Registration Next Monday For Men 20-45

Nine Simple Questions Will Be Asked Those Who Register Feb. 16

Only nine simple questions will be asked those men who register next Monday, February 16, for possible military service under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, Col. E. M. Rosecrans, state director of Selective Service for Michigan, emphasized this week.

Registration of the individual should require a comparatively short time, the director said. The registrant will not be asked to fill out questionnaires but must only answer questions about his identity, his place of residence, and his mailing address. Also he will be required to list his telephone, if any.

Registration for men in this area will be held on Monday, February 16 at Sylvan town hall, under the supervision of the local Defense Committee. Hours are from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. any; his age in years and date of birth, place of birth, the name and address of the person who will always know his address, his employer's name and address, and his place of employment or business.

While it is important that registration be conducted as speedily as possible, Col. Rosecrans said that every registrant will be given ample time to respond properly to the questions on the registration card, which on this occasion will be green. White and yellow-colored cards, respectively, were used for the first and second Selective Service registrations.

No questionnaires will be given registrants when they register February 16, nor will they then be required to undergo any physical examination. Questionnaires are given to registrants after their order numbers have been determined and reached by their local boards. Physical examinations are given only after the boards have passed on the general qualifications of registrants and have determined that they should not be deferred for reasons of interest to the Nation.

While registration must be conducted as of February 16 to conform to the President's Proclamation issued early in January, all persons who will find it impossible to register on that day may register at the office of their local board on Saturday or Sunday preceding Registration Day.

When registered, each registrant must answer the following nine questions: (1) Name of Registrant; (2) Place of Residence; (3) Mailing Address (if other than Place of Residence); (4) Telephone; (5) Age in Years and Date of Birth; (6) Place of Birth; (7) Name and Address of Person who will always know your Address; (8) Employer's Name and Address; and (9) Place of Employment or Business.

After a registrant has answered all questions and signed his name to the registration card, he will be given a registration certificate signed by the registrar. This certificate must be in the personal possession of the registrant at all times. Failure to possess the certificate, or to show it to authorized persons, constitutes a violation of Selective Service Regulations and is considered prima facie evidence of failure to register.

Training Courses For Defense Purposes

By Mrs. A. A. Palmer
Are you taking advantage of the training courses that are being carried on for Defense purposes?

Dr. Quirk started his First Aid class for ladies on Wednesday evening at the high school and these classes will be continued for a twenty-hour period. Women who have expressed the wish to take Motor Mechanics must have the First Aid course as a prerequisite to that training.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 17, at 7:30 in the Home Economics room of the high school, Miss Clark will have her first class in Nutrition. Ladies who are interested either in the Nutrition class alone or in Canteen which follows this course will be registered as far as possible in this first class. The text-books are 25 cents.

We are anxious to contact persons in our community who have had graduate work in Home Economics or Nursing, or those who have had a course in dietetics. Please contact Mrs. A. A. Palmer.

R. A. McLaughlin has installed a new Weaver wheel balancing machine at his super service station. This machine removes all shimmy and wheel tramp and prolongs the life of tires, as well as adding safety and comfort to driving. L. C. Crawford, of Pittsburgh, district representative for the Gulf Refining Co., who visited Mack's station last week, stated that it is one of the best equipped and most efficiently operated Gulf stations in his territory.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stofor, near North Lake, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday afternoon of last week, the blaze starting from a burned-out chimney. The Chelsea fire department responded to the call and saved most of the contents on the first floor.

Victory Orchestras Are Available for Dances

Detroit—By arrangement between the Defense Savings Committee and the Michigan Music Project of the WPA, communities throughout Michigan, large and small, are being treated to good music, at no cost, and raising money for victory at the same time.

Notice has gone to all executive chairmen of the Defense Savings Committees in Michigan that dance orchestras and bands, the 55-piece WPA Symphony orchestra, Old Time Singers, and the Detroit Spiritual Singers are available for concerts, dances, and entertainments without charge. The only condition is that those attending buy one or more U. S. Defense Stamp or Bond of any denomination, the purchaser to retain possession of the stamp or bond.

Service and luncheon clubs, fraternal or church societies, any responsible group that cares to sponsor the appearance of one of the musical units may secure by writing: Defense Savings Staff, 334 Buhl Bldg., Detroit. One of the units made such a big hit at the Michigan Press Association meeting in Lansing recently that a number of requests for its appearance were made on the spot.

