January 31 in the distribution of 15,000 salvage pamphlets to homes throughout Washtenaw county. Practically all Scout troops are already at work on the project of collecting waste paper and scrap iron. Many individual Scouts are already underway on the "Write to a Buddy" project in which a Scout writes at least bi-weekly to a man in the service whom he has selected. Some of the more aggressive troops have already started in on the organization of an Emergency Service Corps in their troop. These are picked older Scouts who are given expert instruction and training to equip them for special service to aid police, fire, sheriff, and civilian authorities.

In addition to the many emergency activities in which Scout troops are engaged, such as regular year-round procedures as week-end camps, first aid meets, Court of Honor, etc. go on uninterrupted.

ATTEND SHOWER

Mrs. Mary Faust and daughter Ruth, Mrs. Otto Lucht and daughter Virginia attended a miscellaneous shower on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Gilbert, Detroit, honoring her sister, Miss Beulah Harrison of Ventura, Calif., whose marriage to Austin Faust of Chelsea will be an event of the month. "Cootie" furnished diversion for the evening and lunch was served to 14 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. McAfee of Adrian were guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Olin on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Niehaus and son of Ann Arbor, Mr. and Mrs. William Kuebler and family of Manchester spent Sunday afternoon and evening with their mother, Mrs. John Koch.

Michigan Mirror

By Gene Alleman

Lansing—Michigan's working population will see the sunrise most of the year, in the opinion of R. Glen Dunn, deputy attorney general.

Despite the fact that this state is officially on Eastern Standard time, it is very probable that Michigan clocks will be set one hour ahead, 2 a. m. Monday, Feb. 9, when Daylight Savings time, established by an act of congress, becomes effective.

Only by an act of the state legislature can Michigan time remain as it is. At the present time there is no indication that the legislature will take such action.

The new Daylight Savings act, intended to save electricity and step up war materials production, requires that clocks all over the country be set ahead one hour. President Roosevelt has signed the bill and the law becomes effective 30 days after the signing.

In Odd Position

Michigan is in unique position on the time question.

With most of the state normally in the Central Standard time zone—west of the 75th meridian—an act of the legislature has made Eastern Standard time the legal time in the entire state. The change came as a result of several years experience with Summer Daylight Savings time, following World War I. Although some agricultural districts objected to tampering with the clocks, the folks in most cities liked the extra hour of daylight in the evening and the legislature listened to the demand for adoption of "fast" time. Detroit and a small portion of the Thumb section fell within the Eastern zone, but all the rest of the state was officially on Central time, and all legal matters of the state were so based.

It required a special act of the legislature to put the clocks legally ahead on the "fast" time. Since then only a small section of the Upper Peninsula, adjacent to the Wisconsin border, have followed a "slow" time schedule. Even there the Eastern Standard time was, of course, the legal time.

And now under Congressional order the clocks must be set one hour ahead. The state by an act of the legislature can go back to the normal Central time, or it can push its clocks ahead an hour. If the latter course is adopted Michigan will be two hours ahead of its old time. If the legislature votes to again make Central time official, the presidential order will leave us just where we are now.

Dark Mornings

During a couple of months in early summer Michigan folks go to work after sunrise under the present schedule. Most of the year they light up for breakfast, go to their offices, shops and stores in the dark before the dawn and start their day's routine of labor under artificial light.

Farmers are, naturally, the chief conscientious objectors to "fast" time. They are early risers normally and start their work at break of day while the dew is still heavy. They usually don't care for another hour of night injected into their working day. The extra hour of daylight in the evening only tends to lengthen their day's work.

Office workers and store employees find the long evenings fine for relaxation, recreation, fishing, picnics and golfing after their day's work is over. But mothers find it hard to feed their young and put them to bed by daylight.

War Measures Adopted

Michigan's Republican legislature made good its agreement to cooperate closely with Democratic Governor Van Wagoner in the matter of war legislation. The Governor's 10 war bills, dumped into the hopper at the opening of the special session, were speeded through both houses, with a minimum of delay. Practically everything Gov. Van Wagoner asked received unanimous approval.

At the end of the second day of the session, but one important bill was still in committee. That was the $5,000,000 war emergency appropriation bill, held in the Republican dominated Ways and Means committee by Chairman John Espie to determine the breakdown of items with earmarking as a possibility.

It had been previously decided that the big war chest was not to go through as a blank check for the Governor, but will be administered by the evenly divided state administrative board.

A war measure, which in its original form would have established sweeping censorship over news publication by the State Council of Defense and giving the Governor unusual removal powers, was quickly amended and modified to remove objectionable features. Once the legislative committee, the Defense Council and administration representatives got together, there was no trouble reaching an understanding. The storm subsided before it got a fair start and the measure was approved by the legislature.

Law Protects Women

Women may work but their hours must still conform to the state law. John W. Gibson, Department of Labor and Industry chairman, has notified employers that the state laws cannot be set aside because of the exigencies of wartime production. The 1908 statute, limiting working hours of women to an average nine-hour day and a 54-hour week, still stands.

"Even if it were desirable," Gibson said in a released statement, "I have no authority to abrogate a state statute by administrative order."

He had been asked concerning the matter by employers having government contracts.

Upsets Tradition

The Michigan state senate upset a tradition, more than a century old, when it voted in open session to confirm 19 appointments submitted by Gov. Van Wagoner. To abolish the executive session in which approval of appointments have heretofore always been considered, the senate voted 19 to 9, to revise its rules. The new rules provide that secret sessions may be held only when two-thirds of the body so vote. Transactions of such sessions will be printed in a secret journal not to be published until the close of the senate. Heretofore the senate went into executive session on a majority vote.

Republican Senator Joseph A. Baldwin of Albion was the champion of tradition-smashing change.

MRS. CLARA M. LENZ

Mrs. Clara M. Lenz, wife of Rev. Henry W. Lenz, pastor of Salem Grove Methodist church, North Francisco, died Friday afternoon at her home after an illness of several years.

Formerly Clara Margaret Irmischer, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Irmischer, she was born April 10, 1870, in Watertown, Wis.

She was married to Mr. Lenz on Sept. 29, 1898 and his first pastorate was in West Unity, Ohio. He has been pastor of the Salem church for 13 years and served two pastorate there previous to that time.

Besides the husband, Mrs. Lenz survived by three sisters, Mrs. Herbert Sitzer of St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. L. S. Armstrong, Red Wing, Minn., and Mrs. C. P. Cheney of Oakland, Calif.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Dr. W. E. Harrison, District Superintendent of the Methodist church, officiating. The body was taken to St. Paul for funeral services and burial on Wednesday.

SUPER MARKET

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, pretty secretary to Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, is amazed and angry when he unexpectedly discharges her with two weeks' salary and refuses to give any explanation for the act. The bewildered girl arrives at the studio apartment shared with her sister Sybil, feeling thankful that one of them still has a position, only to be told by her sister that the beauty salon, where she is employed, is closing up. Reading the want ads that evening, Joan decides to answer one calling for a secretary, willing to put in some night hours. Over the protests of Sybil, she goes to the address given, and finds it to be a new night club. The handsome proprietor, Karl Miller, serves her at once at fifty dollars a week "considering the unusual hours."

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER II

"Just a minute, Miss Leland. I'll give you two weeks' salary in advance."

Joan colored. Did Mr. Miller think she needed money? "It won't be necessary."

He laughed. "You will find that I do business in my own way. It is quite customary for me to pay my employees in advance."

She felt embarrassed and rebuffed as he wrote out a check and handed it to her, but she said quietly, "Thank you very much, Mr. Miller."

He opened the door for her and their hands touched on the knob. Blue eyes gazed into green. He was very close to her.