Frank N. Isbey, state chairman, announces that Treasury Department flags will be awarded in a number of cities in the near future to industrial plants and business firms, 90 per cent or more of whose employees are buying bonds under the payroll savings plan. The musical units will participate in these ceremonies.

Chelsea B. B. League

Kimunity continued to be Central Fibre's jinx in the local league as they scored another triumph 34-30. Foster with 9 points, Sperling and Johnson with 8 each carried the bulk of the Kimunity scoring while Phelps and Rockwell paced Central Fibre with 9 points each. The Fibre boys led at the half 17-16 but faded as George Miller hooped three field goals through the hoop toward the close of the game.

At 8:00 Cassidy Tech scored their second victory of the season in the tightest defensive game of the season, 11-7. Hemmingway, Cassidy's fine colored center, started with 5 points, while Wil Beeman led Federal Screw with 4 points.

In the nightcap Chelsea Spring tried vainly to stop the All-Stars but Dud Foster was the only Spring boy to get going as the All-Stars triumphed 31-16. Dud rang up 12 points for Spring while Panarites made the same total for the All-Stars. As a result of this victory the All-Stars again took over the League lead.

PICKELL-LANTIS WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Beulah Louise Pickell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Pickell of Unadilla, and William Paul Lantis of Unadilla, son of Mrs. Catharine Lantis of Howell, was solemnized at a candlelight ceremony in the Unadilla Presbyterian church on February 8 at 8 p. m., before a large group of relatives and friends.

Grouped around the altar were palms and bouquets of white gladioli and carnations, with fourteen lighted white tapers. Rev. T. C. Hackenberg, minister of the church, read the single ring ceremony. Immediately preceding the ceremony Henry Sharp of Stockbridge sang "Oh Promise Me", with Miss Gladys Dunn of Ann Arbor at the organ, who then played the wedding march.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in an ivory satin and lace gown, with lace yoke and square neckline, a full bodice and wide sheared belt, monk sleeves and full skirt extending to a train. Her veil of fine net and lace was caught to a crown of pearls, and hung to her fingertips. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and pink sweet peas. The bride's sisters, Donna Jean and Maxine, were her attendants.

Morris Biehn served as best man, with Argel Collins, cousin of the bridegroom, from Chelsea, acted as second best man. John Lantis, brother of the bridegroom, from Jackson, and Merlin Hopkins of Howell, uncle of the bride, seated the guests.

Mrs. Pickell, who arrived at her seat on the arm of the bridegroom, wore for her daughter's wedding a pastel green crepe dress in braided effect of self material, and gold trimming. Mrs. Lantis, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in black crepe and velvet with gold trimmings. Mrs. Frank Hopkins, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a soldier blue crepe with black and white leaf design. Both mothers and grandmother wore gardenia.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining room which was decorated in pink and white. A large white bell hung above the table holding the three tiered white wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Vases of pink and white snapdragons and pink candles decorated the tables.

After a short wedding trip the young couple will reside with the bride's parents for the present.

Crumbs From Toaster

100-PAIR CABLE in which many of the wires are intended for future customers. (Cables shown here slightly larger than actual size.)

100-PAIR CABLE with only enough wires to care for short-period needs.

Putting FIRST things FIRST...

NORMALLY, Michigan Bell installs new equipment to care for a number of years of growth. The shortage of materials needed for war has changed that. Now, expansion must be planned to meet short-term requirements.

As an example, when installing telephone cable to serve an area of 80 square blocks, we ordinarily would plan ahead for a 10-year increase in the number of homes, and would use a cable containing 1800 pairs of wires. That would be long-run economy. But today, for such an area, the Company installs a smaller cable, containing perhaps 400 pairs of wires.

At a conservative estimate, the saving of copper in both exchange and toll cable effected by Michigan Bell's short-period engineering policy will amount to 1,500,000 pounds in 1942!

In spite of material shortages that make it increasingly difficult to satisfy all civilian requests as promptly as in the past, we are confidently determined that every war need will be met.

Fair Play

Athletic and scholastic competition should mean something more than a chance to "beat" the other fellow. It should mean an opportunity to practice all the little tricks of good fellowship and good sportsmanship that are suggested in the Golden Rule.

The team that plays a "dirty" game, that commits technical and personal fouls, not only loses the game but besides the reputation of the school.

It represents. The student who cheats on recitations, exercises, and tests, succeeds only in cheating himself and injuring his reputation and self-respect.

There is no dishonor in defeat or failure. Edison failed over 5,000 times before he made an electric bulb that would "light." There is dishonor only in failure to do one's best.

Office News

The boys' basketball team is scheduled to play University High in the local gymnasium on Friday, February 13.

13. The Girls' Athletic Association is sponsoring a pot-luck supper for the students before the game and a dance after the game. The high school band will play at the game and the swing band is scheduled to play at the dance. The senior class play entitled "Miss Smarty" will be presented in the gymnasium on Friday, March 20.

Our Seniors

On January 13, 1924, in Detroit, Michigan, Donald Heurion was born. Today at 18 he is 6 ft. tall and tips the scales at about 140. Although his favorite sport is baseball, his favorite movie is Dive Bomber. His name isn't Elmer, but that is the tune he likes best. Don likes shop and plans to go to trade school after he graduates. When you ask him what he wants to eat the answer is usually steak.

Girls' Basketball

The next girls' game is scheduled for one week from Friday, with the girls from U. High.

The girls suffered the taste of defeat at their last game, but that has given them more spirit than ever. Practice has been going on in real earnest and with a little support from the student body our girls ought to be victorious in their next game.

Good Citizen Award

Jeanne Meserva has been selected this year as the Senior girl to be honored by the D. A. R. Good Citizen Award.

Each year the Daughters of the American Revolution present these awards, which consist of a very pretty gold pin, and a chance to compete for state and national honors, to the high school Senior girl selected by her class and the faculty as the Good Citizen.

Congratulations, Jeanne!

Senior News

The Seniors' time and thoughts right now are focused almost entirely on the Senior Play, which is to be given March 20. Tryouts were in the early part of the week and so we will hope to have our complete cast of characters soon.

Folders have begun to arrive from various steamship companies concerning the Senior trip. This will probably be a topic of much discussion from now on.

Boys Lose to Lincoln

Last Friday the boys' basketball teams traveled to Lincoln where they met a pair of defeats. The first team was defeated 30-19 by a taller Lincoln aggregation. The game was a nip and tuck affair during the first quarter but Lincoln pulled ahead in the second quarter with a barrage of baskets and remained in front until the final whistle. The Chelsea reserves lost to a superior Lincoln team, 24-11. Although they lost they put up a good scrap.

The first team looked improved in the game with Lincoln as the boys showed more fight and hustle. The team is looking forward to notching its initial victory against either Pinckney or U. High whom they play this week. Both games are at home on Tuesday and Friday nights.

Home Economics

The second year Home Ec. girls are studying interior decorating. They have two more chairs to cover which will complete a whole living room ensemble.

The first year class is studying to learn to recognize the colors and designs which best suit a person's coloring and shape.

The seventh grade girls are learning to thread and use both Singer and White sewing machines.

The Home Ec. club is going to have a Valentine party Friday forenoon.

Parents' Night

The Hi-Y and Home Ec. clubs held their 4th Annual Parents' Night last Tuesday night. A delicious pot-luck dinner was served by the Home Ec. girls. After this Mr. Landenslager acted as toastmaster and introduced Pat Burg of the Home Ec. club and Roderick McDonald, president of the Hi-Y, who in turn introduced the speaker of the evening, Lester Hargan, of the Ann Arbor Y. M. C. A.

Bureau of Investigation

Hello, everybody! You'd better watch your step now. A new organization has been formed called the "Chelsea Bureau of Investigation" (C. B. I.). And believe me, they mean to do their job well.

The C. B. I. was founded for the purpose of stamping out petty stealing and mutilation of property that has taken place in school during these last few years.

The Student Council elected John Hale, Chief, who will appoint all of his operators whom he surmises will amount to three. No one will know the identity of these mysterious people. When they obtain enough evidence they will bring the defendant before the Student Council. They will try the person and if he is guilty, the council will pass sentence. No teacher will be present at the trial or shall they know anything about it, unless by accident.

Shop

Five hundred board feet of white-wood lumber was purchased for the shop last week and stored in the basement of the grade building. As the lumber is not thoroughly dry, it requires about three weeks of drying in a room of even temperature.

Approximately forty-five hundred board feet of walnut, cherry, red oak, maple and whitewood has been used so far in the shop.

Because of the difficulty in getting metal some of the projects on the forge and machine lathe have been curtailed. However, some scrap stock has been obtained from the Federal Screw Works and it has been used for a number of projects on the machine lathe.