"I'll expect you tomorrow, then."

She felt a personal significance in each of these unimportant words.

"Good night, Mr. Miller!"

"Good night, Miss Leland." Again she noticed the soft, thick accent, the trick of speaking without moving the lips. He was still smiling as she closed the door.

It was almost eleven when Joan arrived home.

"You said you'd telephone," Sybil reminded her. "What happened?"

Without removing hat or coat Joan sank down before the fire. "I got the job all right, Syb. It's a night club. A man named Karl Miller."

"You don't seem very excited," Sybil commented.

"He's the most interesting man I've ever seen," Joan said softly.

"What goes on?" Sybil exploded.

"Have you lost your mind?"

Joan rose and laughed shakily. "Sorry, Syb. Anyway, I have a job starting tomorrow and the salary is fifty dollars a week."

"Fifty dollars a week!" Sybil frowned. "There's something wrong with this picture. That's too good a salary for a job without a reference. I don't like it, Joan. What's this Karl Miller like?"

Joan yawned and went into the bedroom. "Take it easy, darling. No doubt he is all right. Come on to bed, Syb. Let's not argue about it tonight."

Sybil opened the windows to the screaming wall of foghorns.

"What are your hours?"

"I don't have to be there until two and I work until around midnight."

"Joan, I'm not going to let you take that job! There's something phony about it."

Joan pulled the covers up over her chin. Her hair spilled like liquid jet over the white pillow case.

"It will be fun working at a night club. I'm almost glad that Mr. Miller fired me."

Sybil wound the last golden curl over her hair. "You're getting into something. I have a feeling."

"At least I won't be bored. You know, Syb, I've always wanted to have something exciting happen to me."

"Something like Karl Miller?" Sybil questioned, shrewdly.

"Perhaps!"

Sybil snapped off the light. "Don't be foolish, Joan! You couldn't possibly be in love with a man you've met only once."

Joan smiled in the darkness. "Why not?"

"Because that isn't love! If you've ever really been in love, you'd know the difference."

"Maybe I already know the difference," Joan thought, remembering a pair of shrewd blue eyes.

"Infatuation and love are two different things," Sybil's voice cut through the darkness.

But Joan was hearing another voice, a voice that put intimacy into the most commonplace words as it said, "I'll expect you tomorrow."

But Sybil lay awake, shivering in spite of the warm covers, wondering, almost afraid of a tomorrow that might be fraught with sinister significance, a significance she felt and restrained.

Joan's first day as Karl Miller's secretary was uneventful. The Club Elite was in the hands of painters and decorators who made so much noise and confusion that it penetrated even to the inner office. From two to five Joan worked harder than ever before in her life. Karl was particular. He watched every move she made. He scrutinized each letter she typed with a quick sweep of his blue eyes. His very presence made Joan nervous.

"You're working for the boss," he reminded her, smiling. "I'll see that we're through early."

"I want you to memorize every name in this book," he told her, indicating a small leather volume. "I speak to no one, in person, or over the telephone, unless the name is here. You understand?"

He took a red carnation from the vase on the desk, broke the stem and inserted the flower in his buttonhole. But his eyes did not miss the flicker of expression that crossed Joan's face when she opened the book and came to the name of Arthur Mulford.

"I told you I have been in the importing business. I knew your former boss."

"Yes, Mr. Miller," Joan was too good a secretary to question his word. She turned back to her type writer. It was almost six o'clock before Karl said, "All right, Joan, you may go now. You don't have to be back until eight-thirty."

The unexpected use of her first name sent a thrill of anticipation through the girl. She paused a moment before she opened the door, hoping that he would say something else, but Karl turned and began talking over the telephone.

"I must be crazy," Joan told herself as she hurried down the long corridor. "He hasn't any more interest in me than if I were part of the furniture."