'Whatever Differs From This . . .'

ACROSS the years, Lincoln's great soul marches on to inspire Americans deeply, ever so deeply, this troublous year of 1942. Here you see three generations of Americans before the great Lincoln Memorial in Washington, the soldier and his two children, and the soldier's father. Can you not hear Lincoln's immortal words reaching out to them:

"As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy. Whatever differs from this, to the extent of the difference, is no democracy."

"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

"Our defense is in the spirit, which prizes liberty as the heritage of all men in all lands everywhere."

On the anniversary of his birthday—February 12—Lincoln's Americanism and humanitarianism is still ours, thank God, in mighty contrast to the doctrines of arrogance, barbarism, and oppression. The arrogant make wars for conquest and enslavement of peoples. America fights to bring peace WITH freedom. No Hitler, big or little, would understand that, for no Hitler could humbly ask: "Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" Abraham Lincoln did.

Vote for Your Union, the Chelsea Industrial Workers Association, Inc., to be your sole collective bargaining agent, at the National Labor Relations Board Election to be held February 17, 1942.

To do so, will insure that you will be represented by:

(1)—A union that will be responsive to the will of the majority.

(2)—A union with officers of your own selection, people you have known and worked with for years, without domination and control by outsiders.

(3)—A union which has secured favorable working conditions AND A YEARLY INCOME IN EXCESS OF THAT OBTAINED BY WORKERS IN AUTOMOBILE PLANTS IN DETROIT, INCLUDING THAT OF THE FEDERAL SCREW WORKS IN DETROIT, WHERE THE C. I. O. REPRESENTS THE WORKERS, in addition to the following:

a—The creation of a seniority system, a system generally accepted throughout industry;

b—The establishment of a grievance procedure, which is also in uniform use throughout industry;

c—The wage differential for workers beginning work at or after 3:00 P. M.; d—The payment of three bonuses since the contract became effective in September, 1941, and a program which insures our future sharing in the profits of the employer by means of bonuses;

e—Vacations with pay;

f—The prevention of seven six-hour-day shifts per week;

g—Fair compensation for overtime.

(4)—A union free from the domination of racketeers and professional labor organizers, many of whom have criminal records, such as are in the C. I. O., making it unnecessary to pay the tribute which they are so anxious to exact from you.

(5)—A union which has received favorable recognition and consideration from both the State Labor Mediation Board and the National Labor Relations Board.

(6)—A union which does not have to resort to force and violence, to deceit and untruths, such as we have demonstrated that the C. I. O. has done.

(7)—A union which is incorporated under the laws of the State of Michigan and is responsible for its acts—the C. I. O. unions refuse to incorporate themselves so that they can act without responsibility for their deception, duplicity and violence.

80 PER CENT OF YOU ARE MEMBERS OF OUR UNION—LET US MAKE THE RESULT OF THE ELECTION VIRTUALLY UNANIMOUS—SO AS TO INSURE THE CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT IN OUR CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT AND WAGES!

We can and will verify any statements which we have made!

Nancy's Efforts Inspire Red Cross Ticket Sales

Nancy's pen hurries across the page adding one committee after another to carry out plans for the "V" for Victory party on the evening of February 20. I hope you have not put off buying your ticket for they are going like hot cakes. You know if you do not care to trip the light fantastic, you may find numerous tables equipped with various games for your pleasure.

Then, too, George Sperling has the most fertile brain for suggestions. He is all agog now with plans for keen entertainment—during intermission. And it has to be good George, for just about that time the aroma of forty cups to a pound of coffee will come wafting from the canteen corner along with Dudley's choice fried cakes and it is bound to be somewhat of a temptation.

Lowell Davidson and a Rev. Rogers are getting the V's all pointed for proper decoration and they should be right smart, along with the Red Cross idea that is being carried out.

By the way, all of the proceeds from this party goes into the annals of our home chapter, and it is going to be fun to see how well we can do for ourselves.

We discovered in our civilian registration cards that Cameron Colquhoun signed up for Artistic Work, so he is carrying out his Defense idea by working with Lawrence Diele on posters appropriate to our February 20 activity. Be sure to look for them on your Main St. and then pass the word along to the boys of what a swell job they are doing in supporting their Red Cross and its committee.

Don't forget the date, the place, the purpose. We'll be seeing you—dancing to the music of Gordon Hardy and his fine band.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians held another interesting meeting on Monday evening of this week. The program chairman selected Henry Prin of the Cassidy Lake Technical School to discuss the various functions and accomplishments of this unit during the past few years. The speaker enthusiastically cited the increased enrollment of the school from 12 students in its beginning to nearly 300 boys at the present time. Mr. Prin mentioned the many instances where boys who were trained at the school are now holding important positions in the key industries. He stated that Cassidy Lake attempts to mold the character of these young people as well as endeavoring to teach them a skill or a trade. Mr. Prin concluded his very interesting talk by urging the Kiwanians to become acquainted with the boys and the school and to make the youth from the camp welcome here as these young people all regard Chelsea as their home even though they live at Cassidy Lake.

The chairman of the Tuberculosis Stamp Sale drive in Chelsea announced that he sent a check for $195.50 to the Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Committee this week. PROFESSOR TALKS HERE

Dr. Henry Kendall of the University of Michigan spoke to the members of the Child Study club and their guests on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul G. Schable. His subject was on the Mediterranean area, with especial emphasis on the North African coast as it relates to the present Libyan campaign. Dr. Kendall, who is a member of the Geographic department, is particularly qualified to give a clear picture of the resources of this area with regard to agricultural products and mineral deposits as well. He spoke of the difficulty of maintaining the sea lanes of the Mediterranean due to its physical features, and also of the great importance of having the sea controlled by Great Britain.

The significant thing, he said, was that the terrible fighting that is going on in the Libyan desert is being done, not to gain the resources of the various countries, because they are not great enough in themselves. The prize for which they are fighting lies beyond this area—the Mosul oil fields which lie to the east and the great naval base at Dakar, on the west coast of Africa—these the Axis hopes to gain, if and when she controls North Africa.

After his talk, Dr. Kendall answered the questions of the group and there was a discussion period. It was a particularly worthwhile evening and one which was very much enjoyed by all.

MORE LOADS and EXTRA YEARS...

That's JOHN DEERE Model "E" SPREADER PERFORMANCE

Retirement comes late in life for a John Deere Model "E"—only after thousands of loads of manure have been hauled. High in number of loads . . . low in cost per load . . . that's the unfailing economy of a John Deere Model "E" Spreader.

Those extra loads and additional years of service you get from a John Deere are due, largely, to mounting the main beater on the axle—the famous, patented feature of construction which has kept John Deere Spreaders ahead of the field for more than twenty-five years. This permits building a simpler, stronger, longer-lived spreader . . . one with fewer moving parts . . . a spreader that's easier to load . . . easier to pull . . . that does better work—a spreader that gives you more dollar-for-dollar value. See the Model "E" at our store the next time you're in town.

JOHN DEERE Quality Implements and Service

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary to Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, is amazed and angry when he discharges her with two weeks' salary and refuses any explanation. The same day her sister, Sybil, with whom she shares an apartment, loses her position in a beauty salon. Joan accepts a position from Karl Miller, handsome proprietor of a night club, who insists on paying her in advance, at the rate of $50 per week. Sybil suspects something sinister about the position, and declines Joan's quick interest in Karl. Though the sisters quarrel, Joan refuses to quit. She accepts his dinner invitation and when he tells her he has a beauty salon job for Sybil, and takes her into his arms, her happiness knows no bounds. The scene is interrupted by the entrance of Paul Sherman, Karl's manager. The two men leave, but Paul returns quickly to talk with Joan. He soon surprises the girl by asking her to tell him how she got the job. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IV

Joan's surprise showed in her voice as she replied, "What do you mean?"

"Just what I said. Who suggested it to you?"

"I lost my job last week," Joan told him, wondering why she was doing so. After all it really wasn't any of Paul Sherman's business why she was here. "That same night I saw a want ad for this one. I came down to apply and Karl, Mr. Miller, hired me."

"You didn't know Karl Miller before that?"

"I don't see what it is to you," Joan flared resentfully.

"Don't bite my head off," Paul said pleasantly. "I just wondered, that's all. I would like to be your friend, Miss Leland. You may need one."

"I'm doing all right!" Joan said, irritated.

"Okay. But just one more question. Have you met Karl's partner, Eric Strom?"

Joan answered him reluctantly. "Eric Strom? No, I haven't met him. Why?"

"I'm the one asking the questions," Paul retorted, and Joan felt that he was laughing at her as he rose and went to the door.