She had dinner at a small restaurant, sipping hot coffee gratefully. She remembered with a wry smile that Sybil was worried about her salary. She could understand now why Karl thought the job was worth fifty dollars a week. She was as tired already as if she had put in a full day.

She lingered over her dessert and walked slowly back to work, pausing on the way to look in the shop windows. But she could not fill up two hours and a half and it was only a few minutes before eight when she pushed open the door of the Club Elite.

An orchestra was rehearsing in the dimly lit salon. Karl Miller sat on one of the gilt chairs listening. His keen eyes spotted Joan instantly.

"Sit down," he directed. "What do you think of the band?"

"It sounds grand," she felt the old sensation of self-consciousness. What was this peculiar excitement that seized her whenever he smiled at her?

"Is anything wrong, Joan?"

"No, nothing. I'm just a little out of breath. It made me feel like a schoolgirl. She felt positive that he knew the attraction he had for her. "Nothing! Why should there be?"

He laughed then, throwing back his head. But the laughter made her angry.

"I'd better get back to work," she said. "There's a lot to do."

He caught her hand as she rose. "How would you like to go dancing with me Friday night?"

His proposal took her by complete surprise. "Why, Mr. Miller, I'd love to."

He released her hand. "I would prefer that you call me Karl."

"All right, Karl. But what about working Friday night?"

"You're working for the boss," he reminded her, smiling. "I'll see that we're through early."

Joan did not tell Sybil about her date until the time came. Her sister did not approve.

"Going out with the boss never works," Sybil insisted stubbornly. "Honestly, Joan, I don't know what's come over you. You're not using your head at all. There's something funny about this whole business—and this man!"

"Let's not go over it again," Joan said happily. "When you see Karl Miller you'll understand why I'm so crazy about him."

Sybil sat down on the bed and watched her sister apply make-up. "If he's opening the club tomorrow, why is he running around tonight? Why isn't he in the office taking care of things?"

"That's his business, isn't it? Look, Syb, will you light the fire in the living room? I want everything to look nice."

"Okay and cozy!" sniffed Sybil. "Nice. But don't think I'm going to be the retiring sister and stay in the bedroom. I'm going to be right there to meet him."

Joan slipped into the new black velvet dinner dress she had purchased before she knew Karl Miller. She had been saving it for an occasion like this. The square neck was provocatively cut, the sleeves long and tight. She had drawn her smooth black hair over her ears, and coiled it in a low knot at the nape of her white neck.

"Look, Syb," Joan begged. "May I use a little of your perfume?"

Sybil thrust the bottle at her ungraciously. "That dress makes you look ten years older, Joan."

Joan was not to be ruffled. "After all, darling, you can't expect me to run around in pink tulle all my life. And Karl must be all of thirty-five," she added thoughtfully.

"All of forty," snapped Sybil. "You have no business running around with a man twice your age."

"Skip it! Please, Sybil!"

Karl Miller put an end to the argument by pressing his finger on the doorknob. Joan flew to meet him. She was proud of him. His charming manners. His impeccable evening clothes. His smooth, indifferent chatter as he talked pleasantly to Sybil while Joan got her wrap. But she knew from her sister's cold good night that she was not favorably impressed.

Karl knew it too. "I don't think your sister likes me," he said as he helped Joan into his car. "Perhaps she thinks I am too old for you."

His uncanny accuracy embarrassed Joan. "Sybil's been married and divorced. She's not very trusting when it comes to men."

"And you, Joan? Do you trust men?"

"Some men," Joan replied, hoping that she sounded careless.

They went to a night club. "I could use a few pointers," Karl told her, "since I'm new to this kind of business."

A Hawaiian orchestra played under soft rosy lights. Karl was a superb dancer, surprisingly light on his feet for such a heavily built man.

"He's like tempered steel," Joan thought. "Everything about him. Voice, expression, strength." He held her lightly but Joan felt that she could not have broken away from him had she tried.