"I have work to do, Mr. Sherman," she said crossly.

"Call me Paul. By the way, how about having dinner with me some night?"

Joan was surprised at the audacity of this request. "I expect to be very busy," she said coldly.

"Nevertheless," Paul Sherman retorted, "I shall meet you on Monday night at six o'clock." He mentioned the grill of a well-known hotel.

"I have no intentions of being there."

"By Monday you may change your mind."

Joan sighed as the office door shut behind him. It seemed that at every turn she met a surprise. What would Karl say if he knew that his manager had tried to make a date with his secretary? The secretary whom only a few moments ago Karl had held in his arms. In a way she was glad that Paul Sherman had interrupted that perfect moment. Karl would be angry and Karl's wrath was one thing that Joan would not risk.

"Karl," Joan thought, closing her eyes against the memory of his handsome, expressive face, steadily holding himself against the flood of emotion that swept over her. "I shouldn't have let him kiss me. I love him, yet I'm afraid."

Even to herself Joan did not like to admit that the reason for her fear was that Karl Miller did not return her affection. True, he had taken her out; he had even kissed her. But Joan doubted that any woman could possess his entire heart. The situation intrigued her at the same time she was frightened.

Joan and Sybil sat at a quiet Sunday. Karl had told Joan that he would not be able to see her over the week-end and she found that even one day without him was enough to make her unhappy.

Sybil seemed cheerful at the prospect of starting her new job at the Ritz Beauty Shop. "What's the matter with you?" she asked as Joan sat staring into space. "We've both got a job. There's nothing to worry about."

Joan suspected that Sybil knew what was worrying her but she disliked bringing up the subject of Karl Miller. Instead she told Sybil about Paul Sherman and his proposal that she have dinner with him.

Sybil lay on the couch, her blonde hair in curlers. "He sounds all right," she commented. "Why don't you go?"

"I don't even know the man," Joan protested. "I met him only last night."

Sybil raised an eyebrow as she contemplated her sister. "You didn't know Karl Miller either, but you fell in love with him overnight. Or maybe I should say you think you're in love with him."

Joan curled up in the big chair and opened a magazine which she pretended to read.

"Look, honey, why not confess? I know how you feel."

Joan lifted a confused, radiant face. "Oh, Sybil, you're right! I do love him. I'm so in love with him that it frightens me because I can't believe that he really cares about me. I'm so young and unsophisticated."

"And you're going to stay that way," Sybil said sharply. "You don't love Karl Miller, don't you want him because you know he's out of your reach?"

"Oh, it's more than that!" the youthful voice was full of pain.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

"A woman with green eyes is very rare. Did you know that?"

"Even so, it can't hurt anything for you to be nice to this other man. He's young and apparently he likes you. Why don't you have dinner with him?"

"I don't want Karl to be angry with me," Joan confessed.

"Is it as bad as that?" Sybil asked quietly.

Joan sighed. "I'm sorry, Sybil. But that's the way it is. I can't help it."

Sybil was silent and in the twilight they could hear rain splashing against the windowpanes. When the telephone pealed through the room, Joan flew to answer it. Perhaps it would be Karl!

It was. And at the sound of his voice her heart sang.

"I find that I am going to be free this evening," came his carefully modulated voice. "Would you like to have dinner with me?"

Would she like to? "Oh, darling," her heart cried. But she answered demurely. "I'd love to."

Joan ran into the bedroom to change her dress but Sybil had not missed the unconcealed joy in her face. Sybil's blue eyes were full of worry as she stared thoughtfully after her sister.

Joan was disappointed to find that Karl had invited another dinner guest. Eric Strom, whom Paul had described as Karl's partner, met them at the hotel. Sitting in front of the broad windows which overlooked the sea, Joan's spirits drooped.

Eric Strom asked, "Do you find the rain so depressing, Miss Leland?"

"It does seem gloomy," Joan admitted.

Karl smiled at her indulgently but the two men continued to talk about business. Joan did not like Eric. For the same inexplicable reason that she trusted Paul, she did not trust Karl's partner.

"My intuition's working overtime," Joan reflected, glancing at Eric.

He was a slight man, blond, about Karl's age. But he had none of Karl's magnetic power. There was something shifty about his pale eyes. His manner was cautious, unpleasantly so. He looked a great deal at Joan and his glance made her uncomfortable. If Karl noticed this, he gave no sign. He was careful during the meal, which seemed endless to his secretary. The two men, engrossed in their own conversation, left Joan free to speculate.

Joan looked at Karl, whose eyes were as sphinxlike as the vast ocean that rolled outside the broad windows. A little thrill swept over her that this man was here. But was he? For one small moment the day before she had been in his arms, but during the rest of the brief time she had known him he seemed a thousand miles away.

Joan's reverie was broken by the headwaiter who was speaking to Karl. "You're wanted on the telephone, Mr. Miller."

When he had gone, Eric Strom smiled at her and leaned across the table.

"You are very beautiful, Miss Leland. But I suppose Karl has told you that." His accent was much heavier than Karl's, and Joan found it difficult to understand. "A woman with green eyes is very rare. Did you know that?"

Joan forced a smile to her lips. "I don't believe we've met before, have we?"

He shrugged. "I am Karl's silent partner. He doesn't need me to run the club. Others can do that. By the way, Miss Leland, I would like to see you again sometime. Just the two of us."

Her piquant face was white beneath the sophisticated veil. She was afraid of this man. "I'm afraid it is impossible," she replied sharply.

But Eric Strom was not displeased. "Have a cigarette, Miss Leland? You may find that sometime we have no choice in such matters."

Joan stared at him uncertainly. What did he mean by that? Did everyone at the Club Elite talk in riddles? First Paul's inexplicable behavior, now Eric Strom's! What would Karl think if he knew that his partner and his manager had both tried to make a date with his secretary? Paul was young. Perhaps high spirits had prompted his impudence. But Eric Strom was another matter, and Joan decided to tell Karl about it the moment they were alone.

She had no chance, however, for when Karl returned to the table he said briefly, "Something has come up. We'll have to go back to the office."

The two men exchanged glances, then looked at Joan. "Do you mind?" Karl inquired with his quick smile. "I'd like to get a couple of letters out tonight. I know it isn't in the bargain for you to work on Sunday."

She knew that she was powerless to refuse him. She would gladly have typed endless letters in order to be near him.

Karl paid the check and the three of them left. As they drove back to North Beach, sheets of rain beat upon the car. The Club Elite was closed on Sundays and Karl unlocked the door with his own key. Joan was surprised to see a streak of light streaming from the door of his private office.

Hurrying along the corridor, she reached a first and found herself face to face with Paul Sherman.

He grinned at her. "A manager never really has a day off."

Karl seemed to find nothing strange in his presence at the club. "You don't happen to have some extra time, do you, Miss Leland?" Paul inquired. "I could use some help."

Before she could answer, Karl Miller said quickly, "She has enough to do, Paul, and now if you don't mind..." He left his sentence unfinished.

"Surely," Paul grinned and sauntered to the door. "See you tomorrow," he called back but his eyes were on Joan and she knew that he was thinking of the dinner date he had proposed.

She shook her head as she looked at him over her typewriter but Paul ignored it.

Karl removed his overcoat and sat down at his desk. Eric Strom mixed himself a drink.

"Take a letter," Karl said, reading from a sheet of yellow paper. "To A. H. Gomez, Mazatlan, Mexico."

"Dear Sir: I am happy to report that the situation you mentioned has been cleared up satisfactorily. The club will be open from eight to two, and shows every sign of being successful."

Joan looked at him curiously. This did not sound like an important business letter to her. Certainly not so important that it couldn't wait until morning.

Seeing her glance, Karl said, "I'm afraid you're worried. I shouldn't have asked you to work tonight."

"It's all right," she hastened to assure him. "I don't mind, really."

But Karl Miller had changed his mind. "I will call a taxi and send you home."

"But I'm not tired, Karl!"

He was dialing a number and Joan knew it was useless to argue with him. He went to the door of the club with her, pressing her hand as he said, "I'm sorry it had to turn out this way tonight. We'll arrange something else soon."

Joan shivered in the damp night air as she waited for the taxi. A small coupe stopped suddenly before her with screaming brakes. Involuntarily Joan stepped back, surprised to see Paul Sherman.

"What are you doing here alone?" he asked.

"Waiting for a taxi," Joan replied with dignity.

"Well, jump in, my girl!" Paul ordered cheerfully.

He got out and opened the door of the car. "You may as well let me drive you home. You can't stand here in the rain, you know."

It did seem silly, Joan admitted, climbing in, but as Paul started the car she cried, "I left my purse in the office."