"I have news for you," he said suddenly. "Your former employer, Mr. Mulford, has gone out of business. No doubt that is why he let you go."

"But that's impossible," Joan cried in surprise. "When I called the office three days ago, he had hired a new secretary. Why would he do that if he were closing the office?"

Karl Miller did not smile. "You are quite a little detective."

Joan laughed. "I'd like to be one. I'm afraid I'm an adventuresome

As the third week of January rolls around we find ourselves half-way through the school year—the semester end. To some of us this has no particular significance but then there are some who are acutely aware of the change.

The first most striking example of this is the semester exams. Some classes had them and others did not. It is entirely up to the teachers to decide. However, sometimes the students are asked to voice their opinions and their decisions are respected.

Some classes, Commercial Law, Economics and Government, are only semester courses. Thus anyone taking these indulged in a final exam. Economics and Government are only for the Seniors. Thus the Senior class is divided into two sections at the beginning of the year. So now they have changed classes. At first this seemed strange but now that we are getting used to it, it really seems nice.

The semester end to the underclassmen does not mean anything in particular but to the Seniors it has great significance. For three and a half years they have attended high school always looking forward to their Senior year and graduation day. But now each day that passes is just one less toward that goal. They have been anticipating graduation and then some of them college. However, now what does the future hold forth for these boys and girls? No one, neither you or I, know.

So, to me being a Senior this last semester is a final chapter in my glorious high school days. I cannot help but feel sad as I see these happy days going so swiftly by. We, the class of '42, are approaching the end of our journey as students and are about to become men and women of the world.

Office News

On Saturday, January 24, Mr. Richards, the principal, and Mr. Johnson, the superintendent of Chelsea public school, both attended the vocational guidance meeting that was held in Ann Arbor.

The Bell Telephone Company sent representatives to the high school to interview Senior boys who will be seeking jobs upon graduation. The Signal Corps of the army has taken the older employees, so now the company has quite a few openings.

The State Contest Band number was selected at the conference of band directors, last Saturday, January 24. The Chelsea high school band will start work as soon as possible.

Some taper work has been done on the metal turning lathe on such projects as hammers, screw drivers and lathe centers. The work on hammers also required some threading, tapping, boring and polishing.

On the wood turning lathe a number of laminated and inlay projects have been completed—lamps, barrel book-ends and legs for tables.

Some forge projects include: cold chisels, gate hooks, punches, and screw-drivers. Tempering has been done on the forge.

The seventh grade boys will take the place of the eighth graders who have completed this work here for the first semester.

soul in spite of the unexciting life I've led."

"Perhaps your life will become more exciting as it goes on."

"I hope it does," Joan said recklessly.

"I am quite sure," Karl Miller said tonelessly, "that it will."

What was it about him that drew and held her interest? His face, which showed her a thousand men in one. Varied moods, hardness, coldness, irritation and amusement? He was obviously a man of the world, a world that Joan had never known.

"Don't think too much, Joan," Karl advised her gently. "I have found that it seldom pays."

It was a strange evening, gay, yet restrained by the undercurrents that baffled and disturbed Joan. Afterward, looking back on this evening, she could understand many things, but at the time being with Karl was all that mattered. Feeling the touch of his arms as he danced, looking into his eyes as he raised his glass, hearing his charming voice blending into the wall of Hawaiian music, guitars, gentle bass, soft drums, the quartette from Honolulu that droned chants into their ears.

He paid her many compliments. "I like your hair that way," he remarked. "It makes you look quite foreign and much older."

"My sister doesn't like it at all. She has an idea that I'm still a little girl."

His eyes swept the figure in its black velvet sheath. "Really? I am afraid that your sister and I would not agree."

Student Council

The Student Council elected the monitors for this week. They are: Dick Kinsey, Sumner Oesterle and Wilma Schweinfurth. The band and chorus people are to be allowed to come back at 12:15 and the other students at 12:25.

They discussed the boys and girls meeting which took place on Tuesday, January 27, during second hour.

They are planning an All-Hi party for February 13. It is to be a pot-luck supper before the game and a dance afterward. The G. A. A. girls are to be in charge.

Senior News

Dick Kinsey has been chosen by the Senior class as their representative to the Student Council. He fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Junior Miller.

From all reports the work of the Seniors at the annual Masonic banquet was a success. Their treasury was enriched by the addition of about ninety dollars. They wish to express their thanks to all those who made this possible.

The first meeting of the Annual staff was held on Tuesday, January 27 at 3:30 p. m. A representative of the Edwards Brothers spoke to the staff at this time.

Assembly

The Assembly given January 20 was enjoyed by all. Two representatives were selected from each class, forming a group who were to discuss "What Our School Can Do To Help Defense."

The group put forth the suggestions of helping, then told what we could do or are already doing. The drive for paper and iron has already been started. Later on the group suggested that gardens be started. Air raid signals and directions were given to the student body.

The setting of Defense Stamps has been going on for some time but it was resolved that more high school students should buy more stamps.

The student body left the study hall with a firmer resolution to help the school with its Defense Program.

Band News

Saturday and Sunday, January 24 and 25, the Michigan Band and Orchestra Association held a Band Clinic in Ann Arbor. The main purpose of this clinic was to pick the numbers for this year's National and State contest. The first contest that the Chelsea band will participate in will be held on April 4 in East Lansing.

The band will take part in the program next Saturday afternoon when the Federal Sew Works receives the Navy "E" flag. Several special band numbers have been prepared for this occasion.

Loss to Manchester

Manchester followed up her football victory over Chelsea by defeating the local team in their basketball game Tuesday night. Manchester displayed some very fancy shooting, with Floyd Parr and Bob Clark sharing the high point honors in baskets.

Parr opened the first quarter by a beautiful backhand shot, and before the Chelsea fans could recover from their amazement, he threw another of the same kind. Bob Clark also made a very fine running shot, which landed home, and gave Manchester a total of 9 points. Chelsea remained scoreless the first quarter.

Knauss started the fireworks in the second quarter by making an overhead shot from the floor, with Creech getting a basket, followed by two of the same kind from Clark. Chelsea came through in the second with Kusterer plunking a basket, and with two foul shots from Alber and Kern, ending the quarter 18-7.

The third proved an interesting quarter from all angles. After Chelsea's comeback in the second, both teams were determined to win. Creech gained one basket, with Clark and Knauss doing the same to pave the way for Parr to make a thrilling shot from below the basket, followed by another spectacular shot from the same position. Kern gave Chelsea new courage by gaining a basket, and Kusterer plugged a long shot from the floor to prove that Chelsea could play basketball if they wanted to. The quarter ended with the score 23-10.

Kusterer demonstrated again, saving time playing for Chelsea in the fourth by making a fine shot from under the basket and adding to that a long shot. Parr was lucky in three foul shots for Chelsea. After an official time with four minutes to play Coach Romain put Gieske in for Manchester, who showed that he had the necessary stuff by making a clever overhead shot. This did not seriously affect the score, however, the final verdict was 33-20.

IN GRATEFUL APPRECIATION

Many have been the kindnesses shown us during the recent illness of my beloved wife, Clara Margaret. And in that indescribable experience "when death did us part" the hurt was assuaged, the pain eased, and friendly counsel helped to bear the grief. Words fail us in our acknowledgment of the wonderful things our friends of the community, our parishioners here at home, and the members of our former church in Detroit have done for us. We also are grateful for the friendly attitudes of the Women's Society of Christian Service, the Young Women's Society of Christian Service, the Cavanaugh Lake Grange, the Methodist Ministers' Association of the Ann Arbor District in this, our bereavement. And for the comforting and heartening message of the Reverend Dr. W. E. Harrison, and the perfectly splendid service our friends, Mr
